Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2015

https://archive.org/details/motionpicturenew18moti_5

JULY 6, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

DOMINATES THE FIELD

Tell the Town About It!

When you sign your new contracts for

Paramount and Artcraft Pictures

(Nationally Advertised)

let everybody know the good news. The national advertising campaign makes your people ask, "Where can we see them?"

It's up to you to shout "Here!"

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General

NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

VOL. XVIII-NO. 1 Entered as Second Class Matter, October 23, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3rd, 1879 PRICE 10 CENTS

MAE MURRAY

in the coming UNIVERSAL SPECIAL ATTRACTION

"HER BODY IN BOND"

A specially written original story by H. Sheridan Bickers (better known as 'Yorick') the famous London Critic

An exposé of the swift Bohemian back stage & café life of America rarely seen off the stage Directed by Robt. Z. Leonard

Reserve Now

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG CO.
1600 Broadway N.Y.
Carl Laemmle Pres.

Lila Lee

THIS lovely Miss of sixteen, within three months, will be one of the best loved stars in motion pictures. Her exquisite screen charm, her daintiness, her ability as an actress, will make her debut an event that exhibitors and patrons will long remember.

The theatre that shows Lila Lee's pictures will share with her the honors that motion picture patrons will heap upon her.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director general
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

That's the Date We're Thinking About!

WE are not concerned with next September. It is almost here. It's a year from next September that we are thinking about. We are planning far into the future.

On September 1st, 1919, Paramount and Artcraft Pictures must show a substantial year's growth in prestige, in artistry, in popularity with exhibitor and patron.

On September 1st, 1919, our organization must hold even more of the honestly-won good will of the exhibitor.

There is only one way to do this. We must devote all our energy toward giving the Service essential to the prosperity of the exhibitor. We must bend every effort to provide him with the moving pictures that will bring to him steadily increasing profits.

We have promised the greatest year's output ever announced by a moving picture producer. Now our entire organization is out to make good that promise.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

$1,000.00 to $25,000.00
FOR MANUSCRIPTS

We want the highest class stories obtainable for motion picture purposes. We are prepared to pay from $1,000 to $25,000 for the right kind of a story. Nothing but the best will satisfy. No author is too big, too famous, too well known for our purpose. He may be a new genius—an undiscovered author with a big idea. Judgment will be on merit only.

Original manuscripts, synopses, scenarios, famous books or stories for which we can obtain motion picture rights, or stage successes that can be adapted to motion pictures are desired. Persons with big ideas and undeveloped plots are invited to submit them in synopsis form.

The story is the thing. It is the foundation of all big motion picture successes. We aim to secure the very best stories. Stories worthy of big investment. No restrictions. Dramas, comedies, comedy-dramas. All will be considered.

The stories will be filmed at our studios in Santa Barbara, California —among the biggest and best equipped in the world. They will be directed by noted stage technicians, enacted by stars. We shall probably begin releasing these subjects some time next Fall. Sufficient time will be taken with each production to make it worthy of the story. Submit manuscripts to our General Offices, 6225-6237 Broadway, Chicago.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, Inc.

SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, Pres.

6225-6237 Broadway Chicago, Illinois

WON'T THESE SNOW SCENES LOOK GOOD TO YOUR PATRONS THIS SUMMER!

ALBERT E. SMITH presents

The Greatest Serial Ever Screened

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

Eclipsing Even Those Earlier Record-Breaking

VITAGRAPH Successes, "The Fighting Trail"—"Vengeance—and the Woman"—and "The Woman in the Web" in death-defying thrills, melodramatic power and box-office value.

FEATURING

WILLIAM DUNCAN

"THE STRONG MAN OF THE SCREEN"

Supported by EDITH JOHNSON and JOE RYAN

Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady

Directed by William Duncan

HERE ARE THE FIFTEEN EPISODES

Can't you just visualize their thrill, "punch" and suspense from the titles?

1. "The Snare"
2. "Flames of Peril"
3. "The Secret Stockade"
4. "The Precipice of Horror"
5. "The Path of Thrills"
6. "The Spell of Evil"
7. "The Gorge of Destruction"
8. "In the Clutches"
9. "The Escape"
10. "The Secret Tunnel"
11. "The Noose of Death"
12. "The Tide of Disaster"
13. "The Engine of Terror"
14. "The Decoy"
15. "The Sealed Envelope"

A COLOSSAL BILLBOARD CAMPAIGN

Following its tremendously successful billboard campaign on its earlier serials, Vitagraph is posting 24-sheets all over the country to tell picture-goers everywhere that Duncan is here with another whirlwind serial.

Book this super-serial now—and get the benefit of this record-breaking campaign.

Now Being Shown and Booked at all Vitagraph Exchanges

Only the Wonderful Ingenuity of O·HENRY could devise a plot like this—

Instead of the Gillian Millions, he received by the terms of the will, just One Thousand Dollars. And the lawyers demanded an exact accounting of the expenditure of every cent.

He didn't know it, but the will provided that if the Thousand Dollars was spent wisely the entire estate would be his. If the money was squandered, as was his custom, the entire estate would go to the beautiful ward of his eccentric uncle.

He spent the Thousand Dollars, and you will admit that he spent it wisely. Then came the discovery that by his wise expenditure he had cut off the girl from any participation in the estate. And it just happened that he loved the girl.

Of course he might have taken his estate then and married the girl, but that isn't at all the way O. Henry works up this story. Remember the Thousand Dollars had been spent—the law is the law—and O. Henry is O. Henry.

—and Three Stars

with a strong supporting cast to present it to your public!

ALBERT E. SMITH presents

EDWARD EARLE

with Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres

IN

"One Thousand Dollars"

A Five Part Blue Ribbon Feature Directed by Kenneth Webb

O. Henry and Three Stars!

In all of your advertising matter, lay stress on the fact that this is one of the

BEST STORIES of the immortal
O. HENRY presented by an
ALL-STAR CAST

Have your local booksellers run an

O. HENRY SALE with a WINDOW DISPLAY
—and tie it up with the showing at your theatre.

For your program, use the "teaser" copy given above in left-hand panel.

Advertise this picture as a happy picture—a story of the real New York—opening with an exciting automobile chase down crowded Fifth Avenue at mid-day, and with much of the action in quaint Greenwich Village

VITAGRAPH

SELECT SP PICTURES

says one reviewer:

"Starting with a giggle, rising cres to a gale of laughter, this frothy, fri tale of a gushing young bridal c ripples along, gathering complica deceptions, suspicions, until even the S would turn on its back and chuc

You know, of course, that he speal

"Good Night, Paul

in which LEWIS J. SELZNICK

CONSTANC TALMADG

Just another in the steadily growing list of Constance Talmadge's
Select successes — That's All!

Adapted by Julia Crawford Ivers fr bretto of Rowland Oliver and Charle

Directed by Walter

It was the end of a perfect "Good Night, Paul!" but it lead— —to an exciting finish!

DISTRIBUTED BY

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

SELECT SP PICTURES

The brilliant, gifted work of

ALICE BRADY

is seen in her latest Select Picture

"THE WHIRLPOOL"

The story of a girl who had faith in human nature—and played her hunch! A clean, wholesome story splendidly presented on the screen. A winner!

Directed by Allan Crosland

Scenario by Eve Unsell, from the successful novel by Victoria Morton.

DISTRIBUTED BY

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

A Change Has Come

In the Minds and Hearts of Men.

ONE YEAR ago Goldwyn, then a new company, brought a new vision into the production of motion pictures. We realized then, before our first release, that a change had come over the world.

A change in the minds and hearts of men.

We foresaw many of the things that were going to happen and we applied our foresight to the productions we were making; to the stories we were choosing for the screen.

We said then: "Conflict and circumstances are going to make this a sad world for a time. We must let none of this sadness creep into our pictures. We must make them happy, cheerful, clean. We must make them earnest, sincere—and never morbid.

"We must make our pictures appeal first to the millions of women and children who remain at home. Goldwyn Pictures must enable the home-staying millions to relax; to offset the tear with a smile."

Out of these decisions came, in quick succession, a "Polly of the Circus;" a "Baby Mine;" a "Nearly Married" and "The Danger Game." A "Dodging a Million," "The Cinderella Man;" an "All Woman," a "Thais," "The Venus Model," "The Service Star"—pictures welcomed and applauded throughout the world.

* * *

The professionals in motion picture production said: "Your pictures are too light. There isn't enough fire and action in them." A few exhibitors agreed with them at first.

Suddenly exhibitors everywhere realized what Goldwyn was doing and WHY we were doing it. They obtained their revelation through their box-offices. They found that Goldwyn Pictures brought them new commercial, profit-making values. They saw new faces in their houses.

After years of light matinee-patronage, they discovered that their matinees were now returning a profit.

Goldwyn had not proceeded along the lines of least resistance. We had not made vampire pictures or sex pictures and trailed along in the current with other companies.

We had struck at the hardest problem of the nation's motion picture showmen—how to make the daytime performances pay their own way—and we have succeeded, if the word of 5,148 contract customers has any meaning whatever.

These showmen realized what we were doing. In forty odd States of the American Union mothers or women's organizations have indorsed and stimulated the patronage of Goldwyn Pictures because of their wholesomeness and cheerfulness.

Where we have led for a year others are now following.

* * *

Goldwyn is on the eve of its second year.

Goldwyn Pictures

—continued

We are going to make in excess of fifty pictures where in our first year we made twenty-six.

In this second year we have the advantage and good fortune to offer, besides the great popular favorites of our first season, three more stars of tremendous national popularity and appeal.

With GERALDINE FARRAR and PAULINE FREDERICK we will be able to vary and still further strengthen the dramatic intensity of our productions, though we go on record that neither of these famous women will ever do a "vampire" story under the Goldwyn imprint.

Nor will MABEL NORMAND, MAE MARSH or MADGE KENNEDY.

REX BEACH, all of whose future productions Goldwyn will release, is an author whose name is a by-word for virility and healthfulness. We will not cater at any time to unhealthy tastes with his good name.

TOM MOORE, our new star, enjoys popularity because of his cheerfulness and freshness.

On such foundations we have chosen to build both a present and a future.

* * *

Goldwyn is an organization of young men. We are not in a hurry to make profits through decadence or cheap appeals to cheap tastes. We are building well to make a permanent place for ourselves in motion pictures.

That we have treated our exhibitor-customers honorably and fairly is evidenced by the great number we serve and the support we have gained from them is, to use their own words, "because such a company as Goldwyn is building deserves to be sustained and encouraged."

In the coming year, on the basis of clean-cut service, we shall greatly increase the volume of our patronage.

While virtually every large exhibitor in every large city and town, plays Goldwyn Pictures, we also have won the friendship of the small theatre-owners of America. These small theatres are the backbone of the industry. We shall continue to keep them in the forefront of our minds, giving them at equitable and reasonable prices the biggest screen productions as quickly after the initial release dates as possible.

* * *

Goldwyn is being built on a ROCK-SOLID basis. Clear-thinking men combining their talents with the talents of great stars, able directors and imaginative technical artists, are by their work and efforts guaranteeing exhibitors a permanent and constantly increasing patronage.

Powerful, clean and cheerful pictures.

We are content to ride to success on such a basis as that.

SAMUEL GOLDFISH,
President.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

16 East 42nd Street New York City

CAPITOL COMEDIES

"Oh, Boy"

Here's a comedian who "has everything." He is the hit of the Spring and Summer season—the first new comedian in years who has lasting quality. He is popular from the start. The big houses all over America have booked him. He is wise enough to get real laughter-breeding stories, loads of pretty girls and plenty of variety. He provides speed, action and fun. We know that you do not make a star by keeping his pictures on the shelves of branch offices, so that is why

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS

in

CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a Year — Every Second Monday

is offered at prices that every exhibitor in America can afford to pay. Four of his comedies have been played and are playing throughout America: "Bill's Baby," "Billy's Predicament," "Birds of a Feather" and "Matching Billy." Eight of these comedies are in all Goldwyn offices for your examination. His next four releases are:

July 1: "Widow's Might"
July 15: "Dad's Knockout"
July 29: "Up a Tree"
August 12: "Billy's Fortune"

An examination means a contract.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

PROTECTING THE EXHIBITOR'S INVESTMENT

THE LYRIC THEATRE

THE HOME OF HIGH CLASS FEATURES

G C MILLER
PROPRIETOR

PLYMOUTH, PA. June 3. 1918

W. W. Hodkinson

Dear Sir.-

Enclosed find check for $90.00 first payment. Can I have more stock? If I can help you out this way to start will do same gratis. I know you and have confidence in you.

Yours very truly

G C Miller

Exhibitor investments must be protected. This is essential to the future welfare of the industry

Every wide awake exhibitor, be he large or small, must appreciate this.

Mr. Roth of the California Theatre in San Francisco, and Mr. Miller of the Lyric Theatre in Plymouth, Pa., are Co-partners in the Hodkinson Plan.

As far-sighted business men, they are convinced that the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan offers them the only rock-solid protection possible

When two men, whose investments differ greatly in size, agree so closely—exhibitors, large or small, the country over—should supplement the thinking they are now doing by action.

W·W·HODKINSON·CORP

527 FIFTH·AVE·NEW·YORK·CITY

HODKINSON·SERVICE·AT·ALL

GENERAL·FILM·EXCHANGES

PARALTA PLAYS

PICK OF THE PICTURES

J. WARREN KERRIGAN

IN

"ONE DOLLAR BID"

Adapted from the Famous Novel "Toby" by Credo Harris

DIRECTED BY ERNEST C. WARD

A STAR OF PROVEN POPULARITY

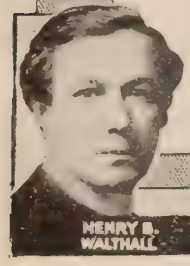
Whose first two Paralta Plays, "A Man's Man" and "Turn of a Card" have packed theatres to their capacity wherever they have been shown.

THE GREATEST SUCCESS OF HIS CAREER

Promises to be "ONE DOLLAR BID" which is a typical Kerrigan story, the locale of which is in the Kentucky Hills, and which pulsates with romantic moments, red-blooded action and climaxic situations.

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc. 8 WEST 48th STREET NEW YORK CITY

Foreign Distributors: Inter-Ocean Film Corporation
Canadian Distributors: Globe Films, Ltd.



DISTRIBUTED THROUGH
"HODKINSON SERVICE"
AT ALL CENTRAL FILM EXCHANGES

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

COMING—A Series of Six Splendid Dramas Brightened with the Sunny Spirit of Childhood

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

Sold as a Series

An Attractive and Intensely Appealing Feature Offering—a Boon to Every Showhouse.

Five-Part Stories of Heart Motive and Human Character and the Blessed Touch of Happy Innocence.

A WONDERFUL CHILD STAR AND DISTINGUISHED CASTS

You Should Book OAKDALE Productions Throughout.—Don't Miss One of Them.

Watch for further Announcements

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

Ready about July 20

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company
25 West 44th Street, New York City

dealing sledge hammer blows

Ambassador James W. Gerard's "MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY" Directed by William Nigh

This is an Editorial not a press notice

The film story of Ambassador Gerard's four years in Germany is not only a thrilling picture, but it is history.

Every vital incident in it is from Mr. Gerard's book, and is thoroughly attested by him. Those who find difficulty in believing in the unspeakable depravity it reveals should remember that he has ample and conclusive evidence for every charge made in book or film. He has the written report of the American woman to whom the half-wit crown prince declared that if his father did not begin a great war he would; to show how superior he is to Napoleon. The kaiser's words, "I will stand no nonsense from America after this war," were said to Gerard himself. The brutal treatment of prisoners of war shown vividly in the film was witnessed by Gerard and other agents of the American embassy. How Germany deliberately provoked the war, and then won its people to its support by hypocritically asserting that Germany was attacked, was witnessed by Gerard himself. Attacked? By whom? By Serbia? By Belgium? Certainly not by Britain, France or Russia.

The film is history. It is education as well as entertainment. It will resolve any lingering doubts about why and how America became entangled in this war. It will show, too, that though the unprecedentedly brutal and vicious submarine warfare was the immediate occasion, America never could have held its head up in the world if, submarine or no submarine, it had failed to get into this war, upon the issue of which rests the whole future of civilization.

Ambassador JAMES W. GERARD

Consider what this kind of publicity will mean to your theatre . . .

Whose experiences behind the scenes of German intrigue are graphically depicted in the film.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

A "FIRST NATIONAL" ATTRACTION

Produced by Mark M. Dintenfass and Harry M. Warner. Scenario by Chas. A. Logue

Foreign Rights: Hiller and Wilk, Longacre Bldg. New York

Through Division of Films, Charles S. Hart, Director

Important to Exhibitors who run

PERSHING'S CRUSADERS

In placing its first war film feature in the hands of the regular exhibitor instead of exhibiting it through other channels, the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information, George Creel, Chairman, has paid the exhibitors of America a high compliment. In return for the confidence reposed in us we must exploit this memorable subject with the dignity and thoroughness to which it is entitled.

We have permission to use the Government's name as producer in our advertising and publicity. We must see that this privilege is not abused by misleading statements—either direct or indirect—which will give the impression that the Government is responsible, or in any way connected with the actual exhibition of the picture.

The Division of Films has issued or approved complete advertising and publicity campaign copy which will cover all requirements. It will be available at First National Exchanges. For any other matter issued in connection with the exploitation of the film each exhibitor will have to accept full responsibility.

The Committee on Public Information has thousands of eyes which will be on the lookout for cases where ill-advised or misleading publicity is used. Should we exhibitors prove unworthy the trust reposed in us we may expect future Government features to reach the public in halls, churches or other publicly controlled meeting places.

As American Citizens

we have been entrusted with an important public work

Let us not prove unworthy of the trust

OFFICIAL DISTRIBUTORS

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

"TAKE IT EASY!"

Little Talks with Foreign Buyers—No. 15

By

PLEASE don't be finicky because shipping restrictions threaten. Be calm and don't mind changes in the existing order of things. Adjust yourself to them. Remember that conditions aren't normal, that the world is in very much of an upset. A war involving the lives and destinies of a billion human beings is going on. And some folks expect "business as usual!" Reasonable persons expect nothing of the kind, and are willing to gladly bear hardships and restrictions as long as they can stay in business. And foreign buyers of American film are assured of enough American film to keep running. They have no reason for complaint, therefore! They mustn't gloom. The earth and American films aren't coming to an end YET! They must remember that America is fighting for its life as a nation—that it is fighting to WIN—and that what is inconvenience in normal times is all in the day's work now.

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION
INTER-OCEAN BUILDING
218 W. 42nd ST. NEW YORK CITY
PAUL H. CROMELIN PRES. & GEN'L. MGR.

"We Operate Everywhere"—Largest Distributors of Films in Foreign Fields and Sole Exporters of Speer Carbons and Fulco Accessories.

READY FOR WORLD SALE

52 World Films a year, featuring Ethel Clayton, Clara Kimball Young, Alice Brady, Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge; 24 Paralta Plays a year, featuring Bessie Barriscale, J. Warren Kerrigan, Henry B. Walthall and Louise Glaum; the great features, Ince's "Whither Thou Goest," Rapf's "Today," and "Mad Lover;" Pyramid's "Inside the Lines," and "The Man of Bronze;" Selexart's "Honor's Cross," "Blue Blood," and " Social Ambition;" "The Victim," "Hunting Big Game in the Frozen North," and "The 13th Labor of Hercules;" the surefire comedy brands, Vim, Black Diamond, Bingo, "Charley" (Mabel and Fatty) cartoons.

Without question one of the most important of films to exhibitor and public alike is the

Allies' Official War Review

Comprising in One Comprehensive Whole Official War Pictures of

ITALY FRANCE
ENGLAND UNITED STATES

They Fascinate, Thrill and Inspire
Presented by Committee on Public Information,
GEORGE CREEL, Chairman
Division of Films, Chas. S. Hart, Director

DISTRIBUTED BY

PATHE

This Review is a weekly selection of the best and most interesting current event pictures—taken by the United States Signal Corps and Navy photographers, and by Allied Staffs. No theatre can afford not to show it!

THE FIRST ISSUE CONTAINS, IN PART:

The Blue Devils Fight the Hun
England Buries Richtoven
Italian U-Boat Chasers
Strengthening Venice's Defences
The Zeebrugge Mole
King George's Letter to the American Soldiers
Rome Celebrates American Day
American Soldiers Advancing to the Front

A Most Attractive Box Office Attraction - Now Booking

RELEASED WEEKLY, BEGINNING JULY 1st

Pathé

"The best all-round company making comedies at present"—
that's what the Bioscope of London says of the comedies. And the laughter that's heard around the world wherever these inimitable comedies are shown bears out the statement!

HAROLD LLOYD

Produced by Rolin

Beyond all question the best picture
GLADYS HULETTE has yet appeared in ANNEXING BILL
with the popular leading man
CREIGHTON HALE

A notable chapter of accidents, laughable and strongly dramatic by turns. It will be thoroughly liked by every audience.

Produced by Astra from the story by Edgar Franklyn
Directed by Albert Parker

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

"The reception accorded 'Moral Suicide' convinces me that motion pictures will pay at the Lexington Theatre! The size of the audiences increased day and night!"

General Manager Cushing of the great Lexington Theatre, New York.

Pathé

MORAL SUICIDE

the dramatic depiction of the slaying of a soul, with John Mason, Leah Baird and Anne Luther, has already been booked at Rose's Theatre, Chicago, 1 week

Miller's Theatre, Los Angeles, 1 week
Tivoli Theatre, San Francisco, 1 week
Goddard's Theatre, Sacramento, 1 week
Lexington Opera House, New York, 1 week
Goodwin Theatre, Newark, N.J., 2 weeks

Also many others. A great play with a great title. Now Booking

Written and directed by Ivan Abramson
Produced by Graphic Film Corp'n
Distributed by PATHÉ

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

TRIANGLE

THIS EXHIBITOR USES DISCRETION IN ADVERTISING

THERE is an exhibitor in the State of Illinois who knows how to advertise.

HE'S made an enormous success of his theatre through proper publicity.

AND yet, his advertising is not blatant, strident or boisterous.

IN fact he's caged the superlatives that other exhibitors have permitted to run wild through the jungles of exploitation.

WITH simple sincerity, with telling force, with confidential earnestness, he brings the message of his pictures, his service and his ideals to the public.

THE public BELIEVES him. It has FAITH in him. It RESPONDS.

THIS man, although he is one of the cleverest writers and originators of publicity in the field, knows WHY his theatre is so highly trusted by the public and so successful at the BOX OFFICE.

HE frankly states that all of his celever publicity would be a failure without pictures which are consistently pleasing; pictures that are clean, wholesome, original, well-acted and artistic.

TRIANGLE is very proud to be the organization which serves this gentleman. And he is well-satisfied with the success he has achieved with Triangle pictures.

HE is paying the modest prices for Triangle features which are so much more attractive than those asked for films of a grade often very much more inferior. His service is standardized on a healthy basis. He receives his shipments always on time, through the efficiency of the Triangle Traffic Department, and his advertising and promotion activities are admirably foreseen and ably assisted by the advertising bureau.

THOUSANDS of exhibitors are steadily forging ahead in the estimation of picture patrons through the showing of Triangle pictures.

WHY not consider Triangle? Any of our exchanges can give you some very interesting information on SERVICE.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
1457 BROADWAY NEW YORK

WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS
THEDA BARA
IN CLEOPATRA
A THEDA BARA SUPER-PRODUCTION Released August 1st on Rental Basis
CONTRACT NOW
FOX EXCHANGES

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

What befell a woman who did anything~ everything~to achieve a career

WILLIAM FOX
Presents

VIRGINIA PEARSON

in

HER PRICE

Directed by Edmund Lawrence

BOOK IT NOW — TO DAY!

THE BIG

William Farnum in "A Soldiers Oath"

Theda Bara in "A Fool There Was"

Theda Bara in "The Clemenceau Case"

1918 VERSIONS Proved Money Makers

BOOK NOW!

William Farnum in "The Bondman"

William Farnum in "The Plunderer"

Theda Bara in "The Two Orphans"

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

RE-MADE RE-EDITED
RE-TITLED REVISED

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

WILLIAM FOX Presents-
HENRY LEHRMAN'S
SUNSHINE COMEDIES
"Wild Women and Tame Lions"
"A Neighbor's Keyhole"
"A Waiter's Wasted Life"

Also
BUD FISHER'S
MUTT and JEFF
"Hospital Orderlies"
"Life Savers"
"Meeting Theda Bara"

WORLD-PICTURES

WORLD PICTURES
present

BARBARA CASTLETON—IRVING CUMMINGS
in
"The Heart of a Girl"

STORY BY MARAVENE THOMPSON

DIRECTED BY JOHN ADOL-.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Strength of production—in smooth development, entertaining qualities and freedom from jarring notes of any sort.

MORNING TELEGRAPH
A sure appeal to all "fans."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS
Barbara Castleton and Irving Cummings in a corking drama. Clean, wholesome drama—the kind that will entertain your patrons and have them leave satisfied—picture will appeal to any audience.

Miss Castleton's Next Release: "HEREDITY"

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding we beg to announce that

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES

Will Continue to Appear in the Great Independent News-Reels

Gaumont News
EVERY TUESDAY

Gaumont Graphic
EVERY FRIDAY

Now Procurable from the Best States-Right Exchanges Everywhere

Independent exhibitors have expressed in unmistakable words their appreciation of the Gaumont method of distributing its world famous News Service which enables every theatre to show these

NEWS REELS OF REAL NEWS

They will be just as enthusiastic over the new Gaumont Photo-Serial

The HAND of VENGEANCE

With only ten 2-reel episodes, and every scene crowded with daring escapades, thrilling situations and startling surprises, this amazing serial will prove a gold mine for the exhibitors fortunate enough to secure it

Gaumont PARIS

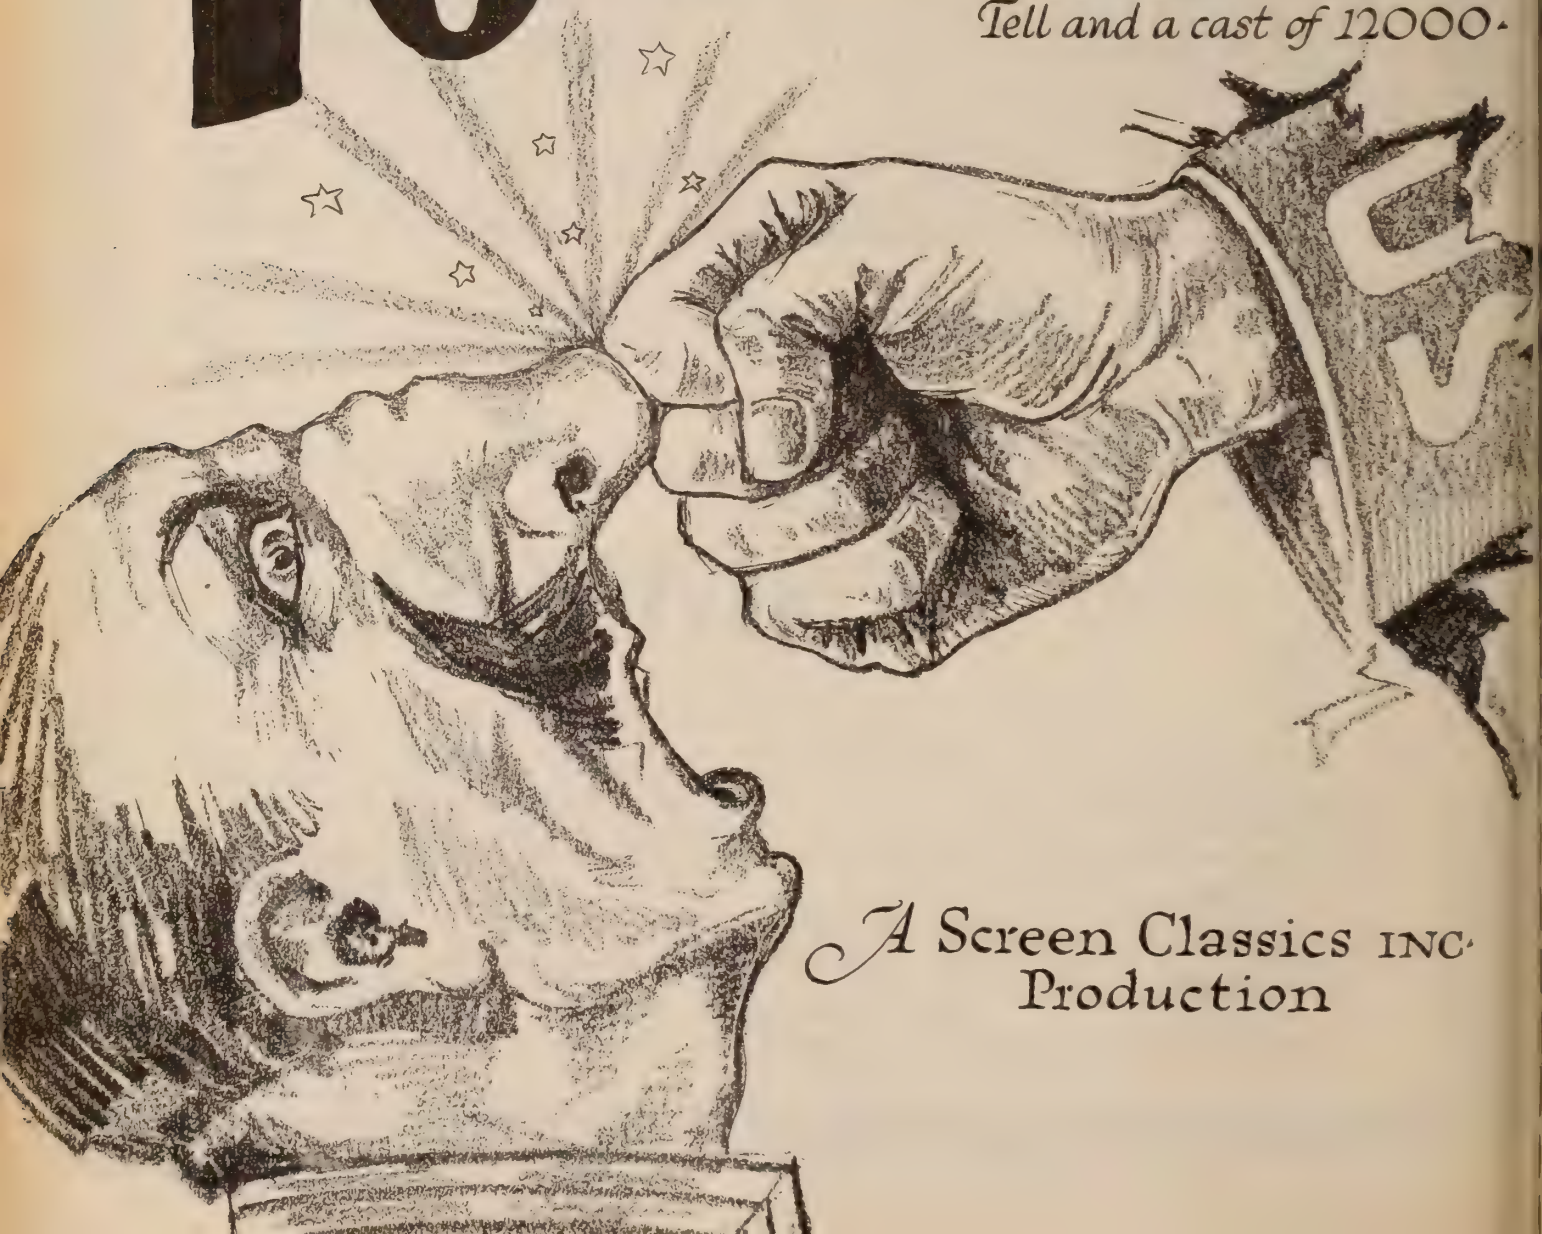
Gaumont Co.
FLUSHING, N. Y.

Gaumont LONDON

You know what every American would like to do to the Kaiser-

TO HELL

Featuring Lawrence Grant as the Kaiser, with Olive Tell and a cast of 12000.



A Screen Classics INC. Production

Well, you see it done in the newest and biggest sensation of the day-

WITH THE KAISER

Written by June Mathis -Directed by George Irving.

OPENS this week for runs-
Broadway Theatre, New York-
Playhouse, Chicago -and all over the land.

BOOK this box office success today and make sure of the clean up-
Best paper, best advertising possibilities and best advertising and publicity helps ever prepared for a great attraction.

Metro Pictures Corporation
Exclusive Distributors
Maxwell Karger, Mgr. of Productions.

In a new triumph of her exquisite artistry

Metro Pictures Corporation presents

Adorable

VIOLA DANA

in Edgar Franklyn's All Story Weekly success

OPPORTUNITY

Adapted and directed in 5 acts by John H. Collins

RELEASED BY METRO JULY FIRST

MAXWELL KARGER, Mgr. of Productions

A Rialto De Luxe Production

George Kleine System, Distributors

SYMPHONY THEATRE
BROADWAY AT 95th STREET
Kennedy Theatres, Inc.
AUBREY M. KENNEDY, Pres.

NEW YORK.
MAY,
TENTH,
1 9 1 8.

Rialto De Luxe Productions
130 West 46th Street,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:

I will open The Symphony Theatre with your production of "The Unchastened Woman" a screen adaptation of Oliver Morosco's Broadway stage success of the same name, and in which Grace Valentine is starred.

My decision came after viewing an unusual number of very fine productions which were offered for consideration as the opening feature of the Symphony.

After twelve years in the producing field of the motion picture art, I am glad to say that your production is one that fitly exemplifies the dignified policy of the Symphony Theatre to give its patrons the very best obtainable.

Your screen adaptation of "The Unchastened Woman" is splendid. The story itself is unusual. The artistry of the star, Miss Valentine, is an histrionic achievement. The supporting cast was perfectly chosen.

All in all I consider it a great production. It is the very quality of picture that the Symphony wishes to continually offer.

Give us more like it.

Very truly yours,

Aubrey M. Kennedy
President,

KENNEDY THEATRES, Inc.

AMK/ME

GRACE VALENTINE
in THE
"UNCHASTENED WOMAN"

Beyond doubt the most brilliant screen adaptation of the most brilliant dramatic success in a decade.

"AS SIMPLE AS A, B, C"

WROTE ONE EXHIBITOR, COMMENTING UPON THE PROJECT OF

United Picture Theatres of America

An Application of the modern Business Principles of Centralization and Co-operation, Designed for and by EXHIBITORS
For their Good and their Profit,
Having as a Basis these Important Items:
Justice to all—
Keeping down Distribution Charges—
Lessening Waste, and Making the Exhibitor paramount.

No doubt remains
Of the
Practicability of the Project.
Quality will be improved;
Rentals will be reduced.
Success will be made easier
Through YOUR Participation in UNITED'S many Valuable Benefits
Why continue to submit to Xtravagance and Excessive Costs?
YOU DON'T HAVE TO. IT'S AS E-
Z AS THE ALPHABET!

IF YOU WANT TO BE CONVINCED

Send for the New Edition of our Booklet—Just Out

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA, INC.

J. A. BERST PRESIDENT

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

DEPOSITORY, COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, BROADWAY AND 41ST. NEW YORK

TO THE EXHIBITORS

G. M. ANDERSON

(Broncho Billy)

Will be presented in a series of new feature pictures.

All particulars and information will be announced later

WATCH THIS PAPER

The "NEWS" advertisers believe YOU worth while; justify them.

Perfection Pictures
The Highest Standard In Motion Pictures

THE UNI

MORNING TRIBUNE: LOS ANGELES, CAL., MONDAY, APRIL 29, 1918.

DAILY NEWS, TUESDAY, APRIL 23,

nbeliever Pulse-Stirring War Play;

PATRIOTISM STIRRED BY 'THE UNBELIEVER'

HE WASHINGTON HERALD. MONDAY, MA

Picture, Well Acted ded by Music and ines' Tableaux.

"The Unbeliever," a Picture Play.

n actor of the legitimate in commenting tly on the permanency of the film as an ement factor said that the public was tiring ne movies and would return to a patronage ne spoken drama.

producer of films of the better sort t and said that such strides ... been a ld be made that the movies would ... ic favor. He illustrated his point by ... ollice receipts for films which, for ... production of the speaking stage.

Yesterday there was produced for the first ... Washington a picture of such remarkab st because of its theme and its art that ld seem the movie man has the best of the ament. "The Unbeliever" is up to the minute photography, in interes... well deserve... ie of superfeature.

"We need better pi... c is one—a story th... patriotism, that vi... sistent in story ... rthy your patronag...

'The Unbeliever' Delivers Sermon to Great Throng

BY THE CRITIC ... nd a ...

AT THE FRONT IN FRANCE

U. S. MARINE CORPS

The French — English—American Press has thundered its praises during the past week!

The Marine forces that drove back the Germans at Chateau Thierry took part in the making of "THE UNBELIEVER"

BY W. K. HOLLANDER.

HERE is much stir your emotions a... ditorium th...

"The ... the re... this de... set forth the ... of the time imp... sively. The e... tainment is me... with tremer... success, if a c... observer can ... from the spon... applause ...

INDIANA DAILY TIMES, MONDAY, APRIL 1, 1918

CIRCLE.

Greater even than "The Birth of a Na... tion," which has been considered the ... greatest of all motion pictures, is "The ... Unbeliever," the powerful photoplay at... traction that is being screened at the ... Circle for the entire week.

"The Three Things," the war novelette ... by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews, ... has been adapted to the screen as "The ... Unbeliever," and is, without expection, ... the picture that has as yet ... The realism is such that ... every expression upon ... the faces of the individual players brings ... a thrill to the heart or a tear to the ... eye. Any one who can see this picture ... and not tingle with a zest to hear his or ... her share of the burden of the war and ... not feel inspired with a feeling of pride ... for the men who are fighting, is not ... worthy the name of American.

A wise choice was made in selecting ... the players to portray the role... mond McKee as ...

THE MINNEA... AS S... D... RIBUNE: APRIL 28 1918

New War Drama Second Only to "Birth of a Nation"

"The Unbeliever" Portrayer of World War, as Was Other Civil War.

Seve...

NNATI COMMERCIAL TRIBUNE, MONDAY, APRIL 29, 1918.

THE PICTURE PLAYS

WALNUT—"The Unbeliever" at the Walnut Theater is another "Birth of a Nation" when it comes to arousing its audiences to a pitch of enthusiasm where they stand up and shout. Cincinnati's first view of this wonderful photoplay Sunday explains why "The Unbeliever" is sweeping the country with patriotic fervor and breaking rec... ords, wher...

THE SUNDAY STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., MARCH 3,

Perfection Pictures
The Highest Standard In Motion Pictures

A Tremendous B...

'ASK THE MAN W...

Then communicate with ...

GEORGE KL...

KLEINE presents

THE UNBELIEVER

Perfection Pictures
The Highest Standard in Motion Pictures

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 5. 1

ING, THE OHIO STATE JOURNAL COLUMBUS, MAY 27, 1918.

THERE is being shown at the Grand this week a picture so fine, so big and so true in its conceptions that it seems the present writer to take pre- nce over all the films which have shown here for many weeks. "The Unbeliever" is its title, and ory was inspired by the great and has the war for its back- d. But the important thing it is that it does have a story. story tremendously worth tell-thing about this film tends to of thought and tolerance. re are innumerable fine bits rate these things, as for in- a scene in which a Jew- lds the crucifix before the es of an Irish Catholic boy. of all kinds falls away as This picture, which leaves the power

PERSPECT of

APRIL 19, 1918.

VILLE EVENING

HE 'UNBELIEVER' A EMARKABLE

NEW YORK, THE EVENING MAIL FEBRUARY 14 1918

A FINE WAR FILM

"The Unbeliever," at the Rivoli, Provides the Best War Story Yet Offered on the Screen.

By ... OLIPHANT.

...ment sup...tion insures such ...s as "The Unbe... ...k of ...ivoli Theatre, ...ally ...passe... ...ned ...ing ...of ...ing ...

WITHOUT EXCEPTION
THE GREATEST PICTURE THE WAR HAS PRODUCED—
EVERYONE AGREES

INNEAPOLIS

unday, April 28,

he Unbeliever," ern spoiled boy who believes ing but has an ... outhful snobbishness pro- sual hero for "The Unbe- atest photoplay of the ... In the conflict he learns alues more truly and he- e chaos changed in atti- nt sort of character is usually chosen for th... story, but the over...

DETROIT FREE PRE

Majestic—"The Unbeliever."

"The Unbeliever," a war picture that is surely unique, had the first Detroit public presentation in the Majestic theater Sunday. It was received with enthusiasm.

So much had been said about this picture that it seemed as though half of Detroit wished to view it

...G LEADER

...PRIL 2, 1918

"The Unbeliever" at Grand

Manager Harry Davis certainly captured the big film prize of the season in Thomas A. Edison's moving picture "The Unbeliever," which thrilled the patriotic crowds yesterday, the audience giving vent to their enthusiasm with frequent applause. It is absolutely the greatest photo drama seen in Pittsburg since "The Birth of

"The Unbeliever" Drives Home Its Patriotic Lesso

...pectacle at Rial... ...h Serious ...se

By WALTER ANTHONY

THE claims on the attention picture patrons made by "T Unbeliever" transcend the i portance of the production as a pi ture. Its appeal as a picture production is overwhelmed in more important issues. It has a spiritual message and a patriotic one. The two are necessarily related one to the other in this big spectacle at the Rialto.

MARGUERITE COURTOT

It seemed to me, in witnessing the unfolding of the scenes, that here was an exception to the general run of picture plays—it was written ... a purpose other than merely to entertain. Like the "Birth of a Nation," and "The Blue Bird," authors and builders were obsess with a message. Hence its power

The usual picture is produced p functorily to supply a demand wh seems ever to increase beyond ... of ingenious writers to ... skill and spend large su... but after a single visit ... there exists no impu... again and again. T... with few exceptions is true.

"The Unbeliever" is not that ki... It seems to have been written in ... white heat of a patriotic purpo... We are told that it was produced ... the United States Marine Co... working with Thomas A. Edison. T... result has been a picture wh... breathes a fervor of intense loyal... refreshing and inspiring to behold... aside from the magnitude ... movi... masses which do long ... of ...selv...

Office Success—
D HAS PLAYED IT! nearest exchange of the NE SYSTEM

Perfection Pictures
The Highest Standard in Motion Pictures

NOW READY

THE PAREX FILM

The Wm. L.

SHERRY SERVICE

TO EXHIBITORS

You want good pictures, at a price that will yield the largest reasonable margin of profit. You want pictures with pep, human interest and drawing power.

It is my intention in opening my own independent exchanges to contract only for productions of this calibre. As one of the founders of the Paramount Pictures Corporation and one of the original State Rights buyers of high grade productions, I feel that I know the wants of the exhibitor and the class of productions most profitable to him.

After seeing their first productions and learning their plans for the future, I have obtained the world rights to the entire output of the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation and the De Luxe Pictures, Inc. I can state positively that they are quality pictures, as good as can be produced.

WILLIAM L. SHERRY

THE FOLLOWING ARE

FRANK A. KEENEY PRESENTS

The Lady Beautiful of the Screen

CATHERINE CALVERT

in

"A ROMANCE OF THE UNDERWORLD"

PAUL ARMSTRONG'S Great Drama of New York Life

Directed by JAMES KIRKWOOD

"The Best Picture of its kind". —N.Y. Evening Mail.

Released June 30

THE FOLLOWING

SHERRY SERVICE EXCHANGES

NEW YORK,	729 Seventh Avenue,
BOSTON,	16 Piedmont Street,	AARON CORN, Manager
PHILADELPHIA,	1314 Vine Street,	GEO. F. WRIGHT, Manager
CHICAGO,	220 State Street,	H. F. BRINK, Manager
CLEVELAND,	823 Prospect Avenue,	W.R. LIEBMANN, Manager
DETROIT,	63 Elizabeth Street,	E. H. WELLS, Manager
DALLAS,	1905½ Commerce Street,	J.R. McILHERON, Manager
DENVER,	1723 Welton Street,	H.D. CASSIDY, Manager

EXECUTIVE

NORMAN J. SENNOTT, Gen. Mgr. WM. L. SHERRY SERVICE

FOR BUSINESS

CORPORATION, furnishing

The Wm. L.

SHERRY SERVICE

TO EXHIBITORS

My success in the motion picture industry has been due to my square deal methods with the exhibitors, courteous treatment and prompt attention to all matters in connection with the bookings of productions through my exchanges.

You may rest assured that this well known policy will be carried out in my new enterprise.

The Sherry Service stamp will be a mark of quality and a guarantee of box office value.

Watch for big things coming.

WILLIAM L. SHERRY

MY INITIAL OFFERINGS

THEODORE C. DEITRICH PRESENTS

DORIS KENYON

Heading her own Company

DE LUXE PICTURES, INC. in

"THE STREET OF SEVEN STARS"

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Directed by JOHN B. O'BRIEN

"An Unprecedently Beautiful Screen Idyl, All Smiles and Tears."- Billboard

Released July 7

ARE THE SHERRY SERVICE EXCHANGES

LOS ANGELES,	511 West Eighth Street,	Wm. ALEXANDER, Dist. Mgr.
MINNEAPOLIS,	14 North Fourth Street,	A. A. NELSON, Manager
KANSAS CITY,	921 Walnut Street,	R. E. RIDDICK, Manager
PITTSBURG,	804 Penn Avenue,	B. T. LYON, Manager
SAN FRANCISCO,	180 Golden Gate Ave.,	CHAS. LUNUTZ, Manager
ATLANTA,	61 Walton Street,	A. S. DICKENSON, Manager
SEATTLE,	2022 Third Avenue,	L. A. TODD, Manager

St. Louis Exchange will be ready for business by the time you read this.

OFFICES

729-7TH AVE., NEW YORK

DANIEL J. SAVAGE, Gen. Sales Mgr.

FOR RELEASE
JUNE 30
THROUGH THE
WM L. SHERRY SERVICE
FOR THE U.S. AND CANADA

Frank A. Keeney's
BIG BOX-OFFICE ATTRACTION
"A ROMANCE of the UNDERWORLD"

A PICTURIZATION OF
PAUL ARMSTRONG'S
GREAT DRAMA OF
NEW YORK LIFE

STARRING

THE LADY BEAUTIFUL OF THE SCREEN
CATHERINE CALVERT

WITH AN ALL-STAR CAST INCLUDING
DAVID POWELL, EUGENE O'BRIEN,
EDWIN FORSBERG AND SYBIL CARMEN

IN SIX THRILLING PARTS
SUPERVISED AND DIRECTED BY JAMES KIRKWOOD

FOR RELEASE SOON
THE LADY BEAUTIFUL OF THE SCREEN
CATHERINE CALVERT
WITH
HERBERT RAWLINSON
AND AN ALL-STAR CAST
IN THE THRILLING, SENSATIONAL PHOTODRAMA
"THE GIRL PROBLEM"

FOR PARTICULARS ADDRESS THE NEAREST
WILLIAM L. SHERRY SERVICE EXCHANGE
OR
WILLIAM L. SHERRY, GODFREY BUILDING 729-7TH AVE., N.Y. CITY

KEENEY GENERAL OFFICES, 1493 BROADWAY — RAY C. OWENS, Gen. Mgr.

Theodore C. Deitrich presents

DORIS KENYON

Heading her own company,
DE LUXE PICTURES, INC., in

THE STREET OF SEVEN STARS

"An unprecedentedly beautiful screen idyl all smiles and tears," by

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Read what the critics say of The Street of Seven Stars:

"A clean entertainment, full of heart interest that will appeal to all classes. Book this picture."—P. S. Harrison in Motion Picture News.

"Breezy, whimsical, light bit of pathos, fun and romance that will please folks everywhere."—Wid.

"This is indeed a picture de luxe, a step forward in motion picture building. It registers the biggest kind of a hit. This unprecedentedly beautiful screen idyl, all smiles and tears, will afford pleasure to the world at large for many a day and should be booked all over the country. Doris Kenyon is in a class by herself, being of the spiritual type of feminine loveliness."—Marion Russell in Billboard.

"If all pictures contained as much that is new and entertaining, there would always be something to look forward to."—Aileen St. John Brenon in Morning Telegraph.

"It is pleasing to the eye, and Doris Kenyon is bewitching and radiantly beautiful."—Exhibitors' Trade Review.

"Doris Kenyon is charming. Entertainment, story and photography are good and the technical handling and acting throughout are very good."—Dramatic Mirror.

"Doris Kenyon radiantly beautiful in a sweetly simple story."—New York Review.

"A pretty story, full of quiet pathos and keen insight into life."—Moving Picture World.

"It is irresistible. Doris Kenyon lends a charm and fascination to the picture that are quite distinctive."—N. Y. C. Evening Mail.

READY NOW

Directed by
JOHN B. O'BRIEN

Released through the WILLIAM L. SHERRY SERVICE
Offices in all principal cities

The "NEWS" advertisers believe YOU worth while; justify them.

ANNOUNCING ——

Mary Miles Minter

in

"The GHOST of ROSY TAYLOR"

LATEST of the Minter features embodying exceptional box office value—a Saturday Evening Post story, by the celebrated Josephine Daskam Bacon—produced under the direction of Edward Sloman for the American Film Company, Inc.

Available July 8 at exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation.

When exhibitors get together in the corner of an exchange and gossip about stars these days, you can always hear somebody say, "Yes, and that Mary Miles Minter is getting stronger at the box office every day." It's true—and there's some business for you and your theatre in—

"Social Briars"
"A Bit of Jade"
"Powers That Prey"
"Beauty and The Rogue"
"The Mate of the Sally Ann"
"Peggy Leads the Way"
"Her Country's Call"
"Charity Castle"

A kiss bestowed by mistake and its consequences—An innocent impersonation which caused distressing suspicions—Mary the adorable, as a chic little French scullery maid—A haughty and destitute heiress at hard labor in a reformatory—The golden haired beauty in a bewitching play—Supported by Alan Forrest, George Periolat, Kate Price, Ann Schaefer and others.

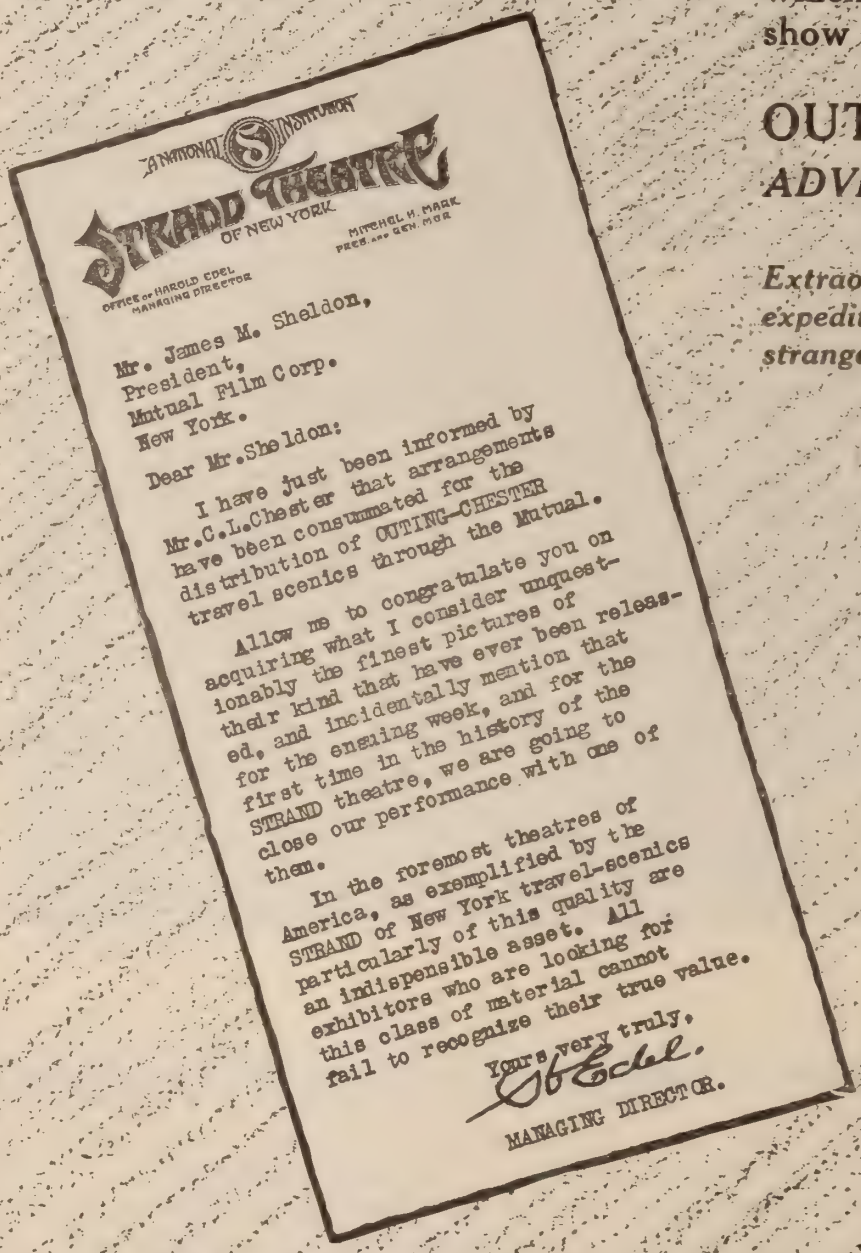
OUTING MAGAZINE

The world's authority on the great out-of-doors and sports

Tells its readers every month which big theatres show

OUTING-CHESTER
ADVENTURE PICTURES

Extraordinary one-reel expeditions to strange places



A NATIONAL INSTITUTION

STRAND THEATRE OF NEW YORK

MITCHEL H. MARK
PRES. AND GEN. MGR.

OFFICE OF HAROLD EDEL
MANAGING DIRECTOR

Mr. James M. Sheldon,
President,
Mutual Film Corp.
New York.

Dear Mr.Sheldon:

I have just been informed by Mr.C.L.Chester that arrangements have been consummated for the distribution of OUTING-CHESTER travel scenics through the Mutual.

Allow me to congratulate you on acquiring what I consider unquestionably the finest pictures of their kind that have ever been released, and incidentally mention that for the ensuing week, and for the first time in the history of the STRAND theatre, we are going to close our performance with one of them.

In the foremost theatres of America, as exemplified by the STRAND of New York travel-scenics particularly of this quality are an indispensible asset. All exhibitors who are looking for this class of material cannot fail to recognize their true value.

Yours very truly,
Harold Edel.
MANAGING DIRECTOR.

Produced by C. L. Chester in co-operation with OUTING

Available one a week at MUTUAL FILM EXCHANGES

NATIONAL DIRECTORS OF THE AFFILIATED FOR UNITS ALREADY COMPLETED AND INCORPORATED

CHAIRMAN

SYDNEY S. COHEN, New York, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Greater New York.

VICE CHAIRMAN

S. J. BULLOCK, Cleveland, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Northern Ohio.

SECOND CHAIRMAN

GLENN HARPER, Los Angeles, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of the Intermountain and Pacific States, comprising Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico.

SECRETARY

FRANK J. REMBUSCH, Indianapolis, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Indiana and Western Kentucky.

R. D. CRAVER and H. B. VARNER, Charlotte and Lexington, N. C., respectively, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation of the South Atlantic States, comprising Maryland, District of Columbia, Delaware, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Eastern Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

MORRIS SPIERS, Philadelphia, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey.

FRED J. HERRINGTON, Pittsburgh, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

JOHN MANHEIMER, New York, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Greater New York.

IRA MOSHIER, Buffalo, of the Exhibitors' Booking Association, of Western New York.

JOHN W. WEINIG, Cincinnati, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Southern Ohio and Western Kentucky.

CHARLES H. SEAMAN, Grand Rapids, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Michigan.

LOUIS FRANK and JOSEPH HOPP, Chicago, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of Illinois and Wisconsin.

BYRON PARK and A. S. STALLINGS, Salt Lake City, of the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, of the Intermountain and Pacific States.

? Which Is Your Choice

A committee of the National Directors is considering the applications of five national distributing systems for the physical distribution of the product, released through the Affiliated. After investigating the service and terms offered by these companies, a distributing system will be selected by a referendum vote of all the directors. Advise your national director today of the distributing organization which, in your opinion, offers the most efficient service for simply the physical handling of pictures. An exhibitors' booking office will be maintained in each unit to do all the selling, arrange all bookings, fix all prices and classify theatres.

THESE EXHIBITORS ARE AT YOUR COMMAND

THE names in the opposite panel of the National Board of Directors of the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, are those of exhibitors known to you personally or by reputation. Their standing is the highest.

These exhibitors are your direct representatives, elected by their fellow exhibitors. They represent business organizations of exhibitors which have taken out their charters and put up their money to back the Affiliated plan of co-operative booking.

They are the managers of the Affiliated. They run the organization for you. They make certain exhibitor control in all things and at all times.

Exhibitors of equal prominence are associated with them as officers of the exhibitor booking organizations in each territory.

You should get in touch with these directors or officers at once. Already, 2025 booking days have been subscribed, and pictures are now being considered for release.

Don't be out of the most beneficial movement for exhibitors that has ever been instituted in the moving picture industry. Act today.

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS' CORP.

1476 Broadway, 524 Longacre Bldg., New York

The National Exposition of the Motion Picture Industry

TO BE HELD AT MECHANICS' HALL, BOSTON, MASS., FROM

July 13th to 20th

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF

THE MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA

Will Be The Biggest And Most Important Ever Held

Wednesday, July 17, has been set aside as World Night at the Exposition. Through the courtesy of the World Film Corporation the following World Stars will positively appear in person on this occasion:

Carlyle Blackwell June Elvidge
Evelyn Greeley Montagu Love
Madge Evans

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America wishes to express its appreciation of World Pictures courtesy, and urges all its members to show that appreciation in material form.

LEE A. OCHS, President.

TWO TURNAWAY NIGHTS ALREADY PROVIDED FOR

Saturday, July 13th (Opening Night) Alice Brady Night

(Miss Brady to appear in person, introduced by her father, Wm. A. Brady)

Wednesday, July 17th World Film Night

WATCH FOR OTHER IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS

For space in the Exposition Building, apply to Lee A. Ochs, 1600 Broadway, N. Y.

FIRST!

116 1/2

MORE THAN ANY OTHER SINCE JANUARY FIRST

SEE NEXT PAGE

116 1/2

Since January 1st and up to and including this issue Motion Picture News has carried 116½ more pages of paid advertising than any other trade publication in the field

¶ This very considerable excess of advertising announcements—in the year it amounts to several hundred pages – makes Motion Picture News more valuable to its readers than any other publication.

¶ But, also, it is only because Motion Picture News gives its readers greater editorial value that the publication carries —by hundreds of pages—more advertising than any other publication in the field.

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 1. July 6, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

AMALGAMATION AND AMERICANISM (W. A. JOHNSTON) 51
SERVING IT WITH SPEED AND GINGER..... 53
WHAT KIND OF A FELLOW IS—SELIG?..... 61
INDEPENDENT FIELD TICKER.....105
THE HONOR ROLL..... 60
TRUCE IN UNIVERSAL-CREEL ROW..... 57

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Exhibitor to Exhibitor Reviews..... 65
Exhibitors' Box-Office Reports..... 67
Ready-Made Ad Talks..... 86
Exhibitors' Service Bureau..... 70
Coming Program Offerings..... 97
Short Subjects in Review.....108
Releases—Current and Coming.....119
Projection Department 126
Music and the Picture.....132
Theatres Worth While.....135

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Slump Threatened on Coast..... 54
Fox Secures St. Louis Theatre..... 54
Newsy Hints of What We Tell You Next Week..... 55
Black Again Appeals for Union..... 56
Ohio Houses Fight Sunday Law..... 58
Kleine Boosts Letter League..... 63
Engel Wins Ruling Favoring Films..... 64
Live News from the Producers..... 88
In and Out of West Coast Studios.....109
In the Independent Field.....103
Newsy Items from the Studios.....112

SCREEN EXAMINATIONS

"Annexing Bill" (Pathe).....114
"City of Tears, The" (Bluebird-Universal).....117
"Closin' In" (Triangle).....115
"Good-Night, Nurse" (Paramount-Arbuckle).....116
"Her Spooney Affair" (Strand-Mutual).....115
"House of Hate, The" (Pathe).....115
"Kaiser's Shadow, The" (Paramount-Ince).....114
"Kicking the Germ Out of Germany" (Rolin-Pathe).....116
"Mortgaged Wife, The" (Jewel).....118
"Original Vod-a-Vil Movies" (Commonwealth Film Corp.)113
"Ozark Romance, An" (Rolin-Pathe).....116
"Sandy" (Paramount) 117
"Scarlet Road, The" (Fox).....118
"Shot in the Dumbwaiter" (Lyons-Moran-Universal).....117
"Tangled Lives" (Vitagraph).....116
"Tempered Steel" (Petrova Pictures).....113
"Tinsel" (World Film).....116
"Whirlpool, The" (Select).....113
"You Can't Believe Everything" (Triangle).....113

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Universal Offers Mae Murray in "Her Body in Bond".... 2
The Future of Lila Lee..... 3
Paramount-Artcraft Foresight 4
American Film Company Makes Startling Scenario Offer... 5
Vitagraph's Summer Serial, "A Fight for Millions," One of Snow and Ice..... 6
"One Thousand Dollars," One of O. Henry's Most Surprising Stories Presented by Vitagraph with Tri-star Cast 7
The Sort of Comedy Offered in Select's "Good Night, Paul!" 8
Alice Brady's Latest, "The Whirlpool"..... 9
An Optimistic and Worth-while Message from Goldwyn...10-11
'Smiling Bill" Parsons a Fixture..... 12
Hodkinson Shows Proof of Success of Plan..... 13
Paralta Presents Kerrigan in "One Dollar Bid"..... 14
General Film Offers the Oakdale Productions..... 15
"My Four Years in Germany" Dealing Sledge-hammer Blows 16
Important Notice to Those Exhibiting "Pershing's Crusaders" 17
"Take It Easy"—Talk No. 15 from Inter-Ocean..... 18
Allies' Official War Review Distributed by Pathe..... 19
A British Trade Paper—"The Bioscope"—Joins in Praise of Harold Lloyd..... 20
Gladys Hulette Appears on Pathe Program in "Annexing Bill" 21
"Moral Suicide" and what an Exhibitor Thinks of It..... 22
The Pictures Behind the Advertising—Triangle..... 23
Fox Puts "Cleopatra" in General Circulation..... 24
Virginia Pearson in "Her Price"..... 25
William Fox's "Big Six"..... 26
The Current Sunshine and Mut and Jeff Comedies..... 27
World Film Presents Barbara Castleton in "The Heart of a Girl" 28
Official War Pictures in Gaumont News Reels..... 29
Metro Pictures 30-31-32
Kennedy of the Symphony Theatre Recommends "The Unchastened Woman" 33
United Picture Theatres..... 34
Regarding G. M. Anderson's Activities..... 35
Regarding the Success of "The Unbeliever".....36-37
The William L. Sherry Service.....38-39
"A Romance of the Underworld" Released..... 40
'The Street of Seven Stars" Recommended..... 41
The Latest Mary Miles Minter Picture.....42-43
Mutual Film Corporation..... 44
Affiliated Distributors 45
What Wid Says About "A Pair of Sixes"..... 50
Universal "Nails a Black Lie"..... 99
Incidents of "The Geezer of Berlin" Unfolded.....100
The Lyons-Moran Star Comedies.....101
"The Lion's Claws," Only Wild Animal Serial Now Current 102

WM. A. JOHNSTON, Pres. and Editor. HENRY F. SEWALL, Vice-Pres. E. KENDALL GILLETT, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, Wm. J. McGrath, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

WID SAYS:

"I certainly would advise you to play 'A PAIR OF SIXES,' featuring TAYLOR HOLMES, and if you have already played it once, I would play it for a return. ★★★ Any one who has seen it will recommend it to their friends—which should make a return engagement profitable.

"It is one of the few farces that is clean, smooth, well produced and truly funny. ★★★

"You are doing yourself an injustice if you don't get this."

Essanay

George Kleine System
Distributors

Perfection Pictures

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 1 July 6, 1918

Amalgamation and Americanism

WE publish this week the telegraphic appeal for amalgamation of the two exhibitor organizations, sent by A. S. Black of Maine to Frank J. Rembusch of Indiana.

We like very much the point Mr. Black makes, namely, the utter elimination of "the absolutely selfish motives of co-operative booking companies and other interests" from League affairs.

"Other" interests dominated the Chicago Convention last year and were the direct cause of the split. "Other interests" have knocked the League off its feet repeatedly, and they have always been due to the "absolutely selfish" motives of a very few individuals. No exhibitors' organization can ever thrive with such misuse.

Mr. Rembusch and other leaders of the A. E. A. can therefore scarcely be blamed for asking, in advance of amalgamation, for definite assurances that these adverse elements will be utterly eliminated, that they will not be subjected for instance to the outrageous tactics employed last year at Chicago.

As for the issue of exhibitor amalgamation because of Americanism we cannot help but recall the fact that the A. E. A. asked for admission into the National Association last year upon the very same grounds of Americanism. It was distinctly and pointedly urged that such admission would make for an united industry to back the President and the country in the war for civilization.

This application was denied, the M. P. E. L. of America directors voting as a man, so far as we know, against it. In the writer's presence and at a meeting of the National Association one exponent of the League's interests made the outrageous statement that the League must be upheld at any cost, that the matter of its maintenance and its recognition as the one organization of exhibitors dominated any other issue.

One gentleman present was moved to indignation and asked the speaker if he put the League before patriotism.

We do not believe that the League should be saddled with this speaker's very unfortunate representation; nor continuously burdened with mistakes its executives have made.

Also, Mr. Black, we admire your honest enthusiasm. We used to feel as wholeheartedly as you and other New England exhibitors do now about exhibitor organization—and even about expositions of the industry.

We still believe in exhibitor organization and in one exhibitor organization. We believe as you do that past mistakes should be forgotten in view of the great good to be had from a strong exhibitor organization.

But we have no confidence whatever in the present leadership of the League; and surely you will admit that the best way to restore confidence with those you invite to meet you half way is to agree in advance upon a constitution and by-laws, or even a preliminary platform which will assure a just, efficient and disinterested administration.

Facts Louder Than Speeches

WE believe that two very large misconceptions prevail at Washington with respect to the motion picture; and that the best interests of the government and of the industry will never be secured until these misconceptions are removed.

One—to which we have previously referred—is the alignment of the motion picture with the theatrical business.

The other is a misconception of this industry's earning power and therefore its proper amount of taxation.

For both of these misconceptions the industry alone is to blame. We not only do not supply correct and complete information, but through a mistaken idea of what constitutes good publicity we supply positive misinformation.

As to the true conception of the motion picture we have no doubt but that the congressional mind, like the public mind, views us by the concrete example of our output of dramatic pictures.

The motion picture is an elastic and powerful medium of expression which has been found to be adaptable to the amusement business and is now used largely in this connection.

But it is by no means merely an amusement business and fundamentally—and now very actively—it is a war factor and a civilization factor of tremendous scope and influence.

In this connection we believe it decidedly best that the motion picture and its industry appear at Washington alone and not in conjunction with the theatrical and vaudeville interests. Such an alliance puts the motion picture in a wrong light. It stamps it as strictly amusement.

The motion picture can stand squarely on its own feet. Can not also its industry?

As to taxation the industry's attitude is only this:

The industry wants to pay the government every dollar of war tax it can give without impairing its own strength and therefore its fullest revenue and usefulness to the government.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House is instructed and expected to levy such a tax.

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from preceding page)

Only a complete understanding will make this tax equitable.

Only complete information—on the industry's structure and operations—will make this understanding complete.

Therefore let us deliver information—not speeches—but information, definite and statistical and complete.

No Axe to Use or Grind

NEW ENGLAND Exhibitors may be misled by an editorial statement in another publication to the effect that a representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS "wielded the knife which was supposed to kill the exposition for he made the formal motion for its discontinuance."

With considerable distaste we go out of our way to correct editorials which obviously are not honest and the petty ends of which are of no interest to our readers.

This motion was made by the NEWS representative at the request of the President of the National Association simply to bring the issue to the necessary vote and because no other director of the National Association present evidently had the courage to make such a motion.

Since the point has been raised however and since no one else seems free to come out in the open we go on record again,—as we have repeatedly during the past three years—as being absolutely opposed to expositions in general and to one this year in particular.

By expositions we mean the carnival type thus far held. They are obviously misrepresentative of and discreditable to the motion picture; they have been utter failures, on the face of them, first as to promoting sales within the trade and secondly as to advertising picture brands and technical apparatus to the public. Their financial record has been anything but savory.

There has been one reason only for their promotion and that is to raise money for some association—this desire being vested in the minds of a very few individuals at that.

Not only has this financial result never been accomplished, certainly not to any degree justifying the huge expenditure, but in our opinion no organization in this industry has within it the necessary factors of success, nor will it ever be of any strength and usefulness to its members, if it has to rely for financial support upon the doubtful proceeds of such dubious expositions.

A Good Job Well Done

A SOUTHERN California exhibitor who was in New York last week was warm in his praise to us of the action taken by Mutual Film Corporation in buying advertising space in Los Angeles dailies to combat the recent "anti-movies" campaign in that territory.

Quick action brought the advertisement out at a moment when it was timely; clever copy made its message effective.

We reproduced the advertisement in our last week's issue; now, at the instance of the exhibitor mentioned we take the opportunity to extend our congratulations to James Sheldon and Mutual.

Great Cylinders

EVIDENTLY America is not the only country in which misinformation on the film industry prevails.

It is rumored according to the New York World, that the Board of Trade officials of Great Britain believed films to be great bulky cylinders of materially the same size in which they appeared on the screen; hence their recent action, laying an embargo on American films to save shipping space.

The embargo was modified greatly when the officials were told the film was no larger than spool cotton!

FIRST!

FIRST by a long lead in number of advertising pages more than its nearest competitors carried since January 1—that's Motion Picture News.

First every Friday with many of the important advertising announcements of the producers—that's Motion Picture News.

First in number of pages devoted to real Service to the exhibitor; first in number of advance reviews; first with the COMPLETE news of the WHOLE week.

Reaching the majority of exhibitors early in the week—when they have time to read as compared with the busy week-end.

First in inches of advertising given in other trade papers—and—

Earning more every week.

Getting Together

TO both the exporters' committee headed by Paul Cromelin and Messrs. Halstead and Rowe of the Treasury Department a word of appreciation from the industry is due for the remarkable spirit of cooperation and ability to cooperate that has been evidenced in the conferences of the past few weeks.

The same applies to the representatives of the Committee on Public Information in their dealings with the exporters.

It now appears that the real object of the recent rulings—namely, the dissemination of pictures showing American ideals and aims—will be fully achieved by the voluntary aid of the exporters.

Open Season for Delegates

WE have with us again the season of Exhibitors' State Conventions. As in previous years some are decidely worth while; some are distinguished only by the list of delegates elected to the National Convention.

In other words their usefulness varies directly as politics has the upper or under hand.

That was evidently a good one held in St. Louis last week by the Exhibitors League of Missouri.

Nine addresses on topics of practical and other interest were made. Politics seems not to have called the convention but rather the desire to make it a business help. No doubt these exhibitors arrived home feeling that their time and money had been profitably spent.

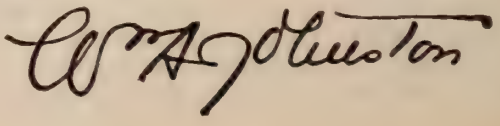
There's a good model for National Conventions in some of these State meetings.

O. Henry at the Rivoli

NEW YORK'S newspaper critics showed a surprising willingness to depart from the stereotyped style of daily review in treating of S. L. Rothapfel's experiment with a diversified program of short subjects at the Rivoli last week.

In particular it is pleasing to note that they accorded the two reel O. Henry subject which shared honors with the exclusive marine picture—treatment similar to that accorded the usual lengthier feature.

We of the industry might expect this as a matter of course. But there has always been doubt expressed as to the general public's willingness to accept anything less than a full evening's entertainment as a "feature." In the reflection of that public's views given by New York's papers there is cause for congratulation to Vitagraph and Manager Rothapfel.



Serving It with Speed and Ginger

Abe and Mawruss are fillum brokers with offices at 729 Seventh avenue—just south of Edgar Lewis's drug store and three feet from the curb.

Says Mawruss:

"Tell it to me, Abe; what is it an Exposition?"

Says Abe:

"AN Exposition? You ask me Mawruss I should tell you in one bunch of words what is it an Exposition? Don't you know it all dependences—it's all in the way it looks at you?

"Some fellers, by example, think its a Society for the Aid and Assistance of Starving Expensive Accounts. By such schnorrers Mawruss we should have it an Exposition every month oder how are they going to get enough money to even up for the Incoming Tax which even the imagination of a fillum salesman couldn't put on the Expensive Account?

"But on the other hands, Mawruss, some fellers say an Exposition is nessential to show the advancement the picture industry has gone ahead in the last year—aber it seems by me that any exhibitor could tell by his fillum rental bills how much advance it has made against him.

"Others say an Exposition, Mawruss, is a good thing to get all the fillum fellers together to talk—instead of like the rest of the year when they do it behind the other feller's back."

* * * *

"But tell it me, Abe," interrupts Mawruss," one feller he tells me there ain't gonna be no Exposition this year. And a cousin of a feller what waits in the Astor tells me he heard Bill Sherrill say he was going to expose greater than ever at the Bosting Exposition.

"What is it—there is and there aint?"

* * * *

"IT'S this way, Mawruss. First the National Assessment of the Picture Industry it gets jealous of the Exhibitor League because every year there's an Exposition and a lot of money is made und a lot more is spended and when it's all over none of the National Assessment members can find the League except when the bookkeeper he says 'Where shall I send the check?'

"Then the National Assessment—I'll bet it that feller Bill Wright will like my pernunciation—then the National Assessment says it will have a private Exposing and the members can pay the money to each other so that maybe sometime one whole week will go by with no assessment and maybe there will be enough left over for the legislative committer to buy a dinner for an assemblyman in Hawyia where y'understand they don't eat nothing but pineapples mit ukelele dressing.

"Right away some feller with good eyesight he finds this here long lost League and they let out an awful holler—yust like you do Mawruss when I sell it an export booking to Hoboken and the feller he cancels your picture to play it.

"Then the National Assessment it compromises by declaring the League the winner and says, 'Shoot the roll! Make it two Expositions!'

"But the salesmen's reports for the first don't look good y' understand, so they postpush it to the second—and the second just when the Boston Leaguers got the 'Welcome' sign ready the National Assessment it pulls away its support. And it's just like a fellow, Mawruss, what says he don't care if he is sued for non-support, cause he'd rather be more scorned than pitied and if it wasn't for the schatchen y'understand he never would have married that girl."

* * * *

"So now the Leaguers are going to give it a party of their own in Bosting?" said Mawruss. "And who will expose there?"

"Half the members of the National Assessment will and half won't," replied Abe, "and if half do the other half will. Aint it simple?

"And now let me alone. I see Joe Lee coming. Maybe he's got a new story what I can use on my customers."

* * * *

ENOUGH said! And enough to bring us to a point where we can register a complaint that if film men would make enough news during the week we wouldn't have to torture Montague Glass' characters into space-filler for this page.

Which would lighten your burdens considerably—unless you were fortunate enough to skip down to this paragraph in the first jump.

But seriously, aside from the Universal-Creel six-round bout the week's news brings little to talk about.

And since the opposing battlers in that scrap have shaken hands before Major Biddle, of the Army Intelligence staff, and agreed to a truce until that gentleman strikes the gong we feel that we cannot do less than await the referee's verdict.

Except, perhaps, to say that there can be no complaint of a lack of action in this scrap. In the words of the sporting page "The men battled toe to toe, each striving desperately for a knockout as the gong rang."

* * * *

Terry Ramsaye is now permanently in our midst. Terry must be working just as hard as we are—for we haven't been able to get over and say "Howdy" to Terry, nor has he—

Well, it's our move, anyway.

* * * *

AMONG the stories you will want to read in this week's issue is an exclusive one reporting conditions in Southern California theatre circles. A slump is on, says our correspondent, and a number of things including hot weather are blamed. Here in the East the delayed heat wave has resulted in conditions exactly opposite.

Then there's the story of how a woman exhibitor put on "The Blue Bird" which is full of suggestions for the live exhibitor.

Among the producers the news includes the fact that Theda Bara's Salome is ready for release, that Mutual will release the new productions of the Gail Kane Company, and that Affiliated has completed its organization. Fred Stone's initial screen vehicle is coming along fast, Pathe has a new serial ready for release, and Vitagraph is making elaborate production plans for the Fall.

Go to it—there's lots that will interest you and signs aplenty that things will be humming soon.

* * * *

Uncle Sam might settle his aeroplane troubles with ease if he could get in touch with the trade paper "Soivice Expoit" who suggests to exhibitors that they get an aeroplane and an aviator to aid in advertising "To Hell With the Kaiser."

Why stop with one aeroplane? This war is a big thing.

Slump Threatened on Coast

Small Town Houses in Southern California and Arizona Suffer—Hot Weather, War and Many Other Alibis

Los Angeles (Special).—Very unsatisfactory business conditions exist among the small town and suburban theatres in southern California and Arizona at the present time, and threaten to reduce the number of "light" houses fully forty per cent in these sections. Two reasons are given for the falling off of business—the exodus of young men to the army, and others to the manufacturing centres and shipyards, and the other is the extremely warm weather which has prevailed throughout the territory for a number of days. Another reason spoken of frequently is that many patrons are investing their savings in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps.

For the past ten days Los Angeles exchanges have been receiving cancellation for service. Charles A. Thompson, of the Electric at Pioche, Nevada, wired "don't ship more film, weather too hot." Charles Grogg, who has three of the six houses in Bakersfield, was in Los Angeles this week, and reported the attendance of his theatres smaller in the past fourteen days than ever before. The Rialto at East Bakersfield, owned by A. Zandlers, has been closed. A. T. Connard has closed his C. & C. and Rex theatres at Taft, and opened an airdome. The Majestic theatre at Calexico and the Star at Fellows have both been closed. Reports from Tombstone, Wilcox and Pearce Arizona, cancels service. Similar reports are coming in from other sections.

This is the first year since the birth of the motion picture theatre business that owners have found it necessary to close in summer. The hot weather, while slightly more oppressive this year, is not wholly the cause of the general business depression, all managers agree.

Howard T. Turner, Metro salesman, upon his return from a two weeks' trip in Arizona, reported the weather to be from 110 to 124 degrees. "The exhibitors," he said, "are very badly discouraged all over the State. Several of them told me 'We can't pay you the price and make any money, and you can't afford to sell to us for less, and make a profit, so it would be best for all of us if we close our theatres during the hot weeks, or until conditions improve.'"

Fox Secures St. Louis Theatre

Takes Over Sole Control of Victoria on Ten-Year Lease—Now Has Twenty-seven Houses in String

WILLIAM FOX has further extended his amusement enterprises by assuming sole control of the Victoria theatre of St. Louis on a ten-year lease. This is the twenty-seventh theatre under Mr. Fox's management, located in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Announcement was made at the Fox offices in New York that a high-class picture policy, with an orchestra of 35 pieces, would be inaugurated at the Victoria on Sunday night, September 1, with John Zanft on behalf of Mr. Fox in charge of preliminary arrangements.

The Victoria has 2,000 seats, located at Delmar and Grand avenues, in the heart of the theatre section of St. Louis, and nearby the New Grand Central theatre, managed by William Sievers.

Fox productions will be shown first-run exclusively at the Victoria. The opening production has not been selected, but it will be a Fox Standard picture. Annette Kellermann in "Queen of the Sea" is a later attraction.

"For some months past my productions have not received a proper and regular first-run showing in St. Louis," said Mr. Fox. "I therefore decided to operate my own theatre in St. Louis. This is a departure from my rule, as I do not intend to extend my chain of theatres, except to such big cities where my pictures are not presented regularly and in a manner that I deem warranted by merit and production quality.

"There are several other big cities of America in which Fox Film Corporation pictures have not been regularly presented and I may announce a few additions to my chain of theatres during the summer."

The Victoria was erected at a cost of $190,000, and it is said to be the most completely equipped fire-proof theatre in St. Louis.

A new stage set, with the screen arranged between Roman columns built under the direction of the Fox scenic staff is said to be one of the most gorgeously magnificent and costly motion picture theatre equipments ever constructed.

IT SHOULD BE FUNNY

What Will the Title Be, "Back to the Mine" or "Poor But Proud"?

ALTHOUGH no reports have been received to date that would infer Charles Chaplin is leading "a dog's life" at his new Los Angeles-Hollywood studio, the following telegram sheds some light on his activities.

Here it is, without comment: Motion Picture News:

Charles Chaplin paid income tax for 1917 on June 15. The amount was Fifty-six thousand dollars. He is now trying to make a comedy.

HE HELPS HIT THE HUN

In and Out of Town

Simeon B. Griever, Griever-Herz, Chicago, is in New York in the interest of the exploitation of Ford Weeklies. During the past year Mr. Griever says that the company turned out fourteen features. The company has offices in Minneapolis, Omaha, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago.

Frank Rembusch, Indianapolis, was in town last week, attending the directors' meeting of the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation.

W. H. Rudolph, special representative and publicity director for Harry I. Garson and Clara Kimball Young, is expected in New York from the Coast about July 7.

Complete Reorganization of "U" Exchanges

Los Angeles (Special).—After a trip over the entire country made for the purpose of reorganizing exchanges, C. H. McGowan, auditor, and G. J. Davidson, assistant auditor, of Universal Film Exchange, Inc., arrived in Los Angeles last week and after three days completed their work and departed for New York.

All exchanges handling Universal, Jewel, Lois Weber, Bluebird, Century Comedies and Lyons & Moran Comedies, will be conducted as one corporation.

This will prove a great saving in many respects, as it does away with the keeping of three or four sets of corporation books, separate billing for the different subjects, etc. The Los Angeles branch, as well as that at San Francisco and Phoenix, Arizona, were formerly known as California Film Exchange. The exchanges at Portland, Seattle, and Spokane were Film Supply Company, while the branches at Salt Lake, Butte and Denver, were conducted under another name.

The reorganization has been concluded without any change in personnel or other shifts affecting exhibitors in their present dealings with any of the former individual units.

Los Angeles Late News by Wire

(Special to Motion Picture News)

Wilfred Lucas has been engaged by Metro to direct May Allison. The first subject will be "The Return of Mary," a comedy-drama.

Carmel Myers of Universal, left for New York June 22 and from there will make a tour of all training camps in the South. Thirty days will be required for the trip around the camps.

Paul Powell, former director for Fine Arts, has been engaged by Universal.

Kenneth Harlan, leading man, has gone to Camp Kearney.

"The Vanity Pool," adapted from the novelette by Nalbro Bartley, has been selected as the next Mary Maclaren photoplay. Ida May Park will direct it.

Newsy Hints of What We Tell You Next Week

[Following are brief flashes culled as we go to press from news stories that you will want to watch for in next week's edition of Motion Picture News, where they will appear at length with complete details.]

Goldwyn is laying great emphasis upon the production quality of its pictures, as is evidenced by the all-star cast to appear with Geraldine Farrar in her first Goldwyn picture. The opera star's initial film for Goldwyn has been put in production at Fort Lee.

Famous Players-Lasky has secured Ella Hall's name to a contract and will present the erstwhile Universal player with Fred Stone in his first Artcraft production, "Under the Top." Unlike features with the words "over" and "top" prominent, "Under the Top" is not a war film—but circus.

A peculiar title has been chosen for the first production to be made by the newly organized Al Jennings company on the coast. The name is "The Lady of the Dugout," and the picture presents Jennings as a star.

Emmy Wehlen will next star for Metro in "His Bonded Wife," a five-act romance with Charles J. Brabin directing. Miss Wehlen is getting back to the screen after a vacation spent in patriotic work.

General Film Company is preparing to treat the exhibitors to what it considers is a film really worth while. Anna Luther is starred in "Her Moment," and it is understood the picture will reach the screen shortly after July 15.

Big V. comedies are to go forward on high speed, says Albert E. Smith, of Vitagraph, and he "ought to know." No let-up in production of these laugh-makers is anticipated—and maybe the exhibitors are to be congratulated.

Pearl White, whose name is synonymous with the best in serials, is expected to return from her vacation immediately following the echoes caused by Fourth of July celebrations. She will then make a new Pathe serial, which is now known as "The Lightning Raider."

That Motion Picture News goes all over the world is not news to anyone, but that it finds its way into the front line trenches may be received as surprising by some. An interesting little story will explain it next week.

Pathe Announces Sales Promotions

Promotions and appointments in the Pathe sales organization were announced last week by that company as follows: F. B. Pickrel has been advanced from the position of salesman in the Kansas City office to manager at Oklahoma City, B. M. Moran becoming manager at Albany F. B. Rogers, manager at Chicago James W. Hill Jr., manager at Dallas, and E. D. Tate, manager at Los Angeles.

Pathe has thirty branches in this country and Sales Manager F. C. Quimby is now making a tour to the Far West and will swing back around the circle, visiting the Southern cities as well.

Welsh Visits Elliott

Assemblyman Clarence F. Welsh, introducer of the motion picture local option bill in the lower branch of the Legislature during the last session, was a visitor at the offices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry on June 20, and attended a meeting of the Allied Motion Picture Committee of the State of New York, which was sponsor for the Sunday motion picture bill, which was passed by the Assembly, under the able leadership of Assemblyman Welsh.

During his stay in the city, Mr. Welsh was the guest of Frederick H. Elliott and met many of the executives of the film companies, as well as the officers of the State and local exhibitor organizations.

Burton Holmes Arrives in London

A cablegram from Burton Holmes, the lecturer and photographer, has been received at his New York office, stating that he and his staff arrived safely in London after a fourteen days' voyage across under American convoy.

Newsy Week Among Buffalo Film Men

Buffalo (Special).—N. I. Filkins, who has been in charge of the local United Theatres, Inc. branch, and who previously to this position was manager of the Pathe branch, has been appointed head of the W. L. Sherry Feature Film Company in Buffalo. Mr. Filkins will open offices here this week.

Eddie Hayes, manager of the Metro exchange, reports business booming in this vicinity. Mr. Hayes is now centering his efforts in placing "The Warrior" in the large houses of western New York.

Carl Pierce, special representative of the Paramount-Artcraft Corporation, was in Buffalo Saturday for a conference with C. Lang Cobb, temporarily in charge of the local Paramount office. Mr. Pierce also called on Harold B. Franklin, manager of the Hippodrome.

Several managers in Buffalo have joined up with the affiliated scheme. Ira M. Mosher, of the Palace, has been elected president of the local organization.

William Hippler, city editor of the Buffalo Commercial, has succeeded Ray Meyers, as press agent for the Victoria theatre. Mr. Meyers has been appointed editor of one of the camp papers in the South.

J. H. Michael, manager of the Academy and Regent theatres, has returned from an extended vacation at Atlantic City, and has jumped into work to formulate plans for the biggest fall season yet at both his houses.

E. C. Winegar, manager of the Central Park theatre, and former manager of the Bluebird department of the Victor Film Company, local Universal agents, has applied for admission to the photography division of the hospital corps.

Harold B. Franklin, manager of Shea's Hippodrome, this week is boosting War Savings Stamps, with a special stage setting, speakers, ladies in charge of a booth in the lobby and members of the local National League for Women's Service soliciting among the patrons at intermission. Mr. Franklin expects to add thousands of dollars to Buffalo's quota during W. S. S. week.

World Branch Managers Visit New York

Three World branch managers dropped in at the World home office last week and looked over the new World Pictures which are scheduled for release within the next few months. These managers were Fred Salinger, Pittsburgh; R. B. Smeltzer, Washington, and C. A. Thompson, Cleveland. All of the three are said to be delighted with the new pictures and they declare that the outlook for business during the summer and fall is exceedingly gratifying. They also report that a number of legitimate houses are going to show pictures because of their inability to secure road attractions on account of the increased railroad fares.

Honor for Goldwyn's Detroit Man

The newly organized Board of Motion Picture Exchange Managers of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce has elected J. E. Flynn, manager of Goldwyn's branch in that city, president.

The new board will hold meetings twice weekly and in addition to exchange problems will endeavor to establish a more cooperative spirit between exchanges and exhibitors.

Mr. Flynn has already appointed a transportation committee which will work in cooperation with John T. McNally, traffic commissioner of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce. H. B. Warner, secretary of the Chamber, will act in a similar capacity for the exchange men's body.

Black Again Appeals for Union

In Open Letter to Secretary Rembusch of A. E. A., President of Maine Theatres, Inc., Declares Only Way Is for Both to Meet in Boston

DECLARING that the only practical way in which to unite the two exhibitors' organizations is for both to hold their conventions in Boston at the same time, and urging that the members of the two associations forget the past entirely. Alfred S. Black, president of the Maine Theatres, Inc., has addressed an open letter to Frank J. Rembusch, secretary of the American Exhibitors' Association, urging the consolidation.

Mr. Black denies that he even knew the content of an article that appeared in a trade paper recently until he had seen it in print, and expressed regret that Secretary Rembusch did not receive a copy of a letter written to Mr. Pettijohn concerning the consolidation and also that a resolution passed by the Amalgamation Committee was not presented to the convention of the Michigan branch of the A. E. A.

"I claimed to you in New York," says Mr. Black, "and I claim now that selfish motives in the various booking propositions and otherwise have had much to do with preventing the amalgamation of the two associations. Much good has come from the other committees that were suggested by the Resolution Committee that met in my room at Washington last December and the fact that we have worked harmoniously on national legislation is conclusive proof, to me at least, that by fair play and honest treatment full benefits of complete amalgamation can be obtained and obtained now at the time of all times when most needed by our country.

"While I have very high respect for Mr. Pettijohn, I do somewhat blame him for not keeping you closely informed as to what took place in the Amalgamation Committee affairs as was understood and I am very sure that had you so understood, you would not have made the erroneous statements that appeared in your published articles in the Motion Picture News of June 8 and the Moving Picture World of June 15.

"The way you suggest of putting facts in writing so as to show good faith is neither practical nor feasible to the writer. There is only one practical way and that is to hold both conventions in Boston, appointing committees of fair-minded men from both associations that have only the best interests of the country and the exhibitors at large and with the Amalgamation Committee work out a plan that is fair to all. Forget the past entirely and show the United States that its motion picture exhibitors have risen to the occasion and as one grand organization are to become the most important factor in existence towards winning the war. We cannot afford delays and meeting after meeting. Let's get together next month and settle things as they should be settled and if your members are as honest and have the best interests of this country at heart, as I believe you have, and as I believe the members of our league have likewise, there will only be one result and that is success."

Goldwyn Branch Managers at Conference

Goldwyn branch managers of the Eastern Division in attendance at the recent conferences, as announced in Motion Picture News last week, were Samuel Eckman, Jr., New York, George A. Hickey, Buffalo; Herbert W. Given, Philadelphia, and M. R. Camp, Boston. George F. Lenehan, the Washington manager, was unable to be present, but sent in his stead Frank Price, Jr., head salesman of the Washington office.

Others present were H. S. Richland, Ellis Cohen, Austin Interrante and V. H. Bendell of the New York exchange; G. A. Woodard, of Buffalo; C. J. Malmquist, M. Alperin and La Motte Levvy, of Boston, and Oscar Bower and D. A. Thompson, of Philadelphia.

"Kaiser" Creates Near Riot in South

Probably the most sensational and unique bit of unexpected publicity ever given a motion picture was the near riot which occurred at the Globe theatre, in New Orleans on a recent Sunday night, during the presentation of "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin." The story which the event "grabbed" was carried under "scare" headlines on the first pages of the newspapers, even running over in some instances to other pages in the paper.

The central figure in the unexpected melodrama was a young German sailor who, the police say, tried to execute a preconceived plan to destroy the film, "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," as it was being projected from the booth of the Globe theatre. The German was seated in the audience, when suddenly he sprang up and brandished a revolver while making his way toward the booth. He commanded the operator to "skiddoo" and then proceeded to smash up the projection machine. This he was successful in doing, according to all reports, but not before he had received an electric shock that knocked him out. Then he was arrested.

The audience missed the rest of the picture.

Rifkin Handles All U. S. Exhibitors

Herman Rifkin of the Eastern Feature Film Company, Inc., announced this week that in the future all U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation releases will be handled through his office. It is understood this applies to all future releases.

"The Crucible of Life," the first of the list, is said to be starting off very nicely. Mr. Rifkin has also purchased "Nine-tenths of the Law," "The Devil's Playground," "Life or Honor," "Today" and "The Mad Lover."

Distributors Name Directors in N. A. M. P. I.

Two important branches of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry held their annual meetings last week, when directors were nominated, who are to be elected at the annual meeting of the organization in Boston, Mass., on July 19.

At the meting of the Distributors' Division, held on Thursday afternoon, presided over by Chairman Walter W. Irwin, the following nominations were made for representation on the Board of Directors of the National Association:

Walter W. Irwin, Greater Vitagraph Co.
W. R. Sheehan, Fox Film Corporation.
Arthur S. Friend, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation (Paramount and Artcraft Pictures).
R. A. Rowland, Metro Pictures Corp.
P. A. Powers, Universal Mfg. Co.
Ricord Gradwell, World Film Corp.
Paul Brunet, Pathe Exchange, Inc.

This board of seven directors comprises the same names as the present board with the exception of Mr. Paul Brunet, who succeeds Mr. J. A. Berst.

"Following the Flag" at Lexington

"Following the Flag to France," under the auspices of the United States Government, was presented by the Liberty Film Committee, in co-operation with the Committee on Public Information, at the Lexington Opera House, New York, on the evening of June 24 to a packed and enthusiastically patriotic audience. The proceeds of the presentation were devoted to the American Army, American Navy and allied war relief. In addition to the pictures, which were taken "over there," the French Army band made its farewell American appearance in concert for the present. Noted singers also contributed their services.

College Uses Universal Film Features

B. L. Steele, professor of physics, Washington State College, Pullman, Washington, visited the Universal Exchange in Portland last week to arrange for features to use for the entertainment of the soldiers who will be sent to Pullman for special instruction in the near future.

The course at Pullman began June 15 and about 1,500 soldiers were enrolled for special instruction during the summer.

Professor Steele paid especial attention to war features in the Current Events, Animated Weekly, etc., and to special features such as "The Man Without a Country," "The Kaiser" and similar productions.

Fox Releases "Les Miserables" as a Special

Announcement from the Fox Film Corporation is that "Les Miserables," in which William Farnum scored a success which the picture was shown in the Lyric theatre, New York, will be released to exhibitors on August 12.

"Les Miserables," it is declared in the announcement, will be a special release and will be sold on an independent basis.

Truce in the Universal-Creel Row

Army Intelligence Staff Steps in After Attempted Showing of "Yanks Are Coming" Starts Merry Row with R. H. Cochrane and Creel Men Exchanging Charges

STEPPING into the breach late last Monday after a row between the Universal Film Manufacturing Company and the Committee on Public Information had reached a merry stage, Major Nicholas Biddle of the Army Intelligence Staff manoeuvred a truce which remained unbroken up till Thursday night.

Meanwhile the cause of the row, the feature "The Yanks Are Coming," is said to be in Washington, and it is rumored it will probably be shown to members of Congress and possibly the President any day. Its showing to the public at the Broadway theatre, called off last Sunday night through the efforts of the Creel Committee, has evidently been definitely postponed, as "To Hell With the Kaiser," a Screen Classics special, is advertised to open there Sunday.

Much Action Sunday

The first shot of the battle was fired when James Sheen, of Stanchfield and Levy, attorneys for the Universal Company, appeared on the stage of the Broadway theatre Sunday night after the showing of a Universal Weekly to announce that "The Yanks Are Coming" would not be shown, due to the pressure brought to bear by the Creel Committee on the Wright-Dayton Company.

Action followed thick and fast. Mr. Sheen read from a statement by R. A. Cochrane, vice-president of the Universal Company, which later received front page space in all the New York dailies. The statement, printed in full below, reviewed the history of the making of the picture and then went on to place the blame for the ban on Hearst influence in the Committee on Public Information, due to the number of former employees of that publisher in the Creel forces.

Aside from the drawing in of the Hearst incident the Cochrane statement tended to show that the aeroplane picture had been made for the Wright-Dayton Company with the full co-operation of Signal Corps officials and had been approved for exhibition by that branch of the Army. It was declared that while a representative of the Creel Committee saw the picture and said that it could not be shown, the Universal had been unable to induce Mr. Creel to view the picture himself.

C. R. Byoir, of the Committee on Public Information, stated that body's position in the Monday papers, declaring that the picture had been made without government permission and that it could not be passed by the committee because it divulged important military secrets.

On Monday forenoon both Charles Hart, chairman of the Film Division of the Committee on Public Information, and R. H. Cochrane gave audiences to trade paper representatives to outline the two sides of the controversy.

Mr. Hart, after declaring that the Division of Films had no part in the controversy, said that "The Yanks Are Coming" had been produced without a permit from the Committee on Public Information by the industrial department of Universal for the Wright-Dayton Company. The intention, according to Mr. Hart and Mr. Byoir, was to show the picture to the House of Representatives and Senate and to use it in the Wright-Martin plants. At the completion of the picture, they declared, the Universal Company saw its possibilities as a feature for general distribution and it was then shown to the committee, which refused the necessary permission.

Mr. Hart scouted the introduction of Hearst's name into the squabble, declaring that only two on the list given by Mr. Cochrane have anything to do with the censoring of films for the committee. Of the others Mr. Hart said:

"Mr. Hatrick and Mr. Hubbell are now in France and have been since they went over with Secretary Baker. Mr. Hatrick came to us from the film division of the Red Cross. Hoagland and Van Arsdale sailed for France last Wednesday to take charge of the film distribution work for the Committee on Public Information in France and England. Lew Simons was an independent camera man. He is now on the road for the Committee on Public Information. G. A. Smith was drafted five weeks ago and is now at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C.

"Mr. Berst is a distribution expert, formerly of the Hearst-Pathe Company, now in charge of distribution work for the Committee.

"R. L. Hall is not on the Committee on Public Information at all, but is editor of the Mutual Film Company's weekly pictorial review. Donohue I don't know anything about."

Following the session at Hart's office Mr. Cochrane outlined his position to the trade papers. He declared that the Signal Corps had given the necessary permits for the making of the picture and had entered enthusiastically into every stage of its production.

When completed, Mr. Cochrane stated, the picture was shown for censorship to Captain Burkhard of the Signal Corps, who, during the showing, suggested certain deletions which the Universal made.

At this point a real clash comes. The Creel Committee declares that the picture should have been shown again after cutting to Captain Burkhard, who, if he approved it, would then put the question of exhibition up to the committee. Mr. Cochrane states that the picture was not shown a second time because the company found it impossible to get a written list of the cuts from the committee, and that they were made from memory by a Universal man viewing the film with Captain Burkhard.

Mr. Cochrane gave the impression that the showing of the picture had been called off only to eliminate the possibility of endangering the relations of the Wright-Dayton Company with the Government. He declared that aside from the aviation picture the Creel Committee had frequently shown an antagonistic attitude toward the Universal Company.

More and More Statements

George Creel broke into the Tuesday morning dailies with a statement that he was personally responsible for any action taken by his committee regarding the aeroplane production. Secretary Baker came to the front with a statement that he was "perfectly in sympathy with anything Mr. Creel does." While W. R. Hearst made public a letter to Carl Laemmle showing that, far from desiring to influence the Creel Committee through placing former employees there, he had strongly protested in the past to Mr. Creel at that gentleman's habit of drafting his men into Government service. Incidentally the letter gave a strong boost to Charles Hart, the Hearst protest to Creel declaring that his loss was one "that I do not know how to repair."

It was following a session late Monday afternoon between Major Biddle of the Army Intelligence Bureau, R. H. Cochrane and C. R. Byoir that a truce was declared, both antagonists smilingly telling the reporters that all further developments were in the hands of Major Biddle.

Mr. Paul Brunet of the Pathe Exchange, on Tuesday morning issued a statement given below, pointing out that there is no such corporation, partnership or association as the Hearst-Pathe Weekly, Hearst-Pathe Company, or so on.

Mr. Brunet stated that Pathe Exchange, Inc., which controls the Pathe motion picture interests in America, is a corporation incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, with the following directors: Mr. Charles Pathe, Mr. Leon Madieu, Mr. Hadley Smith, Mr. Paul Brunet, Mr. Ferdinand Zecca, Mr. Edmund C. Lynch, Mr. Paul Bayne, Mr. Paul Fuller, Jr., and Mr. Ramirez Torres, the last six being residents of the United States of America, and that its only connection with Mr. William Randolph Hearst is to release the news items

(Continued on page 62)

A STATEMENT

THE following statement was issued June 26 from the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, of which George Creel is chairman:

An impression prevails that the Government is not supplying any War film to be used in the News Weeklies issued by the motion picture companies, due to the release of the Allies' Official War Review.

Mr. Charles S. Hart, Director, states that the Division of Films is supplying material to the News Weeklies regularly. The Allies' Official War Review is an entirely separate release, issued weekly by the Division and distributed through Pathe.

Ohio Houses Fight Sunday Law

Representative Exhibitors Asked to Meet June 26 in Columbus to Consider Matter of Introducing New Legislation

THE Sunday closing proposition is a very live one in Ohio, following the decision recently handed down in Columbus, refusing permision to take a trial case up before the Supreme Court. The case in hand was the Wadsworth case. It concerned William Stamden, of Wadsworth, O., whose house was closed up on Sunday about a year ago. Stamden fought the city and got the case into the Court of Appeals, and there Judge Leighly handed down the decision that Sunday motion picture shows were unlawful. This decision acted as a tonic to the cranks and reformers all around the State, and they promptly took advantage of the situation to close up the Sunday theatres in Findlay, Tiffin, Fostoria and Lima. Before it could reach out any further, Fred Desberg, of the law firm of Strong, Desberg, Bernstein and Mooney, one of the owners of the Mall and Alhambra theatres, two of the leading first run houses in Cleveland, endeavored to get the Supreme Court to review the decision of the Court of Appeals. That he failed was due to no lethargy on the part of Mr. Desberg. He laid his abstract before Judge Wanamaker, who was acting chief justice in the absence of Chief Justice Nichols, and left Columbus with every hope of getting a hearing on the case. The unfavorable decision was a great surprise to Mr. Desberg, although he later stated that he thought it was the best thing that could happen at this time, because it would open the eyes of every exhibitor in the State to the danger that was in waiting for him, if he did not pitch in and help in changing the present legislation that governs Sunday closing.

The failure to get a hearing on the proposition before the Supreme Court aroused the exhibitors to the extent that a general meeting of all representative exhibitors in the State was called at Columbus, Ohio, for Wednesday, June 26, to be held at the Hotel Deshler. Letters were sent to over a hundred and fifty motion picture men, requesting their presence at this convention. Practically all of them responded, and responded enthusiastically. They were anxious to get together and talk over ways and means of introducing new legislation in regard to Sunday closing. The few who regretted their inability to attend the meeting pledged their support in any measures adopted by the convention.

This meeting was in no way connected with the Exhibitors' League, other than originating with the members of the League, but was placed before every exhibitor in the State as a vital proposition, regardless of affiliations.

"We have no definite plan of procedure to propose," said Henry Lustig, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, and one of the chief movers in the convention idea, "other than to get together and talk over the best ways of financing this proposition. My idea is to divide the State up into districts, and to appoint one exhibitor in each district to be responsible for the other exhibitors in his district, for their support. In that way, we can cover the State thoroughly, without placing undue burden on any one man, or entailing any unnecessary expense. The main thing now, is to get together, decide upon some method of procedure, and then to go about changing the legislation so as to make the showing of motion pictures legal in Ohio."

A. M. P. A. Dinner Expands and Takes New Date

The second annual dinner of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers scheduled for Delmonico's Wednesday, June 26th, reached such proportions late last week that it was decided that the National Association would co-operate and the enlarged affair would be held at the same place on July 22nd.

The management of the affair will be in the hands of a committee representative of all branches of the industry. Among the guests already assured are Former Ambassador James W. Gerard, Edward N. Hurley, Charles M. Schwab, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, George Creel, Frank Wilson, C. H. Foster and Morgan Shuster.

Those present at the meeting of the National Association and Associated Advertisers which decided on the postponement and co-operation on a later affair was J. E. Brulatour, Arthur S. Friend, S. Z. Levine, Lee Ochs, Paul Cromlin, William Sherrill, J. A. Berset, Gale Hess, Pat Owers, Louis Blumenthal and F. A. Elliott of the National Association and Arthur James, John C. Flinn, F. A. Parsons, Paul Gulick and C. W. Barrell of the Associated Advertisers.

Circular Combats Cleveland Propaganda

Exhibitor Heutzenmiller, of the Virginia theatre, 810 East 152nd street, Cleveland, O., followed Mutual's lead in saving the picture theatres from a peculiar form of propaganda by taking the matter straight to the public. Certain influences in the public schools of Cleveland, it is said, have been advocating the purchase of thrift stamps by not attending motion picture theatres.

Instead of advertising in the newspapers, as Mutual did in Los Angeles, Exhibitor Heutzenmiller had a circular printed which he distributed around the neighborhood where his house is located. On the outside of the folder he had, in large print, "Go to the Theatre Over Here and Help The Boys Over There." Then he went on to state that three-quarters of a million dollars was the approximate amount of the tax for a single month paid the U. S. Government, from pennies collected at the motion picture theatres throughout the country. "Remember that every time you go to a picture theatre, you are helping to take care of the Boys Over There, and maintain a greater courage in living Over Here." The other side of the folder was devoted to giving the week's program at the Virginia theatre.

Memorial to Stanley V. Mastbaum Is Dedicated

Many persons prominent in Pennsylvania social and political life, as well as numerous representatives of the photoplay and theatrical worlds, were present at the dedication Sunday, June 23, of the Stanley V. Mastbaum Memorial Building at the Eaglesville (Pa.) Sanitarium.

Hon. Judge Patterson made the presentation address. Others who spoke were Senator Edwin S. Vare, Rabbi Leon M. Emalah, Richard D. Beamish and President Louis Gerstley of the institution. Miss Lillian Herlein sang appropriate solos to the accompaniment of the Stanley theatre orchestra.

It was announced that hereafter every April 1, the birthday anniversary of the late film magnate, would be celebrated at the memorial with appropriate ceremonies. The building is now used as an infirmary for tuberculous patients.

Kashin Manages Broadway

M. Kashin, well known as a theatre manager and lobby display expert, has taken over the active management of the Broadway theatre, New York.

"Outwitting the Hun" Booked at Strand

"Outwitting the Hun," a novelty patriotic picture, imported from Italy by Harry Raver, has been booked for a week's run at the Strand theatre for the week of June 30, Mr. Raver announces. The picture runs in approximately three-thousand feet and was produced at the Italafilm, Turin, Italy. The characters are presented by hundreds of puppets, resembling officers and soldiers, depicting a dream had by a little patriot.

Ladies Prepare for Boston "Expo"

As a get-together gathering for the Ladies Reception Committee of the coming Boston Exposition, Mrs. Frank Howard, wife of the president of the Atlas Film Corporation and chairman of the committee, last week held a reception at the Atlas studio. The Film Club, of Boston, took part while Mayor Thompson, of Lowell, was guest of honor. Leon Dadmun, vice-president of the Atlas, threw the studio doors open to the visitors.

Louis Waldman, of General, Drowned

While undertaking to swim from an Albany boat to the shore Louis Waldman, for many years in the employ of General Film at various exchanges, was seized with an attack of cramps and drowned. Waldman was twenty-four years old and most recently booker at the Albany exchange.

Parsons Comes East to Produce Two Capitols

"Smiling Bill" Parsons, star of Capitol Comedies, and Billie Rhodes, who has completed her contract with another producer and become the comedian's leading woman for all of his future pictures, will arrive in New York, Friday of this week (June 28.) Before returning to his own studios in Hollywood, Cal., the comedian will produce two or three comedies in the East, possibly at the Goldwyn Studios in Fort Lee.

Parsons has completed twelve comedies for Goldwyn release at his California studio. "Dad's Knockout," the sixth one, is on this week's bill at the Strand theatre, New York City.

Woodward, of National, Arrested

The latest step in the troubles of the National Film Corporation, of Denver, came last week with the arrest of the recently deposed president, O. D. Woodward, on an information charging him with larceny of $15,000 of the capital stock of the concern. He was immediately released in $5,000 bail.

The charge against Woodward was brought following his alleged refusal to return stock he is claimed to have taken as advance salary during his term as president. Woodward lays the blame for his trouble to the enmity of three members of the Board of Directors and claims that the stockholders are not back of the action.

It should be made clear that this "National" has no connection with the "National" which made the successful feature, "Tarzan of the Apes."

Changes in Export Rulings

As a result of efforts of the exporters' committee headed by Paul Cromelin, of Inter-ocean, the following changes have been made in the censorship rules of the Custom House applying to films for export:

Until further instructions films need not be censored for export to Canada.

It will not be necessary to submit each print of a picture for censorship, but the Customs House will view the first print, and hereafter from each shipment only the number of prints deemed necessary by the Collector for the purpose of seeing that changes ordered have been made.

Prints in transit when the original order of the Customs House regarding them was issued and for a time held up have been released.

September 1 Date for First Hayakawa-Mutual

September 1st is announced as the date for the release of the first Hayakawa production through the offices of the Mutual Film Corporation.

"His Birthright" and "The Temple of Dusk" are two of the new productions which will be completed far in advance of the date set for release. Complete selling plans have been made and elaborate advertising aids are being prepared.

St. Louis Makes Eyes at Next Convention

St. Louis exhibitors, it became known this week, are going to attend the Boston convention in July with the avowed purpose of securing the 1919 convention for the Mound City. The Missouri metropolis has long had a good reputation in this line, and the exhibitors are determined to maintain it. All this was decided at the recent annual convention of the M. P. E. L. of Missouri in St. Louis, at which President Mogler presided. Twenty-five delegates responded to the roll call on the opening day, and in addition there were present over a score of visitors from out of town who are not members.

President Mogler was re-elected, and the following officers were chosen: Edward Pohlman, vice-president; Fred Wehernberg, treasurer; Lewis V. Stephens, secretary, and Thomas Lavin, sergeant-at-arms.

At the meeting a number of short talks on the motion picture exhibitor of today were made. President Mogler spoke on the motion picture as an educator. William Sievers of the New Grand Central, spoke on projection and the care the exhibitor should take on presenting the picture in the proper way. Lewis V. Stephens took as his subject, "Your patrons are your best censors," contending that the theatre is judged by the class of pictures shown. George W. Meyers' theme was "Courteous Treatment" and "The Care of Your Patrons." Thomas Lavin told what he knew of illumination. Ed Pohlman gave his experience in advertising, and the results. John Gentner spoke on what the exhibitor is doing to help win the war. Fred Wehernberg's topic, "Ventilation," was very enlightening. Hector Pasmezolgu told of what the Exhibitors' League is doing for the uplift of the industry.

Wrong Scene Causes Trouble in "Tempered Steel"

Too late to make a change in the review of "Tempered Steel" by Peter Milne, appearing on another page of this issue, we received the following letter from Bert Ennis, director of publicity for the Petrova concern:

"In the showing of 'Tempered Steel' there is a scene where one of the characters lies dead upon the floor and the moonlight is streaming over his face. Strange to say the lips of the dead man are plainly noticed to move.

"Might I explain that this apparent discrepancy is caused through the use of the wrong piece of negative at the laboratories and I would, therefore, ask of you to kindly explain this to your reviewers when they criticize 'Tempered Steel,' in order that this scene in the picture might not be singled out for criticism."

Zecca Visits Pathe Works

Ferdinand Zecca, manager of productions of Pathe Exchange, Inc., left New York for the West Coast June 22. He will visit the studios making pictures released by Pathe while in California.

North Carolina Convention Set for July 9

The annual convention of the North Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors' League will convene at the Wilmington Hotel, Wilmington, North Carolina, July 9, for a two-day session, the call having been sent out by Secretary Varner the past week, changing the date from July 13.

It had been planned to hold the convention at Wrightsville Beach, ten miles from Wilmington, but inability to obtain hotel accommodations for the entire convention made a change in plans necessary.

The session will be a strictly business one, and important matters to be considered will be the reports of the taxation committees with recommendations and the report of the legislative committee. Secretary Henry B. Varner, who is again active at Washington in behalf of the exhibitors, will also make an interesting report to the convention. The North Carolina League will not be represented at the National Convention in Boston.

Connecticut Forms Exhibitors' League

At a meeting held at Mainster's Cafe, New Haven, Conn., on June 19, a State organization of Connecticut of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America was organized.

Officers are as follows: W. E. Spragg, president; George LeWitt, vice-president; Mr. Saperstein, treasurer; C. J. Kazangian, secretary. The executive committee includes M. A. Henue, Joseph Cohn and A. J. Morrison. Delegates appointed to the convention to be held in Boston in July are W. E. Spragg, A. J. Morrison, A. Hoffman, George LeWitt, Mr. Saperstein, Mr. Laeighton and M. A. Henue. Alternates of these are Richard Miller, Jesse Lund, Peter Dore, Messrs. Martin, Luippold, H. Engel and J. Cohn.

Probably Rescind "1 in 5" Educational Rule

Conferences in Washington, Thursday, between representatives of the film exporters and the Committee on Public Information are expected to result in the rescinding of the recent drastic ruling that one reel of educational film was to be included in every five reels exported.

When the rule was announced two weeks ago protests showing its inpracticability resulted in suspending the enforcing of the rule pending further conferences.

Sol Berman, Universal, Dies

Sol Berman, former manager of Jewel Productions in the New York territory and a brother of Harry Berman, general sales manager of Jewel, died on Wednesday, June 26th, following an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Berman was among the most popular of the Universal forces and his loss is keenly felt by his associates at 1600 Broadway.

Fifty-four Names on Mutual's Honor Roll

The Roll of Honor of employees of Mutual Film Corporation who have answered the call of their country, and who are now at the front or preparing to go to the front, now numbers fifty-four.

NAME	SERVICE	MUTUAL BRANCH AT
Samuel Levine	Infantry	Boston
Isador Wartikowsky	"	Buffalo
P. A. Schmidt	"	Cincinnati
F. A. Tomes	"	Dallas
Richard O. Battles	Ambulance	Denver
Ellis Merkley	Infantry	Chicago
Roger McCullough	"	Chicago
Herman Cislak	"	Chicago
John Dromey	War Dept.	Chicago
L. A. Anger	Infantry	Indianapolis
Rudolph M. Freuler	"	Milwaukee
E. H. Gilley	"	Milwaukee
Floyd H. Vogt	"	New York
Herbert C. Luce	"	New York
Jack Beam	Cavalry	Oklahoma City
G. E. Beck	Army	Omaha
R. Sampson	Quartermasters	Chicago
Chester A. Olson	Heavy Artillery	Chicago
Omer W. Clark	Infantry	Cincinnati
J. R. Swain	Aviation	Cleveland
W. E. Brennan	Navy	Kansas City
Will Withrop	Infantry	Omaha
Joe Cowan	"	Omaha
Jesse Jessen	"	Omaha
Roy Malcom	"	Omaha
Joseph E. Farrow	Navy	Philadelphia
Maurice Rose	Infantry	Philadelphia
Harry Booth	Artillery	Pittsburgh
Whitney Taylor	"	Pittsburgh
R. C. Lutes	Infantry	Pittsburgh
H. F. Hastings	Artillery	Portland
L. A. Cahill	Infantry	Salt Lake City
Thomas Herbert	"	San Francisco
Jack L. Raper	"	St. Louis
George Line	"	Salt Lake City
Ben Oppenheim	"	New York City
Fred Blandes	"	Detroit
John Briggs	Overseas Forces	Montreal
E. F. Corruthers	"	Vancouver
Charles Wellnitz	Infantry	Milwaukee
C. C. Thompson	Engineers	San Francisco
David Unger	Infantry	New York City
George J. Leibold	"	Washington, D. C.
Jake Freed	"	Cleveland
Oscar Kirschner	"	Chicago
H. A. Wolfgram	"	Milwaukee
W. G. Parsons	"	Kansas City
M. J. Seifert	"	Omaha
Frank Glenberg	"	Cleveland
Bernard J. Payton	Navy	Chicago
J. L. Toner	Infantry	Philadelphia
Roy Wilcox	Navy	Omaha
William Krueger	"	Home Office
J. J. O'Neil	Infantry	Winnipeg

Film Players Volunteer for Oversea Service

Raymond Wells, former Universal and Triangle director, has organized a volunteer troop of players from the film colony who have enlisted in the United States Army for the period of the war and are attached to the Fortieth Division at Camp Kearney near San Diego.

The volunteers will produce a new play each week at Knights of Columbus Hall and go overseas with the division when it moves.

The members include Helen Eddy, Grace Lord Wells, Mirza Marston, Marion Skinner, William Brown, Patrick Calhoon, Francis Powers, Wharton Jones, Dick Carlyle and Fred Hamer.

The Wells unit is the first of the kind. The volunteers enlist just as privates do, but will receive only one dollar a year.

Nathan Goes to Canada

Al Nathan, who has been managing the Broadway theatre, New York, for the past few months, has gone to Montreal, Canada, to asume management of the Hollman theatre. He is succeeded at the Broadway by M. Kashin.

Honor Roll

Motion Picture News' Honor Roll is still growing. Last week this column was full to overflowing, but more are answering the call every day. Among the most recent are the following:

Charles V. Burton, expert cameraman for the Pathe organization in Cleveland, was last week busy making out his enlistment papers. He has answered the call of the Government for cameramen to take pictures in France.

William Hyer, photographer for the International Film Service in Los Angeles, has joined the Signal Service, and is now in New York taking final instructions before going over seas.

Arthur H. Shivers, for two years associated with the Los Angeles office of Motion Picture News, as solicitor, Sunday, June 23rd, reported at Camp Kearny, near San Diego, for army duty, having passed the physical examination. Mr. Shivers' only brother is now on the western front.

Eugene Pallette, for four years a prominent actor of the west coast producing colony, who enlised in the aviation corps last November, has been called and reported at Berkeley, California, during the present week.

Edward L. White, assistant cameraman of the Metro West Coast studios, reported for army duty at Camp Kearny, San Diego, June 23rd.

Carl D. Elinor, composer of the incidental music for "Hearts of The World" and Griffith's coming Artcraft, "The Great Love," answered the draft call going to Camp Kearny June 23rd.

Max Kolke, shipping clerk at Goldwyn Los Angeles exchange, went to Camp to Camp Kearny June 23rd.

Ten members of the Vitagraph distributing organization entered the service of Uncle Sam within the past ten days. Burt King, manager of the branch office at New Orleans, was among them. Others are G. E. O'Brien and J. J. Doherty of the Dallas office; C. H. Zerner, salesman in the New York branch, who formerly covered the Brooklyn territory; Frank Klose, cashier of the St. Louis office; J. E. Beck, assistant branch manager at Cleveland; Martin Niederberger and Harry Pape of the shipping department of the Chicago office; George Meyers, assistant bookkeeper at Chicago, and H. Donald Reyes of the Washington office.

Wallace MacDonald, Triangle player, has come East from the Coast. After a short visit in New York he expects to go to Halifax, N. S., to enlist in the Canadian artillery.

Lionel H. Keene, formerly in Company A, 313th Infantry, Camp Meade, Md., has been transferred to Machine Gun Company, 313th Infantry, Barrack F40, Camp Meade. Private Keene managed the Bijou in Birmingham, Ala.

Rutgers Neilson has resigned from the publicity staff of Metro Pictures Corporation to take an editorial position at the U. S. Army Gas Defense Plant at Long Island City.

A. J. Moeller, resident manager of the Franklin theatre, Saginaw, Mich., has resigned to enlist in the Y. M. C. A. branch of the amusement service overseas.

Maurice Barr, formerly manager of the Strand in New Orleans, joined the National Army forces June 1. He is a member of Company K, 156th Infantry, located at Camp Beauregard, La.

Alexander Adamson, in the poster department of the Cleveland Metro exchange, has joined the colors.

Tobacco Fund Gets More Boosts

That the "Our Boys In France Tobacco Fund" is maintaining a pleasing pace in the ranks of the various benefit funds throughout the country is indicated by the receipts, last week, of twenty additional dollars to be used in the purchase of tobacco for our boys abroad.

Ten dollars of this amount was sent by S. L. Harris, manager of the Olympic theatre in Portsmouth, Va. He stated the money was collected from the Smoke Fund Box.

The other $10 came from the Marine-Hospital Amusement Association, Fort Stanton, N. Mex. In the letter, signed by Charles N. Babbs, was this paragraph: "This fund comes from the officers and employees of the United States Public Health Service and, to a large extent, from patients at this hospital who are suffering from tuberculosis. Every one hopes that the tobacco that this small amount will buy will give good cheer to some soldier who is doing his bit."

World Buys Story for Madge Evans

"The Quest of the Latchstring," by Mrs. Bertha A. Backus, of Providence, R. I., has been purchased by World Pictures as a subject in which to star Madge Evans, it was announced this week.

"The Quest of the Latchstring" is one of a group of stories along a new line which Mrs. Backus expects to write for World Pictures.

General Moves Its Boston Office

General Film Company has announced the removal of its Boston exchange, which is managed by J. D. Levine, from 28 Ferdinand street to 5 Isabella street. Facilities for the handling of its largely increased New England business are gained by General Film in this change.

What Kind of a Fellow Is—Selig?

Being a Glance at the Real Human Side of the Big Men of the Picture Game Caught in Action

By William A. Johnston

WE want you to take more than a cursory glance at the likeness of Col. William N. Selig decorating this page.

We want you to look at it again and again—and then you might do as we are certain to do—frame it.

Why all this flurry about Wm. N. Selig's portrait?

Simply this:

Col. Wm. N. Selig is the least photographed film magnate in the business. We doubt if there are more than two photographic likenesses of Mr. Selig in existence. As a trade paper editor, we marked that day on which we once secured a photograph of Mr. Selig with a broad red pencil on our calendar.

Trade paper "morgues" which can boast of at least half a dozen different poses of some magnates consider it an achievement to be able to know where they can borrow a photograph of Mr. Selig.

His only rival in this respect is that other pioneer of Filmland—Frank J. Marion.

And having lugged that word "pioneer" within this page, we might as well drive home the fact now that Mr. Selig is a real pioneer who has not received half the credit coming to him for his "pioneering."

Mr. Selig, for example, produced the first serial of the type that is now an established screen factor. "The Adventures of Kathleen" surely set the pace, though "What Happened to Mary?" may have shown the way.

Mr. Selig was the first producer to move his producing forces to California, where he found a place in the sun that other manufacturers were quick to follow.

Mr. Selig was among the first of producers to recognize the need of luring well-known writers to the then despised "movies." Can you imagine Harold MacGrath writing a "movie serial" four years ago?

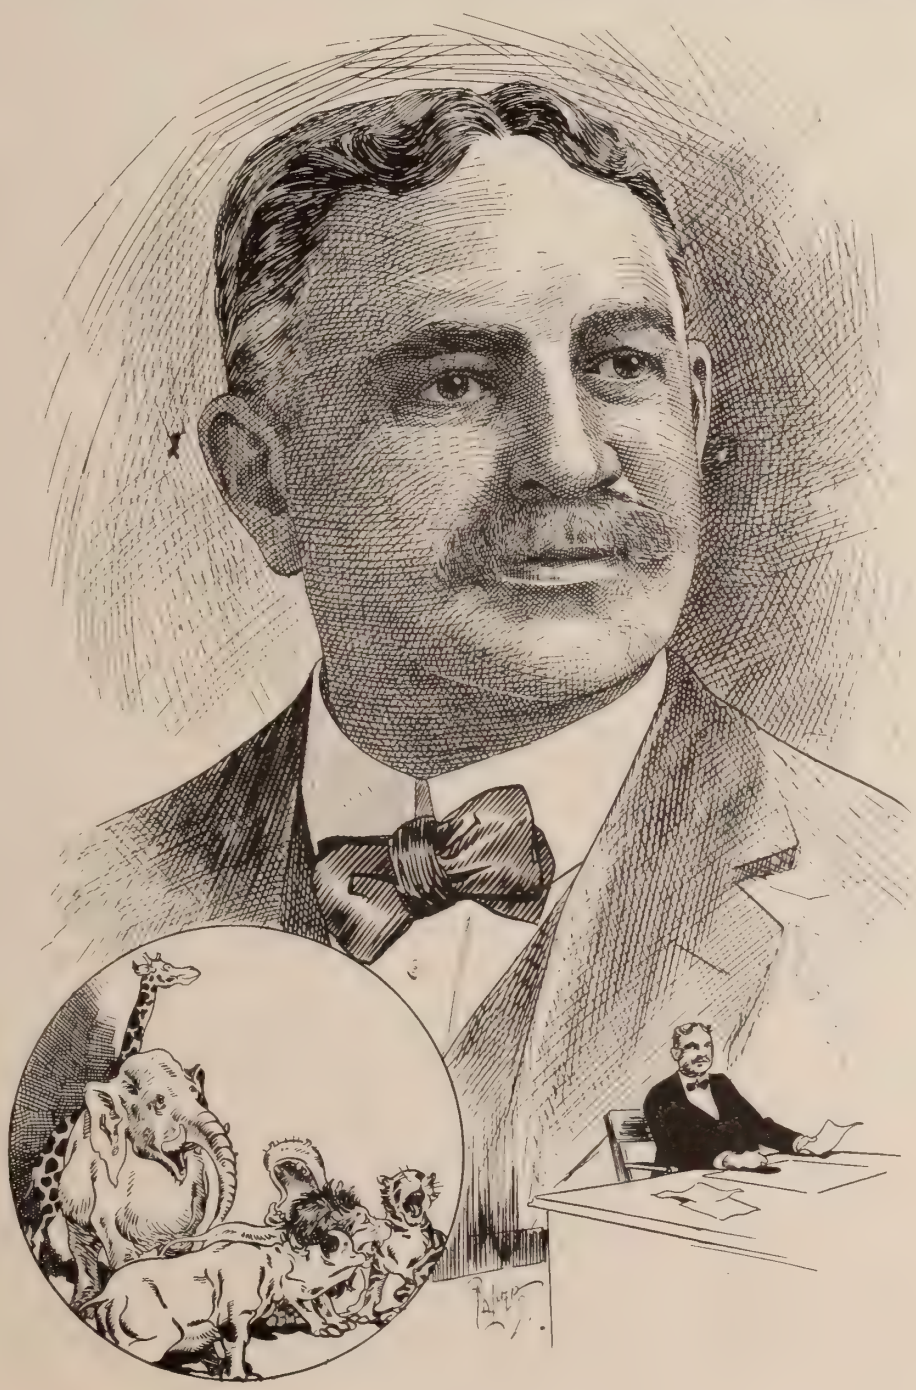
Mr. Selig's "Christopher Columbus" in three thousand feet was a radical step for those days of split-reelers.

All in all, I guess we can be pardoned for the use of a much abused word when we link "pioneer" with the name of William N. Selig.

On the personal side William N. Selig has many qualities that have always caused us to express our admiration for him on the slightest pretext. There is a sincere, wholeheartedness about him—a sincerity that is expressed in his view that "You know, money isn't everything in this life."

The joy he takes in simply living, we are told, was well shown by the wonderful collection of art objects that he gathered about him in his Chicago home.

It is also evident in the pride he used to express in making a new capture for the Selig Zoo, that pride which made his animal collection one of the show places of California.



And it is also shown in another point—which Mr. Selig would probably be the last to mention in search of self-glorification—but which should go on record.

William N. Selig has been making pictures since the days when the possession of a can of film was sufficient to stamp a man a "magnate."

He has probably staged some thousands of different stories—we would like to know the exact total.

Yet—

Never once has Mr. Selig's stamp been on a story that made its appeal on the point of suggestiveness.

Some record.

Something to be proud of!

Never yet has William N. Selig put his world famous Diamond S. on a picture where the initial could be expected to stand for "Suggestive."

A thousand and one stories—a thousand and one different plots—a hundred and one different authors paid—and not one word or cent that hoped to profit by off color tastes.

That's William N. Selig's record.

Truce in Universal-Creel Row

(Continued from page 57)

photographed by International Film Service, a Hearst subsidiary, under a contract entered into over a year before the release of the Official War Review was ever contemplated.

Here Are the "Papers"

The statement issued by R. H. Cochrane on Sunday follows:

"In taking this picture the Universal Company had the aid and assistance of officials of the United States Signal Corps detailed at the (Wright-Dayton) factory. Our photographers and representatives had the tullest co-operation of the company, itself. This company has a contract with the War Department for the manufacture of an enormous number of airplanes. The fact that we have had our men working on the picture for months was well known to officials of the War Department and the Signal Corps. Our only mistake, apparently, was not to discuss the matter before hand with Mr. Creel, and it never occurred to us that a picture of this kind, taken at the request of the company manufacturing airplanes could ever possibly meet his official approval or permission.

"When the completed picture was shown in Washington last week, it received the highest praise from officials of the War Department and ot the Signal Corps. Mr. Creel sent a representative to see it.

"That representative notified us that the Committee on Public Information would not pass the picture. We requested Mr. Creel to see the picture and point out the defects, according to his judgment.

"Then began our negotiations with Mr. Creel and his committee. He refused to view the picture personally, and has never seen it. His representatives who act with him and who are responsible with him for suppressing the picture, are the following: Charles S. Hart, director of the Division of Films, formerly of the Hearst newspapers; Carl Byoir, formerly an editor of Hearst's Magazine; Mr. Sisson, formerly of Hearst's Cosmopolitan Magazine; J. A. Berst, formerly of Hearst's Pathe Weekly; H. C. Hoagland, ot the Hearst-Pathe Weekly; E. B. Hatrick, of Hearst's International Film Service; Mr. Hubbell, of the Hearst-Pathe Weekly; Lew Simons, of the Hearst-Pathe Weekly; R. I. Hall, formerly of the Hearst newspapers; Mr. Donohue, of the Hearst-Pathe Weekly; C. F. Van Arsdale, of the Hearst-Pathe Weekly, and G. A. Smith, of the Hearst-Pathe Weekly.

"These gentlemen, all ex-employes of William R. Hearst, who conducts a film company of his own which seems to enjoy amazing privileges and close relations with the Creel Committee, all decided that our picture should not be shown with their approval. The technical reason given by Mr. Creel were that the picture had been taken without his official permit, and that since he had already refused permission to any other moving picture company to take airship pictures, it would be unfair discrimination to permit us to show our picture.

"He said he would not release the picture unless all other companies had a chance to bid for such rights.

"Answering Mr. Creel's objections that the picture discloses military secrets, we have the word of officials of the Signal Corps that the picture shows nothing not already known to Germany, and that the public ot America have a right to know what is being done; first, about the expenditure of the Liberty bond loan for the production of airplanes; secondly, that the money has been efficiently expended; thirdly, to disprove statements that the Liberty motors, and the airplanes of this country have been failures because of mismanagement; and, lastly, because Congress is now considering an enormous appropriation for the further manufacture of great numbers of airplanes and battleplanes.

"Since no tangible technical reason for suppressing this picture can be advanced by Mr. Creel, we must look for other reasons to explain his strange activity. The predominance of Hearst men on his committee suggests one reason. The Hearst film company is the only one in existence that enjoys special privileges from the Creel Committee. Only last week the Hearst film Company showed the American tanks in action, while other companies—our own included—were denied permission to photograph the tanks or exhibit any films of tanks. Many other instances can be cited where the Hearst-Pathe Company secured exceptional favors.

"When our representatives discussed this matter with Mr. Creel, he stated that he would never approve of its presentation by the Universal Company, and his whole attitude suggested that he was opposed to the Universal as an institution and not necessarily because of this particular picture, which, however, gave him an opportunity to show his displeasure.

"In this connection, it is interesting to note that P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Company, testified before the Ways and Means Committee of the House ten days ago, and while called primarily to discuss questions of taxation, he was questioned at length by Representative Treadwell regarding the activities of the Creel Committee in the matter of films, and his replies, while perfectly honest, were of a character which aroused Mr. Creel's displeasure.

"I firmly believe that Mr. Creel's opposition to this picture is based upon two reasons, both private and personal with him. First, he is peeved at the Universal Company for ignoring him, and also because of Mr. Powers's testimony; secondly, he is so completely under the Hearst control, and so surrounded with Hearst influences, that he will take advantage of his official position to aid Hearst in every way possible in the exploitation of pictures in any way dealing with Government propaganda. In other words, Mr. Hearst practically controls the Creel Committee, so tar as films are concerned.

"If Mr. Hearst can secure control of the screen in this way, he has created for himself the biggest political weapon ever wielded by any one man in the history of the United States. With Hearst control of the screen through the Committee of Public Information Mr. Hearst has more power than he would have if he controlled all of the newspapers in the United States. He would have a bigger daily audience no matter how many of his newspapers were burned every day in hundreds of cities. He could elect his own President, he could elect his own Governor, and could elect his own Czar.

"We have wired Secretary Baker to see if Mr. Creel acted with any authority from him, and we expect to exhibit this picture in Washington this week before Congress."

Mr. Brunet's Statement

Covering the Pathe position in the controversy, Paul Brunet made the following statement:

"It seems to me that the only reason that I can assign for this statement is that the Universal Film Company is disappointed by being unsuccessful in securing the release of the Allies Official War Review and seeking publicity for its own news weekly."

"This is evidenced very strongly by certain remarks made by Mr. Powers of the Universal Film Company, in his interview before the Ways and Means Committee on June 18. In that interview Mr. Powers cleverly insinuated that his company had endeavored to secure the release of the Allies Official War Review and had been prevented from doing so, not because his bid was higher than other competitive bids, but because of some power or control exercised by the Hearst interests and favoritism shown by the Committee on Public Information.

"He stated also that he represented about 96 per cent. of the motion picture industry, that he had been in the business for fifteen years and knew it from every angle. Mr. Powers displays the most remarkable ignorance regarding an organization which is one of the leading ones in the field. In the first place, in reply to Mr. Sloane's inquiry, Mr. Powers stated 'Pathe is a French company.' With Mr. Powers's professed knowledge of the motion picture industry he should know a fact which is known to the public generally; that the Pathe Exchange, Inc., is an American organization and not a French one, and that practically the entire personnel of the organization is American.

"Mr. Powers represented that he did not know why the distribution of the Official War Review had been given to Pathe Exchange, Inc. As a matter of fact the opportunity of jointly distributing the Official War Review was offered to several of the leading film companies, among which was the Universal Film Company. It was only after Universal, among other film companies, had failed to take advantage of the opportunity to release the Official War Review that the distribution of same was offered on competitive bids.

"Mr. Powers stated that he does not know why his company's bid was not accepted. I can suggest several reasons. The fact that the laboratories of the French Pathe Company have been placed at the disposal of the American Government without charge. The fact that Pathe Exchange, Inc., in making its bid did not seek to make any profit out of the release but was willing to distribute the Allies Official War Review at an actual loss for the benefit of Government propaganda.

"I want to emphasize this fact, that the statements attributed to Mr. Powers and Mr. Cochrane of the Universal Manufacturing Company, as printed in the morning papers, to the effect that the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information is composed largely of former 'Hearst-Pathe' employes, are deliberately and maliciously false. Mr. J. A. Berst was formerly vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., and to my certain knowledge has never been connected directly or indirectly with any Hearst organization. The same is true of Mr. H. C. Hoagland, who was formerly head of the scenario department of Pathe Exchange, Inc. The same is also true of Mr. Van Arsdale, who was also connected with the scenario department of Pathe Exchange, Inc. Mr. Lew Simons was formerly employed by Pathe Exchange, Inc., as a cameraman.

"Mr. G. A. Smith was formerly serial publicity manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., and is now in Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C. Mr. Hubbell has never been employed by Pathe Exchange, Inc., in any capacity. Mr. Donohue was employed as a cameraman for Pathe Exchange, Inc., but left us about fifteen months ago.

"Another thing I want to emphasize is that there is no partnership of any kind or character between Pathe Exchange, Inc., and of any of the Hearst interests, and that neither Mr. Hearst nor any of his organizations own or control directly or indirectly, one single share of stock of Pathe Exchange, Inc. This company releases motion picture photoplays for any producer if the merits of the productions come up to the required standard. When we release a picture produced by the Astra Film Corporation, Rolin Film Company, and any others, we put the name of 'Astra' or 'Rolin,' etc., on the film; not necessarily because we want to do so, but because we are under contract to do so. By the same token, we put the name of 'Hearst' on pictures released under our contract with the International Film Service, which photographs the News items shown in the Weekly because the terms of the contract specify that such Weekly shall be known as 'Hearst-Pathe News.'

"I fail to see why the name of Mr. William Randolph Hearst is brought up in connection with the distribution of the Allies Official War Review. Mr. Hearst has no connection, direct, indirect, remote or contingent, with the distribution of the Official War Review awarded to Pathe Exchange, Inc., under competitive bids. Other war pictures, official or unofficial, are distributed by any other film companies which care to secure the privilege of doing so; and the only obligation imposed upon such film companies is to have such pictures first censored by the Committee on Public Information. It is not my purpose to discuss the question as to whether or not the Committee on Public Information discharge its duties as they should be discharged, although Mr. Cochrane has taken upon himself to severely criticize certain members of that committee. We can only assume that the Committee on Public Information has discharged its duties in accordance with the powers delegated to it until it is shown to the contrary."

A further development came Wednesday over the showing by the Hearst-Pathe Weekly of the American tanks at Gettysburg. Universal and other weeklies claimed they had not been allowed to take these pictures. Explanations from the Committee on Public Information and Pathe were that all companies had first been given the permission, that Pathe's pictures were taken and exhibited before the order was revoked, but that it was in time to catch the others. The scenes were immediately recalled from the Hearst-Pathe News when the new order came.

Washburn-Vidor in Artcraft Production

(Special to Motion Picture News)

Los Angeles, Cal.—Bryant Washburn and Florence Vidor have been selected leads for Cecil B. De Mille's last Artcraft production of the year, to be filmed from an original photoplay by Jeanie MacPherson, started this week but as yet unnamed.

Douglas Fairbanks is now finishing "Bound in Morocco," and will next make his stage success, "He Comes Up Smiling," with Alan Dwan directing. Fairbanks is planning to make a thirty-day tour of the country in September or October, producing a rodeo similar to the one staged in Los Angeles and San Francisco for the benefit of the Red Cross. He will require 200 horses and 300 people, traveling in two special trains.

Hampton Gets Hodkinson Franchise

Los Angeles, Cal.—J. D. Hampton has secured a franchise from W. W. Hodkinson for several releases, for which the only star under contract at present is J. Warren Kerrigan, who in April agreed to make two more subjects for Paralta.

New Managers Association Includes "Legit" and Picture Men

At a meeting June 6, in York, Pa., of fifteen of the promoters of the Central Theatre Managers' Association, which includes among others in its membership proprietors of motion picture theatres, and which was organized in Trenton, N. J., on March 27, steps were taken to extend the organization in cities of 200,000 population or less throughout the country.

Nathan Appell, of York, treasurer of the association, said that its main purposes are to afford mutual protection to theatre managers and to serve as a medium of exchange of reports on shows—motion picture, legitimate and vaudeville—among managers in all parts of the United States.

The officers of the Central Theatre Managers' Association, which already has a membership of fifty in medium sized cities of the eastern states, are: President, William D. Fitzgerald, of Allentown, Pa.; Vice-President, Phil Levy; Treasurer, Nathan Appell, York, and Secretary, Charles A. Yecker, Lancaster, Pa.

Rochester to Show New "Minute Films"

"Minute Films," to be used in connection with an accident prevention campaign, have been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of Rochester, N. Y., and will be shown in many moving pictures theatres of the city. They will be pictures illustrating how many accidents occur, and are expected to prove of considerable educational value. The theatres, which have agreed to co-operate to the full extent of their ability in the safety campaign, will receive the benefit of the elaborate advertising that the Chamber of Commerce is planning to launch in connection with the pictures, and in which the public will be urged to attend the picture shows while the special films are on exhibition.

The films have been prepared at the expense of much time and money, and cover nearly every conceivable phase of accident prevention work.

Governor Stevens Appoints Sol Lesser

It has been officially announced that Sol L. Lesser has been appointed by Governor Stevens of California, to act in the capacity of chairman of the Division of Films, State Council of Defense for California.

Its contract with the California State Council having been affirmed, the Committee on Public Information has released its first offering, "Pershing's Crusaders," for distribution in California under the direction of Mr. Lesser.

Bret to Make Personal Appearances

Tom Bret, producer of the Tom Bret Comedies, featuring Jimmy Aubrey, announces that he will make personal appearances at the leading New York motion picture theatres, in the near future.

A TRAGEDY IN ONE ACT

Disappointed Audience Even Misses the Spanking Scene —But Got Its Money Back

THE stage was all set for the grand opening of a new theatre in a South Florida city (which rumor has as Tampa, or thereabouts). The pictures were in, the billing was up, and the necessary crowd for such events was assembled.

The operator had been putting in much work on a pair of machines, which had been purchased slightly worn. Much additional work was also required in other directions, as is usually the case in opening a new house, and the operator was slightly peeved and didn't give a darn who knew it.

The manager gave the starting signal—but no picture came forth. The manager then warmed up a brand new peeve and went "up" to see what the trouble was. The operator said he needed certain things before he could make the projector project. By this time the audience had likewise become peevish, and demonstrated the fact by whistling and raising a general rumpus.

Manager ordered operator out. Latter refused to go. Former picked latter up and laid him across his knees, and a spanking bee was in progress. After the manager had relieved his peeved feelings he picked the operator up by the seat of his Palm Beaches and dropped him outside the booth.

The money was then refunded to the assembled multitude, and the grand opening was declared off.

Kleine Boosts Letter League

Seeks Co-operation of Every Picture Theatre in America — Thinks Movement Will Soon Spread Throughout Nation

GEORGE KLEINE, who controls the patriotic picture, "The Unbeliever," that has been reported instrumental in securing enlistments in the army and Marine Corps, has turned his mind still further toward the success of the war by acting as sponsor for "The Soldiers Letter League." This movement, Mr. Kleine believes, will interest every man, woman and child in America and be a vast aid in the success of the cause for which our boys are fighting.

To a representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS Mr. Kleine said last week: "The success of the battle belongs to the army of the greatest morale—the morale of the army depends upon the morale of the nation—the army and navy are but the arms and the nation is the body—the force of the blow that the arms can deliver is wholly dependent upon the strength and will power of the body. To my mind the most important factor in keeping the courage and spirits of our soldiers at the front up to the highest pitch is the letter from home. As a traveller with frequent absences from home I have known what a great stimulus it has been for the day's work to get my letter from home with all its welcome news. It has put sunshine in the cloudiest days and made great tasks seem light. So it is with almost every other man. Even wars become commonplace in the busy routine of our lives and we are apt to let days slip by between our letters to the soldier boys and create long lapses without realizing it. But they realize it—and there is no despair in the world like the hopeless feeling that your family and friends have forgotten you. So I am starting the 'Soldiers' Letter League' that no one will have opportunity to forget for a minute. I will have the co-operation of every moving picture theatre in America. They will all have slides to be thrown on the screen at the beginning and end of every afternoon and evening performance that will arouse the spectator to his duty to write to the soldiers and to write cheerful letters—we should pack our troubles in our own kit bags. The soldier should have the news that is encouraging and helpful. Every little domestic thing will interest him and news about the kiddies is especially interesting. We should let him know that he is fighting for a concrete purpose and not an abstract principle. He is fighting so that his little brother will not have to do it over again. He is fighting for the protection of his mother and sister and he is fighting for the protection of his native land—for the cause of Justice and Freedom. They are the cause of God—so they cannot and will not lose.

"I shall also have the co-operation of every minister, priest and rabbi in America in the success of the 'Soldiers' Letter League.' Every time their congregations are assembled they will be pledged to ask the members if they have written their letters to the boys and urge them not to overlook it—to look upon the matter as a sacred family duty.

"Requests will be forwarded to every lodge and society in existence here to make the 'Soldiers' Letter League' a part and parcel of their minutes and regular routine with the special request that they send lodge or society letters to the members of their organizations who are at the front.

"Every theatre program on the most important page will bear the message to the 'Soldiers' Letter League' and I think that soon every newspaper in the land will carry the line 'Write to your soldier boy today—cheer him and encourage him' at the head of the editorial column. In fact no avenue will be left untravelled that will lead to the success of the movement. The letter to the soldier will do more toward a quick

Engel Wins Ruling Favoring Films

California State Director Declares Movement of Pacific Coast School Teachers Is Without Official Authorization

AN official ruling that neither the National War Savings Committee or the California branch approves the sporadic movement started by teachers on the Pacific Coast to stay away from motion pictures has been obtained through the action of Joseph Engel, treasurer of the Metro Pictures Corporation.

While indignation meetings were held in Los Angeles and other coast cities by producers, exhibitors, exchange men and others denouncing the movement as unauthorized, Mr. Engel thought it best to go to the headquarters for the ruling, inasmuch as several of the teachers who were leading in the movement stated that they had construed the ruling of California State Director G. A. Davidson to support their movement.

So Mr. Engel addressed a letter to Director Davidson, opening with the announcement that the Metro Studio War Savings Society had been organized with a hundred per cent. membership two days after having received a letter from Mr. Davidson giving instructions how to organize. Then he recited that facts he had gathered as an official of Metro leads him to estimate that the producers, distributors and exhibitors of motion pictures will pay into the United States treasury during 1918 not less than $200,000,000 in taxes.

Mr. Engel pointed out that this was in direct taxes, and not taking into consideration purchases of Liberty Bonds, subscriptions to the Red Cross, war saving samps, etc., which, added to the tax total would swell the figures to well above $1,000,000,000. In closing his letter Mr. Engel said:

"Surely an industry so whole-heartedly American, so enthusiastically minded to help win the war, so capable of preaching the President's gospel of democracy and anti-Prussianism—certainly such a business, the pleasure of the people and for the people, should not be further hampered by asking children and their parents to abstain from supporting it."

In reply to Mr. Engel's letter the following official statement of the National and California State War Savings Committees' attitude and intentions was written by Perry W. Weidner, assistant state director for California, and Mr. Engel was authorized to give this official statement to the entire motion picture industry. Mr. Weidner's letter is, in part, as follows:

June 18, 1918.

Mr. Joseph W. Engel,
Treasurer, Metro Pictures Corporation,
1025 Lillian Way, Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Sir:

We greatly appreciate the information contained in your favor of the 14th inst., and while we knew that the tax burdens upon all sources of your industry ran well up into seven figures, yet we did not realize that it reaches nine figures.

From several sources we have been advised that some people are telling the people, especially children, to avoid motion picture theatres as a plan to save money with which to purchase War Savings Stamps. Such a movement is unauthorized either by the National or State War Savings Committee.

With best wishes for the success of your work, we remain,

Very sincerely yours,

G. A. DAVIDSON,
State Director.

By (Signed) PERRY W. WEIDNER,
Assistant State Director.

Ceiling Pictures Latest for Hospitals

Ira M. Lowry's patriotic drama of the war, "For the Freedom of the World," distributed by Goldwyn, received its most unique presentation last week when, by means of portable projection machines, it was shown on the ceiling of the convalescent hospital at Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I. Several hundred wounded and disabled soldiers unable even to sit up in bed lay on their backs and watched the picture.

The showing of the screen drama in the section of the hospital reserved for serious cases followed its presentation in the amusement hall, where more than 2,000 soldiers cheered the story of the American who enlisted with the Canadians to fight the great fight for democracy because his own country had not yet gone to war.

Endert with Universal

George Endert, one of the most popular exchange men in the Northwest, became manager of the Seattle offices of the Universal Film Exchanges on June 15, succeeding J. R. Meldrum, resigned. Mr. Endert was formerly manager for Pathe and Paramount in that territory. He resigned from the latter organization to come to Universal.

Parker Directs Swanson for Triangle

Albert Parker, late director for Pathe, arrived in Los Angeles June 25 to direct for Triangle. Gloria Swanson, recently put under contract, will be starred in Parker's first picture. Mr. Parker is the third director added under the present management of the organization.

William C. Dowlan began filming a new subject a few days ago. Olive Thomas, Triangle star, left Wednesday for New York to spend a month with her husband, Jack Pickford of the Navy.

Actor in "Unbeliever" Wounded in France

At least one of the United States marines who played a part in the production of "The Unbeliever" appears on the casualty lists from the battlefields in France. He is reported as severely wounded. This is Sergeant M. Gill, who proved himself a convincing actor in the role of the Bible reading sharpshooter during the trench scene of the George Kleine patriotic film. Sergeant Gill was one of a number of veteran members of the marine corps who appeared in this production, several commissioned officers also having distinct roles.

Defense Society to Show Goldwyn Film

Significant endorsement of Goldwyn's patriotic comedy-drama, "Joan of Plattsburg," as a worth-while contribution to screen literature in which the great war is used as a background has come from the American Defense Society through the Women's National Committee of that organization. It has been listed with the select group of patriotic films which are to be shown throughout the United States in the next few months under the auspices of the committee.

Porter Emerson Browne, the author of this Mabel Normand starring vehicle, has characterized it as "propaganda with a sugar coating." As such it teaches its lesson—that the bulwark of a nation's strength is the faith and courage of its womanhood—without being tiresome, as so many similar things are, and with an interest heightened through the novel handling of a theme new to the cinema.

"Joan of Plattsburg" will be shown throughout the country under the auspices of the various local chapters of the American Defense Society.

"My Lady Nicotine" Aids Smoke Fund

"My Lady Nicotine," a Strand comedy released by Mutual, which deals with the sending of "smokes" to our soldiers at the front is now working for "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund" as the result of an arrangement made between D. J. Sillivan, assistant general manager of Mutual, and Bert Ennis, director of publicity for the fund.

Mutual branch managers will supply exhibitors with subscription blanks, poster and other advertising to be used in connection iwth the showing of "My Lady Nicotine," and already the response from the exhibitors is reported highly satisfactory.

In addition to this various branch offices of Mutual have made contributions to the fund. Up-to-date the fund has been responsible for the shipment of 850,000 kits of smokes abroad and there is still in the treasury $336,000 for the continuation of this work.

Volume of Letters for World Salesman

John E. Childs, formerly a salesman for World Pictures working out of the Buffalo branch office, will never have any cause to complain about the people at home not remembering him with letters. As a testimonial to Mr. Childs, the exhibitors in his territory have all written him letters and these letters have been gathered into a bound volume by the Buffalo office. This volume will be forwarded to Mr. Childs when more letters from New York friends and well-wishes are added, and the initial volume, it is expected, will be followed by others. The testimonial is undoubtedly one of the most unique tokens of esteem ever accorded a film salesman.

Mr. Childs is a sergeant in Company E, 308th Regiment, American Expeditionary Forces, now in France.

EXHIBITOR TO EXHIBITOR REVIEW SERVICE

[These reviews, by P. S. Harrison, are based solely on the entertaining qualities of the picture. All other factors are considered of secondary importance.]

"Sandy"

Jack Pickford in a Pleasing Light Drama

(Paramount—July 1st. Directed by George Melford)

YOUR patrons will like this picture, although they may not go wild over it. It is a pleasing little offering in spite of some inconsistencies in it.

"Sandy" was written by Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Lovey Mary," "Mr. Opp," and several others.

It tells of a lad with a Scotch name, but with Irish blood, who had decided to beat his way to America.

On the liner he was befriended by a young girl from Kentucky, who paid his passage. He followed her to that State.

Although her dissipating brother caused her much unhappiness, chiefly on account of a murder he committed, the young lad, by his love, brought much happiness into her life.

It is a clean picture, and will leave a happy taste.

"Tempered Steel"

"With One Exception the Best Petrova Yet," Says Harrison

(First National. Directed by Ralph Ince)

WITH the exception of "The Law of the Land" this is about the best Petrova picture ever released. It is a strong melodrama which will hold attention to the end.

The story depicts Lucille Caruthers, daughter of a Southern gentleman, who did not believe like her ancestors that "the place of woman is in the home," so she decided to assert her rights.

She became an actress, gaining great fame in time. Her teacher, a great actor, fell in love with her.

Crazed by drink and jealousy he attempted to disfigure her with vitriol.

Just as she fired a revolver, intending to kill him in self-defense, he was struck by a bolt of lightning which killed him.

Eventually she returned to the old home as the wife of a childhood friend.

The ending is somewhat gruesome. The dead body is shown entirely too many times. This is not pleasant. Most of it could be eliminated.

"Tangled Lives"

Harry Morey in James Oliver Curwood's Melodramatic Story

(Vitagraph—July 1. Directed by Paul Scardon)

THIS is an interesting and well produced melodrama that ought to take well with most audiences.

The story which was written by James Oliver Curwood, the famous author, is based more or less on marital troubles.

An old man, who had married a young girl, commits suicide because he discovered his wife making love to the unwilling hero with whom she was infatuated.

The widow informs the hero that his wife is unduly friendly with a millionaire bachelor. He attempts to kill the bachelor but fails.

The wife gets a divorce and marries the millionaire while her former husband spends several months in jail for the attempt to murder.

During a thunderstorm a bolt of ilightning strikes the house and kills the millionaire while it blinds for life the newly made wife.

Eventually the hero released from jail, marries a young lady whom he saved some time ago from some street assailants after a fire in which she lost everything and whom he had placed in the care of an old scientist friend.

The direction is intelligent; the interior settings are lavish. The gowns worn by the ladies are very beautiful and will no doubt attract the ladies.

In spite of the happy ending the feeling this picture will give you will be somewhat unhappy therefore it will be a good idea for you to add a good slapstick comedy to the program.

"The Kid Is Clever"

George Walsh, the Marines and the American Flag Share Honors

(Fox—June 30. Directed by Paul Powell)

WALSH followers will no doubt derive much fun out of this offering. As to other picture-goers, however, it will all depend on whether they are critical or not.

They might think the star's personality alone is not sufficient to make them consider this more than an acceptable entertainment.

In the construction of the story no regard was given to its probability. It was simply made to fit Mr. Walsh's particular talents.

The first reel undertakes to show to the audience in a matter of fact way that all is not rosy with an actor. The other four reels show the main story.

It tells of a fictitious South American Republic, and how our hero, as is always the case in pictures, got the best of the natives.

The U. S. Marines come to the rescue, as usual, with a liberal display of the American flag.

"Good Night, Nurse"

Roscoe Arbuckle's Latest Not Entirely Pleasant

(Paramount—July 8. Two Reels)

I AM afraid this latest Arbuckle comedy will not prove as pleasing as some of the other ones he has produced lately.

The story is based on how the hero was cured of the drinking habit.

Although only a comedy and which no doubt will have an appeal to a great many audiences, I have serious doubts as to whether it would please the better class of picture goers.

The biggest part of the first reel shows Mr. Arbuckle in an intoxicated condition, while in the balance of the first and in the entire second he is shown as taken to a hospital to be cured of the habit.

In the hospital he is placed under an anesthetic. He dreams that an operation is performed on him.

It shows a big knife and lots of blood running from it. This is a poor situation to be incorporated in a comedy and will hardly prove entertaining.

"Winsor McCay's Amazing Pen Picture, the Sinking of the Lusitania"

(Jewel Productions, Incorp. August 15. Length 1000 Feet)

ONE would never imagine that the time would come when the more serious things in life would be told most realistically by animated cartoon drawings.

As is well known, no moving pictures were made of the sinking of the Lusitania. Not even a photograph exists.

Augustus Beach, the noted war correspondent, was the first man to reach the coast of Ireland and get detailed stories from the survivors.

Mr. Beach in turn has furnished these details to Winsor McCay.

With the mathematical problems necessary to make the picture calculated by Lieut.-Commander J. H. Bernard, U. S. N., Mr. McCay has been enabled to draw a most realistic visualization of the sinking of the Lusitania.

A man in ancient Greek history burned a Temple in order to immortalize his name. Germany has immortalized herself by this dastardly act. Everything may be forgotten after the war is over but this blot will remain forever.

You should play this short subject as, aside from offering your patrons something to marvel at, it brings home vividly the kind of a foe we are fighting.

It is good propaganda which helps redouble our energy towards winning the war.

"Tinsel"

Kitty Gordon in Well Produced and Satisfying Drama

(World—July 8. Directed by Oscar Apfel)

"TINSEL" is a lavishly produced drama. It will hold your attention to the end.

The story was written by Fred Johnson, the novelist. It deals with a woman who was determined that her daughter should know the true character of men in the various strata of society.

She thus would be able to avoid the mistake she made in divorcing the only man she ever loved and marrying riches which brought her only unhappiness.

The direction is very intelligent. The supporting cast, which includes Muriel Ostrich and Frank Mayo, is high class.

The photography and interior settings are excellent. There are some very beautiful gowns worn in this picture.

Owing to the nature of the story, which leans slightly to the risque, and also to the several champagne parties, it may not be considered just the right picture for particular audiences.

It is bound to please the middle and lower class elements and the more broad-minded of the high brows.

"The Kaiser's Shadow"

Dorothy Dalton in a "Bing-Bang" Melodrama

(Paramount—July 1. Directed by William Neil)

THIS is a clean and well produced melodrama depending chiefly on the mystery element to entertain.

The story was written by Octavus Ray Cohen and J. U. Giesy and was published serially in the All Story Magazine under the name of "The Triple Cross."

It deals with the operations of the German spy system in this country and the means the United States Secret Service uses to suppress them.

A great many of the situations are based on trap doors, secret panels, walls that can be raised by pressing a button, secret passages and the like.

It is the regular dime novel kind of a story that has always had its following.

Most of the subtitles are timely. They contain patriotic touches that will undoubtedly arouse the enthusiasm of all patriotic Americans.

The picture on the whole has been produced intelligently.

"The Whirlpool"

Alice Brady At Her Best in a Pleasing Melodrama

(Select—June 30. Directed by Alan Crossland)

"THE WHIRLPOOL" is a very interesting melodrama that will please picturegoers.

The story is based on the book of the same name by Victoria Morton and deals of the discovery by the heroine of the real perpetrator of a murder, thus exonerating an innocent young man who was accused of having committed it.

In doing so she also restores the peace of mind of a kind-hearted judge who considered himself morally as guilty as this young man. He had been lenient with him on a previous arrest for theft.

The story contains the element of mystery that is not solved until the end. This naturally adds to the interest and helps hold the attention of the spectator.

Miss Brady is at her best in this picture. The supporting cast is also excellent. The direction is very intelligent and the camera work as good as could be desired. Several scenes have been taken outdoors and are very beautiful.

This offering is not grewsome and ought to appeal to all classes.

"Annexing Bill"

Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in a Fair Program Offering

(Pathe—July 7. Directed by Albert Parker)

THIS is only a fair program offering. It may please some picturegoers but the critical ones will think their time has been more or less wasted in trying to derive entertainment out of it.

The story was written by Edgar Franklin. It belongs to the imaginary class, in which things could not happen. It was intended for a comedy drama.

It tells of The Girl who had inherited a million and The Boy who would not marry her because she had too much money. He was afraid she would become too bossy.

She got rid of the money and so removed the barrier to their happiness.

If you have to play this picture let it slip by without making too much noise about it.

"The Fly God"

Roy Stewart Seen to Advantage in This Western

(Triangle—June 30. Directed by Cliff Smith)

THIS is another offering of the "Red" Saunders series by Henry Wallace Phillips, and a corking good one. It is full of heart interest.

The story is interesting to the extreme. It tells of Robert Allers who, accompanied by his wife, sought to regain his health in the Western country.

While out in the plains they were held up by a highwayman and robbed.

They met "Red" Saunders and were befriended by him. Later he helped the husband obtain a position in a saloon.

That same highwayman attempted to hold up the saloon but Allers shot and killed him. As the highwayman happened to be the brother of the sheriff, the latter tried to convict him for murder.

"Red" stood by him and eventually succeeded in causing his acquittal. Thus he brought happiness to the family now augmented by a child.

The story is based on the element of self-sacrifice, therefore it will have a strong appeal with all classes of picturegoers.

Mr. Stewart takes the human part. He gets the sympathy from the very beginning.

The lady who takes the part of Mrs. Cummings, as well as the actor seen as old Indian, deserve special mention as they portray their roles very realistically.

As there is very little shooting in this picture it ought to take well with any audience.

"The Painted Lily," with Alma Rubens

Underworld Drama Holds Much Interest

(Triangle—June 30. Directed by Thomas N. Heffron)

AS a gambling and underworld offering it is very interesting and has been produced very intelligently. It will be a good picture to show provided your patrons will stand for this sort of theme.

The story is from the pen of Catherine Carr. It tells of an innocent young girl who married a man conducting a gambling house and who made her believe he was in legitimate business.

She was soon disillusioned as she was forced to act as a "capper."

Villain No. 2, who was just let out of jail, had the goods on villain No. 1 for a previous crime, so he kept on blackmailing him.

Eventually both villains were shot and killed by the police and the girl was left free to marry an honest young man whom she met and learned to love.

One point in the story picture-goers might not excuse is the fact that the girl agreed to act as a "capper" after the true character of her husband became known to her.

The direction and the photography are of the best.

On the whole this attraction is entertaining and not vulgar.

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"Hit-the-Trail Holliday" (Artcraft)—"Big."

"Missing" (Paramount)—"Very good; best war picture yet."

"Blue Eyed Mary" (Fox)—"Poor picture for her."

"Paying His Debt" (Triangle)—"Good direction."

"Doctor and the Woman" (Jewel)—"Simple great; this kind will always get money. Played it three days."

"The Kaiser" (Jewel)—"It killed them the first time, but failed to repeat."

"All Woman" (Goldwyn)—"Best Marsh picture since 'Polly of the Circus,' but Mae Marsh does not draw here, probably on account of poor stories. 'All Woman,' however, is far above Goldwyn's average."

"The Journey's End" (World)—"Very light."

"The Man Trap" (Bluebird)—"Herbert Rawlinson at his best in 'The Man Trap,' and a great favorite here."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released within the previous ten weeks on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectations; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
ALIEN ENEMY, AN (Glaum—Paralta)....Apr.	Average	"Fine picture; star not popular."
ALL WOMAN (Marsh—Goldwyn)....June	Average	"Goldwyn does not draw for me; Mae Marsh good." "A very good picture."
AMARILLY OF CLOTHESLINE ALLEY (Mary Pickford—Artcraft)....Mar.	Extra Big	"Pleased." "Big in spite of rain." "Mary Pickford at her best." "Drew big business; good picture." "Rain; didn't get them." "Very good." "Excellent."
AMERICAN BUDS (Jane and Katherine Lee—Foxfilm)....Apr.	Average	"Good show for kiddies." "Good." "Too much kid stuff." "Good picture, but did not draw." "A few more like this and I won't damn the business." "Fine kid comedy, but did not draw."
BACHELOR'S CHILDREN, A (Morey—Vita.)....Apr.	Average	"Just average business." "Picture good, but did not draw."
BELIEVE ME, XANTIPPE (Reid—F. P. Lasky). May	Big	"Good picture, well received; fair business." "Draws well, very good."
BELL BOY, THE (Arbuckle—Paramount)....Apr.	Extra Big	"Thanks to Roscoe, Keating and St. John am drawing them in despite Holy Week." "Great Stuff!" "Extra Good." "Fatty's best yet. Did record biz." "His best." "He never made a better one than this." "Some picture." "A knockout." "Great."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Ford—Fordart)....May	Average	"A joke to thinking people—great for kids."
BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH (Enid Bennett—Lasky)....May	Average	"Very good." "Good circus stuff."
BIT OF JADE (Minter—Mutual)....Apr.	Average	"Minter is well liked." "Light entertainment; good."
BLINDNESS OF DIVORCE (Rhea Mitchell—Fox). Apr.	Big	No comment received with report.
BLINDFOLDED (Barriscale—Paralta)....Apr.	Big	"Story too common, did not get great interest; acting good."
BLUE BIRD, THE (Artcraft)....Apr.	Average	"Great, but did not draw enough to pay for picture." "Very artistic production, but even the kids refuse to see it." "Costs too much, nothing left for us." "Great production, but people do not want fairy stories." "This kind of picture never pulls for me." "Good picture, too high class for my town." "A magnificent production of a beautiful thought—no box-office value."
BRASS CHECK, THE (Bushman-Bayne—Metro)..Mar.	Average	"Few more like this and Bushman will class 1A." "Not as good as usual for Bushman." "Very good." "Well liked."
BRAVEST WAY, THE (Hayakawa—Lasky)....June	Average	"Fair picture; star well liked."
BRAVE AND BOLD (Walsh—Foxfilm)....May	Big	"Fair picture." "As a star Walsh is our best box office magnet." "Pleased." "Very good, pleased greatly."
BREAKERS AHEAD (Dana—Metro).......	Big	"Fine picture." "Good." "One of the best features we have ever played." "Dana not a 'comer'—she is here." "Picture only fair." "Bum story."
BRIDE OF FEAR, THE (Carmen—Foxfilm)....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture."
BUSINESS OF LIFE (Joyce—Vita.)....Apr.	Big	"Very fine production." "Well liked."
BY RIGHT OF PURCHASE (Norma Talmadge—Select)....Mar.	Big	"Interesting, pleased everybody." "A very good attraction." "Star good; picture pleased; four big days." "Good." "Patrons tired of Westerns." "Story pleased; good picture." "A perfect production."
CECILIA OF THE PINK ROSES (Davies—Select).June	Average	No comment received with report.
CONFESSION (Carmen—Fox)....May	Average	"Fair picture." "Carmen very good in this picture."
CROSS BEARER, THE (Montague Love—World)—Apr.	Average	"Big for two days." "Booked for week, closed on Thursday." "Good picture." "Good picture, but should never have been made." "Good picture; used it for a Catholic benefit."
CYCLONE HIGGINS, D.D. (Bushman—Metro)...May	Average	"Poor picture." "Not much picture." "Something new for Bushman, but seemed to take very well." "Patrons didn't go wild over this one."
DANGER GAME, THE (Goldwyn—Kennedy)....Apr.	Average	"Star getting to be a favorite here." "Splendid, everybody enjoyed this." "Fair picture, but did not draw, probably due to heat wave." "Everybody well pleased." "Not as good as other Madge Kennedy's pictures."
DANGER WITHIN (Zoe Rae—Bluebird)....May	Average	"Pleasing." "Good program picture."
DAUGHTER OF THE WEST (Baby Osborne—Pathe) May	Average	No comment received with report.
DEVIL'S WHEEL, THE (Brockwell—Fox)....Mar.	Big	"Star getting popular; good play; fine photography." "Star is beginning to draw here." "Pleased everybody." "Fine production; Brockwell's best." "Popular star; good."
DE LUXE ANNIE (Norma Talmadge—Select)....June	Average	"In many ways her best picture." "First class in every respect."
DESERT WOOING, A (Enid Bennett—F. P.-Lasky).June	Average	No comment received with report.
DOG'S LIFE, A (Chaplin—First National)....Apr.	Extra	"House record." "Went over big, but not as much as expected." "A regular riot." "Very good." "Great." "Some comedy; good on two days—some HOT." "Very good."
DOLL'S HOUSE, A (Ferguson—F. P.-Lasky)....June	Poor	"No one here liked the picture on account of the finish of the story." "Disciples of Ibsen too few to warrant screening his masterpieces." "Good picture, not appreciated."
DOLLY DOES HER BIT (Osborne—Pathe)....Apr.	Big	"Picture very pleasing."
EAGLE'S EYE, THE (Wharton Serial).....	Big	"Continues pleasing." "First episode went over big." "Drew fair business in poor serial town." "Second episode slow." "Increasing interest." "Holds to fair business." "Fourth episode fair." "They enjoy this serial." "Going along very good at 11th chapter." "Good drawing card."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
EMPTY POCKETS (Brenon—First National).....May	Average	"Good picture." "Very poor picture."
FACE IN THE DARK, THE (Mae Marsh—Goldwyn) .....Apr.	Average	"Name and story killed it." "Star not popular here." "Mae Marsh is not popular here—and never will be with this kind of story." "Did not draw for me—reason not known.";
FAIR PRETENDER, THE (Madge Kennedy—Goldwyn).....May	Average	"Poor business." "This star does not draw here." "Fair, ordinary program picture. Not worth what we paid for it. A spy plot is dragged in to fill out five reels. Goldwyn needs pep."
FAMILY SKELETON, THE (Ray—Paramount)..Mar.	Average	"Ray missed it in this; picture not liked as well as his others." "Star here very well liked; don't like booze pictures."
FAST COMPANY (Farnum—Bluebird).....Apr.	Average	"Business good, but picture below standard." "As good as the kind they ask twice as much for."
FIREBRAND, THE (Pearson—Fox).....May	Average	"Poor story—Russian stuff is dead."
FOR SALE (Hulette—Pathe).....June	Average	No comment received with report.
FLOOR BELOW, THE (Normand—Goldwyn)....Mar.	Big	"Picture seemed all right."
GIRL FROM BEYOND, THE (Shipman—Vita)...Apr.	Average	"Everybody liked it." "Not as good as 'Dodging a Million'." "Good program picture." "Good picture." "Best Normand production—better than 'Dodging a Million'."
GRAIN OF DUST, THE (Lillian Walker—Crest Pictures)	Poor	"Better than average program picture; story drew more than star."
GUILD OF SILENCE (Salisbury—Bluebird).....May	Poor	"Wonderful snow scenes; fine picture."
HEARTS OR DIAMONDS? (Russell—Mutual)....Apr.	Average	"Considered rival of Hart." "Russell popular." "Excellent picture." "Fair picture."
HER FINAL RECKONING (Fredericks—F. P.-Lasky) June	Average	"This class of story is not one that will send you any patrons—she should have better stories."
HER ONE MISTAKE (Brockwell—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Average	"Should not have been released." "Pleased all who saw it." "Gets by; weakest spot on Fox program."
HEIRESS FOR A DAY (Thomas—Triangle).....Mar.	Average	"Pleased audience extremely well." "Clean comedy drama." "Fine picture." "Kind of picture the public wants." "Good picture, but weather bad." "Light entertainment."
HIS MAJESTY, BUNKER BEAN (Paramount—Jack Pickford).....Apr.	Average	"Great picture." "Press agent's promises not entirely fulfilled. Just a fair picture." "Suitable feature for war times. Plenty of good laughs. Satisfactory financially." "Fine picture, and just the type for star." "Went over big; star always liked." "Only fair." "Good—Pickford drawing better with each release."
HIS OWN HOME TOWN (Ray—Paramount).....June	Big	"He is a popular star; good picture." "Fine." "Good stuff."
HONEST MAN, AN (Desmond—Triangle).....May	Big	"Desmond always a big favorite here."
HONOR OF HIS HOUSE (Hayakawa—Paramount).Apr.	Average	"Average picture; strong finish." "Average picture."
HOUSE OF GLASS, THE (Young—Select).....Mar.	Big	"Very good picture." "A fair picture." "Clara K. Young's best for a long time. Good cast except leading man who is of wrong type. Story, direction, settings A1. Photography fair." "Very good; pleased immensely."
HOUSE OF HATE, THE (Pathe Serial).....	Big	"Sustains interest."
HOUSE OF SILENCE, THE (Reid—Paramount)..Apr.	Average	"Very bold. Has no place on Paramount programme." "Fair picture; fair business." "Hardly a theme for a family house. Used the shears on two scenes." "Story too strong." "Paramount falling down."
HOW COULD YOU CAROLINE?. (Love—Pathe) .May	....	"Audience didn't like it."
HUCK AND TOM (Jack Pickford—Paramount)..Mar.	Extra Big	"Becoming very popular." "Excellent." "Positively nothing to surpass this release. A clean-up anywhere." "Big, but not as good as 'Tom Sawyer'." "Best this star ever made." "Good." "Received fairly well." "Brings them all out, young and old." "Good, and gets the money." "Got the business." "Good."
HUMDRUM BROWN (Walthal—Paralta).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to Paralta standard. Poor story." "Picture fair—star don't draw here."
I'M A MAN (Judge Brown—General).....May	Big	"A good picture."
JOURNEY'S END (Clayton—World).....May	Average	No comment received with report.
KAISER, THE (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"Extra big at big prices." "Biggest box office attraction ever playing this city. Patrons thought it great." "Broke all records." "All week great." "Broke all records." "Sensational; wonderful drawing card." "And the same smashed all records." "Good production." "Good picture—good money-getter." "Great picture; got more strangers the Fair week." "Very fine; good dramatic punch—well acted, good setting." "Three days' big business." "A picture with several powerful kicks—film in very poor condition."
KNIFE, THE (Brady—Select).....Mar.	Average	"Poorest Select picture. Not fault of star; uninteresting story." "Did not draw. Crude melodrama; way below standard." "I can't add anything to what has been said about this—wonderful drawing power." "Brady doing better." "The knife should have been used on the suggestiveness." "Our patrons kick over this kind." "Excellent."
LANDLOPER, THE (Lockwood—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture." "Pleased very much." "Very fair picture." "Not as good as usual." "Just an average programme offering, but Lockwood always draws." "Only fair." "Well liked."
LA TOSCA (Fredericks—Paramount).....Mar.	Average	"Good picture; poor business." "Pauline Frederick is losing her hold on our patrons. Stories are not what people like." "Excellent, but not fan stuff." "Costume plays no good." "Not well liked by my audience—very fine costume play." "Too heavy for these times.'
LEGION OF DEATH (Storey—Metro).....	Average	"Fine production, but story poor—did not draw."
LEND ME YOUR NAME (Lockwood—Metro)...May	....	"He is very popular."
LES MISERABLES (Farnum—Fox).....Feb.	Extra Big	"Capacity, great feature." "Return engagement, business held up all week." "Great story; great production." "Very fine production." "Farnum does his best work." "Patrons satisfied, but too long for my house." (700 seats in high rent section.) "Strong picture. Well done. Star at his best." "Good." "Four days; best production ever in house, but too long." "Good drawing card."
LESSON, THE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....May	....	"Very good; pleased most people."
LET'S GET A DIVORCE (Billie Burke—Paramount)Apr.	Average	"Not a picture that will please all the people." "Fair picture; good title." "Burke has lost her drawing power." "Story loses all its value on the screen—star not at her best."
LIE, THE (Ferguson—Artcraft).....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture because it had heart appeal." "Very good." "Pleased all." "Very good." "Very poor." "Pleased everybody.' "Star liked; fine production." "Good drama." "Just didn't draw—good picture, but fell down badly."
LITTLE MISS NO ACCOUNT (Leslie—Vitagraph) .Apr.	Average	"Excellent picture."
LONE WOLF, THE (Lytell—Select).....June	....	"A very fine production."
LONELY WOMAN, THE (Bennett—Triangle)....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
LOVE'S CONQUEST (Cavalieri—Jewel).....June	Average	"Mere costume stuff—bored every one, no one pleased." "If the producers could only have heard what our people said when they went out."
MAGIC EYE, THE (Zoe Rae—Universal).....Apr.	Poor	"Good picture, but did not draw for me."
MARRIAGE LIE, THE (Myers—Universal).....Apr.	Average	"Very good." "A very fair picture."
MASKS AND FACES (Forbes-Robertson—World) .May	Average	"Big, if not for costumes." "Poorest World ever ran."
MATING OF MARCELLA (Dalton—Para.).....May	Average	"A very pleasing picture." "Dragged at first." "Did not draw as well as usual." "Not as good as usual Dalton." "Average feature." "Very good."
MISSING (Blackton—Paramount).....June	Average	"This is one of the best pictures we have ever shown; a star in this picture would clean up for everybody. Some more like that, please." "Great; one of the best of the year."
"MILE-A-MINUTE KENDALL" (Jack Pickford—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"The picture pleased them all." "Dandy picture." "Fair picture, but not his best." "Fine." "All like Jack; he's good." "Real entertainment."
M'LISS (Mary Pickford—Artcraft).....May	Big	"Par excellence." "Pleasing feature—business only fair, possibly attributable to hot weather." "Fine production; star great." "One of Pickford's best." "This is a Pickford town." "Pleased." "Good picture."
MME. PAULETTE (Claire Anderson—Triangle)..May	Average	"Pleased."
MOONSHINE (Arbuckle—Paramount).....May	Big	"Fatty made good." "Below Arbuckle standard." "Very entertaining." "Fatty gets the business." "Not up to 'The Bell Boy,' but good." "Making best comedies on the market—not afraid to let someone else get a laugh." "Excellent Arbuckle comedy."
MR. FIX-IT (Fairbanks—Artcraft).....Apr.	Big	"Everybody pleased; good in every respect." "Big all week." "Reissues hurt star." "Fine, and a relief from his usual type of plays."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	Extra Big	"Extra big second week." "Good all week." "Splendid production." "A great picture; good business." "Hot weather; a loser at increased prices." "Well produced; made people talk."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....May	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone."
NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY (Bennett—Paramount)..Mar.	Average	"Extra good. This is a dandy comedy." "One of the best. Make more like this." "A good picture. Poor title." "Excellent." "Star beginning to be very popular." "Pleased." "Did not draw or please.' "This picture went over big" "Very good; the kind they all like."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
OLDEST LAW, THE (Elvidge—World).....May	Average	No comment received with report.
ONE HOUR (Keefe-Foursquare).....May	Big	"A good picture, that draws business."
ONE MORE AMERICAN (Beban—Paramount).....	Average	"Great stuff." "Star not strong here." "Excellent." "Beban is wonderful, but the public can't see it." "Star great, but doesn't draw for me."
ONLY ROAD, THE (Dana—Metro).....June	Average	No comment received with report.
ORDEAL OF ROSETTE, THE (Brady—Select)..May	Average	"Being a dream saved this one."
OVER THERE (Richman—Select).....	Average	"Pleased immensely. "Poor picture; did not draw.
OVER THE TOP (Empey—Vitagraph).....Mar.	Extra Big	"Record breaker. One week." "Big for nine days." "Will play another week on this." "Best war picture to date." "Best of its kind. Extra big business seven days; hot weather, too." "It pleased at higher admissions." "Went over the top with the biggest business of the year." "One of the biggest box office attractions since 'Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.' The picture itself is GREAT, and has the real punch at the finish. "Capacity business." "A great picture."
PAIR OF SIXES, A (G. Kleine—Perfection).....Apr.	Big	"Best comedy we have had in a long time." "Splendid; pleased greatly; title drew well." "Dandy picture, pleased all; fair business, hot weather."
PAY DAY (Drew—Metro).....May	Average	"Did not go so well." "Average audience here does not care for Drew humor." "A real piece of cheese."
PAYING HIS DEBT (Stewart—Triangle).....Apr.	Poor	"Pleased."
PEG OF THE PIRATES (Hyland—Foxfilm).....May	Average	"Star good; story poor." "Very poor picture." "Not wanted; very poor business."
PLAYING THE GAME (Ray—F. P.-Lasky—Para.).Apr.	Big	"Pleased everybody." "Ray's best yet." "Ray's best picture."
POWERS THAT PREY (Minter—Mutual).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to standard." "Star is popular here." "Just fair."
PRIMITIVE WOMAN, THE (Fisher—Mutual)...Apr.	Average	"Light entertainment; fair."
PRUNELLA (Clark—Lasky-Paramount)..... May	Average	"This picture pleased the little ones; they didn't know any better." "Very poor picture.' "A screen classic; a box office failure." "Poorest Clark picture we ever played—very poor business." "Very light story, not interesting." "Too high brow to please all people, only the student will like this." "Did not please." "People walk out before the show is half over."
REASON WHY, THE (Young—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Well liked by majority." "Well produced, but misses fire."
RED, RED HEART, THE (Salisbury—Bluebird)..Apr.	Average	"A very satisfactory picture." "Good title, fair picture."
RESURRECTION (Fredericks—Paramount).....May	Average	"This star was at her best." "Very good." "Did not draw, poor subject."
REVELATION (Nazimova—Screen Classics, Inc.).....	Big	"Splendid." "Nazimova wonderful." "Great picture; star fine; will become very popular." "Her best; helped her a lot." "Wonderful picture; great drawing card." "A truly wonderful production."
RICH MAN'S DARLING (Lovely—Bluebird)....Apr.	Average	"Splendid picture."
RICH MAN, POOR MAN (Marguerite Clark—F. P. Lasky-Para.).....Apr.	Average	"Well liked by all; star will come back strong if given stories like this." "Not star's style of picture." "Good picture, but no punch in it." "Didn't draw as well as usual; good picture."
RIDERS OF THE NIGHT (Dana—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to Metro standard. Picture an improbable thing—Dana's work good." "Metro well liked."
RISKY ROAD, THE (Phillips—Universal).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
ROSE O' PARADISE (Barriscale—W. H. Hodkinson).. .....May	Average	"Not up to standard." "Very poor feature—should never have been made."
ROUGH AND READY (Farnum—Fox Standard)..Mar.	Average	"Splendid picture." "Great picture." "Farnum bigger every time." "Fair."
RULER OF THE ROAD (Keenan—Pathe).....Apr.	Average	"Keenan always good." "Good." "Good picture, Keenan O.K." "Good, but did not take here." "Good picture, but no drawing card."
SELFISH YATES (Hart—Lasky-Paramount).....May	Average	"Had more good comments on this than other Hart." "Reissues have killed Hart in this town." "Good; best dramatic Hart story."
SHELL GAME (Wehlen—Metro).....Mar.	Average	"Very pleasing picture." "Excellent production." "Well liked by all."
SHOES THAT DANCED (Starke—Triangle).....Mar.	Average	"Pleased." "Fine picture. Star not known." "Fairly good picture."
SILENT SACRIFICE (Brady—Select).....Mar.	Average	"Fair picture, but no knockout." "So suggestive that even the managers had to blush."
SOCIAL BRIARS (Minter—Mutual).....June	Average	"A very nice picture—well liked." "Very good." "A picture any exhibitor can boost."
SON OF DEMOCRACY (Chapin—Paramount).....	Big	"Exceptionally good attraction." "Fair but did not hold up with first week." "Good family card." "Keeping them away." "Fine stuff." "Ninth of series. Still going strong. Brought many new faces to theatre." "Best series ever produced." "Big drawing card." "Great pictures." "Opinion divided on 'Mother'." "'My First Jury' immense." "This completes the series. Made a great hit with the old timers and brought many new faces. Young folks not greatly interested. Early promises not developed in closing incidents." "Best yet."
SONG OF THE SOUL, THE (Joyce—Vita.).....Mar.	....	"Pleased all."
SOUL OF BUDDHA (Bara—Fox).....Apr.	Average	"Too strong; good business." "Bara's poorest picture."
SOUL FOR SALE (Phillips—Jewel).....June	Average	"Good average feature; not the knockout the exchange claimed for it."
SPLENDID SINNER, THE (Garden—Goldwyn)..Mar.	Average	"Best Garden picture." "Got by—that's all." "Great picture." "No more Mary Garden we say." "Very poor feature." "Good, but did not draw." "Fair—too stiff." "Small business; star not liked." "Well liked." "Production above the average."
SQUARE DEAL, A (Fisher—Mutual).....June	Poor	"Not up to Fisher's standard."
SUNSHINE NAN (Pennington—Paramount).....Mar.	Average	"Poor offering." "Star's last production well liked and patrons expected better picture." "Excellent." "Paramount has to show me more for 1919." "This star would become very popular if releases were regular; this her poorest picture." "Very poor." "Fair picture." "Fair, but not as good as previous Pennington pictures."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National).....	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big." "Made big hit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture; out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card."
TIGER MAN, THE (Hart—Artcraft).....Apr.	Big	"Not up to Hart standard." "Best thing Hart has done for Artcraft; good story." "Big all week." "Not up to standard; weak." "Very good."
TRAP, THE (Brady—World).....Apr.	Average	No comments received with reports.
TREASURES OF THE SEA (Storey—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"A picture that just pleases."
TRAIL TO YESTERDAY, THE (Lyttel—Metro)..Apr.	Big	"A winner." "Best Western picture for a long time; will watch for future Lytell pictures." "Lytell certainly a comer." "Good picture—photography good."
TRUE BLUE (Farnum—Fox).....May	Big	"Very good."
TRIUMPH OF THE WEAK (Joyce—Vita.).....May	Average	"Very good."
TWENTY-ONE (Washburn—Pathe).....Apr	Average	"Very poor picture." "Average program picture.' "Pleasing comedy-drama—worth what we paid for it. Drew average business."
TYRANT FEAR (Dalton—F. P.-Lasky-Paramount) Apr.	Average	"Don't like her in this." "Good of its kind." "Good."
UNCLAIMED GOODS (Martin—Lasky-Para.)....Apr.	Average	"Fair story; well acted." "Fair offering." "Good satisfaction." "This story was so impossible—just fair picture."
UP THE ROAD WITH SALLIE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Receipts increased for three weeks." "Best she has done to date." "The kind that pleases all." "Great show."
VIVIETTE (Martin—F. P.-Lasky).....June	Average	"Hot weather hurt a great deal, but picture did not please." "Good picture."
VORTEX, THE (Warren—Triangle).....Apr.	Average	No comments received with reports.
WESTERN BLOOD (Mix—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Big	"Very good; pleased." "Good Western." "Went over O. K." "Mix liked here; pleased."
WHISPERING CHORUS, THE (DeMille—Artcraft)Apr.	Average	"Acting excellent. Story too morbid." "Very gruesome.
WHITE MAN'S LAW, THE (Hayakawa—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"A good picture, with opportunities for entire cast." "Good—fine photography." "Well liked."
WILD GIRL, THE (Tanguay—Select).....June	Average	"Film in good condition."
WILD WOMEN AND TAME LIONS (—Fox). June	Extra Big	"The best I ever saw."
WINNING OF BEATRICE, THE (Allison—Metro).May	Average	"Good picture, but poor business."
WITCH WOMAN, THE (Clayton—World).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
WITH HOOPS OF STEEL (Walthall—Paralta).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
WITHIN THE CUP (Barriscale-Paralta) .....Mar.	Big	"Not as good as her first one. An entertaining picture but too long." "Good story, well acted, but too long."
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH (Bushman-Bayne—Metro).....Apr.	Big	"Pictures like this make a manager willing to face an outgoing audience." "This feature brought many back a second time." "Hard rain; good picture; poor biz." "Fair picture." "Excellent."

Exhibitor Service Bureau

St. Paul Overlooks a Bet

With Only Two Newspapers to Cover the Whole Field, Few of the Theatres are Good Advertisers

CERTAINLY a city where there are really only two newspapers ought to offer exhibitors an easy and money-saving method of advertising. Yet though this is the case St. Paul is one of the poorest advertising cities and far behind its twin city, Minneapolis, in using the press.

One of the reasons for this is that the St. Paul papers set a maximum for the size of advertisement that must be inserted before any advance publicity is given. It is well enough for newspapers to have rules and they are necessary to the proper conduct of every business, but when a newspaper puts all motion picture matter absolutely on the cash return from each individual house it appears to us that it is not showing the greatest regards for the interests of the readers.

We regret that it had been necessary to take up the St. Paul situation at a time when the Ruben and Finklestein theatres are not using one of the papers, and we have always made it a point in these articles not to enter into discussion of local troubles which generally settle themselves in time. And so we will deal with the situation more as the status would be in normal times and not alone in the pages from issues of the papers for the current week, which is certainly an abnormal state of affairs.

Of course we all know that Minneapolis and St. Paul are known as "the twin cities," and that they are on opposite sides of the upper Mississippi River, and about forty minutes apart by trolley communication. However, they are just as fully separate communities as if they were much wider separated and their nearness cannot be considered as affecting either the advertising of the theatres or their patronage. St. Paul is considerably the smaller of the two with a census population of 236,766.

Now as we have already said there are really but two newspapers in St. Paul and the situation with them is peculiar. The Dispatch, which prints morning and evening editions during the week is known as the Pioneer-Press on Sunday. It gives its subscribers thirteen issues a week, morning and afternoon papers, and also the Sunday issue, we are informed, for a total charge of ten cents. So far as we know this is the record for any city in the United States. This results in the paper having a daily circulation, according to the Lord and Thomas newspaper directory, of 142,587, while the other paper, the News, which is afternoon during the week, has a week-day circulation of 79,755. The Pioneer-Press (Sunday) is given 76,474 Sunday, and the News, 39,060. Naturally the rate of the News is lower than that of the other papers, because of the circulation.

But, setting aside the present disagreement of the Ruben and Finklestein interests with the Dispatch and Pioneer-Press there is no reason why the theatres should not be able to use the two papers liberally.

There are thirty-eight theatres of all kinds in St. Paul, including eight first-run houses, thirteen downtown houses and twenty-five neighborhood exhibitors. Of the downtown houses the New Palace is the largest, seating 3,000. It is a combination vaudeville and picture house. The New Garrick seats 2,000, the Hippodrome 1,800, and the Metropolitan about 1,500. The others are all below a thousand seats, ranging down to the Blue Mouse which cares for only 425. The New Majestic is one of the larger houses with a capacity of 1,800.

Among leading neighborhood houses are the Dale and the Summit, owned by Julius Reisman; the Park, Hamline, Faust, Verdi, Victoria, New Garden, Forest, DeLuxe, Ohio, Tryst, Rex, Como, Arcade and the Cozy. The neighborhood houses average about 600 seats.

Now let us look into the situation there so far as the newspapers are concerned, taking into consideration the fact that the Ruben and Finklestein houses are not using the Dispatch and the Pioneer-Press. And although we have said that we are not going to enter into a discussion of what has caused or the merits of controversies, let us say that the newspapers and theatres, as a general rule, that so start fights between themselves are hurting all parties concerned. They are not doing their duty by the public and they are injuring their own businesses.

This series of articles is written largely in the interests of co-operation between the theatres and the newspapers, and we are sorry to see a situation existing even temporarily as it is in St. Paul, and we hope that the two will soon be working together.

So far as the Sunday issues are concerned, we see evidence of a desire on the part of the two papers to print the NEWS of motion pictures, more of it in the Pioneer-Press.

The News apparently inclines to the "high brow" side of amusements. It wants to discuss the "drahma" at the expense of the people who are doing the bulk of the advertising—the motion picture houses. For instance, we find the first page of the amusement section devoted as far as possible to the local stock company and vaudeville though it does give excellent representation to "Pershing's Crusaders," which is being shown at Metropolitan, which is a legitimate house in the winter, and so the dramatic editor appeased his conscience by coming to the conclusion that this was not "an ordinary motion picture." One of the stock company actors, a bunch of "Hawaiians" and a vaudeville quartet get the rest of the space in the layout.

Going through the rest of the page we find that Robert Mantell has announced his retirement. Mr. Mantell was a local visitor and so the story has local interest. But we find that the article never mentions the fact that Mr. Mantell was in motion pictures for quite a time. Probably the writer thought this would take some of the "class" away from the article. The other column of wide measure space is devoted to Raymond Hitchcock's new show in New York—genuine "uplift" stuff. With the exception of "Pershing's Crusaders," motion pictures are not mentioned on this thoroughly dignified front page.

But there is a page all for motion pictures, and this is number three of the section. Here we have a layout on the attractions at the advertising theatres five columns wide and more than a half page deep, attractively arranged and well printed. But while the theatrical news on the front page had wide measure—editorial style, and was set in larger style and beautifully leaded, motion pictures have to come down to the ordinary style of the paper.

Don't think that we are criticising because the paper wishes to give vaudeville and such things space, for they are entitled to it, but the whole spirit of the paper seems to us to show that some one in authority around the newspaper regards the motion picture rather as something to which it has to cater rather than something that the people should be allowed to have. That is an unfortunate spirit and it is regrettable that it is to be found in so many newspapers.

But come back to the motion picture page. Here we have reading notices for each of the theatres that is advertising, and then under the heading, "Portraits," we have a little more than a half column on coming productions in which leading players are to appear—interesting so far as it goes. Probably a column of the matter on this page is devoted to the legitimate theatre or vaudeville matter. There is a good feature in "Where the Movie Stars Will Be Seen."

On the fourth page of the section are carried the ads of the Garrick and the Hippodrome and an instalment of "The Son of Democracy."

A fifth page which is reproduced carried a special combination advertisement of Paramount-Artcraft, so this hardly needs to be

(Continued on page 80)

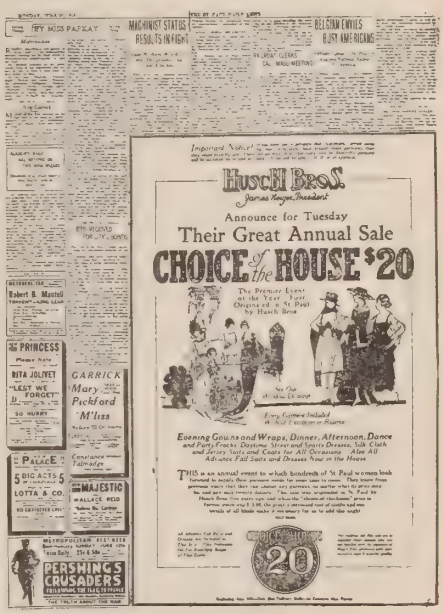
St. Paul Exhibitors Have It Easy With Only Two Newspapers To Pay

All of the top row and the first two pages in the second row are from the Sunday News, while at the right of the middle row is from the Monday issue, and at the right of the bottom row from the Wednesday issue. The other two pages are from the Sunday Pioneer-Press

THE ST. PAUL DAILY NEWS
Film and fancy in Stageland
Pershing's Crusaders
Stageland Gossip
Hitchcock Wins Marked Success in Newest Show



MACHINIST STATUS RESULTS IN FIGHT
BELGIAN CAVILS BUSY AMERICANS
HUSCH BROS.
James Kenyon, President
Announce for Tuesday
Their Great Annual Sale
CHOICE of the HOUSE '20
The Premier Event of the Year, First Organized in St. Paul by Husch Bros
Evening Gowns and Wraps, Dinner, Afternoon, Dance and Party Frocks, Daytime Street and Sports Dresses, Silk Cloth and Jersey Suits and Coats for All Occasions. Also All Advance Fall Suits and Dresses now in the House
THIS is an annual event to which hundreds of St. Paul women look forward to satisfy their greatest needs to some extent. They know from previous years that there are always any garments, no matter what the price may be, and you'll never be disappointed in "Choice of the House" at St. Paul by Husch Bros. For years ago, and when the "choice of the house" prevailed in Fashion and only $ 20.00, or about a thousand sum of clothes and more details of all kinds made, if you doesn't for us to add that word!
PRINCESS
GARRICK
Mary Pickford
M'liss
PALACE
5 BIG ACTS 5
LOTTA & CO
MAJESTIC
WALLACE REID
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS

UNUSUALLY PROMISING DRAMATIC ASSORTMENT READY FOR FALL
Under War Stimulant Amusing Dramas Grow
ALL NEW PLAYS ARE CAMPAIGN MANTELS STICKS TO CLASSICS
WHAT THE THEATERS OFFER
BEEN OTHERS SO OFTEN HE HARDLY KNOWS HIMSELF
AUSPICES OF THE U. S. GOVERNMENT
TODAY METROPOLITAN LIMITED ENGAGEMENT—SEVEN DAYS ONLY
PERSHING'S CRUSADERS
No War Tax
The Truth About the War
FOLLOWING THE FLAG TO FRANCE—OVER HERE AND OVER THERE
EXTRA! SEE SHUBERT
THE CHILD WIFE

Advertise to Aid Exhibitor, Says Franklin

Here are three views of how the producer should help the exhibitor exploit his pictures. Read each one. They are more striking than anything you have ever heard said along these lines.

HAROLD B. FRANKLIN, who has set such a strong pace for the whole exhibiting world in his direction of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, wants the men who are supplying the publicity and the advertising aids to first get for themselves an understanding of the picture. He asks that the advertising pages in the trade papers be so used that the exhibitor can use at least part of the material in advertising his picture through the newspapers to the patron:

The principal fault with the exploitation aids of most producing and distributing companies is that they who plan the press material, layouts, etc., are not familiar with their subject. It is seldom that they see the photoplays they are writing about in its finished form. Many of them prepare their material from stills and a vague outline of the story furnished by the studio.

The result is usually a misconception of the story. They lack understanding. Superlative adjectives are used for each picture released.

The lithos, stills and illustrations in the ads are generally poor. Instead of illustrating the big punch, the big situation that has the most appeal, ordinary or unimportant scenes are shown. Frequently some of these scenes are not even in the picture.

The copy and descriptive matter furnished as advertising aids lack personality, originality and style. There is a sameness in most of the press material that is apparent, making it of little value. In contrast to some of the advertising material given to the exhibitor, the exploitation of "The Blue Bird" and "Polly of the Circus" were notable exceptions.

The advertising pages of the trade magazine offer an excellent opportunity for the exploitation of pictures. Instead of using this valuable space to attract the attention of the exhibitor only, the ad may be so arranged that the exhibitor in turn can use part of the material as copy for his advertising. If the copy will interest the seasoned exhibitor it should appeal to his patrons.

Frankness and sincerity in all advertising material would be a boon for both distributor and exhibitor. Exaggeration will never make patrons and, unless advertising keeps making them, it cannot pay.

I hold before me press books of several prominent photoplays. Out of six lines of copy on the posters of one release three lines prominently display the distributor, in whom the general public are not interested, overshadowing the very prominent author and novelist, whose name is barely distinguishable. The scenes depicted show nothing of interest.

A sample ad is shown for another picture. At the bottom of the ad the distributor is considerate enough to mention the theatre. Throughout all the copy and specimen ads there is apparent intent to advertise the distributor rather than assist the exhibitor.

The exhibitor is building a reputation for his theatre by his advertising, to get his patrons in the "buying habit." It is therefore important to keep the name of the theatre in a prominent position.

The exhibitor can pay little if any attention to the claims of a distributor when experience has taught that his advertising and selling talk are exaggerated. Inflated and bombastic advertising does more harm than good. A theatre advertisement is a personal assurance from the exhibitor to his patrons and as such must be truthful, interesting and convincing.

The material that is sent out by the distributor should be constructive, by direct demonstration or by suggestion. It would be folly for any theatre to faithfully follow the specimen ads given by the distributor because each theatre has its own personality. It is not effective advertising to settle down to cut and dried routine. The advertising for a theatre is really the exhibitor's problem. The only thing the distributors can do is to guide him.

The one who prepares this publicity must know the subject, get the viewpoint of the theatre patrons and the story must be handled convincingly. Here is where originality or expression and aggressiveness can be given full play. Cuts or illustrations are very necessary in advertising; if used properly they will tell as much or more than words.

Advertising space is valuable. Make every inch pay. Avoid extravagant phrases and meaningless terms.

The thinking out of sales points should be done by the distributor in trade paper advertising and in the press sheets, or both. And the thing to look for is that which will create most interest on the part of the public.

The up-to-date exhibitor will not depend on the distributors' publicity alone, but will watch the trade paper reviews and the first-run theatre publicity.

EUGENE H. ROTH, manager of the California theatre, San Francisco, points out that the duty of the theatre is to the patron and that the theatre cannot do its duty if the manufacturers use exaggerated statement in advertising their pictures and causes the exhibitor to fall into the same error—which is costly to him. He wants special attention given in the advertising in the trade papers to the selling points of pictures:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor, asking members of the Board to express their opinions concerning the exploitation of pictures.

The subject in question is a big one, and allows many opportunities for pros and cons. Our past experiences have proven that there are many producers and distributors who have used any method, regardless of the merits and principles involved, in order to sell their pictures. On the other hand, we must not lose sight of the fact that there are producers and distributors who are sincere in their purpose, and endeavor to give the exhibitors every possible advantage, so that they in turn might more properly exploit the picture they are to exhibit to their patrons. At this point the position of the manager of a theatre becomes manifest. It is up to him to dissect the advertising material presented to him, and the only way he can consistently serve his theatre and its patrons is by devoting sufficient time to review his show, and thereby act as judge as to the merits or otherwise of the advertising matter he has before him.

It is not altogether essential that the entire aim should be to get the biggest box-office returns, and advertising with only that in view. It goes without saying that that is, of course, the incentive in operating our business, but that must not be based upon each feature, or each week's returns. We should have in mind that we have long leases, and that our first aim is to please our patrons, and, incidentally, increase our clientele. This, we can do by consistency. If we are unfortunate in securing pictures that do not match up to our individual ideas and ideals, and the advertising matter furnished us by the distributors exaggerates and magnifies these features, I do not believe that the manager is serving the public, or himself properly, if, after previewing same, he finds that the preview does not match up to the advance publicity, then he should modify same and endeavor to build up the quality of his show with more substantial fillers, and make THAT the feature matter of his advertising.

The subjects of some of the lithograph paper are not always wisely chosen. I quite agree with that member of the Advisory Board, but said member is entirely wrong when he makes the statement that he is willing to wager that there is not a theatre, directed by a single member of Motion Picture News Advisory Board, that uses for display a single sheet that is printed. We use, for instance, 50 to 100 one-sheets, mounted on boards and placed advantageously in cigar-stands, hotel lobbies, etc., and, also, using a minimum of 50 twenty-four-sheet stands in selected locations, a majority of which are electrically lighted. In fact, there has been a tendency on the part of the producers and distributors to cancel lithographs, because of the lack of support of the exhibitors throughout the country. In order to correct errors and to advance in the industry let us be fair, and at least support the distributor when he makes a big financial effort to give us proper material to exploit the pictures that we rent from him. I do find, however, justice in the statement that the "photographic stills" are not all that they should be, and, personally, I have made many complaints on this issue direct to the producers, and find of late that there is a marked improvement.

Carpenter Points Out He Must Sell Picture

Here again the exhibitor has an opportunity of demonstrating his personal ability and energy in making up an individual lobby display by having these "stills" enlarged (if not furnished him), and in other methods of enhancing the beauty of the lithographs by having them touched up by some artist in water or in oil paints.

There is no doubt that the exploitation of the feature picture in the TRADE PAPERS gives the exhibitor an advanced idea, and assists him greatly in assembling his program. As a matter of fact, the exhibitor is ENTIRELY DEPENDENT upon this advanced matter in the trade papers, and a great deal of attention and consideration should be given to same by the producers and distributors.

Impartial previews printed in the various journals by capable members of the staff are indeed a very essential feature.

GEORGE E. CARPENTER, manager of the Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake City, is one of the most forceful of the members of the Advisory Board in expressing his opinion. He tells very plainly what is the matter with exploitation of pictures, and calls on the manufacturers to use their trade paper advertising in a way that will be of direct aid to the exhibitor in selling to the fan:

None can gainsay that the exploitation of a picture is half the battle, and none can deny that the exhibitor is receiving considerable assistance and valuable help from the distributor. One has only to look back three or four years and make comparisons. Most of us remember those mimeographed "press sheets," single spaced, carrying copious editorial "we's" and the boss's name every fifty words—and how those "notices" used to drive the newspaper men to profane language and drink.

The little fellow who knew nothing of newspaperdom used to religiously "hand 'em in," to later scan the paper for the item, and subsequently tear out his hair and call the editor nasty cutting names because the dope never was printed. The exhibitor with a newspaper training used to read them with relish, for they were better than Life, Puck or Judge, and then consign them to the waste basket, sit down and write some dope that had news value.

The modern press book issued by the first class distributor has value to the exhibitor, but it is impossible for a New York office to issue publicity suitable for the exploitation of a picture simultaneously throughout the country. Each and every motion picture exchange should employ a trained newspaper man with a knowledge of the show business, an understanding of local conditions, an acquaintanceship among the state-wide newspaper bunch and a diplomat—and then leave him alone to deliver the goods. They could not get such a man for $25 a week, but he would be a good investment at five times that price.

A small book could be written on the subject of press books alone, but that is but one angle of the exploitation of pictures today, the most common forms being slides, teasers, papers, stills, cuts, mats and stunts, all of which are supplied in a greater or lesser degree by the distributor to the exhibitor.

All of these accessories to publicity are of assistance to the exhibitor even if they one and all carry the earmarks of having been ground out in a hurried, slip-shod manner.

The average teaser invariably is about fifty feet of film either showing a flash of a sensational grewsome scene or the star in a pose that is not germane to the story, all of which is hardly an exploitation of the picture. Personally we have the bulge on the rest of the exhibitors in this territory, as we have access to the new print several days before release and select our own teasers, which are replaced in the film prior to our running the picture.

Few of the larger houses use one-sheets. Occasionally somebody buys one, cuts out the head of the star and incorporates it in a lobby spread, but beyond that paper is not regarded au fait simply because the chap who selects the "subjects" is evidently the same chap who is responsible for the lobby stills. Why, oh why, does he invariably select, for instance, scenes of a fancy dress ball, thereby giving the impression to the fickle public that the picture is a costume play? Then, again, stills are shown of scenes that do not appear in the picture, which is somewhat embarrassing when a troop of young people come to your theatre to see on the strength of a still exhibited in the lobby a former high school associate who went to Los Angeles to become famous on the screen, and whose winsome features smile in the background among the extras. We've had that happen, too.

Cuts, too, are offered the exhibitor at a price. The small town man could say a lot about those cuts—electros ground out in 1,000 lots and apparently never inspected before they are shipped. Invariably they are of too fine screen and not etched deeply enough. The proofs shown in the press book, with its gloss finished paper, are fine and dandy, but the ultimate showing in the Bingville Review might be "London during a midnight Hunraid." When will the distributor realize that half-tone cuts are money thrown away unless they are used on a flat bed press? If he would stick to line cuts everybody would be better pleased.

All of which brings us down to mats. The same criticism applies. Even here with line mats, after the trademark, the name of the producer, scenario writer, author, cameraman, director, president and secretary of the company and a few others are duly set forth, there is not much left for the exploitation of the picture. We use the mats, however, frequently, and are glad to get them. But first we take them around to the newspaper stereo room and remove offending verbiage with a jig saw and substitute some scintillating children of our brain therein. But the chap back in New York is getting wise and is beginning to overlap the non-essentials, so that if one operates on a mat the ultimate result is weird and an offense to the printer's eye.

All of which brings us down to the trade paper advertising:

Sad to relate, owing to past experiences, few take the trade journal announcements seriously, and when there is a big spread on a particular picture Friend Exhibitor is prone to scent a nigger in the woodpile, the inference being that there is an extra effort being made to unload an unsatisfactory subject—the picture need not be of necessity a mediocre production, in fact oftentimes it is a masterpiece, but it is one of these that the public neither grasps or cares to witness. As has been remarked, the exhibitor is paying for this trade paper advertising of the producer, and this advertising should be such as will help the exhibitor. In other words, the producer should put the same appeal up to the exhibitor that the exhibitor wants to put up to his public.

Briefly, trade paper advertising on the part of the producer should be a selling argument to the fan and not a gold brick done up in adjectives and neatly tied up with some quotations from the esteemed critics on the New York papers. Two thousand miles away we don't care a whoop what the New York critics say, because it has been demonstrated time and time again that there is a mysterious connection between the business office and the scrambled brains department of the great and untrammeled press of Gotham.

The Exploitation of Pictures as a subject is a large order, and a book could be written thereon. Briefly summed up, however, the leading distributors have made great strides and their press books, accessories and hints are of great value to the exhibitor. As nearly every picture worth the name calls for different exploitation it is in a great measure up to the exhibitor to pull his own stuff, and it is only fair that he should be posted in advance on what to emphasize and what to avoid. In order to do so intelligently those responsible to the exhibitor should be in touch with local conditions.

As this is impossible back in New York or Chicago, the go-between in the form of the exchange publicity man knows each and every town in his locality and the foibles of the fans therein, is in a measure a solution. When once the little fellows realized that they had at their beck and call the exchange publicity man, that individual would be as busy as the proverbial hen with one chick.

The big exhibitor always will, if he is a live one, have his own press department, with an honest-to-goodness newspaper man at the helm.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

FOR several weeks members of the Advisory Board have been discussing the question of long and short features. To a considerable extent this dealt in theory, but at the Rivoli this week S. L. Rothapfel is proving that a presentation can be put over without one of the so-called features and that the audience will be delighted with the result.

Of course, the Marine flying pictures made under the direction of Lieut. Rothapfel form the featured part of the program—and they are wonderful pictures as you will hear later—but there was only a few feet more than three reels of these. The only other picture besides the scenic, the baseball picture and the animated was a two reel O. Henry story. And let us say here now that the applause that greeted this picture at the end has been equalled by few of the longer features that we have seen presented at either of the Rothapfel houses.

It certainly proves so far as audiences are concerned at the Rivoli that the length of the picture counts for little, if quality is there. "I never consider length in buying a picture," said Mr. Rothapfel several weeks before he had arranged this bill and the current presentation proves that this does not have to be considered provided all of the other elements are incorporated in the bill. And it proves, if possible, even stronger than any other presentation that we have seen the necessity of the combination of music and the picture to get the best results—and that the music is essential to every sort of picture.

And aside from any question as to how long feature pictures should be, exhibitors will do well to arrange such a bill as this now and then. It is a decided relief from the usual performance and your patrons will appreciate it as an added spice to their amusement diet. Let's go through this one in detail, from the time that the orchestra plays "Allessandro Stradella," a big, full-toned overture, with all the lights of the house in gold.

Then comes one of the Newman travel pictures released by Educational Films which includes shots taken in the national parks of the west. At the start there is a remarkable shot down a cliff and then a beautiful picture of Yosemite mirrored in a lake. Now not that Mr. Rothapfel has arranged a regular musical score here for this scenic. It opens with "Yankeeana" till we are shown some pictures of the tepees of the Blackfeet Indians, when "Dagger Dance" is used until some shots of boiling springs in Yellowstone when the music turns into "Natoma." Then with some shots of the bears, which get a number of laughs we have "Whispering Willows." With pictures of the big trees there is another shift back to "Natoma" (from G major) and this continues to the end of the scenic.

Note that we say until the end of the scenic, for there is a novel combination of pictures right here by bringing in the Katzenjammer Kids in a cartoon, "Picnic for Two," which is one of the funniest things that we have ever seen, a scream from start to finish. There is the most comical clock on record introduced for a flash and then with the pig, dog and cat that are placed by the kids in the picnic basket the action becomes fast and furious. The opening music for this is "Cutey" and then when the real action starts it changes to "Vixen Gallop," but all during this picture the orchestra has the time of its life with imitations of the animals and the various noises suggested by the comic.

Why was this cartoon placed here? Now though there are many laughs in the titles of the O. Henry picture and others in the baseball film, there would otherwise have been no real comedy on the bill if this cartoon had not been introduced. And the reason that it was brought up in front, between the scenic and the first musical number and before the Animated was to balance the "good nature" of the bill. For the titles in the O. Henry and the baseball picture got their share of the laughs at the proper place. And the Marine picture was left to the last because Mr. Rothapfel wanted everyone to go away with the smashing effect of it, patriotic admiration for the wonders that our boys are accomplishing.

There should be a reason for the arrangement of every bill. There is generally a mighty good one in the way that Rothapfel arranges them if you will stop to make the analysis. This is what we are trying to do for you here week after week.

But back: After this double film comes a most pleasing number, Tulle Lindahl dancing "Sakura! Sakura!" Here we have one of the splendid scenic investitures that are given the numbers at the Rivoli. With the lights all red except for the side panels in orange, there is a Japanese setting showing a Jap room with an immense window through which one saw the cherry trees in blossom. The setting and the lighting form such a picture that it is impossible for one to tell whether the flowers are real or merely painted; we don't know yet, for we failed to ask. A Jap lantern in red hanging from either side of the stage added to the effect.

Rivoli Animated is full of spice this week and it is unusual in that every picture included is from Gaumont with the exception of a single picture from Universal. Rothapfel has the choice from all of the news weeklies at his two houses and it is generally expected that the various trade marks will be seen during the showing of the world events. It opens with pictures showing the song festival at Palo Alto, Cal., with thousands of marching soldiers. The orchestra plays "Invincible Eagle" for the introduction to the Animated and then turns into "The Battle Cry of Freedom" which is played once through and then turns into "The Regiment's Return." The scenes of the men marching in hollow squares with the flag in the center get repeated applause. Free outings for the fighters at Kansas City bring in "Bugle Call Rag." There is a shot shown of "a long range observation of a brewery" and there are a couple of bars of "Hot Time" employed.

Kansas City figures again with pictures of thousands enrolling for work in the wheat fields "The Man With the Hammer and the Plow." Then come pictures of Dorothy Gish selling thrift stamps in Chicago and some clever pictures of kiddies licking the stamps to paste them on the cards, and for this the music is "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and this continues through the scene of prominent New York actresses making vests for the American aviators. "The Volunteers" is played for the launching of the "Liberty" at Kearney, N. J., and there are prolonged whistle effects as coming from the harbor craft as the big ship goes down into the water. "Rustles of Spring" is the music for clearing Pike's Peak of the snow in preparation for the summer travel. Universal furnishes the one break from Gaumont contributions with pictures of the great smoke fire in New York and here the music is "Hurry" with flashes of red above the screen, coming and dying down slowly.

Instead of leading up to a punch, it comes quickly this week. Why? Because the real punch of the entire presentation is in the Marine pictures at the end of the program. This present punch is supplied with pictures of the observance of Flag Day at Washington. There are pictures of the President that bring great applause and the picture comes to an end with shots of the Washington monument, starting from the very top and then coming down until a huge American flag is brought before the camera. For "Stars and Stripes" is used and the last flash dies away amid wild applause.

Lieut. B. C. Hilliam, of the Canadian army, adds another touch of genuineness to the program with his little talk and parodies on a couple of war songs. With the lights all red the orchestra plays a few bars of "Tipperary" and then the curtains part showing the performer with a piano on a stage and the background of red curtains. First there is a parody on "Keep the Home Fire Burning" which the lieutenant sings and plays without any other accompaniment than his own on the piano, but toward the very end the violins take up the refrain. Then he plays "Tipperary" as Liszt might have composed it and again as Sousa might have rendered it into a march and toward the end the full orchestra comes in playing "Tipperary" in full Sousa style. For the first time that we have seen it at the Rothapfel houses the curtains part for an encore.

Humor and naturalness predominate in the two reel O. Henry picture, "Sisters of the Golden Circle" which is truly a feature in itself. The titles are strikingly funny and the intimate pictures of New York delight the audiences. There is a special musical score for this, with the theme, opening and closing, "Love's Old Sweet

Rialto and Rivoli

Song." "Follow the Girl," "Sidewalks of New York," "Hellow, I'm Looking for You," used at the start of the detectives' chase with "Come Across," played when the supposed criminal burglar is ordered from the Fifth avenue stage. As we said a few moments ago, this two reel picture gets more applause than most of the longer features.

With the lights all in blue except the panels and border and uprights in red, the curtains part showing the rose garden setting and Miss Glady Rice sings "Filanelle" by D'Aqua. This is rendered with only piano accompaniment and chime effect on the organ.

Then follow the second of the series of baseball pictures. There are plenty of laughs in the title.

And a sure enough wallop with the Marine pictures. To save adjectives and explanations let us say now that these pictures, made under the direct supervision of Mr. Rothapfel, are the most wonderful that we have ever seen.

As a prelude Greek Evans, baritone, seated in the orchestra sings "The Devil Dogs," and then the curtains part showing a special setting with a map of the United States in blue, bearing the inscription "Semper Fidelis" and with the rays of red leading to it from all sides. Then the screen curtains part and we have the emblem of the marines. We are shown shots of groups of the aviators and then a clever arrangement of the emblem showing the three activities of the corps, in the water, on the land and in the air, each being a motion picture in itself. Then come out the flock of aeroplanes flying straight at the camera and then we have a close up shot of the waving flag. "Devil Dogs" continues for the introduction of the picture and when we get a shot of seven abreast coming toward the camera the music becomes "Club Gallop."

Now we have all sorts of evolutions of the planes like a flock of sea gulls and then one of the airmen drops behind to give a series of stunts before the background of white clouds. For the first time that we have seen in plainly shown in motion pictures there is the lint of the sun against the flying planes, giving a most artistic touch. We are shown one of the aviators doing the tail spin from less than a 1000 feet and straightening out 100 feet from the ground—a daring performance. There are some amazing pictures of the machines flying straight at the camera and at one place there comes a break in the film and a crash of the music indicating that the airman has struck the camera. There are views of a gun plane and a scout machine in a sham fight, showing the various evolutions. Then there are a series of pictures of life in the camp and the assembling of a machine. Then follow a series of pictures taken from one of the flying machines from the very start from the ground and we watch a series of evolutions of other airships, many of which fly right at the machine from which the pictures are taken. An entirely novel series of pictures is supplied when we are shown how various stunts look from the ground and how they look from the machine which is doing the performing. These, with the earth and clouds going upside down and around, draw murmurs of astonishment and applause. The pictures come to an end with "A Marine in Action," a picture of a soldier of the sea on shipboard taking his girl in his arms and with the fade out comes the title "The marines have landed and all is well." It is a remarkable picture and it sends the audiences away talking, and still talking.

Manager E. J. Myrick of the Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore., used this float carrying United States Marines to advertise "The Unbeliever." He turned his lobby into a recruiting station

"My Dearie," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Victory" and "Mary Lee" are some of the selections used with the "Marine Hymn" predominating. A peculiar thing about the musical arrangement is that the organ carries the last half of the pictures, those of the stunts in the air, and loses nothing by the lack of the orchestra, while the picture comes to an end with the organ rendering "Marine Hymn" with full effect.

Some bill, to take all this space just to outline it. And not a "feature" on it.

And so Rialto description must suffer in space accordingly though it is composed of a series on the best of individual subjects. Selections from "Manon" supply the overture and then come pictures of "Mexico Today," released by Educational, which show the sunken gardens of our southern neighbor, the manner in which the crops are raised and transported to market. "La Fete de Seville" is played for this. Sascha Fidelman, violin soloist, then plays "Romance."

Rialto Animated opens with Hearst-Pathe pictures showing divisions from Camp Devens streaming "over there." There are some splendid shots of marching men and the title "Kaiser Bill, can't you see the handwriting on the road?" brings a roar of applause. "Here They Come" is the music. From the same source come pictures of the launching of the "Liberty" and for this and for Universal pictures of gold champions playing for the Red Cross "Hero of the Isthmus" is played.

Great enthusiasm greets Hearst-Pathe pictures showing the Italians which have just crushed the Austrians and here "Bersaglieri March" is used with telling effect. Now comes the punch at the end with H-P pictures of the aviators in training at Kelly Field, Texas. We have striking shots of a number of machines flying together in all sorts of formations, looping the loop against a white sky and finally a flying wedge of airships coming straight at the camera. First the music is "Invincible Eagle" and this is played straight through and followed with "Columbia" for the final big smash.

With all the lighting in red and the outer curtains parted at the side panels showing the inner red curtains. Mlle. D'Espinoy then sings the "Waltz Song" from "Mirelle." The singer is garbed as a peasant girl and the song is rendered before the Byzantine setting.

Opening and closing scenes of the feature, Mme. Petrova in "Tempered Steel," are laid on the south and therefore there is a splendid chance given for the music and this adds no small part to the enjoyment of the picture. Before even the title comes on the screen we have a few bars of "My Old Kentucky Home" together with some other gems from Foster until the orchestra takes up the theme, "Down South." "Petrova Valse" is used several times during the picture and "Old Black Joe" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird" are also introduced with "My Old Kentucky Home" coming back as the final refrain. There is a great chance here for the exhibitor to do as Mr. Rothapfel has done and use these southern selections during the showing of the picture.

We would strongly advise giving the whole presentation a southern setting and making all the musical numbers, where possible, including the solos, well known southern music.

Selections from "The Firefly" follow and then there is an excruciatingly funny Mack Sennett comedy in "Her Screen Idol."

This Woman Exhibitor Tells You How

MISS FLOSSIE A. JONES, vice-president and general manager of the Waukesha Amusement Company, is one of the most successful motion picture theatre managers in the country. Her company controls the entire situation in the Wisconsin city, owning the Colonial, Auditorium and Unique. What she has accomplished in a city of 10,000 is a lesson to the manager in the smaller city who declares that this and that cannot be done.

Some four years ago her assets consisted of a determination to make good, a remarkable personality and willingness to do plenty of hard work. She had ideas; she felt that she could run a motion picture theatre and make it pay. She studied the local houses and satisfied herself what was the matter with them and she laid her plans for what she would do if she had one of the theatres. She studied pictures to see which were liked, and she studied the audiences.

Then she had an opportunity to rent a dilapidated theatre in which a man has tried to show motion pictures during the summer season. During the winter she used eight oil stoves to supply the heat, but the house remained the same unattractive place from its physical point of view, but still when spring came around there was a balance on the right side of the ledger. The reason was that the people liked the pictures that she showed and the way that she showed them.

In the spring she was able to get a Waukesha business man to go into partnership with her and $18,000 was spent in remodelling the Colonial. She first looked over the bids submitted by the various contractors and then rejected them all. She determined that the way to have the work done the way that she wanted it was to do it herself, and so she engaged the workmen and supervised the entire reconstruction of the house. The result was the sort of a theatre that met her ideals and that took on new prosperity from its reopening.

From the date that she rented the old structure up to today she continues to pick every picture that is shown at her theatres and to have charge of every detail of the management of the houses. It was shortly after this that she had a chance to take over the lease on a small house that had not paid and she did so, made money out of it and then sold it at a profit. But the three managers that followed all lost money and the theatre is now a business house. Which shows that there is a great deal in who is running a theatre.

It was after this that she brought the Unique, which had never paid expenses. Since that time her company has built the Auditorium, a $40,000 house.

Gives Real Presentations

Miss Jones recently has been giving presentations of pictures that would do credit to the biggest houses in the country. One of the recent ones was "The Blue Bird," which she put on with a special prologue. She planned to make the occasion one that the whole city would look forward to, and advertised one performance in the afternoon and one in the evening and here is the way that she carried it out:

Miss Flossie A. Jones, general manager Waukesha Amusement Company

She employed a clever professional solo dancer from out of town so that she could advertise the dancer's appearance impressively, and then she engaged three local girls who were good dancers and a little girl who sings and a little boy to impersonate Mytyl and Tytyl. The curtain went up with fairies dancing in the moonlight and the solo dancer, as Pan, asleep on the rocks, watched over by the fairy queen. The children came into the scene slowly and the fairy queen gradually awakened Pan as the lights took on a bluish tone indicating the coming of morning. Then she danced to the front of the stage with the fairies and this was followed by the little girl singing "Blue Bird" to Pan, while the fairy queen puts her arms around the two children telling them not to look for happiness in fairyland, but in their home. With the lights dimming the screen was then lowered and the picture immediately started.

"Why" of Unusual Things

Miss Jones' own comments on the manner of presentation have much of value for other exhibitors. She says:

"It was a sucess from an artistic and from an advertising standpoint. The theatre which seats 800 was packed at all performances, at admissions of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The audiences went away well pleased after enjoyable performances.

"Nine times out of ten you can please your audience, but it is nine times out of ten that you cannot get a full house unless you put forth a special effort. I have been very successful in putting on prologues and I have raised the admission price from 15 to 50 cents.

"Waukesha is 16 miles from Milwaukee and on the interurban with cars running every hour. We have five Milwaukee papers delivered in town daily with a circulation of 8,000, so that I am really in competition with Milwaukee theatres whose admissions are practically all 15 cents, with the war tax additional. Though I control the situation here as to amusements, I must keep pace with Milwaukee to satisfy my patrons.

"It is often a hard proposition to figure out how to pay big money for brand new pictures and also to make money, but I have found that if you get the public curious enough it is willing to pay advanced prices. Of course, you must be sure yourself that the picture is a good one and worth the price that you are charging and that from a business point of view you have the right to raise the admission.

"I cannot see, and never have been able to see, why one should show at the same price a picture costing $15 and another costing $100. Any merchant can sell goods at 20 cents that are selling at 40 cents, but he cannot make money, and accordingly he sells the goods at a price to make a profit. It's business with him. The goods are worth 40 cents and for that reason they are selling at 40 cents.

Scene from artistic prologue for "The Blue Bird," as presented by Miss Flossie Jones at the Colonial theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

"Why should not amusement be worth as much to the public as anything else it buys? I have always raised the admissions and have got it, even when I had stiff competition whose main slogan was, 'Always Ten Cents.' The public does not mind paying more if it gets what it wants and it is up to the exhibitor to satisfy the public and make it want it.

"Running a theatre is honest to goodness business. You must put in your time, effort, thought and work. It is a business of all day and half the night. One likes it because there is never a tomorrow—always today.

"I am so anxious that more exhibitors raise their admissions that I get excited when I think about it. I hear managers from every class of theatres big and little, say, 'I can't raise my admission, and I can't do this and I can't do that' and that 'business is poor.'

"If all managers would visit other theatres, talk more with fellow exhibitors, read what the big men are doing and put a little more thought and individuality into everything they do they would soon find a way out of their difficulties. I know that I get a lot of ideas, new ambition and a feeling of how to do something better by reading and seeing what other people are doing. It makes no difference how small or how big your business is, you can apply some one else's ideas to yourself so that it helps.

"If exhibitors only knew what they can do for another by exchanging ideas through the Motion Picture News, your service bureau would consist of a hundred pages each issue.

"There are so many things that one can do for one self. For instance on 'The Blue Bird' I had five hundred cut outs of bluebirds made and then took them to the printer and after they were finished I hung them on trees and bushes. They created quite a little talk for it was something new and in keeping with the picture.

"I used my lobby display in the Auditorium theatre while the picture was shown at the Colonial. I advertised in all of the houses, as one house helps the other. In my lobby display I used an electric shadow box. The figures were cut out from a one-sheet poster and mounted on a painted wood background, and a whole cut through with red tissue paper and a bulb behind it for the moon. There was also a real bluebird in the cage, which attracted much attention."

What does this account of the way Miss

(Continued on page 85.)

Attractive lobby display arranged by Miss Jones during showing of "The Blue Bird"

Your Idea and Ours

WE have told you a number of times that the Alhambra theatre, Toledo, O., ranks among the best advertisers in the country. Here is an example of the work.

In this case the Alhambra has used one of the cuts sent out by Goldwyn with the minimum of reading matter. A lighter, bet-

ALL THIS WEEK
MABEL NORMAND
In
'THE VENUS MODEL'
The Story of a girl who found a fortune in a bathing suit.
You will like Mabel Normand in this dainty production of the Little Queen, whose figure is her fortune.
CURRENT EVENTS FLAGG COMEDY
9:30—11:00—12:30—2:00—3:30—5:00—6:30—8:00—9:30.
SUNDAY — FIRST SHOW 11 A. M.
Alhambra
NEXT WEEK CHARLOTT
THE PROPER WARNING

ter effect would have been secured had the designer cared to go to the expense of having made Ben Day type faces for the larger type matter and for the portion of border used so as to carry out the style of the cut throughout. We would have eliminated the line which says that "you will like Mabel Normand in this dainty production of the little Queen whose figure is her fortune." Instead we would have used the wording, "Her figure is her fortune." It is shorter and much more striking.

But these are little things. You have to hunt to find flaws in the advertising of the Alhambra.

There is a lot in the expression that a theatre puts on "Good-Night."

THIS shows the way that Manager E. O. Weinberg, manager of the Elmwood theatre, Buffalo, one of the highest class neighborhood houses in that city, uses an entire billboard for advertising the pictures at his theatre. A glance at the cut will show that he puts up a stand which will cover the attractions for the entire wek.

Billboard advertising is a good thing for a neighborhood house, but there is one thing about which you want to be careful. Don't place these billboards where you are going to offend some of your patrons. There is a mighty strong protest in the residential sections of many cities about these, and, as a matter of fact, they do not add anything to the attractiveness of a community. But if the boards are those of a posting company and already erected so that you will not get the blame, all is well.

We expect to hear someone say that we are picking mighty small things for criticism, but we are sure that every neighborhood theatre manager, and every other manager, wants to do everything to keep the fullest good will of his patrons and if you can keep from offending any one you should go out of your way to do so.

Even the hottest weather fails to take the chill off some theatres.

THIS is the way that John C. Green, manager of the Temple theatre, Galt, Ont., and one of the most enterprising exhibitors on the continent, advertises. This display on "Tarzan of the Apes" appeared the Saturday before the Monday opening, there being no Sunday shows. This was the second run of this picture in all of Canada, and Mr. Green played it for six days in a city of only 12,000.

"I may be nutty," he writes, "but the Big Special Matinee Wed'y at 3 p.m.

All Seats 25c. Children 15c. War Tax Free
TEMPLE THEATRE
The Only City in Canada that will see this two dollar wonder picture at our low prices. War Tax Free
ALL NEXT WEEK
Monday to Saturday : Matinees Wed'y and Sat'y
MOST AMAZING STORY EVER PHOTOGRAPHED
TARZAN OF THE APES
A ROMANCE OF THE JUNGLE
See
Any Seat in the Temple 25c War Tax Free : Children Only 15c

result at the end of the week is the answer." And one of the reasons why this picture went over so big was that he used large space and a different advertisement each day, together with columns of readers. Mr. Green was one of the first exhibitors in this country to be convinced of the value of the lavish use of newspaper space and he has kept it up ever since.

One thing we like about all of his matter and that is that he keeps the name of the theatre dominant. With the exception of the fact that "All Next Week" is in unattractive type, this is a striking display.

Royal 3 Days Beginning Monday
"Over There"
With
Charles Richman and Anna Q. Nilsson
Admission will be-Children under 10 years 10c; Adults and Children over 10 years 25c
War Tax included

HERE is a splendid example of an advertisement that simply fills space. The Royal theatre, Hutchinson, Kan., took a space three columns wide and twelve inches deep. It could have made an excellent display on "Over There" in that space. We don't know what cuts were available to the theatre, but certainly we cannot tell what the one at the top is about and a meaningless cut is certainly a waste of space. The first paragraph of the smaller type is in good taste, but then, instead of making the announcement that Miss Grace Briggs is to sing "Over There," the advertisement goes ahead to tell people how much they are going to enjoy her singing. There is nothing convincing in this statement or in the matter that follows, which deals in generalities, "should sees" and superlatives.

We hope that the designer didn't mean it that way, but certainly this is one of the finest examples of an advertisement merely written to fill space that we have ever seen.

There's many an idea unused, but be sure that it is a real idea.

WHEN Manager W. W. Whitson (seen immediately behind the flag on the hood of the auto) got a detachment of marines to help him in advertising "The Un-believer," which was shown for a week at the Plaza theatre in San Diego, Cal., he pulled a stunt which filled his house.

What Live Wires are Doing

"The Unbeliever" had been given a pre-view several weeks before for the benefit of army, navy and marine officers, and so had been given considerable advance publicity which proved a big advantage when the auto shown herewith went through the streets, with machine-gun mounted in the rear, with a drummer and a bugler to draw attention.

This is a good form of exploitation in some cities—and once in awhile. We dislike to see the ordinary display wagons being driven around a city, but when you have something to show that will attract attention in itself, it is pretty sure to get you business.

Paris hats do not make a lady, nor superlatives a permanent business.

HERE is a good style of display to use once in awhile—the circle effect. Leave plenty of white space, as does the Majestic theatre, Portland, Ore., and you will have an advertisement that will stand out no matter what are the surroundings.

In this case the black and white halftone

Now Playing—
The Queen of Debutante Stars in a comedy drama of love, jealousy and misunderstanding
CONSTANCE TALMADGE in "The Honeymoon"
MAJESTIC
Special Added Attraction

effects have been employed, but we would not advise you to do this unless you can get good engraving and printing. Black and white and halftone combination require the very best in printing and there are few that do as good work as the Portland Oregonian, from which this is taken.

The machine gun kills more in a day than the ninety-miler in a month. It pays to get at close range with things.

G. F. FULLERTON, advertising manager for the Greater Theatres Company, Seattle, has done one of his very best pieces of copy writing on "Old Wives for New." It occupies a full page in the Sunday. It is distinctly an advertisement that will make every woman want to see the picture. In most cases we would not recommend the use of the number of cuts that are employed here, but in this case it is done for the purpose of covering the many angles of the picture. The quotation from Mrs. Berkeley to Mrs. Murdock is so strongly brought out as to serve as the text of the whole advertisement. But the lines that are featured the strongest in this display and in others that were used during the week are: "It takes the four walls off married life—and part of the ceiling, too."

Now the illustrations give just enough

SAID
Mrs. Berkeley to Mrs. Murdock:
"There is just one thing left for us to do in competition with the other kind of women: to wear more lace and ribbons than they—and to be more delicately perfumed! Just posing as virtuous isn't enough for wives any more. And now that we've got to compete with women who have to be alluring or go to the wall—we'll be all the better for it!"
When a Husband Begins to Wish His Wife Were Young Again WATCH OUT!
OLD WIVES FOR NEW
It Takes the Four Walls Off Married Life
—and part of the ceiling, too!
CECIL DeMILLE PRODUCTION
DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS STORY
COLISEUM
FIFTH at PIKE—CONTINUOUS 11 to 11
Admission 20c
Children 10c
HEAR the NEW and GREATER
COLISEUM SYMPHONIC ORCHESTRA—30 Pieces of the character of the production, especially the center scene picture. You will note that Fullerton does not tell you to "see the wonderful cabaret scene" or anything of that sort. He goes far enough to tell you the theme of the story and then he leaves the rest to your curiosity.

Use half the time you spend watching the other fellow in mirroring your own house.

WE have often mentioned in these columns that many of the producers make the cuts that they furnish mighty unattractive for use in the news columns of the daily papers. The great majority of the papers in the smaller cities cannot afford to make their own cuts and in many instances there is no engraver available.

Many of the producers seem to think that they must plaster their brand marks and name all over the cuts and to show you how a page made with this sort of stuff looks we print the Sunday sheet of the Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union. Cuts on this page come from Metro, Paramount, Triangle and Select. We must say that if the newspaper itself had used any care to detail the page might have been improved, for the advertising matter might have been cut entirely off one of the Triangle and one of the Paramount cuts and most trace eliminated from that of the Dolly Sisters.

The producer ought to get out of the habit of trying to "put over" advertising for his company on free stuff that the exhibitor is able to get into newspapers. They are going to have to co-operate in making

In the Movie, Dramatic and Variety Realms
ELSIE FERGUSON AT IMPERIAL TODAY AND MON. A DOLL'S HOUSE MILLION DOLLAR DOLLIES ARE COMING TO RIALTO THEATER
RUTH CLIFFORD and

this matter as attractive as possible if they expect the better grade of smaller newspapers to do their part.

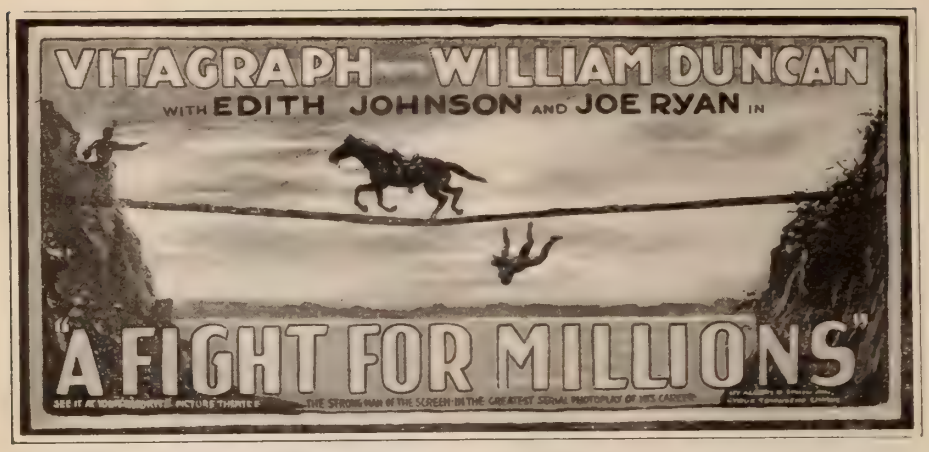
Your name on your theatre is your guarantee; and that means that you cannot forget yourself or your theatre for even a

ALWAYS bear in mind that it means money to your box office to couple a picture up with some local event. This was splendidly accomplished by the People's theatre, Tarentum, Pa. The display reproduced here appeared on the same day that one hundred and eight local boys called in the draft entrained for camp. A big story about the farewell given them appeared on the front page of the paper. For that matter everyone in town was probably down to take part in the farewell.

So the manager of the People's used fourteen inches six columns wide on the second page on "The Kaiser" and coupled up the showing with "100 Draftees left Tarentum this P. M. to help destroy 'The Beast of Berlin!'"

Mighty good work. We would have played that even stronger. We don't like the cuts used and as we have said before in criticisms of displays on this picture, the cartoon of the kaiser sent out by Jewel Productions should be used in all the displays. We wouldn't seek to vary it, for the cartoon will attract more attention than anything else.

100 DRAFTEES LEFT TARENTUM THIS P. M. TO HELP DESTROY
'THE BEAST OF BERLIN'
TONIGHT AND TOMORROW
THE PEOPLES THEATRE
Will Show the Spectacular Production of Prussianism
"The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin"
A Picture of This War Showing German Terrorism
SEE THE HORRORS
MADE IN GERMANY



Twenty-four sheet which Vitagraph is posting all over the country on its new serial

St. Paul Missing Its Opportunities; Whole Lot Lacking In Cooperation

(Continued from page 70.)

considered here. The New Garrick carries additional space here, while the Princess uses it for its regular announcement, with a space four columns wide by five inches deep.

Now back to the second page, or the first which carries advertising. There is no motion picture matter here, the space being devoted to a war story. The Majestic carries two columns five inches deep, the Blue Mouse and Alhambra each single three inches deep, and the Starland two inches single. The Palace uses ten inches double, but it is nearly all devoted to vaudeville.

The Shubert, devoted to a stock company, uses only three inches single column, but it has no trouble in keeping a chief place on the first page of the section for its matter. On the fourth page the New Garrick uses two columns, fourteen inches, and Hippodrome contributes the biggest display on the page with three columns eighteen inches on "The Unbeliever."

With the exception of the display in "The Unbeliever" and the always good advertising of the New Garrick, the display work of the St. Paul theatres is uniformly poor in their design and in the amount of space used.

Now on Mondays during the week we find the Princess and Garrick using three inches single column, the Majestic two inches, and there are no other displays than those of the Palace and Metropolitan. This paper runs a daily column under the heading, "Miss Parkay," which gives reviews of a very few of the motion pictures, but which devotes much attention to the "drahma" and vaudeville.

It is in the Wednesday edition of The Daily News that the theatres do the most of their week day advertising—on their change of bills, as a usual thing. Here we find the New Garrick using ten inches double, the Princess seven inches double, and the Majestic four double. Hippodrome uses twelve inches triple of "The Unbeliever." Blue Mouse and Alhambra each use three inches single and the Starland two inches. For this they get the usual reading notice; and the work is done.

We have purposely reproduced the regular dramatic page of The Pioneer-Press to show that this paper evinces a willingness to do things. It is well edited and interesting matter.

And on the motion picture page, though there is evidence that this paper can and would do things if it has a chance, there is a great deal of interesting matter. We believe that it could be improved, but certainly the man who is editing this page knows what sort of matter interests the fans and he gives it to them. There is some New York correspondence under a two-column heading, and this gives interesting news matter. There is a story about the Boston exposition and one about Mme. Petrova's tour, together with shorter matter. There are a few brief items under the heading of "Short Jaunts in Filmland."

It is a splendid showing when one considers that this paper carries only fifteen inches of motion picture advertising. Ae we have said before, the Ruben and Finklestein houses are not represented in this paper.

During the week we fail to find any reviews of other motion picture matter, and the only theatres advertising are the Alhambra and the Starland with one inch each.

Briefly, and without making a personal investigation into the situation, we would come to the conclusion that the theatres themselves are largely to blame for the state of affairs. We don't know exactly what the rules are that the newspapers make to require a certain amount of advertising to be used before reviews are granted, but we repeat that any business organization must have well defined methods of procedure. We do see, however, that the two at least apparently evidence a willingness to cooperate. The Daily News gives little more than reading notices in its Sunday issues, but The Pioneer-Press has the making of a splendid photoplay page, and we believe that it would come if that theatre got the advertising to justify it.

Yet, as we observed early in this article, the newspapers should not forget their duty to the public. And we have found that the motion picture theatre is going to be forced to advertise in the paper that makes its department so interesting that the general motion picture going public is reading it.

The two papers have made a beginning, and they can do more, but it is distinctly up to the motion picture theatres of St. Paul to undertake to do something more in the way of advertising. With the exception of the New Garrick and the advertising on "The Unbeliever," we repeat that the display work is unattractive.

It looks to us very much like most of the theatres that do use any space look upon advertising as something to be done and gotten out of the system as easily as possible.

St. Paul has some distance to go yet.

New Tulsa Theatre Makes Hit with Opening

"The Venus Model" was the opening bill for the new Majestic theatre, Tulsa, Okla., last week and Manager B. F. Rothstein made the whole section literally sit up and take notice by the big exploitation campaign that he put over.

Weeks in advance of the opening date he had bill posters plaster the territory for twenty-five miles around Tulsa with twenty-four sheets advertising the Mabel Normand picture and for ten days preceding the opening he carried half-page newspaper ads on the beauty of the house and its many charms, as well as about the opening picture.

In addition to this he built a float representing a bathhouse on the beach and engaged a girl to pose as "The Venus Model." This was used two days before the opening and for the four days of the run of the picture.

Still further Mr. Rothstein transformed his lobby into a bathing beach for the run of the picture. Tulsa is still talking about the opening and the popularity of the house has been firmly established.

"After Supper Matinees" to Boost Serial

"After Supper Matinees" is a suggestion offered by the Vitagraph plan book on the forthcoming serial, "A Fight For a Million," in which William Duncan is starred. Properly handled this scheme can bring new people to the theatre and start the serial off to increased business.

Under the daylight saving rule it hardly becomes really dark until nearly nine o'clock and Vitagraph suggests that theatres advertise that they are starting their evening shows at 6.45, or thereabouts, so that mothers may take their children to the show and get home in practically daylight.

Hyman Picks Films for Many U. S. Camps

Instead of being sent to take charge of Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., as has been announced, Edward L. Hyman, former manager of the Victoria theatre, Buffalo, who volunteered for duty with the Committee on Training Camp Activities, and first went to Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., has been put in charge of the Liberty theatre at Camp Gordon, Atlanta.

In addition to this important post he is now charged with the duty of selecting all the pictures to be shown at Camps Wheeler, McClellan, Gordon, Sevier, Greene, Bearegard, Hancock, Wadsworth and Sheridan.

Stage setting at Circle theatre, Indianapolis, for "Carmen of the Klondike"

"Atmosphere" Cools Patrons of Circle as Mercury Reaches the 90 Mark Outside

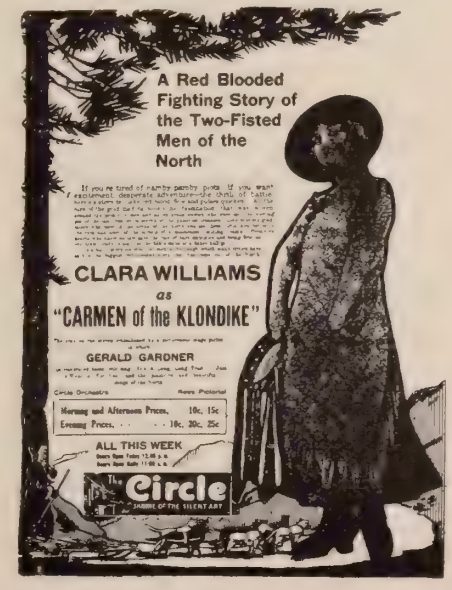
THE distance from Gimili, Manitoba, Canada to Indianapolis, Ind., is about 1,200 miles, but that is the distance S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Circle theatre went to secure the finishing touch of "Atmosphere" to his stage spectacle for the screen play "Carmen of The Klondike." Five full-blooded Alaskan "huskies," the finest breed of sledge dogs in the North, were brought from their distant home to the Circle to make their debut as actors in the beautiful stage picture which preceded the photoplay.

Although the thermometer outside the theatre was hovering around 90 degrees on the Sunday afternoon when "Carmen of the Klondike" opened its engagement, the audience which crowded the huge theatre to capacity gave expression to a distinct shudder as the curtain rose on a blinding blizzard of paper snow and the cold North winds whistled past the towering peaks of canvas ice and the dim red lights in a distant settlement blinked through the drifting flakes. Then off stage could be heard the faint tinkle of bells and before the audience could antitcipate what was coming a picturesque sight greeted them as the five-dog team dragging a Klondiker's sledge dashed in from the first entrance and up the inclined snow banked trail that led up to the center of the stage and carried off behind one of the glistening peaks.

"Long, Long Trail" Used

In the center between the mountain pass the party halted and as though exhausted from their long run the "huskies" fell to their haunches as the orchestra softly began to play the first strains of "There's a Long, Long Trail" and Gerald Gardner, the celebrated American basso, dressed in mackinaw and fur cap and a striking figure framed against the white background, sang the plaintively beautiful song.

The applause was deafening. The dogs, eager to be on their way and with an apparent instinct for the dramatic effect, rose to their feet and started off, only to be stopped as they reached the top with two of them still in view of the audience and as the shadows began to fall the singer seating himself on the sledge pack sang "Just a Wearin' For You," as the snow storm subsided and the bright stars of a Northern night twinkled against the soft blue of the horizon drop. The song ended, a crack of the whip, a sharp command, "Much, You Huskies," and the team moved on down the long trail.



A Red Blooded Fighting Story of the Two-Fisted Men of the North
CLARA WILLIAMS
as
"CARMEN of the KLONDIKE"
GERALD GARDNER
Morning and Afternoon Prices. 10c, 15c
Evening Prices. 10c, 20c, 25c
ALL THIS WEEK
The Circle
HOME OF THE SILENT ART

This ad, five columns by fourteen inches, appeals to the love of life

ATMOSPHERE IN ADVERTISING

That Is the Subject of the Second of McCormick's Articles for News

WE don't know of an article that has appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS that has attracted the attention as did the first of the articles on advertising by S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, which appeared in the last issue. If you haven't read it, get your copy out of your file and read about "Advertising to the Heart."

Mr. McCormick is in the very front rank of the exhibitors of the country on all angles of the business, but we consider him preëminently qualified to advise on advertising and we know that his articles are going to be one of the real features of the Exhibitors' Service Bureau.

"Atmosphere in Advertising" will be the subject of his second article. It will appear in next week's issue. Go back and read the first one now, if you missed it. If you read it once you probably read it twice. That's the way it impressed us.

But the audience was not satisfied. They wanted more, and as the shadows fell still deeper into the scene of the snow blanketed North the first red streaks of the Aurora Borealis flamed in the sky, changing and shifting into a veritable kaleidoscope of color, while off stage could be heard the refrain of "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," moving on and on down the trail until the voice died away in the distance. The screen appeared and the first scenes of the photoplay flashed on blending stage spectacle and picture into one artistic whole.

The photograph reproduced here can only give a stiff and stilted reproduction of the stage picture. With the soft blue lights that cast a haze over the scene and the tint of color from red borders that filled the soft folds of the scene with deep shadows and the flickering lights from the distant settlement showing through the falling snow made a setting that carried realism to the utmost degree.

A unique feature of the setting was the fact that with the exception of a small ground row representing the distant settlement there was not a foot of painted scenery on the whole set. The effect being accomplished by draping tinted muslin over wooden stilts, and the securing of color effects by an unusual arrangement of lights. In this manner the stiffness of painted scenery was abolished and the long soft creases fell into graceful lines which under the lights gave the effect of drifts, deep gorges and snow-covered valleys that stretched out as far as the eye could see.

This unusual method of stage setting was

(Continued on page 82)

The Biggest Red Blooded Story That Ever Came Out of the North
There's the thrill of battle, the excitement of strange adventure, the lure and fascination of the snow-blanketed Yukon in this virile story of Two-Fisted Fighting Men. Red Blood pounds fast through the veins as one watches this manly drama of the Gold Country. Romance tints the scenes with its lights and shades of a great love, and nerves fairly leap in excitement as one sees these two hard-hitting, bare-knuckled men, the best and worst of the Klondike, meet man to man and Battle like Bronzed gladiators in the rain and sleet of that vast arena of the North.
CLARA WILLIAMS
—AS—
"CARMEN OF THE KLONDIKE"
The Play on the Screen Embellished by a picturesque stage picture of the great North, during which
GERALD GARDNER
The celebrated basso will sing "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Just a Wearyin' For You" and the plaintive songs of the North.
NEWS PICTORIAL. CIRCLE ORCHESTRA.
TODAY (Saturday) ONLY
ENID BENNETT
—IN—
"NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY"
Morning and Afternoon Prices, 10c-15c.
Evening Prices, 10c-20c-25c.
ALL NEXT WEEK
STARTING TOMORROW
IT'S COOL AT THE CIRCLE
Circle
SHRINE OF THE SILENT ART

This display, three columns by fourteen inches, is built on romance and excitement

"Carmen" at the Circle

(Continued from page 81)

an original creation of the scenic studios maintained by the Circle.

But what about the cost?

Yes it does cost money to put on such a production and bring a team of huskies from the far North just for one week's program, but the cost of any unusual feature, if it is within reason, will always justify itself. In this case it more than accomplished its purpose. The novelty of the dog team was sprung on the audience as a surprise; they were not looking for it. They of course expected a picturesque stage setting with some unusual feature, but the big novelty was not disclosed until the opening performance, and as a result was enjoyed doubly as much as if the audience had been anticipating it.

Then a portion of the expense could easily be charged to advertising, for the arrival of an Alaskan dog team on a hot June day in Indiana provided all kinds of publicity material. And legitimate publicity at that, for it was exactly the kind of "human interest" stuff that newspapers like to find. It offered innumerable chances for the feature writers to work real atmosphere into their stories, and stories about a sudden drop in temperature, imaginary interviews with the "huskies" and humorous stories about how they acted when the dogs stepped into the raging blizzard of paper snow, formed features in all the newspapers.

"My Four Years" Ends Five Weeks' Los Angeles Run

Five weeks continuous run in Los Angeles indicates the manner in which the Gerard Film "My Four Years In Germany" has succeeded in Los Angeles theatres under the management of the First National Exhibitors Exchange. This film was first leased to Clune's Auditorium for an indefinite run, and continued there for three weeks beginning May 20th. The advertising carried, while spectacular in the extreme, did not draw good business the first few days of the engagement, but by the end of the week the house was having capacity for both the afternoon and evening shows, there being but two performances daily.

Business continued exceptionally good through the second and a part of the third week. At the end of three weeks it was necessary to close the engagement because of other subjects which had been booked for Clune's, and Manager T. L. Tally, of the First National Exchange, moved the subject to his own theatre, the Broadway. The Tally house has but about one-third the seating capacity of the Auditorium, or about 900 seats, and the business during the first week at the Tally theatre was far in excess of the capacity. The second week at Tally's, or the fifth consecutive week in Los Angeles, the business dwindled slightly owing to extremely warm weather.

Pictures of "Kids" Score Hit at Rochester

Manager Joseph Stoffel, of the Plymouth theatre of Rochester, N. Y., has found a way to win the hearts of the children of his neighborhood. Manager Stoffel spent a week in collecting pictures of all the youngsters to be found in the vicinity of his theatre. For that purpose he sent out a staff of photographers to search the highways and byways for every specimen of humanity of school age and snap pictures of them. The result was that the cameramen returned with a large grist of pictures, which were developed and put together in one long film.

The next week Manager Stoffel announced that every girl and boy in the neighborhood would be shown on the screen of his theatre that week. In expectation of that interesting event, the juvenile population of the neighborhood turned out complete to see itself in film form.

Thrift Stamps Required as Theatre Admission

One of the cleverest pieces of exploitation yet was that offered by Manager J. B. Stone, of the Bonita theatre, Canton, Ga., on the day that "For the Freedom of the World" was shown. Every person passing the door was required to deposit a 25-cent Thrift Stamp as the admission fee.

"Why not Thrift Stamps for the freedom of the world?" was the slogan that Mr. Stone used. Of course this meant that Mr. Stone had to devote all the receipts of one of his best days to the Government, but the prestige given his theatre, aside from the patriotism involved, is more than worth the sacrifice.

Mary Pickford's "Double" at the California

Partington Finds a Local "Double" to Exploit Pickford Film

AN inexpensive added feature introduced by Manager J. A. Partington, of the Imperial theatre of San Francisco, can be carried on by exhibitors in any city and will no doubt bring results.

Mr. Partington, in connection with the showing of the Artcraft Pickford subject "M'liss," through photographers and artists of San Francisco, sought and found a girl who resembled Miss Pickford. He then secured a costume which was a duplicate of that worn by the star for the film, and he had the girl make a personal appearance at the afternoon and evening performance, putting on a little act that ran about three or four minutes.

There is no doubt but that exhibitors everywhere could boost their receipts by having the Mary Pickford, the Clara Kimball Young or the Dorothy Gish of their own home town appear in person on the stage. It might create more interest if a general appeal was made through the public to name the local girls who resemble film stars.

It is getting close to your public, and that counts, and this is a certain method of doing so.

Two views of special settings for pageant for Red Cross week at the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.

Here is an Ideal Red Cross Drive Pageant; How Palace Theatre, Wichita, Put It Over

TRUE, the second Red Cross drive is only a part of America's glorious history, now, but there are other Red Cross drives coming and other similar events on which the splendid tableau given at the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan., can be used. It is such work as this, on special occasions that has placed the motion picture theatre on the plane that it is to-day.

Through Hans P. Flath, the musical director of the Palace, who is responsible for much of the success of the house through his accompaniments for pictures, we are able to give in detail the arrangements of the entire spectacle. We would suggest that you take out your note book and under the heading of "Red Cross" put down the number of the page and the issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS in which this appears and when the time comes around for you to stage something of this sort, you will have it at hand.

Now for the way the Palace did it:

As the curtain rose, the audience discovered a huge box, representing a book, The History of the World. Then appeared a Red Cross nurse, delivering a short prologue in verse as follows:

Since God first made the Universe
And gave to mankind power,
A sentinel He sits on high,
As in a watchman's tower.
Records each day the deeds of good
Or bad that may be done
As he watches o'er humanity
And counts them one by one.

So man has since recorded
Through humanity's winding stages,
The deeds of our forefathers,
By history's crowded pages.

We have read of deeds of valor
And the ancient monarch's song,
Truthful deeds and youthful deeds
And deeds of right and wrong.

Yet, there were days of pleasure
Since this world first began;
Smiles and tears go hand in hand
As long as there is man.
So let's go back some hundred years
To dear coquettish France,
Mid war-torn strains and love refrains
They still found time for dance.

During the above, the music from "Thais" was used as incidental. As the last line was spoken, the nurse opened the first page of History, disclosing a little French couple attired in court wigs, etc. They stepped out of the book, and executed the French Minuet, after which they made their exit. Then follows the second stanza.

Across the straits of Dover
To old England let us roam
The land of pomp and dignity
Our forefather's home.

They, too, found time for revelry
As lad and lassie gay,
Drove weary hours and dreary hours,
And saddened thoughts away.

So now, behold with pleasure
From the land of mother bliss,
Adorned with smiles and tresses
The English dancing Miss.

For the above, the incidental music was "Merry Makers Dance," from Nell Gwynn. Again on the last line, the nurse opened up the next page of history disclosing the English dancing Miss, who, same as before, stepped out of the page, and did an English dance, after which she made her exit. Then followed the third stanza:

And now we leave the motherland
Across the deep blue sea,
And come to the good old U. S. A.
The land of liberty.

Put down in history's pages
The home of democracy,
Where justice and mercy
Keep from bondage, you and me.

Here, too, in time of peace
We find time for work and joy,
And now we see America's girl
And Uncle Sammy's boy.

The incidental music was "Potpourri of Old American Songs." Then, as before, on the last line of the stanza, the nurse opened the next page of history, disclosing an American dancing girl and Sammy boy, who did the one-step to the chorus of "Oh, Johnny," which brought down the house; they made their exit at finish of dance. Then followed the fourth stanza:

And now the world is saddened
From pleasures we are constrained
And history is darkened
Each page is more and more bloodstained.

Our boys are fighting in a living Hell
'Neath our great flag unfurled,
With only a Red Cross nurse to cheer them
The greatest mother in the world.

So give, and please give freely
To save those living from the dead,
For in time of need, she's always there
The nurse, with the cross of Red.

The incidental music used was "Largo" from Dvorak's "New World Symphony." At the last line, "The nurse with the cross of red," every light was put out, and simultaneously a huge Red Cross flag 8 x 10 was lowered, and spot light was thrown on flag. Immediately following this came a crash of thunder, roar of cannons, crash of lightning, a soldier and sailor boy dashed back and forth across the stage as if in battle.

All that was discernible during the battle was the illuminated Red Cross, and at the cue, trumpet call and reveille another spot was thrown on flag pole, from which were flying American, English and French flags, and the "Star Spangled Banner" was played, disclosing present age in history. This box was illuminated inside, portraying the kaiser on his knees, in front of Justice, with a soldier of liberty on one side, and Red Cross nurse on the other. All lights full up on this finale.

This tableau was presented at the four o'clock and eight-thirty shows during the week of the last Red Cross drive, while nurses stationed in the lobby accepted free will offerings, and enriched the Red Cross to the amount of $670. It is needless to say that this was very effective.

1500 Children See "My Four Years"

Sidney Lawrence, manager of Majestic Gardens, Grand Rapids, Mich., showed "My Four Years in Germany" to an audience of fifteen hundred school children from the grammer grades at a special performance which he gave on Saturday morning.

Manager Lawrence said it was the most enthusiastic audience of the week and he was astounded at the intelligence in matters of the war displayed by the children.

"They aplauded the lines with as much discernment as any audience this week," he said, "and I consider this a fine tribute to the patriotism and teaching ability of the teachers in the Grand Rapids schools."

Special summer stage setting, Colonial theatre, Columbus, O.

"Psychology" Has Big Effect on Comfort of Motion Picture Audiences in Summer

"WHAT do you do in summer time to meet poor attendance?" This was a question that we asked one southern exhibitor whom we suspected of barely tiding over the hot weather period. And to our astonishment the reply came:

"The summer is the best season that I have. I am located in a city of 12,000 where we haven't as many modern improvements as we might ask for in the way of streets, sidewalks, and street lightings. Therefore, in the winter when we have heavy rains, the streets are rather sloppy and often a bad rain will interfere seriously with business. But in summer there may be a little too much dust, but the walking is good.

"My theatre seats 600. I wouldn't want to compare it with one of the New York houses, but I was amused a week or so ago to find in one of the trade journals a somewhat elaborate account of the fact that a certain theatre has done something new in putting chintz covers on its seats for the hot weather period. I have done that for the past three seasons. My attention was called to the point through a domestic conversation. My wife and myself are fortunate in having a perfect business partnership and when she happened to remark that she didn't need so much money because the summer clothing for the children was cheaper, I had an inspiration.

"My seats are covered with red plush—am sorry to say. They look attractive enough in the winter, but they look mighty hot in the summer. I decided that they might be covered with some sort of material for the summer and found that by using white domestic and having two sets of covers made that I could get away with it at a very small amount. My original investment was $240. The laundry bills, at pound lots amount to some $12 a week. This was three years ago, and with a few replacements mainly caused by willful destruction, I have them still. Of course, with the increase on all lines this may cost a little more today, but not much more.

"When we started to put these on the seats the weather turned unseasonably cold. My wife happened to be in the theatre. She turned to me and asked: 'Do you notice anything unusual about me today?' 'No,' I replied, 'except that you smell very much of moth balls.' 'Yes,' she came back, 'had to get this wrap out of the closet because it was so cold today. You are not going to put on those seat covers with every one thinking how cold it is for June. They are to suggest coolness and confort. If you put them on now you are going to get just the opposite effect.' And she was right.

"Three days later we had one of the warmest days of the entire summer. The seat covers went on. Now, we had the same cooling system that we had for the preceding summer, but I had a dozen people mention to me how much cooler the theatre was than it had been a year ago. As a matter of fact the theatre was several degrees warmer than it had been on the same day a year before, but it was the psychological effect. The house LOOKED cool, and therefore it WAS cool so far as the public was concerned."

M. Marcus, formerly manager of the Colonial theatre, Columbus, O., and later manager of the Grand, Pittsburg, believe very firmly in the psychology part of it. Last year he arranged a special setting for summer time which is illustrated here. It gave the effect of snow and ice and one could almost imagine the cooling winds. Here is a quotation from his letter about the setting:

"It is timely and a wonderful effect for any house. Any exhibitor could frame something up around the picture curtain which would give a cooling effect. It is surprising the way that it has a tendency to cool the theatre. In the set that I used I had ten electric fans hidden from view, so that there would be a continued breeze at all times. I used the expression 'Sit Amidst the Breezes.'"

Most theatre owners start cutting down expenses with the very start of hot weather. They form the opinion that people will not attend the theatre during the hot spell. There's a reason why—because the exhibitor offers his patrons no reason for them to leave their front porches. If they would only get busy and dress up their houses or lobbies with vines and give the theatre the summery effect and add a few fans we wouldn't have so many houses closing up during the hot months."

We know of one manager who is following the recommendations of Mr. Marcus. Along the sides of the house he had placed a series of small shelves. From these he has various kinds of growing flowers. He found that the so-called night flowers did better for him than most of the others, which have to have sunshine in order to exist. These night flowers grew well and bloomed under the influence of plenty of water. They were taken out of the theatre during the morning hours and given a sun bath. This may be considered a large amount of trouble, especially when one has to take care of the trailing vines, but it was worth a lot of money in the course of a season.

Another manager writes that he has started serving cold water between the pictures. "I have always had coolers in the lobbies" he says, "but I believed that it would give an added touch if I had the ushers take around water in the intermissions. The people appreciate this and they feel that their comfort is being cared for at the Empire. I have my ushers—they are girls—wearing white because that serves to give a cool atmosphere. Little things like this make the people think that they are much more comfortable than they would believe they were under ordinary conditions. The fans themselves I keep hidden because I don't want the people to think about the heat. My competitor makes it a point to give souvenir fans to each patron. I think that is a bad idea, because it is an invitation to recall the hot weather without."

These are just a few of the suggestions that come to us. There are undoubtedly many other exhibitors who are doing unusual things to retain and increase patronage in the hot weather.

What are you doing?

Let us hear.

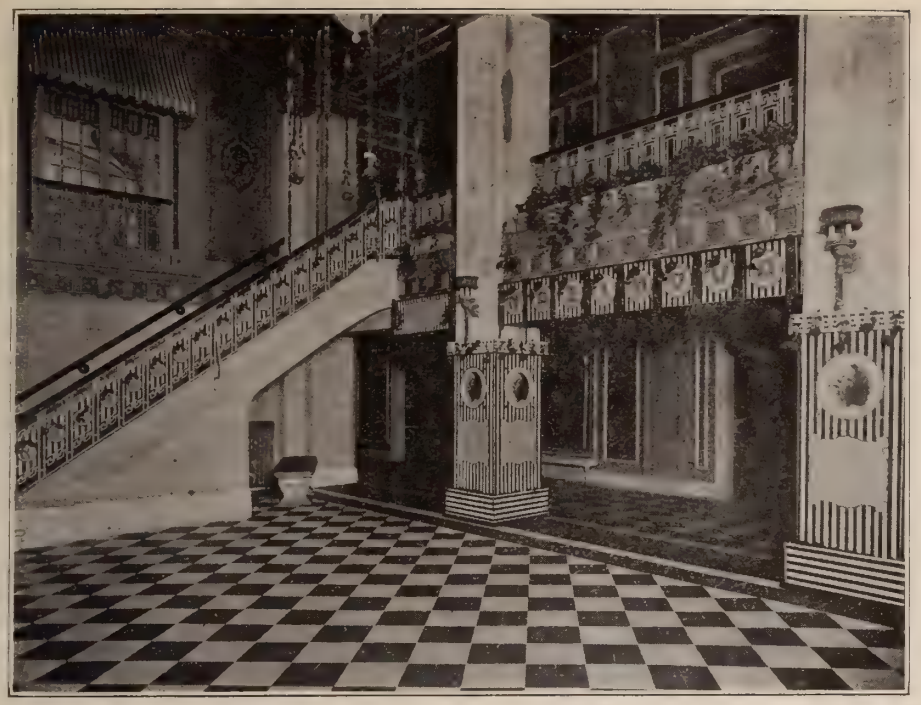
YOUR IDEA

It's Worth As Much to the Other Fellow As He Is to You

SCORE of letters each week tell us how much help exhibitors are getting from the ideas of others that are reproduced in these pages.

We are mighty glad to hear it, because we are striving to make this the meeting place of the best thought of the industry. But have you ever thought that your own idea may be worth a great deal to the other fellow?

We want to help you; you help the others.



Unique manner in which lobby of Central Park theatre was decorated during the run of "Revelation"

Central Park Follows a Novel Decorative Idea in Lobby on "Revelation" Week

CENTRAL PARK theatre, Chicago, took advantage of every one of the opportunities offered them in the heralding and presentation of Nazimova in "Revelation" during the week that it showed there. The display, of course, was concentrated in the lobby and for a full week before the opening of the picture the expectant eyes of the regular patrons were given a feast when they entered the theatre. Ten panels, each 66 by 28 inches, were used on the pillars. They were in black and white with a red fibre roping and garnished with American Beauty. roses—400 in all of these blooms, together with yards of ribbon being used. Each panel carried a circular cut-out, 18 inches in diameter, of Nazimova. The display cards under the cut merely announced "The Great Nazimova in Revelation. Premiere showing."

One of the noticeable and pleasing impressions about the display was the absence of profuse lettering. Nothing more than the name of the star, title and date of presentation was used. There were no superfluous and extravagant praises and phrases. All the lettering was done in dark blue and gold. Ornaments were made from gold and red metallics.

The stair casings were utilized in a clever and ingenious, as well as artistic manner. Each square held a card with a single letter and rose, the whole combining at a glance to spell "Nazimova—Revelation." Four thousand candle power baby spotlights were concealed in different points of the lobby, throwing their light on four different photos of the star. The effect was great.

Simplicity, despite the words needed here to describe it, was the keynote of the whole display. It was, however, artistic and striking and that is the object that Alexander Frank. who evolved it, always strives for. The black and white panels were made of a good grade of wall paper mounted on cardboard. The pillar pedestals were filled with artificial moss which was saturated with rose perfume.

In a great part the attractive display was responsible for the record success of the picture. Visiting exhibitors—and they are many each week at the Central Park, were full of praise. All the wooden frame work was so arranged that not a nail had to be used and the beautiful walls and pillar surfaces were left unmarred.

"Revelation" now holds the attendance record at the Central Park. It was the first picture to run a week there. No other previous feature was ever shown for more than three days.

KEEP MARKS OFF

Send a Few Lines if Necessary to Make a Point

CERTAIN of our friends who send in newspaper advertisements, programs, photographs and other matter insist on marking the face of them so that attention will be drawn to certain points. Unless the marks are in ordinary light pencil they will show in the reproduction of the cut. Consequently we do not use such matter.

If you need to make notations make them in pencil and on the back of the printed matter or photograph.

British-American Angle Aids in Exploitation of "Manx Man"

FIND the angle of each picture that you show—and then play that angle. An excellent example of what can be done by following such advice has just been afforded by R. S. Averill, manager of the Modern theatre, Providence, R. I., in his presentation of "The Manx Man."

Mr. Averill, recognizing that the picture was made from the story by Hall Caine, one of the most eminent of English actors, hit upon the idea of linking up the Anglo-American appeal and decided to stimulate the British-American interest in the picture.

He first appealed to the president of the local British Empire club and then got in touch with the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission where Lieut. Hadley so thoroughly approved of the idea that he agreed picture.

"Invitation Nights" were next in order. After having as guests the officers of both societies, Mr. Averill set aside nights that he advertised as "City Officials' Night," "Town Criers' Night" and "Rotarians' Night" and the house was taxed to capacity at these performances and all others during the week. In his lobby the manager had a life-size portrait of Lieut. Henry Ainley, leading man in "The Manx Man" and a six-sheet showing 500 or more British soldiers in several scenes.

The business following these special invitation showings justified the trouble Manager Averill went to in arranging and carrying his showmanship idea.

"There isn't a place in America where the stunt can't be worked with the results it brought the Modern," says Mr. Averill. "The week's engagement broke all records for Providence motion picture houses."

"Let me say here that exhibitors who want to use this stunt must not make the mistake of thinking that I scattered my cards of invitations broadcast. I gave that particular matter lots of thought. I felt that if I were lavish with my invitations it would cheapen the value of the picture, so what I finally did was to send the cards out to only the officers of these organizations. There were not more than a dozen cards (admitting two) out for each night and the results were positively surprising considering this small amount of 'paper.'"

A Woman Exhibitor

(Continued from page 77)

Jones does things mean to you?

We are printing it not alone to give an account of the splendid things that she is doing, but to encourage other exhibitors to do more.

Here is a woman who started with nothing more than personality, brains and industry and who is conducting three houses in a city of 10,000, and conducting them successfully in competition with a great city only a few miles away.

Certainly Miss Jones should prove an inspiration to every one connected with the industry.

Ready-Made Ad Talks

Peggy Hyland in "Other Men's Daughters" —Story of Gay Life and Its Effect

(Fox Five-Reel Production)

A story of the gay side of life interspersed with its tragedies mark Peggy Hyland's latest Fox production, "Other Men's Daughters," the best that this English actress had done in many months. "Other Men's Daughters" was written by E. Lloyd Sheldon, and produced for William Fox under the direction of Carl Harbaugh. It is in five reels. Ranging from life in a convent to that lead by frequenters of New York's gay White Way, the story as enacted by Peggy Hyland and an excellent supporting cast, consisting of Eric Mayne, Elizabeth Garrison, Regina Quinn, Riley Hatch, Frank Goldsmith and Robert Middlemas, carries all the elements which usually go to make for a entertaining screen drama. It tells of the struggles of a beautiful young girl to win her father from his gay friends. Miss Hyland has the role of Shirley Reynolds, who is in a convent when her mother informs her that she has obtained a divorce from her father, because of his gay life. Shirley goes to her father's studio, and finds a gay party in progress. Lola Wayne is dancing to the applause of the men and women gathered around. Lola's father arrives and, seeing the degradation to which his daughter has fallen, plans to strike Reynolds by bringing his daughter Shirley to the same level as Reynolds has brought Lola. Shirley outwits her enemy, and succeeds in bringing her father out of the meshes into which he has fallen, and reuniting him with her mother.

Peggy Hyland in "Other Men's Daughters" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

"Good Night Nurse," Fatty Arbuckle's Latest Laugh Medium—Laughs and Thrills

(Paramount-Arbuckle Comedy—Two Reels)

"Good Night, Nurse" is Fatty Arbuckle's latest medium through which he conveys his inimitable humor to his millions of followers in the comedy field. In the supporting cast with Fatty, are seen Al St. John. Thrills and laughs come in such rapid succession that you will have time for nothing else excepting, undivided attention to Fatty and his cohorts of laugh makers. The story relates in excellent comedy fashion what happens to Fatty on the morning after the night before. He is still celebrating while his wife waits for him at home. Wifey, who is indignant, and naturally so, patiently waits the coming of hubby with a terrible look in her eyes. Trouble is brewing. But Fatty is not worrying about wifey or what is going to happen to him when he reaches his domicle. He is walking with the greatest unconcern about the village streets, "walking it off," when a violent storm breaks and he seeks shelter in a near-by drug store. The proprietor promptly throws him out into the arms of a dignified gentleman who has been celebrating on his own account the night before. The two become friendly. They pick up an acquaintance with an organ grinder and his monkey. He takes Mr. Monkey home with him and adds injury to insult. He is taken sick and his wife sends him to a sanatorium and —those nurse girls.

Fatty Arbuckle in "Good Night, Nurse," his latest bunch of laughs, at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Dorothy Dalton in "The Kaiser's Shadow" —Story of German Spies in America

(Paramount Five-Reel Production)

Dorothy Dalton's latest starring vehicle is "The Kaiser's Shadow," adapted from "A Triple Cross," which appeared serially in the All Story Weekly under the signature of Octavus Roy Cohen and J. U. Giesy, two magazine writers of country-wide fame. The picture was produced under the direction of R. William Neil and supervised by Thomas H. Ince. In the cast with Miss Dalton are Thurston Hall, Edward Cecil, Leota Lorraine, Otto Hoffman and Charles French. The story deals with the activities of the German spies and how they are apprehended by Secret Service agents. The scenes are laid in one of our large American cities. An American inventor, Clement Boyd, invents a "ray rifle" which has been accepted by the ordnance department. The secret of the invention is desired by William Kremlin, chief of the German spy system in America. Clement Boyd, the inventor and Dorothy Robinson (Dorothy Dalton) are married and Boyd, fearing to part with the plans of his invention, takes them with him on his honeymoon—that is, he thinks he is taking them with him, but is surprised to find, on entering the automobile which is to carry the bride and groom to the station, that he has as a companion, not his wife, but a stranger. Boyd is taken to a beautifully furnished house and made a captive by the chauffeur and the mysterious girl. He refuses to tell where the plans are. It develops that the strange girl and the chauffeur are United States Secret Service agents and they succeed in rounding up the German spies.

At the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, Dorothy Dalton.

Gloria Swanson in "You Can't Believe Everything"—The Danger of Scandal

(Triangle Five-Reel Production)

The injury that wagging tongues may do, knows no end. All the ambitions that were ever fired within the breast of man or woman may be killed by the scandalous sayings of your fellowman. But eventually, right is might and the innocent will conquer. In Triangle's late production, "You Can't Believe Everything," this fact is brought out. Gloria Swanson is the pretty society belle whose reputation is besmirched by the scandal mongers who divide their time between gossiping and scandalizing others. In support of Miss Swanson are Jack Richardson, Darrell Foss, Edward Peil, James Cope, Grover Franke, George Hernandez, Kitty Brandbury, Bliss Chevalier, Iris Ashton and Claire McDowell. The picture was produced under the direction of Jack Convay. One of the big features of this offering is a scene showing a spectacular banquet held aboard a river barge. Neptune's Banquet it is known as and Director Canway has spared neither expense or time in bringing out every detail of the splendor which such a banquet is supposed to represent. Edward Peil will make his first appearance in this picture as a leading man under the Triangle banner. Jack Richardson, you all have seen to fine advantage before. "You Can't Believe Everything" not alone teaches a lesson of importance to all but it affords an excellent bit of screen entertainment.

Gloria Swanson in "You Can't Believe Everything" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" in Pictures—Marguerite Clark as Topsy and Little Eva

(Paramount Release)

Harriet Beecher Stowe's epoch-making novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has been reproduced for screen presentation by Paramount and Marguerite Clark is seen as Little Eva and Topsy. This famous story, which President Lincoln said was responsible, in a good measure, for the Civil War, has been read by old and young. It is known from Coast to Coast. It has been presented on the stage year after year and always pleases. It can now be seen on the screen with Marguerite Clark portraying the two important feminine roles and Frank Losee portraying Uncle Tom and Walter Lewis that of Simon Legree, the slave master. Others in the cast are J. W. Johnston, Florence Carpenter, Phil Riley, Harry Lee, Augustus Anderson, Henry Stamford, Ruby Hoffman, Susanne Willis, Mrs. Priestly Morrison, Thomas Carnahan, Jr. and Jere Austin. J. Searle Dawley, the director who has made so many of Miss Clark's successful pictures, is responsible for this one. The story is immortal; the star is a favorite of all, old and young; the cast is composed of the pick of Paramount players and the story has been transferred to the screen with every detail evident. You all know the story of the brutalities inflicted on the slaves prior to the Civil War.

Marguerite Clark in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. First time in pictures.

READY-MADE AD-TALKS PUBLISHED IN LAST WEEK'S ISSUE

June 29, 1918.

FEATURES

TITLE OF PLAY	PRODUCER
"The Service Star"	Goldwyn	5 reels
"Desert Wooing"	Paramount	5 reels
"How Could You, Jean?"	Paramount	5 reels
"The Matinee Idol"	Paramount-Sennett Comedy	2 reels
"The Claw"	Select	5 reels
"Sisters of the Golden Circle"	General (O. Henry)	2 reels
"Neighbors"	World	5 reels
"Patriotism"	Paralta	6 reels
"The House of Gold"	Metro	6 reels
"The Doll's House"	Artcraft	5 reels
"The Scarlet Road"	Fox	5 reels
"Up Romance Road"	Mutual	5 reels
"The Soap Girl"	Vitagraph	5 reels
"Good Night, Paul"	Select	5 reels
"His Enemy, the Law"	Triangle	5 reels
"Station Content"	Triangle	5 reels

Mary Miles Minter in "Ghost of Rosy Taylor," Saturday Evening Post Story

(Mutual Five-Reel Release)

Josephine Daskam Bacon's story, "The Ghost of Rosy Taylor," appeared in the columns of The Saturday Evening Post not so very long ago and was recommended by the thousands who read it, as one of the best short stories that ever appeared in this publication. As a rule, the story that affords entertainment between the covers of a book or magazine, affords excellent material for reproduction on the stage or screen. The advantages offered by this work was seen by the American Film Company, which company under the direction of Edward Eloman, produced Miss Bacon's story for the Mutual program. And the little girl who is the heroine of the story is presented in the person of Mary Miles Minter. She has in support Alan Forrest, George Periolat, Helen Howard and Emma Kluge. The story opens in the poor quarters of Paris where Rhoda Sayles (Mary Miles Minter) lives with her father who owns an interest in an Atlantic transportation line. Owing to the activities of the submarines, his business is ruined. He dies shortly afterwards. Rhoda comes to America. When she lands she finds herself without money or friends. Her father never told her anything concerning her relatives excepting that she had an uncle living in America. While sitting in a public park she finds a letter containing a few dollars in money and a note to a Mrs. Du Vivier, weekly, and clean her home during her absence. She goes and does the work so well that her employer 'phones the women who had recommended her. She is surprised to learn that the person who had been recommended had been dead for weeks. Mrs. Du Vivier had never seen Rhoda as she did the work during her absence. What is Rhoda's future?

"The Ghost of Rosy Taylor" will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Earle Williams in Harold McGrath's "The Girl in the House"—Romance

(Vitagraph Five-Reel Production)

One of Harold McGrath's "best sellers," "The Girl in the House," has been adapted to the screen by Vitagraph and produced under the direction of Tom Mills. In the featured role appears Earle Williams and Grace Darmond who has supported Mr. Williams in many of his late pictures for the Vitagraph program appears in the role of Doris Athelstone in "The Girl in the House." Other members of the cast are James Abrahams, Harry Linsdale, Irene Rich and Margaret Allen. "The Girl in the House" is a typical McGrath story of romantic adventure. And too, there is a nice bit of mystery contained which holds in suspense to the last. Romance, adventure and mystery make a pretty good combination for a screen drama. All three of these qualities are contained in Vitagraph's production. Harold McGrath's many works of fiction have been read by the millions and many of these have been reproduced for screen presentation. His "The Girl in the House" is the latest of his works to be reproduced for the silent drama and ranks well up in front with the best of his others. Earle Williams has been seen to fine advantage in innumerable screen plays. This, his last one, is a typical Williams offering and one of the best he has done. He is casted as a wealthy young fellow who, because he was jilted by the girl he loved, left his fortune and estates to go to the tropics and forget. Six years later he returns on learning that the girl's husband had died. He runs into a mystery which in the solving proves fine entertainment.

At the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Baby Marie Osborne in "The Voice of Destiny"—Clever Mystery Story

(Pathe Five-Reel Production)

Patrons who have imagined little Baby Marie Osborne, the Pathe child actress, capable only of smiling through her picture, are invited to see this little actress in her latest Pathe release, "The Voice of Destiny," produced under the direction of William Bertram. Baby Marie gets down to real dramatic in this offering and is instrumental in capturing a criminal and solving a murder mystery. In "The Voice of Destiny" you will see the clever little colored boy who has been seen in so many of Baby Marie's pictures. "Snowball," as he is called around the Diando Studios where Baby Marie's pictures are produced, is rounding into a capable actor. He works like a little veteran in this latest offering. Baby Marie is the motherless daughter of a young father who is given to bucket shop gambling. They live with the elder brother of her father. The brother is blind. The father loses in his bucket shop speculations and draws upon the savings of his blind brother. The brother has a valuable collection of family jewels. One night the jewels disappear and the blind brother is found murdered. Suspicion points to Baby Marie's father. The dictaphone is brought into use and the father is exonerated. The story of "The Voice of Destiny" works to a surprising climax. It is considered the best work of Baby Marie.

"The Voice of Destiny," featuring Baby Marie Osborne, will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Bessie Love in "A Little Sister to Everybody," Story of Supreme Happiness

(Pathe Five-Reel Production)

Pathe's clever little ingenue, Bessie Love, is going to hold the boards at the ——— theatre ——— of ——— week in "A Little Sister to Everybody," written by William Addison Lathrop, scenarioized by Charles Sarver and produced for the Pathe program under the direction of Robert T. Thornby. In the supporting cast are seen Joseph J. Dowling, one of the screen's most talented character actors; Hector Sarno and George Fisher. In Miss Love's latest picture you will find nothing but smiles and happiness—the human incidents that have made such writers as O. Henry masters in the art of story telling. There is none of the war drama in "A Little Sister to Everybody"—there is none of the sex question. Celeste Janvier, a little orphan, live in the foreign quarters of a large American city with her grandfather, an old philosopher and a friend of mankind. Celeste is happy in her surroundings and like her grandfather, is a friend to everybody and everything, even the stray dogs and cats which inhabit her neighborhood. Her only unhappiness comes when she is obliged to turn away from her door, certain undesirable swains who would make love to her. A young American enters her life and she is taken away to better environments and to a happiness which she never dreamed was probable.

At the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, Bessie Love in "A Little Sister to Everybody."

Monroe Salisbury and Edna Earle in "The Eagle"—Red-Blooded Story of Revenge

(Bluebird Five-Reel Production)

Monroe Salisbury comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in "The Eagle," a red-blooded story of the Western brand, written by Ethel Hill, scenarioized by E. B. Lewis and H. C. Earnock and produced for the Bluebird program under the direction of Elmer Clifton. Edna Earle and Ward King are in chief support. Monroe Salisbury is reputed to be one of the best Western character actors working before the camera and he has proved this by his many characterizations for the screen drama. In "The Eagle" he has the role of John Gregory, who has taken a vow to rob from a mining company an amount equal to that which this company has taken from his brother, thereby causing his death. He assumes an Indian disguise and calls himself "The Eagle." He learns that the mining company is sending a large shipment of gold to a certain point and he and his confederates plan to take the shipment at the point of the gun. He awaits the arrival of the shipment along a lonely road but finds that there is someone there ahead of him. He watches while this stranger attempts the hold-up and sees him defeated in his attempt. He goes to his assistance but the stranger is captured. The stranger, Bob, is placed on trial and fails to prove his case until his sister, Lucy, arrives with The Eagle, whom she has forced to attend the court at the point of a gun. The Eagle had obtained the money and he tells the jury the reason why he took it. He is convicted and sentenced to hang but Bob kills himself and confesses to the hold-up, freeing The Eagle.

Barbara Castleton and Irving Cummings in "The Heart of a Girl"—Political Story

(World Five-Reel Production)

Barbara Castleton and Irving Cummings are seen in the stellar roles of World Film production, "The Heart of a Girl," written by Maravene Thompson, one of our most popular contemporary writers and produced under the direction of John Adolphi. In the supporting cast are seen some of World Film's most capable artists, including Charles Wellesley, Kate Lester, Ricca Allen, W. T. Carleton, Gladys Valerie, Florence Coventry, Clay Clement, Jr., Anthony Byrd, Inez Shannon, John Tansey, J. Blake, L. Canfield and J. Smiley. The main plot reveals the happenings in a fiercely waged political fight for the gubernatorial nomination, between two men, both of whom are in love with the heroine of the story. Miss Castleton has the role of Betty Lansing, who, with her mother, conducts a bridge game that they might obtain sufficient money to hold their places in high society. Betty's father is dead and she sees no harm in obtaining her living from the proceeds of a bridge game conducted for the convenience of society people. The proceeds of the game are supposed to go to charity. One of the young men who has lost heavily in Betty's home is arrested for stealing and before leaving with the officers, accuses Betty of running a gambling institution. Kent, who is Betty's fiance, is running for the nomination for governor and his opponent accuses him of being seen in Betty's gambling house. Who wins out?

GET ATMOSPHERE

But You Have to Know About Your Picture and Get Its Spirit First

IN his article in next week's issue of the News, S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, will discuss atmosphere in advertising. It is a very important point and one that every theatre running a picture more than a day should strive for.

But you cannot put atmosphere—or anything else that amounts to much—into your advertising unless you know about the picture itself. You certainly cannot follow the spirit of the production until you are well steeped in that spirit yourself.

These Ad Talks will give you much of this information. Read the ones now about the pictures that you are going to show and then put down the number of the page and the issue with the other matter that you have gathered for use in connection with the picture. They will come in handy to help you advertise and to serve as a reading notice for your newspaper or program.

William Desmond in "Closin' In"—Story of a Man's Sacrifice for His Sweetheart

(Triangle Five-Reel Production)

With the action shifting from a busy American city to the wilds of the Northwest and the gold fields, Triangle's "Closin' In" presents a screen drama that is full of action, human incidents and heart interest. William Desmond is in the featured role and has in support, Maud Wayne, George Pearce, Darrell Foss, Alberta Lee, Louis Durham, Bob Thompson and Graham Pette. The story was written by Joseph F. Poland and produced under the direction of J. W. McLaughlin. Jack Brandon is engaged to marry Barbara Carlton, daughter of the president of the bank. Brandon, who works in the bank, is a good friend of Barbara's brother, Burt. Brandon prevents Burt from committing suicide and Burt afterwards confesses that he has taken money from the bank and was afraid that he would be detected. Brandon promises to assume all the blame by leaving the city, thereby throwing suspicion on himself. He goes to the Canadian Northwest, where he is accepted as a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. Later gold is discovered and Burt and his sister rush to the gold fields. They meet Brandon and expose him. He is expelled from the service. Brandon still holds true to his promise of protecting Burt. Carlton is taken sick and on his death bed confesses to the crime for which Brandon had taken responsibility.

William Desmond and Maud Wayne in "Closin' In" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in "Annexing Bill"—Clever Comedy-Drama

(Pathe Five-Reel Release)

Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in "Annexing Bill," a light comedy drama with a punch, will be seen on the screen of ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Mark Smith and Margaret Greene have the principal supporting roles. The story was written by Edgar Franklin and produced for the Pathe program under the direction of Albert Parker. This is a comedy-drama of the first water and patrons of the ——— theatre are urged by the management to see it when it is shown ——— week. Miss Hulette will be remembered for her excellent work in other Pathe productions and Creighton Hale is one of our best leading men working before the camera. Enid Barwell (Gladys Hulette) is an art student with little money with which to pursue her ambition. Billy (Creighton Hale) is madly in love with her. He is a young lawyer just starting on what he hopes to be a most successful career before the bar. It is reported that a maiden aunt of Enid's has been drowned at sea. Enid is the sole heir. She is notified that she has been left a million dollars. Billy refuses to marry Enid on the ground that she has money and he hasn't. Enid promises to place the money in the care of a friend's husband who, unbeknown to Enid, has a mania for speculating and losing. The transfer of the money is about to be made when Auntie appears on the scene very much alive. But it isn't auntie, after all, only an impostor.

"Annexing Bill," a comedy-drama starring Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale.

Emily Stevens in "A Man's World," Adapted from Play—Strongly Dramatic

(Metro Five-Reel Production)

Emily Stevens, star of stage and screen, comes to the ——— theatre ——— of ——— week in her latest picture for Metro, "A Man's World," adapted from Rachel Crothers' play by June Mathis and produced under the direction of Herbert Blache. Miss Stevens will be remembered by the millions for her excellent work in "The Slacker," a patriotic picture which probably did more to encourage enlistments in the army than any other picture that has been produced since the war. "A Man's World" tells a story of an entirely different nature but is equally as entertaining. The story opens in Paris and closes in the Bohemian district in New York. Miss Stevens has the role of Frankie Ware, a novelist, in Paris in search of "atmosphere." Her friend, Alice Ellery, has been tricked into a marriage by a man whose name she will not tell. Frankie is called to her bedside and promises to take charge of the child that is left motherless. With the child she returns to New York and settles in the Washington Square district to pursue her literary work. She meets Malcolm Gaskell, a publisher, who takes her works. Gaskell falls in love with her. Later, when he asks her to marry him, the question of whose child is the one she has called "Kiddie." Gaskell accuses an artist who is friendly with Frankie. Frankie learns that Gaskell is the one who had betrayed the mother of the child.

Emily Stevens in "A Man's World" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Fay Tincher in Her Second World Comedy, "Some Job"—It's Some Comedy

(World Two-Reel Comedy)

Fay Tincher's second two reels of laughs and clean humor are ready for the review of the public. The World Film Corporation announces the second as "Some Job." It would have been more appropriate to call it "Some Comedy" or "Some Laughs.' Miss Tincher is a past-master in the art of fun-making. "Some Job" will testify to this assertion. It's full of laughs from start to finish and contains some of the best humor that has ever been reproduced for screen presentation. Miss Tincher gets a job as a waitress. Being naturally patriotic, she bestows the biggest share of her favors on the good-looking officers who come to the restaurant to dine. She prepares all sorts of fine dishes for her officer friends but there is one whom she favors. What is the dish that she brings to the one she most favors? Don't tell anyone if we tell you—beans, beans, beans. And the poor officer had lived on beans, morning, noon and night. Well—you will have to see Fay Tincher serve this dish. She's some little waitress.

Harry Carey in "Hell Bent," a Thrilling Western Drama—Rapid Fire Action

(Universal Five-Reel Production)

A straight-shooting, red-blooded drama of life on the Western plains represents Harry Carey's latest starring vehicle on the Universal program. It is a special Harry Carey production under the direction of Jack Ford, who also wrote the story. "Hell Bent" is the title and events are certainly registered in a "hell bent" fashion when things start moving. A better Western drama of the old days, has never been presented on the screen than the one in which Harry Carey appears at the ——— theatre ——— week when "Hell Bent" will be the special attraction. In the cast with Mr. Carey are seen Duke Lee, Neva Gerber, Vester Pegg and Joseph Harris. There is action from the flash of the title to the final fade-out and Harry Carey, the hero, is on the job every foot of the way. He has the role of "Cheyenne" Harry, who escapes to the town of Rawhide after being the chief figure in a shooting scrape. He finds the dance hall of the town's only hotel packed to the doors. That night he forces Cimmeron Bill, a notorious figure about the Western town, to share his room with him and the two become close friends. Bess Thurston, who has received word that her mother is sick in an Illinois town, goes to work in the dance hall in order that she may get sufficient money to bring her mother to the Western town. Cheyenne falls in love with her. Then comes the fight to protect her from the many who would have her.

Live News from the Producers

Bara's "Salome" In September

Is Announced as Greatest Production Yet Essayed by William Fox—Special Attention Paid to Novel Effects

"SALOME," interpreted by Theda Bara, termed by William Fox the vampire de luxe, comes to the screen in September, according to an announcement this week, in the greatest production yet essayed by the Fox Film Corporation.

Announcement to this effect was made at the Fox general offices, where Samuel F. Kingston was placed in charge of the booking for a widespread showing throughout the United States. The attraction is reserved for first-class theatres only, such houses where dramatic productions of the highest calibre are usually presented, and arrangements to this effect have just been completed with the Shuberts.

In "Salome" photoplay patrons are promised a production in which gorgeous and gargantuan settings will not overshadow and belittle the dramatic action. This statement, it is declared, does not imply a failure to take full advantage of the unusual scenic oportunities offered in filming the greatest story woven round "the woman scorned," which transpires in ancient Jerusalem. Mr. Fox is credited with spending $50,000 alone for five hundred feet of film mirroring historical scenes—in sections at the rate of a hundred dollars a foot. He is said to have been just as prodigal in providing money for this production, which, on account of its historical and racial aspect, was made con amore, as he was when he recently captained the motion picture and theatrical team during the Red Cross "drive" with such success.

It was pointed out by an official of the Fox press agent: Two hundred loads of safeguarded "Salome" against the danger of developing into mere pageantry and spectacle were Theda Bara's especial aptitude for the delineation of such roles as the one assumed in "Salome" and the inherent dramatic strength of the story, which remains dominant.

Some idea of the fundamental expense involved in staging "Salome" may be gained from these items, announced by the Fox press agent: Two hundred loads of sand were hauled from the beaches to build the streets of Jerusalem; five hundred thousand feet of lumber were consumed, twenty-five tons of plaster and as many loads of cobblestones were used. Tons of paint and nails were necessary. A hundred painters and mural decorators were kept busy during the initial stages.

Nothing has been overlooked by the technical staff that would contribute to the verisimilitude of the picture, it is declared. Camels and dromedaries to the number of fourteen, five hundred horses, donkeys, elephants, goats, sheep, lambs, bullocks and oxen, dogs, cats, parrots, cockatoos, doves, pigeons and peacocks there are wherever they add realism to the scene.

Theda Bara

Special attention has been given to novel effects. J. Gordon Edwards, under whose direction the picture was made, used steam to produce a haze in certain scenes, in simulation of desert atmosphere, with heat waves exuding from the sand, and for smoke effects; he used ten aeroplane propellers on stationary pillars to supply the shock and sweep of the great storm that frightened mighty Herod directly after he had granted Salome's bloody wish —that she might kiss the dead lips of the man who denied her in life.

Clara K. Young to Work at Griffith Studio

Harry Garson, manager of Clara Kimball Young, has just completed arrangements with D. W. Griffith, whereby Miss Young will produce her pictures this winter at the Griffith Studios, Hollywood, California. Upon completing her next picture "Cheating Cheaters," in New York, and upon her return in July to the West, Miss Young will continue operations on the coast for the entire season.

Mr. Garson has also arranged for his own producing company, headed by Blanche Sweet, to continue work there after Miss Sweet has made "The Unpardonable Sin," by Rupert Hughes, here in New York. She will start work on the production July 1st.

General Film Takes "Hypocrites" Distribution

The distribution of George Loane Tucker's screen version of the Henry Arthus Jones play. "Hypocrites," is to be taken over at once by General Film Company, an official of that company states. In this six-reel production is starred Elizabeth Risdon, the English actress of "Mother" and "The Manx-Man" fame, and more recently the star of "Seven Days Leave," the military melodrama.

"Hypocrites" is an intimate story of life in a quaint English village, revolving around the attempts of the village "Squire" to lay down strict moral rules for the guidance of the community, despite the fact that the spectre of scandal hovers about within his own family circle.

Metro Starts "Kaiser" Publicity Campaign

A whirlwind campaign of advertising and publicity, said to be record-breaking in its scope and thoroughness, has been launched throughout the country by Metro to put over Screen Classics, Inc.'s super feature, "To Hell With the Kaiser." Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, whose foresight and knowledge of public wants in pictures was responsible for "The Slacker," "Draft 258," "The Legion of Death," and "My Own United States" regards this latest Screen Classics, Inc. feature as the greatest of the series and has instructed each Metro Exchange to get squarely behind it to give the exhibitor every possible aid in his publicity work.

Jack Holt Appears in Bennett Picture

When Enid Bennett appears as star of "A Desert Wooing," a new Paramount picture from the Thomas H. Ince studio, she will be supported by Jack Holt as leading man. It is said that the present subject gives Holt the finest opportunity he has had in a long time to display his real ability.

Miss Bennett has a somewhat sophisticated role, rather a change from the girlish types she has been doing of late. Donald MacDonald, John P. Lockney, Charles Speare and Eleanor Hancock are others in the picture which was written by J. G. Hawks and directed by Jerome Storm.

Lessey in World Film

George Lessey, formerly a director with Biograph, Edeson and Universal, is cast in "To Him That Hath," the World production with Montagu Love as the star.

Happiness Is Always Uppermost In Goldwyn Releases. Here's Mabel Nor mand Spreading Sunshine In "The Venus Model," and on the Right Is "Smiling Bill" Parsons In "Widow's Might," a Capitol Comedy

Tom Nash Goes to Universal City

Tom Nash, associated with several picture organizations during the last twenty years, has become a member of Universal's producing organization. Mr. Nash will act as assistant to Henry McRae, manager of production, at Universal City.

Mr. Nash comes excellently equipped to take care of his new duties. One of the real pioneers of the business, he became affiliated with the industry in the days when the title of "producer" simply meant a hungry individual who wrote his own stories, shot the twenty-five or fifty foot films all himself, after which he developed, printed and then sold them also by himself.

Pathe Exchanges Boost News Weekly

Pathe exchanges throughout the country have sent in to the home office in New York, samples of newspaper advertising used by exhibitors on Hearst-Pathe News.

In many large cities this feature is played up as a special added attraction and given the same position in the billing of the feature film on the program, says Pathe.

Branch Manager J. E. Storey, of the Kansas City office, reports that he is encouraging exhibitors in his territory to follow this plan.

Constance Talmadge Comes Eastward

After a period of picture making in California, Constance Talmadge has turned her face to the East and hit the homeward trail. Select's young star is expected in New York within a few days.

The pictures which Miss Talmadge has made in the West include "The Shuttle," "Up the Road With Sallie" and "Good Night, Paul," her newest Select picture. "A Pair of Silk Stockings," which will be her next production, has also been completed.

Exhibitors Visited by Farrar

Asks Showmen for Advice in Choosing Her Forthcoming Goldwyn Pictures—Has Already Begun Work at Fort Lee

GERALDINE FARRAR walked before the cameras in Goldwyn's Fort Lee studios directly at the end of a tour which carried her through at least sixty per cent of the United States. On this trip, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sidney Farrar, the star of the cinema and the opera adopted the wholly novel policy of going directly to the men who are to play her Goldwyn Pictures in quest of their advice.

Exhibitors in California, Arizona, Arkansas, Chicago and in twenty-odd other States were surprised recently between shows or while audiences were hurrying in before the feature "went on" to receive visits from the Farrar party.

"Since you are going to play or be invited to play my Goldwyn Pictures," Miss Farrar said, "what could be fairer than my coming to you to ask your assistance in helping Goldwyn and myself determine the kind of stories we want. I read a hundred stories last winter, most of which have been discarded as being without appeal. Several I have kept and have brought with me. Before doing any of them I want to know what kind of pictures you and your audiences like; what kind of pictures you could make the most money on.

"I am going to leave it to you and about two hundred other exhibitors to determine my picture future. All I ask is that you be fair to me. Don't ask me to act in a picture that would be harmful to my future. I am entitled to that, for, like yourself, I am a professional and earn my living by working. One kind of picture you must not ask me to do—the vampire picture."

And it is interesting to record that no owner of a theatre in any of the towns and cities Miss Farrar visited even expressed a wish for the vampire type of picture, thus indicating the warning interest of clean-minded Americans in stories of that sort.

Finally, one of the exhibitors took a manuscript from her hands and said:

"Here is the picture you should do first. It is a wonderful story, of tremendous commercial value. It has in it everything that a box-office viewpoint demands, plus beauty and good taste. It is a story that no one of your position and importance has ever done. There is just one change in it that I would euggest, if you have the daring and courage to make it."

And before Geraldine Farrar went to her train that night she telegraphed Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, saying:

"I have found the story."

It is that story that is now being made in the Goldwyn Fort Lee Studios under the supervision of Reginald Barker, who will direct the Goldwyn-Farrar productions.

Foreign Scenes a Feature of "Her Moment"

Scenes in Russia, the Balkans, Japan, China and the United States, not forgetting a picturesque Western mining camp, are mentioned by General Film Company bulletins as contributing to the variety of atmosphere in "Her Moment," the special production in which Anna Luther is starred. The greater part of the story is enacted in the United States, to which country Miss Luther, as the heroine, comes to experience the climax of her life. The direction of "Her Moment" was in the hands of Frank Beal for the Author's Photo-Plays. The story is by Samuel H. London.

World Buys Smith Story

World Pictures announces that it has bought the scenario of "The Millionth Chance" from Godwin Smith.

Carlyle Blackwell, the World star, has been selected to play the leading role in this picture.

Mutual Handles Kane Features

Gail Kane Organization Formed to Produce Series at New York Studio—"Love's Law" Will Be the First

GAIL KANE is to appear in a series of feature productions which are to be produced by her own company. This announcement is made by the star simultaneously with an announcement from James M. Sheldon, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, of a contract for the distribution of the Kane pictures.

The producing organization will be known as "Gail Kane Productions."

Miss Kane's first picture goes into work at New York studios within ten days. The story chosen is under the working title of "Love's Law." It is an original scenario by Joseph Franklin Poland.

"Miss Kane's pictures will constitute an important addition to the schedules of the Mutual Film Corporation," remarked Mr. Sheldon. "The organization of 'Gail Kane Productions' is also a significant move in the present trend in producing activity. More and more the tendency is toward individual, specialized production, rather than quantity production by large organizations handling a large number of people.

"This is of importance to the exhibitor in that the specialized one-star company can be expected to support that star to the utmost of her box-office value. Productions so made can also be expected to bear more of the individuality of the star than pictures made under the usual conditions. The one-star company tends to give the star a control of the artistic aspects of the product to a degree comparable with the hold which the author or the painter has on his work.

"Miss Kane's previous pictures, a considerable number of which have been distributed by the Mutual, have achieved an important success for the exhibitors.

"Among her particularly successful releases, I may mention 'Souls in Pawn,' 'The Upper Crust' and ''Whose Wife?'

"It will be of interest also to the scenario writers, authors and agents that there is an attractive market for vehicles specially adapted to Miss Kane's requirements."

Margarita Fisher Is Presented by American-Mutual In "A Square Deal"

Hutchinson Makes Liberal Scenario Offer

AT last the dream of the scenario writer has come true! A film manufacturer has publicly announced that "the sky is the limit" in so far as remuneration to the author is concerned. He goes still farther and declares his implicit belief in the author's manuscript being the foundation upon which big film successes rest. The film manufacturer is President Samuel S. Hutchinson, of the American Film Company, Inc. His offer is an announcement that he will pay anywhere from $1,000 to $25,000 each for the kind of stories he is seeking for forthcoming American productions.

A representative of Motion Picture News hunted Mr. Hutchinson up in his office at the American plant on North Broadway, Chicago, and found that all the rumors were true. "Yes," said Mr. Hutchinson, "we are really sincere in declaring that we are willing to pay from $1,000 to $25,000 for stories. We are after the very best stories obtainable, you see, and know that nowadays one has to pay real money to get them. Nothing but the best is going to satisfy us. We aren't going to pay $1,000 or $5,000 or any other similar sum to an author just because his name is well known in the literary world. He'll have to show us. But once we see the right sort of a story we'll pay almost any price for it. The fame of the author will have nothing to do with it. A comparative unknown may claim the $25,000.

"We impose no restrictions on the dramatists of the world. They can submit dramas, or comedies, or comedy-dramas for our approval. We shall be glad to look over all sorts of plays. We shall consider proven stage successes, the motion picture rights to famous novels or magazine stories. No author is too big, too well known, too famous for us to consider. In fact the bigger and better known the author, the better, provided he really has the big story. The story is the thing. We hope to secure stories that are in every way superior to anything that has yet been produced on the screen, and this is the way we have taken to secure them.

"All the resources of our big studios at Santa Barbara, California, will be utilized in making the big productions for which we are now seeking stories. If we haven't already on our payroll the stars and directors necessary to produce the big stories we are seeking we will get them. But for the present the story is the main consideration. The rest will follow in due course."

Mutt and Jeff Meet Theda Bara (Herself)

The Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon, "Meeting Theda Bara," is announced from the William Fox offices as one of the latest of Bud Fisher's creations.

The picture is described as one of the funniest this comedy pair have yet appeared in. Jeff inherits a fortune and Mutt decides that they are going to become motion picture producers. Their aim is to secure the services of a vampire. This ambition is inspired after Mutt and Jeff see Miss Bara in a picture.

Other most recent Mutt and Jeff productions are "The Extra Quick Lunch," "Life Savers" and "The 75-Mile Gun." In "The Extra Quick Lunch," the pair open a restaurant in which speed and economy are the watchwords. "Life Savers" show them at the beach, and in "The 75-Mile Gun" they capture the German super-gun and train it on the Kaiser and Von Hindenburg with results disastrous to the leaders of Prussian kultur.

Davis Not to Attend Boston Meeting

The intention of H. O. Davis to hie himself to the California hills for the first vacation he has had in six years, as announced in Motion Picture News last week, sets at rest all rumors to the effect he will attend the Boston convention in July. It is known that various exhibitors have written him, asking him to visit Boston during the meeting and address the conferences in regard to studio and production waste. The call of a vacation, however, proved stronger than the call to air in assemblage the ills and remedies of picture making. Further, it is understood that Mr. Davis contends the days of telling troubles are over in the majority of studios—as the troubles have been reduced to the point where they are almost nil. It is fair to assume, from this, that sanity has finally obtained in the average producing department, in Mr. Davis' opinion.

Before leaving New York, Mr. Davis made it plain to a representative of Motion Picture News that should the exhibitors' desire to hear his opinions in connection with studio efficiency bear fruit, he would confine his remarks to the following points: Spend whatever is necessary to get a good story; spend whatever is necessary to produce it properly; spend whatever is necessary to get perfect photography, and let your expenditure show dollar for dollar on the screen.

"Both Members" Nears Completion

"Both Members," the comedy drama by Luther A. Reed in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are co-starring, is said to be rapidly nearing completion at Metro's 61st street studio. Director Charles J. Brabin was called upon to incorporate several additional scenes not in the original script.

Do You Recognize Your Little Mary? Her Newest for Artcraft Is, "How Could You, Jean?" Directed by Wm. D. Taylor

Name Titles of Mrs. Castle's Two Coming Pathes

Two new Pathe plays in which Irene Castle stars are announced by Pathe for release this summer. These are the last photoplays in which Mrs. Castle will appear for a long time as she is said to have decided to give her services as an entertainer in the Y. M. C. A. huts in France, probably for the balance of the year.

"The First Law" in which Antonio Moreno is her leading man, will be released on the program of July 28. Gilson Willets wrote "The First Law."

"The Girl from Bohemia" which has to do with the experiences of a young woman in studio life in New York, will be released on the program of August 25.

August 18th Set for "Hidden Hands" First Release

"Hands Up," the new fifteen-reel Pathe serial, will start on its way on August 18. The first episode released on this day will be in three reels, the following episodes in two. Ruth Roland is the star while George Chesbro heads the support.

The first episode of the serial, which was directed by James W. Horne for Louis Gasnier's Astra Company arrived in New York last week.

The story concerns the lost Inca tribe of Indians, and the experiences of a New York girl magazine writer who falls into their hands. Gilson Willetts wrote the story. Production is now under way on the fourth episode.

Jane Novak with Charles Ray in "Claws of Hun"

Jane Novak, who recently appeared opposite William S. Hart in Artcraft productions, will be seen with Charles Ray in his next Paramount offering, "The Claws of the Hun."

Robert McKim, Dorcas Mathews, Melbourne McDowell, and Mollie McConnell are others in the cast. Victor Schertzinger is directing under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

Ray has the part of a youth unjustly accused of being a slacker who gets his opportunity to prove his Americanism.

Famous Players Buys Melodrama

"The Silver King" To Be Produced as One of Nine Special Productions—On Stage in 1882

THE Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has purchased the screen rights of "The Silver King," one of the successes in the history of the English-speaking stage. This old melodrama, first produced in the early '80s, will be interpreted on the screen by an all-star cast under one of the most capable of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's directors, and will be one of the nine special productions to be produced during the coming year, commencing September 1, under the Paramount and Artcraft banners, according to Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president in charge of productions.

"The Silver King," by Henry Arthur Jones and Henry Herman, had its premiere in London, November 16, 1882, when it was produced at the Princess theatre under the direction of Wilson Barrett. The play was in five acts, with sixteen scenes and required a cast of twenty-seven people in speaking roles in its interpretation.

Briefly, the story of the play is as follows: Wilfred Denver, spendthrift, loses a fortune on the Derby and in order to forget his financial troubles proceeds to drink heavily. While in his cups he quarrels with Geoffrey Ware, rejected lover of his wife, and subsequently visits Ware's house with the intention of killing him. Here he surprises a gang of burglars at work under Captain Herbert Skinner, gentlemanly rascal known as "The Spider," who breaks into houses in a dress-suit at night and tools a team on Rotten Row in the daytime. Denver is chloroformed by the burglars and when Ware arrives the latter is shot by Skinner. When Denver awakes from the stupor he finds Ware's body and pistol with which he was shot, and believes that he has committed the crime. He flees to his home where he confesses to his wife and is advised by her to leave the country. With detectives close on his trail he takes a train to Liverpool. Filled with remorse he leaps from the train, but is only slightly injured and limps to a nearby inn. Here he later learns by a newspaper that the train has been wrecked in collision with a petroleum train, that the car has been destroyed by fire and the passengers completely incinerated. With the detectives temporarily balked, Denver makes his way to America, goes to Nevada and eventually makes a fortune in a silver mine. Four years later "The Silver King," as Denver is now known, returns to England. Shortly after his arrival there, he stumbles upon a clue to the mystery of Ware's murder which opens his eyes. Getting into the confidence of "The Spider's" gang, he learns the identity of the real murderer. With his assistance the detectives get "The Spider" and the happy reunion of the Denvers follow.

In the cast of the London production Wilson Barrett appeared as Wilfred Denver and Miss Eastlake as Nellie Denver. E. S. Willard enacted the role of Captain Skinner, "The Spider," and George Barrett, Neville Doone and other celebrated actors had prominent parts.

Vimy Ridge in Pathe Film

Unusual interest is added to Pathe's series, "Britain's Bulwarks," by the announcement that the last episode to be released late in July will be entitled "The Canadians at Vimy Ridge." The statement from Pathe declares that this instalment shows in detail what the Canadians did at that time to check the onward rush of the Germans in their attempt to reach Paris.

George Walsh, in "The Kid Is Clever," William Fox Production

Liane Held Carrera, Jewel Carmen and Theda Bara Are In New William Fox Productions.

England Profits by Fox Films

J. Frank Shea Returns to States with Optimistic Reports—Declares Fox Productions Dominate the British Field

THE increasing popularity of the motion picture in Great Britain has been credited to many things and conditions, but not until J. Frank Shea, European representative of the Fox Film Corporation, arrived from London recently, was it credited to the general excellence and high standard of Fox films. That the English people as a whole have become converted to motion pictures through Fox productions was claimed by Mr. Shea, in a publicity statement from the Fox publicity bureau.

The announcement said:

"In England, says Mr. Shea, the motion picture had not been looked on with favor by all classes, the wealthier and more cultured people professing to believe that the films were unworthy of their patronage. The war, however, has changed this. Most of the popular actors of the legitimate stage are now in service, so that the spoken drama's attraction has dwindled. The result is that the people have had to go to the films for entertainment. Once inside the motion picture theatre, many people who scoffed at films have become converted and are now confirmed patrons.

"The most potent factor, however, in raising the estate of the motion picture, says Mr. Shea, has been the high standard of Fox pictures, which dominate the British field. Mr. Shea, who spent a year in England, declares that the Fox films have made permanent converts among all classes of the cinema theatre.

"Another and even bigger work which the Fox productions are doing, he declares, is the opening of British eyes to the lives and customs of Americans as they really live. More than all the books written, and better than all the diplomatists that this country has sent to the Court of St. James, the motion picture has revealed to the British the manners and customs of our people, so that to-day the Britisher is getting a clearer idea of what sort of people we are.

"The year just ended, Mr. Shea reported, has been the most successful in the history of the films in England, despite the war, air raids and high prices. The year to come, he believes will be even more prosperous.

"As an indication of the change in the British people regard for films generally, Mr. Shea cited the fact that the British Government has at last seen the possibility of the motion picture as a means of arousing patriotism among the people and is now issuing propaganda films. This, Mr. Shea declared, is a direct result of the production of Fox pictures."

World Sends Seventy-seven to War Ranks

World Pictures as an organization has contributed to the ranks of Uncle Sam seventy-seven men. The names of these men are published on the front page of World Works for this week, and are as follows:

George Archainbaud, M. Armstrong, Fred Arnold, Norman Baker, Stanley W. Bayer, Maurice Bernstein, Leo Beyer, Eugene Birdsall, Theodore Birdsall, Bert Braun, Irving Campbell, Ben Canady, J. F. Cayton, John Child, Walter Connell, Paul Covey, George Cowl, John H. Curran, Kent Daniels, Paul S. Denton, A. L. Ehrlich, Clarence Elmer, John M. Erickson, Joe J. Fabacher, Lawrence Fisher, H. E. Flaherty, J. O. Ford, John E. Gaskill, Daniel Gray, William Hamilton, Benjamin Honor, Eugene Hornbostle, Joseph Houlihan, Frank M. Huber, Bruno Jaeger, E. C. Jensen, Harold Johnson, H. P. Johnson, William Kelly, Wm. J. Kupper, George Landis, William Levy, Charles Lynes, Mosby McAden, James McDonald, Robert MacLeod, Philip Massi, John Murphy, Benjamin Nedell, Michael Orenbach, Harry Osborne, Will H. Parker, A. V. Philbin, Harry Pape, M. G. Ramsey, William Rudin, Floyd D. Schadt, Gus J. Schaefer, D. W. Scott, W. B. Scott, Floyd Sears, Roy Sedin, Harry Shapiro, Fred Sternberg, J. A. Trubee, Leo Troutman, John Turk, M. Wagener, C. N. Weatherly, Jr., Alfred Webb, J. L. Webb, Frank R. Willey, "Soapy" Williams, Martin Witzel, J. H. Wolf, Frank Young, W. Zanzeisen.

United Film Works on "Crime of the Era"

Los Angeles film colony has an addition that has been working for the past several weeks on a story titled "The Crime of the Era." The producing company is known as United Film Corporation, and has E. L. Wingard as president; George Woodruff, vice-president; Guy R. McHenry, secretary, and Mrs. Gertrude DeKay, treasurer. All are of Los Angeles. Their initial production was started under the direction of Tom Ricketts, producer of "Damaged Goods" and a number of other successful films, with a cast composed of Edward Coxen, Vivian Rich, Henry Barrows, Nanine Wright, Lois DeKay, Arthur Moore and others. The subject is of six reels, and there is a prologue of two reels which may or may not be used, the film being complete without it. The subject is now in its final editing process, and trade showing will be made shortly.

Meighan as Mountaineer in New Picture

In Marguerite Clark's forthcoming production for Paramount release, "Out of a Clear Sky," which is now being completed at the Eastern studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, the star is having the support in the leading male role, of Thomas Meighan, one of the best known of the screen's leading men. In "Out of a Clear Sky" Miss Clark plays the part of a Belgian princess who is being forced into an obnoxious marriage with a German nobleman. She comes to this country and seeking a hiding place in the mountains of Tennessee meets a young mountaineer, portrayed by Mr. Meighan, who assists her to thwart the plotters.

Cleo Ayres Appears in World Film

Cleo Ayres, who was last seen on the screen in the support of Dorothy Dalton in "Love Letters," a Thomas H. Ince production, has just come east and her first eastern production will be in the support of Montagu Love in "To Him That Hath," in a forthcoming World Picture. Miss Ayres was also with Vitagraph some months ago. "To Him That Hath" is a picturization of the novel by Leroy Scott.

Roy Stewart, Triangle Player In "The Fly God"

Nine Fox Productions Now Under Way

Nine productions are in work under the William Fox banner, it is announced from the Fox offices, companies being busy both in the East and on the Pacific Coast.

At Hollywood, Cal., J. Gordon Edwards is progressing rapidly on the super-production, "The Message of the Lilies," for which a new title is soon to be selected. William Farnum, also at Hollywood, is busy at work on "The Rainbow Trail," which is a sequel to "Riders of the Purple Trail," just finished by Mr. Farnum.

A new name, "The Fallen Angel," has been chosen for "You Can't Get Away With It," the Gouverneur Morris story which Jewel Carmen is making at Hollywood. Gladys Brockwell, also at Hollywood, is working on "Kultur," a drama which is described as an expose of Germany's secret diplomacy. Tom Mix, another Fox star on the Pacific Coast, has finished "Fame and Fortune," which is based on Charles Alden Seltzer's story, "Slow Burgess," and is about to begin on a new production, which is reported to be a revelation of how certain types of labor trouble on war work are started.

In the East the Fox forces are equally busy. Virginia Pearson, who had just completed "Her Price," has plunged into work on a production at the Blackton studio in Brooklyn, for which "The Alien Strain" has been picked as a temporary title. Peggy Hyland, after a brief rest, following her filming of "Other Men's Daughters," has begun work at Newdorp, Staten Island, on "Bonnie Annie Laurie" under the direction of Harry Millarde, and George Walsh has completed a patriotic picture entitled "Yankee Doodle Dandy." Other productions are under way under the direction of R. A. Walsh and Richard Stanton.

Griffith Remarks on British Treatment

David Wark Griffith, in speaking last week of "The Great Love," which is shortly to be released by Artcraft, was very high in his praise of the treatment accorded him while he was abroad securing battle scenes for "Hearts of the World," which he produced as a propaganda film for the British Government. Many of the scenes in "The Great Love" were also secured by Mr. Griffith abroad, and several foremost personages of the Empire appear in the picture. Players in the film include Dorothy Gish, George Fawcett, Robert Harron and Henry Walthall.

Mr. Griffith stated that he was permitted to photograph practically anywhere he wished.

Goldwyn Expects Much of Barker

Goldwyn promises added brilliancy with signing Reginald Barker, who will direct Geraldine Farrar in her series of Goldwyn plays.

Reginald Barker comes to the Fort Lee Studios, especially engaged by Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn.

The Star Ranks of Bluebird Have Been Augmented by Eileen Percy's Personality and Talent

Metro Makes Elaborate Plans for Lytell

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the shooting of the final scenes at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood of "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," Bert Lytell's current starring picture directed by E. Mason Hopper, comes the announcement of Metro's purchase of three more scenarios for this star.

The first to be screened after the completion of "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," will be "Unexpected Places," originally a short story from the pen of Frank R. Adams which was published in the April number of the Blue Book magazine. A. S. Le Vino is making the scenario, the film adaption being a comedy drama.

"Unexpected Places" will be followed by "Faith," another Metro find in the magazine world. Richard Washburn Child is its author. "Faith" was published in Every Week in the last December issue.

The third subject for Mr. Lytell, as yet unnamed, is now in preparation by the Metro scenario department at Hollywood.

Mr. Lytell's current picture, "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," is his third as a Metro star, the first two being "The Trail to Yesterday," from the novel by Charles Alden Seltzer, and "No Man's Land," from Louis Joseph Vance's novel of the same name. "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," has been adapted from a short story by Jack Boyle, published in the Red Book magazine, by A. S. Le Vino. E. Mason Hopper is directing the picture and the photography is being handled by Robert B. Kurrle.

Rhea Mitchell, Mr. Lytell's leading woman, in the role of Mary, Boston Blackie's business partner, is making her debut as a Metro actress.

General Makes Change in Doll Releases

A SLIGHT change in the release dates for the Emerald Cinema Doll comedies is announced this week by General Film Company, the distributor. Instead of being released every other week, as was first announced, these unique comedies will be released once a month. The change is made in the interest of better productions as the filming of the stories in which the Doll comedians are featured requires much more time than is usually allotted to the filming of one-reel stories. Unlike human performers, the Doll players cannot be hurried through a scene without doing an injustice to their art, and the Emerald Company announces that for the present, at least, it will adhere to the plan of monthly releases dates for these subjects.

"The Burglar Man," the first release in this series, has already scored a decided hit with exhibitors because of its novel character, and General Film reports that all of its exchanges are doing a brisk business on the one-reel novelty. Bookings for the entire series have been received in large numbers as the result of the artistic success scored by "The Burglar Man." Title of the second release, "Next," has been changed to "The Knockout," while the third subject, which has already been completed, will be known as "The Handy Man." In each of these subjects, the Cinema Doll comedians have been provided with scripts, the story value adding greatly to the merit of these productions, which are being accorded hearty receptions.

"Over the Top" Plays All Cities

"Over the Top," Vitagraph's war special with Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey in the leading role, has been played in practically every city of importance in the United States and Canada, according to anouncement by Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization.

Buxbaum with Famous Players-Lasky

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has engaged H. H. Buxbaum to fill the position of Special Representative to Exchanges in connection with the work of the Distribution Department. Mr. Buxbaum has been associated with film distribution for the past four years and is well known in this branch of the industry.

Vitagraph Starts Fall Drive

Eleven Companies Busy on Regular Program Releases—List Includes Two Serial and Two Comedy Companies

ACCORDING to an announcement made this week, the Fall productions' drive is on at the Vitagraph studios, both East and West, and within a few days virtually every one of the Blue Ribbon feature companies will be engaged on productions for the Autumn programs.

Advices from the office of Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, are to the effect that eleven companies are now actively at work on production for the regular Vitagraph program, seven of these being feature companies, two serial companies and two comedy companies.

Harry Morey, with Betty Blythe as his leading woman, was the first of the Blue Ribbon feature companies to start on post-Summer production, working under direction of Paul Scardon. He completed "Fiddler's Green" last week, and after a few days' rest plunged immediately into the making of "The Green God."

Alice Joyce completed "To the Highest Bidder," under direction of Tom Terries, a few days ago, and soon will begin work on another five-reel production, the title of which is to be announced next week.

Corinne Griffith, it is announced, is nearing completion of "Love Watches," the Billie Burke stage play, in which she will soon be presented, and will start at once on "The Clutch of Circumstances," from the book by Leighton Graves Osmun.

Gladys Leslie, who is working under direction of Frederic Thomson in "Wild Primrose," with Richard Barthelmess as her leading man, and an all-star cast, including Eulalie Jansen, Claude Gillingwater, Bigelow Cooper, Charles Kent and others, is scheduled to start work within a few days on "The Rebel."

Out in the West, at the Vitagraph Hollywood studio, Earle Williams, with Grace Darmond as his leading woman, is reported to be making rapid progress with "The Man From Brodney's," a five-reel play made from the novel by George Barr McCutcheon of the same name. Jack Conway, former Triangle director, is directing the production, which is expected to be finished within ten days. Two new plays are ready for Mr. Williams, but, according to advices from Vitagraph, it has not been definitely determined which he will start first. One of them is "A Gentleman of Quality," by Frederick Van Rensaeller Dey, and the other is "Out of the Dark," by Roma Raymond and Jane Dixon.

Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman, working under direction of David Smith, are about finished work on "A Gentleman's Agreement," by Wallace Irwin, and the director now has in hand several new scripts for future production, but it has not been determined which he will start on first.

Olive Tell, American Heroine In "To Hell With the Kaiser," Metro Feature

Goldwyn Announces Four New Productions

GOLDWYN'S next four releases, which will complete the cycle of twenty-six begun with "Polly of the Circus" on September 9 last year, are declared by the producers to constitute a powerfully fitting group climax to a series of new productions which have leaped to success in less than a twelvemonth. Following "The Glorious Adventure," in which Mae Marsh is starred and which is to be seen beginning July 14, the productions and dates of release are:

July 28: Mabel Normand in "Back to the Woods."

August 11: Madge Kennedy in "Friend Husband."

August 25: Mae Marsh in "Money Mad."

"The Glorious Adventure," directed by Hobart Henley and completed some time since, was held up to make way for another Mae Marsh production, "All Woman," which has been given unanimous newspaper and trade press approval.

Mabel Normand is said to be doing something entirely new for her in "Back to the Woods," from an original story by J. Clarkson Miller, directed by George Irving, a newcomer at the Goldwyn studios.

After a venture into melodrama in her forthcoming production, "The Service Star," released June 30, Madge Kennedy returns to comedy-drama in "Friend Husband," written for her by Lois Zeilner and directed by Clarence G. Badger.

"Money Mad," Mae Marsh's last production in Goldwyn's first releasing year, is perhaps the most dramatic story Miss Marsh has appeared in in her entire career on the screen—certainly as a Goldwyn star. As the heroine it devolves upon her to track down the murderer of a man slain in her own home.

The three stars who have done so much to put Goldwyn in the forefront of motion picture producing companies are busy at Fort Lee on these new stories. When they are completed it will perhaps be time for a brief vacation for each before the schedule for the new producing year is begun.

Petrova Boosts Winning War Slogan

"Freedom For All Forever" the war slogan declared winner in a recent newspaper contest is being boosted by Madame Petrova on her personal appearance war savings stamp campaign through the medium of a song written by Lieutenant B. C. Holliam, of the Royal Canadian Forces.

In each theatre where she appears Mme. Petrova after a little talk sings Lieut. Hilliam's song and then has the words thrown on the screen offering a five dollar war stamp to the person who sings the chorus alone. To each of the first ten war stamp purchasers she presents an autographed copy of the song.

"Last Raid" Bookings Keep on Growing

General Film Company announced this week that due to the activity recently of German submarines in American waters, "The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21" continues to register as the most timely and popular short length special war feature in the General list.

The bookings which have been coming in at the thirty exchanges of General in the United States and Canada show no signs of abating, General claims, but rather is increasing steadily. The demands are said to be so heavy in San Francisco, Atlanta and Philadelphia territories that additional prints are considered necessary.

"The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21" has been booked solidly six weeks in advance in nearly every General Film exchange, the initial release having happened just when the submarine sensation broke. Naturally the darkening of New York City against possible air raids, like that shown in this Interstate Film Company feature, hugely stimulated the interest in the picturization of a dramatic air raid on London.

Rapf Starts Work on "Sins of the Children"

John S. Lopez has completed the adaptation of Cosmo Hamilton's novel, "The Sins of the Children" and work on the production will be commenced this week under the supervision of Harry Rapf. The feature will be in six reels. The name of the star or supporting cast have not been announced. "The Sins of the Children" is considered one of the author's best works.

Last Pickford-Huff Offering "Sandy"

"Sandy," the final Paramount offering co-starring Jack Pickford and Louise Huff will include in its cast James Neill, Raymond Hatton, Julia Faye, Charles Geldart, Louise Hutchison, George Beranger, Edythe Chapman, Parks Jones and Don Lykes.

The picture is from the story by Alice Hegan Rice, author of the famous "Mrs. Wiggs," and was directed by George Melford.

"Over the Top" for Independence Day

"Over the Top," Vitagraph's patriotic special, featuring Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey, has led to competition among exhibitors who seek it for their Fourth of July attraction, according to a statement by Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization. To this endorsement of the picture as a patriotic subject, there has been added that of the American Defense Society, which last week completed arrangements with Vitagraph for showing the picture for patriotic benefits throughout the United States.

At the present time Chicago is one of the storm centres of "Over the Top" enthusiasm. A half page combination advertisement from the Chicago Daily Journal of recent date, shows that "Over the Top" was booked in 47 "windy city" theatres for a total of 81 days, to be played in a period of 12 days. These bookings included the 12 houses in the Ascher Bros. Circuit, the Vitagraph theatre and seven others in the Lubliner-Trinz Circuit, and virtually every other motion picture theatre of importance in the city.

Dorris Assists Davis with Metro

A. Dorris is now with Metro at its West Coast studios in Hollywood. Dorris was long associated with Vitagraph and was a co-worker of George D. Baker, now Metro's production manager in the West, when Mr. Baker was directing the late John Bunny. Dorris is assistant to Will S. Davis, at present directing an all-star cast headed by Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum in "Judgment," a feature production.

Rhea Mitchell in Lytell Subject

Rhea Mitchell, it is announced by Metro, will play opposite Bert Lytell in the star's next picture, "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," on which work is under way at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood. Miss Mitchell is cast in the leading feminine role in the Lytell production, that of Mary, business partner of "Boston Blackie," gentleman, scholar and master crook.

Variety in "U" List for July 22nd

Edith Roberts in Bluebird, Helen Gibson in Railroad Drama and Short Offerings Make Up Schedule

A FIVE reel Bluebird production, a two reel drama, three comedies, the Animated Weekly, Screen Magazine, and Current Events make up the varied list offered by Universal for week of July 22.

Edith Roberts is the featured star in the principal offering, a five reel Bluebird drama called "The Deciding Kiss." The story concerns a love affair in which an orphan and the woman who adopted her are rivals. The supporting cast includes Winnifred Greenwood, Hal Cooley and Edwin Cob.

"The Pay Roll Express" is the title of the two reeler which marks Helen Gibson's return to the railroad thrillers which established her position in stardom. It is said to offer Miss Gibson the opportunity to perform many of her usual thrilling feats.

Eileen Sedgwick is featured in the Nestor comedy offering, "Repeating the Honeymoon." The Lyons-Moran Star Comedy is called "The Vamp Cure" while the L-K O offering is "A Clean Sweep."

Issue 34 of the Universal Animated Weekly, Issue 61 of the Screen Magazine and Issue 63 of the Current Events make up the balance of the program.

World Pictures Engages Frederick Ward

FREDERICK B. WARD has been engaged by World Pictures to play the role of Judge Ellis in support of Kitty Gordon in "The Unveiling Hand."

Mr. Ward was born in Warrington, Oxfordshire, on February 23, 1851, and made his first appearance on the stage at the Lyceum theatre in Sunderland in 1867, as the second murderer in "Macbeth." He came to America in 1874 and made his first appearance on the American stage at Booth's theatre, New York, on August 10 of that year when he played the part of Marston Pike in "Belle Lamar."

Mr. Ward has been seen in numerous productions since then and has been featured with the late John McCullough in "Richard III," "The Gladiator," "Virginius," "Othello," "King Lear," "Brutus," "The Taming of the Shrew" and the "Lady of the Lyons." He has also appeared with the late Charles Fechter in 1878 in "Monte Christo," with the late Alice Linguard, and as Cromwell in "King Henry VIII" with the late Charlotte Cushman.

For many years he toured with his own company and from 1893 to 1903 was in partnership with Louis James, playing all the standard and legitimate plays. At the conclusion of his partnership with Louis James he went on a tour with Kathryn Kidder, playing Matho in "Salambo." Since then he has appeared on the lecture platform and in Henry W. Savage's production, "Every Woman."

"More Trouble" Rivoli Hit on July 14th

"MORE TROUBLE," the comedy drama produced by the Anderson-Brunton Company in which Frank Keenan scored so strongly at the Rivoli recently has been scheduled for release at the head of Pathe's offerings for the week of July 14.

The nineteenth episode of "The House of Hate," is another number on the week's list. "The Hooded Terror Unmasked" is the title of this episode, next to last in the latest Pearl White-Antonio Moreno serial.

Toto takes care of the comedy end of the week's entertainment being offered in "Fire the Cook." Part 10 of "Britain's Bulwarks," the Hearst-Pathe News Nos. 58 and 59, and "Our Volcanic Neighbors," a number in the Post Travel series are others on the July 14 schedule.

The third unit of the last Official War Review is also released on this week's program. This is the Government film released by authority of the Committee on Public Information, of which George Creel is chairman.

Fox Expects a New Public for Big Six

FOLLOWING the announcement that William Fox will release "The Big Six of 1918"—"A Fool There Was," "The Clemenceau Case," "The Two Orphans," "The Plunderer," "The Bondman" and "A Soldier's Oath"—in a revised and better form, many letters have been received from exhibitors, it is announced from the Fox offices, comparing the size of the houses, when those pictures were first shown, with the theatres of to-day.

Exhibitors are said to declare in their letters that despite the success which those six pictures had in their original form, there were thousands of persons in every city in the country who did not see them because of the small size of the theatres when they were first shown.

Not only that, but in many cases the pictures' runs had terminated before the productions had exhausted their drawing capacity. Practically all the letters, the announcement states, emphasize the point that the development of "runs" in the last year or so would make it possible for these pictures to reach, in their new form, that section of the public which did not see the pictures in their original shape.

Another thing which the Fox Film Corporation points to is that when the pictures were first shown they had in their casts many players who have since achieved stardom.

Theda Bara first sprang into fame by starring in her three of the "Big Six"—"A Fool There Was," "The Clemenceau Case" and "The Two Orphans."

In "The Plunderer," "The Bondman" and "A Soldier's Oath," William Farnum laid the foundations for the reputation which he now has. In "The Clemenceau Case" were Jane Lee, the diminutive William Fox star, and Stuart Holmes. Jean Sothern was in "The Two Orphans" and in "A Fool There Was," either in its film version or in the stage production, were May Allison and Robert Hilliard.

David Wark Griffith, Whose "The Great Love" Will be Released by Artcraft

Fox Completes Extravaganzas for Autumn

Two extravaganzas, which, it is said, introduce something new in motion pictures, have been completed by William Fox, it is announced from the Fox offices, and it is understood they will be ready for release during Thanksgiving week.

The motion picture, with its resources for spectacular effects, offers a splendid field for this sort of work, and in the forthcoming Fox productions, it is said, several novel and striking effects will be seen.

The plays will be of a fantastic nature, and, with Oriental settings, will reveal, it is understood, a splendor that only the Far East could furnish. The action is wholly up to date, it is said, and shows the Far East in its modern development.

Titles for the two extravaganzas have not yet been chosen, it is understood.

Jules Mastbaum Visits Selznick Offices

Jules Mastbaum, of the Mastbaum chain of theatres, with headquarters at Philadelphia, spent the day with Lewis J. Selznick, president of Select Pictures Corporation, June 11, at Select headquarters in New York.

Mr. Mastbaum was loud in his praise of the various Select stars. He reported great enthusiasm on the part of both exhibitors and public over Norma Talmadge's latest picture, "De Luxe Annie." This attraction, he informed Mr. Selznick, had broken all standing house records during its week's run at the Stanley theatre in Philadelphia.

The Mastbaum interests are playing all the Select output, and Mr. Mastbaum reported that "there were no kicks coming."

About New Pictures

Pathe announces for release this summer, the new Bryant Washburn romantic comedy, "The Ghost of the Rancho," comedy-drama of the Southwest, with Rhea Mitchell in the cast.

Headed by Kathlyn Williams, Elliott Dexter, Wanda Hawley, Sylvia Breamer, Thurston Hall, Tully Marshall, Raymond Hatton, Theodore Roberts and others, a distinguished cast will interpret the roles in "We Can't Have Everything," which C. B. De Mille has produced for Artcraft.

Fritzi Brunette, whose work in several notable Selig productions has won her a considerable degree of popularity, has joined the Universal forces and is to be featured in a sensational melodrama entitled "Should a Woman Tell?"

When "The Firefly of France" is released by Paramount, with Wallace Reid starred, supported by Ann Little, one of the most realistic scenes, depicting the shelling of a certain sector in France, that has ever been attempted in films, will be seen.

Fifth avenue is to serve as the exterior location for another O. Henry story, "Mammon and the Archer," which is to be released shortly by General Film Company. Agnes Ayres and Edwarde Earle, stars in numerous other O. Henry stories, are the featured players.

With the story commencing to draw to a close, action and thrills aplenty are contained in the newest episode of "The Lion's Claws," the Universal serial featuring Marie Walcamp.

A special screening of "Tempered Steel," for the benefit of the motion picture trade press, will be given by the Petrova Picture Company on Thursday of this week. Following the showing of this Petrova production, a luncheon will be tendered to the assembled guests.

An ambitious program production, featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, supported by Franklyn Farnum and a brilliant cast, was started this week at Metro's West Coast studios in Hollywood. The working title of this new picture is "Judgment."

Under the direction of Emile Chautard, Pauline Frederick has started work at the Fifty-sixth street studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation on her next Paramount picture to follow "A Daughter of the Old South." This subject is "The Shadow of the Rope."

"Hands Up," Pathe's serial of romance and adventure in the great West, produced by Astra with Ruth Roland, George Chesebro and a big cast, will be backed by a nation-wide billboard showing and big publicity campaign.

Annette Kellerman, the William Fox offices announce, has completed the filming of "Queen of the Sea," and the film is now in the hands of the film editor for titling and arrangement.

The acting of Wanda Hawley in "Old Wives for New" and "We Can't Have Everything," both Cecil B. De Mille special Artcraft productions, has brought her a long term contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

In the Paralta production, "One Dollar Bid," a screen version of the novel, "Toby," by Credo Harris, filmed at the Brunton studios with J. Warren Kerrigan, there is a dominant note of mystery throughout the entire unfolding of the story.

Nearly the entire Essanay force now is working full speed on the next George K. Spoor feature, "Young America," the Cohan and Harris production, which was produced on the stage both in New York and Chicago.

While no date has been announced by Pathe for the release of "The Woman Eternal," in which Elaine Hammerstein stars, it will be a special feature on a program some time this summer.

Director John H. Collins is busy engaging the cast for "Flower of the Dusk," Viola Dana's next vehicle, the screen rights of which have but recently been acquired by the Metro Pictures Corporation.

With the acquisition of the screen rights to "Cheating Cheaters," Clara Kimball Young has added another to the long list of stage plays to be presented by her upon the screen.

Camera work on the Betzwood Film Company's production featuring Lady Tsen Mei, the Chinese star, has been practically completed. Meanwhile Ira M. Lowry has already in hand the starting of the western story, "Sandy Burke."

James M. Sheldon, President and General Manager of Mutual Film Corporation

Universal Distributes Another War Film

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company has been chosen by the United States Government as the agency through which one of its most important film productions will be distributed, according to an announcement from Universal this week. Universal will also make the production.

The announcement states that, through the Committee on Public Information, Universal will film a series of single-reel features on "The Wonders of Our War Work," after which the series will be distributed through the Universal exchanges. One film every two weeks will be the policy, it is said.

The first five of these subjects have been already suggested and written by Rufus Steele, the magazine writer and novelist, best known as author of "The Eagle's Wings," a film which played a remarkable part in preparing this country for industrial mobilization. Mr. Steele was drafted into the service of his country and is now a member of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information.

Billie Allen with Eltinge

Billie Allen, a Follies Girl, has arrived in Los Angeles and will play leads opposite Julian Eltinge in productions made by this well known actor who had his screen premiere during the past year on the Paramount program. Miss Allen brought with her to Los Angeles twenty-one trunks of wardrobe and her famous collection of jewels which were the talk of New York during her appearance there. Julian Eltinge will shortly complete negotiations for the release of his subjects which are to be made in Los Angeles. A studio is now being constructed near his home on Silver Lake Heights and production will be started in a few weeks.

Pathe Distributes Four Features in July

IT was announced last week by Pathe that the organization plans to release four features, commonly classed as "big," during the month of July. On the program dated July 7 is "Annexing Bill," with Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in the leading parts. This is said to be a swift moving comedy with the romantic element strongly emphasized.

On July 17 "More Trouble" with Frank Keenan, is the bright spot on the program.

July 21 provides for the release of a new Baby Marie Osborne picture, "Cupid by Proxy."

On July 28 comes "The First Law," a Gilson Willets play with Irene Castle and Antonio Moreno as co-stars. The "First Law" is by all odds the best picture play in which Mrs. Castle has appeared, Pathe contends.

Four comedies are scheduled for release in July. On the 7th, Harold Lloyd in "An Ozark Romance"; the 14th, Toto in "Fire the Cook"; the 21st Harold Lloyd in "Kicking the Germ out of Germany," and on the 28th, Toto in "Beach Nuts."

July will see the windup of Pathe's serial, "The House of Hate." The 18th, 19th and 20th episodes will be released during the month. Four Post Travel Series Pictures, Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7, and the last four episodes of "Britain's Bulwarks" will also go in the July program.

The seven-reel special "Moral Suicide" and the new "Allies' Official War Review" will be released each week.

Peggy Hyland Feature Nears Release

A spirited play of the gay side of life, together with deep, human emotions, is the descriptions from the William Fox offices of "Other Men's Daughters," the next Special Feature Release in which Peggy Hyland is the star. The production, it is said, gives to Miss Hyland more opportunities for big work than she has ever had in her screen career.

"Other Men's Daughters" was written by E. Lloyd Sheldon and directed by Carl Harbaugh. Supporting Miss Hyland is a cast which includes Regina Quinn, Eric Mayne and Frank Goldsmith, Elizabeth Garrison, Riley Hatch and Robert Middlemas.

New O. Henry Story from General Film

Betty Blythe, Alice Terry, Bernard Siegel and William Shea are presented in the current O. Henry story, "The Brief Debut of Tildy," a General Film Company release.

Following this release will be "The Coming of Faro Nell," a Wolfville tale featuring Patricia Palmer and Robert Burns.

Liane Carrera in Fox Films

Liane Held Carrera has gone into motion pictures, and is now supporting Virginia Pearson in a Fox production which is in work at the Blackton studio in Brooklyn. This is said to be Miss Carrera's first experience in the films.

Coming Program Offerings

Seven Big Paramounts in July

Walter E. Greene Announces List with Dalton, Pickford, Ray, Hayakawa, Clark, Bennett and Wallace Reid

THE schedule of Paramount releases for the month of July, as announced this week by Walter E. Greene, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of distribution, consists of seven feature productions, one for each of the five weeks of the month with one additional for the weeks of the first and the fifteenth. The featured stars, in the order of their presentation, are Dorothy Dalton, Jack Pickford, Charles Ray, Sessue Hayakawa, Marguerite Clark, Enid Bennett and Wallace Reid. With the exception of Miss Clark's vehicle, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was made in the East, all are West Coast productions, three coming from the Thomas H. Ince studio and three from the Famous Players-Lasky studios.

Miss Dalton's picture, released July 1, is "The Kaiser's Shadow," a story by Octavus Roy Cohen and J. U. Giesy, which deals with the German spy propaganda in America, and which is said to be teeming with mystery and thrilling incidents.

The same day marks the release of the film in which Jack Pickford makes his last screen appearance, at least for some time to come, for "Sandy" was the last picture the young star made before enlisting in the Navy.

On July 8, Thomas H. Ince will present Charles Ray in "The Claws of the Hun." Ella Stuart Carson wrote the story and Victor L. Schertzinger directed, under Mr. Ince's supervision, from R. Cecil Smith's scenario. In the cast are Jane Novak, Robert McKim, Dorcas Matthews, Melbourne MacDowell and Mollie McConnell.

"The City of Dim Faces," a story of life in the Chinese quarter of San Francisco by Frances Marion, is Sessue Hayakawa's subject for July 15. A number of tragic moments in the play are said to give the Japanese star wonderful opportunities to display his histrionic talent.

The story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which Marguerite Clark makes her appearance in the double role of Little Eva and Topsy, the fifteenth, needs no recommendation or elaboration.

Enid Bennett will be presented by Thomas H. Ince commencing July 22 in "The Vamp," a story by C. Gardner Sullivan. The picture was directed under the supervision of Mr. Ince by Jerome Storm. In the play Miss Bennett "vamps" for patriotic purposes and thereby accomplishes a German spy's undoing. The supporting cast includes such well-known players as Melbourne MacDowell, Robert McKim, Charles French, Douglas MacLean and John P. Lockney.

"Less Than Kin," the release for the 29th, features Wallace Reid in a romance of a Central-American revolution, with the star playing the part of a ne'er-do-well.

Vitagraph Issues "One Thousand Dollars"

THERE is said to be a good omen for exhibitors in "One Thousand Dollars," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature which has been scheduled for release on July 8, by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph company.

The story is another one of the O. Henry series done into a five-reel feature, and in addition to its title, the production will give to exhibitors three stars of recognized drawing power and a supporting cast of strength. Edward Earle, Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres are featured in this production, which was made under the direction of Kenneth Webb. Others in the cast are Templar Saxe and Anne Brody.

"What would go do if you had One Thousand Dollars?" is the question around which the story pivots and it is one that lends itself admirably to advertising purposes, just as it does in the working out of a novel screen feature. "One Thousand Dollars," in its original story form, is held to be one of the cleverest that ever came from the super-clever pen of O. Henry, and Vitagraph, in adapting the story, is said to have retained all of the piquancy of the original and to have added a lot more. At first glance, this looks as though it should be a fine example of the "happy pictures" policy announced by Albert E. Smith, more than a year ago, and one that fits in splendidly with the need for clean entertaining pictures showing the brighter side of life.

The story is said to be replete with good humor and fine comedy touches, and Edward Earle and Agnes Ayres, who scored remarkably as the stars of Vitagraph Comedies, may be depended upon to interpret the light drama touches for all they are worth. This was demonstrated by Mr. Earle and Miss Ayres when they were featured in a two-reel O. Henry story at the Rivoli theatre, New York, last week.

Mutual Releases New Outing Picture

"Ex-Cannibal Carnival," the first of the series of Outing-Chester travel classics, produced by C. L. Chester in collaboration with the editorial board of Outing, is released by Mutual, June 30.

The second of the series, "Kaieteur," will be released July 7. "Kaieteur" pictures a journey through the exotic wilderness of British Guiana to this waterfall, which is five times as high as Niagara.

Billie Rhodes, Mutual-Strand Favorite

General Announces Six Oakdale Dramas

Among the most important of General Film Company's product acquisition, is a series of six dramas called the Oakdale Productions. These will be released beginning probably July 15, at the rate of one a week.

The distinguishing feature about Oakdale productions is that each of the six pictures had, besides well known adult stars, a juvenile star of recognized personality and strength, according to the General Film announcement. Each of the six stories, furthermore, contains the child element as a powerful factor in developing the story as well as in bringing to it a lighter domestic touch that is so much in favor with audiences. General Film Company will announce the titles of the pictures and the casts in a forthcoming statement regarding the series.

All the Oakdale productions are five-reel pictures, described as very consistent throughout as to subject and dramatic treatment. They are to be marketed as a series at all General Film exchanges.

"Annexing Bill" Comes on July 7

A comedy with a romantic flavor, "Annexing Bill," with Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in the star roles, heads the Pathe program to be released July 7. The action of the story is based upon one idea, an idea that has a direct appeal to every feminine photoplay patron. It is "Would you give up a million dollar legacy to marry the man you love?" Gladys Hulette plays the part of an art student in modern circumstances, but wins the love of a young lawyer who is also poor, but has bright prospects.

"Painted Lily" on June 30

"The Painted Lily," a story by Catherine Carr, scenarioized by the Cinema Exchange and featuring Alma Rubens, is the first release on the Triangle program for the week of June 30. For the second release of the week Triangle presents the Roy Stewart, Director Cliff Smith and Steven Rounds combination in the second "Red Saunders" story by Henry Wallace Phillips, "The Fly God."

Program Glances

A comedy travel picture and an adventure scenic are the first two Outing Chester releases on the distribution schedule of the Mutual Film Corporation. "An Ex-Cannibal Carnival" was released on June 30. Second subject will be "Kaiateur."

"The Voice of Destiny," the drama in which Baby Marie Osborne is starred, and currently released by Pathe, will be followed by "Cupid by Proxy," on the Pathe program released Sunday, July 21.

Dividing the position of prominence with S. L. Rothapfel's U. S. Marines pictures on the program of the Rivoli theatre for the week of June 23, was "Sisters of the Golden Circle," the current General Film-O. Henry release.

Screen players of prominence are in the cast which supports Mae Marsh in her latest Goldwyn production, "The Glorious Adventure," adapted from Edith Barnard Delano's popular story, "When Carey Came to Town," and to be released July 14.

Wallace Reid, with Ann Little, is scheduled to appear in a new Paramount picture, "The Firefly of France," released on June 23. The film portrays the adventures falling to the lot of a young New Yorker who becomes entangled in the meshes of a German spy plot.

Following their success in "For Sale," Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale will be presented by Pathe on July 7 in "Annexing Bill," a romantic comedy, the scenario of which was written by Tom Cushing from the novel of Edgar Franklin, published by the Frank A. Munsey Company.

"The Burglar Man," the first in the series of the Emerald Cinema Doll Comedies, is released this week by General Film Company. In this film the Doll Players present a parody upon the type of comedy of Charlie Chaplin, in which characters described as "Charlie," "Mike," "Burglar Man," "Edna" and others, do all the stunts of well-known comedians, and a few more in addition.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle's next Paramount-Arbuckle comedy, "Good Night, Nurse," has been scheduled for July 8 release. This film is said to promise lots of fun for those who see it and lots of money for those who book it.

Louise Fazenda, Ford Sterling and Jack Cooper are featured in the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy set for release July 1. "Her Screen Idol" is the title and the comedy is described as a delightfully good-natured satire on the matinee idol of the screen, with a Wild West setting.

The first picture from Bud Fisher, creator of Mut and Jeff, since his arrival at the front in France, where he is a captain in the British army, is "The Seventy-five-Mile Gun," which relates the capture, in a Mutt and Jeff Animated Cartoon, of the German super-cannon which has been shelling Paris. The picture will be released shortly.

The departure of three leading players in "A Successful Adventure," Metro's forthcoming feature production starring May Allison, has made necessary a "speeding-up" process in order to complete the picture in the allotted time. "A Successful Adventure" will be released July 15.

In response to numerous inquiries from exhibitors all over the country, the Fox Film Corporation has announced that August 5 has been set as the general release date for "Cleopatra," the Theda Bara super-production, which has done record business in the cities where it has been shown.

Pathe announces the release of the twentieth and concluding episode of its greatest serial success, "The House of Hate," on the program of July 21.

Marcus Loew has reported personally to President Lewis J. Selznick of the Select Pictures Corporation, that the showing of Marion Davies' Select Picture, "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," in the Loew chain of theatres in Greater New York, attracted unusually good business to these houses.

Remarkable pictures, taken by astronomers at Denver, Colo., of the recent total eclipse of the sun, are shown in Screen Telegram, No. 33, released by Mutual June 23. The mammoth machine used in taking these pictures measured more than twenty-two feet in length.

Reginald Barker, Who Will Direct Geraldine Farrar for Goldwyn

Vitagraph Announces July 8 Program

The Vitagraph program of releases for the week of July 8 has been scheduled by Albert E. Smith, president of the company, as follows:

Blue Ribbon Feature—5 parts—"One Thousand Dollars," featuring Edward Earle, Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres. An adaptation of the O. Henry story of the same name. Directed by Kenneth Webb.

Serial—2 parts—"The Crash of Fate," Episode 14 of "The Woman in the Web." featuring Hedda Nova and J. Frank Glendon. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by Paul Hurst.

Big V. Comedy—1 part—"Hindoos and Hazards," featuring Lawrence Semon. Written and directed by Lawrence Semon.

Vitagraph Drew Comedy—1 part—"Boobley's Baby," featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

World Announces Dates of New Comedies

World Pictures announces the release dates of new comedies just completed, or being finished by Marie Dressler and Fay Tincher, the comediennes who are making two-reel comedies for World. On July 8. Miss Dressler's "The Agonies of Agnes" will be issued. "The Red Cross Nurse." another Marie Dressler production, is announced for August 5. On July 22, Fay Tincher will be seen in "Oh, Susie, Behave."

In the latter attraction Miss Tincher is seen in the role of Susie Snipp, who works for five dollars a week as errand girl in a modish little hat shop. She has one ambition, to become a saleslady, and her efforts in this direction are said to furnish Miss Tincher with ample opportunities to display her abilities as a comedienne.

Here Comes Snakeville

July releases for the Snakeville comedy series are announced by General Film Company as follows: "Slippery Slim's Stratagem," July 6; "A Hot Time in Snakeville," July 13; "Snakeville's New Sheriff," July 20, and "A Snakeville Epidemic," July 27.

Nailing A Black Lie

A competitor's salesmen are telling exhibitors that hereafter the Universal Animated Weekly and the Universal Current events are not to have any official war films and that such war films are to be distributed "exclusively" through the medium of this competitor's exchanges.

This, of course, is a black lie. It should not be necessay to deny it. But unfortunately we have already learned that many exhibitors believe it. To settle the matter, we publish the following extract from a letter received by the Universal from Charles S. Hart, Director of the Division of Films, of the Committee on Public Information.

> "Each week beginning the week of June 3rd we will place at your disposal OFFICIAL WAR FILMS that we consider valuable to the news weeklies. You will be charged one dollar per foot for each foot of the film used by you."

The arrangement outlined in Mr. Hart's letter, took effect the week of June 3rd, as stated by Mr. Hart, and so continues. In our news weeklies, we use as much of the war pictures as the exhibitors seem to want, carefully mixing in other interesting news events to avoid giving your public an overdose of "war stuff."

The Universal Animated Weekly and the Universal Current Events always have been and always will be the best in the business. We admit it. They are always first to show important events, whether concerning the war or other things.

We warn exhibitors, for their own good, not to be tricked by lies or half-truths. Our news reels are not seeking to profiteer by means of public interest in the war. We have an "exclusive" contract with the Committee on Public Information to produce and distribute single reel pictures pertaining to the war and "The wonders of our War Work," but at no time have we intended to use it as a club to grab your profits or to make you believe that we had the United States Government tied up in our vest pocket.

We suggest, in conclusion, that any company that lies to you is a dangerous company with which to transact ANY business whatever.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
CARL LAEMMLE, President 1600 Broadway, New York
The largest film manufacturing company in the universe
We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

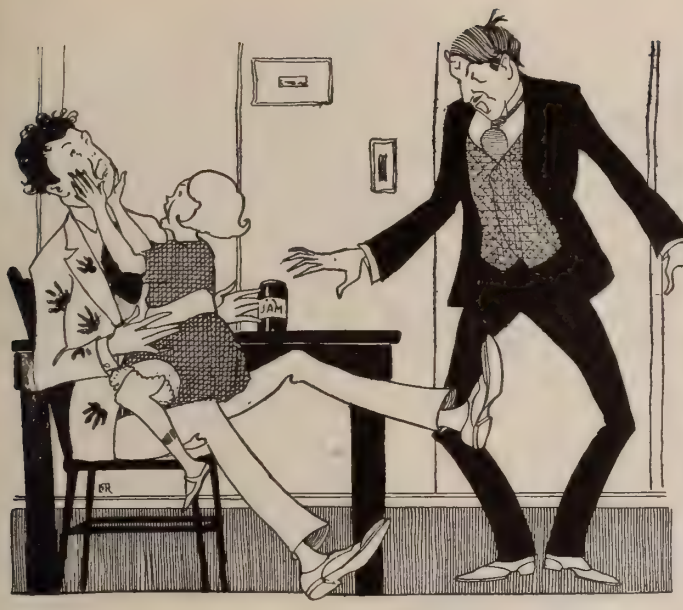
"Shoot 'em in the pants Your Majesty"—

(one of the Killing scenes in)

The GEEZER OF BERLIN

A TRAVESTY on "The KAISER, The Beast of Berlin"

Watch for Release Date



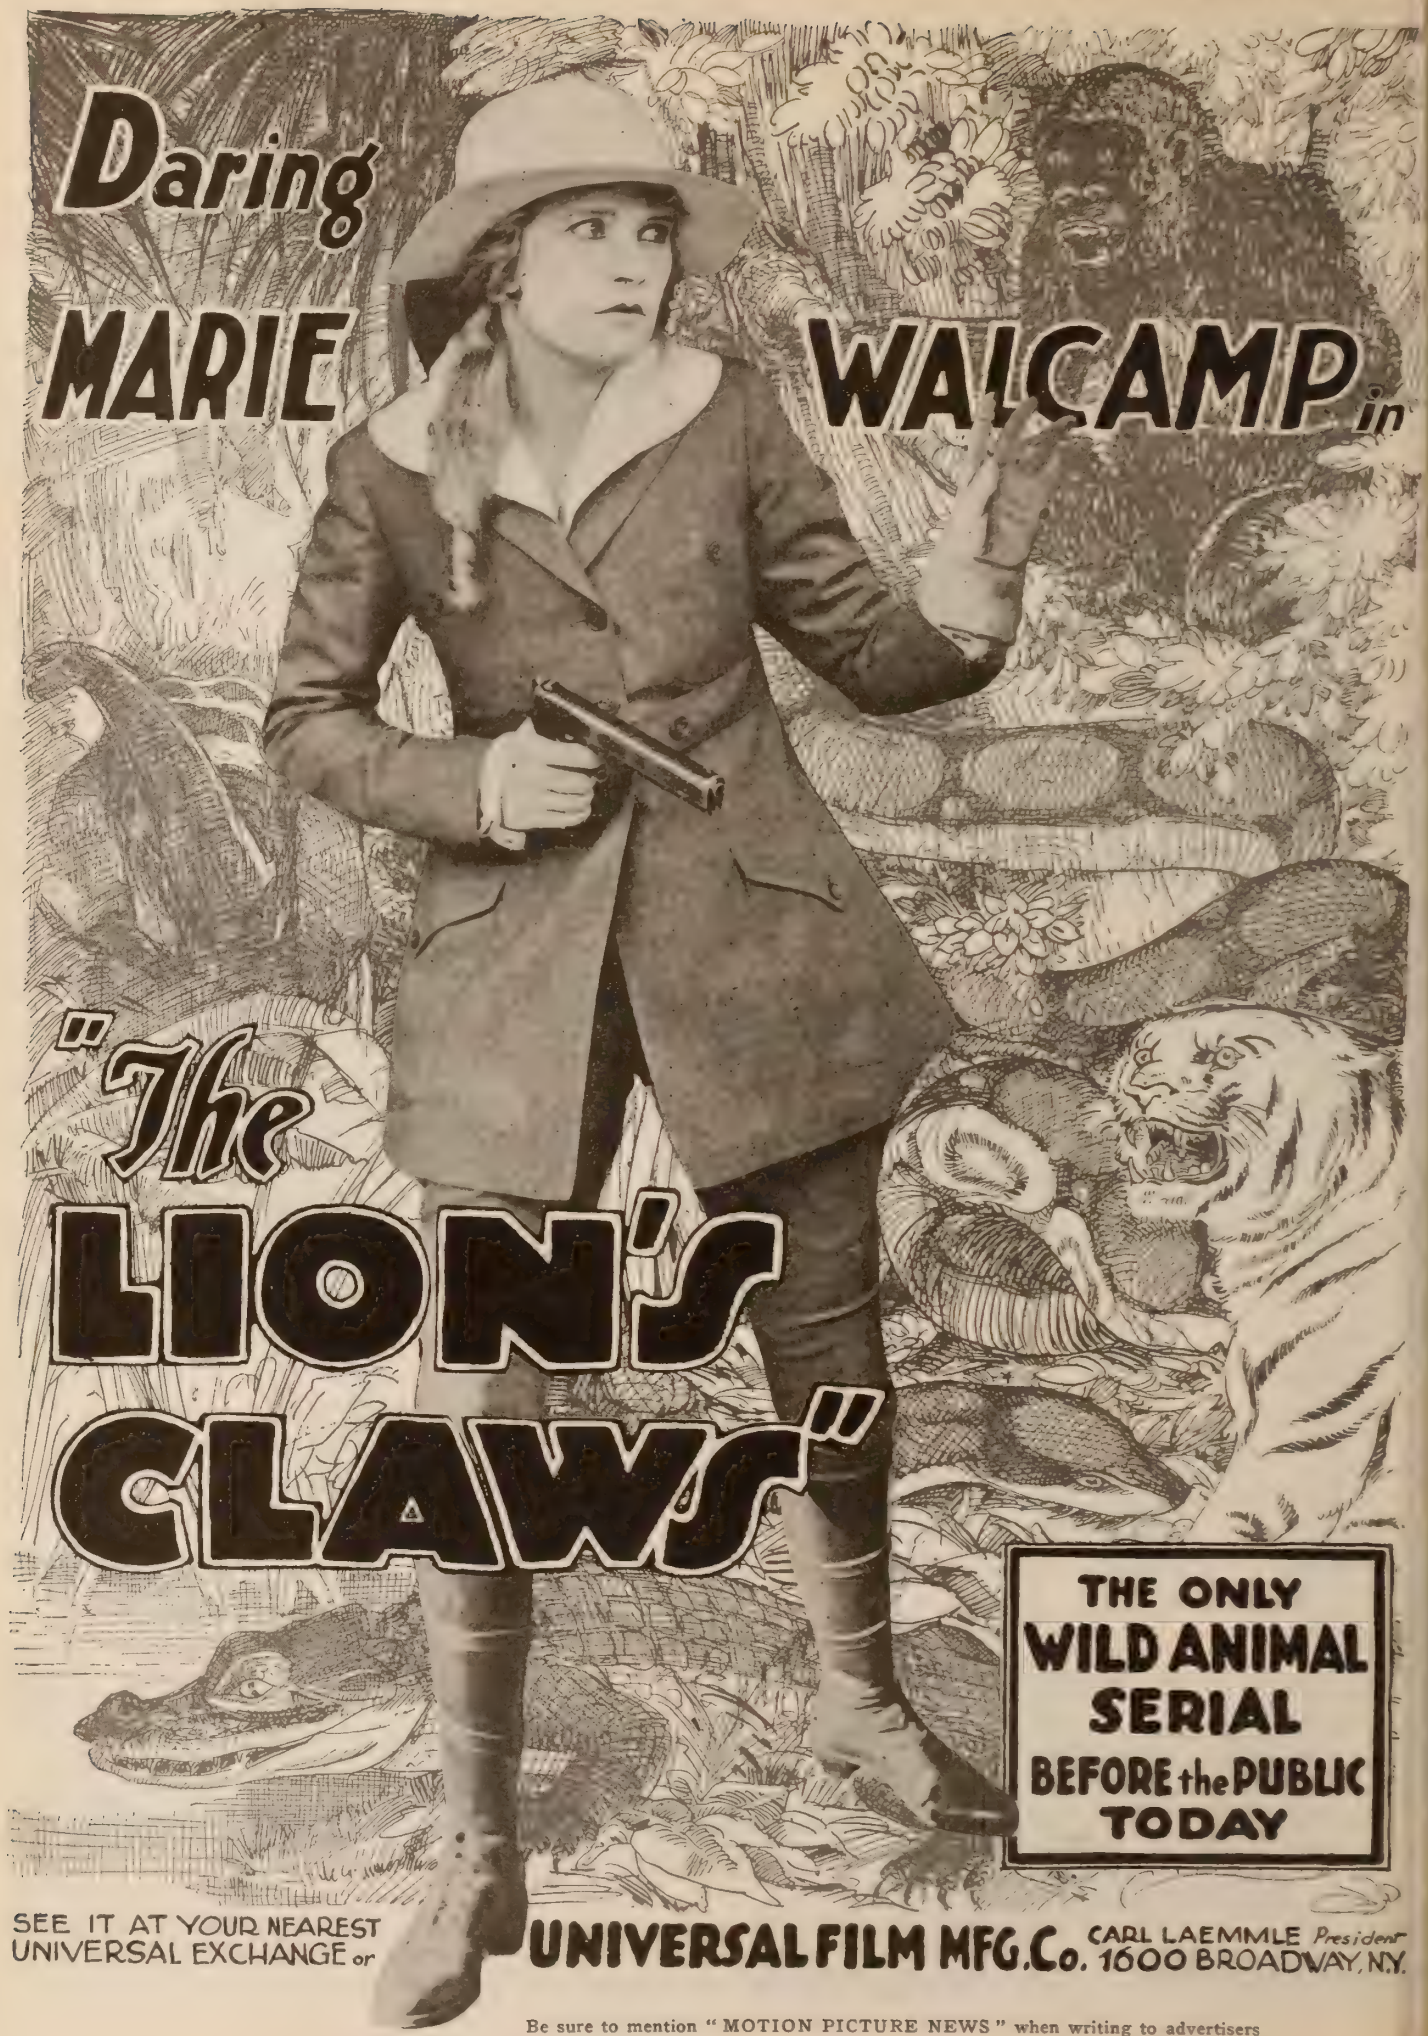
LYONS MORAN STAR COMEDIES

EDDIE LYONS and Lee Moran —welcomed everywhere with a yell of relief for the simple reason that their fun is clean, bright, up-to-the-minute and as full of class as the classiest thorobred. You simply can't do without these two enormously popular boys if you want your comedies to give you a reputation. Show them in all their past releases and make a host of friends.

PAST RELEASES — "A Pig-skin Hero," "The Guilty Egg," "Whose Baby Are You," "The One Horse Show," "There Goes the Bride," "The Tail of a Cat," "Mum's the Word," "The Dodgers," "A Ripping Time," "Stepping Some," "The Knockout."

IN PREPARATION — "Berth Control," "Bad News," "Shot in the Dumbwaiter."

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO. Largest Film Mn'fg Co. in the Universe. Carl Laemmle, Pres. 1600 Broadway, New York



Daring
MARIE WALCAMP in
"The LION'S CLAWS"
THE ONLY WILD ANIMAL SERIAL BEFORE the PUBLIC TODAY
SEE IT AT YOUR NEAREST UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE or UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. Co. CARL LAEMMLE President 1600 BROADWAY, N.Y.

In the Independent Field

Schallenberger Gets Re-Issues

Dr. Schallenberger, Arrow Film Corp., Gets Thirty Kerrigan Short Subjects and Four Allison-Lockwood Five Reelers

W. E. SCHALLENBERGER, president of Arrow Film Corporation, has acquired the rights to thirty one-reel and ten two-reel J. Warren Kerrigan re-issues produced by the American Film Company. These re-issues are undergoing entire reconstruction re-edited and re-titled.

This series of re-issues, Dr. Schallenberger announces, will be offered on the independent market, the first number to be released July 8. A complete new line of advertising matter has been issued to accompany the exploitation of this series.

Dr. Schallenberger also announces the acquisition of four 5-reel Harold Lockwood-May Allison re-issues. These pictures ran first under the titles, "The Buzzard's Shadow," "The End of the Road," "The Other Side of the Door" and "Life's Blind Alley." These productions are being re-edited at the laboratories of the American Film Company under the supervision of Dr. Schallenberger and a new line of advertising being printed to exploit the same. These re-issues will be disposed of on the open market under one contract.

In connection with this announcement, Dr. Schallenberger said:

"It appears that there is a dearth of meritorious one and two reel productions on the market and that the motion picture houses have sent up a cry for this length of release. Producers have been confining themselves to five or more part productions and the same amount of endeavor is not put into one and two reel productions to-day as manufacturers expended a few years back. Furthermore, stars who now appear in long productions were those who earned their reputation through their work in the shorter length subjects and the exhibitors, too, feel that if a star is needed, he is as much of a box office value in a short subject as he or she is in a larger one. I expect to close out the United States and Canada on these Kerrigan re-issues and will then have an announcement for the trade on other subjects of like merit."

Garrett Points Way to Better Results

IN selecting a title for Leah Baird's serial, now under production by the Western Photoplays, Inc., of which Joseph A. Golden and A. Alperstein are executive heads, Sidney Garrett, of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., which company is handling the distribution of this serial in foreign markets, says that the star, the executives and he have hit upon an idea to obtain a title that will be approved by all, both foreign and domestic dealers and exhibitors. The idea is to first get the consensus of opinion of the exhibitors and buyers as to the title that will be most appreciated by the class of people which will see the serial.

In commenting upon this idea that is being followed out, Mr. Garrett said:

"Every American manufacturer should consult the foreign buyer deciding on either story or title to any worth-while production. For instance, in some countries the showing of the brown or yellow race in menial positions is tabooed; in others certain minor scenes offered religion or caste. I have requested of all the manufacturers whose output I purchase regularly, such as Metro, Selig and King-Bee, that they consult with me or any foreign expert, previous to starting production work from any story. Some slight alteration might add thousands of dollars to the income of the photoplay. This applies particularly to the Far East."

J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., is well and favorably known to the four corners of the earth. Mr. Garrett, as president of the company, is handling picture propositions that concern theatres and film buyers in Japan, India, Java, East Africa, South America, Scandinavia and Australia.

List of Sherry Exchanges Announced

Exchanges of the newly organized William L. Sherry Service are now in active operation in a dozen cities in different parts of the country. Mr. Sherry is distributing the pictures of the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation, featuring Catherine Calvert, and De Luxe Pictures, Inc., starring Doris Kenyon. The first releases are set for June 30. The cities in which exchanges have been opened and permanent managers appointed are: New York, John S. Clark; Boston, Aaron Corn; Philadelphia, George F. Wright; Chicago, H. F. Brink; Cleveland, W. R. Liebmann; Pittsburg, W. F. Lyon; Detroit, E. H. Wells; Dallas, Charles Meade; Denver, H. D. Cassidy; Los Angeles, William Alexander, and Minneapolis, A. A. Nelson.

An exchange has been opened at 921 Walnut street, Kansas City, but a permanent manager has not yet been selected. San Francisco, Seattle, St. Louis and Atlanta are among the cities in which offices are to be located in the next week or so.

Educational Gets Elmendorf Travel Pictures

Educational Film Corporation announces a series of Dwight L. Elmendorf's one-reel subjects for release late in August or early in Septemher. These subjects will be released one every two weeks. The subject matter of these short educationals will deal with a variety of topics, showing scenics from all parts of the world. Mr. Elmendorf says that the 50,000 feet of negative which will be released by Educational represents pictures collected by him over a space of twenty-two years. The acquisition of the Elmendorf subjects gives Educational the work of some of the best known scenic photographers in the business —Bruce, Newman, Wright and Ditmars.

Mr. Elmendorf is the pioneer in the field of exploring nature for the purpose of giving the public the results in the form of travel talk and motion picture. He first got the close-up effects of distant objects by his use of the telephoto camera. He invented his own cameras, made all his equipment and at the start did his own camera work. The Elmendorf series of travel negative is now being looked over by President George A. Skinner of the Educational Films Corporation, with a view to printing up for exhibitors' use the most timely scenes and subjects.

Webster Preparing for Second Production

Harry McRae Webster, Harry McRae Webster Productions, Inc., and Richard Field Carroll, author of Mr. Webster's first independent production, "Reclaimed," have commenced work on the second of Mr. Webster's productions, the title of which has not been announced. The story from which Mr. Webster's second production will be made, was submitted by an unknown author and Mr. Webster announces that if the one who submitted the script having as its chief characters "The Ag—ic" and "Miss W—er," will communicate with him, he will see that the communication is to his, the author's, advantage.

Chester Beecroft, who is handling the distribution of "Reclaimed," reports that he has many offers for the acquisition of territory on this feature and expects to be able to announce the sale of the world rights within the next week.

Good Booking Reported on Bret Comedies

William Stoermer, general sales manager, American Standard Motion Picture Corporation, handling Tom Bret Comedies, reports a big demand for this brand of fun makers. Jimmy Aubrey is featured in these comedies.

Shepard Has a Word to Say on "Mickey"

H. J. SHEPARD, W. H. Productions, asks the answer to the following question:

"Is a good picture, a big universal picture, sufficient in itself, as a money-making proposition?" "In other words, it has often been questioned whether a great production, possessing every appeal necessary to reach the hearts and heads of the masses, can secure the maximum of profits it deserves on the strength of those merits alone.

"In the case of Mack Sennett's seven reel production "Mickey," featuring Mabel Normand, soon to be released, the advertising campaign has been laid out in every detail, and is the most comprehensive and thoughtful, in our experience in the film industry. There has been a sure, steady fire of advertising, publicity and exploitation. 'Mickey' has been kept before the public eye for over two years, till even now, before its release, it has become familiar, something toward which the public is looking forward with great pleasure. For the picture 'Mickey' is, and will prove to be.

"A great universal picture like 'Mickey' requires the proper service to back it. After consulting and experimenting, therefore, a wonderful lobby display has been evolved, in collaboration with Nelson Evans, president of Evans Studio, Los Angeles, who is an authority on photographic values.

"Another feature of this wide publicity campaign which is destined to make 'Mickey' a household word for a long time to come, is the exploitation of the song 'Mickey' based on this production. Arrangements have also been made whereby over fifteen hundred retail dealers, and all of the largest five and ten cent store syndicates in the country will devote a full window display to the song.

"The campaign book on 'Mickey' embodies almost the complete service Western Import Company renders with this great production. There are a collection of newspaper advertisements, press stories, every aid the exhibitor needs. The Service Department of Western Import Company is bringing out the many selling points in 'Mickey,' in such a way that its appeal will reach every type of person in the world."

Cromelin Tells of British "Reformers"

PAUL H. CROMELIN, president of Inter-Ocean Film Corporation, said in an interview with a representative of the News, this week, that the American assailants of pictures have nothing on their neighbors in England. He said:

"Occasionally our own trade press reveals the fact that some prominent enemy of the movies has never been to see them. I have read the disclosure a dozen times in connection with well-known American reformers. But now a member of our London staff writes that he is just returned from the small English town of Carnoustie, where the town council was discussing the opening of cinema houses on Sunday. He says that two 'reformers' by the name of Heggie and Pottinger were the chief foes of the local picture men, that they had reason after reason for denouncing the films. And that in reply to a question, they both admitted they had 'never set foot in such dens of perdition.'"

Mr. Cromelin reports the placement of the Paralta program in Cuba by Leon Schlesinger of the local organization, and of World pictures in the West Indies, by Ricardo Castro, manager of Inter-Ocean's Latin-American activities. He says the London and Paris offices are planning a simultaneous drive on the European markets with the "Fulco" accessories, Inter-Ocean's latest acquisition.

Doris Kenyon Entertained at Fort Hamilton

In honor of her appointment as an honorary sergeant of the 122nd Company, 70th Regiment, U. S. Coast Defenses, Doris Kenyon, star of the recent photoplay success, "The Street of Seven Stars," was tendered a dinner on last Sunday evening at the general headquarters of the Coast Defenses, at Fort Hamilton. The dinner was given by Brigadier-General Eli Hoyle and Mrs. Hoyle. Colonel Delamere Skerrett was master of ceremonies. In addition to all of the officers of the regiment, and a number of invited friends, a delegation of West Point officers were also invited by General and Mrs. Hoyle to meet the star.

Miss Kenyon will give a private showing of "The Street of Seven Stars," for the members of her regiment next week.

J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., Anniversary

June 25 marked the first anniversary of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., entry into the import and export business. Sidney Garrett is president of this concern. Among the manufacturers represented in the foreign market during the past year by this concern are:

Rex Beach Co., Arrow Films Corporation, Rita Jolivet Film Corporation, Selig Polyscope Company and King-Bee Billy West Company. Mr. Garrett is also exclusive purchasing agent for the Mundus-Film Company of Paris, Clement Mason of Australia and the J. Frank Brockliss, Ltd., of London. He has handled with success Charlie Chaplin First National Comedies, "The Barrier," "Lest We Forget," Billy West Comedies, "The Natural Law," "The Submarine Eye," "The Whip," "Blue Jeans," "Revelation," "The Cold Deck," in foreign fields.

It is an odd coincidence that both Mr. Brockliss and Mr. Garrett were born in England, but did not become acquainted.

Bee - Hive Members Get Royal Send-Off

The Bee-Hive Exchange, handling Billy West King-Bee Comedies, gave a royal send-off last Friday to the two members of the staff who are now in service, Milton Schonberger and Leon Weisberg.

The guests were Milton Cohen, N. H. Spitzer, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Singer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Henlein, James Mendelson, George Ross, Sol Rovenger, Ed. Rosenbaum, Jr., Sam Hauser, Herman Silverman, Al Bondy, Milton Schwartz, Irving Green, Arthur Dietz, Herbert Asiel, G. Toronto, Harold Lietz, Harold Gillespie, Harry Grossman, J. Harrison, Marian Spitzer, Lillie Becker, Sylvia Schreiber, Lillian Frank, Mrs. Hush, Mrs. Kartar, Miss Horwitz, Miss Smith, Francis Casey, Miss Mantel, Miss Childs, Miss Wilson, Miss Cane and Miss G. Eltins.

Mr. Weisberg is in the Navy and Mr. Schonberger in the Army.

Brady Releases "Stolen Orders" on States Rights

Exhibitors will no doubt be interested to learn that William A. Brady's production, "Stolen Orders," now in its third week at the Park theatre, in New York City, will be sold on a State right basis.

Mr. Brady claims that "Stolen Orders" is one of the few motion pictures that ever played a Broadway engagement at advanced prices and actually made money. So far every week that "Stolen Orders" has been shown at the Park theatre has not alone shown a profit but has also shown a bigger profit than the corresponding week for the showing of "The Whip," according to the Brady announcement.

West Without Mustache

Billy West, the King-Bee comedian, portrays a kid dressed in rompers, minus his mustache, in the latest King-Bee comedy, "Playmates," set for release July 1.

L. J. Schlaifer Joins U. S. Marines

L. J. Schlaifer, L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, one of the most prominent independent distributors and buyers on the Pacific Coast, has enlisted in the United States Marines and is now stationed at Mare Island, California. Melvin G. Winstock has been placed in executive charge of the Schlaifer offices.

Mr. Schlaifer is one of the best known men operating in the independent field. He has a host of friends who wish him the best of luck in fighting the Germans. If he is as succesful in promoting the destruction of the Kaiser's army as he has been in promoting the best interests of the motion picture business, he will return with every honor that the Allied cause has to bestow on its defenders.

The L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, write that the Washington State Harvester League has requested the Schlaifer interests take charge of the distribution of its single-reel feature, "Harvest Your Holidays to the Harvest." The Schlaifer interests have consented to handle the feature, without charge. The picture has been approved by President Wilson, it is said. The announcement states that the picture was shown recently at the Coliseum, Seattle, and met with hearty approval by the audience.

Buyers Show Interest in Baird Serial

A. Alperstein, general manager, Western Photoplays, Inc., associated with Joseph A. Golden in the production of the serial in which Leah Baird is featured, reports that independent buyers are evincing a strong interest in this serial. Among the callers at his offices, last week, Mr. Alperstein includes the names of Harry Charnas, Standard Film Service Company, Cleveland; W. H. Harden, E. and H. Distributing Company, Atlanta; Harry Lande, Quality Film Service, Pittsburgh, and Sidney Lust, Washington, D. C. Mr. Alperstein announces that no disposition will be made of the rights to this serial until after the first five episodes are completed.

Rifkin Gets Two Atlantic Features

Herman Rifkin, Eastern Feature Film Company, Boston, has completed arrangements with the Atlantic Distributing Corporation whereby he will distribute the Atlantic two features, "Nine Tenths of the Law," featuring Mitchell Lewis, and "The Devil's Playground" in which Vera Michelena is starred, in the New England territory.

Siegel's Novelty Film Liked

A. E. Siegel, producer of Topics of the Day, a novelty in the form of picturized paragraphs with a punch, selected from The Literary Digest, reports that these short subjects are being received with a welcome by the exhibitors. The Strand, New York, and The Playhouse, Chicago, are running this series.

THE INDEPENDENT FIELD TICKER

Territorial Sales Reported During the Past Week

Production	Buyer	Territory
Gaumont News and Gaumont Graphic (News Weeklies — Gaumont Company)	Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago	Illinois.
Gaumont News and Gaumont Graphic (News Weeklies — Gaumont Company)	Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland	Ohio, Kentucky.
Gaumont News and Gaumont Graphic (News Weeklies — Gaumont Company)	Doo-Lee Film Co., Syracuse	New York State North of the Counties of Dutchess, Ulster and Sullivan.
Series of 28 Sennett Comedy Re-Issues; Series of 26 Chaplin Re-Issues; Series of 16 Shorty Hamilton Re-Issues; Series of 5 Bessie Barriscale Re-Issues; "The Two-Gun Man" and "The Bargain," Re-Issues; "The Bandit and the Preacher," "The Hell Hound of Alaska" and "Staking His Life" (Hart Re-Issues) W. H. Productions	Gardiner Syndicate, Buffalo.	New York State North of Westchester County.
Series of Chaplin Re-Issues (W. H. Productions)	William Oldknow, Southern States Film Corp., Atlanta	Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi.
Series of Chaplin Re-Issues.	B. N. Judell, Inc., Minneapolis	Minnesota, North and South Dakota.
"My Four Years in Germany" (Hiller and Wilk, Foreign Agents)	David P. Howell, New York	India, Burmah, Ceylon, Dutch East Indies, Philippines.
"My Four Years in Germany" (Hiller and Wilk, Foreign Agents)	Australasian Films, Ltd., New York	Australia, Hong Kong, Straits Settlements.

Affiliated Wheels Now Turning

After Three Days' Session, Directors of Affiliated Distributors Announce the Stage Set—Officers Elected

MEMBERS of the Affiliated Distributors Corporation, after a three days executive session at the New York offices of the Corporation, announce that they have every wheel turning in the direction of constructive work and that with every turn of the wheels there is registered an advance toward the ultimate end—success.

The opening session was presided over by Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the Affiliated. Both the terms of the contracts existing between the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation and the booking units associated with it, as well as the trust agreements whereby the funds of the exhibitors are protected under the control of each exhibitor unit in their own territory, were worked out, with desire on the part of everyone to see to it that the interest of all were fully preserved.

A number of pictures were viewed by the directors in the evenings during the meeting, and several productions are under consideration as initial releases. It was announced that by September the Affiliated will be operating on a regular schedule of releases.

The releases will be distributed through a chain of established exchanges. These exchanges will have no part in the booking of the Affiliated product, acting merely as distributors, or express companies, in the physical handling of the film and its accessories. Applications were received from four nationally organized distributing organizations for the contract for this service. A committee consisting of Sydney S. Cohen, New York, and Alfred Hyman, Buffalo, was appointed to investigate the terms and quality of the service offered by these exchanges, and to report to the board of directors with their recommendations for final action.

The final afternoon's session was devoted to informal talks by the Chairman, Sydney S. Cohen, Charles C. Pettijohn, who is primarily responsible for the development of the co-operative booking movement and the development of the Affiliated, and William J. Clark, treasurer of the Affiliated Distributors Corporation.

Following the unanimous acceptance of the various agreements between the Affiliated and the units comprising it, permanent officers of the National Board of Directors were chosen.

They are: Sydney S. Cohen, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New York State and Exhibitors Booking Association of Greater New York, chairman; Sam Bullock, Cleveland, first vice-chairman; Glenn Harper, secretary of the Theatre Owners Association of California, Los Angeles, second vice-chairman; Frank Rembusch, national secretary of the American Exhibitors Association, Indianapolis, secretary.

Among those present were: R. D. Craver and H. B. Varner, representing Md., D. of C., Del., Va., N. & S. Carolina, Eastern Tenn., Ala., Ga. and Florida; Morris Spiers, representing Eastern Penn. and So. N. J.; Fred J. Herrington, Western Penn. and W. Va.; Sydney S. Cohen and John Manheimer, Greater New York; Alfred Hyman, Northern and Western New York; Sam. J. Bullock, Northern Ohio; John W. Weinig, Southern Ohio and Eastern Ky.; Frank J. Rembusch, Indiana and Western Ky.; Charles H. Seaman, Michigan; Louis Frank and Joseph Hopp, Illinois; Byron Parks and Glenn Harper, Washington, Oregon, Calif., Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico; and Henry J. Lustig, of Cleveland, president of the Exhibitors Booking Association of Northern Ohio, and Henry A. Brink, and William J. Clark of Grand Rapids.

Three Artcrafts in July

Three Artcraft features, representing a wide diversity of subjects, are announced by Walter E. Greene, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of distribution, for release in July. They are William S. Hart in "Shark Monroe," on July 8th; "We Can't Have Everything," a Cecil B. deMille production, also July 8th, and Elsie Ferguson in "The Danger Mark," on July 29th.

Wilfred Lytell in Metro Picture

Wilfred Lytell, brother of Bert Lytell, Metro star, has been cast for a part in Metro's production "Our Mrs. McChesney," with Ethel Barrymore. This feature is being made at the East Coast studio in New York. At the same time, Wilfred Lytell is appearing on the legitimate stage in a Broadway play.

Pat Sullivan Returns to Cartoon Making

Pat Sullivan, the artist, has returned to the business of producing animated cartoons. He has returned to his old office at 125 West Forty-second street, and is at present engaged in completing a thousand foot subject of the war, a humorous conceit in which the Kaiser figures in the heavy role. The channel of release for this subject will be announced shortly.

Mr. Sullivan also has a good two hundred pounds of finished drawings in his office which he will shortly start photographing. The two hundred pounds represents 8,500 complete drawings and when these are properly photographed he will have produced a three thousand foot animated cartoon. When this is completed it will be the longest animated cartoon ever produced. The majority of them run between five hundred and a thousand feet. Mr. Sullivan is negotiating with several companies regarding the release of this subject.

Sullivan is enthusiastic regarding his return to the business. He has already gained a reputation as producer of animated cartoons, having drawn and animated the "Sammie Johnson" series for the Universal program.

Foreign Territory Sold for Gerard Picture

Hiller & Wilk, Inc., selling agents for the foreign rights to "My Four Years in Germany," announce the sale of the rights to India, Burmah, Ceylon, Dutch East Indies, Philippines, to David P. Howells. The Australasian Films, Ltd., own the rights to "My Four Years in Germany" for Australia, Hong Kong and Straits Settlements. The Gerard picture has been shown in the largest cities of Australia and Mr. Howells feels certain the reception the picture will get in the Philippines, Japan, China and India will be enthusiastic. France, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Holland, Russia, Poland, Balkan States, Mexico, Central America, are still open territory.

Vitagraph Signs Paige

Jean Paige, who was in the O. Henry short reel subjects and later in Vitagraph Blue Ribbon features, has been placed under contract by Albert E. Smith, according to a statement authorized by the Vitagraph president.

Her next picture will be "Tangled Lives," in which she plays a prominent role with Harry Morey and Betty Blythe. It was scheduled for release on July 1.

Miss Young Narrowly Escapes Injury

Clara Kimball Young and her father, Edward M. Kimball, while working on exteriors for "The Savage Women," in the vicinity of San Pedro, narrowly escaped serious injury by a shower of stones from the over-hanging cliffs. The company was at luncheon.

The Film Club, of Boston, Recently Held a Basket Picnic at the Atlas Film Corporation Studios, Pausing Long Enough In the Round of Enjoyment to Have Their Smiles Registered by the Camera

"Tempered Steel" Rothapfel's Fourth Petrova

The initial presentation of "Tempered Steel" the latest Madame Petrova offering at Rothapfel's Rialto theatre, New York, marks the fourth of the Petrova Pictures Company's attractions which that prominent manager has played.

Arrangements for the pre-release presenation at the Rialto last week were completed between Samuel Rothapfel and Frederick L. Collins, president of Petrova Pictures. "Daughter of Destiny," was the first Petrova production to be seen at the Broadway picture temple, followed by "The Light Within" and "The Life Mask."

Following the week's run at the Rialto "Tempered Steel" will be released through the exchanges of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. Preparations are now being made for the next Petrova offering, "Patience Sparhawk," also directed by Ralph Ince who staged "Tempered Steel."

The coming production is from the book by Gertrude Atherton.

Mary MacIvor, Leading Woman with "Bill" Parsons in Capitol-Goldwyn Comedies

Bruce Out of Wilds with New Bunch

ROBERT C. BRUCE who shoots the popular Bruce Scenics for the Educational program, writes the New York office that he has just emerged from the wilds of the California mountains where he has been filming the natural beauty of Yosemite Park, the giant redwoods and the Mount Shasta range in the northern part of the State.

Mr. Bruce writes that so far this season he has obtained about 12,000 feet of film. From now on he will work in Oregon and Washington and as he puts it, "I must jump fast, as the forest fires are starting earlier than usual and these cause an atmospheric haze that interferes with the best photography."

Among the Bruce subjects which will be released late this summer are "The Tenderfoot," "The Logging Drive" and "The Tides of Yesterday." The last named is a poetic photo on the order of "A World o' Dreams" or "The Trail to The Sky." It is founded on Longfellow's poem, "The Tide Rises, The Tide Falls" and is a picture symphony of the sea in daylight, twilight, darkness and sunrise.

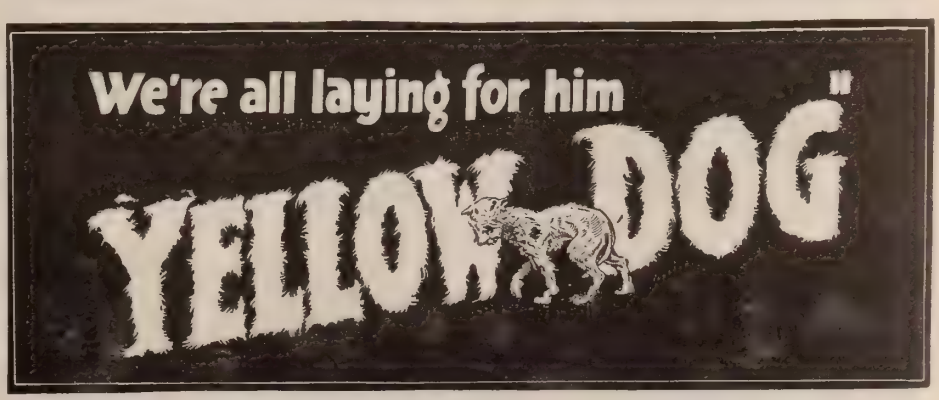
"For three years," Mr. Bruce writes, "I have been trying to get a good logging picture—not of the fake stuff, but the actual smashing of a log jam and the drive of the logs down the current. I believe I have at last achieved this in my new picture, 'The Logging Drive', which will give a vivid presentation of logging and lumbering among the redwoods."

Besides expeditions to the Teton Mountains, Wyoming; the Bitter Root Mountains, Montana; the Priest River and Shoshone Falls country in Idaho; the Shasta range and Lake Tahoe in California, Mr. Bruce and his party have completed one of the most extensive scenic studies of the Yellowstone National Park ever made. The human and animal crew include a cowboy guide, two helpers, a raw recruit from the film colony of San Francisco, the great Dane, the wire-haired terrior Buddy, and the usual burros and pack animals.

Strong Cast in Next Edith Storey-Metro

Frank Mills, Joseph Kilgour and Lilie Leslie are among the well known screen players who will be seen in support of Edith Storey in her next Metro vehicle on which work is now under way at the Biograph studio. The picture is as yet unnamed.

Others in the strong support are George Stevens, T. Tamamato, Augusta Perry, Harry Linson, Baby Ivy Ward, Ben Walker and John Cohill. The story is from the pen of Leon Zellner and is being staged by Director Herbert Blache, assisted by Edward Lawrence.



Short Subjects in Review

By Clara DeLissa Berg

FOR THE FAMILY NIGHT

There's no hyphen in the spirit and nationality of the police dogs trained by patriotic Americans of German descent and now serving under the Red Cross on the battlefields of France and Italy. Universal Screen Magazine shows them in feats of strength, agility, and almost uncanny intelligence. A leap over a seven-foot fence is Champion Felso's way of showing his fitness to go "over the top" when duty calls.

Maud Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, and known as "Little Mother" by thousands of boys who in prison have come under her fine, helpful influence, takes as her text in the Animated Interview, the value to children in after life of the memory of the hour spent with mother just before bedtime. The lovely personality of Miss Booth, the pleasant pictures of the youngsters enjoying the happiest hour of the day, the sympathetic acting of the young man who plays the role of the repentant boy who wants to "go straight," render this a particularly attractive subject.

What an ambitious duck or Japanese rooster can accomplish in the way of achieving distinction and beauty is illustrated by some fine pictures of prize fowl from a famous farm in Darien, Connecticut.

The reel is particularly well-suited for a family entertainment.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE NO. 79.
UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.: JULY 12.

RARE SPOTS IN WEST INDIES

The cameraman who has been photographing little-visited spots in the West Indies for the Post Travel Series, has found excellent material in the French island of Guadeloupe, with its quaint, quiet town of Basse Terre. There are streets formed of descending steps, a very old and beautiful stone bridge, an aqueduct that looks as if it belongs on the Roman campagna, and a gin mill with a huge old-fashioned water wheel. This last, however, is a dead industry, for the need of sugar has put a stop to the use of the cane for gin. The American consulate is a modest two-story building with a barely descernible eagle over the door.

But not even this peaceful island escapes its share of the Great Conflict. Off in the harbor is seen a French transport and native colored troops, home on leave, march through the almost-deserted streets. By way of a change from the strenuous News Weeklies, if for no other reason, the picture has charm and interest.

BASSE TERRE, GUADELOUPE
(Post Travel Series No. 3).
PATHE EXCHANGE: JUNE 30.

HATS OFF TO CARTOONIST

Happy Hooligan didn't get the bull he set out to capture, but he did a fine bit of bull-throwing literally and figuratively, and came home with an animal "just as good" as the one that had been enticed away.

That is the way we analyze the plot, though we may be wrong. But what difference does it make? There was plenty of funny action on the part of both Happy and the bull, and a wonderful Mexican lady dancer whose movements would rival the slithery snake in sinuosity. Really, the cleverness of those chaps who make the little drawings that compose a cartoon and of the man who arranges the footage and exposures, and all the details that go for smooth animation is beyond admiration and almost beyond belief.

"THROWING THE BULL" (International Cartoon).
EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.: JUNE 9

WHAT ROOSEVELT SAW

THERE are so few of us who can be Roosevelts and journey to the uttermost parts of the earth for the mere pleasure of shooting a jaguar or an Indian war dance, that we are immensely grateful to the gentlemen responsible for bringing to the screen of the Strand theatre some of the adventures of Theodore Roosevelt when he made his famous journey into South American wilds.

The snapshots of the Colonel, Kermit, the representative of the Brazilian government, and the native guides engaged in alligator and jaguar hunting are of course interesting and win applause by virtue of Roosevelt's unique personality. There is a stirring picture of a herd of long-horned cattle breasting a river, and scenes about a wonderful waterfall. But the real sensation of the two reels lies in its intimate pictures of the Indians of the interior. For the most part they resemble the Indians of our Southwest, square-featured, powerfully built people, whose customs are of the most primitive and whose costumes are practically nil. Dances of various sorts are shown, and then come the elaborate ceremonies connected with the funeral of a person of rank. The dancers, all men, wear heavy robes of grass clothing them from shoulder to foot, and headdresses resembling huge fans with a radius of three feet. The dancing is vigorous, and toward the end is performed while the dancers hold aloft wheels of wood weighing nearly two hundred pounds. It is a finely impressive ceremony, and gives the spectator a quickened sense of the strange peoples and the dark abysses of savagery that still exist on our supposedly civilized hemisphere.

"OUR INVINCIBLE NAVY"

If you can afford the slight re-arrangement of your projection machinery, necessary for the showing of Prizma natural color pictures, follow the lead of Manager Edel of the Strand, who ran "Our Invincible Navy," a splendid four-reel subject, as an added feature attraction during the week of June 16. Indeed, these pictures are quite capable of standing alone as the feature, as they are intensely interesting from first to last, and in many parts extremely beautiful. While the natural color process is still to be perfected, the Prizma pictures accomplish many notable effects. The blue of water and sky is most pleasing, and the flame and dense smoke and gas clouds from the guns is pictured in colors worthy of Turner. As for the Stars and Stripes, the vividly clear red, white and blue form a glorious note that seems to ring like a bugle call.

BOBBY TURNS THE CRANK

When young Mr. Bumps saw an unoccupied camera standing on a curb, he just couldn't resist the temptation of exposing a hundred feet or Fido, who, of course, did not mind in the least doing a few turns himself before the lens. And just as the picture was completed, a perfectly good fire got under way around the corner and of course, Cameraman Bumps had to take that in. Then off in a taxi to the laboratory, where Big Chief E— (my gracious, we nearly gave it away!) and his assistant are personally conducting a roll of film through its bath. The "rush order" is put through and at once screened for Mr. Bumps and Fido. But alas! Enthusiasm cannot atone for lack of experience, and the entire conflagration, as the screen discloses, has been taken backward! Only the proudly strutting Fido appears in proper order, to the huge enjoyment of the original himself. The cartoon is deliciously funny.

Miss Grace Tabor, in this number of the Pictograph, continues her interesting and thoroughly practical War Garden Hints. This episode is devoted to potato raising and covers all phases from the selecting of suitable seed potatoes, which must be carefully washed to free them from disease germs, through the slicing, planting and subsequent care of the plants. It should be welcomed by the vast army of citizens who are making the most of even back yards.

The third subject of the Pictograph shows how barrels are rapidly and accurately made with modern machinery.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPH NO. 25.
PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORP.: JUNE 23.

CAUSE FOR AMERICAN PRIDE

Mr. Newman, in his current Educational Films release, has chosen striking and beautiful scenes or points of interest in five of our National Parks and combined them in a film of decidedly entertaining value.

The opening of the reel discloses a lookout point in the Yosemite, on which a little group of men and women maintain a precarious foothold while the camera lens sweeps down the 3,250 feet over which the rock projects.

Rainier Park contributes a meadow in full flower, not a stone's throw from a glacier, while Glacier Park offers a picturesque scene of the tepees of the Blackfeet ranged in the woods along the side of a lake.

The latter half of the reel is devoted to the geysers and animals of the Yellowstone—"Handkerchief Pool," which sucks in, launders, and returns to the surface the linen thrown to it, and the beautiful "Grotto Geyser" being chosen. As always, the baby elk and the funny, tame bears are sure of a sympathetic reception.

The Big Tree in the California Park, through whose trunk teams of horses are driven, forms a fitting climax to these pictures of the wonders of our country.

THROUGH THE NATION'S PARKS.
EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.: JUNE 30.

BRITISH PLUCK AND GOOD SPIRITS

Though the title of the current "Britain's Bulwarks" calls attention to the destructive work of the enemy, the film emphasizes, unobtrusively but none the less truly, the fine spirit of the men who are combatting it. The opening picture shows a young officer reading orders to a group of his men, standing informally but seriously at attention. The success of the plan is next seen, when we find the British troops in the German trenches, resting a bit and carefully cleaning their rifles for the next attack. Gas masks do not seem to intertere with natural good spirits, as the men, while waiting for the next cloud of poison, sit around a flat rock playing cards. The end of the day sees a long train of prisoners filing to the rear, where decent treatment and food await them.

DESTRUCTION WROUGHT BY THE HUN AT ST. QUENTIN (Britain's Bulwarks No. 8).
PATHE EXCHANGE: JUNE 30.

U. S. MARINES IN THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

The second of the Pathe travel pictures, exhibited in connection with descriptive articles appearing in local newspapers, shows scenes in St. Croix, the second of the Virgin Islands and interesting mainly on that account. The population is almost exclusively negro, and appears in picturesque guise driving teams of oxen and performing its various domestic tasks with the simple implements of primitive people. A really artistic bit reveals a number of women coming with carriers to get water at the well. It is quite Oriental in effect.

The appearance of a company of American Marines, doubtless bewailing the luck that is keeping them on this side of the water doing police duty, will win hearty applause.

"ST. CROIX IN THE VIRGIN ISLANDS."
PATHE EXCHANGE: JUNE 23.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Fox Studio Doings

Theda Bara and J. Gordon Edwards have completed "The Message of The Lilies," and are now considering several plays, one of which Miss Bara will next produce. The favorite photoplay is of a light comedy vein, and it is very probable this will be the selection. It gives to Miss Bara a part different from anything she has heretofore played.

Lynn F. Reynolds has written, and is now producing with Tom Mix, a western play titled "Mysterious Logan." Kathleen Connors is the leading woman, and others in the cast are Maude Emory, Dick La Rino, Charles Lemoyne, Jack Dill, Val Paul and J. D. Jennings is doing the photography.

Now that Robert Thornby has completed the filming of "You Can't Get Away With It," with Jewel Carmen, he is working with the scenario department on the script for the next story which will be started in a day or two.

Frank Lloyd and the William Farnum Company have been making interiors and exteriors at the studio for "The Rainbow Trail," and within a day or two will leave for the Grand Canyon of Arizona where a stay of two or three weeks will be necessary for the filming of exteriors. Farnum was born on July 4th, and this year he will celebrate his birthday in the hottest place in the country—on the bottom of the Grand Canyon.

Olga Printzlau, for the past eighteen months a member of the Lasky scenario department, and previous to that time affiliated with leading producing companies on the coast as a writer, has been engaged by the Fox Company and is now at work on stories for this organization.

Dave Morrissey, who has been associated with the eastern Fox publicity department, has been transferred to the coast and is in charge of publicity matter pertaining to William Farnum, Tom Mix, Gladys Brockwell, and Jewel Carmen productions, as well as Sunshine Comedies made by Henry Lehrman.

Vitagraph News Bits

The Earle Williams company, directed by Jack Conway, has been working on the big Hollywood estate of Arthur Letts, owner of the Broadway department store, Los Angeles. More than a hundred people took part in the scenes made at the elaborate Letts home, and a band of fifty pieces added to the festivities of the garden scenes made there. Grace Darmond, playing opposite Mr. Williams, is having an opportunity to wear some wonderful gowns in this picture.

Montgomery, Rock and Howe, Big V, Vitagraph team, claim that "Athletes and Dead Beats," their newest Big V. comedy, which has just been shipped to eastern Vitagraph headquarters, is the best one they have ever made. They now are at work on a new story entitled "Law Makers and Jail Breakers." Montgomery and Rock spent two days thinking out laugh-making situations. J. A. Howe is directing this team in its Big V. antics.

Hedda Nova and Otto Lederer, star and heavy of Vitagraph's Russian serial, "The Woman in the Web," sustained respective injuries during the past week in the filming of episode thirteen of this serial. Mr. Lederer's injury was the more serious. He broke his wrist. Miss Nova, getting out of the path of a runaway horse, fell and injured her knee. A limp brought her much sympathy for several days.

It will be several weeks before Mr. Lederer's hand is entirely well. Lederer, who has one of the two principal heavy roles in the Russian serial, "The Woman in the Web," broke his wrist at the beginning of the thirteenth episode.

"But I am certainly lucky," said Mr. Lederer gratefully to several friends who looked sympathetically at the bandaged hand in its black silk sling.

Paramount-Artcraft

D. W. Griffith has completed all but three or four inserts for his first Artcraft "The Great Love," and the subject will be ready for release on schedule time. Now preparing script for second Artcraft.

In all probability Robert Harron, Lillian Gish and Henry Walthal, who play the leads in "The Great Love," will be players of Mr. Griffith's second subject.

Plans are being made at the Griffith Studios for an additional producing company. This will be an independent one from the Griffith organization, and subjects made by it will star Dorothy Gish. Arrangements have been completed for release on the Paramount program.

About Metro Players

"Judgment" is the name decided upon for the co-starring vehicle of Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum now being produced under the direction of Will S. Davis from a story by George D. Baker. A very notable cast has been gathered for this subject which includes such well known players as Herbert Standing, Spottiswoode Aitken, Lydia Knott, Kathrine Griffith, Harry Northrope, Edward Alexander and others. The plot deals with a judge hearing a trial of a man charged with murder which crime he is guilty of. When the jury finds the defendant guilty, the judge makes a complete confession, knowing that a girl with psychic powers knows his secret and has been in the court room every day of the trial.

Little Joey Jacobs has been engaged to play the name part, and Rhea Mitchell the role of leading woman in support of Bert Lytell in his present production "Boston Blackey's Little Pal," being directed by E. Mason Hopper.

Everything is in readines for production as soon as May Allison arrives in Los Angeles. In fact, three stories now await the star. The first will be "The Return of Mary," an adaptation from the stage play. The second, "The Testing of Mildred Vane" by Charles T. Daisey, and the third, an original by Albert LeVino.

The Metro scenario department, under the management of Mr. LeVino, has worked far ahead on subjects for Bert Lytell, and three stories are now ready in addition to the one on which the star is working. His next film will be "Unexpected Places" from the story by Frank R. Adams. Later "Faith," an adaptation from the Richard Washburn Child story, and following this an original photoplay by Messrs. Lytell and LeVino.

Harold Lockwood, Fred J. Balshofer and principals of the Yorke Company, producing "A King in Khaki," were home to spend three days at the studio this week after an absence of four weeks spent in filming exterior scenes of a semi-tropical island in the vicinity of Monterey, California. They stayed long enough to make a half dozen interiors, and then went to San Diego where additional exteriors will be shot for this romantic drama, an adaptation from the Henry Kitchell Webster story. Bessie Eyton, as previously announced, is playing the lead opposite Lockwood in this story and some of the important players are William Clifford, Stanton Heck, Gordon McGregor, Bert Starkey and others. While on the island the company built a mammoth village set which was burned for scenes as the last shots taken.

Universal Newsettes

The biggest company sent out of Los Angeles on a trip of any consequence is that in charge of Director Colin Campbell, composed of sixty-five people, who went to San Francisco Wednesday, June 19th, to film scenes for "The Yellow Dog." Ralph Graves, late of Maurice Tourneur "Sporting Life" Company, arrived early this week to take the featured role. Company will be at San Francisco, week or more.

Director Elmer Clifton completed Universal contract with filming of Monroe Salisbury picture "Rustler of Wind River," and goes to new company being formed to produce pictures starring Dorothy Gish, to be released by Paramount. Work by this company will begin in July on leased space at Griffith's studio.

"Why Not" is the title given Carmel Meyers play made by Elsie Jane Wilson, which is now fully completed.

The Harry Carey story put in production last week, under the direction of Jack Ford, has been given the permanent title of "A Matrimonial Clean-Up." Neva Gerber has been selected as leading woman, and Arthur Shirley and J. Farrell Macdonald have been specially engaged for parts in this cast. Tuesday of this week Mr. Carey was selected to lead a parade of the Los Angeles Ad Club which started from the Southern Pacific station upon the arrival of C. J. Sullivan, a special envoy of President Wilson to all Ad Clubs of the country, urging them to attend the national Ad Club convention at San Francisco, and ended after a trip through the business section to the Clark Hotel.

Adda Gleason, who played opposite Monroe Salisbury in "Ramona," about two years ago, has been selected to play opposite him in "That Devil, Baptiste," being directed by William Wolbert for the Universal. Andrew Robson, Sam deGrasse, and Lamar Johnson are among those selected to play leading parts in this film.

Hollywood Hookum

JULY 6, 1918 NEWS MORE NEWS

Hot, hot or hottest.

J. Stern has gone eastward.

Roy Aitken is in our midst.

Tony Moreno has come West to make some more pictures for Vita.

Monte M. Katterjohn is now bungalowing in a secluded dell in Beverly Hills.

Mimeographed yellow sheets from the William S. Hart Studio now contain the name of Gerald Duffy, publicity manager.

Henry Lehrman is said to have begun the making of two new comedies this week. Other information of a news character is lacking.

Anna Q. Nilsson's automobile has caused her to say "good-morning, Judge," and it's all because she parked in front of a fire plug.

Prexy. James Sheldon is expected, but has not arrived in our flower bedecked land of warm weather—at least not up to time of going to press.

Jack Dillon took his coat off, rolled up his sleeves and began making a film this week after a month of leisure.

A shower of thirteen drops which fell early this week is said to have damaged a wonderful set to the extent of several thousand dollars by a certain sincere P. A.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle is mourning the loss of his dog "Luke." He loves the purp, but it is far more important that Luke be found, because he's played half-way through the next comedy.

Bull Montana has been rejected from army service because of defective hearing, but had a wonderful time while in camp where he took a sudden dislike to a corporal the size of B. Ziedman.

Jesse Lasky, after several strenuous weeks at the Coast, has come to the conclusion production work would continue satisfactorily without him, and has returned to New York.

Bill Farnum and Frank Lloyd each have private bungalows at the Fox lot. These are furnished so elegantly that many actors have been heard to remark: "They treat you as though you were real human beings."

Inasmuch as the surface of the industry has not been scratched, J. Louis hyphen Schneider, the English Metro scenarioist, contends nevertheless the industry is lousey, all of which may or may not be termed a good English joke.

Henry McRae has a heart for his co-workers at Universal City, and threatens to consider having plans made for the installation of an automatic refrigerating system of sufficient size to cool the entire 143 acres, or more.

Charley Ray received an express package containing overalls, farm boots, etc., the other day with a note from an admirer (?) who urged him to stick to the "back to the farm" stuff, and Charley is at a loss to know just what was meant.

Tom Gibson, of National at Denver, has had so many auto mobile accidents he has found i necessary to take out insurance Tom attributes his ill-luck to th roughness of the Colorado road found in making wild week-en dashes to fishing streams.

Roy Stewart followed Directo Cliff Smith's instructions for burst of speed the other day, an his hat blew in the ocean. Th naughty waves carried it out distance, and fishermen sent i the alarm of "submarine on th starboard."

Bill Farnum has a new accom plishment. He has learned t lasso a rattlesnake with horse hair, and capture the reptile. H proved his ability the first time and caught one six feet long an about twelve years old. Yea Bill will soon have a snakey hat band.

An extra man seeing "Th Kaiser," said: "Rupert Julia just acted as he does in every day life," meaning thereby tha Rupert acts like the Kaiser a the time, but this must be th opinion of a disgruntled mind for Rupert is English—don't yo know.

The Metro Studio may need Bertillon system to keep trac of four of its employes at least They are Bert Lytell, the star Bert Le Vino, the scenario edi tor; Bert Doris, assistant di rector, and Bert Wayne, a prop erty man, for under the present arrangement, if any one call "Bert," the quartette respond.

Here and There

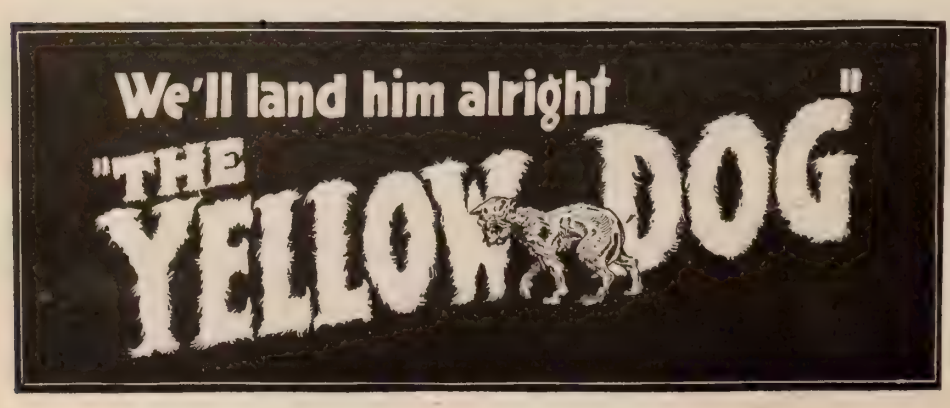
The Lois Weber Production, filming of which was started this week, is at present known as "Orange Blossoms," and is from the pen of Marian Orth, who is the author of the recent Weber release "The Price of a Good Time." This story is said to be a companion one for the author's previous contribution, and while Mildred Harris is to be featured, Louis J. Cody and Edward Peil take important parts.

Julius Stern, who has been on the coast for the past four weeks in consultation with Production Manager Louis Jacobs at the L-Ko Comedy plant, departed this week for New York to look after important matters pertaining to the distribution of L-Ko Comedies.

Harry Schwalbe of Philadelphia, secretary and treasurer of the First Nationa Exhibitors Assn., spent a day of the past week in Los Angeles with Vice-President T. L. Tally while en route to San Diego in company with his daughter, where she became the bride of an army officer. Mr Schwalbe expects to spend several days at the Los Angeles studios, and will also visit Turner & Dahnken at San Francisco before returning east.

A new producing company has been formed for the filming of a semi-western subject which is composed of Bert Bracken as director; Mitchel Lewis, star, and a supporting cast that includes Tom Santchi Vivian Rich, Margaret Landis, Goldie Goldwell, and others, and has gone to the San Jacinto mountains for filming of exteriors where a big western town set has been erected, and the company will work for two or three weeks. The name of the play or company for which the subject is being produced has not been announced.

J. B. Nicholson, aged sixty-six, who has appeared in many Los Angeles made pictures, committed suicide June 15th Despondency over the reported death of his son on the western front, is said to have prompted this action.



Triangle Substitutes One

"Woman of Mystery" has been substituted as the second release on the Triangle program for the week of July 21, replacing "Alias Mary Brown," with Pauline Starke, according to an announcement this week.

"The Street of Seven Stars," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, Is the First Release of the Doris Kenyon Company Through De Luxe Pictures, Inc.

W. H. Reissues Placed in All Territory

W. H. Productions reports that all territory in the United States and foreign countries, except one, has been sold on the series of twenty-six one and two reel Chaplin reissues. A good portion of the available territory has been sold, also, on the Shorty Hamilton series and the series of twenty-four one reel Arbuckle reissues.

These reissues have been most successful as box-office attractions, reports W. H. Productions, and to substantiate this statement they quote from a letter received from a prominent state rights' operator. The letter reads, in part:

"I want you to give me the first opportunity to purchase the single reel Fatty Arbuckle comedies. As I told you previously I want to do business with you, because I know you are always on the lookout for subjects which will get the exchange some money as well as the exhibitor. Kindly let me know at once what your price will be on the Arbuckle comedies."

Perret's Feature Said to Be Inspiring

"Lafayette, We Come!" Leonce Perret's patriotic production, by his own company, and the first of the series of patriotic features to be produced by him, is said to be one of the most inspiring war features shown yet to the American public. E. K. Lincoln and Dolores Cassinelli are the featured players.

The story tells of an American soldier who leaves for France at the same time as his sweetheart mysteriously disappears. He meets his sweetheart on the battlefront where she is caring for the American wounded.

"Window Opposite" Released in August

The release date of "The Window Opposite," distributed by George Kleine System, has been set for August. Leah Baird is the featured player, and was produced under the direction of Edmund Lawrence. In the supporting cast are, James Morrison, Edward MacKay, Harry Burkhard and Violet Palmer.

News from the Gaumont Front

An Official Comments on Drawing Qualities of Serial, "Hand of Vengeance"—Gaumont News and Graphic's List of Subjects

AN official of the Gaumont Company, in commenting upon the kind of entertainment which this company's new ten serial, "The Hand of Vengeance," offers, said:

"The Hand of Vengeance" has been produced to suit that portion of the theatre-going public which prefers sensational entertainment; which means that every one will enjoy this photo-serial. If the war has done nothing else, it has proven that all of us like red-blooded heroes. Though he here administers justice in his own way and thereby incurs the displeasure of the officials of the law, he is not a criminal. After being wronged, he takes his revenge, and then becomes the champion of others who have been wronged.

"The Hand of Vengeance" will be released in ten 2-reel episodes, requiring but two-and-a-half months for a complete showing, which makes it peculiarly fit for hot-weather showing. Like the continued stories in the family story papers, each episode ends in a thrilling situation.

Nor does this photo-serial rely on the mysterious or the commission of crime, to hold the interest. There are crimes in the serial of course, but these are subordinated to other actions. From the beginning of the Episode 1 to the last scene of the Episode 10, the serial is filled with contests of wit between the hero and the detective.

The late numbers of Gaumont's news weeklies, Gaumont Graphic and Gaumont News, are up-to-the-minute in the list of timely subjects which they show in picturized form. The Graphic opens with the graduation exercises at Annapolis Naval Academy and the United States Military Academy at West Point. Secretary of War Baker is shown presenting the diplomas.

A subject from one of Uncle Sam's big war plants shows the making of torpedo tubes for the navy; another from the training camps shows how army engineers are taught the art of railroad and bridge building. From the South comes the making of a military road by State convicts. The U. S. Marines want 50,000 more men at once, and this issue of the Graphic shows some of the steps they are taking to let this want be known.

Foreign battle scenes show Marines checking the last German drive. Other battle scenes, showing the reinforcement of the French forces by Italian infantry, form an interesting portion of Gaumont News No. 13. Among these scenes is a remarkable picture of a French village under bombardment, and one of several officers who have been decorated for brilliant work with their "tanks."

The Employment Service, U. S. Department of Labor, advertises its need for men and women to aid in harvesting the crops. Kansas City is enrolling men from shops, stores and offices to help in harvesting the 100,000,000 bushel wheat crop.

Other interesting topics are featured in this issue of the Gaumont News. "Flag Day" celebrations and President and Mrs. Wilson at the exercises in the Sylvan theatre, are shown. Ten thousand soldiers assist Mme. Schumann-Heink, the great operatic prima donna, who has four sons in the war, in a monster song festival in the Stanford Stadium, California. That actresses are doing their bit is proved in subjects which show prominent actresses making vests for aviators. Dorothy Gish is shown at a recent Thrift Stamp sale.

"Moral Suicide" Going Big in New England

"Moral Suicide" is going big in New England, according to the statement of Stanley Hand, local manager of the Pathe office that is handling the production in New England. James A. Stiles is handling "Moral Suicide" in the New England territory. Mr. Stiles has had many years experience as exploitation manager. In New York he handled "Trooper 44" and other states right pictures and spent several years in the Pacific coast studios. This is his first venture in New England and he reports good business.

NEWSY ITEMS FROM THE STUDIOS

To top off a shopping expedition, Alice Brady and some friends motored out to Long Beach for a swim. Miss Brady had just purchased two stunning bathing costumes for her next picture. "Why not christen them at Long Beach?" queried friends. "Pictures first" was the answer, and they were stowed safely away in the machine, and a simple little suit purchased at one of the boardwalk shops served instead.

Viola Dana may become a prohibitionist after the violent collision between her new car and a huge brewery truck. Though she was only a bit shaken up, the list of repairs sent to the Packard Company filled a typewritten sheet of paper, business size.

Sheldon Lewis is in a predicament. Friend wife, Virginia Pearson, demands that he give up serials forever, friend movie public demand that he continues in them indefinitely. A hair-breadth escape from real death in a runaway machine during a scene for the new Western Photoplays serial has brought the matter to a crisis.

Leah Baird, star of so many features, is experiencing the strenuous demands of her first serial with the Western Photoplays Company. Already she has acquired two new accomplishments. She has learned to drive her own car and to swim, using real crawl strokes.

June Elvidge was among the screen stars who appeared at the recent A. E. A. convention in Richmond, Va. She led the grand march at their studio with the mayor of the town, and in addition sold more war saving stamps and collected more money for the Red Cross than any other star present.

Madge Kennedy spent several days last week on location at Bear Mountain, where she did all sort of hazardous stunts for her new Goldwyn picture. The exteriors for this picture are particularly beautiful.

Mae Marsh's latest stunt is to demand toll of each would-be interviewer in the form of the purchase of a War Saving Stamp.

Various members of the different foreign war missions now in this country visited the Goldwyn Studios not long ago, escorted by John Emerson and Anita Loos. When Captain Podevin, commander of the Blue Devils, complimented the three stars on their pictures, and told them how eagerly they were welcomed in France three famous pairs of eyes beamed in three different ways.

Edith Storey has promised to supply the coast patrol boat on which her brother is quartermaster with vegetables for the summer. It is not strange that one of her first purchases when she arrived in New York was a pair of garden overalls.

It is reported that Theda Bara is ill at her home in Los Angeles, but has refused to let it interfere with her work in "The Message of the Lilies."

William Farnum spent his short vacation between pictures on a most successful fishing trip at Catalina Island. Having finished "Riders of the Purple Sage," he has started "The Rainbow Trail," which is also by Zane Grey.

Clifford Bruce, remembered in "Blue Jeans," is war working, too. He has purchased a farm, and has turned over one of his cars to the Junior Naval Reserve for use between New York and Camp Dewey.

They say that Mme. Petrova is an exceedingly eloquent speaker, and that she has made splendid impressions on all the audiences whom she has addressed so far on her tour of the country.

Olive Tell, leading lady of Metro's "To Hell With the Kaiser," is one of the few accomplished horsewomen who prefers riding side saddle to riding astride. She considers it a more beecoming position for a woman, and likes the well-fitting, long-skirted habit better than breeches and coat.

Donald Gallagher, who is supporting Nazimova in her own picture, "L'Occident," has joined the Aviation Corps, and will start training as soon as his work in the picture is completed.

The hair ornament which Beverly Bayne wears in "Both Members," was designed by her. It is constructed of hand-made flowers forming a fillet, brought around a high coiffure, and allowed to droop over the back of the neck. It is the sort of thing an admiring fan would like to copy.

One of the features of "The House of Gold" is the beautiful and unusual silhouette of Emmy Wehlen, the result of many difficult tricks of lighting, superintended by Director Carewe.

Lawrence Grant, the Kaiser, in Metro's "To Hell With the Kaiser," has a collection of Indian pottery made up of the gifts sent him on various occasions by Blackfeet Indians. He is an adopted member of the tribe and very proud of the fact.

Lillian Walker was another of the stars who appeared at the A. E. A. convention in Richmond. She is now back in New York, and has started on a new feature picture with her own company.

Barbara Castleton is spending a couple of weeks' vacationing in the country after finishing "The Heart of a Girl," "The Blood of the Trevors," and "Just Sylvia" for World.

Helene Chadwick, Pathe star, is now touring the Strand Circuit in New England, appearing in person at their houses throughout these States.

Lois Meredith is reading many scripts preparatory to returning to the stage after she finishes "On the Quiet," with Jack Barrymore. She seems to alternate quite regularly a screen appearance with a stage appearance.

Dorothy Dalton claims that "The Kaiser's Shadow" is the most thrilling picture she has ever appeared in. "It is brimful of intrigue, plot and counterplot ,and excitement from beginning to end," says Miss Dalton, "and inspired every person in the cast by reason of its virility and power."

Youthful stars have their own peeculiar worries. Baby Marie Osborne has lost a tooth, and what is there to do but wait?

Harry Durant, Goldwyn Scenario writer, who has been responsible for so many of that company's best pictures, is quite Sir Roger de Coverleyish in attitude toward the advantages of production on the west coast over production on the east coast, for he says that "much may be said on either side." He admits, however, that for clothes, locations in general, writers, and talent the west coast is slightly ahead.

Bertie Badger Moyers has proved that a scenario writer can live farther than commuting distance from the Great White Way and still be liberally represented there. Her Drew comedies are particularly well known. She has to her credit: "His First Love," "Nothing to Wear," "Why Henry Left Home," "Too Much Henry," and numerous others in which these two clever comedians have appeared. With it all, she lives in Tampa, Fla., and seldom comes North.

Evelyn Greeley, World Film Star, Surrounded by a Part of the Belgian Army, Recently Entertained at the World Studio

Lovers of Kipling and lovers of Norma Talmadge listen for you are soon to be twice glad. In "The Safety Curtain" Miss Talmadge appears with a true Kipling background, first in Bombay on the Coast of India, and then in the mountains of Simla.

Louise Huff is being awfully nice to the people of the east coast who are so glad to have her back here, and is telling them exactly what they want to hear—namely, that New York is the place to live. As she put it, "California may have the climate, but New York has the get up and get."

Ricca Allen, after several weeks' vacation in the South, is back with Metro, ready to make people laugh again, this time as Henrietta Stitch in "Our Mrs. McChesney."

The success of Julius Steger's first Marion Davies picture, "Cecilia of the Pink Roses" should be almost doubled by his second picture with this star, as he has none other than John G. Adolfi as associate director.

Wilfrid Lytell, who seems quite likely to follow his illustrious brother Bert's example in flitting from stage to screen is now appearing in "Business Before Pleasure," but is also finding time for Ethel Barrymore's new Metro picture.

In "The Beloved Blackmailer," a Carlyle Blackwell, Evelyn Greeley picture, a number of society girls will appear in the big scenes. They belong to a group of one hundred who have banded together to earn money for buying comforts for soldiers.

Grace Darmond, In Vitagraph's "The Girl In His House"

Constance Talmadge, Whom Select is Presenting in "The Lesson"

Screen Examinations

"Original Vod-a-Vil Movies"
(Commonwealth Film Corporation—One Reel Each)
Reviewed by William J. McGrath

RELEASES Nos. 2 and 3 of Spanuth's "Original Vod-A-Vil Movies" show very clearly the originality of this screen innovation and bespeak well of the selection of subjects in their make-up. To be released in one-reel lengths, they are in short a bit of vaudeville entertainment on the screen, something that many will say they thought about, but something that the same many hadn't courage enough to try out until Mr. Spanuth started them going.

What is known in theatrical parlance as "dumb acts" are used almost exclusively in these reels, such as posing acts, acrobatic and bicycling acts, trained animal circuses, ice skating exhibitions, aesthetic dancing, and even a cabaret chorus of coryphees going through their paces. Most of the acts that are being used in making these pictures are at present playing on the vaudeville stage. It simply means their transferral to the motion picture screen. Release No. 2 contains a good assortment of acts. There is the Riva Larsen troupe of trapeze artists, Nrval Baptie and Gladys Lamb in some of their whirlwind skating stunts, the best tricks of Herman the Great, Leon Harrison and company, a comedy animal troupe, and the Tetsuwari Japs.

Release No. 3 has the La Joe Marvels in cycling, Pickert's seals, the Juggling Normans, the Arisato Troupe, and a bevy of aesthetic dancers.

"The Whirlpool"
(Select—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"THE WHIRLPOOL," which is an adaptation made by Eve Unsell from the novel by Victoria Morton, gives Alice Brady a splendid vehicle. Besides allowing her emotional ability rare opportunity, the story presents a striking mystery with a number of intense situations, the benefits of which are fully realized by intelligent handling. Miss Unsell's treatment of the script was skillful. The element of mystery is well established at the outset, and the unraveling of the intricate complications builds the interest steadily, always keeping the denouement concealed. Director Alan Crosland has done equally good work in the production. From the dramatic standpoint as well as the artistic he has accomplished much.

The exterior scenes for "The Whirlpool" were secured at Bat Cave, North Carolina. This resort has proven a veritable garden spot for picture producers recently, but Mr. Crosland seems to have sought out the most beautiful locations in the entire surrounding country. The results show to wonderful effect on the screen, particularly as the camera work of William Marshall reaches an unsually high standard of merit.

Miss Brady receives capable assistance from H. E. Herbert, William Davidson, Robert Walker, J. H. Gilmour and W. E. Williams.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Judge Reverton (H. E. Herbert) receives a severe shock when Richard Brettner (Robert Walker), a man he had trusted sufficiently to pardon him for a slight theft, commits murder. It is clear to Reverton that a woman is back of the young fellow's trouble. On the advice of his physician, Dr. Comyne (W. E. Williams), he seeks a rest in the country. Others there are Bella Cavallo (Alice Brady), a gambler's stepdaughter, and Arthur Hallam (Bill Davidson), nephew of Brettner's victim. It develops that Bella, in her capacity of foil in her uncle's gambling house is partially responsible for Brettner's deeds, although her uncle (J. H. Gilmour) himself goaded him on to robbery, and so to murder. Reverton finds in Bella a true companion, and when he returns to the city it is with her as his wife. Comyne recognizes her, and tells Reverton the truth about her which is a sad blow to him. His suspicions are instantly aroused when he returns to his home one day to discover Bella entertaining Hallam. She makes an appointment with him for that night. Reverton prepares himself for the situation with a revolver. But he discovers, after all, that his wife is quite honorable, for when Hallam returns begging her to elope with him, she draws from him his confession of murdering his uncle for his wealth and the manner in which the appearance of Brettner made it possible for him to escape detection.

"You Can't Believe Everything"
(Triangle—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"YOU CAN'T BELIEVE EVERYTHING" is a society drama by Norman Sherbrook, said society being in the act of killing time at a beach resort with idle gossip, and also damaging gossip, about a certain young debutante who has a dozen admirers, only one of which admires along lines that lead to matrimony. Mr. Sherbrook might have secured his plot from the "Pertinent Remarks" column in a scandal sheet which queries about Miss So-and-so dining with Mr. Such-and-such at a road house or which thinks it peculiar that Mrs. Void is riding about in Mr. Fatpenny's car. Its heroine, Patria Reynolds, discovers that one can't act like a human being and escape the darts of scandal mongers, that is in high society as interpreted by Mr. Sherbrook.

Jack Conway has given the story a very fitting production. The beach scenes are pretty and most of the players loll around the club house porch as if they held stock in it. The banquet on the float is a lavish affair. The guests arrive in bathing suits instead of the usual evening wear and the women look perfectly natural. Toward morning the party gets rough and most of the guests end up in the water. Gloria Swanson, who is featured, is delightful in her bathing suit. She goes in the water a lot and proves at least that she can swim although her diving is considerable of a splash. Her acting, however, ranks on a par with her looks and her swimming. She improves with every picture and it isn't unnatural that she should have a regiment of admirers.

But aside from Miss Swanson, the picture has small appeal. Wholesale gossip is the cause of all the plot's turnings and in this case fails to create a sustaining story. A large cast renders competent support.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Patria Reynolds (Gloria Swanson) summering with her friend, Amy Powellson (Irish Ashton), proves to be the belle of the season. All the men are at her feet, including Kirby (Darrell Foss), to whom Amy formerly considered herself engaged. One evening Patria resists Kirby's violent advances, and leaves him to return to the clubhouse. Kirby turns to Amy, who, wearing Patria's coat, accompanies him to a roadhouse. Patria walking along the road sees Jim Wheeler (Edward Peil), a cripple, jump into the ocean. She rescues him. Subsequently he is placed in the hands of a physician. Amy has been seen emerging from the roadhouse early in the morning wearing Patria's coat. The next day Patria is accuseed of misconduct by the society leader (Bliss Chevalier). She refuses to defend herself, not wishing to tell of Jim's attempt at suicide. Hastings (Jack Richardson) comes to her rescue, saying that she spent the evening on his yacht, and that she had a perfect right to as they are engaged. Patria accepts this way out of the predicament. Later in the summer, she is really yachting with Hastings when he attacks her. She jumps in the water and swims to shore. Jim, cured, has returned in the meantime, and the next morning Patria appears as his wife. All scandal regarding her is quieted, at the expense of Amy, however, whose escapade with Kirby is revealed.

The cast includes James Cope, Grover Franke, George Hernandez, Kitty Brandbury and Claire McDowell.

Time, 50 minutes.

"Tempered Steel"
(Petrova Pictures—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

GEORGE MIDDLETON is a skilled playwright and even though he has made the mistake of "writing down" to the screen in his first picture, "Tempered Steel," one can detect his constructive skill in the manner he has developed his plot. He must have his villain killed after an attempt to spoil the heroine's "fatal beauty" with acid, which serves to melodramatically jolt the spectator out of what was before a deftly created and well maintained story of a young woman's adventure in circles theatrical. Not but what the villain shouldn't have been killed. By so doing there was created a climax of sustained intensity that puts most pictures in the shade. But why must the villain select the acid route to finish the heroine's career? In this enlightened day he might have been content with just a personal attack upon her.

However, it is perhaps unfair to quibble over this point in "Tempered Steel" when all the rest of it is such good picture fare. We don't remember ever having seen Mme. Petrova play with such naturalness and such restraint. And Mr. Middleton's story with its murder, its series of intense scenes when the heroine scores a success in her play, the while the dead face on the floor is haunting her, and the subsequent high-keyed action, with the startling climax revealing the fact that the death was caused by lightning and not by human hand, is one which should find ready response and approval in all varieties of houses. And in some even that passage where the villain threateningly points his finger at the poison and hisses his dire plot, will be accepted as a scene to cringle from, not to smile at, which, to come to think of it, takes the curse off the first paragraph.

Mrs. L. Case Russell provided Director Ralph Ince with a working script which, on the face of it, appears to be a technically perfect continuity. And Mr. Ince responded with exceeding good direction and a production that in every sense is fitting. Mme. Petrova is not allowed unnecessary closeups. We can think of only one, that in the beginning, which could be shortened or removed and the happy absence of these strips of film which have burdened some of her former pictures results in a noticeable improvement in continuity. There is one flash of the dead villain, which shows him moving, which can easily be trimmed, and then all will be thoroughly satisfactory with "Tempered Steel."

Thomas Holding is again Mme. Petrova's hero. J. Herbert Frank as the villain, a conceited actor-manager, gives a strong and sometimes amusing picture of the character. E. J. Radcliffe appears to advantage in a prominent character part, while others are William T. Carlton, Matilda Brundage, Edith Hinckle and Mrs. Walton.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Lucille Caruthers (Mme. Petrova), a Southern beauty, disregards the wish of her father (William Carlton), that she refrain from seeking a career, and so she accepts the offer of Serge Ratakin (J. Herbert Frank), an actor-manager, and joins his company in New York. In his next production she is co-starred with him, and then success is hers. She is sought out by Edwin Archer (E. J. Radcliffe), New York's best theatrical producer, and like all best theatrical producers possessed of a "way with women." Lucille accepts his offer to star her together with the various conveniences he puts in her way, such as an apartment uptown, without thought, for she is engaged to Dr. Richard Sheldon (Thomas Holding), an old acquaintance. But Ratakin, the conceited, is to be reckoned with. Infuriated by Lucille's progress, and also by drink, he visits her on the night of the opening of her new play and threatens to spoil her face with acid. She draws a gun and shoots—and Ratakin falls in the corner, dead. After great effort she goes on with the play, is a success and is warmly greeted by her friends. She eludes them and returns home. There she discovers them all assembled to surprise her. Near the breaking point she bids them all go. Archer returns, suspicious of a rival, and the truth is revealed to him by the harassed Lucille. His admiration for her grit is profound. She 'phones the police, and relates the incident to them. Dr. Sheldon then calls. He is the first one to make an examination of Ratakin's body, and it is he who discovers he was killed by a bolt of lightning, the bullet having lodged not fatally in his shoulder. And at the last Lucille returns home to her welcome father, accompanied by her husband—Dr. Sheldon.

Time, 55 minutes.

"The Kaiser's Shadow"

(Paramount-Ince—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Peter Milne

THOMAS H. INCE turns to the German spy melodrama with "The Kaiser's Shadow" in which he presents Dorothy Dalton on the Paramount program. The picture is based on a magazine story by Octavus Roy Cohen and J. U. Giesy. These writers have taken as much melodramatic license with their story as is usually conceded to be only the right of the serial scenario writer. The trap doors which mysteriously open at the push of a button and the automobile chases are not to be numbered on the fingers of one hand. However if Messrs. Cohen and Giesy have planned their story after the serial pattern in part, no one can accuse them of not going all the way through on the same lines. The melodrama moves at high speed, is full of thrills, intense physical action and last but not least patriotic utterances. The Hun is damned time and again. One can picture an audience loudly proclaiming approval. And when the inventor refuses to be terrorized by threats of slow death he sees only the honor of the Stars and Stripes!

It must be confessed, however, that it is a little beyond the scope of the average imagination to conceive of two United States Secret Service agents camouflaged as German agents and neither one aware of the other's true identity. These two are hero and heroine of "The Kaiser's Shadow." But inasmuch as the whole thing is such outright melodrama and that the relations of the two principals give rise to much of the story's suspense, this may pass drawing only slight attention to its artificiality. R. William Neill, Miss Dalton's director on all her Paramount subjects, has demonstrated his ability to handle this type of picture with the same good results that show in his other work.

Miss Dalton performs with that exquisite show of vitality which makes each one of her characterizations an individual delight. Her support is well up to the Ince standard and includes Thurston Hall in the opposite role, Edward Cecile as an American inventor, Leota Lorraine as his bride and Otto Hoffman and Charles French as German agents in America. The photographer was John Stumar.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Paula Harris (Dorothy Dalton) is seen at a reception in Berlin in 1915. She is a highly rated member of the German Secret Service, and a still higher rated member of the United States Secret Service. Hugo Wagner (Thurston Hall), of the German service, is in love with her and she with him.

The United States in 1918. Paula is maid to Dorothy (Leota Lorraine), an American girl, engaged to Clement Boyd (Edward Cecil), an inventor, whose new machine gun is prized by the United States Ordnance Department. After the wedding he secures his plans, intending to take them with him on the honeymoon in order to perfect them. Hugo is Boyd's chauffeur. Frederick Fischer (Otto Hoffman), one of the heads of the German spy system, has commissioned the two to kidnap the bride and groom. So they are taken into the mysterious house used by the Germans and searched. But the plans are not to be found. Paula has concealed them. She is searched. When she goes to take the plans from the hiding-place she cannot find them. Fischer threatens Boyd with inoculation with a racking disease unless he disclose the whereabouts of the plans. As he is about to insert the needle, Paula cries out. All seems lost, but at that moment the United States Secret Service arrives in force and a hot battle ensues. When the smoke has cleared away, Paula discovers that Hugo was in reality working for the United States as she was.

Length, 4,379 feet.

"Annexing Bill"

(Pathe—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Peter Milne

"ANNEXING BILL," in which the Astra Company presents Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale, is a rather trite comedy lacking substance sufficient to carry it along for five reels. The basic idea is the notion entertained by the hero, Billy, that he cannot marry a girl with more money than he himself possesses. Therefore we have the heroine, Enid, attempting in divers ways to get rid of her million dollars. This being a far-fetched idea, somewhat akin to "Brewster's Millions," by the way, it should have had the most expert comedy handling. Regrettably it has been treated in a more or less commonplace manner with the result that it proves quite tiring as it runs along.

It remained, however, for this story, commonplace in its effect, to reveal one of the most artistic productions ever given a five reel feature. Its director was Albert Parker, one of the younger directors, in experience at least, working in the picture business. Aided by a cameraman who most certainly knew how to employ light to advantage, he has secured striking effects in the way of settings and in fact entire pictorial composition. If the magazine illustrations by Lejaren A. Hiller, who has contributed to many of the leading periodicals, including the Saturday Evening Post and the Red Book, can be called to mind, the reader may gain a slight idea of the character of the scenes in "Annexing Bill." It is to be devoutly hoped that Mr. Parker and his staff have the opportunity to embellish more entertaining pictorial fiction in the future. Their work bears the closest watching.

Miss Hulette and Mr. Hale work sincerely and receive assistance from a cast which puts endeavor in its work but not always in the right direction—which is the comedy direction. It includes Mark Smith, Margaret Greene and Kate Lester.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Billy (Creighton Hall), a young lawyer, refuses to consider marriage to the girl he loves when it develops that she has inherited a million dollars from an aunt she never saw. Enid (Gladys Hulette) is naturally peeved and offers to get rid of the money, but Billy won't hear of her adopting this course. In the evening he receives a hurry call to leave town. The next day, Enid's aunt (Kate Lester), returns. Enid is overjoyed. Billy's call was from a friend of his, a minister. He is hiding in a small hotel, the police on his tracks. He is believed to have absconded with the church funds, when in reality it was his secretary. To enable him to continue his search, Billy takes his place. In jail he accomplishes the reform of a confidence man. Billy sends a hurry call to his friend, Frayne (Mark Smith), requesting bail. This he secures through Enid, who sells her car. Returned to town, the confidence man recognizes the supposed aunt of Enid's as a crook. This returns the million to Enid. In despair she turns it over to Frayne, who has never been known to win a penny in his various speculations. With the million, however, he manages to clean up four hundred thousand. But then the market changes and the whole thing is swept away. So at last Billy feels free to marry Enid.

Time—50 minutes.

The French Pictorial Service

EDMOND RATISBONNE, Director
announces

The Coming Release of a Patriotic Photoplay

Entitled and Based on the Immortal Words of MARSHAL JOFFRE

"They Shall Not Pass"

Release Date and Name of Distributor will be announced shortly

French Pictorial Service, 220 West 42d St., New York

"The House of Hate"
(Pathe—Seventh Episode)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

THIS episode, entitled "The Death Switch," is one of the best melodramatic numbers of the serial and is constructed so that the ending brings a big surprise. It is somewhat gruesome in effect perhaps, owing to the fact that the suspense of it is largely derived from the electric chair, but no one can complain that the action is not pitched high enough. Anne, a sweetheart of one of the underworld members, is sentenced to die in the chair. She is a double for Pearl. Pulling a number of wires, the conspirators manage to exchange the prisoner and the heroine. Events preceding the execution are pictured in detail. Then the escaped girl is seen on a boat together with her sweetheart and the prison guard who assisted in the plot. The last scene shows the supposed Anne revealing herself as Pearl while the guard turns out to be a detective.

"Closin' In"
(Triangle—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

THE beginning of Joseph Franklin Poland's story "Closin' In" promises an extraordinary feature, but when the scene shifts and the main action is presented, it develops into merely an average presentation of conventional situations. It benefits considerably by William Desmond's appearance in the stellar role. He is a smiling and likable hero and proves himself a thorough one when he engages in furious combat with the villain. However, once the characters have been given their fixed position in the story, there is little suspense over the outcome. One sits patiently awaiting the old man's dying confession which will clear the hero's name and one expects the villain to attack the girl and be duly frustrated.

The locations for the northern scenes were wisely selected and a realistic atmosphere permeates the entire five reels. Maude Wayne strives but fails to overcome a lack of personality in the opposite role. George Pearce is guilty of the application of too much makeup. Louis Durham is a heavy without polish. Darrell Foss, Alberta Lee, Graham Pette, Bob Thompson and Claire McDowell complete the cast.

The scenario was prepared by George E. Jenks while J. W. McLaughlin directed.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Jack Brandon (William Desmond), cashier in the small bank of which Carlton (George Pearce) is president, is told by the local physician that his constant exercising has produced an "athletic" heart, and that he only has a year longer to live. Consequently when he learns that Carlton has misappropriated funds, he takes the blame for the sake of his daughter, Barbara (Maude Wayne), and disappears. In British Columbia he makes friends with a member of the North West Mounted Police, and eventually joins the ranks of this organization. When examined physically, the small town doctor is shown as mistaken, as he is in perfect health. Gold is found on Jack's land, and he is soon very rich. Word of the big strike reaches the states, and Barbara decides to accompany her brother, Burt (Darrell Foss), to the northern regions. At the hotel Burt accuses Jack of the crime fastened to his name, and he is obliged to resign from the ranks of the police. Barbara is coveted by Jules (Louis Durham), a squaw man, and she resolves to give herself to him that the last years of her father and mother may be made easy. Jack learns of this, and attempts to intervene, but does not reach Jules' cabin until after the wedding ceremony has been held. Barbara discovers that he means to do nothing to help her parents and struggles with him. Jack comes to the rescue. An Indian kills Jules for deserting the squaw. A telegram from the states telling of Carlton's death and of his confession clears Jack's name.
Time, 55 minutes.

"Her Spooney Affair"
(Strand-Mutual—One Reel)
Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

BILLIE RHODES is as charming and captivating as ever in this latest Strand single reel comedy, but she certainly leads Jack (Cutler Landis) a merry dance for twenty minutes or so of reel life. They flirt in an art gallery, and although he declared his undying love for her, her aunt declares that "all men are liars," and persuades Mary to put him to the test. This she does, in an artful manner, and he certainly comes out victorious, though not entirely unscathed.

A new member of the cast is Etta Hebert, who in the role of Mary's aunt renders a good account of herself.

Like most of the preceding Strand comedies, this is a clean, smooth running single reeler, and will certainly prove an acceptable filler to any program.

Two Rolin Comedies
(Pathe—One Reel Each)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

HAROLD LLOYD burlesques the war and the moonshine melodrama respectively in his latest pictures, "Kicking the Germ Out of Germany" and "An Ozark Romance." Both these numbers reach his highest mark, which, it is needless to add, is something extraordinary in the comedy line. His sense of burlesque is ludicrously funny and so too is this same sense as evidenced in the production of his one-reelers. He benefits by a supporting cast headed by Snubs Pollard and Bebe Daniels that works in tune with him in everything he does. It is our opinion that there never has been a better regular comedy series than that produced by Rolin around Harold Lloyd.

"Kicking the Germ Out of Germany" is a dream indulged in by Private Lloyd, wherein he invades the Kaiser's stronghold, vanquishes him together with his entire staff and rescues the Red Cross nurse, Bebe Daniels. Pollard is a war correspondent and in his two scenes is great.

"An Ozark Romance" shows Lloyd, the guest of honor (in evening clothes) of a gang of moonshiners. The youngest member of the family amuses himself shooting off the guest's hat and Bebe is kittenish in a rough mountain way, so that the intruder is not exactly at home.

"Tinsel"
(World Film—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

WHEN Oscar Apfel started in to direct Kitty Gordon it marked a new era, that is if individuals are permitted to have eras, in her career before the camera. Previous to this time Miss Gordon was noted chiefly for her bearing and her back, and with her bearing and her back richly capitalized she rode to a certain amount of fame. Mr. Apfel, however, has managed to teach Miss Gordon how to bring out a certain amount of warmth and feeling that gives color to her work, provides that missing spark of life, without which her previous performances were rather cheerless. In "Tinsel" as in "The Interloper" her work under Mr. Apfel's direction gives pleasing evidence of the ability he possesses to draw out the talents of his players to their full measure.

And it also may be said that Miss Gordon is being provided with vehicle more congenial to her personality than she received in the past. She is certainly not the type to portray a young college girl or a native of the wilds—characters she was once forced into. Charles Sarver's scenario department realizes what is best suited to her. "Tinsel," a society drama, based on a story by Fred Jackson, offers her an ideal role. She is the widow of a prince, also the grass-widow of one Carmichael, by whom she has a grown daughter. The main action shows the Princess Sylvia initiating this daughter into the ways of high (and fast) society, that she may know "life" before she settles down to married life.

Miss Gordon's role provides her with a number of comedy lines and sets her in a sphere where she appears resplendent in various gowns. She fits the role of social leader admirably. The melodrama is supplied by the daughter's escapade with a roue, young, not old, and is well developed. Muriel Ostriche appears as the daughter. Frank Mayo is the heavy—polished as usual. Ralph Graves is an enthusiastic and thoroughly likable juvenile. Tony Merlo puts over a comedy part, the society fop, to advantage. Bradley Barker and George De Carlton appear successfully in character roles.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Princess Sylvia Carzoni (Kitty Gordon), the divorced wife of Carmichael (Bradley Barker), requests that her daughter, Ruth (Muriel Ostriche), who has been brought up by her father, come to live with her. As Ruth wishes to go, and as Carmichael thinks her yet too young to marry, Bobby Woodward (Ralph Graves), the man of her choice, he agrees. With her mother Ruth enters upon a life she has never known before. Life to her becomes a round of pretty clothes, parties and receptions. Among others she meets Jefferson Kane (Frank Mayo), a millionaire without a conscience. Princess Sylvia is quite aware of this man's character, but throws her daughter in his company purposely that she may learn. After a while Kane's invitation to a supper in his apartment is accepted by Ruth. When she arrives at his home, however, she discovers his purpose, and is only saved from him by the provident arrival of the princess who has followed. When they return home Princess Sylvia expresses the hope that Ruth has learned her lesson. Later that evening Bobby and Carmichael arrive to take Ruth away. Ruth welcomes Bobby with open arms and, to make a dual happy ending, the princess and Carmichael are reunited.

Time, 55 minutes.

PHOTOPLAYLETS
MAKE YOUR LOCAL MERCHANTS GLAD TO USE
SCREEN ADVERTISING
Exclusive Territory—Wonderful Sample Outfits—Helpful Cooperation—Investigate
ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO. 1339-51 Diversey Pkwy. CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

"Good Night, Nurse"
(Paramount-Arbuckle—Two Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"GOOD NIGHT, NURSE," Fatty Arbuckle's latest picture, is varied and contains a great amount of excellent comedy. The opening scenes are some of the funniest he has ever given the screen. A heavy wind and rain storm is raging and Fatty is out in it trying to run between the rain drops. His constant attempts to light a cigarette in the downpour are uproarious and the gags that the wind and wet provided are surprisingly natural as well as funny. The scene then shifts to a sanitarium where Buster Keaton is physician in charge. He makes his appearance with a knife dripping molasses. Fatty thinks it blood. Under the effects of ether he indulges in a thoroughly funny nightmare. Keaton and Al St. John are in evidence through the hospital scenes and Alice Lake as the "nut" is cute. "Good Night, Nurse" ranks well up in the list of Arbuckle comedies.

"Tangled Lives"
(Vitagraph—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

THE "lives" in James Oliver Curwood's latest creation for reproduction on the screen are not nearly as tangled as the incidents which go to make up the plot of his story, "Tangled Lives," a Vitagraph production, under the direction of Paul Scardon, with Harry Morey and Betty Blythe featured. Not only are the incidents tangled beyond proper arrangement in the minds of an audience, but some of them are so far-fetched as to verge onto the ridiculous. The author's creations dealing with life and customs in the Northwest adapt themselves more readily and with a greater naturalness to the screen than those depicting the society drama. He creates strong dramatic moments and plays up his characters with a nice degree of finesse, but seems to disregard logical sequence, natural action and feasibility in his plot construction.

His "Tangled Lives" contains some striking dramatic moments, but are cast under a deep shadow by the inconsistency and unnaturalness of his plot action. On the slightest pretense he builds a momentous episode whose influence has, or is supposed to have, a strong bearing on the outcome of subsequent and important events leading to his climax. The anti-climax of his late work comes as the result of a ridiculous episode in which the hero of his story is convicted and sentenced to prison on a charge of murderous assault. On the evidence, or more properly, the lack of evidence, which the audience is given to understand is offered by the prosecution, there isn't a court of competent jurisdiction in the wide world that would convict—yet our friend, the hero of "Tangled Lives," spends a few years behind the bars for this self-same deed.

In spite of these inconsistencies "Tangled Lives" as a program offering will be well received by a picture audience. There is a certain amount of well sustained suspense contained which will hold the interest, and the characters interpreting the principal parts have been played up to advantage. The domestic relations question plays an important part in the plot of the story, and this always gives rise to a certain amount of interest which will satisfy regardless of the weaknesses underlying.

The cast has been chosen with discretion as to types and ability, with possibly one exception. George Majeroni, who is a capable performer behind the footlights and one who has done very good work before the camera, has been miscast in this offering. He's not the right type. Harry Morey is given his usual manly part and is as convincing and natural in his actions as per usual. He has the distinction of having three different women madly in love with him during the course of the run. Jean Paige has been given a good substantial part for the first time in some months and she puts it over like a little veteran. Never affected in her actions and never "acting," her appeal strikes home and convinces. Betty Blythe as Mr. Morey's leading woman presents a pretty picture. Eulalie Jensen is in reality the star feminine character and does some fine bits of acting. Charles Kent is seen. Albert Roccardi is good in a character part.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

John Howland (Harry Morey) is an ambitious architect. His wife, Hilda (Betty Blythe) and Cora West (Eulalie Jensen), wife of Colonel West (Charles Kent), are close friends and while in a fashionable restaurant strike up a flirtation with Paul Wescott (George Majeroni), a wealthy bachelor, who calls at the Howland home that night to give John a contract for a new home he intends building. He is surprised to learns that Hilda is Howland's wife. Hilda falls madly in love with him.

Peter Hyde (Albert Roccardi), an old chemist and a friend of John, lives at the laboratory. Cora becomes infatuated with John and during a lawn festival, at which Hilda and John are guests, she sees Hilda making love to Wescott and tells John. John surprises them and in a skirmish, Wescott is shot in the arm, and accuses John of attempting to kill him.

Prior to this, while motoring home, one night, John and his wife discover a young girl (Lola Maynard) being maltreated by a gang of ruffians. He rescues her and takes her to his laboratory and gives her a home. John is tried for the crime for which he is accused, and sentenced to prison. Colonel West dies, leaving Cora free. Hilda divorces John and marries Wescott. Years later John is freed from prison. He returns and marries Lola.

Time—58 minutes.

"The City of Tears"

(Bluebird-Universal—Five Reels)

Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

CARMEL MYERS in the role of a chorus girl in an Italian opera company and later as one down and out, although still retaining her haughty pride, presents a pleasing picture in "The City of Tears."

There is not very much of plot material to this five-reeler, but what there is is handled nicely and will prove a winner. Pathos and humaneness are the dominant features, and these always find a ready appeal.

Carmel can certainly faint and recover more frequently and consistently than any star within our ken, but in this picture all to some good purpose, and the story really has a wholesome, happy ending.

The whole cast is well selected, the locations fairly well selecting and the direction moderately good.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Rosa Carillo (Carmel Myers) in the chorus of an Italian opera company, had saved all year and had fifty dollars for a real summer vacation. When it was stolen from her she was desperate, but the proposal of Billy Leeds (Earl Rodney), a young artist, to "take care of her," drove her in terror from him. Billy probably would not have made the proposal if he had not quarreled with Maria (Leatrice Joy), who had become more to him than a model. Rosa finally got a job with Tony Bonchi (Edwin August), an Italian delicatessen dealer, with whom she promptly fell in love. She knew that Tony could not love her, for she had seen him kiss a certain photograph, and the original of the photograph was crying her eyes out in the next room to her. And she knew that Maria was pining away for Billy, the same Billy who had once made a proposition to her. And just then Tony got in trouble with the police because they could not understand a man with a heart as big as Tony's. For Tony's sake she went to Billy, and told him that in return for getting Tony out of jail she would accept his proposition. He sent her a note, telling her to be at a certain house at eight o'clock the next night. The letter fell into Tony's hands as soon as he got out of jail, and so it happened that Billy, Rosa, Tony and Maria all come to the flat where Rosa expected to pay for Tony's freedom. But she had brought Maria along as an anchor to windward. But the climax proved that the City of Tears can also smile on occasion.

Screen time, 54 minutes.

"Shot in the Dumbwaiter"

(Lyons-Moran Universal Comedy—One Reel)

Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

EDDIE LYONS and Lee Moran are demonstrating in their late comedy releases on the Universal program that they can direct a comedy production as well as put the comedy over. "Shot in the Dumbwaiter" is their latest. We would like to know if Eddie and Lee did the sub-titles. If they did we want to congratulate them on the humor they have injected in the snappy lines that accompany their one-reel edition of laughs.

Captain Leslie Peacocke is responsible for the story. He has taken a general theme that has been done before, but has made a brand-new story from it with all the ear-marks of the "latest fashion." The two young couples, living one above the other, in a modern apartment house, and the complications that ensue when the wife of one meets the hubby of the other on a rainy night. Ups and Downs are the family names. Ups likes the gay life and Downs is a "stay-at-home." Ups is Eddie and Downs is Lee. One night when Ups is out sporting and Downs is home in bed, Ups arrives at the entrance of the apartment house at the same time with Downs' wife. Ups' wife, who is at home, hears the cat ransacking the milk cans in the kitchen and thinks a burglar is in the house. Then Mr. Ups and Mrs. Downs arrive and the chase starts. Up and down the dumbwaiter goes Downs and Mrs. Ups, looking for the burglar, one in his bathrobe the other in her pajamas. The mystery is solved and the two couples become the best of friends. Keep up the good work, Eddie and Lee, you're turning out some good laughs.

"Sandy"

(Paramount—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Peter Milne

THERE has not yet appeared a team that for playing youthful romantic roles is able to compare with Jack Pickford and Louise Huff. And it is their delightful work in "Sandy" that makes it interesting despite its lack of dramatic action in all five of the picture's parts but one—the last. Pretty scenes—pretty in scenery and appropriately enacted with incident that paves the way for the drama in the final reel compose the other four. The romance of Sandy and Ruth as set forth in this part of the picture is attractive and at times quietly amusing, and the leads are so thoroughly youthful that they rightly claim the attention of all.

The last reel which pictures a typical southern mob, bent on a lynching party, contains considerable action. It has been handled so well in the directing that it possesses that sweeping effect, necessary to really engross the spectator. Its suspense and thrills run high from the moment of the attempted murder.

"Sandy" is an adaptation of one of Alice Hegan Rice's novels, the scenario having been made by Edith M. Kennedy. The plot skips about considerably, and technically was a poor piece of fiction to attempt in pictures. However, all those connected with it, from the players to the director, George Melford, have done their best, and their efforts result in an entertainment that is at least pleasantly interesting from beginning to end.

James Neill, Edythe Chapman, George Beranger, Julia Faye and Raymond Hatton render excellent support, the last named giving an extremely clever characterization of a tough gambler and jockey.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Sandy Kilday (Jack Pickford) stows himself away aboard a liner bound for the United States. He is discovered, but Mrs. Nelson, homeward bound with her daughter, Ruth (Louise Huff), pays his passage and saves him from being sent back. The minute Sandy sets eyes on Ruth he is in love, but he does not see her again until he peddles his way to Kentucky with Ricks Wilson (Raymond Hatton), a race track man. He finds a home with an old couple, Judge and Mrs. Hollis (James Neill and Edythe Chapman) and lives with them for a number of years. Each day draws him nearer Ruth, but he realizes he must not speak his love because her mother scorns the "village people." Ruth's brother Carter (George Beranger), a worthless fellow, bribes Ricks to foul his most dangerous opponent in the Derby. As a result Ricks is jailed. Carter, a consumptive and drunkard, is infuriated at the Judge. He makes it easy for Ricks to escape. On the night of the escape, Carter plans an elopement with Annette Fenton (Julia Faye), the flirt of the village. They are prevented from carrying out their plans by Sandy, who meets them while he is departing for college. He sends Carter home by train and drives Annette back himself. When he returns the village is in an uproar. The Judge has been shot and the escaped Ricks is blamed. Sandy by a little clear thinking discovers that it was Carter who made the attempt at murder. He holds the gang off while Ricks escapes. The mob, angry, turns on him. He refuses to speak for Ruth's sake. But the appearance of Ruth herself saves the day. She has heard her brother's dying confession. Judge Hollis recovers and when Sandy returns from college there are no more barriers between him and Ruth.

C. H. Geldart, Louise Hutchinson, Jennie Lee, Parkes Jones and Don Sykes complete the cast.

"The Mortgaged Wife"

(Jewel—Six Reels)

Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

JEWEL offers another of the sex problem dramas in "The Mortgaged Wife," featuring Dorothy Phillips. It is brim full of the sex stuff and in spots overlaps the bounds of even the extreme in unconvention. Frank Howard Clark introduced sufficient material in constructing his plot to suffice for a ten-reel serial or perhaps more. Every angle that possibly could arise in the imagination or elsewhere, has been touched, from the German spy incident to murder. A shipwreck at sea, a long-lost brother come to life, the bank president who falls for the pretty girl, the "kept" woman, the brother who goes wrong, the vampire and the cabaret—all these and then some are contained in this late Jewel offering.

Dorothy Phillips should be sacrificed on the altar of sex drama. As an emotional actress, as the charming girl or wife, and as the unfortunate girl of the tenements, Miss Phillips can shine with our brightest stars. But she seems destined to portray the wronged girl.

"The Mortgaged Wife" will, no doubt, find many receptive audiences in its round of cities and towns. There are thousands who welcome this brand of the drama and as such, it will have success. The family circle, however, will find a debate in progress, when the suggestion is made that the family go in a body to the theatre where this is showing. It strives for the sensational both in plot, development and in title. The title can indicate nothing that smacks of clean drama. There is no misrepresentation in the title. It stands for just what it implies—a pro and con discussion (mostly pro) of the sex question.

Albert Roscoe is the wayward husband who stands by and permits his loving wife to sign away her soul to the president of a bank. William Stowell, as the bank president, gives a good performance, but the character of his part is anything but likeable. Sam DeGrasse and Edwin August are good in other supporting parts. The photography is, as per usual in Universal productions, excellent.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Ralph Carter (Albert Roscoe) and his wife, Gloria (Dorothy Phillips), are happily married. Ralph is a teller in the bank, the president of which is Jerome Harris (William Stowell), who has wanted Gloria to become his wife. Carter is caught appropriating the bank's funds for his own use, and is apprehended by bank detectives. He pleads with his wife to save him. She calls Harris on the 'phone, and Harris tells her to bring her husband to his home. The husband and wife are brought to Harris' home, and Harris coldly tells her that he will drop the charge against her husband if she will give herself as collateral. To save her husband, she signs away herself. Carter is ordered out of the city, and given his fare to the West. He does not go, but remains in the city with an adventuress.

Harris' secretary, Myer (Joseph DeGrasse), is a German spy. Darrel Courtney (Edwin August) arrives from Argentine after many years absence. He confers with Harris on business. While he is at Harris' home, Gloria comes into the room and recognizes in Courtney her brother whom she has not seen for years. She tells him that she is Mrs. Harris. Later at a cabaret, Courtney meets Carter, and Carter tells him that he is Gloria's husband.

Later Courtney and Carter sail for Europe. The ship is torpodoed, but they are saved. They return to America. It is learned that Myer is responsible for the sinking of the ship, and that Carter is his confederate. A detective nabs Myer, and in a tussle that follows accidentally kills Carter. Gloria and Harris are married.

"The Scarlet Road"

(Fox—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

IN "The Scarlet Road," William Fox has an old but ever welcome drama depicting the sacrifices of a sister for her brother and the moral leper who steps in and supplies the usual portion of the sex problem. Charles Kenyon, who is gaining a reputation for taking old stuff and whipping it into a drama with new twists here and there, did this one. Mr. Kenyon cannot be accorded the same amount of credit for this one as he received for his handling of "The Devil's Wheel," shown for review a short time ago, and which, according to the box office reports, is designated as going big with all the exhibitors. Gladys Brockwell is starred in both of these and Miss Brockwell's work in the latest seems to have lowered in quality in the same ratio as the quality of the author's work as noted between the one and the other. But this does not mean that Miss Brockwell fails to give a good performance. Mr. Fox hasn't a more thorough, accomplished actress on his program than Miss Brockwell. She handles the emotional parts with a fine degree of appreciation, and can skip through the lighter veins with the same care-free vivacity as our most likeable ingenue. She tells a volume with her eyes. She is, in the best sense of the word, versatile.

Mr. Kenyon springs a surprise in his climax which goes a good ways toward skimming from the surface of his story the wear and tear of age. He has introduced the Bohemian actress in the person of Betty Shade, or to be correct, the casting director has. At any rate Miss Shade depicts the part with all the semi-toughness of this type. Through the medium of this character the author has builded a little at a time, to a good climax—one that gives his story the freshness of a new dress. The general trend of the story is old and has been done and re-done a hundred times for the screen. But Mr. Kenyon seems to possess the happy faculty of twisting and turning his plot so as to lose sight of the old threads.

"The Scarlet Road," in its generalities, is the type of drama that the public likes and this one will prove a good program offering. Edward Le Saint, who has turned out some good ones and has proved that he can uphold the example set by the author of making new ones out of old ones, has not faltered with this one. His direction is noticeably efficient. William Scott is again seen in the semi-villain role, opposite Miss Brockwell. His work is always commendable. L. C. Shumway in the straight lead makes a likeable hero. Charles Clary as the roue puts over a good bit of acting. The photography and lighting are up to the minute.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

John Rand (L. C. Shumway), a young editor, is in love with Mabe Halloway (Gladys Brockwell). Mabel's brother, Dick (William Scott) works in a bank, and in his desire to give his actress sweetheart, Tiny (Betty Shade), a good time, appropriates money from his employer. He tells his sister, and she promises to go to her sweetheart, Rand, and obtain the money. Rand gives it to her. Before using the check given to her by Rand, she decides that he cannot afford to give her that amount, and she accepts the offer of Raymond La Farge (Charles Clary), a man-about town, of marriage on the condition that he pay her brother's debt. He gives her a check, and she sends Rand's check back to him.

Mabel and La Farge are married. La Farge drinks heavily, and their life is unhappy. In the meantime Dick has returned to his old love, Tiny. He tells her of the sacrifice his sister has made to save him from prison. He tells her the man's name. Tiny plans a visit to Mabel. She tells Mabel that she knows her husband. The husband enters the room, and rushes to Tiny's arms. Then Tiny tells Mabel that he is her, Tiny's, husband. Mabel starts to leave the house, and her husband tries to prevent her. In so doing he falls from a window and is killed. Rand learns this and he and Mabel are married.

Time, 65 minutes.

COMPLETE RELEASE SCHEDULES will be found on the next four pages following

Features---Current and Coming

American Standard Motion Pictures Corp.

Tom Brett Comedies.....2 reels
The Blackmailers .....5 reels
Ignorance .....6 reels
S. O. S.....6 reels
Mormon Maid .....6 reels
Whither Thou Goest.....6 reels
God's Man .....5 reels
The Wolf Girl (Beatrice Allen).....2 reels
Turned Up (Nat Goodwin).....5 reels

Bluebird Photoplays

June 24. The City of Tears (Carmel Myers), 5
July 1. The Empty Cab (Eileen Percy, Franklyn Farnum) 5
July 8. The Deciding Kiss (Edith Roberts). 5
July 15. Winner Takes All (Monroe Salisbury) 5
July 22. (Title not decided) 5

Universal Productions

June 24. No release .....
July 1. Hell Bent (Harry Carey) (Special Attraction) 6
July 15. Her Body in Bond (Mae Murray) Special Attraction 6
July 22. Special Attraction (No release this week) .....

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

(Successors to Paramount Pictures Corp.)

June 2. Love's Conquest (Lina Cavalieri)..
June 9. Viviette (Vivian Martin).....
June 9. Her Final Reckoning (Pauline Frederick) .....
June 16. The Bravest Way (Sessue Hayakawa)
June 23. The Firefly of France (Wallace Reid)
June 23. A Desert Wooing (Enid Bennett)..
July 1. The Kaiser's Shadow (Dorothy Dalton) .....
July 1. Sandy (Jack Pickford).....
July 8. The Claws of the Hun (Charles Ray)
July 15. The City of Dim Faces (Sessue Hayakawa) .....
July 15. Uncle Tom's Cabin (Marguerite Clark) .....
July 22. The Vamp (Enid Bennett).....
July 29. Less Than Kin (Wallace Reid).....

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

June 2. A Doll's House (Elsie Ferguson)..
June 16. Say Young Fellow (Douglas Fairbanks) .....
June 16. Hit-the-Trail Holliday (George M. Cohan) .....
June 23. How Could You Jean? (Mary Pickford) .....
July 8. Shark Monroe (Wm. S. Hart).....
July 8. We Can't Have Everything (C. B. De Mille).....
July 22. The Great Love (D. W. Griffith)....
July 29. The Danger Mark (Elsie Ferguson).

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life."
Ambasador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
"Tarzan of the Apes" (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
"Passing of the Third Floor Back" (Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson).
"Tempered Steel" (Mme. Petrova). .....
"The Life Mask" (Mme. Petrova).
"The Light Within" (Mme. Petrova).
"Daughter of Destiny" (Mme. Petrova).
"Patience Sparhawk" (Mme. Petrova).
Edgar Lewis's "The Sign Invisible" (Mitchell Lewis).
Herbert Brenon's "Empty Pockets."
Herbert Brenon's "Fall of the Romanoffs" (with Ilidor).
"Alimony" (Josephine Whittell).
"Pershing's Crusaders."

Fox Film Corporation

SPECIAL FEATURES

June 23. The Scarlet Road (Gladys Brockwell) .....
June 30. The Kid Is Clever (George Walsh).
July — Other Men's Daughters (Peggy Hyland) .....
July — Her Price (Vigian Pearson) .....

Fox Standard Pictures

Mar. 24. Rough and Ready (Wm. Farnum).. 6
Apr. 7. The Blindness of Divorce..... 7
June 16. Under the Yoke (Theda Bara)....

Goldwyn Pictures Corp.

July 14. The Glorious Adventure (Mae Marsh) 5
July 28. Back to the Woods (Mabel Normand) 5
Aug. 11. Friend Husband (Madge Kennedy) 5
Aug. 25. Money Mad (Mae Marsh)..... 5

GOLDWYN SPECIALS

The Manx-Man 7
For the Freedom of the World.... 7

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

(Paralta Plays)

May 13. Rose o' Paradise (Bessie Barriscale) —
May 27. Shackled (Louise Glaum)..... —
June 10. Patriotism (Barriscale)..... —
June 24. One Dollar Bid (Kerrigan)..... —
July 27. Wedlock (Glaum)..... —
July 27. Maid of the Storm (Barriscale)..... —
Aug. 4. Burglar for a Night (Kerrigan)..... —

Jewel Productions, Inc.

Come Through.
Pay Me.
Sirens of the Sea.
Man Without a Country.
The Correspondent.
The Price of a Good Time.
The Grand Passion.
The Doctor and the Woman.
The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.
A Soul for Sale.

Perfection Pictures

(GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM)

Feb. 25. Ruggles of Red Gap (Essanay).... —
Feb. 11. The Unbeliever (Edison) 7
Apr. 7. A Pair of Sixes (Essanay)..... —
June — The Unchastened Woman (Rialto De Luxe) 7

Metro Pictures Corporation

June 24. A Man's World (Emily Stevens), Metro 5
July 1. Opportunity (Viola Dana), Metro.. 5
July 8. No Man's Land (Bert Lytell), Metro 5
July 15. A Successful Adventure (May Allison), Metro 5

(SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS)

Lest We Forget (Rita Jolivet), Screen Classics, Inc. 8
The Legion of Death (Edith Storey), Metro-Rolfe 7
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana), Metro-Rolfe..... 7
Revelation (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
The Slacker (Emily Stevens), Metro..... 7
Draft 258 (Mabel Taliaferro), Metro..... 7
My Own United States (Arnold Daly), Frohman 8
The Million Dollar Dollies (Dolly Sisters), Emerald 5
Toys of Fate (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
To Hell With the Kaiser..... —

Mutual Film Corporation

June 24. Up Romance Road (Wm. Russell), American 5
July 1. No release.
July 8. Ghost of Rosy Taylor (Mary Miles minter) American 5

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

June 23. The Voice of Destiny (Baby Marie Osborn), Diando 5
June 30. A Little Sister of Everybody (Bessie Love, George Fischer), Pathe.. 5
July 7. Annexing Bill (Gladys Hulette, Creighton Hale), Astra..... 5
July 14. More Trouble (Frank Keenan, John Gilbert, Clyde Benson, Roberta Wilson, Helen Dunbar)..... 5

Select Pictures

June 10. The Claw (Clara K. Young)..... 5
June 15. Cecilia of the Pink Roses (Marion Davies) 6
June 20. Good Night Paul (Constance Talmadge) 5
June 30. The Whirlpool (Alice Brady)..... 5

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Chas. Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn).. 5
The Barrier (Rex Beach Production)..... 7
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5
The Public Be Damned (Charles Richman, Mary Fuller) 6

Triangle Distributing Corporation

(Subject to change without notice)

June 23. You Can't Believe Everything (Gloria Swanson) 5
June 23. Closing In (William Desmond)..... 5
June 30. The Painted Lily (Alma Rubens).. 5
June 30. The Fly God (Roy Stewart)..... 5
July 7. A Good Loser (Peggy Pearce). 5000 ft.
July 7. Every Woman's Husband (Gloria Swanson) .....5000 ft.
July 14. Marked Cards (Margery Wilson)5000 ft.
July 14. Hell's End (Wm. Desmond)....5000 ft.
July 21. By Proxy (Roy Stewart).....5000 ft.
July 21. Woman of Mystery (Alma Rubens) .....5000 ft.
July 28. Golden Fleece (Joe Bennett, Peggy Pearce) .....5000 ft.
July 28. Beyond the Shadows (Wm. Desmond) .....5000 ft.

Vitagraph V-L-S-E

June 24. The Girl in His House (Earle Williams, Grace Darmond) 5
July 1. Tangled Lives (Harry Morey, Betty Blythe) 5
July 8. One Thousand Dollars (Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres, Florence Deshon) 5
July 15. Love Watches (Corinne Griffiths).. 5
July 22. To the Highest Bidder (Alice Joyce) 5
July 29. A Gentleman's Agreement (Nell Shipman, Alfred Whitman)..... 5

World Pictures

June 24. A Woman of Redemption (June Elvidge) 5
July 1. Heart of a Girl (Barbara Castleton, Irving Cummings) 5
July 8. Tinsel (Kitty Gordon, Muriel Ostrich, Frank Mayo)..... 5
July 15. The Golden Wall (Carlyle Blackwell, Evelyn Greeley, J. Hynes, Madge Evans) 5
July 22. Joan of the Woods (June Elvidge, John Bowers, George MacQuarrie). 5
July 29. Neighbors (Madge Evans, Johnny Hynes) 5

Releases in the Independent Field

For Manufacturers' Addresses, Names and Addresses of Buyers handling films in any territory, or any other additional information write—State Rights Department, Motion Picture News

Arrow Film Corporation

The Deemster.
Eyes of the World.
Ramona.
Weavers of Life.
Souls Redeemed.
Persuasive Peggy.
Today.
The Mad Lover.
The Woman's Law.
Right Off the Bat.
The Struggle Everlasting.
The Accidental Honeymoon.
Million Dollar Mystery (Revised Edition).
The Finger of Justice.

Atlantic Distributing Corporation

Nine-tenths of the Law (Mitchell Lewis) 6 reels
The Devil's Playground (Vera Michelena) 7 reels

Big Productions Film Corp.

VICTORIA FEATURE FILMS
The Sunset Princess (Marjorie Daw).

Christie Film Company

One Reel Comedy Issued Weekly
Whose Wife?
The House that Jack Built.
Never Surprise Your Wife.
In and Out.
Betty's Adventure.
By Orange Aid.
All Dressed Up.
Red Crossed.
Here Comes the Groom.
Somebody's Baby.
Regular Patsy.
Love and Gold Bricks.
Their Breezy Affair.
Kids.
Efficiency.
Just Like Dad.
This Way Out.
Where is Your Husband?

Commonwealth Pictures Corp.

Charlotte, in The Frozen Warning.

Coronet Film Corporation

LIVING STUDIES IN NATURAL HISTORY
Animal World, No. 1 Issue.
Animal World, No. 2 Issue
Birdland Studies.
Horticultural Phenomena.

Cosmofotofilm Company

Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 reels
Liberty Hall .....4 reels
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
His Vindication .....5 reels
I Believe .....7 reels
The Hypocrites .....6 reels

Crest Pictures

Lust of the Ages.....6 reels
The Grain of Dust.....6 reels

Doll Van Film Corp. (Chicago)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Cold Deck.
To-Day.
The Mad Lover.
Public Defender.
Carmen of the Klondike.
The Grain of Dust.
Hearts of the World.
The Crucible of Life.
Nine-tenths of the Law.
The Belgian.
The Zeppelin's Last Raid
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman.

M. S. Epstin

Raymond L. Ditmars' "The Depths of the Sea," in a series of four parts.

Export and Import Film Co.

Birth of Democracy.
Why the Bolsheviki?

Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick, Clifford Bruce, Reine Davies).
The Bar Sinister (Edgar Lewis's production).
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy).
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon).
One Hour (Zena Keefe and Alan Hale).
A Trip Through China.
The Fringe of Society (Milton Sills, Ruth Roland).
The Cast-Off (Bessie Barriscale).
The Submarine Eye.
Whither Thou Goest.
Should She Obey?
Men.

Fort Pitt Corporation

The Italian Battlefront.

Frohman Amusement Corp.

The Witching Hour (C. Aubrey Smith, Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold, Marie Shotwell and Robert Conness.....6 reels
Conquest of Canaan.....5 reels
God's Man .....9 reels
My Own United States (through Metro).
Gaumont Co.
The Hand of Vengeance.....
Gaumont Co.

General Enterprises, Inc.

Mother (Elizabeth Risdon, McClure)....6 parts
The Warrior (Maciste) (McClure).....7 parts
The Liar (Jane Gail, Stanley Walpole)...6 parts

Jesse J. Goldburg

SCRANTONIA PHOTOPLAY CORP.
May 6. Cheerful Liars.
May 13. Fate and Fortune.
May 20. Parson Pepp.
May 27. The Ring and the Ringer.
RIALTO FILM CORPORATION
Apr. 15. My Husband's Friend.

Graphic Features

Apr. 1. Moral Suicide.

D. W. Griffith

Hearts of the World.

Hiller & Wilk, Inc.

(Pictures handled in the Open Market)
"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."
"Sporting Life."
"The Battle of Gettysburg."
"The Wrath of the Gods."
HART, FAIRBANKS, KEENAN AND TALMADGE RE-ISSUES
William S. Hart
The Patriot.
Captive God.
The Dawnmaker.
The Return of Draw Egan.
The Devil's Double.
Truthful Tulliver.
The Gunfighter.
The Square Deal Man.
The Desert Man.
Wolfe Lowry.
Douglas Fairbanks
The Good Bad Man.
Reggie Mixes In.
Flirting with Fate.
The Half Breed.
Manhattan Madness.
American Aristocracy.
The Matrimaniac.
The Americano.
Frank Keenan
The Thoroughbred.
Jim Grimsby's Boy.
The Sins Ye Do.
Bride of Hate.
The Drab.
Norma Talmadge
Children in the House.
Going Straight.
The Devil's Needle.
The Social Secretary.
Fifty Fifty.

Ivan Feature Productions

One Law for Both (Rita Jolivet, Vincent Serrano, Leah Baird, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison).....7 reels
Babbling Tongues (Grace Valentine, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson).....7 reels
Married in Name Only (Gretchen Hartman, Milton Sills, Marie Shotwell).....6 reels
Sins of Ambition (Barbara Castleton, Wilfred Lucas, Leah Baird, James Morrison) .....7 reels
Human Clay (Mollie King).....5 reels
Life or Honor (Leah Baird, James Morrison, Violet Palmer, Edward Mackey) .....6,500 ft.

Jester Comedies

Feb. —. The Recruit (Twede Dan).....2 parts
Mar. —. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) .....2 parts
April —. All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)...2 parts
May —. The Wrong Flat (Twede Dan)..2 parts

Renowned Pictures Corporation

The Public Defender.....6 reels
Naked Hands .....5 reels
Mother Love and the Law.....7 reels
In Treason's Grasp.....5 reels
Should She Obey?.....7 reels

Frank J. Seng

Parentage .....7 reels

U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp.

Just a Woman (Charlotte Walker).
The Crucible of Life (Grace D'Armond).
Men (Charlotte Walker, Anna Lehr, Robert Cain, etc).
Those Who Pay (Bessie Barriscale).
The Belgian (Walker Whiteside, Valentine Grant).
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.

Ernest Shipman

JOSH BINNEY COMEDIES—Featuring Fatty Filbert. One release a month.
June — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers....2 reels
July — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
Aug. — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Oct. — Fred's Frivilous Fiancee.....2 reels
W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.—Featuring Shorty Hamilton. One five-reeler per month.
May — Denny From Ireland.....5 reels
June — The Snail .....5 reels
July — The Ranger .....5 reels
The Curse of Eve—Six-part Drama.
FRANCIS FORD PRODUCING COMPANY—(Releasing six feature pictures per year.
Now Released: Berlin Via. America....6 reels year for open market.
In Production: A Man of Today.....6 reels
To Follow: The Fourth Generation.....6 reels
The Coast Guard Patrol—Seven Parts.
A Nugget in the Rough—Five Parts.
Trooper 44—Five Parts.
The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Nell Shipman).
Bill Tinger's Poems—A series of one-reel comedy dramas issued semi-monthly.
THE TITAN FEATURE PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, Spokane—Six feature pictures per year for open market.
Walker Whiteside—(In a seven-part drama for Japanese Secret Service in America).

W. H. Productions Co.

William S. Hart as Two Gun Man in "The Bargain" .....6 reels
William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" .....5 reels
William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" .....5 reels
Also Series of two-reel W. H. Hart productions
Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale).

Romayne Superfilm Company

Me und Gott or "The Crimson God"....5 reels
(Depicting the Kaiser's attempt to enslave the world.)

Western Import Co.

Mickey (Mabel Normand).

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

SCENICS
Apr. 3. The Making of Russian Caviar. 850 ft.
Apr. 10. White Water and Windy Willie —Where the Clouds Come From .....1,000 ft.
Apr. 17. Our Egypt of the Southwest..1000 ft.
Apr. 24. The Cruise of the Quickern'ell..1000 ft.
May 1. Tidbits of Travel .....1000 ft.
May 8. What the Ice Age Left.....1000 t.
May 15. The Silent Wonderlands of the West, No. 1 .....1000 ft.
May 22. Following the Course of the Cayuse .....1000 ft.
May 29. The Silent Wonderlands of the West, No. 2 .....1000 ft.

Short Subjects Current and Coming

DITMARS "LIVING BOOK OF NATURE"
Apr. 22. Wild Goats and Sheep.....500 ft.
May 6. Wild Babies .....500 ft.
May 20. The Friendly Bee .....500 ft.
Apr. 8. Night Animals .....500 ft.
—Wild Goats and Sheep.....
—Wild Babies .....
Apr. 15. Milan Cathedral; Logging in Italy. .....

BRUCE SCENICS
—The Course of the Cayuse.....
—What the Ice Age Left.....

NEWMAN TRAVEL PICTURES
Tid Bits of Travel.....
Our Egypt of the Southwest....

CARTOONS
May 6. Der Two Twins (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.
May 13. His Last Will (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.
May 20. Der Black Mitt (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.

BENJAMIN CHAPIN'S PARAMOUNT SERIES
The Son of Democracy.

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

PARAMOUNT BRAY PICTOGRAPHS
July 1. Schematography, The Art of Correcting Injurious Postural Habits; With the Deep Sa Anglers; Animated Technical Drawing—E. Dean Parmlee.
July 8. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 1; Beauty to Order, The Advanced Art of Dermatology; Cartoon by Wallace Carlson.
July 15. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 2; Preparing the Victory Army; In Nature's Gardens; Cartoon by Earl Hurd.
July 22. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 3; An African Game Hunt; Motion Analyzed (first of a series analyzing motion); Cartoon by Bray Studios.
July 30. Why Batters "Fan Out" (second in a series analyzing motion); Animated Technical Drawing—E. Dean Parmlee.

PARAMOUNT BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES
July 1. Auckland: The Metropolis of New Zealand.
July 8. Rotorua: The Yellowstone of the Antipodes in New Zealand.
July 15. Among the Maoris of New Zealand.
July 22. Wellington and the North Island of New Zealand.
July 29. Down South in New Zealand.

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES
Moonshine.
No release this month.
July 8. Good Night, Nurse.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
May 6. His Smothered Love.
May 20. Battle Royal.
June 3. Love Loops the Loop.
June 17. Two Tough Tender Feet.
July 1. Her Screen Idol.
July 15. Ladies First.
July 29. Her Blighted Love.

PARAMOUNT FEATURE—"THE SON OF DEMOCRACY"
Mar. 4. My First Jury.
Mar. 11. Tender Memories.
Mar. 18. A President's Answer.
Mar. 25. Native State.
Apr. 1. Down the River.
Apr. 8. The Slave Auction.
Apr. 15. Under the Stars.

Fox Sunshine Comedies

Mar. 3. Her Husband's Wife.....2 C
Mar. 17. A Selfmade Lady.....2 C
Apr. 7. A Waiter's Wasted Life.....2 C
May 5. A Neighbor's Keyhole.....2 C
June 2. Wild Women and Tame Lions....2 C

Fox Film Corporation

MUTT AND JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS
May 5. A Fisherless Cartoon.....½ reel
May 12. Occultism .....½ reel
May 19. Superintendents .....½ reel
May 26. Tonsorial Artists .....½ reel
June 2. The Tale of a Pig.....½ reel
June 9. Hospital Orderlies .....½ reel
June 16. Life Savers .....
June 23. Meeting Theda Bara .....
June 30. The Seventy-five-Mile Gun .....

General Film Company

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES
(O. HENRY STORIES)
The Purple Dress (Agnes Ayres, Evart Overton) .....2 D
The Enchanted Profile (Agnes Ayres, Evart Overton) .....2 D
The Girl and the Graft (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Sisters of the Golden Circle (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Brief Debut of Tildy (Alice Terry, Betty Blythe, William Shea) .....2 D
Mammon and the Archer (Agnes Ayres, Jane Jennings, Edward Earle) .....2 D

(WOLFVILLE TALES)
The Clients of Aaron Green (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Cynthiana (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns)....2 D
Tucson Jennie's Heart (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Faro Nell, Lookout (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Dismissal of Silver Phil (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
The Coming of Faro Nell (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Winning of the Mocking Bird (Carol Halloway, Robert Burns) .....2 D

BLUE RIDGE DRAMAS
(Ned Finley)
The Return of O'Garry.....2 D
Mountain Law.....2 D
The Raiders of Sunset Gap.....2 D
O'Garry Rides Alone.....2 D
The Man from Nowhere.....2 D

ESSANAY
GEORGE ADE FABLES
ESSANAY COMEDIES (1 reel)
Our Little Nell.....1 C
Check Your Hat, Sir.....1 C
Wild Algy of Piccadilly.....1 C
All Stuck Up.....1 C
The Lie That Failed.....1 C
The Jazbo Sheriff.....1 C

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES
(One reel each)
Sophie's Legacy.
Sophie Gets Stung.
Slippery Slim, Diplomat.
Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent.
Slippery Slim's Stratagem.
A Hot Time in Snakeville.
A Snakeville Epidemic.
Snakeville's Ne wSheriff.
Sophie's Birthday Party.

ESSANAY SCENICS
How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising .....1 Sc.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada .....1 Sc.
Water Powers of Eastern Canada.....1 Sc.
A Romance of Rails and Power.....1 Sc.
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelley .....1 Sc.

CHAPLIN COMEDIES
By the Sea.....1 C
In the Park.....1 C
Work .....2 C
A Woman .....2 C
The Tramp .....2 C
His New Job.....2 C
A Night Off.....2 C

JAXON FILM CORP.
"A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM"
SERIAL (Jane Vance, Wm. Sorelle) 12 Episodes .....1 D

JAXON COMEDIES
The Unofficial Maneuver.....1 C
What Occurred on the Beach.....1 C
An All-Fools' Day Affair.....1 C
Beating Him to It.....1 C
Forced Into Matrimony.....1 C

JUDGE BROWN STORIES
Love of Bob .....2 C-D
Dog vs. Dog.....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Three Fives.....2 C-D
Kid Politics .....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Case of Bennie.....2 C-D

HANOVER FILM COMPANY
Camille (Helen Hesperia).....6 D
The Marvelous Maciste.....6 D
Monster of Fate .....

VICTORY FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
The Triumph of Venus (Betty Lee) .....

DUPLEX FILMS, INC.
Shame (Zena Keefe).....7 D

RANCHO SERIES
In the Shadow of the Rockies.....2 D
Where the Sun Sets Red.....2 D

COSMOFOTOFILM
Hypocrites (Elizabeth Risdon) .....6 D

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS CO.
Physical Culture Magazine .....1 Educ.

CLOVER COMEDIES
From Caterpillar to Butterfly.....1 C
A Widow's Camouflage.....1 C
Love's Lucky Day.....1 C
O, the Women.....1 C

EBONY COMEDIES
Busted Romance.....1 C
Spooks .....1 C
The Bully .....1 C
The Janitor .....
Mercy, the Mummy Mumbled.....1 C
A Reckless Rover.....1 C
Are Working Girls Safe?.....1 C

DIAMOND COMEDIES
Way Up in Society (Diana Allen).....1 C
His Fatal Fate (Dana Allen).....1 C
Her Ambitious Ambition.....1 C
His Matrimonial Moans.....1 C

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO. (Inc.)
Why—The Bolsheviki.....5 D

INTERSTATE FILM COMPANY
The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21 (War Event) .....2000 ft.

PROGRESSIVE FILM
On a Fox Farm (Educational) .....1 reel

VICTORY FILM MFG. CO.
The Triumph of Venus.....5 D

CRYSTAL FILM CO.
Romeo and Juliet.....2 C

CRYSTAL COMEDIES
(Pearl White, Estelle Deland, Don Barclay, William Browning)
What She Did to Her Husband, Almost Lucky .....1 C
What's in the Trunk?.....1 C
Reuben's Romance .....1 C
The Lady Detective, His Wedding Day....1 C
Troubled Waters .....1 C
Her Necklace, His Hoodoo Day.....1 C

HIGRADE FILM ENTERPRISES, INC.
Billie in Society (Ray Hughes).....2 C
Buneo Billy (Billy West).....2 C
Billy in Harness (Billy West).....2 C
Borders and Bombs (Billy West).....2 C

AUTHOR'S PHOTO-PLAYS
Her Moment (Anna Luther) .....6 D

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

CAPITOL COMEDIES
(Featuring "Smiling Bill" Parsons)
May 6. Bill's Baby.....2 reels
May 20. Bill's Predicament.....2 reels
June 3. Birds of a Feather.....2 reels
June 17. Matching Billy .....2 reels

King Bee Comedies

Apr. 1. The Scholar.....2 reels
Apr. 15. The Messenger.....2 reels
May 15. The Handy Man .....2 reels
June 1. Bright and Early .....2 reels
June 15. Straight and Narrow .....2 reels

George Kleine System

MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S COMEDIES
"GIRLS YOU KNOW"
Mar. 13. The Man Eater.....Edison
Mar. 27. The Stenog.....Edison
Apr. 10. The Art Bug.....Edison
Apr. 24. A Good Sport.....Edison
May 8. The Starter .....Edison
May 22. The Spoiled Girl .....
June 5. The Lonesome Girl .....

ESSANAY
Mar. 29. Broncho Billy's Indian Romance.
Apr. 5. Broncho Billy, A Friend in Need.
Apr. 12. Broncho Billy's Wild Ride.
Apr. 19. Broncho Billy's First Arrest.
Apr. 26. Broncho Billy and the Rustler's Child.
May 3. Broncho Billy's Last Deed.
May 10. Broncho Billy's Squareness.

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from page 121)

May 17. Broncho Billy's Secret.
May 24. Broncho Billy and the Greaser.
May 23. Broncho Billy's Fatal Joke.
June 7. Broncho Billy's Grit.
June 14. Broncho Billy's True Love.
June 21. Broncho Billy and the Western Girls.
June 28. Broncho Billy Wins Out.
July 5. Broncho Billy Trapped.
July 12. Broncho Billy Rewarded. .. ..

LINCOLN-PARKER WORLD TRAVELOGUE

Mar. 1. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 1.
Mar. 8. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 2.
Mar. 15. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 3.
Mar. 22. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 4.
Apr. 29. Peru and Scenes Around Lake Titicaca, Bolivia.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO-DREW COMEDIES

Mar. 18. Special Today.....1 C
Mar. 25. When a Man's Married.....1 C
Apr. 1. Gas Logic.....1 C
Apr. 8. A Youthful Affair.....1 C

Mutual Film Corporation

STRAND (BILLIE RHODES)

June 4. What the Wind Did.....1 C
June 11. By Foul Means.....1 C
June 18. Beware of Blonds.....1 C
June 25. Her Spooney Affair.....1 C
July 1. Miss Informed .....1 C
July 8. Her Disengagement Ring .....1 C

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES

To be issued one a week

June 30. Ex-Cannibal Carnival .....
July 7. Kaieteur .....
July 14. Mountaineering Memory .....
July 21. Zuni Kicking Races.....
July 28. A White Wilderness.....
Aug. 4. A Coorial on the Orinoco.....

SCREEN TELEGRAM

Issued Sunday and Wednesday of Each Week

MUTUAL-CHAPLINS

Oct. 29. The Adventurer.....2 C

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Sunday, June 30, 1918

The Furniture Movers (Toto, Bud Jamison, Clarine Seymour), Rolin.....1 C
Guadeloupe (Post Film Co.), Educ.....1 reel

Sunday, July 7

An Ozark Romance (Harold Lloyd).....2 C
Dominica (Post Film Co.), Educa.....1 reel

Wednesday, July 10

Hearst-Pathe No. 56.....1 top

Saturday, July 13

Hearst-Pathe No. 57.....1 top

Sunday, July 14

Fire the Cook (Toto, Clarine Seymour, Bud Jamison), Rolin.....1 C
Our Volcanic Neighbors (Post Film Co.), Educ.....1 reel
Allies' Official War Review, No. 3.....1 top

Wednesday, July 17, 1918

Hearst-Pathe News, No. 58.....1 top

BRITAIN'S BULWARKS

(Official Government Pictures—One reel each)

June 2. No. 4, How England Treats Her Prisoners .....
June 9. No. 5, With the Drifters and Mine Sweepers in the Danger Zone.....
June 16. No. 6, Destroyers' Raid on Zeebrugge .....
June 23. No. 7, Fighting the Hun at St. Quentin .....
June 30. No. 8, Destruction Wrought by the Hunt at St. Quentin.....

Saturday, July 20, 1918

Hearst-Pathe News, No. 59.....1 top
July 7. No. 9, King George and Queen Mary Witness the Black Arts of War...
July 14. No. 10, With the Policemen of the Allies on the North Sea.....

SERIALS

"THE HOUSE OF HATE" (ASTRA)

Two reels each

(Pearl White, Antonio Moreno, Paul Clerget, John Webb Dillion, Peggy Shaner)

June 2. Thirteenth Episode, Enemy Tliens.
June 9. Fourteenth Episode.
June 16. Fifteenth Episode, The False Signal.
June 23. Sixteenth Episode, The Vial of Death.
June 30. Seventeenth Episode, The Death Switch.
July 7. Eighteenth Episode, At the Pistol's Point.
July 14. Nineteenth Episode, The Hooded Terror.

Triangle Distributing Corp.

TRIANGLE COMEDIES

Mar. 3. A Discord in A Flat.....1 C
Mar. 3. His Hidden Shame.....1 C
Mar. 10. Wives and Worries.....1 C
Mar. 10. She Didn't Do It.....1 C

KEYSTONE RELEASES

May 19. Newspaper Clippings (Francis McDonald, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
May 26. Are Wives Unreasonable? (Ed. Brady, Claire Anderson).....2 C
June 2. The Poor Fish (Ed Brady, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
June 9. Flapjacks (Geo. Hernandez, Josie Sedgwick, F. McQuarrie).....2 C
June 16. Isn't it Warm? (Bill Dyer, Harry Depp, Claire McDowell).....2 C
June 23. Cupid and the Cop.....2 C
June 30. Pearls Without Price.....2 C

UNIVERSAL FILM COMPANY

Monday, July 1, 1918

NESTOR—The Butler's Blunder (Eileen Sedgwick) .....1 C

Wednesday, July 3, 1918

L-KO—Phoney Photos (Neal Burns, Rua Rogers) .....2 C

Monday, July 8, 1918

NESTOR—Oh, Man! (Eileen Sedgwick)...1 C

Wednesday, July 10, 1918

L-KO—The Belles of Liberty (Rube Miller and L-Ko Beauties).....2 C

Monday, July 15, 1918

NESTOR—The Pursuing Package (Harry Mann, Kathleen O'Connor).....1 C

Wednesday, July 17, 1918

CENTURY COMEDY—Choo Choo Love (Alice Howell) .....2 C

Monday, July 22, 1918

NESTOR—Repeating the Honeymoon (Eileen Sedgwick) .....1 C

Wednesday, July 24, 1918

L-KO—Clean Sweep (Merta Sterling, Billie Armstrong) .....2 C

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS

July 6. Naked Fists (Neal Hart).....2 D
July 13. The Branded Man (Helen Gibson).2 D
July 20. The Shooting Party (Mignon Anderson) .....2 D
June 27. The Pay Roll Express (Helen Gibson) .....2 D

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY

July 3. Number 31.
July 10. Number 32.
July 17. Issue 33.
July 24, Issue 34.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE

July 6. Issue Number 78.
July 13. Issue Number 79.
July 20. Issue Number 80.
July 27. Issue Number 81.

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS

July 6. Issue Number 60.
July 13. Issue Number 61.
July 20. Issue Number 62.
July 27. Issue Number 63.

LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES

July 1. Bad News .....1 reel
July 8. Shot in the Dumb Waiter.....1 reel
July 15. Almost Welcome .....1 reel
July 22. The Vamp Cure.....1 reel

SERIALS

"THE BULL'S EYE"

Two Reels Each

(Eddie Polo)

May 6. Fourteenth Episode, The Firing Squad.
May 13. Fifteenth Episode, The Stained Face.
May 20. Sixteenth Episode, Running Wild.
May 27. Seventeenth Episode, In Irons.
June 3. Eighteenth and Last Episode, The Runaway.

"THE LION'S CLAWS"

Two Reels Each

(Marie Walcamp)

June 24. Thirteenth Episode (In Disguise).
July 1. Fourteenth Episode (Hell Let Loose).
July 8. Fifteenth Episode (Title not decided).
July 15. Sixteenth Episode (Title not decided).
July 22. Seventeenth Episode (Title not decided).

BOY SCOUTS TO THE RESCUE

Universal Special

Apr. 15. Aides of a Nation, No. 1.....2 reels
Apr. 22. On the Trail, No. 2.....2 reels
Apr. 29. The Great Mine Disaster, No. 3.2 reels
May 6. The Spies, No. 4.....2 reels
May 13. Treachery at Sea, No. 5.....2 reels

Vitagraph

BIG V COMEDIES

July 1. Bonds and Banners.
July 8. Hindoos and Hazards.
July 15. Skippers and Schemers.
July 22. Bathing Beauties and Big Boobs.
July 29. Wounded Hearts and Wedding Rings.

THE WOMAN IN THE WEB (Serial)

(Hedda Nova, J. Frank Glendon)

June 24. Hurled to Destruction (Twelfth Episode).
July 1. The Hidden Menace (Thirteenth Episode).
July 8. The Crash of Fate (Fourteenth Episode).
July 15. Out of the Web (Fifteenth Episode).

A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS (Serial)

(William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Toe Ryan)

July 15. The Snare (First Episode).
July 22. Flames of Peril (Second Episode).
July 29. The Secret Stockade (Third Episode).

DREW COMEDIES

(Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)

July 1. Cupid's Column .....
July 8. Boobley's Baby .....
July 15. The Honeymoon Baby .....
July 22. The Cub and the Daisy Chain.....
July 29. Their Agreement .....

WHARTONS, INC.

The Eagle's Eye (Serial), featuring King Baggott, Marguerite Snow, twenty episodes—two reels each.

EXHIBITORS' PERSONALS

ARKANSAS

G. W. Sherman has bought the Midway theatre at Siloam Springs from Henry Bros.

MINNESOTA

S. P. Kennedy has resigned as manager of the Strand theatre at Morris.

Manager Latta is redecorating the Lyric at Austin.

MONTANA

The Palace and Orpheum Picture shows of Malta have consolidated, the owners now being Dr. George W. Clay and John Survant, of Malta, and Frank Bossont, of Havre. The Orpheum has been closed, and the Palace will handle all the business. Manager Bishell, of the Palace, will go to the Havre as house manager of the Orpheum at that place, and Ed. Boyle will manage the Palace at Malta.

NEBRASKA

G. Summers has purchased the Dixie Motion Picture theatre, at Clay Center.

H. Jones has taken over the management of the Mitchell theatre, at Mitchell, and proposes to make many material improvements.

Mrs. I. Walden has leased the Wonderland theatre, at Hastings, from her brother, L. L. Lyons.

The Oliver theatre, of Lincoln, is now under the control of Joseph Gorman and Frank Kimball, who also operate the Rialto.

T. Kempke has sold the Lyric theatre, at Crete, to J. Hutchinson.

NORTH CAROLINA

The Broadway theatre, at High Point, was recently burned out, and, according to Manager A. B. Huff, about $5,000 damage done. Pending the restoration of the ruined parts, Mr. Huff has made arrangements for temporarily operating in another location on a side street with limited seating capacity.

OHIO

The Clifford Airdome, at Urbana, is being enlarged to cope with increasing patronage. "Red" Miller is manager.

Joe Deutch has resigned from the Cleveland Pathe Exchange, and will devote all his time, in the future, to the management of his Sun theatre.

ONTARIO

Extensive improvements have been made to the Queen theatre, Niagara Falls, by the owner, A. Huttlmyr, which will give a seating capacity of 1,000. The balcony has been doubled in size and boxes have been installed. The interior is to be handsomely redecorated. The improvements cost $3,000.

The Patricia theatre, at London, will close July 3 for a period of six weeks, when important changes both in the exterior and interior of the house will be made. It is likely that a new front will be installed, and the interior of the house completely redecorated.

The Princess theatre, at Stratford, has closed its doors for the summer months.

The Auditorium theatre, at Sarnia, has closed down for the summer season, and will not reopen until fall.

Syd. Duncan, formerly operator at the King's theatre, has opened the Victoria theatre in Sault Ste. Marie. This is a 400-seat house, situated near the big steel mills.

QUEBEC

The Connaught theatre, at Montreal, has a new manager in the person of Tommy Dobigan.

The St. Denis theatre, Montreal, said to be the biggest motion picture house in Canada, has closed down for the summer months, to be reopened in the fall.

THE CENTRAL STATES

WISCONSIN ILLINOIS MICHIGAN INDIANA IOWA

Confidence Helps Us All

¶ The following short but to-the-point note from a Central States Amusement corporation is a splendid example of the spirit that has helped build up this section of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

¶ The note said: I consider your opinion of the various features on the market the best yet, and shall not hesitate to take hold of anything that gets a favorable report in MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

¶ And it was signed by McKinney and Palmer Amusement Company, Washington, Ind.

We Get Lots Like It

THE CENTRAL STATES

July 6, 1918

Goldwyn's Vice President Instills Pep at Manager's Convention

THE Central West branch managers and salesmen of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation met in their first annual convention at the Blackstone hotel, Chicago, June 15. The sessions lasted during the entire day and managers from the Minneapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City exchanges were present.

Vice-President Harold Bolster came on from New York to preside over the convention. He certainly instilled enough pep and enthusiasm into them to last until the next convention. The keynote of his various talks was the double output that Goldwyn plans in their new policy for the coming year. He told them of the production and distribution plans in mind and outlined the sales and distribution campaign that is expected of them. He laid particular stress on the desires of Goldwyn this year to help the exhibitor merchandise his film and showed very vividly to the gathering how it is to be done and what is to be done.

The managers and salesmen present were his guests at an informal dinner given in the evening. The exchange heads present were: R. C. Fox, Minneapolis; Paul Bush, St. Louis; Richard Roberts, Kansas City, and H. J. Bayley of Chicago. In an interview after the convention Mr. Bolster outlined exactly just what would make up the double output for the coming year. There will be six Farrar pictures; six of Rex Beach stories; six with Pauline Frederick; eight with Madge Kennedy; eight with Mae Marsh; eight with Mabel Normand and eight with Owen Moore, the newly created male star.

Watkins Starts Majestic Exchange at Milwaukee

M. G. WATKINS, well known through the Central West for his distributing and producing activities, but more recently identified with film brokerage interests in New York, has opened the Majestic Film Service at Milwaukee. His slogan is "picture plays at popular prices," and he has opened an exchange and office on the fourth floor of the Toy building.

His announcement contains the information that he has about fifteen good feature pictures on hand, as well as a large number of single reel comedies. The distribution objective for the new exchange will be mainly the entire State of Wisconsin.

Dawn Masterplay Takes Detroit House

THE DAWN MASTERPLAY COMPANY has leased the big Regent theatre, Woodward and the Boulevard, Detroit, for the summer months, taking hold Monday, June 17. Arthur S. Hyman, general manager, announces that the policy of the Regent for the summer will be one show in the afternoon and two at night, with prices 10 cents in the afternoon and 15 cents at night. It will be exclusively for pictures. There will be changes on Monday and Thursday.

The Regent has been operated during the past season with vaudeville and pictures by Charles H. Miles, who has subleased it to the Dawn people for the summer only.

Lyon and Healy Holds Photoplayer Meeting

THE Lyon and Healy Music Company held last week what they termed a "get-together-on-the Fotoplayer" meeting. The entire sales force and directing officers were present, as well as officials from The American Photoplayer Company, who recently turned over the distribution and sales rights of the fotoplayer to the Lyon and Healty firm.

All attention at the meeting was riveted on the fotoplayer. The American Photoplayer Company kindly sent 1,100 feet of film illustrating a trip through their factory at Berkeley, California. After the film showing the making and assembling of the various parts of the Fotoplayer was screened, A. L. Abrams, vice-president of The American Photoplayer Company, gave the men a punchy talk on their instrument. He started to review the history of the evolution of the fotoplayer away back in 1911. He stated that the machine was put on the market then in a very crude state, but that it had been brought up to the highest state of perfection since. The machine, when originally designed, was 9 feet high but was later remodelled to fit and orchestra pit.

"When the fotoplayer was placed on the market first," said Mr. Abrams, "it was a 65-note device. It is now an 88-note player and is the only one on the market which plays two 88-note rolls." It was brought out by Mr. Abrams that the great practicability of the fotoplayer is that any 88-note piano player roll can be used regardless of where it is purchased.

The fotoplayer operator, Mr. Abrams said, was in the same position as an orchestra leader, in that he could produce the various orchestral effects from the instruments with which the fotoplayer is equipped. He also claimed that it was possible to train an operator in less than a week provided he had a basic musical sense or knowledge of rhythm and harmony.

Chicago Police Stop Loop Theatres Using Misleading Advertising

THE Chicago police department is making a determined crusade against sensational and salacious advertising of film attractions by several of the loop theatres.

It has been the custom of two of these theatres in the past to placard the front of their house and their lobby with highly colored screening and misleading titles of the films to be shown. One of these houses particularly, always chooses the "Pink Permit" picture, while the original title of the film is generally placarded. It is always subordinated in small letters to a title of the house managements on conception. Some of the very best of the most recent film attractions, which from a moral standpoint are highly pleasing and satisfactory, have been given salacious flavor by this unscrupulous means of advertising.

After Chief Alcock sent forth the word through the newspapers a fortnight ago, that he planned a crusade against such advertising, he sent policemen to both theatres to warn them against the practice in the future. The Chicago Tribune handled the subject editorially one day last week, and commended the police department's action, and highly scored the methods of the theatres in question.

Fon du Lac Managers Like Conventions as Business Boomers

CONVENTIONS with pageants and spectacular parades, while all right as an advertising feature for towns, are poor investments for motion picture houses. At any rate that is the judgment of the managers of the motion picture houses in Fond du Lac at the close of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Elks' Association. While each house had provided a program of especial merit all report poor business during the convention. The Orpheum with Charley Chaplin's "A Dog's Life," that smashed all records to pieces at La Crosse was caught in the slump with the rest. Manager Ainsworth declares he will bring the picture back at a later date when it can have a fair chance. Mr. Ainsworth had advertised this first picture of the new Chaplin series heavily and had worked out an especially attractive lobby display. But it was no use. The crowds were on the streets but simply couldn't be lured into the picture houses, even by Charley Chaplin.

Reed Helped "Unbeliever" to Success

TO A. J. Deed, Detroit manager for George Kleine, goes a great deal of the credit for the phenomenal success which "The Unbeliever" is enjoying in Michigan. This is not taking any credit away from the production, which deserves the good business. But it was Mr. Reed's great enthusiasm for "The Unbeliever" before it was released in Michigan that made exhibitors talk. He had been in Kansas City at the time "The Battle Cry of Peace" was released and saw it run there for four weeks, but when he went to Chicago to view "The Unbeliever" he immediately declared that it would run longer than "The Battle Cry of Peace." He got W. M. McGee of the Majestic theatre, Detroit, so interested that "Mac" went to Chicago and saw it screened privately as the guest of George Kleine and M. E. Smith, manager of Kleine exchanges. "Mac" immediately followed in the footsteps of Reed and also became a great enthusiast. Well, everybody knows what it did at the Majestic—broke the house record, staying there for five consecutive weeks.

But that wasn't all. Reed began selling it to the residential theatres. Many exhibitors told him they would "starve" inasmuch as it stayed five weeks at the Majestic to capacity houses, but Manager Reed assured them that was all the more reason why it would do more business at the residential theatres than the average production without a long run. The first man to believe him was Hal Smith of the Ferry Field theatre—about four miles out Grand River avenue. He put it on in a big way and kept it for five days—breaking the house record. Well, it didn't take long for the news to spread around—and to make a long story short—the picture is breaking house records for every theatre playing it, and is staying from two to three days at each house.

The capacity business—the same record-breaking houses—that "The Unbeliever" is responsible for in Detroit are prevailing through the state, wherever the picture plays.

But the dominating confidence and enthusiasm of A. J. Reed is responsible for a great deal of this big business. He so enthuses the exhibitors that they go out and they boost the picture as they never have before, and naturally the only result from quality productions properly advertised is CAPACITY HOUSES.

"Mothers of Liberty"

(Monopol Film Corporation—Five Reels)

Reviewed by William J. McGrath

GRIEVER-HERZ have had much success in distributing this picture in the Chicago territory. While a good deal of this has been due to the timeliness of the picture—it being a war story, the exploitation given it in their assigned territory by this hustling young State rights firm has helped considerably also. The picture, unlike the modern story of fighting the Hun, deals with Prussian tactics back during the war of 1870. It is clear cut propaganda showing up the German ruthlessness to be the same at that time as it is today. It has been modernized with a lead that runs the story into a narrative form.

It was first shown at the Ziegfeld theatre in Chicago and pleased immensely during its week there. The entire picture has been fairly well handled and is deserving of all the success which it is meeting.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Jane Grey (Barbara Castleton) and Jack Walker are engaged to be married. The attack of the Germans on the Tuscania sends Jack's younger brother and Jane, who is a trained nurse, over to France to help the cause. Jack, however, thinks there is no need for him to enlist, because he is past the draft age. He is conscience stricken at times, however, and during one of these spells he happens upon a book written about the Hun actrocities during the Franco-Prussian War. The treachery of the Germans at that time fit up so well with their inhumanity to-day that he gets the spirit and goes "over there." It fulfills Jane's most earnest wish.

High School Pupils Inspect Rothacker Plant

ON Saturday, June 22, forty pupils and teachers of the Bowen High School who are members of the High School Civic Industrial Club, which is affiliated with the Chicago Association of Commerce, visited the laboratories of the Rothacker Film Company on a tour of inspection. The party was shown every interesting detail of film manufacturing from perforating the raw stock to the screen inspection of the finished product. They also listened to an illustrated lecture on the educational and advertising power of motion pictures.

"CENTRALLY LOCATED"

Chicago Branch

United Theatre Equipment Corporation

R. H. FULTON, Manager

512 South Wabash Avenue Chicago, Ill.

With a view to render our trade better service we have located in the center of your activity; centrally located to all exchanges, depots, and city transportation.

CALL IN AND SEE US—

LOCATED ON THE GROUND FLOOR

SPECIALS THIS MONTH

CHANGEABLE ENAMELOID SIGN

Reading: Admission

Adults	Children
War Tax	War Tax
Total	Total

Price, complete with five price tickets, packed in cardboard box; size 10 x 16 in. $1.50

NEW PATRIOTIC SLIDES

O. American Flag (6 assorted).
P. Showing American Flag with Allied Flags.
R. Illustration of Washington and Pershing, reading, "Washington Crossed the Delaware—Pershing Will Cross the Rhine."
S. 4th of July slide. Each 25c

METAL ANNOUNCEMENT STRIPS, 3 x 28; complete set of 10 $1.25

3 x 14 Announcement Cards. Set consisting of one each day of week, Today, Tomorrow, Coming and Tonight; total of 11. Complete set 20c
Broken sets, each .02c

POLAR CUB ELECTRIC FAN—Operates on either direct or alternating current; 110 volts; 6-inch blade. Absolutely guaranteed. Special $5.00

DISTRIBUTORS OF

POWER'S PROJECTORS—HALLBERG MOTOR GENERATORS—GARDINER VELVET GOLD FIBRE SCREEN—NATIONAL CARBONS—ACME PORTABLE PROJECTOR—EDISON MAZDA LAMPS—FULCO PRODUCTS—AND M. P. SUPPLIES OF HIGH GRADE.

SEND FOR SPECIAL LITERATURE ON ANY ITEM YOU ARE INTERESTED IN—ALSO OUR JUNE BULLETIN

Largest M. P. Equipment House in the World

EXECUTIVE OFFICES—NEW YORK

Branch Stores and Warehouses in 11 Cities

"EVERYTHING FOR THE M. P. THEATRE BUT THE FILM"

They Say in Chicago That—

E. W. HAMMONS, of the Educational Films Corporation, spent two days last week visiting Ross Cropper, he who directs the fortunes of the Bee Hive Exchange. Shouldn't be surprised to hear very soon that the Bee Hive will have another winning short subject series on its list.

THE road between the Select offices in the Consumer's Building, Aaron Jones' office in the Rialto Theatre Building and the Sherman Hotel was one well tramped by the visiting managers and sales directors from the entire Select western territory, during their two days' convention last Wednesday and Thursday.

THE BANDBOX, a pretty little theatre on West Madison street, almost in the heart of the Loop, is looking brighter under its new management. Mr. Ramddy, who recently took it over, has had the foyer retouched and decorated, there is a new sign and boards outside and everything looks much brighter and appetizing than before.

GEORGE FISHER, manager of the Alhambra at Milwaukee, and Tom Saxe's right-hand man as well, is making patriots out of his audiences. During a visit the other week, to Milwaukee, we found George conducting what he quaintly calls a "song service" in his theatre. At every performance for that week he had the audience rise in a body and sing the "Star Spangled Banner."

J. W. ALLEN, special representative for the Famous Players-Lasky Company, is still with us. J. W. presided in the chair during the two days' "get together" meeting of the Lasky Central West managers and district managers, the other week.

PHIL RYAN, president of the Standard Film Corporation, of Kansas City, was in Chicago for a day, this week. He gave us the news that he is going to France in a fortnight on a special mission for the Government.

A RUMOR in the Loop this week is to the effect that Bill Jenner, who came from the Kleine local office a month or two ago to take the managerial reins in the Fox office, is planning to jump back with the Kleine forces about July 1.

H. A. SPANUTH, of Commonwealth, gave a special press showing of his "Original Vod-A-Vil Movies" at the Universal's projection room, last week. Four of these one-reel subjects, showing vaudeville acts, are ready for release.

SI GREIVER, of Greiver and Herz, is in New York City at this writing. Si, according to the best reports, is on a picture-buying trip.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE stopped off for a short visit last Thursday, on her way to New York. She dropped into town just at the time Prexy Selznick and the entire host of exchange managers from the whole western division were here, meeting in their annual convention.

DROPPED into the Bee Hive Exchange the other day and the first thing met our eye on Mr. Cropper's desk was ten new contracts for Billy West Comedies.

ALL of the Moir theatres in the Loop are to use "Song Hits in Photoplay," which is being handled for the Central West by the Bee Hive Exchange.

THE Unity Photoplays exchange announce the purchase of "Berlin Via America," the aviation war feature. The sale was made through E. F. Lampman for Ernest Shipman.

FRANK FLAHERTY, charge d'affairs of the Four Square Exchange, arrived back in his swivel chair from New York, last Saturday.

M. G. WATKINS, of the Majestic Film Service, Milwaukee, was a Chicago visitor last week. While here he yanked the latch string of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS office.

ED. MORDUE takes the "will-o' the wisp" honors this week. Two weeks ago he was on the sales staff of Unity Photoplays Company. Last week we chronicled the fact that he had joined Doll-Van. This week we find him again with Unity Photoplays. It's hard to keep track of them.

ASCHER BROS. have signed up Goldwyn's "Heart of the Sunset" for their chain of local theatres.

A NEW name decorates the door of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association in the Maller's Building. It will be the present local office of the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation.

HERE is an idea of how Manager Bayley, of the local Goldwyn office, is placing Capitol Comedies in this territory: Palace, Waterloo, Iowa; Palace, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Sittners, Pastime, Cozy, Newport, Kenmore, Howard, Plaisir and Atlantic. The Butterfly, at Milwaukee, has also signed up for Capitols.

CHARLES LAMB, of the Palm theatre at Rockford, Illinois, was a busy buyer at the U. T. E. supply house on South Wabash avenue, last week.

WORD comes from the Ascher offices that their new house, now being finished at Rockford, will be opened about August 1.

THE Filmcraft Company, conducted by Willis and Eckels, who make trailers and leaders, have opened a downtown office in the Consumers' Building, sharing Room 606 with the Central Theatre Supply Company.

RALPH FULTON, manager of the local U. T. E. branch, has a hard time keeping help these days. He has given five of his best men to Uncle Sam. One enlisted and the other four were drafted.

D. O. REESE, sales manager of "Song Hits in Photoplay," spent a week with R. C. Cropper, of the Bee Hive exchange, who is handling "Song Hits" for the Central West territory.

THE Rose and the Pastime, on Madison street, are showing the Hearst-Pathe News regularly each week now.

PATHE'S "Moral Suicide" played the first three days of this week at the Alcazar, Rose and Boston, in the Loop.

HERE is a few of the recent places that Greiver & Herz have booked their latest feature, "Mothers of Liberty": The Imperial, Hub, Palace, Park-Manor, Avon and Lexington.

TOM SAXE has booked "Song Hits in Photoplay" for his Milwaukee houses for a seven days' run. The deal was made through the local Bee Hive Exchange.

A. E. GUNDELACH, sales promotion manager of the De Vry Corporation, spent a few days in Madison, Wisconsin, this week, on a business trip.

PAT DILLON has left the sales staff of the United Picture Theatres Corporation and is now selling film for the Central Film Company. George Gordon is another new addition to the Central Company's sales roster.

ROTHACKER cameramen "shot" about two thousand feet of pictures of the Reserve Army at Lincoln Park, last Sunday. The proceeds derived from its showing is to be used in purchasing equipment.

ANOTHER of the Rothacker camera crews under the direction of Frank Kirchner, left last week, for a three weeks trip through the Southwestern States.

HARRY WEISS, manager of Central Film Company, leaves this week on another of his w.k. auto trips through Indiana. He will also touch St. Louis before turning the car homeward.

FRANK W. KORALESKI, former member of Chicago City Councils and Board of Assessors and now a candidate for Congress, is prominent with his presence around the office of the Wholesome Film Corporation these days. We expect to hear an announcement of his being identified with it shortly, as Mr. Koraleski has shown a prominent interest in the film business.

THE local United Theatre Equipment branch has placed Gardiner's Velvet Gold Fibre screens in the Argmore, Metropolitan and Oakland Square.

THE Prizma picture, "Our Navy," was shown all last week at the Playhouse and attracted much attention and shekels.

H. TIPTON STECK, for the past ten years with Essanay, is now at Universal City as head of a new department. It is a sort of reconstruction bureau where poor scripts are made into lively and useable scenarios.

E. O. BLACKBURN, of the Rothacker Film Company, is making a sales trip through the Northwest.

GIVE Charles Ryan, the manager of the Garfield theatre, credit for that snappy little program he gets out every week. Send your name to him and get on his mailing list. He can keep you interested for ten minutes every week as you glance over the make-up of it.

IRVING HENOCH, an advertising illustrator well known to the local film companies, is now wearing the khaki. He is at Waco, Texas.

DR. A. ZILLIGAN, JR., whose father owns the Montrose theatre, 'phoned into Lyon and Healy's organ department the other day and told them that the Fotoplayer which has been doing service in the Montrose for nearly two years had been so satisfactory that it was decided to install another larger one.

H. J. WERNER, president of the American Photoplayer Company, was in Chicago the other week.

W. C. BRIMMER, formerly a member of the Pathe sales staff here, has resigned and is taking a ten days' vacation trip.

FRED LINICK, one of the most widely-known film salesmen in Chicago, who up to a few weeks ago was a member of the Unity Photoplays forces, has branched out for himself. Fred opened an exchange on the second floor of No. 112 North La Salle street, last week. It is to be known as the Circle Film Exchange. He has as a starter, five three-reel subjects, a number of single and two-reelers, a Hart revue and two features, "The Web of Life" and "Strife."

BEN BEADELL showed all his teeth in a big smile as he walked out of the Ascher offices in the Consumers' Building last week. The reason was the signing up of Marion Davies in "Cecilia of the Pink Roses" for the Ascher circuit. He also landed a circuit run for the Select picture with Lubliner & Trinz. The Bijou Dream on State street and the Pastime on Madison have the picture on their schedules.

JOSEPH SPIEGEL, Wisconsin representative for the American Photoplayer Company, was a visitor in town.

JOHN BARRY, for a long time associated with D. W. Griffith, was in town last Thursday, for the day. He is on his way to Los Angeles and he reported that "Hearts of the World" opened to a big and enthusiastic audience at Washington, the week before.

BESSIE BARRISCALE, after several weeks in New York, has returned to the Coast, stopping in Chicago on her way.

Central States Edition Brings Results Promptly and Plentifully

FILM SALESMAN SIDE LINE

Why not investigate. It means big money for you. Absolutely necessary in every theatre. No bulky samples. Write quick. Eclat Manufacturing Company, 3425 South State Street, Chicago.

Dubuque News and Views

WILLIAM RUSSELL in "Hearts or Diamonds" played to good sized houses at the Dreamland Wednesday and Thursday.

THE FOLLOWING of "Vengeance and the Woman" has not fallen off on account of the warm weather. The fourteenth episode, shown at the Princess last Friday drew a record crowd.

MAJESTIC FANS are anxiously awaiting the coming of D. W. Griffith's masterpiece, "Hearts of the World," which is scheduled to appear here sometime during July.

"TRANSGRESSION," a story of supreme interest, featuring Earle Williams and Corrine Griffith, was shown at the Family theatre June 19th.

"ALIMONY" was the program at the Majestic the last three days of the week.

PAULINE STARK is slowly but surely acquiring the reputation of being the best drawing card on the Triangle program. "Innocent's Progress" (a second run feature), attracted a fine crowd at the Liberty.

FREDERICK YOUNT of the Family theatre has contracted with Pathe to show their famous serial, "The House of Hate," with Pearl White and Antonio Moreno. He will keep up "Serial Day" by showing an episode of this serial and one of "The Lion's Claws" every Monday.

THE DREAMLAND presented Tom Mix in "Ace High" last Sunday and Monday.

J. E. DOYLE of the Dreamland theatre has added several electric fans to his already numerous supply and now his theatre is one of the coolest places in the city.

A MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY, "The World Apart," with Wallace Reid and Myrtle Steadman, was the Sunday feature at the Family.

SUNDAY marked the opening of anniversary week at the Majestic theatre and it was a howling success as manager Rosenthal gave his patrons seven days of high-class pictures, musical comedy and vaudeville. The features shown were "The Birth of Democracy" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, while "The Italian Battlefront" was run the remainder of the week.

VIRGINIA PEARSON in "A Daughter of France," rendered a most pleasing performance at the Liberty last Sunday.

"GHOSTS OF YESTERDAY," with Norma Talmadge, proved a business getter at the Princess last Monday and Tuesday.

MANAGER LORENZ of the Grand was certainly a popular man when he announced the showing of "A Man's Man," with Warren Kerrigan, at his theatre. This is Kerrigan's first appearance in Dubuque for over a year and his loyal supporters are sure to turn out in great numbers.

EDITH STOREY in "Treasure of the Sea," was the featured player of Sunday's program at the Grand. On Monday two comedies, "A Small Town Bully," with Fatty Arbuckle, and "Knights of the Square Table," were shown.

"OVER THE TOP," the screen version of Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey's noted war book, comes to the Grand for four days, commencing next Sunday, June 23rd. Manager Lorenz is advertising the picture extensively, specializing on billboard posters and newspaper ads. It is expected that the picture will go big.

THE THIRD EPISODE of "The Lion's Claws," with Marie Walcamp and the Universal Screen Magazine, was shown at the Star last Tuesday.

DUBUQUE FANS welcomed the appearance of Belle Bennett in "The Lonely Woman" at the Dreamland Tuesday. This is the second Belle Bennett offering to be presented here this month.

MAE MURRAY in "The Primrose Ring" and a two-reel Billy West comedy was the program at the Family theatre Saturday.

"HUMILITY" was exhibited at Union Park theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

J. E. DOYLE of the Dreamland advertised the Triangle feature, "Society for Sale," in the following manner: Dreamland, Friday and Saturday—"Society for Sale." By Whom? William Desmond. To Whom? Gloria Swanson. This quaint advertisement attracted a great deal of attention.

THE LIBERTY'S Tuesday program consisted of two Triangle plays, "Unfaithful," wilth Dorothy Dalton and "The Marriage Bubble," with William Desmond.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST attractions presented at Dyersville was the wonderful lecture of Corp. Edward W. Arlington, who appeared at the Cozy theatre Monday in connection with the six-reel feature, "War as It Really Is."

THE NOVELTY PICTURE of the year, "The Warrior," with Maciste, was presented at the Cozy theatre at Dyersville, Ia., Sunday, June 16th.

HARRY CAREY in "Fighting Mad," and Baby Marie Osborne in "The Little Patriot," shared the honors of the week at the Parke theatre at Fennimore, Wis.

THREE EPISODES of "The Fighting Trail," No. 4, "The Other Half"; No. 5, "Torrent Rush," and No. 6, "The Ledge of Despair," were shown at the Auditorium at Cuba City this week. Other features were: "Idolaters," with Louise Glaum, and "When Baby Forgot," with Marie Osborne.

A. H. BENNETT, of Earleville, Ia., closed his theatre, the Nemo, last Saturday night for the summer months. Mr. Bennett and family will make a tour of the West during the next few months, giving motion picture exhibitions. They will return in the autumn.

"THE LONE WOLF" with Bert Lytell followed a successful showing of "The House of Glass" with Clara Kimball Young at the Dreamland theatre at Galena, Ill.

Directory of Chicago Exchanges and Supply Houses

RALPH O. PROCTOR
Division Manager

PATHE EXCHANGE

Consumer's Building
FRANK B. ROGERS
Branch Manager

RALPH BRADFORD
Manager
Triangle Distributing Corporation
Maller's Building
5 South Wabash Avenue

H. J. BAYLEY
Manager
GOLDWYN
College Building, Chicago

FRANK J. FLAHERTY
Manager
FOUR SQUARE PICTURES
Incorporated
207 South Wabash Avenue

CRESS SMITH
Manager
METRO PICTURES CORPORATION
Maller's Building
5 South Wabash Avenue

CENTRAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
"In the Heart of the Film District"
FANS—FANS—FANS
606 Consumer's Building, Chicago

Your Box-Office or Booth
Needs this
CHICAGO FAN
The Biggest Little Fan on the Market

Complete, $7.00

This fan is so constructed that it will do equally as good work either on A. C. or D. C. current.

PRICE LIST ON REGULAR STOCK
ALTERNATING CURRENT

12 in., 110 volt, 60 cycle, oscillating	$22.00
16 in., 110 volt, 60 cycle, oscillating	25.00
12 in., 220 volt, 60 cycle, oscillating	26.00
16 in., 220 volt, 60 cycle, oscillating	27.00
12 in., 110 volt, 60 cycle, straight	18.75
16 in., 110 volt, 60 cycle, straight	19.75
12 in., 220 volt, 60 cycle, straight	20.50
16 in., 220 volt, 60 cycle, straight	22.00

DIRECT CURRENT

12 in., 110 volt, oscillating	19.75
16 in., 110 volt, oscillating	22.00
12 in., 220 volt, oscillating	21.50
16 in., 220 volt, oscillating	24.00
12 in., 110 volt, straight	16.50
16 in., 110 volt, straight	18.75
12 in., 220 volt, straight	18.75
16 in., 220 volt, straight	21.00

Above prices include cord and plug.
For 32 volt Fans add 10% to above prices.

Exhibitors Supply Company
408 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Why Take Chances?

On running your business at a loss during the next two months of warm weather when for a few dollars rental each week you can secure

"SONG HITS IN PHOTOPLAY"

Give your people what they want—give them something new—something novel—arouse their curiosity and they will come out during the warm weather the same as any other time and will make

BUSINESS AS USUAL

We Release a New One Every Month

BEE HIVE EXCHANGE

220 South State Street Chicago, Ill.

News From Fond du Lac

RED-HEADED GIRLS had their inning at the Bijou theatre, Fond du Lac, Monday night, June 17, when Herbert Brenon's great mystery play of the New York slums and palaces, "Empty Pockets," opened a three days' run. Inasmuch as Perry Merihew, millionaire clubman, loved a red-haired woman, Manager Smith conceived the idea of doing something "handsome" by Fond du Lac's red-headed girls. And he did. On the opening night every red-headed girl in the city who could testify that she was over fifteen was invited to attend as the guest of the house. And that accounts in a large measure for the liberal sprinkling of auburn heads in the audience. "Empty Pockets" closed its run Wednesday night, the 19th, and the box office receipts bore substantial evidence as to its popularity.

MANAGER SMITH of the Bijou simply left nothing undone that might contribute to the success of "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," the big picture that went on Tuesday, June 25, for a four days' run. Big newspaper space, liberal use of the bill boards, attractive lobby display—everything in the way of legitimate publicity was devised and put into service. As a result Fond du Lac became interested and "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin" was the talk of the town a week before the opening date.

FOND DU LAC has been going strong on war pictures of the better class and it will have an opportunity to see one of the best on July 15, 16 and 17 when Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany" will be shown at the Bijou.

THERE ARE FEW CITIES of its size that are doing more wartime work than Waupun, Wis. The air is fairly permeated with patriotism in that community and the range of activities is wide. The securing of sufficient funds is therefore something of a problem and that is one reason why the people there so often resort to the moving picture benefit. And there is no group of theatre managers in the country more willing to co-oeprate with patriotic societies than those at Waupun. The latest benefit was put on at the Scenic theatre in that city on Tuesday, June 18, for the purpose of raising money to adopt a fatherless child in France. It was sponsored by the L. D. Hinkley Circle and the returns were sufficient to warrent adopting the orphan, making thirty fatherless children thus far adopted by the little city of Waupun.

MANAGER W. E. AINSWORTH of the Orpheum, Fond du Lac, has installed a complete pipe organ, the instrument being built into the house with all pipes concealed. The construction work was carried forward to completion without the patrons' knowledge and constituted a happy surprise at the first performance on July 1st. Mrs. Ainsworth, who is an accomplished musician, presides at the organ, which is one of the finest in the Fox River Valley.

Theatres Changing Hands

ILLINOIS

Peter King of Riverdale has bought the Riverdale Theatre lease from F. C. Schneider, and has already taken full charge.

IOWA

S. E. Greenebaum of Davenport and A. H. Blank of Des Moines have purchased the Garden Theatre property on Third street, between Main and Brady streets, Davenport.

Mantin Peterson has purchased the King Theatre at Estherville from Frank G. King.

Christopher Jasperson has leased the Empress Theatre at Rockwell City from Mrs. Lulu Suter for a period of one year.

Hugh Bennett, manager of the Fairfield Theatre, Fairfield, has purchased the Orpheum Theatre from F. W. Jericho and Frank West.

Edward Helms has sold his motion picture theatre at Mount Pleasant and is said to be looking for a location in or near Toledo.

MICHIGAN

John R. Stolberg has bought out the business of the Uno Theatre, Crystal Falls, and rented the building to Ed. Bregger, who will conduct a motion picture business there.

WISCONSIN

Thomas Barrett has bought the Majestic Theatre, Watertown, from Charles Seager.

Heard in Detroit

THE DAWN MASTERPLAY CO. again announces more pictures for Michigan. Messrs. Hyman and Friberg have purchased the exclusive rights to all of the pictures formerly handled through Foursquare for the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, namely—

"The Zeppelin's Last Raid,"
"The Belgian,"
"Those Who Pay,"
"Crucible of Life."
"Lost Chord."
"Just a Woman."

General Manager Hyman also announces having purchased for Michigan "The Eleventh Commandment," a Ralph Ince production.

STANLEY W. HATCH, manager for Metro, has signed a lease for space on the ground floor of the new film building, Elizabeth and John R streets. The Metro will be the first and probably the only film exchange occupying first-floor space.

Mr. Hatch is now letting contracts for the various alterations, etc., including vaults, inspection room, paper racks, offices. If completed on time, he will move about the middle of July.

A feature of the new location is no stairs to climb and no waiting for elevators.

THE ORPHEUM THEATRE, operated by C. H. Hilles, is again showing all pictures and vaudeville a full week, and will continue with this policy until the first of September when the Regent re-opens, when no doubt the split-week policy between both houses will again be the vogue.

A BUILDING PERMIT was taken out last week for the new building to be erected at Ferndale, near Springwells avenue, Detroit. The building without equipment will cost $75,000. It will be two stories high, 100 by 132 feet in size. J. L. Selling of 117 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, is the owner. The house will be leased.

Film Flashes from Flint

TWO RETURN ENGAGEMENTS of films that recently scored successes at the Strand are announced by Manager Lester Matt. He is bringing back "A Dog's Life" and "Within the Law," with Alice Joyce.

WHILE NATURALLY there has been some slight falling off in business at local motion picture houses since the warmer weather began, as a rule the business everywhere has been holding up to the standard which has been maintained ever since the set-back last winter when the extreme cold and the coal shortage had the managers in the dumps for several weeks.

DOROTHY DALTON in "Flare-Up Sal" at the Orpheum, Billie Burke in "Eve's Daughter" at the Garden, and "Will You Marry Me" at the Strand were the featured attractions at the larger downtown houses during the week beginning June 17.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD," the big new Griffith production, featuring the Gish family, which was featured at the Palace in the place of the regular vaudeville program for seven days beginning June 30, saw a heavy advance sale and indications were that the production would draw nearly as well if not as well as the other Griffith features have here in the past and that is saying considerable.

In Springfield Theatres

SPRINGFIELD'S neighborhood theatres—the Palace, Empress, and North End Circle—report business is as good as could be expected for this time of the year.

THE PRINCESS has cancelled the Pathe service, and will hereafter take only such pictures as they wish. Manager Kunz announced that he would do this a short time ago, but the cancellation has just been sent in.

MANAGER THORNTON of the Gaiety received notice that after five more Keystone comedies Triangle will discontinue this brand of pictures.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN had a comedy role in "With Neatness and Dispatch," which was shown at the Lyric ,and it reminded of the days when the handsome one used to play the rube sheriff and such things. Bushman has the makings of a comedian, and in Fairbanks-George Walsh roles should prove quite an attraction.

HARRY LOPER of the Lyric says Edith Storey does the poorest business of any star he has. Has asked Metro to send no more Storey plays.

HARRY LOPER held Clara Kimball Young in "The Reason Why" over for an extra day at the Lyric on June 16. Virginia Pearson in "The Firebrand" came in on the 17 and 18; Viola Dana in "Riders of the Night" on the 19, and Constance Talmadge in "Up the Road with Sally" will be the attraction on June 20-21-22.

"OLD WIVES FOR NEW" is creating something of a sensation at the Gaiety. There is no doubt but that the Phillips novel was made for the screen. One of the best all-star casts ever seen in this city are in the principal roles, and the production is staged with a disregard for expense that nobody but Artcraft could endure. One of the surprises of the picture is the acting of Julia Faye and Sylvia Ashton, well known for their work in many Keystone comedies. At this writing Manager Thornton does not know if he will take the picture off as scheduled, thinking that the stay might be prolonged.

"THE PLANTER," a special feature with Tyrone Power, comes to the Princess for an engagement starting Sunday, June 23. Carlyle Blackwell comes to the Princess on June 19-20 in "The Cabaret" and Louise Glaum on the 21-22 in "Shackled," a Paralta play.

THE CAPITOL had a nice day with "Today," Florence Reed's fine picture. "From Two to Six," with Winnifred Allen, and W. S. Hart in "The Desert Man," also enjoyed prosperous stays at the Washington street playhouse. "The Phantom Husband," with Ruth Stonehouse, "Heiress for a Day" with Olive Thomas and "The Legion of Death," with Edith Storey, are three pictures Manager Maisel expects to begin with the week of June 16-23.

THE SAVOY has a great list of attractions for the week of June 16-23. Carmel Myers in "The Marriage Lie" played Monday; Tuesday, "The Boy Scouts to the Rescue," and Viola Dana in "The Cossack Whip"; Wednesday, "The Woman in the Web," News-Weekly and comedy; Thursday, "Saving the Family Name," with Mary McLaren and a comedy; Friday, "The Lion's Claws," with Marie Walcamp and a two-reel Broncho Billy; Saturday, "The Two Soul Woman" with Priscilla Dean and comedy; Sunday, last chapter of "The Bull's Eye" with Eddie Polo; Monday, "Brace Up" with Herbert Rawlinson and Eddie Polo. Manager Louis Kerasotes is one manager who says business is keeping right up to standard despite the terrific heat.

THE ROYAL, under the expert managerial guidance of Gus Kerasotes, offers the following plays for the week of June 16-23: Monday, Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid"; Tuesday June Elvidge, Carlyle Blackwell and Montagu Love in "The Guardian"; Wednesday, "Easy Money"; Thursday, "The Bottom of the Well"; Friday, "The Cast-Off" with Bessie Barriscale; Saturday, "Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation"; Sunday, "In the Balance."

GEORGE M. COHAN in "Hit-the-Trail Holliday" will come to the Gaiety for four days starting June 23. For the same four days the Vaudette will have Pauline Frederick in "The Final Reckoning."

ALMA RUBENS in "Madame Sphinx" and Charles Murray, Mary Thurman and Wayland Trask in "Love Loops the Loop" will endeavor to win the plaudits of the fans at the Gaiety June 20, 21 and 22.

"THE ORDEAL OF ROSETTA" comes to the Lyric on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 27, 28 and 29. Miss Brady's last picture, "At the Mercy of Men," scored a great hit here.

THE PAST WEEK has been one of the hardest on the picture business that local houses have ever had. The Vaudette probably established a record for poor patronage. Lina Cavalieri was booked in "Love's Conquest" for four days, but the play was withdrawn after the second day after a most terrible showing. Roy Stewart in "A Red Haired Cupid" filled out the remaining two days and did better than Cavalieri, but nothing to speak of. "Missing," the J. Stuart Blackton picture finished the week in about the same gait that Cavalieri started. This made the fourth Blackton production and the second Cavalieri play for the Vaudette and all have been heavy losers. They don't want Lina because she is a foreigner, and the Blackton plays have not yet had a star that is popular here.

THE PRINCESS fell off the latter part of the week. Kitty Gordon did not do so well with "The Interloper" and neither did Bessie Love in "How Could You Caroline?" The Lyric held up well, doing a nice business with Clara Kimball Young in "The Reason Why," "Bushman and Bayne in "With Neatness and Dispatch" and Jewel Carmen in "Confession." The Gaiety had a fair week with Elsie Ferguson in "A Doll's House" and William Desmond in "Old Hartwell's Cub" and "Wild Women and Tame Lions."

DR. DANIEL CARSON GOODMAN, formerly of this city, is now associate scenario editor of Triangle. It is understood that Dr. Goodman has completely recovered from the injuries received in an auto accident which cost the life of his fiancee, Florence La Badie.

THE AMUSE-U continues to play to great crowds, even Ben Rovin being at a loss to understand it.

THREE OF THE BIG downtown houses lost their chief operators this week. Harry Jones left the Gaiety, Walter Briner the Vaudette, and John P. Stutzman the Lyric. Briner expects to be drafted very shortly, and has also spoke of enlisting in the navy. Earl Skaggs is now at the Gaiety, Ralph Anderson at the Vaudette, and Victor F. King at the Lyric.

"WAKE UP, AMERICA," the patriotic exhibition given at the State Arsenal, June 12, attracted a packed house, about five thousand persons being present. Moving pictures entitled, "In the Wake of the Hun" and "With the Stars and Stripes in France" were given, and the audience applauded and swore as the occasion demanded. Adjutant General Dickson said it was one of the best patriotic shows he had ever witnessed.

THE LYRIC failed to receive "The Reason Why" from Chicago on June 13, and investigation found that the picture was booked to him for the next day and the two following days. Had this happened at any other time Harry Loper would have been very much excited. But as it happened another company sent a film in by mistake, and he put it on until his advertised picture arrived, which was about 6 p. m. Douglas Fairbanks in "Swat the Kaiser" and a Mutt and Jeff comedy were on the program with "The Reason Why," and the combination got the business.

"SHAME" is playing a three days' stay at the Princess, June 16, 17 and 18. Zena Keefe and Niles Welch are the stars, neither being very well known in this city.

"MY OWN UNITED STATES," Metro's special feature with Arnold Daly, opened a four days' stay at the Vaudette June 16. Vivian Martin is booked to follow for three days in "Viviette."

Late News from La Crosse

THE THREE LARGEST photoplay theatres of La Crosse announce that their doors are open, but their box-offices closed to privates and non-commissioned officers of the United States Army or its allies—if any of the latter should happen into town. They are the Majestic, Bijou and Rex theatres. The Strand and Casino theatres did not agree with the plan, which was backed by the soldier reception committee of the County Council of Defense. There are upwards of five thousand U. S. artillerymen stationed at Camp Robinson, about twenty-five miles from La Crosse, and scores of the gunners visit La Crosse every Sabbath. Unaware of the free photoplay entertainments for them, their faces lit up considerably when all the young lady at the ticket window wanted from them was a smile—in return from one from her. The soldier boy must pay his war tax along with the non-combatant, however.

"MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY," Ambassador Gerard's film version of his famous book upon his stay in Berlin, opened at the La Crosse theatre on Tuesday, June 18, for a five-day run. The engagement was a success, with fair audiences at every performance. F. L. Koppelberger, manager of the La Crosse, gave special orchestra music and engaged a woman's quartette from the Orpheum vaudeville circuit for the photoplay.

FRANK L. KOPPELBERGER, manager of the La Crosse and Majestic theatres, returned recently from Minneapolis where he spent several days in booking for June and part of July. Koppelberger makes every effort to bring the sort of pictures to La Crosse which his patrons want, and in pleasing them, he pleases the box office.

LA CROSSE is looking to Constance Talmadge to mount to the highest step of the ladder of fame in the near future. Her recent picture, "The Lesson," shown at the Majestic theatre on the week of June 10, was a decided hit. It followed "Up the Road With Sally," which was also greatly appreciated.

NO PICTURE shown in La Crosse for a long time has drawn more favorable comment, nor given more simon-pure entertainment than "His Own Home Town," in which Charles Ray played at the Majestic theatre for three days, beginning June 17.

A POLICY which has been used with great success by the Bijou theatre —that of showing the same program on Sunday which was shown on the preceeding two days—has been discontinued. The plan is found not to be a paying one at this time, although at first it was used to big advantage.

The Majestic at Detroit Has Summer Policy

THE Majestic theatre, Detroit, concluded a very successful four weeks' engagement of Vitagraph's big feature, "Over the Top," and is now operating a new summer policy. There will be three shows daily, one in the afternoon and two at night, continuous on Sundays, with all seats at 25 cents. In other words, the 50-cent section of about 500 seats will be only 25 cents for the summer.

The Majestic will resume its regular policy late in August. There has been some talk of the Majestic closing for a few weeks during the summer in order to make some important changes to the stage and to do some redecorating. However, this is dependent on whether or not the labor and materials can be secured.

For the Pick of the Pictures

THE DOLL-VAN FILM CORPORATION

207 South Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Ill.
D. M. Vandawalker, Jr.
Vice-President

Merchant's Bank Bldg.
Indianapolis, Ind.
Henry Dollman
President

Butterfield Elected President of American Exhibitors of Michigan

THE Michigan branch of the American Exhibitors' Association held its annual meeting recently at the Hotel Tuller, Detroit.

The main object was to elect new officers for the ensuing year. The final result was as follows: President, Col. W. S. Butterfield, Battle Creek; first vice-president, J. C. Ritter, Detroit; second vice-president, John Cutler, Detroit; secretary, King Perry, Detroit; treasurer, John Brennan, Detroit.

It was decided to discontinue the weekly meetings. There will be two big meetings annually held in Detroit; one, the first Thursday in June and another, the first Thursday in December. All the regular business of the organization will be handled by the board of directors of the association. All exhibitors having suggestions, complaints, criticisms, etc., should either send them direct to the president or should get in touch with him. .Address him 702 City Bank building, Battle Creek, Mich. He is the owner of the Butterfield circuit of theatres in Michigan, and is one of the best known men in theatricals in the United States. He has made a big success of the theatre business, and is bound to conduct a most successful administration, providing the officers, directors and members give him the necessary co-operation. No executive can accomplish results without assistance and co-operation.

The board of directors comprises the officers, and Mr. Phillips of the Majestic-Colonial Theatre Company, Jackson, and Mr. Breecher of the Beecher circuit of theatres in Grand Rapids. It looks like the best line-up the Michigan association has ever had.

Mentions from Milwaukee

THE Four-Minute men and the exhibitors of Milwaukee held a joint luncheon at the Plankinton hotel last week. Alfred Tanzer, general manager of the Milwaukee Exhibitors' Circuit, read letters from Dr. Creel, Herbert Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo which endorsed the work of the motion picture industry for the extent of its patriotic propaganda. They sent a telegram to Washington pledging their loyalty and unanimous support in all patriotic purposes.

THOMAS SAXE and H. J. Fitzgerald spent Wednesday in Chicago on business.

MIKE KAHN made another of his flying trips to Chicago. This week he made sure that he went on Monday so as to escape the horrors of Mayor Thompson's Sunday closing order. All joking aside, Mike reports rushing business on the Lusk tragedy film, the Waukesha love triangle which created universal interest.

"TARZAN OF THE APES" is doing a wonderfful business in Racine and is playing to packed houses in Green Bay.

NORMA TALMADGE is playing at the Toy theatre in "The Secret of the Storm Country." A Mack Sennett comedy is also being shown.

"THE FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS" is drawing large houses at the Davidson theatre and the film is causing much favorable comment.

AT THE PRINCESS THEATRE Virginia Pearson is playing in "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

ON LAST WEDNESDAY Clara Kimball Young closed a four-day engagement at the Butterfly theatre in "The Claw." In this picture she was supported by Milton Sills and Jack Holt. On Thursday Hall Caine's great novel, "The Manx Man," opened a three-day engagement.

"HIT THE TRAIL HOLLIDAY," the famous George M. Cohan story, closed a successful engagement at the Alhambra theatre on Wednesday. On Thursday J. Stuart Blackton's "Missing" returned for a three-day showing. In addition to this there was the community singing directed by Frederick Carberry.

THE BEEHIVE EXCHANGE, of Chicago, is presenting to exhibitors a most unique and entertaining form of entertainment. Everybody remembers the old time songs that were accompanied by highly colored illustrations and as a general rule, a singer that did not know how to sing. The Beehive people have revised this and produced a series of "Songs in Photoplay." All of the popular songs, including patriotic, classical and musical comedy hits are used. All of the well known stars are in these song hits, and as far as shown, they have gone over big with all audiences. When shown at a private showing in Milwaukee, they were very well received. Some of the songs filmed are "Over There," "The Mason-Dixon Line," "Just as Washington Crossed the Delaware General Pershing Will Cross the Rhine," and "On the Road to Home Sweet Home."

J. W. ALLEN of the New York branch of the Paramount Film Company, F. M. Bartelle of the Chicago branch of the same concern and E. Crossman, also of New York, were in Milwaukee over Sunday. While here they inspected the local Paramount exchange.

THE COMMUNITY SINGING which is being held at the Alhambra theatre and which is the first time anything of this kind has been conducted in a motion picture theatre in the country has proved such a success that the management has held it over for the balance of the week.

THINGS ARE SPINNING along fine in the local Universal exchange. The new manager, Mr. Roderick, keeps busy and is seen continually around the building, early morning and late at night, meeting all of the exhibitors, and as a result, he is very well liked at the Universal exchange, one of the most popular in the building.

THE UNIVERSAL FILMS which are doing the best business at the present time are the twenty-six super features which star Dorothy Phillips, Herbert Rawlinson, Harry Cary, Mary McMann and Mae Murray. Mr. Koser, manager of the Ringling theatre in Baraboo, was in town the other day and contracted for the entire Universal program as well as all Bluebird features. The Kosiusko theatre of this city has also signed up for the straight Universal program.

ETHEL CLAYTON is playing at the Merrill theatre this week in "The Man Hunt." In this film she is supported by Tocklifee Fellows.

"THE PRIDE OF THE CLAN," with Mary Pickford as the star, is having its second downtown run at the Toy theatre this week. This Artcraft production has as an added attraction to the program a Mack Sennett comedy.

SO POPULAR proved J. Stuart Blackton's "Missing" that it has been reengaged for a three-day run. The engagement will close Saturday at the Alhambra theatre.

RUBIN AND FINKELSTEIN of Minneapolis were in town this week. The community singing impressed them so that they are endeavoring to engage Mr. Carberry.

Select's Western Managers Hold Peppery Convention in Chicago

THE Select Picture Corporation held their annual convention of Western branch managers in Chicago June 19 and 20. The meetings were held at the Hotel Sherman. Branch managers and their assistants were present from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit; St. Louis, Omaha, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

The convention loomed up as very important on the first day when President Selznick, General Manager A. S. Kane; his assistant, J. J. Rotchford, and J. S. Woody, field manager, made their appearance at the convention, coming from several points of the compass to be present. The two days' sessions were limited to speedy and concerted action. Mr. Selznick opened the convention with a discussion on the future policy and sales plans of the organization. He made some very pleasing and inspiring disclosures to the gathering of managers. Thereafter the meeting was presided over by A. S. Kane, assisted by his lieutenants, Mr. Rotchford and Mr. Woody.

The meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and the spirit, coupled with the wonderful possibilities painted by Mr. Selznick, presented a very optimistic view point for the coming year.

At the close of the business activities on Wednesday, Mr. Selznick entertained at a dinner at the College Inn. A theatre party followed.

An unexpected but fitting climax to the closing session on Thursday was the presence of Miss Constance Talmadge. She stopped off long enough on her trip East to say "hello" and greet every one of the managers personally. She also showered her smiles and pleasantries on the motion picture trade editors of Chicago.

The arrangements for the convention were made by F. C. Aiken, branch manager of the Chicago office. At the termination of the convention managers departed for their respective territories, while Mr. Selznick and Mr. Kane remained in Chicago until the end of the week.

The managers present were: Sam E. Morris, Cleveland; A. M. Muller, Cincinnati; James O. Kent, Detroit; J. C. Ragland, St. Louis; C. W. Taylor, Omaha; A. H. McLaughlin, Kansas City; H. A. Rathner, Minneapolis; C. C. Ezell, Dallas; H. L. Knappen, Denver; B. E. Loper, Los Angeles; H. H. Hicks, San Francisco; H. B. Dobbs, Seattle; Fred C. Aiken and B. W. Beadell, assistant, Chicago.

Grand Rapids Pickups

IN ADDITION to the regular Pathe Weekly News, Manager De Lamaiter of the Ramona theatre has added the official British War Pictures, leased through the Pathe Exchange, under the title, "Britain's Bulwarks." They have met with instant approval. The present week, showing "The Zebrugge Raid," have drawn immense audiences. The series is to run for twelve weeks.

GERARD'S "My Four Years in Germany," which closed at the Majestic Saturday, June 16, did the biggest week's business in the history of the house, and a morning matinee was given for children Saturday. The foyer of the theatre was decorated with the Allied colors and a recruiting station in charge of Army Officers, adjoining the box office was established.

THE WEST COAST

Summer Is Here

¶ Going to slow up because everybody says Summer days are dull days?

¶ Of course not!

¶ We hear you—you are going to redouble your efforts, going to sell twice as hard, because Summer is a time when a man's selling brains are put to the test.

¶ There's one sure way of getting double strength in your punches—back up your salesmen with advertising in The West Coast, back up your circular mail with advertising that is right alongside of the exhibitor's home news.

¶ Let the exhibitor know when your salesman enters that he is salesman for an exchange that has faith enough in its product to advertise it in the paper that

DOMINATES THE FIELD

Communications Pertaining to "The West Coast" Section Should Be Sent to Our
LOS ANGELES REPRESENTATIVE Telephone Pico 780, F 4661 429 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

THE WEST COAST

Denver Goes Wild Over War Productions

WAR pictures have come into their own in the Denver section. Beginning with the success scored by "Over There," successful long-time runs have also been shared in Denver by "Over the Top," "My Four Years in Germany," "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," "The Unbeliever," and others, including the Government's official "Pershing's Crusaders." Now that the Yankees are going over the top in earnest and stemming the German drive in the open, everybody here wants to see pictures that even remotely depict our boys in action.

Under the caption, "The Mobilized Movies," the Rocky Mountain News of Denver recently printed the following editorial:

"There is no better example of admirable adaptation of prewar machinery to war needs than the manner in which the moving picture industry, from the big producers to the local theatre managers, has been mobilized for intelligent and effective service.

"Producers of patriotic films, educational and inspirational, are playing an invaluable part in creating informed sentiment for the nation's cause, but their work is no more important than the contribution of managers in opening their houses to the propaganda of the Four-Minute Men.

"By no other means could this great missionary organization have reached so readily the millions of people who have heard its message night after night since we went to war. Platforms and audiences have been provided in every community in the country, without cost for rent or advertising, thus making possible a continuous campaign for a fighting, war-winning Americanism. The Four-Minute speakers have met cheerful cooperation everywhere from the theatre managers, and President Wilson more than once has expressed his appreciation of this loyal help."

Katterjohn Special Writer for Lasky

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN, author, has concluded arrangements with Jesse L. Lasky by which he becomes a special writer for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to prepare original stories and continuities for release on the Paramount and Artcraft programs. He has already been assigned an office in Lasky Row, and is now busily engaged in laying plans for future productions.

Mr. Katterjohn's first work in his new affiliation is a screen version of "The Source," the Clarence Buddington Kelland story which recently was run serially in the Saturday Evening Post. This production has already been completed by Director George Melford, with an all-star cast, which includes Wallace Reid, Ann Little, Raymond Hatton, Theodore Roberts, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Noah Beery and James Cruze.

Triangle Production as Formerly

PLANS now known to the working staff and preparations for production being made at Triangle, indicate a continuation of former policy of producting organization under direction of H. O. Davis and also that numerous multiple reel subjects of from seven to twelve reels in length are to be made. Script now being prepared by D. C. Goodman for subject titled "The Mayor of Filbert," from book by Charles F. Stocking. This will consist of eight reels or more. No comedies are to be made.

Roy Aitkin arrived at the Coast Tuesday from New York, and will assume management in the absence of his brother, H. E. Aitken, who will remain East indefinitely. O. A. Sellers continues as assistant to the president.

Director Smith Completes One

DIRECTOR DAVID SMITH, of Vitagraph, has completed the filming of Wallace Irwin's story, "A Gentleman's Agreement," featuring Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman.

Director Lynn Reynolds, of Fox Film, and His Son, Who Has Directorial Instincts

Sanborn Laboratories, Incorporated

SANBORN LABORATORIES, INC., is the name of the corporation, successors to the partnership of the same name which for the past two years has been conducting a film developing and printing plant in Los Angeles and Culver City. Under the charter issued by secretary of state of California, Paskel H. Burke and Clyde W. Slater are the principal stockholders and officers. It is a closed corporation capitalized at $75,000.

Sanborn Laboratories was organized more than two years ago, and has built up a business. In addition to doing the negative developing and trial print work for almost a score of West Coast producing companies, this laboratory is making release prints for several other organizations, including the Douglas Fairbanks Film Corporation. The increase in business has made necessary the purchase of a great quantity of additional printing and finishing machinery, and this is now en route to Culver City from the Bell & Howell factory in Chicago.

Denver Promoter Plans New Presentation Stunt

QUITE a unique idea is being framed up by a Denver promoter with the object of stimulating attendance at theatres in this territory. He proposes to line up a circuit of picture theatres, at each of which a small stock company of real actors and actresses will put on the first reel "in the flesh," as a prelude to the screen presentation of similar scenes. As opportunity offers, appropriate vocal and instrumental music will be presented. In other words, the opening scenes of the picture will be as faithfully reproduced as possible by the troupe, which will be engaged for the season and rehearsed weeks in advance of the local showing of the picture, journeying from town to town as the film progresses from point to point around the cirucuit.

What Seattle Exhibitors Say

MIKE ROSENBURG, president of the Du Luxe Feature Film Company, Seattle, has obtained exclusive Northwestern rights for Griffith's sensational picture, "Hearts of the World." He paid the highest price ever paid for the rights of a picture in these parts. The picture will be shown in Seattle, at Levy's Orpheum. Levy is making arrangements for special advertising features. Together with Sol. Lesser of San Francisco, Rosenberg secured the rights for ten other western states, to sell this picture.

EMIL NELSON, of Carlsborg, Washington, recently completed the Liberty theatre there. The new house seats 250 people, while the town itself contains but 200. It is surrounded, however, by large lumber and logging camps. The H. A. Johnson Seating Company has supplied Nelson with the chairs and other furnishings, as well as a Power 6 A.

MISS J. P. DONNELLY has been elected the queen of Film Row, Seattle. While she has all the powers of the Kaiser, on the row, and her subjects will fight for her, her competitors do not wish her to go where he is going. Miss Donnelly is manager of the Bee Hive Exchange, which feature in King Bee and Billy West Comedies. She is the only "female of the species" manager on the Coast and the only non-male state's rights manager in the country. Miss Donnelly opened the first Fox office in Seattle. Later she bought rights to features and incorporated with Lambson Film exchange. Mr. Lambson died a year ago and Miss Donnelly has been for herself since then. She has closed a contract for the Billy West feature with Hammirick, manager of the Rex, Seattle. Mark Goldman, traveling representative of the Billy West features and King Bee Comedies, has left Seattle, after placing Miss Donnelly in charge.

THE H. A. Johnson Seating Company, Seattle, announces that they have reecntly sold a new Power 6 A machine head to Walter McNeish, manager of the Bijou, Tacoma; that they have supplied the new steamer, Verona, with Wisconsin chairs and have furnished the rebuilt steamship, "Flyer," with new furnishings.

THEY have also supplied John Danz, of the Colonial, with a new Minusa, and two 6 A's and a Minusa screen to A. Kaiti, who is opening a new house in Seattle's Japanese section. This house will be one of the finest residence, or rather, out of the business district moving picture houses on the Coast. Mr. Kaiti estimates that it will cost over $10,000 before completed. He is sparing neither money nor time to make it a little palace. It will seat 900.

FRIENDS of W. J. Drummond, who has been sick for a week, were glad to see him back on Film Row. He's feeling better now and you can see his smile coming back at a darn good pace.

AMONG those seen on "the street" lately, were Manager Brown of the Duvall theatre, Duvall, Washington, and Manager Christy of the Melbourne, Tacoma. Christy is enlarging his theatre, from a 400 to an 800-seating capacity.

JACK LANNON, of the Brewster attractions, feels bad because he started on one print of Max Sennett's production and is now forced to give another. Business is not only good, but darn good with Jack.

BLANCHE WASHBURN, starring in the Pathe reel, "Twenty-One," did an excellent business at the Clemmer, Seattle. "The Yellow Ticket," another Pathe, broke another record at Levy's Orpheum, Seattle.

THE Pathe Office in Seattle is having a hard time with its men. They're all good. Uncle Sam wants them and they're glad to help him out. Assistant Bookkeeper Granz and Cashier R. C. Hammer, are now in one of the camps learning how to run and dress in a hurry for breakfast. Shipping Clerk Ed. Hudson is learning to swim. He joined the navy.

Joe Rock, Displaying His Red Cross Badge and Asking for a Donation

Seattle Exchange and Accessory Firms

DE LUXE FEATURE FILM COMPANY
2014 Third Avenue, Seattle 392 Burnside Street, Portland
Booking
Carmen of the Klondike
Song Hits in Photoplays
Fairbanks, Hart, Keenan, and Talmadge Reissues
DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS' "THE GRAIN OF DUST"

"THE WARRIOR" with MACISTE the ITALIAN
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
GREATEST COMEDY DRAMA OF THE YEAR
FLAT RENTALS Washington Oregon Idaho Montana
W. S. BREWSTER ATTRACTIONS
2020 Third Avenue, Seattle, Wash.
"THE BIRTH OF A NATION" "THE CRISIS" "RAMONA"
"THE SUBMARINE EYE" "THE MASQUE OF LIFE"

Paramount-Artcraft
2019 Third Avenue
H. G. Rosebaum Geo. P. Endert

L. J. SCHLAIFER ATTRACTIONS
Distributors of
"PARENTAGE"
"The BIRTH of DEMOCRACY"
"CLEOPATRA"
with Helen Gardner
"IDLE WIVES"
"WAR'S WOMEN"
JESTER—Two Reel
SUPER COMEDIES
FEATURING TWEDE-DAN
2022 THIRD AVENUE
(Film Row)
SEATTLE

GREATER FEATURES COMPANY
2020 Third Avenue
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
Featuring Comedies
"FINE" and "REFINED"
Jack Lannon, Owner

Lantern Slides
J. C. COREY SIGN CO.
3rd & University St., Seattle
Cutouts and Lobby Displays

EXHIBITORS FILM EXCHANGE, INC.
Franchise Holders for the Northwest First National Exhibitors' Circuit
NOW BOOKING
A DOG'S LIFE
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY
TARZAN OF THE APES
THE FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS
THE STILL ALARM
ETC., ETC.
1200 FOURTH AVENUE
F. V. FISHER, Manager

H. B. DOBBS
Branch Manager
Select Pictures
308 Virginia Street

FOR SALE—Three Musketeers, 8 reels; The Princess of Bagdad, 7 reels; Lightning Conductor, 6 reels; Propatria, 5 reels; Uncle Sam's Boys in France, 5 reels of European scenes; What Eight Million Women Want, 4 reels; Unborn, 5 reels; Nell of the Circus, 4 reels; Southern Girl, 4 reels; Garden of Allah, 3 reels; Uncle Sam Preparing; Cleopatra, 6 reels; Wild Animal Hunt, 2 reels, and many other Features; junk dealers save stamps; send for list and prices; deposit for rewind examination. RIALTO FEATURE FILM COMPANY. 218 Seneca St., Seattle, Washington.

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM
Perfection Pictures
W. J. DRUMMOND
Branch Manager
2012 Third Avenue

Bee Hive Exchange
BOOKING
BILLY WEST COMEDIES
MARK GOLDMAN
Northwest Manager
2016 Third Avenue

World Film Corp.
J. A. KOERPEL, Branch Manager 1301 Fifth Avenue

Directory of Los Angeles Exchanges and Supply Houses

HARVEY E. GAUSMAN
Manager
Foursquare Pictures, Inc.
514 W. 8th St., Los Angeles, Cal.
or
So. Cal. and Ariz. Trade

IRVING LESSER
Manager
ALL STAR FEATURE DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
514 West Eighth Street

B. E. LOPER
Branch Manager
Select Pictures
736 South Olive Street

C. J. MARLEY
Branch Manager
Western Triangle Distributing Corporation
900-12 Knickerbocker Bldg.

Pacific Amusement Supply
Sole Southwest Dist. for
NICHOLAS POWER CO.
PRECISION MACHINE CO.
THOS. A. EDISON CO.
800 So. Olive Street

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT
J. J. HALSTEAD
Branch Manager
Marsh-Strong Building

H. F. CHARLES
District Manager
American Photo Player Co.
737 South Olive Street

Mutual Film Corp.
JOE MERRICK
Branch Manager
825-27 South Olive Street

Goldwyn Pictures
BENJAMIN FISH
Branch Manager 912 So. Olive Street

J. SLIPPER & CO.
Projecting Machines
Baird, Simplex, Motiographs
Hertner Transverter
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
728 South Olive Street
Write for Catalog

Perfection Pictures
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
E. H. SILCOCKS
Branch Manager
209 Knickerbocker Building

Peerless Film Service, Inc.
Christie Comedies and Others
Two-Reel W. S. Hart Pictures
The Pick of Two-Reel Keystones
Twenty Six one and two-reel Charlie Chaplin Comedies
HARRY MacINTYRE, Mgr.
802 South Olive Street

M. & R. FEATURE FILM COMPANY
H. W. STUBBINS
Branch Manager
730 South Olive Street

EDWARD H. WATSON
District Manager
SUNSET FILM CORP.
Knickerbocker Building, L.A.
Fairbanks, Hart, Keenan and Talmadge subjects, and Evelyn Nesbit in Redemption

VITAGRAPH
So. California and Arizona
W. H. HEPBURN
Branch Manager
Knickerbocker Building
643 South Olive Street

E. D. TATE, Branch Manager
PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
732 South Olive Street
An Office that Knows its Subjects

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.
Successor to California Film Exchange
DAVID BERSHON, MANAGER.
Distributors of Universal, Jewel and Lois Weber Productions, Blue Bird Photoplays, Century and Lyons & Moran Comedies
822 S. OLIVE ST.

What Exchanges and Theatres Are Doing

THE All-Star Feature Distributors have partially completed their organization for the handling of "Hearts of the World" in the eleven western states, rights for which were recently purchased by Sol. L. Lesser. Richard Marshall, who has been identified with theatrical enterprises in Los Angeles for several years, together with Sam. Powell and L. R. Willard, have been engaged to look after the Southern California territory under the supervision of Irving Lesser and Fred McClennen, for the past thirty years associated with the biggest producers of amusement, will work out of the San Francisco office of the All-Star. McClennen was associated with Lesser in the film business for the first time during the distribution of "Cabiria." Since that time he has conducted a big concession at the San Francisco Exposition, and for three years has been identified with Coney Island attractions.

THE Los Angeles office of the All-Star Feature Distributors has been completely remodeled, which permitted of the enlargement of the projection room and offices of the several departments. In addition, the place was considerably brightened up by the use of paper and paint, and the exchange now presents a very inviting appearance.

These changes were made in order that additional business, anticipated because of several new films being purchased for this territory, could be taken care of most conveniently. Included in the list of new subjects are "Vaudeville Movies," each a single reel of five vaudeville acts which were booked for showing at the Alhambra theatre by Messrs. Fred Miller and Herman Bosley.

THE All-Star Exchange is also handling "Pershing's Crusaders" for the California territory, a government picture, and the first of the official American War Films. At San Francisco, arrangements have been made for an indefinite engagement at the Columbia theatre, where the film will run at least three weeks.

MANAGER SID GRAUMAN of Grauman's theatre, has added an addition to the list of News Weeklies rented each week. He is now using the Gaumont News and the Graphic, as well as both weekly Screen Telegrams. The best of these films are made into one subject and shown as The Grauman News Pictorial.

M. ROY MITCHELL, formerly of the Beach-Krahn Amusement Company of Oakland, California, has been made Supervisor of Camp Entertainment for the Community Motion Picture Bureau of New York. Mr. Mitchell will be stationed at Camp Lewis, Tacoma, Washington, for the present.

UNDER the new management and ownership, Miller's theatre was re-opened Sunday, and has played to good business when hot weather conditions are considered. The first William Russell production, titled "Hearts and Diamonds," was selected by Carl Ray for the feature of his opening bill, and the star accepted Mr. Ray's invitation to make a personal appearance on one or two evenings, inasmuch as he was working on his forthcoming production in Los Angeles this week. The film has been very well received, and the audience has applauded at every performance, numerous times.

Mr. Ray has contracted for all Mutual feature releases for several months to come, and is also using the weekly Strand Comedy release. One of the changes in policy he introduced at the theatre was that of reducing the prices from fifteen, twenty and thirty cents, to ten, twenty and thirty plus war tax.

THE Peerless Film Exchange has contracted with the management of the Palace theatre in Los Angeles for first-run showing of the Sennett-Keystone re-issues, and the first one booked is that of Chaplin's renamed "The Hula Hula Dancer." The others will be shown at this theatre with the weekly change, contract for this service having been made by President E. H. Emmick and Manager Harry MacIntyre.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the coming of Mme. Petrova, who is making a tour of the country for war relief work. Manager T. L. Tally, of a Broadway theatre and the First National Exhibitors' Exchange, is in charge of preparations. Mme. Petrova will appear at the Tally theatre during her stay in Los Angeles, at which time one of her releases will be shown.

THERE has been a persistent rumor circulated in Los Angeles for the past week, that Shubert Theatrical Interests have purchased the lease of the Clune Theatre Company on the Auditorium, which for more than three years has been conducted as a motion picture house. The building and equipment is owned by the Baptist Association and the Auditorium is used Sunday for religious purposes.

N. F. DOBBS of Portland, traveling auditor of the Mutual Film Corporation, is spending a week with Los Angeles Branch Manager Joe Merrick, and looking after general business interests of the Mutual.

THREE hours after the first prints of the Chester Outing pictures had been received in Los Angeles, Manager Joe Merrick of the Mutual Exchange had a contract for their first run in Los Angeles, which was secured from Sid Grauman, managing director of Grauman's theatre.

This Is Not a Southern Scene, But Merely An Illustration of What Becomes of the Watermelons Grown In Colorado. H. I. Rosefield, Manager of World Film In Denver, Is Doing His Share to Keep the Crop from Going to Waste

Joplin Changes Name of Denver Supply Company

H. A. JOPLIN, who recently acquired the business and entire holdings of the Swanson & Nolan Supply Company, Denver, Colo., has filed an amendment to his articles of incorporation changing the name of the corporation to "The Mountain-Plains Theatre Supply Company." Mr. Joplin also announces that his new 1500-page catalogue is off the press and will be mailed to every distributor throughout the Middle West and West within a short period. The new compilation is considered a masterpiece of the printing and engraving arts, detailing all accessories, including projecting machines, carried in stock by the new concern. It is very complete and reflects credit on its compilers.

Mr. Joplin also announces that his new reception room, fitted up with a post office and other conveniences for visiting exhibitors, is now completed.

Introductions Were in Order

LARRY SEMON, director and star of one of the two Big V. comedy companies at the Vitagraph Hollywood studios, had his company working on location for the past two weeks. So early did the Semon company leave the plant that even Studio Manager W. S. Smith scarcely ever got to see them until their return from location until the light gets "yellow"; viz., about 5 o'clock. Semon had his company at Catalina all of the past week.

Denver, Colorado, Exchanges

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation
WALTER S. RAND, Manager
1440 Welton Street, Denver, Colo.

Metro Pictures Corporation
AND
Screen Classics Inc. Productions

Harry Lustig
Supervising Western Exchanges

Exchanges	Branch Manager
LOS ANGELES	HARRY G. BALLANCE
DENVER	CHARLES KLEIN
SALT LAKE CITY	A. B. LAMB
SEATTLE	CARL STEARN
SAN FRANCISCO	LOUIS REICHERT

DUHEM
MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO.
Films Made to Order
EXPERT DEVELOPING, PRINTING AND COLORING
CAMERA OUT-FITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED
CAMERA MEN SENT ANYWHERE
985 Market Street, San Francisco, California

Titles
Inserts
Commercial Printing
H. C. JACOBSMEYER CO.
Formerly
Motion Picture Title Co.
Bdwy 1153
Home 10525
631 S. Spring St.
Los Angeles.

CAMBRIA SPRING COMPANY
"Quality First"
Auto and Truck Springs, Wheels, Rims and Bumpers
General Blacksmithing
"Largest Spri n Factory on t h Pacific Coast"
Forging Made and Frames Straightened
Phones: Main 1076 Home F-5233 916-918 So. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, Cal.

MOUNTED POSTERS RENTED
5c Per Sheet
Southern California
Poster Rental Co.
804 South Olive Street
Los Angeles

Los Angeles Can Co.
Manufacturers of
FILM CASES
303 San Fernando Blvd.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Sunset East 359 Home 10669

THEATRE SETTINGS
We Have Installed Hundreds From $100 to $10,000 Each
BEST SCREENS, SCENERY
EDW. H. FLAGG SCENIC CO.
Largest in the World
Los Angeles San Francisco

WINFIELD-KERNER COMPANY
Established 1905
Manufacturers of Actinic Ray Arc Lamps for Motion Picture Producers and Photographers. Effect Lamps and equipment. Resistance and Magnet Coils made to order.
Phones: Pico 2646 A 2215
325-27 E. Sixth St., Los Angeles

Directory of San Francisco Exchanges and Supply Houses

Sol Lesser's Greatest Achievement
D. W. Griffith's Greatest Production

"Hearts of the World"

In addition to our great stock of box office winners
Let us supply your theatre

ALL STAR FEATURES DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
SOL. L. LESSER, President

191 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco
514 West Eighth Street, Los Angeles

PEERLESS FILM SERVICE
INCORPORATED

100 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco
802 South Olive Street, Los Angeles

Christie Comedies—A new one each week
28 Two reel Mack Sennett Keystone Comedies
26 One and Two reel Charles Chaplin Comedies
35 Mutt and Jeff Cartoon Comedies

TURNER and DAHNKEN
BRANCH OF
FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.,
Music Rolls Exchanged—Supplies of All Kinds
134 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California

M. H. LEWIS
Branch Manager
Paramount-Artcraft

SELECT PICTURES
Clara Kimball Young
Norma Talmadge
Alice Brady
Constance Talmadge
Third Floor
985 Market Street

G. A. METCALFE
Distributor
POWER'S MACHINES
SPEER CARBONS
117 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

PERFECTION PICTURES
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
M. J. COHEN
Branch Manager
183 Golden Gate Avenue

News of Spokane

A. H. McMILLAN of the Metro Company, formerly of the Vitagraph, was in Spokane this week.

RECENT bookings at the Liberty theatre include: Select production of Clara Kimball Young in "Marionettes," June 16; Paramount production of Billie Burke in "The Land of Promise," Thursday, June 20; Artcraft, Douglas Fairbanks in "Say, Young Fellow," Sunday, June 23; First National, "Alimony," Thursday, June 27; Paramount, Sunday, June 30, Billie Burke in "Arms and the Girl;" Universal, Dorothy Phillips in "Risky Road;" Pathe, Fannie Ward in "The Yellow Ticket," Sunday,

M AND R

730 SO. OLIVE ST., L. A.
107 GOLDEN GATE AVE., S. F.

NOW BOOKING
THE EYES OF THE WORLD

A CYCLONIC WHIRLWIND—From the Story by Harold Bell Wright.

Ramona—Story of Early California. From the Story by Helen Hunt Jackson.

The Avenging Conscience, with the Clansman Cast.

The Warrior—Featuring Maciste.

McClure's—Geo. Loane Tucker Production, Mother.

Life or Honor?—Featuring Violet Palmer, James Morrison, Leah Baird.

Married in Name Only, with Milton Sills.

One Law for Both—Featuring Rita Jolivet, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison.

Sins of Ambition—Featuring Barbara Castleton.

R. B. QUIVE
Branch Manager
VITAGRAPH
985 Market Street
Fifth Floor

July 7; Thursday, July 11, Madam Petrova, directed by Larry Trimble, in "The Light Within."

Others booked are William Hart in "Short Monroe," his first sea picture; Dorothy Dalton in "Love Me;" Norma Talmadge in "By Right of Purchase;" Elsie Ferguson in the "Song of Songs;" Clara Kimball Young in the "House of Glass," and Norma Talmadge in "De Luxe Annie."

CHANGES in the managership of the Titan Film Company have already taken place. Frank Montgomery has severed his connection with the company and J. Don Alexander, president of the company, is looking about for a good man to succeed him.

THE Washington Motion Picture Company has secured the services of Mitchell Lewis to take the lead in their first production, in place of Tyrone Power who has gone to California for his health. He is suffering from a nervous breakdown.

SAMUEL W. B. COHN has returned from a three-days' trip to Seattle.

THE production of "The Unbeliever, at the Auditorium, under the management of J. W. Allender, was marked by most effective stunts. Mrs. W. H. Ziegeler and Jane Tyrell gave a patriotic selection and one of the four-minute men made an address. Mrs. Lester Edge was shown as the Goddess of Liberty and Miss Katherine Clark and a group of society girls were in Red Cross costume as nurses. "The Unbeliever" has had a great run and all the papers acclaim it as the greatest war film shown here so far.

In and Around Denver

H. L. KNAPPEN, Denver manager for Select, went to Chicago to attend the annual meeting of Western managers of that organization. Having in mind Chicago's reputation for extreme torridity during the "dog days" period, Mr. Knappen brushes up his two suits of Palm Beach toggery which he used to wear down in Atlanta while holding the General Film portfolio in the Southern metropolis last year.

"BROADWAY SCANDAL," latest Carmel Meyers feature, went over the top at the Strand Theatre in Denver during a recent three days' engagement.

P. P. EDWARDS of Worland, Wyo., controlling head of four houses, announces that "The Kaiser" cleaned up everything in sight in his string of theatres.

FRED CAMERON, of the Lyric at Albuquerque, has booked the two-a-month Bluebird specials, beginning with "Smashing Through."

H. B. BRENNAN, traveling auditor for General, is in Denver.

ADVANCE bookings of the two-reel special, "The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21," are big, according to G. W. Whitney, manager for General. The first print is now dated up to August 21. Mr. Whitney is planning to call on all exhibitors in this territory within the next few weeks.

R. H. M'CLUSKEY, who started the old Hippodrome in Denver and who also owned the lease where the old United States Theatre, now the Rialto, stands, has severed his connections as road salesman for General and opened the Princess Theatre at Hoisington, Kansas.

PATHE'S new pictures, "The Yellow Ticket" and "Moral Suicide," have been booked by Sam Baxter of the Denver Isis.

M. C. COHN and H. I. Krause have returned from San Francisco, where they attended the recent convention of Western managers of Paramount-Artcraft.

J. F. LYNCH, of the Rex and Sterling at Greeley, and W. C. Le Master, owner of the Opera House Theatre at Victor, were recent Denver visitors.

GLEN MILLER has closed the Amuse-U Theatre at Goldfield, Colo., and is now in Iowa on a vacation.

GEORGE D. HAYES, traveling representative out of Salt Lake for the Denver Mutual, and Arthur Johnson, local traveling representative, arrived in Denver last week in connection with the campaign on the new Sessue Hayakawa productions and the Outing Travel pictures. This is the first visit to Denver by Mr. Hayes in several years.

Theatres Changing Hands

CALIFORNIA

Fred A. and Roy G. Miller have sold their theatre property, "Millers," at Los Angeles, to Carl Ray, and the new management has rechristened the house the "California." Lee Lazelle has been appointed manager.

R. J. Bauer of Redding has purchased the Dreamland Theatre from Mrs. Jane Olney.

Al. Henze and J. W. Thomas have purchased the Empire Theatre, Fifth street, San Pedro, from Nathan Mann.

Eric J. Segerstrom, abstract man and insurance agent, has purchased the Sonora picture theatre interests of Ben Shaw, and will assume active management of the house.

Dorner and Dice have purchased from J. L. Bentwell the Sunbeam Motion Picture Theatre at Highland Park.

William R. Swickhard has leased the Crown Theatre at Sawtelle from J. W. Lamphere.

Bent St. John has succeeded Warren F. Lemon as manager of Clune's Auditorium, Los Angeles.

F. W. Rodgers and F. B. Vincent have taken over the management of the Maywood Opera House from former Manager Case.

OREGON

J. D. Meyer, of the firm of Meyer & Lieter, owners of the Arcade and Star Theatres, La Grande, having been drafted, has relinquished the management of both houses to Mrs. Leiter.

WASHINGTON

Melville Adam, proprietor of the Liberty Theatre, Northport, has enlisted, and in his absence the theatre will be conducted by his father, Charles Adam, and sister, Irene.

Wilbur E. Moon has sold the Rex Theatre, Ritzville, to Frank P. Egan, a prominent farmer of that neighborhood.

Salt Lake City Exchanges

W. A. CALKINS, Branch Manager

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.

D. PURDY, Representative — 64 Exchange Place

SUNSET FILM LABORATORIES

(Successors to Bill Horsley Laboratories)

Holly 3693. Sunset Blvd. and Gower St. 579963

Developing Printing Tinting

Highest quality laboratory work promptly executed

Equipped to handle print work and give it personal attention. Our guarantee for satisfaction is backed by ten years' laboratory experience.

Holly 2752

CROSBY FILM LABORATORIES

Developing, Printing, Tinting, Toning and Special Films Made to Order

5813-27 Santa Monica Boulevard

JAMES A. CROSBY Los Angeles, Cal.

Yes, we are now ready for business in our new home.

Slides and Film as you want them, when you want them.

L. A. SLIDE & FILM CO.

4th Floor HENNE 122 W. 3rd St.

Telephone: Hollywood 1290

GEORGE W. CHAPMAN CO.

Incorporated

EVERYTHING IN MOVING PICTURE PROPS.

Specialties: Miniature Sets and Plaster Breakaways

5155 SANTA MONICA BOULEVARD

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Portland, Oregon, Exchanges

General Film Company, 390 Burnside Street

Paralta Plays—Chaplin Comedies—O. Henry and Judge Brown Pictures

GEORGE J. EKRE, Branch Manager

Service Film & Supply Company

Biggest Supply House in the Northwest

393 Oak Street — Everything for the Theatre

Mutual Film Corp.

GEO. E. JACKSON

Branch Manager

401-403 Davis Street

C. M. HILL

Branch Manager

Paramount—Artcraft

9th and Burnside Streets

Place Your Ads. In The West Coast Section. You Won't Regret It.

Men Who KNOW

If you wish to learn of the merits of the Bloom System ask any of the well known camera men named below:

DAL CLAWSON
Haworth Productions

PERCY HILBURN
Goldwyn Company

ROBERT DORIAN
Rolin-Pathe Comedies

WALTER LUNDEEN
Rolin-Pathe Comedies

ROY KLAFFKI
Lois Weber Productions

WILLIAM ALDER
Astra Company

GEORGE RIZARD
Astra Company

THOS. CRIZER
Rolin Head Cutter

These men have had intimate opportunity to discover whether we deliver first quality laboratory work and to a man they will recommend our work. These men know.

Bloom Film Laboratories

7520 Sunset Blvd.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Holly 4015 Home 577618

Portland News and Gossip

C. B. HUBER recently assumed management of the Grand theatre, Sunnyside, Wash., succeeding Virgil Adams.

THE Peoples theatre, Athena, Ore., will be closed during the summer.

LUE VERNON, jovial jongler who plays the pictures all over the Northwestern territory, is at present playing at the Lyric, at Chehalis.

W. H. Dobson, formerly of Lincoln, Neb., is in the Oregon territory looking over the theatre situation, with a view to locating here.

C. A. SWANSON has leased and will remodel the Everett theatre, Everett, Wash.

E. I. WURMAN has opened a new theatre at Lamont, Wash.

A. G. SIEBERT, manager of the Mt. Vernon, Wash., theatre, is reported to have sold his house.

THE film theatre at Odessa, Wash., was destroyed by fire not long ago. F. C. WESKIL, owner of the theatre in North Power, Ore., has leased the Haines theatre, Haines, Ore., from Dodd, Ashman and De Vall.

GEORGE G. BECK of Portland Blakely, Wash., has closed his theatre for the summer.

GEORGE BLIGH of Salem and S. Danz of Astoria were recent visitors along Portland's film row.

THE lure of film exhibition has hooked another exchange man. This time it's Walter W. Kofeldt, Northwest manager for Pathe, who has deserted the Seattle Pathe office to direct the destinies of the Majestic theatre of Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND is again to be the home of a Pathe film exchange. B. J. Sperry, Portland manager in the days prior to the desertion of the Rose City, has resigned from the Paramount-Artcraft to take charge of the Portland office, which will be opened within a few days.

C. M. HILL, Portland manager of the Progressive Motion Picture Company, is back from a convention of Western managers held at San Francisco.

JOE DEITCH, of the Northwestern Consolidated Film Corporation of Seattle, was active in the Oregon territory this month. He handles the serial, "The Eagle's Eye," Bruce scenes, Katzenjammer and Happy Hooligan cartoons, Gaumont News and Gaumont Graphics.

F. A. BERNARDO, of World Film, was in Portland recently with "The Torch Bearer." A special showing for exhibitors was staged at the Hippodrome theatre.

O. ANDERSON has placed the Grand theatre, Rainier, on the market. Other business has demanded that he leave Rainier.

DON MEYERS, of Meyers and Leiter, exhibition magnates of La Grande, Ore., expects to join the draft army any day.

L. M. MARTIN, machinist in the navy, and owner of the Peoples theatre, Athena, was through Portland recently, en route to Athens, to arrange for the disposal of the fine equipment of his house.

FRANK B. INGALLS, of Wasco, Ore., installed an aerodome in that town during Colt Show week in June.

ALL attendance records for the Liberty theatre, Portland, were broken during the week's screening of the U. S. Marine photoplay, "The Unbeliever." The Marines utilized the theatre as a recruiting station, made appeals from the stage, paraded the streets with a float, attracted crowds with volleys of rifle fire and make appeals for recruits, and aroused the public to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

W. B. ARMSTRONG, manager of the Strand theatre, pulled a hot weather stunt for the opening of the comedy, "We Should Worry," that pulled many a dollar into the box office. He bought a 300-pound chunk of ice and placed it in the lobby, with a huge billiken squatting on it. Sweltering crowds surrounded the ice all day.

W. A. VAN SCOY'S latest art picture, "Come Watch With Me the Night," is attracting unusual attention. He secured some magnificent shots of the moon and clouds, and used lines from famous poems as subtitles. It's a Liberty theatre special.

ON the last morning of the showing of "The Unbeliever," Manager Myrick turned the Liberty over to the Marines and the Oregon Committee for the Relief of Children in Belgium in France, for a special showing of the production, with a concert by Henry B. Murtagh. Several hundred dollars were raised for the fund.

J. B. SPARKS' film theatre, the Opera House, at Heppner, Ore., was burned down recently, in a fire which consumed several business houses and half a dozen residences. Fire started in one of the business houses. Mr. Sparks, who lives at Condon, owns the Star theatre at Heppner and the American at Condon.

L. DOONAR of Bend, Ore., formerly with the Liberty theatre of that town, is thinking of getting back into the game and has been investigating propositions near Portland.

HARRY HUMPHREY has sold his theatre at Stayton, Wash., to C. A. Luthy, and has joined the army.

Accelerate —and Your Business Profits Will Also

¶ Sitting back and waiting for someone to find out that you have the best stuff on the market brings no business.

¶ Go out after the trade and it's ten to one you "bring home the bacon" if you can deliver the goods.

¶ West Coast advertisers have found out that one of the best ways to go over the top, especially in summer, is through the columns of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

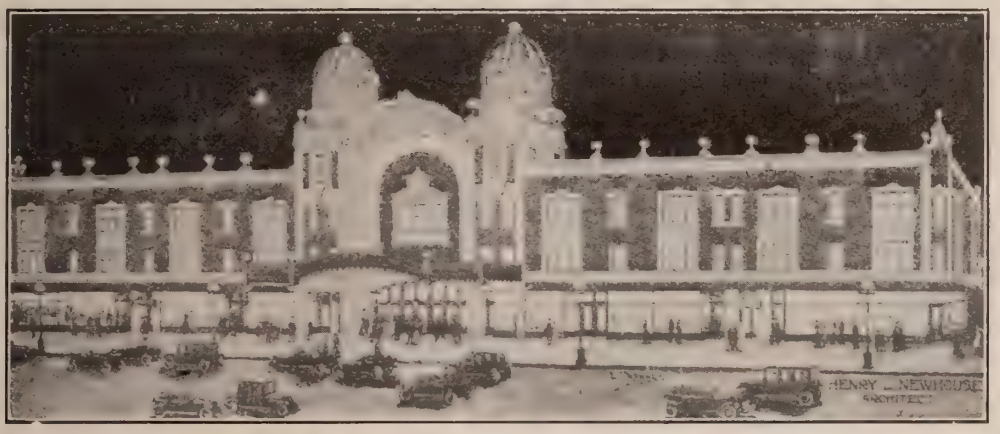
¶ Those who are not advertisers are among the missing that dropped out of sight in "No Man's Land." But you are not in that company.

¶ If you have anything to say—

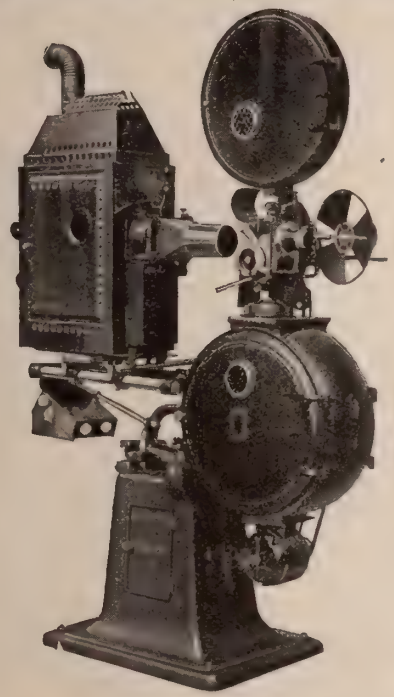
This Is The Place To Say It

Accessory News

– SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS –



The Howard Theatre, Chicago



Chicago's newest and most magnificent Photo-play Theatre uses

Motiograph De Luxe

Seavers & Zahler, lessees of the new Howard Theatre, selected Motiographs, knowing their ability to give perfect results, having given them a severe test in the famous Karlo Theatre, Chicago.

You may give your Theatre a gorgeous effect from decoration and lights but don't overlook the Booth; equip it with the best projection—THE MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE — and every patron will be satisfied with the projection.

Write for Motiograph Literature

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.

561 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Illinois

WHITE A.C. SPECIAL

MOTION PICTURE CARBONS

Prove Their Merit for Alternating Current Projection

White A. C. Special Carbons have made good the claims made for them from the very day they were placed on the market. Hundreds of voluntary letters from all parts of the country testify to that fact. These carbons have met the requirements so exactly that they are now the standard of alternating current carbons.

The White A. C. Special Carbons give the penetrating, pure white, flickerless light so necessary for even screen illumination and clear, sharply defined pictures. In using these carbons no new equipment is necessary. Simply put in a trim of the new carbons.

FOR DIRECT CURRENT PROJECTION

THE SILVERTIP IS THE STANDARD NEGATIVE CARBON.
IT GIVES A STEADY ARC WITH MAXIMUM BRILLIANCY

SEND TODAY FOR OUR CIRCULARS

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio

DU PONT AMERICAN INDUSTRIES

Seats that Stay Beautiful

Here is a theatre seat that will be beautiful after years of hard service because it is covered with Du Pont Fabrikoid, which does not wear shabby and is absolutely unaffected by water, grease, stains, dust or perspiration.

Du Pont Fabrikoid Co.
Wilmington, Del.
Canadian Factory and Office
New Toronto, Ont.

No. 248
Made by

Wisconsin Cabinet & Panel Co.

105 W. 40th St.
New York

DU PONT

The importance of safe-guarding a reputation is not under-estimated at the Eastman factories.

EASTMAN FILM

means a film that is absolutely dependable and uniform—rigid tests and careful inspection prevent its ever meaning anything else.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Accessory News

SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. Kendall Gillett.....Editor

Alfred S. Cory.....Technical Editor

The Operator Problem

THE natural result of high wages in one industry where men of varying ability are employed and a lower scale in another where the same ability is necessary, means that the progressive ones will leave the one and go to the other. This is only natural, but the question at once is asked as to the future of the industry which is losing its good men, as they are the ones which count in the end, for the places of second raters can always be easily filled. It is the good men that are scarce.

The position of the operator today is exactly this: They have been holding down jobs, which in peace times were fair, but today with other industries crying for men, and offering far greater monetary inducements, these jobs are no longer to be considered in the same breath. The next move must be taken by the theatre men. Either they must come up with more money or go out and hunt for substitutes who must be taught to do the honors in the booth.

Here comes the hardest problem of all—the teaching. In the first place, the operator should be required by law to be an electrician at least with sufficient knowledge to make all necessary electrical connections and repairs. He must know a motor generator from a rheostat and the uses of both, as well as being able to repair the minor troubles which are apt to occur. These men are hard to get even in the best of times, but just now they are harder than ever.

A man who can merely thread a machine, strike an arc and throw out the dowser is not an operator—he is an impostor and should be barred by law as well as by the union, if he is a union man. The average graduate of an operators' school is just this kind of human and should be made to act as an apprentice for months before being given charge of booth, and then only after the stiffest kind of an examination.

In New York and other large ciites the unions dominate the situation. Here the good man with the knowledge is no better off than the man who knows nothing, as far as standing is concerned. Their names are thrown into a hat, so to speak, and when a job is open the man who is drawn takes it. He may be good or he may be absolutely worthless—the employer is none the wiser until he has tried him out, and perhaps suffered as a result of this lack of knowledge.

With this in mind why should not the good men leave the industry when better things are offered? How much better it would be if there were three classifications so that the good men could be in Class A, having passed certain examinations to qualify; the next best men in Class B, etc. This would also mean graded rates of minimum pay which would attract the good men and influence those who wish to benefit themselves so that they would study and work to be included in the next higher classification. From the exhibitor's viewpoint he would be benefited as well, for he would put in his application for a man at a given rate which he could afford to pay, with a result that he would get a man capable of earning that amount.

It must be understood that every man before he be admitted to any grade should pass examinations and also act as an apprentice for a given length of time so that every graded operator would be capable of properly running a show—what else he would be able to do would depend on his advanced knowledge, which would be shown by the grade he had attained.

By doing this the wage scale could be so arranged that the good men would not leave the industry, as they would be receiving wages comparable with those paid in other lines of work where the same skill is required. These increases of the minimum would then apply to the good men in Grades A and B, and not to the poor ones of which we are honored with many.

The bringing about of a condition of this kind is perfectly possible, but whether it will ever be done is another question, for as in all cases of this kind the final decision is with the majority, and as usual the majority are the second raters, who either are not capable themselves or who are too short-sighted to see the advantages and the possibility of their advancement.

This is what we believe should be done, but with conditions as they are today the question is—what is to be done?

Men are actually leaving this industry for some other. They cannot be restrained by any of their present affiliations which are only held in high esteem by them while they are actually employed where these ties can be of actual assistance.

One operator, whose opinion I respect, told me that the trouble lay in the fact that the theatre men in general cannot afford to pay very much more money. He stated that they have not got it. Therefore, he said the answer is that there are too many theatres—some must go out of business. This would mean more profits for those that are left, which would mean the ability to pay higher wages, with a lessening demand for men, as the number of possible positions would be fewer.

If the number of theatres remain as they are with salaries as they are, then the places must be filled with inferior operators poorly trained and with a decided lack of knowledge. This means a need of immediate action on the part of all. It means rushed instruction—it means co-operation—it means that all must take up the burden together and work for the common good. In some quarters women have been pressed into service, but it seems to us that this should be a last resort, as the operating of a projector in the average booth is a man's job and then some. A woman could not stand the continual heat and the incessant strain on the nerves.

Therefore, we should get men somewhere, and after the standard is set by law as to the extent of actual knowledge demanded of them, the various elements in the industry must combine in some way and see to it that this standard is attained by all who operate a machine. No one branch of the industry—theatre men—operators—or film companies should alone be held responsible for this training—all have a good argument why the others should take up the burden, but these arguments are all in vain, for each branch is so closely tied up in the solution of the problem, and the bread and butter of all depend upon it to such an extent, that they must work together and see that the industry is supplied with the requisite number of competent operators.

E. K. Gillett.

Equipment Operating — Projection — Questions Answered

Chapters on Intermittent Movements—II

The Power Movement

IN a previous article we described and analyzed the characteristics and action of the Geneva-stop, or star and cam, type of intermittent movement, which is in extensive use in motion picture projectors, and we have now to present an analysis of the Power intermittent movement, which has also come into wide usage as it forms the most important integral of the well known Power projector mechanism.

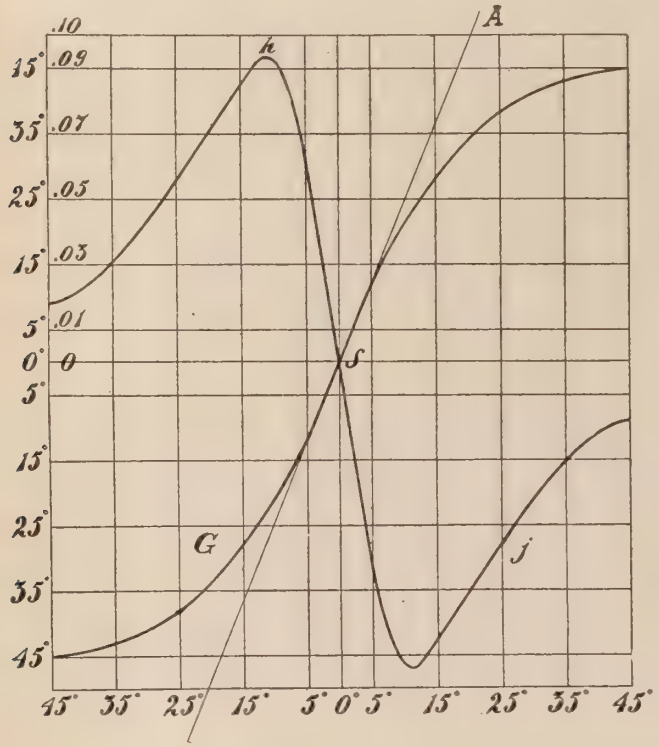


Fig. 1

In order to bring more clearly before the reader the characteristic differences in design and action between the Power intermittent movement and the Geneva-stop movement, it will be convenient to first point out again a few characteristics of the Geneva movement and its mode of operation.

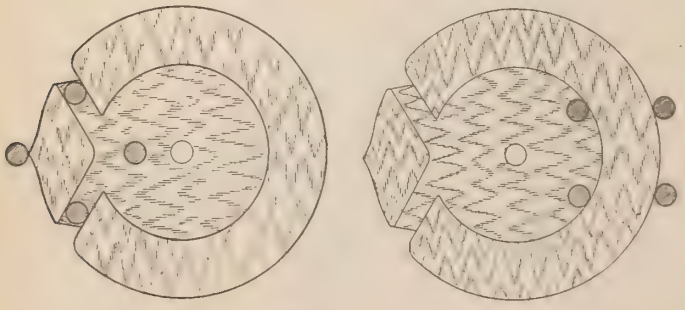

Fig. 2

With the customary four-slot Geneva intermittent the movement of the film is accomplished in exactly one-quarter of a revolution of the pin-wheel, or cam. If the star-wheel were made with five slots instead of four, the film would be moved down one picture space in one-fifth of the revolution of the pin-wheel, or, as it is usually expressed, with a four-slot star, the movement of the film is accomplished in a 90° rotation of the flywheel, while with a five-slot Geneva the substitution of each successive picture represents a rotation of the flywheel through an angle of 72°. With the four-slot Geneva movement, therefore, the film is stationary before the projection aperture three-fourths of the time and is in movement one-fourth of the time, and with the five-slot Geneva the film is transmitted to the screen during four-fifths of the succession interval and is in movement during one-fifth of the interval.

It is true that a somewhat greater ratio than .25 to .75 can be imparted to the four-slot star, but this results either in a wide departure from a strict radial entry of the cam-pin into the star slots, or else in lost motion (due to incomplete locking) during a certain fraction of the period of rotation of the star-wheel, these conditions resulting in undue wear on the intermittent movement, and in unsteady projection, respectively.

Coming now to the analysis of the Power movement as compared with the four-slot Geneva movement, we examine the diagram Fig. 1, in which the horizontal line denotes time while the verti al lines represent the movement of the film by the intermittent. The curve G represents the velocity of rotation of the Geneva movement (the star-wheel) at any instant during one complete rotation of the pin-wheel, and shows that at the commencement of the engagement of the pin in the star-slot, the increase in the velocity of travel of the film across the aperture is very small; but a great increase in the velocity of movement of the film commences at the point h. At the point S the velocity of travel of the film has reached a maximum, and then decreases rapidly in velocity during a short period extending to j, coming finally to rest at its zero position designated by plus 45° in the diagram Fig. 1.

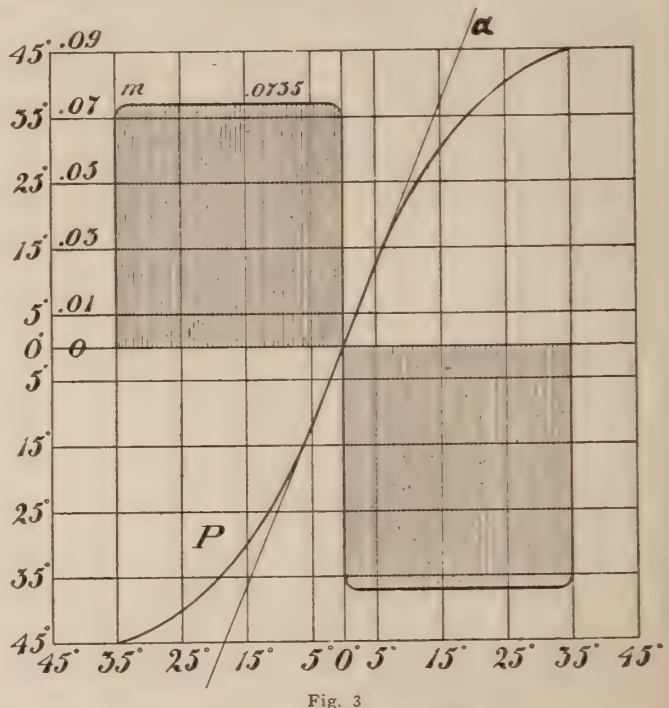

Fig. 3

Thus it is seen that the work of moving the film is almost entirely accomplished by the Geneva in the short period between h and j, and that little power is transmitted to the film at the beginning or at the end of the movement. The total strain of acceleration and retardation of the film thus occurs during that fraction of the period of movement which is represented between h and j in Fig. 1, and reaches a maximum at the very middle of the movement interval, resulting in a sudden and very considerable strain on the perforations of the film.

To avoid this strain upon the film, and to apply the force required to move successive pictures in a more even manner, Mr. Nicholas Power designed the intermittent movement shown in Fig. 2. It is seen that this movement differs radically from the star and cam in that the slots of the customary star-wheel are replaced by four pins mounted at the extremities of the arms of a cross, which is a part of the spindle carrying the intermittent sprocket. The pin of the customary pin-wheel is likewise replaced, in the Power movement, with a diamond-shaped stud, or cam, which traverses the pins in the manner shown, imparting to them a rotary movement of much different character than that of the four-slot star-wheel. As the other drawing in Fig. 2 shows, the large ring forming the circumferential portion of the Power cam, revolves in contact with the two pairs of pins forming the driven member, thus locking the movement during the period while each picture is being projected.

The Power intermittent is not limited to any particular ratio between the periods of rest and movement, the cam being capable of alteration in design so as to produce a movement of any desired angular extent. The velocity of travel of the film at any instant during the period of movement of the Power intermittent is shown diagrammatically in Fig. 3, which shows, upon comparison with Fig. 1, that the initial part of the period of movement m is utilized to better advantage in accelerating the film than in the case of the Geneva movement, thus relieving the interval represented by h in Fig. 1 of its excessive velocity of travel.

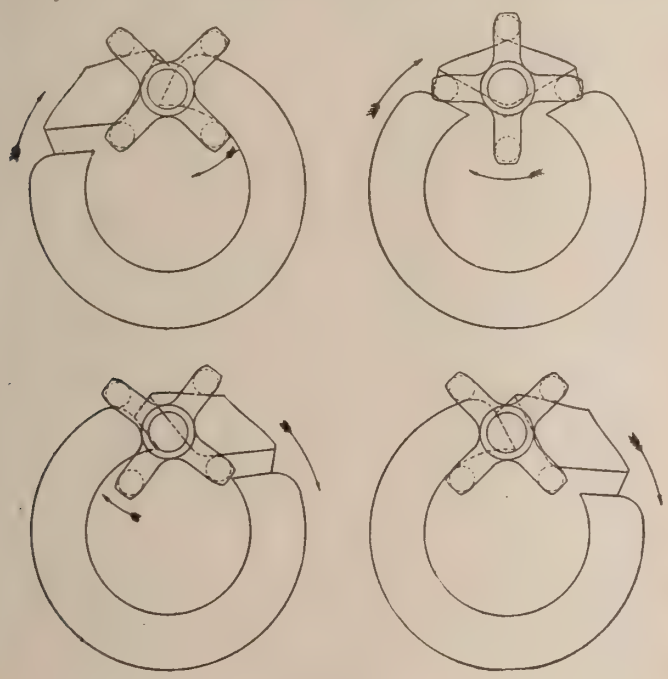

Fig. 4

The result of this more even distribution of the power from the flywheel to the intermittent, and from the intermittent to the film, is that while the velocity of travel of the film across the aperture is greater at the beginning of the period of movement than in the case of the Geneva movement, the velocity of travel is not so great at the middle of the movement period, and as the maximum velocity of movement is applied gradually to the film by the Power movement, instead of abruptly as with the Geneva, it is apparent that the breaking down strain on the sprocket holes must be less. The relative decrease in the strain imposed upon the film by the Power movement, as against that imposed by the customary four-slot Geneva movement, may be gauged by comparing the steepness of the angle a, Fig. 3, with that of the angle A, Fig. 1. This decrease in the strain upon the film during its period of movement is secured notwithstanding the fact that the Power movement accomplishes the complete shifting of a film picture (¾ inch) in a shorter time interval than does the four-slot Geneva, the movement of a film image by the Power intermittent corresponding to an angular rotation of the flywheel of 72°.

As all operators who have studied the Power intermittent are aware, the driving element (the cam) and the driven member (the cross bearing the four pins) both rotate in the same direction, whereas in the case of the Geneva movement the cam, or pin-wheel, rotates in one direction while the star-wheel (or driven member) rotates in the opposite direction. A cycle of movements of the Power intermittent is shown in Fig 4, which will make clear the exact manner in which the even application of force throughout the entire period of movement of the film is accomplished. It will also be realized that inasmuch as the complete movement of a film picture is accomplished during an angular movement of the flywheel corresponding to 72°, the obscuring blade of the projector shutter may be made smaller than in the case of the customary four-slot star-wheel, whose period of movement, corresponding to 90° (or very nearly that) will require a shutter with wider obscuring blade.

Lucas of Atlanta Conducts Mail-Order Supply Business by Live-Wire Methods

HARRY K. LUCAS, general manager of the Lucas Theatre Supply Company, 158 Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga., who lately spent several days in New York City for the purpose of buying accessory supplies, has become known as one of the most successful distributors of the Simplex projection machine. Mr. Lucas lately established a record by disposing of two carloads of Simplex projectors in twenty-six days. This achievement is the outcome of ten years' experience in the business and the adherence to a well-defined sales policy.

Mr. Lucas, who has been designated as "a high voltage wire of the livest sort," owns one of the most complete supply houses in the country, not excepting those in New York and Chicago.

Although the Lucas Company operates in ten states, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, Southern Virginia and Texas, no road salesmen are employed, nor is the firm dependent upon dealers for its sales. Everything is conducted by mail from its headquarters in Atlanta.

This has been made possible by the inauguration of a sales plan worked out in detail.

Mr. Lucas is a believer in printer's ink, and lots of it, to obtain the best results. He dips deeply into it on all occasions. It is nothing for him to have struck off twenty thousand pamphlets or envelope inserts at one time and he never prints less than ten thousand of anything that seems well worth while having printed at all. Perhaps these quantities don't seem very large, compared with the printed matter issued by large film companies, but Mr. Lucas's sphere of operation is confined to only one section of the country. With this in mind, it can be readily seen that he uses a great deal of printed matter in the course of a year.

Fig. 1—Where "Hakilu" Film Cement Is Made

One of his principal means of keeping in touch with customers, old and new, is a lively little house organ. It is merely a four leaf pamphlet, but like the organs in up-to-date picture theatres, it makes itself heard effectively. It is called the "Cosiki" and according to the announcement on the cover it is "published in an effort to enlighten the skeptical." It comes out once a month and contains timely hints on all material needed by theatres. In every number appears a signed editorial by Mr. Lucas on whatever topic is uppermost in the minds of theatre men at the time.

He is always bringing out something new in the way of envelope inserts. Now it will pertain to his Hakilu oil, or then it will be an announcement reminding theatre managers of his repair department. All these notices are made distinctive by the use of halftones and line cuts, and terse phraseology. For instance, take the matter of carbons. The manager on opening his mail some morning is greeted with the following, "Have you been stung? Hundreds have. Then don't let the same bee sting you twice." In the upper left hand corner is an illustration of a bee, with a long businesslike stinger, and an expression of tense earnestness showing that the bee has his mind on his work. With the attention of the prospective buyer thus gained, Mr. Lucas then goes on to show in a few words how one can save money by buying his carbons.

A long range bombardment is kept up with these inserts through the mails. Mr. Lucas counts that day lost when the majority of theatre men in his territory do not wake up every morning to find that the post has brought them some more business literature from the Lucas Theatre Supply Company. "If a man," says Mr. Lucas, "reads one out of twenty sent him, I feel that my object has been gained."

It is seen thereby that Mr. Lucas's plan has been worked out systematically. Like an artillery officer, he plots out a certain area and having the range, he proceeds to drop shells on his objective with unfailing regularity. Hence, it is seen that system is the keynote of his business. This is evident not only in the use of sales literature, but in every operation of his establishment. Nothing is done in a haphazard way, and part of his system is a scrupulous regard for order in all departments of his supply house. There is a place for everything and everything is in its place, as is exemplified in the repair shop, where every tool hangs on the wall under a conspicuously painted caption identifying its particular location.

For instance, not only is one section of the wall behind the work bench marked with the words "saws," but numerals, one, two and three, show the proper place for each tool when not in use.

Fig. 2—Private Projection Room

Mr. Lucas has found the means to prevent all lost motion, by observing the rule that "order is heaven's first law." This strict observance of system carried out in the minutest detail has eliminated unnecessary delay in repair work and has facilitated the dispatch of orders. Consequently, his slogan "We have a monopoly of promptness" means something to all who see it. By featuring promptness in his business Mr. Lucas has found that promptness, on the basis of one good turn deserves another, has featured him as a progressive supply dealer.

The firm carries a large stock of machine parts and accessories. As an instance of this, there are never less than one hundred thousand carbons on hand.

The Lucas Theatre Supply Company occupies two floors, thirty by one hundred feet, at 158 Marietta Street. On the ground floor is a display room, a private projection room and the repair department. Upstairs is the mail order department, additional display space and the office.

The projection room deserves special mention, as it has become an institution in Atlanta film circles. It was constructed for the use of the film exchanges there in the demonstration of pictures for out-of-town exhibitors. The room seats forty people and measures twelve by thirty-five feet. The projection-room is six feet deep by twelve wide. Its walls are decorated with stills of well known pictures which were supplied in sets of ten each by large producing companies, at the request of Mr. Lucas. Palms and plaster casts add to the decorative features of the demonstrating room. Here once a month a banquet is held for the entertainment of the exchange men in Atlanta and visiting exhibitors, and the latest features are run off afterwards for the benefit of the assemblage.

Ten years ago Mr. Lucas became associated with the amusement field as manager of the Opera House at Americus, Ga. In 1908 he went to the Dreamland theatre at Columbus, Ga., and for six months in 1909 he was manager of the Liberty theatre in Savannah. He then went to Dubuque, Ia., where he remained for nine months, and in 1910 he went back South and established the Dixieland Film Exchange in Jacksonville. A year lated he moved to Charlotte, N. C., and 1912 saw him in Atlanta, where he opened the United American Film Company, with offices in the Brown-Randolph Building. Some time afterwards he moved to Walton Street, where in a short time his business grew so rapidly that he found it necessary to seek larger quarters. It was then that he moved to the present location at Marietta Street, leasing the entire building and forming the Lucas Theatre Supply Company, capitalized at $25,000.

Gets Poor Picture at Increased Throw

Mr. C. P. Scates, Okanogan, Wash., writes:

"I am writing to see if you can help me with the projection troubles I am having. I am operating a late model Simplex. Until recently I had a throw of 56 feet and a picture of approximately 7 x 11 feet. I am using a Hallberg Economizer with a maximum of 20 amperes A. C. I have just completed a new theatre with a throw of 80 feet and a 9 x 12 foot picture. I turned in a Gundlach lens that I had been using and purchased a B. & L. six inch, E. F., as it was impossible to get a Gundlach. I had to discard the Hallberg Economizer as I could get no results at all with it, and am using at this time a rheostat and, in order to get a halfway decent picture, am using 75 amperes.

"My wiring is O. K. in every respect and there seems to be no doubt but that I am getting the full 75 amperes, but I cannot, even with this amount, get anywhere near as good projection as I used to with 20 amperes.

"Now, the lens I turned in was considerably larger in diameter than the lens I am at present using. I have tried four lenses, one after the other, but the results are the same. I do not seem to be able to get any information from the houses with which I deal and thought perhaps you could set me on the right road.

"Another thing, two of the lenses I have tried recently show a spot on the screen, in the center, which will not focus, while the outer portion is sharp.

"If you can suggest anything that will help me, from this brief description of my troubles, I shall appreciate it."

Reply: Judging from the correspondent's data, the objective he formerly used must have been about 4¾ inches or 5 inches E. F., and changing to an objective of only one inch greater E. F., i. e., 6-inch objective, could hardly account entirely for the great difference in screen brightness reported.

The correspondent is under some misapprehension as regards the current used on the shorter throw, as the smallest Hallberg economizer delivers a minimum of 30 amperes, the required intake being only 20 amperes, however, which latter point is probably the cause of the correspondent's erroneous conclusion.

As we have frequently pointed out, the use of a rheostat with A. C. is certainly not conducive to the best results on the screen for a given current consumption, and unless the correspondent has an ammeter in the circuit he can by no means be certain that he is actually getting 75 amperes at the arc. To secure a really satisfactory screen illumination with A. C. a transformer, or economizer, should be installed, or better still, a mercury-arc rectifier, which would change the A. C. into D. C., thus giving the advantages of better control of the light, and greater source brilliancy for a given amount of current consumed.

If the correspondent desires to install a transformer he can secure a Hallberg of greater capacity than his former one, or there are numerous other makes and types to choose from. The rectifiers, as is generally known, are the product of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., East Pittsburg, Pa.

Returning to the matter of the objective used, the Bausch and Lomb objectives of the type most frequently seen are of somewhat smaller diameter than the Gundlach, but for reasons which need not be gone into here, they are not necessarily less brilliant in performance than the Gundlach objectives up to focal lengths of about 6 inches, if they are properly used. Commencing with the 6-inch E. F. it is an advantage, however, for an objective to have a diameter somewhat in excess of the commercial varieties of B. & L. objectives, and the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, N. Y., make several types of objectives of increased diameter. Possibly the correspondent could secure one of these direct from the manufacturers if it turns out that he cannot improve his screen illumination in any other way.

It seems very probable to us that in changing to the 6-inch objective the correspondent has neglected to match up and re-focus his condenser system accordingly, which could account for a considerable loss of light and a generally unsatisfactory screen illumination. He is therefore advised to try a 6½-inch and a 7½-inch condenser combination, and also two 7½-inch condensers, moving the lamphouse backwards and forwards and studying the effect on the screen. A material improvement will very probably result from such procedure, which should be undertaken before condemning the objective.

The objectives which, in the correspondent's trials, failed to give a screen picture with center and edges both in forcus simultaneously, must have been either of very inferior quality, or out of adjustment, or damaged optically, as an objective of 6-inch E. F., or upwards, generally produces an evenly defined screen-image.

United Issues Valuable Instruction Booklet on Hallberg Generator

IT is gratifying to note that manufacturers of all sorts of apparatus used in motion picture projection are giving increased attention to the subject of proper usage of their various devices by the operators, and a splendid example of this desire to supply useful information comes to hand in the form of an instruction book on the Hallberg A. C. to D. C. motor generator, which has just been issued by the United Theatre Equipment Corporation, 1604 Broadway, New York.

To give the reader a clear idea of the Hallberg outfit, this is first described in considerable detail, both the motor and the generator being treated separately, and their windings and other fundamental components being shown diagrammatically.

Under the heading of installation instructions the setting up and connection of the Hallberg generator is considered in detail, the suggestions being amplified by tables and diagrams. A feature of this section of the booklet is the information on the best location for the motor generator and other auxiliary apparatus.

Following this comes a section on testing the performance of the apparatus after its installation, after which the care of these motor generator sets is dealt with at length. Particularly interesting to operators are the instructions concerning the care of the commutator and brushes, which are illustrated with appropriate cuts showing the correct and the incorrect methods of dressing the commutator and the seating of brushes.

A point which we have always emphasized, in connection with generator sets, is that in case of complicated troubles which cannot be readily detected, the advice of the manufacturer should be sought. This point is given due prominence in the instruction booklet on the Hallberg generator, and suggestions are advanced, as to the proper methods of testing for and reporting any difficulties which arise in the every-day use of the outfit.

Besides the instruction booklet some recent Bulletins issued by the U. T. E. have also reached us. No. 101 describes and illustrates diagrammatically the Hallberg "4 in 1" Automatic Regulator for Mazda projection lamps, which is the forerunner of the automatic regulators which are now coming to notice for use in Mazda projection. Bulletin 102, on the double-arc motor generator, deals particularly with the use of Hallberg generators (as described in the instruction book) in sets of two, where two projecting machines are used.

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

PERFECTED PROJECTION

"MOVIES" are made possible at any time, anywhere, with a DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector. The DeVry is always and instantly ready for an evening's entertainment or instruction; attached to any ordinary light socket it practically runs itself.

Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, on transports, at home and "over there."

Write for Catalogue H-2

The DeVry Corporation
109½ North Wells Street Chicago, U. S. A.

DE V

WHY PAY—
$58.50 for 110 volt Motors

and an additional sum for 220 volt motors for POWER 6A when we will sell you a thoroughly efficient motor equipment, 110 or 220 volts A. C. or D. C. for $35.00 net, including the motor attachment for your mechanism? Our motors have no wooden bearings and no friction wheels to wear out. We are exclusive distributors for SIMPLEX Machines and all Supplies.

LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

You are wasting your opportunities if YOU ignore advertising.

The Camera

A Valuable Contribution to Photographic Literature

OPTICS FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS

By Hans Harting, Ph.D.

Translated from the German
By F. R. Fraprie

American Photographic Publishing Co., Boston, Mass.
Price $2.00

OF the extensive literature on photography, the books and articles on photographic optics form a relatively small part, and insofar as the works in English on this subject are concerned, they are, with one or two exceptions, not comparable to the treatises which have been published in Europe.

We are consequently glad to announce the appearance of a good translation of Dr. Harting's Optisches Hilfsbuch für Photographierende, Berlin, 1909, because this book will be responsible for the acquisition of correct ideas on optical theory by the numerous readers into whose hands it is undoubtedly destined to come.

This translation, by Editor Fraprie of American Photography was made some years since, and originally appeared, in serial form, in his publication (Vols. for 1911-1912), where it first attracted the attention of the present writer.

In order to put this work in the proper light, as regards its importance to the photographer who likes to base his work and experiments upon correct theory, it is necessary to point out the influence of the Jena school upon the progress in photographic optics during the last three decades. It is largely to the precepts of Abbe and the work of Rudolph that the modern highly corrected objective is due, but up to the appearance of the work now under consideration, the only theoretical treatise on photographic optics available to the non-scientific student, unable to read German, was Otto Lummer's Contributions to Photographic Optics translated by Silvanus P. Thompson, London, 1900. The Lummer-Thompson work will always remain a fundamental document in photographic optics, and indeed its worth has been recognized by students and writers upon advanced optical theory, but coming as it did from a physicist of the most advanced type, its very terseness of expression, and its assumption of an extensive knowledge of physical principles on the part of the reader, has created the impression among many students that it was a difficult work to peruse, while others less fortunate as regards academic training have been altogether unable to assimilate its important contents.

Dr. Harting's work, on the other hand, has been conceived and phrased with the capacity of the average photographer at all times in mind, but even so, accuracy has not been sacrificed either in expression or conception. Just what could be expected from Dr. Harting in the line of a satisfying treatise on photographic optics may be appreciated when it is considered that he was for some years the scientific director of the Voigtlander optical firm, and his skill in objective design may be appreciated from his feat of decreasing the coma in the already excellent Cooke type of objective by the introduction of collecting cemented-surfaces (concave to the stop) into the positive elements of the well conceived Taylor construction, the result being the well-known "Heliar" lens, free from coma for the aperture f 4.5.

The difference between Dr. Harting's treatise, or the translation of the same, and the average work on photographic optics is consequently very marked, because here we have the subject explained by an actual designer and computer of optical systems, who is accordingly able to lay emphasis upon the fundamentally important principles of the subject, and to discreetly ignore those points which are without significance in practice. Moreover, the various phases of the subject are treated from the viewpoint of the Jena school which symbolizes correct and modern ideas in optical theory and practice.

The seventeen chapters of the book may be divided into three sections, the first of which commences with the characteristics of light and takes one through the fundamental laws of reflection and refraction, the properties and action of lenses and lens systems, the aberrations of objectives and the other factors which influence the performance of objectives, and upon which the production of the flat photographic image depends. In the section following this the various generic types of photographic objectives are compared and their principles of construction and performance analyzed, starting with the camera-obscura meniscus of Wollaston and proceeding from the Petzval portrait objective, the Steinheil Aplanat and other objectives composed of "old achromats," to the anastigmatically corrected camera objectives of the present day, all fundamental types of which are considered. Real students of photographic optics will certainly enjoy this section of the Harting treatise, for it is easy to see that a real analysis of objective types can be much better accomplished by an actual designer such as Dr. Harting, than by the average theorist or writer not intimately acquainted with the processes and calculations of objective manufacturing.

In the concluding portion of the work some useful tables for the photographer are given, including a table for the determination of equivalent focal lengths by focussing, a table which indicates the size of plate to be used with a circle of illumination of given diameter, another for ascertaining angles of view, and a very pretentious table giving the diameter of image for various angles of view. Reducing and enlarging tables are included, as are also numerous rules and methods whereby the photographer can ascertain the quality and performance of his objective by direct tests with the camera.

We sincerely hope and surely believe that this good translation of Dr. Harting's valuable treatise will enjoy a wide circulation, and, as future editions are a possibility, we take this opportunity of pointing out in a friendly rather than a critical attitude some mistakes and infelicities of expression which we have encountered in our perusal of Mr. Fraprie's translation. We are under the handicap of never having examined a copy of the original German edition of the Harting work, but we shall confine ourselves to the consideration of statements which may be pronounced incorrect or misleading on basic grounds.

The major portion of our criticism has to deal with the occurrence of certain terms and expressions for well known optical effects or characteristics, which are not in conformity with general usage, and which should, we feel, be altered in future editions in order to follow out the attempts now being made to standardize optical nomenclature. The translator, Mr. Fraprie, in view of the general excellence of his work, is not to be greatly blamed for any anomalies of expression which occur in the book, for it is hardly to be expected that a busy photographic editor can be au fait with all the published work on optics.

We find on pages 21-22 of the translation the expression "limiting angle" used in designating what is universally known as the critical angle of a medium, which latter designation, it seems to us, is justified by universal employment. On pages 76-77 et seq, we note the use of the term "principal-ray," which is a correct rendition of the German "hauptstrahl," but is rather unfortunately so translated, as in photographic optics we already have principal-points, principal-planes and principal surfaces to consider. It is much better to use the expression "chief-ray" as the interpretation of "hauptstrahl," as was happily suggested by Professor Silvanus Thompson (op. cit.), and it is to be noted that this designation has been adapted by the leading modern writers.

We further note on page 77 the use of the terms "first" and "second," instead of primary and secondary, as the designations of the meridian and sagittal sections of the oblique pencil, but as other designations for these sections are suitably given this is a minor point.

The title of Chapter IX "The limitation of the rays," displays another departure from accepted terminology, for while "strahlenbegrenzung" may be so translated, the Jena school have given us the "regulation of the rays" as the proper equivalent of this term (vide Wandersleb, Photo. Jl., 1909).

A rather ambiguous designation occurring on page 89 et seq is the expression "focusing-plane," which is correct enough as an interpretation of the German "einstellungsebene," but, unfortunately does not convey so clearly what is meant as does the expression "plane focussed for," which latter is given by Dr. von Rohr (the originator of the term) as the correct interpretation, in his various articles in English. (vide B. J. Almanac 1902 and Photo. Jl., 1903).

An anomaly of expression which can be charged to the translator is the frequent use of "coefficient of refraction," instead of the more customary appellation index of refraction. As the two designations "coefficient" and "index" are used promiscuously throughout the work, it would seem that in future editions unification of expression could be carried out to advantage and that the word index should receive preference on account of universal employment.

English and American readers would also like to see the condition $\Sigma \frac{1}{nf} = 0$, for flattening the image-field, referred to as the Coddington-Petzval condition, instead of merely Petzval's condition, because it is a matter of record that this requirement for a flat field was published by Coddington as early as 1829, and had, indeed, been suggested by Airy in 1827. With customary accuracy in scientific matters the German optical writers have long since conceded the justice of this appelation, but we suspect that the error of omission in this instance is Dr. Harting's and not the translators'.

Another statement (presumably of the original author's) which is scarcely justified by the facts, is the assertion that the principle of the shortest path of a light ray was first propounded by Lachambre and Fermat and received its definite proof from Helmholtz. Neither Czapski, von Rohr or Southall mention Lachambre in this connection in their exhaustive works on optical theory, although Fermat is credited with having first enunciated the theorem. It is true that Helmholtz gave a proof of this theorem (Physiol. Optik erste aufl. Leipzig, 1867), and we have encountered mention of no other worked out and published proof, but in 1828, long before the work of Helmholtz, the noted English mathematician, Sir W. R. Hamilton published his "Theory of Systems of Rays" in which the "principle of the shortest route" (founded on the theorem of least time), called by him the "characteristic function," was applied to the general solution of optical problems. It seems fair to assume that Hamilton must have been well aware of the validity of Fermat's theorem, before applying it to abstract phases of optical action.

Mr. Fraprie's translation is gratifyingly free from downright misstatements, of which we have only two obvious ones to point out. On page 103 we note: "From this follows the important law, that in the imaging of point objects the brightness of the image point is independent of focal length and effective aperture." As a matter of fact, in the imaging of a point object the brightness, or intensity, increases directly with the square of the entrance-pupil and inversely as the distance of the source from the plate (compare Czapski-Eppenstein, Theorie der Optischen Instrumente, 2 anfl. page 247). Also on page 128 a very obvious mistake occurs where the effect of chromatic undercorrection of a simple collecting lens is described as "an axial band of spectral colors, whose red end is nearer the collecting lens." As is well known the short waves are refracted more powerfully than the long ones by all kinds of glass, and the chromatic dispersion of a simple collecting lens always shows the blue ray nearest and the red ray farthest from the last refracting surface. To conclude our mention of the few errors in the book we draw attention to a typographical error in the Fresnel perpendicular incidence reflection-loss formula on page 180, where the demominator of the expression is misprinted $n + 2$, instead of $n + 1$ as it should be.

The few errors of conception and execution noticed, fall into insignificance beside the vast store of accurate, interesting and valuable information contained in the Harting-Fraprie volume. We expect to see it widely assimilated by photographers everywhere, and our remarks may be considered in the preparation of future editions.

A. S. C.

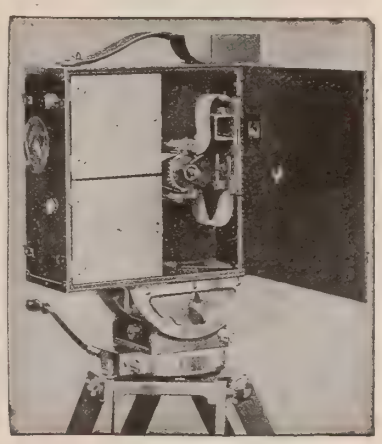
BIG ADVANCE IN M. P. PHOTOGRAPHY

Six great scientific improvements make the Universal M. P. Camera the choice of expert camera men everywhere. Wonder-value at less than half standard m. p. camera prices! You want it.

UNIVERSAL MOTION PICTURE CAMERA

See how it increases your speed, improves framing, film transmission, focusing, eliminates static, etc. New automatic dissolve ready.

Write for Catalog



BURKE & JAMES Inc.

Makers of Rexo M. P. Film

240 E. Ontario St., Chicago

Remember it is through the print that the production is judged by the public.

Safeguard YOUR production by entrusting the DEVELOPING and PRINTING to us.

We have a reputation for quality and promptness.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.

416-24 West 216th Street New York City

Telephone 6881-2 Audubon

GOERZ

Goerz Kino Hypar F/3.5

There is an imperative demand today for results. Camera men cannot afford to take chances, they must be sure of their equipment. The GOERZ KINO HYPAR is sure, and does produce results. It is made in 1⅝, 2, 2⅜, and 3-inch focus, and can be fitted to every standard equipment now on the market. Send or call for our very latest descriptive matter about the GOERZ KINO HYPAR, special GOERZ VIGNETTING DEVICES and GOERZ MICROMETER MOUNTS.

C. P. GOERZ AMERICAN OPTICAL COMPANY

317-J East 34th Street, New York City

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

Music and the Picture

Three Essentials in Correct Film Interpretation

CLASSIFICATION OF MUSICIAN'S LIBRARY

THIS is a most important matter to the musician who would be successful in the art of accompanying the photoplay. Some have no system at all; while others have some which enables them to find a number they happen to think of without much trouble.

It is well to separate the music into groups, such as Overtures and Operas, Concert, Marches, Waltzes, Intermezzos, Ballads, Characteristics, Popular Songs, Rags, Dances, Miscellaneous. These sections should be kept in separate covers, and all the numbers in one section numbered consecutively. A record of the contents of each cover should be kept. This system will suffice for a small library, and will provide a basis for a large library.

As the catalogue increases, a card index classification should be used to supplement the above. Any amount of elaboration is possible with a good card index system, using different colored cards and index. Lettered index cards may be used on the reverse side.

The following plan of classification will be found to cover the field:

1, Lento; 2, Waltz Lento (Major); 3, Waltz Lento (Minor); 4, Andante Light; 5, Antante Heavy Dramatic; 6, Plaintive; 7, Pathetic Light Moderato; 8, Pathetic Heavy Minor; 9, Moderato; 10, Love Themes; 11, Serenades; 12, Pastoral Idylls; 13, Love Ballads; 14, Parting Ballads; 15, Descriptive Ballads; 16, Cradle Songs, Lullabys; 17, Barcarolles; 18, Allegretto; 19, Allegro; 20, Agitato Allegro; 21, Agitato Heavy; 22, Hurries; 23, Mysterioso Dramatic; 24, Mysterioso Gruesome; 25, Galops and Vivace Movements; 26, Furioso (Storms and Fires); 27, Waltzes, Dance or Ballet; 28, Waltzes, Concert (Slow Introduction); 29, Waltzes, Concert (Light Introduction); 30, Intermezzos, Moderato; 31, Intermezzos, Two-step; 32, Intermezzos. Light, and Gavottes; 33, Pizzicatos; 34, Dances (Old Minuets, etc.); 35, Dances Characteristic; 36, Dances (New), Fox-trots; 37, Dances (New), One-steps; 38, Ballet Numbers; 39, Concert Numbers, Light and Heavy separate; 40, Overtures; 41, Opera, Heavy; 42, Opera, Light; 43, Maestoso; 44, Grand Marches; 45, Marches Military, 6/8; 46, Marches, 4/4; 47, Marches, Two-step; 48, Marches, Funeral; 49, Religious; 50, American; 51, Indian; 52, Hawaiian; 53, Spanish and Mexican; 54, Oriental; 55, Irish; 56, Scotch; 57, English; 58, French; 59, Italian; 60, Russian; 61. Hebrew; 62, Hungarian and Gypsy; 63, German; 64, Scandinavian; 65, Nautical; 66, Popular Songs; 67, Rags.

On the card should be shown the name of composition, a letter showing in which group it may be found, and the number of the composition in that particular group, as "Stars and Stripes Forever," M 4, meaning No. 4 in cover containing Marches. Some compostions would be shown on more than one card, as "Vision of Salome" in "Waltz lento minor" card, and also on Oriental card.

By using the card index system, numbers will be suggested which would perhaps never otherwise occur to the mind of the player. It also helps to prevent repetition. Other advantages might be mentioned, such as saving of time, etc., which will more than repay the ambitious photoplay musician for the trouble he takes in putting this system into effect.

EFFECTS, ETC.

The drama is often enhanced by certain effects, providing they are not overdone. Loud, noisy and petty effects are out of place, and should be reserved for comedy pictures.

The following are some legitimate effects and suggestions for drama:

Where piano is played alone in picture, the right effect is to play piano alone (without orchestra).

For interior church scenes, use organ alone.

Salvation Army meetings. Play popular S. A. hymn with cornet, trombone and drums.

Church bells, and chimes.

Bell at race meetings.

Soft bell for certain water buoys.

Thunder and rain effects.

When a drama concludes with a love match consummated, a suitable love song or the repetition of the selected theme makes a very pleasing ending to the photoplay.

CONTRAST.

Contrast relieves monotony, and creates variety. The success of a theatre depends on giving a variety entertainment, both in pictures and music. Variety in the music should be governed by a right study of contrast. There should be contrast in the general effect of the music as a whole. The managements of many theatres, through lack of proper advice, have installed church organs to supply their musical needs. They have been failures on account of monotony, and lack of contrast and snap. The theatre organ which is relied upon to alone furnish the music should be an instrument built especially for the purpose. There should be church organ tone, and orchestral tone, the latter being made to imitate the choirs of the orchestra, viz., strings, wood, brass, and percussion (light drum, etc., effects). This is an ideal instrument, provided the organist knows how to contrast the various tonal effects.

There should also be contrast in laying out the musical setting to a picture. Certain compositions suggest certain moods, as love, pathos, etc., and are used when these moods are dominant on the screen. Neither of these compositions has any particular appeal, and may be called neutral. A proper appreciation of the appeal of music will enable the musician to use the various kinds of compositions to best advantage. Many good concert numbers are neutral and, having no special appeal, can be used in scenes where no particular temperamental mood is suggested, tempo alone governing the selection of the number. This contrast will give variety to the program, and be more pleasing to the audience.

The above mentioned items are three very important essentials in correct film interpretation. A little forethought given to these problems will tend materially in advancing what all earnest musicians are striving for, "Better Music for the Film."

Earl Fuller and His Jazz Band Have Become An Institution In New York. Fuller Was the First of the Jazz Fraternity to Introduce Missouri and Blue Rose Waltzes, and Is at Present Winning Popularity for Hindustan, Published by Forster; Nona, by Vandersloot and Keep the Glow In Old Glory, by McKinley

Musical Review of Latest Compositions

1—"May Dreams," Romance by Gaston Borch. The very latest of this gifted writer's musical gems. A really delightful melody which shows Gaston Borch at his very best. (Published by Belwin, Inc., 701 Seventh Avenue, New York City.)

2—"Italian Nights Waltz," by Lee S. Roberts. Wonderful Concert Waltz on Italian Airs, by Lee S. Roberts. (Richmond Publishing Company, New York City.)

3—"Military Waltz," by Logan. A melody arrangement of Patriotic Songs. (Forster Edition, Chicago, Ill.)

4—"The Rainbow," by L. Maurice. A spirited 6/8 March, published by Leo Feist.

5—Paraphrase on "Sweet and Low," Joseph Barnby, by C. W. Bennet. The theme is immortal and a paraphrase based upon its beautiful melody certainly should be nearly as popular as the original. (Oliver Ditson Edition.)

6—"The Spirit of Victory." A March Song dedicated to General Pershing, and published by Hamlin E. Cogswell, Washington, D. C.

7—"Sliding Sid," a Jass one-step, a sequel to "Slippery Hank." (Vandersloot Edition.)

8—"The Mill Characteristic," Adolf Jensen. A most effective and novel orchestra number for your program in a specially fine orchestra arrangement. (Carl Fischer Edition.)

9—"Impish Elves," by Gaston Borch. There is an irresistible piquant and catchy snap about this number which makes it a genuine favorite with every audience. (Belwin Incorporation, 701 Seventh Avenue, New York City.)

10—"Melancolie," by Jules Grainer, a striking and original concert number, a 3/4 Andante of exceptional tonal beauty. (G. Schirmer Edition.)

"THE FAIR PRETENDER"

(Goldwyn Production)

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet)

Reviewed on page 3596

Theme: "Dawn of Love" (4/4 Allegretto Moderato) by Bendix

1—"My Castle in the Air" song from "Miss Springtime," by J. Kern (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—S: Close view of typewriter.
2—Produce effect of quick typing machine, followed by
3—"Visions" (Characteristic Intermezzo), by W. Buse (3 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Don Meredith, who writes plays."
4—"Dramatic Recitative," by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Gerald Harcourt, a wealthy, etc."
5—Continue pp (55 seconds), until—S: Cabin on board of ship.
6—Continue ppp (45 seconds), until—T: "No matter what you are."
7—Repeat "Visions," by Buse, same as cue No. 3 (1 minute and 50 seconds), until T: "The Townsend motor and the plans."
8—"Dramatic Tension," by Sol. P. Levy (1 minute and 10 seconds), until T: "If that motor is a success."
9—"Nola" (2/4 Silhouette), by F. Arndt (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Beggars cannot be choosers."
10—"Melody" (Moderato), by Friml (4 minutes and 40 seconds), until T: "Her day for breaking things."
11—Theme (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "The Townsends' country home."
12—"Valse Lente," by Schuette (4 minutes and 50 seconds), until T: "I didn't come back."
13—Theme (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "One week later."
14—"Heart's Message Caprice" Tempo di Gavotte, by Sentelmann (4 minutes), until—T: "You are the Mrs. Captain Brown."
15—Theme (3 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Putting it over on each other."
16—"Pizzicato Bluette" (Characteristic), by Lack (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "The final work nearing perfection."
17—"In Lovers' Lane" (Characteristic Intermezzo), by Pryor (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "My love is like a Ford car."
18—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "Syncopation rules the nation."
19—Popular Trot to action (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Captain John A. Brown."

(Continued in next column)

(Continued from preceding column)

20—"Jealous Moon" (4/4 Moderato con moto), by Zameznik (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "The rat's chance."
21—Popular One Step to action (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Don't do it."
Note—Play ff during dancing scenes only.
22—"The Vampire" (Dramatic Theme), by Sol. P. Levy (4 minutes), until—T: "Now tell me please."
23—Theme (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—S: View of Castle in the air.
24—Silence (20 seconds), until—S: After explosion.
Note—Watch explosion.
25—"Sinister Theme" (Mysterioso), by Levy (4 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "And she has stolen them."
Note—Watch for railroad effects.
26—"Le Retour" (Mysterioso Allegro), by Bizet (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—S: Sylvia going to bed.
27—Continue pp (1 minute), until—S: The fight.
28—"Dramatic Agitato," by H. Hough (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "Then what are you crying for?"
29—Continue to action pp or ff (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: "By the way, where is, etc."
30—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"CARMEN OF THE KLONDIKE"

(Selexart Production)

Reviewed on page 1189

Theme: "Love Song" by Flegier

1—Beginning of "Carmen" selection, arr. by Tobani (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Whoopee, Klondike or bust."
2—Good Trombone Rag (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Dorothy Harlan, the recent spot light."
3—Popular Waltz or Two Step to action (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "I've gwin up to Alaska."
4—"Ring the Banjo," Song in selection, "Gems of Stephen Forster," by Tobani (20 seconds), until—T: "Glory, Glory Halleujah."
5—"Glory, Glory Halleujah" Song (30 seconds), until—S: Silk McDonald talking to Dorothy.
6—Theme (3 minutes), until—T: "Secure the knowledge of love."
7—"Petite Bijouterie" Valse Intermezzo, by Bohm (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Skagway, Skagway."
8—"Aubade Printannere" Serenade by Lacome (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Pay your fare out of this."
9—"Boreas," a Northern Idylle, by Trinkhaus (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Prospect City in the vale," etc.
10—"Entr'Acte" from Nordland, by Herbert (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Blossom, a dance hall."
11—Continue pp (15 seconds), until—T: "Cameron Stewart, who, etc."
12—Continue to action pp or ff (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "I want to apologize."
13—"Ein Maerchen" Fantasia, by Bach (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Arriving in Prospect City."
14—Theme (4 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Her savings gone."
15—"Love Song," by Bartlett (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Once she is inside."
16—"Aragonaise," from the "Carmen" Suite No. 1, by Bizet (30 seconds), until—T: "Into the vortex."
17—Continue to action of dance (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "The dazed victim."
18—"Kiss Me! My Honey, Do," Two Step (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: Silk McDonald trying to kiss Dorothy.
19—Theme ff (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Throughout the months."
20—"Sympathy" Waltz, by Mezzacopa (3 minutes), until—T: "She can't be my Dorothy."
21—Prelude from "Eva," by Massenet (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Stewart sits down to play cards."
22—Orchestra Rest Organ pp (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Four little bullets."
23—Continue pp (45 seconds), until—T: "The whole town is going out."
24—Finale from "Ariele," by Bach (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "Are you going?"
25—Continue to action (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "In the peel of River County."
26—"Causerie," by MacMillen (4 minutes), until—S: Stewart confronting Silk McDonald.
27—"Dramatic Maestoso," by Ascher (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—S: Interior of dance hall.
28—Popular song hit (25 seconds), until—S: Flashback to former scene.
29—"Intermezzo," by Arenski (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T "Aw, you mean Carmen."
30—"Entr'Acte Clarice," by Loud (4 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "You'll save a dance or two."
31—"The Vampire," by Levy (1 minute and 50 seconds) until—T: "With the deluge.'
32—"Hurry No. 2," by Sol P Levy (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Give this note, etc."
33—Continue pp or ff (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "Realizing that she is trapped."
34—"Erl King," by Schubert (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Stewart leaving room (before big exterior storm scene).
35—"Furioso," by Sol. P. Levy (9 minutes and 20 seconds), to action until—T: "Thumbs down for Silk McDonald."
36—Continue pp (50 seconds), until—T: "With the breath of the morning."
39—Theme, until * * * * * END.

THE BARTOLA
Will Satisfy the Most Critical Audience
Write for catalogue.
CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent, 707-712 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

We have secured good advertisers to talk to YOU. Listen to them!

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents to cover the cost of postage and typeing.

Alimony
All Woman
At the Mercy of Men
Alladin and His Wonderful Lamp
The Auction Block
Brave and Bold
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
The Beloved Traitor
Brown of Harvard
The Belgian
By Right of Possession
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Cheating the Public
The Claw
Deemster (The)
DeLuxe Annie
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Devil's Playground
Draft 258
The Darling of Paris
The End of the Trail
The Fair Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
The Grain of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
Honor's Cross
The Heart of the Sunset
The House of Glass
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
The Knife
Lest We Forget
Legion of Death
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Men
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Hour
One Law for Both
Parentage
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
The Submarine Eye
Social Ambition
Stella Maris
The Splendid Sinner
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
The Warrior
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
Within the Law
Womanhood
The Zeppelin's Last Raid

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of special releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

"THE REASON WHY"

(Select Production)

Reviewed on page 2860

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet.)

Theme: "Melody" by Gluck-Sgambati

1—"Canzonetta," (6/8 Mod.), by Nicode (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "In Moskow Zara Zenova, etc."
2—Piano solo improvise to action (55 seconds), until—T: "Mirko her husband."
Note—Watch action carefully.
3—Silence just ad. lib. Tympany Rolls during disputes (1 minute), until—T: "Feto, a woman of the Taverns."
4—Russian Live (Waltz), by Katz (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: The fight in the Tavern.
5—Agitato to action (35 seconds), until—S: Interior of Zara's room.
Note—Watch shot.
6—"Pathetic Andante," by Paul Vely (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—S: Boy playing piano.
7—Piano solo improvise to action (15 seconds), until—S: Boy stops playing.
8—Silence (20 seconds), until—T: "Tristram Baron, etc."
9—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "After the long journey."
10—"Serenade" (3/4 Moderato), by Karganoff (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Zara presents herself alone."
11—Continue to action (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Expensive bait."
12—"Gavotte" from Manon, by Massenet (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Interior of dining room.
13—"Valse Lente," by Schuette (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Setting the price."
14—Theme (3 minutes), until—S: Zara playing piano.
15—Several Piano Cadenzas to action, followed by 16—Silence (15 seconds), until—S: Zara plays again.
17—Piano solo improvise to action (25 seconds), until—T: "You understand why."
18—"Love Theme," by Abbott Lee (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "While sheltered in a London byway."
19—"Sorrow Theme," by E. Roberts (2 minutes), until—T: "The end of a losing game."
20—Organ improvise to action (Wedding Ceremony) (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "On Newspaper—After the ceremony."
21—"Valse Op. 34, No. 11," by Chopin (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Little boy refusing to eat."
22—Theme ff (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until T: "Is it not enough that you, etc?"
23—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Suspicious."
24—Continue pp (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: Sick babe in bed.
25—"Tragic Theme," by Vely (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: Lord Tancred finds the letter.
26—"Lamento Pathetic," Dramatic by Gabriel Marie (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Lord and Lady Tancred at breakfast table.
27—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "The Manor reception."
28—"Coronation" (Grand March), by Eilenberg (5 minutes), until—S: Lady Tancred receiving telegram.
29—"Dramatic Tension" ff, by Levy (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "Delirious days that follow."
30—"Elegy" (Pathetic) by Massenet (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "I was married in Russia."
31—"Dramatic Narrative," by P. Pement (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: "Tristram you said I must go."
32—Theme ff (40 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"BLUE EYED MARY"

(Fox Production)

Reviewed on page 3455

REEL 1

1—At Opening—Slow Andante 4/4.
2—A block away—Mysterioso Agitato 4/4.
3—Good evening, Aunt Mary—Andante Maestoso 4/4.
4—The "Debutante" Granddaughter—Valse 3/4.
5—I'm tired, dear, of this deception—Adagio 3/4.
6—Now, tell me, how is Mother?—Andante 2/4.

REEL 2

7—So Mary starts on her mission—Valse 3/4.
8—Insert newspaper "Vansealler Jewels Stolen"—Allegro 4/4.
9—Just as I thought—Slow Andante.
10—Holy St. Patrick—Allegretto 3/4.
11—A little homesickness—Andante 2/4.

REEL 3

12—It was a bad beginning—Allegretto Grazioso 4/4.
13—Now, tell me—Valse Lento.
14—Newspaper insert—Moderato 4/4.
15—How dare you serve?—Agitato.
16—Bridget, you're not going away—Andante 2/4.
17—Bridget wants to apologize—Allegretto 3/4.

REEL 4

18—Did your father send these?—Andante 2/4.
19—Now look!—Moderato 3/4.
20—Somebody's wise to us—Hurry 2/4.
21—Fine business—Maestoso 4/4.
22—As the clock nears 11.30—Mysterioso
23—When fighting segue into—Agitato.

REEL 5

24—I surprised your little niece—Dramatic Agitato.
25—My dear nephew—Lento Valse 3/4.
26—Stop! I want to see you—Dramatic Tension.
27—I am old and helpless—Andante Dramatic.
28—Mother!—Slow Andante, same as No. 1.

FINIS

Theatres Worth While

Exterior of the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan., and view looking toward the stage

Palace, Wichita, Really Does Things

PALACE THEATRE, Wichita, Kan., is a house that is really doing things. In all the branches of the exhibition of pictures it ranks well toward the top of the theatres of the country.

Physically the house is most attractive. Owned by the Southwestern Amusement Company, it occupies a space 115x125 and seats 1,700. It is under the management of Stanley Chambers, who is one of the most wide-awake men in the Middle West.

The house is constructed of brick, steel and concrete, with the front in terra cotta. On the main street side there is a lobby and exit with six stores in the front. The house runs directly back from Douglas avenue. General interior decorations are in old rose and gray, with appropriate draperies.

Projection is supplied by two Simplex machines, which have a throw of 105 feet to a Minusa screen. The operating room is equipped with spotlights and a stereopticon.

One of the big features of the theatre is its organ music. In P. Hans Flath the theatre has one of the best musical directors in the country, for Mr. Flath has had wide experience on the legitimate stage as musical director for a number of companies and he has brought a high grade of achievement to playing the pictures and putting on special features.

The Palace was opened January 17, 1917, and it has been a success ever since.

Looking from stage, Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.

Ladies' rest room, Palace theatre

Symphony Installs Typhoon System

SYMPHONY THEATRE, the splendid new house just opened at the corner of Broadway and Ninety-fifth street by Aubrey M. Kennedy, has installed a large Typhoon cooling and ventilating system which consists of two 8-foot blowers and two 5-foot blowers. Mr. Kennedy is advertising this feature of the theatre in his neighborhood publicity.

This system was designed by James F. Dailey, ventilating engineer for the Typhoon Company.

Directory of New Theatres

ALBERTA

Work has commenced on a new theatre for the Allen interests in Edmonton. It is expected that the house will be completed by October 15. The site chosen is east of the present Monarch theatre, this is also controlled by the Allens. The new house will be a 1,400-seat proposition, thoroughly modern in every respect, and will occupy a site, 75 x 150 feet.

CALIFORNIA

Manager Greenwood, of the Tulare theatre, Tulare, has opened an outdoor theatre for the accommodation of his patrons during the hot weather. The Majestic, as it has been named, is fitted with scenery depicting outdoor locations, quite in keeping with an airdome show.

D. D. Davis, of Los Olivos, is preparing to open a motion picture theatre in that town.

Ground has been broken for the "Outpost" theatre to be erected by Contractor C. C. Beaty at Arcadia.

FLORIDA

The Rivoli is the name of Tampa's latest motion picture theatre, which is now nearly completed, and will be opened on, or about, July 15. It is located at the corner of Fifteenth street and Seventh avenue, in Ybor City, which is the Latin portion of Tampa.

A. H. La Belle, the "Magnate of Ybor," is the owner of the new house. Mr. La Belle has two other motion picture theatres in Ybor City, as well as the lease on the Spanish Casino.

The new house is very beautiful, and is the last word in modern construction and arrangements. It has a capacity of seven hundred, all on one floor. Two De Luxe Motiograph machines have been installed, also a Gold Fibre screen. Tampa may well be proud of her latest theatre, devoted exclusively to the motion picture art.

J. S. Mathews has opened a new theatre in the "Scrub," the negro portion of Tampa. The house is known as the Famous, and is a well-equipped theatre.

IDAHO

Meridian's new $8,500 motion picture theatre was formally opened recently under the management of J. W. Hedges. The seating accommodation is nearly 500.

WE OFFER, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE,

UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORPORATION

14 Branches

Preferred and Common Stock

(Preferred stock, 7% cumulative, redeemable at $110 per share)

Combination Offer—Two Shares (one share Preferred—par value, $100 / one share Common—par value, $100)

Both for $65.00

Particulars on Application ADDRESS LOCK BOX 61, FORT LEE, NEW JERSEY

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

Read what C. A. Morrison of The Princess Theatre, Hartford, Conn., says about Newman Quality:

Gentlemen:
We have purchased quite a number of Brass Frames and Easels, together with Brass Ticket Rail and Three-Sheet Brass Poster Frames of your Company.
All of these goods reached us in perfect condition and the quality was the best. I have told several other managers in the city of your goods and in several instances orders have been sent you—all of which goes to show that your best advertiser is a satisfied customer.

PRINCESS THEATRE CO., Inc.
C. A. Morrison, Mgr. Hartford, Conn.

INSIST ON THE NAME "NEWMAN" WHEN BUYING FRAMES

Write for New 1918 Catalog

The Newman Mfg. Company

ESTABLISHED 1882
Frames, Easels, Rails Grilles, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

ARE YOU PROGRESSIVE?

We have a number of Rebuilt Machines as good as new, in fact could be sold as new, but we would rather sell them for what they are.
We guarantee them to be in A1 Adjustment; all worn parts have been replaced by new parts.

Send for List Today

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade

300-302 Mallers Building 5 S. Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre

WE SELL ON THE INSTALMENT PLAN

MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT

UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
TELEPHONE — 4600 YONKERS

HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

Business Offerings

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

FOR SALE—One Powers 6A, 110 volt, 60 cycles, motor drive, new, $300.00. Two Powers 6A, 110 volt, 60 cycles, motor drive, used, $175.00 each; Rheostat, extra, $10.00. 100 Westinghouse 8" Fans, new, $9.00 each. Ten 110 volt Ft. Wayne Compensarcs, 60 cycles, 60 ampere, $47.50 each. One 220 volt ampere Rheostat, like new, $20.00. One Baird Machine, 110 volt, 60 cycles, motor drive, list $450.00, $375.00. One Automatic Three Price Ticket Selling Machine, cost $250; used 3 weeks, $175.00. One 110v. D. C. motor drive, complete, for Powers 6A, used, $35.00. Two one-sheet poster frames, green finish, $7.75 each. Cash with order. No C. O. D.'s Subject to Prior Sale. Independent Movie Supply Co., 729 Seventh Avenue, 6th Floor, New York City.

OBEY THE LAW

Automatic rubber stamp, stamps each ticket War Tax Paid as you sell; operates out of your hand or fastens to wall under ticket roll. Postpaid $5.00.
Manufactured by
L. G. VANSYCKLE
Grand Forks, North Dakota

Just a Reminder

YOU can SAVE MONEY by purchasing equipment at
THE INDEPENDENT M. S. COMPANY
Courtesy with Service
Room 603
729 Seventh Avenue, New York

MOVING PICTURE MACHINE MOTOR
$18.00
Alternating or Direct Current Complete with variable speed lever. Immediate delivery.
Fidelity Electric Co. Lancaster, Pa.

An Estey Theatre Pipe Organ will make your pictures more interesting and boost the attendance.

THE ESTEY ORGAN CO.
Brattleboro, Vt.

See our two-page ad in the July 20th issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS

ILLINOIS

A new amphitheatre, with a seating capacity of 3,000, is soon to be erected on the La Harpe Fair Grounds.

MISSOURI

The Doric theatre was partially opened at Kansas City a few days ago under the management of George W. Curtiss. The Doric takes the name from the style of its exterior architecture. Tall Doric columns in white terra cotta lend severe dignity to the imposing facade. The classic simplicity is carried further by the foyer, the walls of which simulate Caen stone. The Italian Renaissance treatment is employed in the interior decoration, gold, blue and greens, with the gold predominating, is the color scheme. The Italian Renaissance which is much more ornate than its classic predecessors is well suited for the richness of coloring. The panels bordered by high wall arches are in tan brocade. Valances of heavily embroidered velvet stretch across the arches of the panels. Greenbaum and Hardy were the architects, and Lawrence and Rindskopf the directors. The theatre seats more than 960 persons. Innovations in ventilation add much to comfort. Indirect lighting is employed. A large pipe organ has been installed. The building was erected by Mrs. I. M. Ridge.

The Liberty theatre, corner of Main street just south of Eleventh street, Kansas City, Mo., is nearing completion. The Liberty will be an up-to-date theatre and strictly modern.

NEW MEXICO

The Roy theatre, erected by E. A. Sargent, of Roy, is now complete and ready for opening. It will be operated three nights each week.

ONTARIO

A new theatre, to seat 450, is in the course of erection in Sudbury. It will occupy a splendid location in the northern city.

C. A. Machon's theatre, now in course of erection at Coquille, is expected to be ready for opening by the end of August.

PENNSYLVANIA

Morris Gerson has been granted a permit to raze the properties located at 1018 to 1028 Ritmer street, to provide a site for a motion picture theatre.

UTAH

It is announced that Manager Alex Pantages will at once begin the construction of a new ten-story combination theatre and office building in Salt Lake City, to cost about $1,300,000.

The new structure, to be one of the handsomest on the circuit, is to be on Main street, between First and Second avenues, in what is regarded as the heart of the business district. It is expected it will be ready for occupancy in about six months. B. Marcus Priteca, the Pantages architect, says the plans call for what will be the most pretentious building in Salt Lake.

Salt Lake City business men are considering the construction of a $200,000 motion picture theatre on property to the rear of the Constitution Building on upper Main street. While the project has not reached a stage which will justify its promoters discussing it in detail, E. E. Jenkins, of Ashton-Jenkins Real Estate Company, admits that the matter is under consideration. It is reported that plans call for a house having a seating capacity of 3,000. The main building will be on the interior of the block with an arcade entrance on Main street.

WASHINGTON

The Rose theatre, Anacortes, was reopened recently under the management of Sam Mendelson. The theatre has been thoroughly renovated, a new fireproof operating room has been built, and it is fitted up with all the up-to-date, newest machines that could be secured. The color scheme is ivory and brown, velvet carpets have been placed in the foyer and the whole house carpeted; the proscenium arch of ornamental border, is finished at each end with a beautiful ornamental vase. There has been installed a very valuable silver sheet screen, which makes the pictures very lifelike.

K. Mikashima and a party of Japanese capitalists are erecting a $15,000 theatre at 410 Maynard avenue, Seattle, which it is expected will be opened early in the fall. The building will be 60 x 120 feet. Contractor Wm. Wills, Crary Building, has been awarded the general contract.

THE M·P HARVEY EXPOSURE METER

M·P METER $229
N°2 METER $125

A new principle for Motion Picture Cameras. Shows Shutter Openings and all stops for all lenses. Exterior work only. The N°2 Harvey Exposure Meter is for other cameras.

Your Dealer or G. L. Harvey 105 So. Dearborn St. Chicago

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO. N 169

80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone, 3227 Chelsea

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Used by film exchanges and theatres in every section. Recognized to be the most superior on the market—if it's good enough for your exchange, it's good enough for you. Ask them; they know.

One-ounce bottle	$0.25
Five bottles	1.00
Half pint	.75
Pint	1.25
Quart	2.00
Gallon	8.00

CEMENT IS NOT MAILABLE

DISCOUNTS TO EXCHANGES

Service and Quality
THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
ATLANTA·GEORGIA

TransVerteR

Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.

HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
W. 114th St., Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A

The Accessory Department teems with Items of Interest to Operator and Exhibitor alike.

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO. New York City

With Discrimination

We select only the finest grades of raw material for our product.

We select only the best of expert workmanship to manufacture our product.

With the same careful discrimination we have selected the following reliable concerns as distributors of our product.

UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORPORATION

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 1604 BROADWAY, N. Y.

729 7th Ave., N. Y. City
28 Piedmont St., Boston, Mass.
57 E. Elizabeth St., Detroit, Mich.
16 No. 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn.
938 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
115 W. 7th St., Cincinnati, Ohio
13th & Harney Sts., Omaha, Neb.
714 Huron Road, Cleveland, Ohio
1233 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.
514 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.

813 WALNUT ST., KANSAS CITY, MO.

SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 9 NASSAU ST., ATLANTA, GA.
1815 Main St., Dallas, Tex.

THE SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY COMPANY

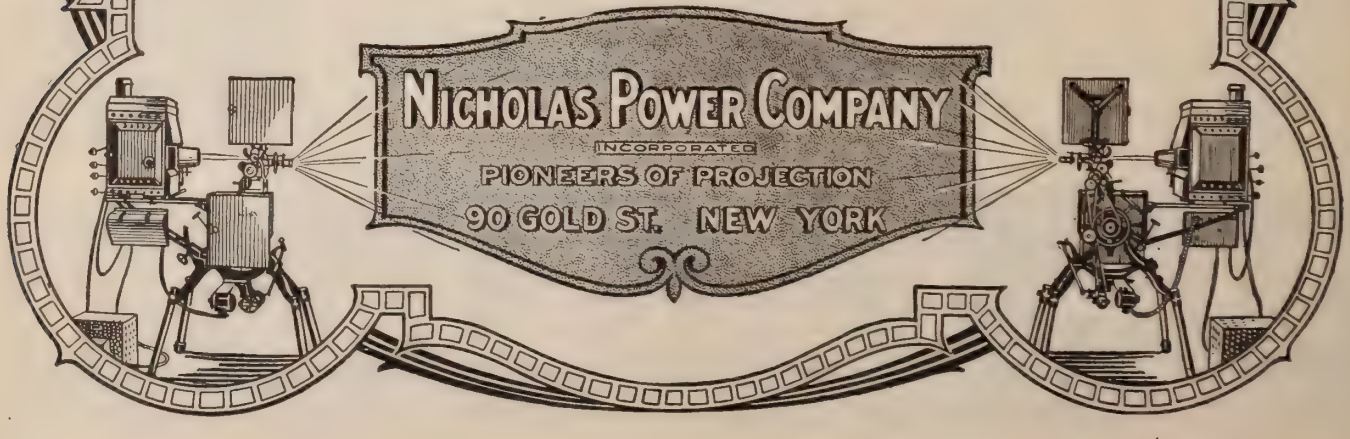
EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 1514 WELTON ST., DENVER, COL.
136 E. Second South St., Salt Lake City, Utah

G. A. METCALFE

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 117 GOLDEN GATE AVE., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
1210 Fourth Ave., Seattle, Wash.

PACIFIC AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

800 S. OLIVE ST., LOS ANGELES, CAL.



THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

Simplex

What is the real name of your House?

"Let The Simplex Twins Draw Your Crowd"

If you christened a nigger baby "Snow White," that wouldn't change the color of its skin, would it?

On the same principle, there's no use of adopting the name of some famous Simplex-Projection Theatre if you haven't got Simplex Projection.

The real name of your House is written on the screen by the Twins in the Projection Room.

If that name is "NEVER AGAIN" the Simplex Twins will put a better name there. They will beckon the crowds to come again and again and then many more times.

Like the Engine in an Automobile, your Projectors don't show, but . . . .

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

RUNS WILD
SENSATIONAL RECEIPTS EVERYWHERE
The greatest money-getter for Exhibitors in the history of pictures
"KAISER"
The Beast of Berlin
JEWEL PRODUCTIONS
INCORPORATED
Executive Offices, 1600 Broadway, New York City

JULY 13, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

DOMINATES THE FIELD

They Lead the Dollars to Your House

Prosperity comes on the run to the exhibitor who shows

Paramount and Artcraft Pictures

(Nationally Advertised)

The public's money goes to the theatre that always has worth while entertainment. That's the Paramount and Artcraft theatre.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

VOL. XVIII-NO. 2 Entered as Second Class Matter, October 15, 1913 at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3rd, 1879 PRICE 10 CENTS

FRANKLYN FARNUM
"The EMPTY CAB"
One of the most fascinating mystery dramas of the season
Book thru your nearest Bluebird Exchange
BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS
1600 BROADWAY N.Y.

Dorothy Gish

SHE created in D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World" the most distinctive character in motion pictures—the saucy French street singer, the lovable little soul whose spirit is the spirit of France.

Dorothy Gish will bring that character into Paramount Pictures. She'll be as wonderful in these as she is in "Hearts of the World."

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, Pres., JESSE L. LASKY, Vice Pres., CECIL B. DE MILLE, Director general
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

TRADE MARK
Paramount Pictures

THOMAS H. INCE

Thomas H. Ince

A SPLENDID power working for finer motion pictures, a genius whose photoplays have made money for exhibitors throughout the world, a master producer—that is Thomas H. Ince who will release at least thirty-two of his star feature pictures through the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in the year beginning September 1, next.

In addition, Mr. Ince will produce several special features.

William S. Hart, Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton, and Enid Bennett are the stars appearing in Thomas Ince's productions. Each is a name of tremendous box-office value, tremendous because Thomas H. Ince possesses the implicit confidence of exhibitor and patron. They know that "Ince Standard" means a standard set at the peak of excellence.

Paramount Pictures
FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

John Barrymore

"ON THE QUIET"

REMEMBER John Barrymore's "Are You a Mason?" Of course you do, and so do all your patrons.

John Barrymore's first new Paramount Picture is going to be funnier than anything he ever did before. It is "On the Quiet" (played on the stage by William Collier), a riotous side-splitter that will start off John Barrymore's new series with a whoop and a roar. Chet Withey is directing these pictures.

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

IT requires great confidence for a foreign buyer to make a contract with a film export house for its entire output.

J. FRANK BROCKLISS, INC., has a long term contract with

MADAME A. SCHUEPBACH

of the

MUNDUSFILM COMPANY, Paris

who buys exclusive rights for France.

"Entirely satisfied with the production you have advised us to buy," is the way in which Mme. Schuepbach expresses her appreciation of the judgment used by

The World's Largest Foreign Film House

in selecting American Productions for the foreign market.

MAY WE SERVE YOU?

J. FRANK BROCKLISS INC.

SIDNEY GARRETT Pres.

General Exporter and Importer

729 Seventh Ave. ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ New York City

You Can Advertise This Feature With Supreme Confidence—

For it Triumphed in Paris and London, and Billie Burke Starred in it During a Long Broadway Run

Notify your patrons that this is a chance to see a $2.00 Broadway Show at a fraction of that price

Be Sure to Emphasize the

SPECIAL CAST

presenting this unusual feature:

Beautiful

Corinne Griffith

Supported by

Florence Deshon
Alice Terry
Julia Swayne Gordon
Denton Vane
Ed Burns

And Other Prominent Players

"Teaser" Copy for Program

Jacqueline was a miss with a will of her own. And when she took a husband, she wanted him all hers. True, he had been a noted "lady-killer," but Jacqueline was the only one he had taken seriously enough to marry. And he was through with his flirtations forever. But—

One of the vampire-ladies he had known decided to generate a little jealousy in the honeymoon household. And after she had fainted in his arms before witnesses guaranteed to tell Friend Wife—well, she departed, satisfied that the seed of domestic turmoil had been sown.

And it had. Jacqueline decided to "get even." And to spite her husband, she pretended to encourage the advances of an old, old friend. The friend was a rank amateur in the game of love—but of course he didn't know it. Ernest—for that was his name—thought he was a regular home-breaker.

And while to Jacqueline it was a great adventure and a great joke, what of the hornet's nest she stirred up—what of the gossip and the scandal? What of the suspicions that she planted in the heart of a man who knew all about the failings of women and the methods of men.

This brilliant French comedy that brought Billie Burke her greatest success will prove one of the most delightful diversions the screen has ever offered you.

ALBERT E. SMITH presents

CORINNE GRIFFITH

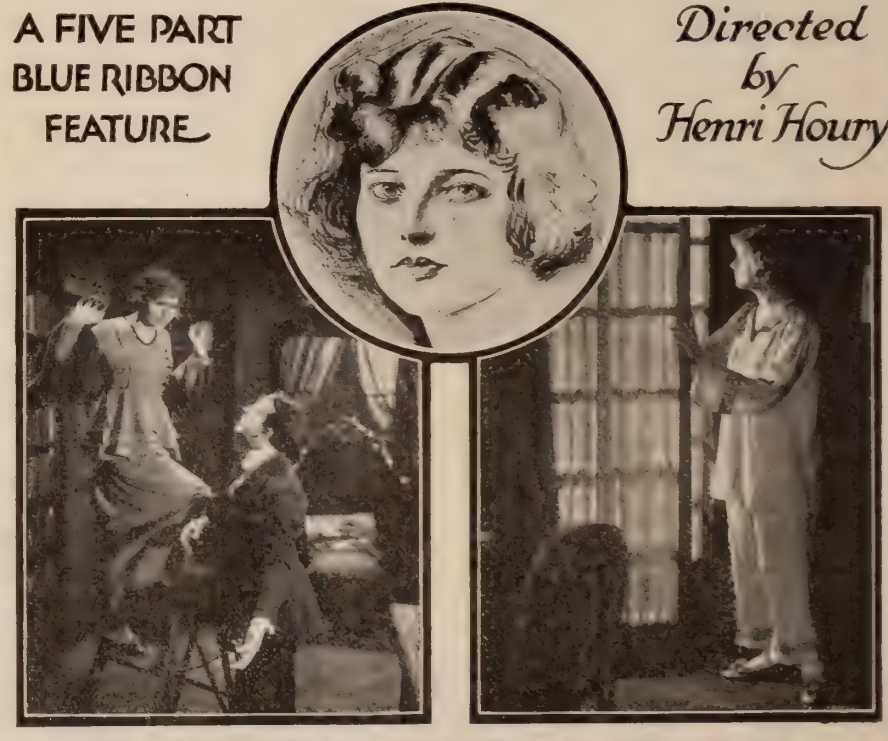
IN

"LOVE WATCHES"

From Billie Burke's Celebrated Stage Success of the Same Title.

A FIVE PART BLUE RIBBON FEATURE

Directed by Henri Houry



VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E·SMITH Presents

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

by ALBERT E·SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Backed by

THOUSANDS of BILLBOARDS that are

UP NOW

Building Business For Your Theatre

Featuring

WILLIAM DUNCAN

Supported by

Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan

A Knockout! A Home Run! A "Turn-Them-Away" Guarantee!

"Just saw first three episodes 'FIGHT FOR MILLIONS.' Wow! but they are great. We'll say this is some Vitagraph Serial. It beats them all! It looks like a home run with three on base.

"Come on with the rest of the episodes. This will sure be a knockout and will turn people away at the box-office.

"You have them all beat for serials. Keep up your good work!"

C. G. HEXTER,
Point Breeze Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

You Can See This Serial at the Nearest VITAGRAPH EXCHANGE TO-DAY

VITAGRAPH

"What have you done? In God's name speak!"

The great popularity of

ALICE BRADY

plus the dramatic brilliance of

"THE WHIRLPOOL"

makes this a production you can lean on for sure box-office results.

Never has Alice Brady appeared to better advantage than in "The Whirlpool."

Scenario by Eve Unsell from the novel by Victoria Morton
Directed by Alan Crosland

SELECT SP PICTURES

Again

NORMA TALMADGE

(Presented by JOSEPH M. SCHENCK)

Comes before the Exhibitors of the country in a one-hundred percent perfect photoplay! What she did in "Ghosts of Yesterday," "By Right of Purchase," and "De Luxe Annie," she has done again in

"THE SAFETY CURTAIN"

By Ethel M. Dell

Directed by Sidney A. Franklin

Her perfection and her popularity produce your profit!

SELECT SP PICTURES

Goldwyn Pictures

Exhibitors Forced Goldwyn To Double Its Output Of Productions.

GOLDWYN'S decision to make in excess of fifty productions in its second year is due to the pressure of the nation's exhibitors.

The twenty-six productions of our first year created a bi-weekly Goldwyn standard.

Every second week—or for one, two or three days in every second week—the new Goldwyn production then released gave the theatre in which it was played a tone and quality that at once brought increased business to the box-office.

Exhibitors soon found themselves puzzled over filling in the "Goldwyn day" or days of the in-between weeks.

Their public patronage sensed the tremendous difference between Goldwyn Pictures and "other pictures."

No man has to be hit with the force of a pneumatic riveter to feel a truth that affects his own pocketbook.

Before Goldwyn had been in business ninety days exhibitors were making the demand: "Give us a Goldwyn Picture at least once a week as a guarantee of sustained quality and patronage for our houses."

Our Goldwyn exhibitor patronage grew and grew until now there are in excess of 5,000 active contract accounts in force.

In time of war, at the height of the greatest crisis in human history, at a time when business "jumps at shadows" and takes as few steps as possible, the inspiring confidence of the exhibitors of America has forced Goldwyn to double its annual output of productions.

Great indeed is the law of supply and demand!

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President.

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Goldwyn Is Not Content

With Quantity—Quality Comes First.

THE average motion picture viewpoint would be: "Oh, well, since the exhibitors want fifty pictures, we will give them fifty pictures."

Goldwyn has equipped itself to offer in excess of fifty productions next year.

GERALDINE FARRAR will have more dramatic and unusual stories than she has ever had before. We are avoiding the costume plays that the public taste now rejects.

PAULINE FREDERICK will do the modern emotional dramas through which she won instant popularity when she came from the stage to the screen.

REX BEACH is doing for you what he has never done before—offering six Rex Beach productions in one year. Annually for five years his new picture has meant a profit-making festival for exhibitors.

MABEL NORMAND, with unrivalled talents and millions of admirers, will be presented in comedy-dramas, with chief emphasis laid upon the comedy.

MAE MARSH, having drawn tremendous patronage for exhibitors in "Polly of the Circus," "The Cinderella Man" and other big successes, will be starred again in emotional and romantic dramas.

MADGE KENNEDY, who won instant screen popularity, will greatly increase her appeal and drawing power in dramatic comedies like those in which she has proved herself a box-office money-maker.

TOM MOORE has been made a star by you—the exhibitors of the country. His nation-wide success is assured in advance by the public's and your own liking for him.

Here you find no "deadwood" stars. Each of these personalities possesses the power to stand alone; each has challenge and a tremendous following.

And each will appear in productions of the quality and type that have made the Goldwyn name the best known name in motion pictures in the brief period of twelve months.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

CAPITOL COMEDIES

"Oh, Mister!"

- - - Think of having comedies for your patrons that are made on the same careful and lavish scale with which some producers make their big productions. Comedies with the fire and humors of life in them; comedies that are not thrown together in haste, but are built skilfully to appeal both to your sense of fun and your intelligence. The instant success both with large and small exhibitors of

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS

in

CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a Year — Every Second Monday

is due to the lively speed and humor of his stories; to the "finish" which makes them stand alone. Their latest metropolitan triumph is a booking at the Strand Theatre, New York; a solid booking at the Marcus Loew theatres, including the big Stillman Theatre, Cleveland; and in more than 2,000 other houses whose managers recognized a big hit the moment they saw it.

Capitol Comedies are distributed exclusively through the offices of Goldwyn in nineteen American cities. Have YOU booked them?

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

The editor of the Madison, Wis. "State Journal" writes

A POSTSCRIPT

Yesterday we gave editorial notice to the film pictures now running at a theater in this city which tells Ambassador James W. Gerard's remarkable story, "My Four Years in Germany." Today we wish to emphasize the patriotic importance of these pictures in this postscript. It is unfortunate that this remarkable revelation and exposition of historical fact is not the property of the government. It should be. This film should be exhibited in every school and college in the United States.

In three hours it will tell more history of vital importance than the average pupil will get in a year's attendance of an historical course. It is a fact picture that every teacher of German in school or college should be compelled to see that they may know the K... of the government whose language they teach. It is a full an... y opponent of the plan to eliminate the teaching of Germa... lic schools. For a number of years certain courses in G... University of Wisconsin opened each morning wit... Die Wacht am Rhein, while no classes open... national anthem. This was pure propagand... ed. But how stimulating it would be now... ractice we could open up every German c... el of Gerard's "My Four Years in... government ought to see that ever... provided with a copy of this... our public schools and comm... teacher on the public pa... torical fact.

Liverpool, O. "Tribune"

MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY

WONDERFUL PICTURE AT THE ORPHEUM ALL THIS WEEK.

With the number of so-called "war pictures" on the market—one or two of them are excellent and the others so palpably faked and false—it is refreshing to say the least to view one like "My Four Years in Germany," the attraction this week at the Orpheum theater.

How anyone no face or creed bar... could view this picture and not be thrilled to the very core is beyond conception. It is a truly wonderful picturization of events, historically true, taken from the book of the same name, by Ambassador James W. Gerard, and visualized in a manner both interesting and entertaining. The photography is perfect, the interior settings lifelike to the minutest detail, the exteriors well chosen and the acting of the principals and entire cast beyond criticism.

The portrayal of the kaiser and his staff, the treatment accorded the Russians and English prisoners by the Germans; the capturing and deporta... of the Belgian women, the ki... tion of the old and young, the ... off of the other prisoners en ... prison camps to avoid ... all these are shown ... lifelike that can ... war "home" ... picture. ... ha...

Champlain, Ill. Gazette

SENSATIONAL GERARD FILM A COMES HERE

Ceramic Theatre Gets Production Which Has New York Agog—A Notable Event

"My Four Years in Germany" Starts Three-Day Engagement at the Ceramic Today

The wonderful story of Ambassador James W. Gerard and his remarkable career as representative of the United States government in Germany, where he proved the courage of his nation by defying the kaiser and remaining adamant against the blandishments and trickery of Teuton Kultur, comes to the Ceramic Theatre for three days showing, starting today. This marks the exhibition here of the most talked of film feature in all America, a multiple reel masterpiece that has been breaking all attendance records on Broadway for many weeks at the Knickerbocker theater. So great was the success of this production at this big metropolitan playhouse, at $2 ad... mission, that two other of the leading theaters of the city have been given over to it. It is a production of Gerard's own story, "My Four Years in Germany," and is the biggest and most authentic disclosure of conditions in Germany to the time America got into the war that has ever been shown. It is gripping, it is spectacular, it is true. It has the endorsement of the U. S. government and the personal sanction of Ambassador Gerard. It is his production and he has seen to it that it be real, not framed to thrill alone, but to instruct. It will do more to show them why America is in war and what this country is fighting for than all of the other patriotic films put together. So c... one and only real Gerard story. It ... A Dramatic Treat. ... more, "My Four ye... Gerr...derfully dra... the German ... destruction ... known in true ... only te... shown.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

A "First National" Attraction

Don't it give you "a grand and glorious feelin'" when the newspapers get behind your show like this

Ambassador James W. Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany." Directed by William Nigh
Produced by Mark M. Dintenfass and Harry M. Warner. Scenario by Chas. A. Logue.
Foreign Rights: Hiller and Wilk, Longacre Bldg., New York City

WANTED

Salesmen - Representatives

There are twenty men in the United States whom we want to become associated with us.

These men are fighters—they have moral and physical courage—they have keen sales experience and mental calibre sufficient to earn $5,000 to $10,000 per year.

They are not looking for a "job"—but for a place in a sincere, rapidly growing organization that is striving to make the Motion Picture Business a worth while industry.

These men will come with us because they believe that we are destined to stand head and shoulders above all others.

The men we choose will be given the same incentive to work as if they were in business for themselves, therefore we must be sure of their integrity and sense of responsibility toward the exhibitor whom they must serve in their connection with us.

Politics, favoritism, unsettled conditions—cannot interfere with their success and progress in our organization.

Only big men in every sense of the word need apply because only big men will appreciate the greatness of the opportunity offered them and have the ability and strength necessary to grasp and hold it.

Write us giving full details of yourself—record and ambitions—and why you believe you can measure up to our standards.

All communications will be held strictly confidential. Address them to General Sales Manager

W. W. HODKINSON

CORPORATION

527 Fifth Ave. :: :: New York City

Plaza Pictures are offered to the trade with confidence that their consistent quality in stories, stars and production will make them welcome to both exhibitor and the public.

They will be released by the W.W. Hodkinson Corporation as part of the Hodkinson Service thru the General Film Exchanges.

Further announcement will be made next week relating to the Stars and release dates of productions.

PARALTA PLAYS

PICK OF THE PICTURES

J. WARREN KERRIGAN

IN

"ONE DOLLAR BID"

Adapted from the Famous Novel "Toby" by Credo Harris

DIRECTED BY ERNEST C. WARD

A STAR OF PROVEN POPULARITY

Whose first two Paralta Plays, "A Man's Man" and "Turn of a Card" have packed theatres to their capacity wherever they have been shown.

THE GREATEST SUCCESS OF HIS CAREER

Promises to be "ONE DOLLAR BID" which is a typical Kerrigan story, the locale of which is in the Kentucky Hills, and which pulsates with romantic moments, red-blooded action and climaxic situations.

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc. 8 WEST 48th STREET NEW YORK CITY

DISTRIBUTED THROUGH

"HODKINSON SERVICE"

AT ALL GENERAL FILM EXCHANGES

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

"HER MOMENT" with Anna Luther

By Samuel H. London

Produced by Author's Photo-Plays Inc.

Directed by Frank Beal

An Unusual Problem Play

Ready about July 15

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company
25 West 44th Street, New York City

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

Keep Up The Nation's Morale!

The country is full of the fighting spirit. Its courage is high. But it takes cheerfulness to keep confidence stimulated for a winning fight. Nothing makes for cheerfulness more than first class comedy.

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN COMEDIES

THEY NEED NO INTRODUCTION

"A Night Out"
"His New Job"
"The Tramp"
"In the Park"
"A Woman"
"By the Sea"
"The Champion"
"A Jitney Elopement"
"Work"

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF UNADULTERATED FUN

"Slippery Slim's Inheritance"
"Sophie's Legacy"
"Sophie Gets Stung"
"Slippery Slim—Diplomat"
"Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent"
"Slippery Slim's Stratagem"
"A Hot Time in Snakeville"
"Snakeville's New Sheriff"
"A Snakeville Epidemic"
"Sophie's Birthday Party"

Essanay

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company
25 West 44th Street, New York City

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

WOLFVILLE TALES

"The Coming of Faro Nell"

by

Alfred Henry Lewis

A Breezy, Suspenseful Story of the Real West with a Dominant Note of Mystery and Heart Interest, Introducing Wolfville's Fairest Heroine.

Next Week—Another of those famous O. Henry Stories, "Mammon and the Archer."

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company
25 West 44th Street, New York City

Something BIG Is

Something BIG Is COMING!

A Word to the Wise From This Original, Efficient and Successful Organization Is More Than Sufficient!

Triangle Distributing Corporation

1457 BROADWAY NEW YORK

EVERYBODY

WANTS TO KNOW

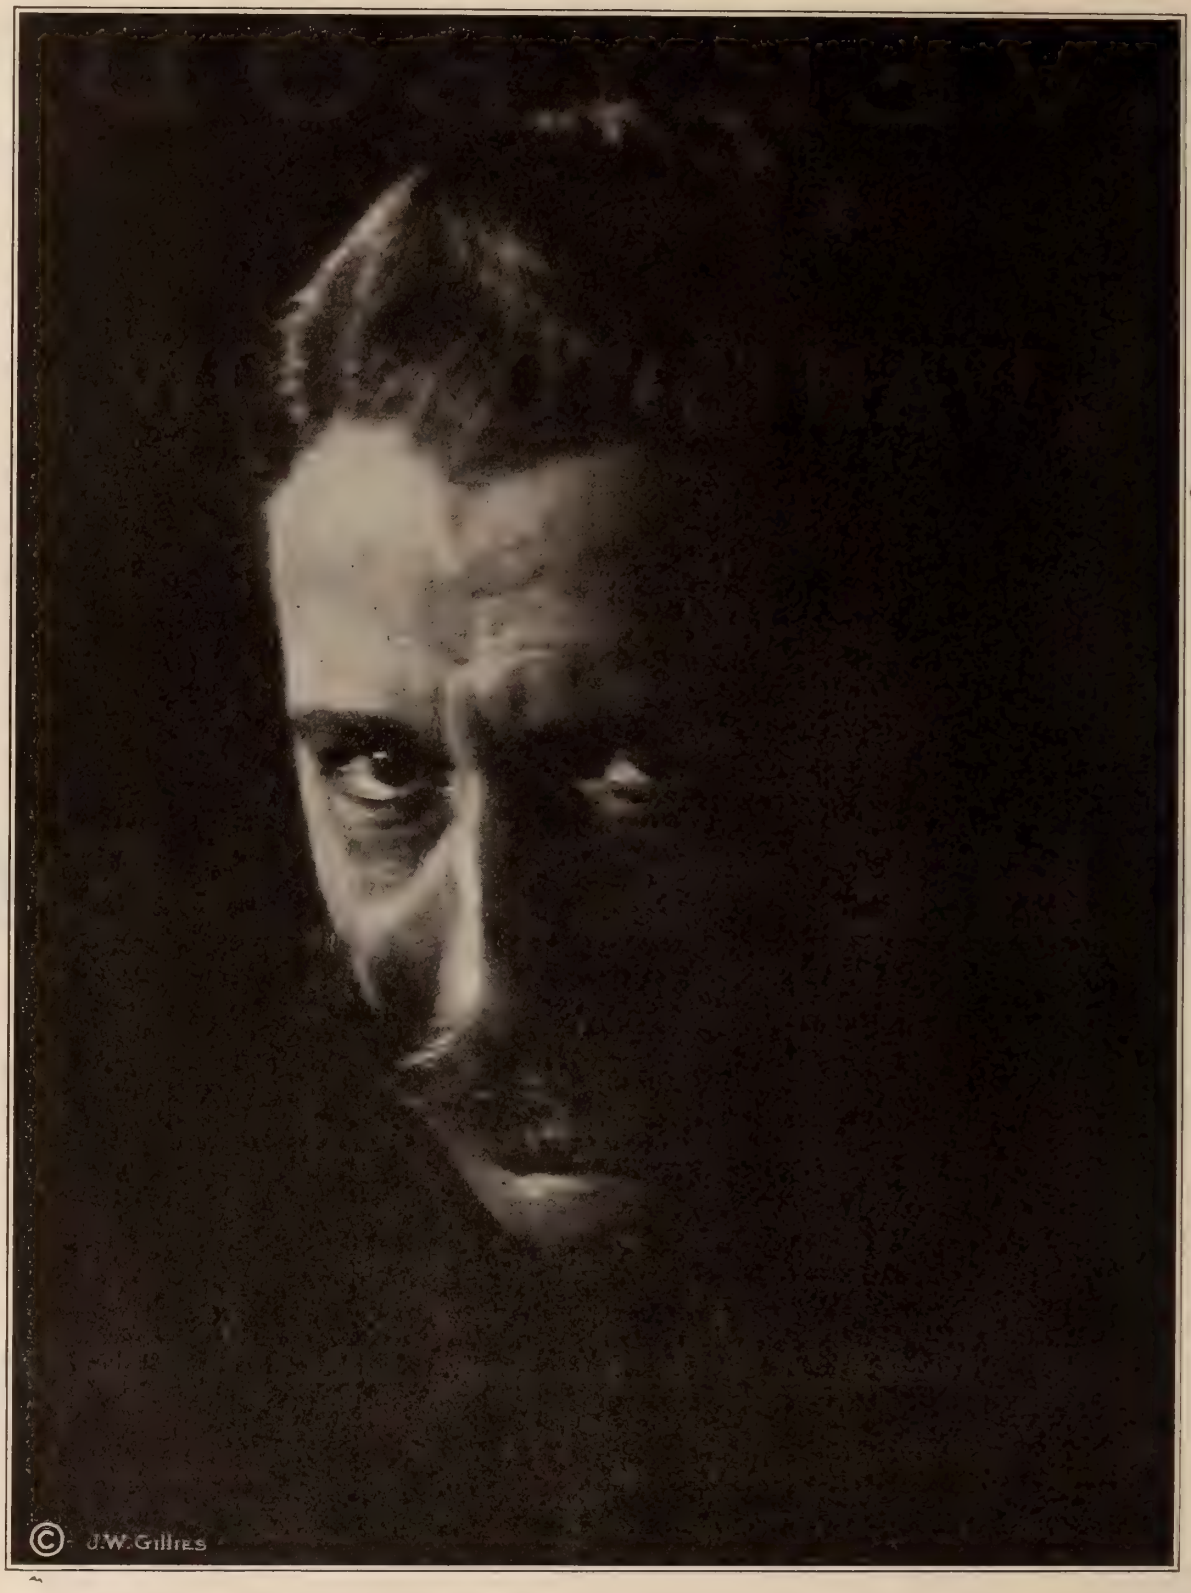
Who Played

THE KAISER

in the Sensational

SCREEN CLASSICS, Inc., PRODUCTION

"To Hell with the Kaiser"



LAWRENCE GRANT

LAWRENCE GRANT

LECTURER——ACTOR——PHOTOGRAPHER

PUBLICITY POINTERS FOR EXHIBITORS ON THE FEATURED PLAYER OF

"To Hell with the Kaiser"

LAWRENCE GRANT, who makes his screen debut in the parts of the Kaiser and his famous double in the Screen Classics Production, "To Hell with the Kaiser" has been known even without make-up for his likeness to the German Emperor—with the addition of merely a moustache the resemblance becomes remarkable.

He used this likeness in writing his preparedness sketch, "The Final Arbiter," in which he played another dual role—an American Clergyman and the Kaiser, and after two years of success with this in Vaudeville, he acquired the rights of R. H. Davis's "Efficiency," a playlet which amazed New York on its first production, and it was while playing this that he was induced by the Metro Company to undertake the feature parts in their great screen War drama.

AS AN ACTOR

Lawrence Grant was leading man in England, for such well-known stars as Mrs. Lewis Waller, Miss Kate Rorke, and, succeeding the late Kyrle Bellew, he co-starred in several plays with Mrs. Brown-Potter. After being with Sir George Alexander at the St. James theatre, and Arthur Bourchier at the Garrick and Shaftesbury Theatres, London, he starred in "Joseph Entangled" in the part played in this country by Henry Miller, in "Peter's Mother," "Miss Hobbs," etc. He came to America with Miss Olga Nethersole, and later appeared for several seasons under Charles Frohman's management. Probably his best known work here was when he was the feature of the New York Hippodrome production, "The Wars of the World," in which he played the remarkable part of "History."

AS A LECTURER AND SPEAKER

however, Lawrence Grant has become most widely known in this country.

In the season of 1914 he was selected by the Committee of the National Civic Federation to be England's representative in a series of lectures, appearing against Dr. Bernard Dernburg, who was the special personal propagandist for the Kaiser. He has spoken on War subjects almost continuously since the outbreak of the War, among other well known opponents he has frequently encountered being Professor Edmund Von Mach, Dr. Oscar Bertling, of Breslau University, Dr. Meyer Gerhard, official representative of Austria. and Dr. Karl Graves, the famous spy now interned at Fort Leavenworth. He has worked in conjunction with the British Recruiting Mission and the Liberty Loan Committee, and he has lectured for various War Charities with his own motion pictures taken during the War in France, for in all his Travel Talks he uses only his own pictures, for he is and in March, 1915, went over to France in conjunction with Miss Anne Morgan, and under the management of Miss Elisabeth Marbury, to make a series of motion pictures—not of war subjects—but of the civilians keeping things going while the soldiers were away at the front. In order to accomplish this purpose he had the special permission of the French Minister of War, Minister of Public Safety, and the Minister of the Interior, he was therefore able to travel freely from the War Zone to the Western Coast and from the Channel Ports to the Pyrenees. While going along the Pyrenean towns he made a trip into the smallest country in the world—Andorra—an independent Republic of only 5,000 people, yet over a thousand years old. The President had recently issued a manifesto announcing to the world the strict neutrality of his country. He was tremendously interested in everything appertaining to America, and when Lawrence Grant left he asked him to personally carry an official letter from him to the President of the United States congratulating "Andorra and her sister republic on the fact that they were both in a state of neutrality" (1915). This letter was duly presented at the White House and a suitable answer was delivered by Mr. Wilson to Lawrence Grant for transferrence to his Andorran friend, President Pierre Font.

HIS OWN PHOTOGRAPHER

Lawrence Grant also lectures in the American Western country, being familiar with the Canyons and great Parks; he has lived among cowboys and American Indians and has the rare distinction of having been formally adopted as a brother into the Piegan branch of the Blackfeet tribe under the name of "Striped Elk," though he is called familiarly by them "One-eye-in-eye" in reference to his English monocle. His work with the camera, besides embracing motion picture making, also includes Studio portrait studies, his "BELGIUM" having had a considerable sale in New York, Paris, and London.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE—
"Lawrence Grant gave an interpretation of the Kaiser that was remarkable for its force and subtlety, as well as for its uncanny physical resemblance to the world's best hated Ruler. He is the best Kaiser we have seen."

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH—
"Of course the Kaiser was the Star of this Picture."

NEW YORK EVENING MAIL—
"Lawrence Grant has the role of the Kaiser. He makes Wilhelm thoroughly detestable."

Kick everything asid

"To Hell With the Kaiser" Strikingly Presented at the Broadway

Having returned from our vacation at 6:30 we were requested at 6:40 to go to the Broadway Theatre at 8:30. We liked "To Hell With the Kaiser" even better than Atlantic City. The title needs no explanation. It means just that literally, and they are doing it very satisfactorily on the screen. Would that the story were written in the past tense instead of in the future.

The picture was shown Sunday night for the first time, and it is doubtful if the old Broadway has held such a crowd since the days of the "Midnight Sons." Every one was there and every seat was filled. The stage boxes were fitted up like two little private hells. During the performance they were concealed by red velvet draperies, but in the final scene, where Mr. Hohenzollern returns to that particular bourne, these curtains are drawn back and flames leap and dance in front of a background that is truly infernal. We thought that a realistic touch would have been to have Lawrence Grant, in his Kaiser's make-up, pushed down into this yawning furnace. It wouldn't have hurt him, because it wasn't real fire, but it looked hot enough to be an excellent substitute when heatless Mondays come again.

Lawrence Grant gave an interpretation of the Kaiser that was remarkable for its subtlety as well as for its uncanny physical resemblance to the world's best hated ruler. He is the best Kaiser we have seen. In fact, he is so good that we wouldn't be surprised if no one ever spoke to him again. He plays a dual rôle, but the other man is a villain, too, an actor person who impersonated His Satanic Majesty when William himself wished to take a vacation. In that way Mr. Hohenzollern could direct one set of atrocities while his double directed another.

Olive Tell never looked so pretty as she did as "the girl," an American who is residing in Berlin with her father. When the story opens she is just leaving the convent in Belgium, where she has taken her younger sister. Betty Howe is the sister who remains in Belgium and is later attacked by the Crown Prince when the village is sacked.

The story does not pretend to be a history of the war, and the only things that are true are the atrocities which are committed by the Germans. These are always bound to be true. But it is intensely interesting and extremely well done. It is war melodrama at its best.

The man who portrayed the Crown Prince gave an excellent performance. He was so obnoxious that every one was delighted when he, too, got his deserts. Olive Tell shot him through the heart because he insisted on making love to her. The picture is released by Metro.

N.Y. Tribune

TO HELL WITH

A SCREEN CLASSICS

Featuring Lawrence Grant as the Kaiser

New York

"Most vital of all pictures" Eve. Journal

"Most absorbing, tremendously interesting and essentially dramatic picture that has been shown" Evening Telegram

"Big success" The Globe

YOU have the verdict of the public and the press. This is the greatest cashing-in production ever offered and we make no exceptions whatever.

METRO

for this attraction!!

THE KAISER
PRODUCTION-with Olive Tell and a tremendous cast-taken by storm!

 Splendid  Times
"Stirred a loyal audience" Herald
"Hit the nail on the Head - Standing room only" Morning Telegraph
"Gives Victory Key" The Sun

IF you haven't an open date- make one and book it for two weeks or one week-
It will absolutely pay you to do it!

PICTURES CORPORATION
Exclusive Distributors

REMARKABLE FILM.

Scenes from "To Hell with the Kaiser" promise Unusual Film Achievement.

SOME of the scenes of "To Hell with the Kaiser," the seven-act film drama to be presenetd at the Broadway Theatre to-morrow night, were revealed at a private showing yesterday to an audience made up of press representatives and persons directly concerned with the picture's premier.

The emphatic Americanism that speaks through the title of the picture has found expression in all of these scenes. The author, June Mathis, did not write her scenario on lavender-tinted paper, nor did the director, George Irving, forget that he was visualizing the greed and lust of the Potsdam gang that set out to get posses sion not only of Europe but of the United States. "To Hell with the Kaiser" is not a pacifist tonic. It is a patriotic epic.

With the introduction of a love story the picture mingles the author's fancy with the facts of history. The war lords of Germany, presided over by Wilhelm of Hohenzollern, are shown planning the conquest of the world. To each is allotted a nation as a reward—the United States, reserved for the last, intended for the crown prince. The now historic incidents are shown in which Wilhelm tore up the treaty of Belgium, declaring it to be only "a scrap of paper," and acknowledging to the world that he disregarded all honor and decency. The sacking of Belgium, the burning of convents and the violation of nuns and young girls are indicated in a way that makes the blood boil with righteous indignation.

The adventures of an American family from the plot around which the romance centers. Prof. Monroe has perfected a wireless invention which the kaiser is trying to obtain, but which he refuses to yield except to his own government. The professor secures his passports, and goes to Belgium to get his youngest daughter, Ruth, only to find her dying as the result of an assault o nthe convent by the crown prince and his men. He is shot down when he protests, and Alice, the older daughter, devotes her life to avenging her sister. Making use of her acquaintance with an actor, who is hired to impersonate the kaiser, to keep his person safe from the crowds, she is introduced to the crown prince, and through him brings about the capture of the kaiser.

A fleet of aëroplanes of the allied armies is shown in full battle with the enemy air firce, making one of the most thrilling scenes ever shown on the screen. The kaiser is abducted by Alice and the American aviator, Dodge, and taken into the presence of Gen. Pershing. Later his appearance in the depths of hell is shown, and with the passing of his base soul, peace once more smiles upon the earth.

Scenes in the trenches are shown which will be of intense interest to every American community which has given sons to the great cause of humanity. The acting of Lawrence Grant as the kaiser, Olive Tell as Alice, Betty Howe as Ruth, Frank Currier as Prof. Monroe and John Sunderland as Dodge deserves special mention, though all the cast is good.

Eve. Mail

With Successes like these-

Let your competitor do the hot-weather worrying.

warning

DON'T sign a contract that closes your theatre to the big pictures that are coming

William L. Sherril's MY OWN UNITED STATES with Mr. ARNOLD DALY
The success of the day

TOYS of FATE
with NAZIMOVA
The new screen sensation

REVELATION
with NAZIMOVA
An unqualified triumph

LEST WE FORGET
with RITA JOLIVET
Greater now than before

DOLLY SISTERS
in The MILLION DOLLAR DOLLIES
The most distinctive production of the year

BLUE JEANS
with VIOLA DANA
A perpetual money maker

LEGION of DEATH
with
EDITH STOREY
A great star in a great production

Draft 258
with
MABEL TALIAFERRO

The Slacker
with
EMILY STEVENS

SCREEN CLASSICS INC.

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION
Exclusive Distributors

Supreme METRO Successes Re-issued

The SOUL of a WOMAN
with
EMILY STEVENS

SHOOTING OF DAN McGREW
with
EDMUND BREESE

METRO
PICTURES CORPORATION
presents

The rising star of motion pictures

BERT LYTELL

in the Louis Joseph Vance romance

NO MAN'S LAND

Adapted by Mr. Lytell and A. S. Le Vino
Directed by William S. Davis in 5 acts.

RELEASED BY

METRO

JULY EIGHTH.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE

A GOOD PRODUCTION OF PROVED VALUE ? or AN UNKNOWN PRODUCT OF THE PICTURE MILL ?

One of the things you have learned is that a good picture will always stand repetition, whereas a poor picture makes no impression at any time. Many well known successes have been greater sources of revenue later than they were at the outset.

"THE BIG SIX"

give you a chance to obtain in one collection, under one agreement, independently of all other bookings, six of the greatest productions in which have appeared since they have been screen favorites—the six productions which more than 5,000 exhibitors have practically unanimously declared to be the pictures they most desired to show again.

THEDA BARA and WILLIAM FARNUM

BARA

"A FOOL THERE WAS"
"THE CLEMENCEAU CASE"
"THE TWO ORPHANS"

"THE BONDMAN"
"A SOLDIER'S OATH"
"THE PLUNDERER"

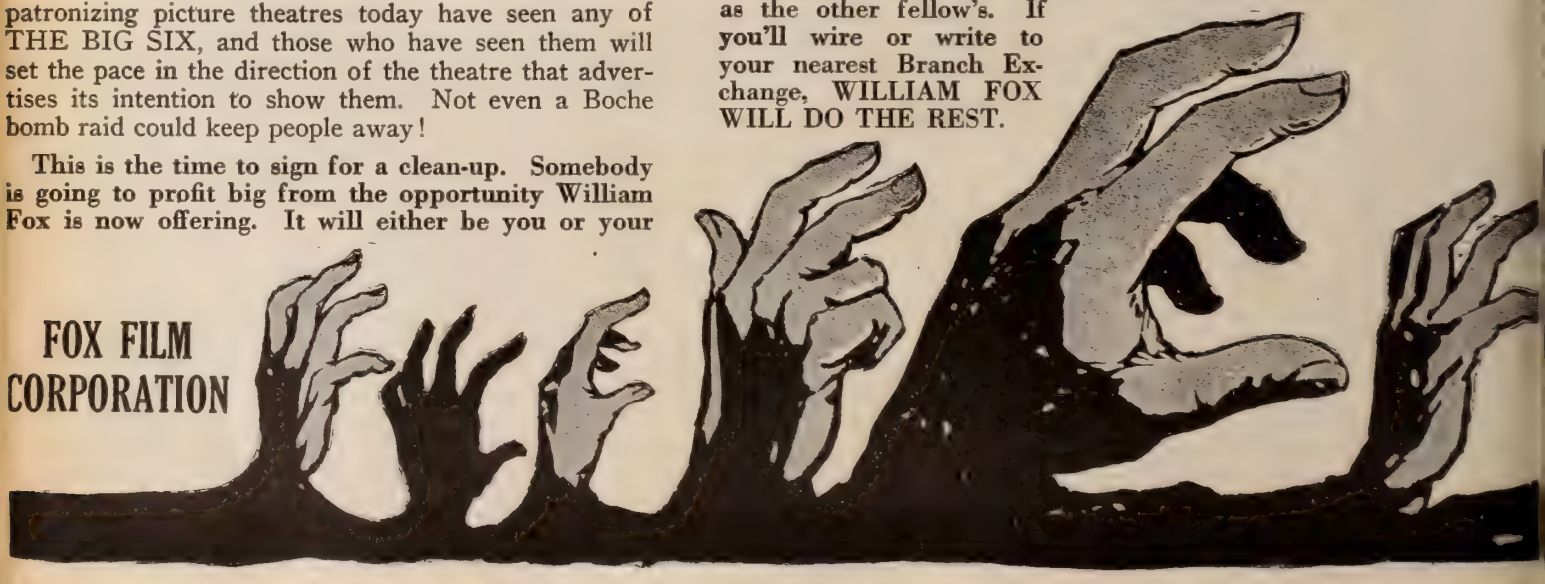
FARNUM

And no one who has looked over the remarkable casts, but realizes, without being told, that here are players no one manager of today could possibly assemble; that in these BIG SIX are more famous and better actors than now are to be seen in twelve ordinary pictures!

NEW VERSIONS—NEW PRINTS—NEW APPEAL—NEW ARRANGEMENT—NEW EDITIONS

Comparatively few of the whole number of persons patronizing picture theatres today have seen any of THE BIG SIX, and those who have seen them will set the pace in the direction of the theatre that advertises its intention to show them. Not even a Boche bomb raid could keep people away!

This is the time to sign for a clean-up. Somebody is going to profit big from the opportunity William Fox is now offering. It will either be you or your competitor, and your chance of getting in is as good as the other fellow's. If you'll wire or write to your nearest Branch Exchange, WILLIAM FOX WILL DO THE REST.



FOX FILM CORPORATION

GRAB IT!

20 REASONS FOR BOOKING "BIG SIX" OF 1918

1—5000 exhibitors have requested that they be released.

2—They are the cream of the Fox output during three years.

3—They established William Fox as a producer.

4—They swept the country by storm.

5—They hold all records for big box office receipts.

6—They are known to exhibitors and public everywhere.

7—All who have seen them will be eager to see them again.

8—Those who have seen them are their best advertisement.

9—They will attract millions who did not go to picture shows prior to this year.

10—Good pictures will always stand repetition.

11—They are new productions in every sense of the word.

12—They have been re-edited and re-titled.

13—They have been shortened and speeded up.

14—New scenes have been added.

15—They are in 5 reels or about 4500 feet.

16—They have more famous actors than now are seen in 12 average pictures.

17—They are the biggest productions available for summer business.

18—They absolutely assure a big clean-up.

19—They can be sold to packed houses at advanced prices.

20—They can be booked independently of all other productions.

FOX FILM CORPORATION

A FIGHT TO DEATH

William Fox presents

PEGGY HYLAND

IN

OTHER MEN'S DAUGHTERS

by E. Lloyd Sheldon

Staged by Carl Harbaugh

SPECIAL FEATURES FOX FILM CORPORATION

William Fox
presents

WILLIAM FARNUM
in
Les Miserables

Released in August on a rental basis

CONTRACT NOW

Fox Exchanges

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

IDEAL SUMMER FEATURES BOOK THEM NOW

WILLIAM FOX Presents

BUD FISHER'S

MUTT and JEFF

"HOSPITAL ORDERLIES" "LIFE SAVERS" "MEETING THEDA BARA"

Also

HENRY LEHRMAN'S

SUNSHINE COMEDIES

"WILD WOMEN and TAME LIONS"

"A NEIGHBORS KEYHOLE"

"A WAITERS WASTED LIFE"

PATHÉ

IT'S A WESTERN SERIAL
full of hair-breadth escapes, plunging horses, dare-devil deeds, a new kind of mystery and always action, action, ACTION!

RUTH ROLAND

in the coming PATHÉ Serial

HANDS UP

Produced by ASTRA....
Written by Gilson Willets
Directed by James Horn

PATHÉ

IT'S PATHÉ'S TWENTIETH SERIAL and it's GOT to be a serial for Pathe to be proud of and it is!

RUTH ROLAND

in the smashing, sensational Western Serial

HANDS UP

It profits by the experience gained by its nineteen money-making predecessors. It is smooth, harmonious, lavishly produced & always exciting.
It is a box office delight! Produced by Astra
Written by Gilson Willets. Directed by Jas. Horn

COMING SOON!!

They all want it!

Form 1201

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Telegram
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — GEORGE W. E. ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Telegram
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

RECEIVED AT

A749C 50 NL

CINCINNATI O 24 1918 JUN 25 AM 12 46

PATHE EXCHANGE INC

25 WEST FORTY FIFTH STREET NEW YORK

ALLIES WAR REVIEW CLOSED FIRST RUN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES THIS TERRITORY ONE WEEK CINCINNATI FOUR DAYS EACH IN LOUISVILLE COLUMBUS AND DAYTON PLAYS NEW MILLION DOLLAR THEATRE DAYTON

PATHE CINCINNATI

Every exhibitor everywhere knows that the

ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

containing as it does the official war pictures of

United States, Great Britain, France and Italy

is a box office attraction that is unexcelled. In it may be seen weekly the soldiers of Democracy's mighty army striving against the world enemy. In each number the pages of History are turned in such a way that all may read. YOU need it in YOUR theatre!

A weekly selection of intensely interesting pictures taken by Allied staffs and by U.S. Signal Corps and Navy photographers, presented by

Committee on Public Information
George Creel, Chairman
Division of Films
Chas. S. Hart, Director

First Number Released July 1st

Distributed by Pathé

NAILED!

An Open Letter to the Committee on Ways and

Dear Sir: June 28, 1918.

On June 18th, 1918, Mr. Patrick A. Powers of the Universal Film Company appeared before your Committee as one of a delegation appointed by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

In appointing Mr. Powers as one of its delegates it was the purpose of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to lay before your Committee certain facts relative to the film footage tax. It appears, however, that Mr. Powers took advantage of the opportunity thus afforded him to misrepresent the relationship between Pathe Exchange, Inc., and Mr. William Randolph Hearst; and also to question the good faith of the Committee on Public Information in awarding to this Company the contract for the release of the ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW.

By reference to "the Pathe-Hearst Company" and "Hearst-Pathe," etc., and other clever insinuations, Mr. Powers apparently left your Committee under the impression that there is such a company or organization actually in existence. Mr. Powers also informed your Committee that Pathe is a French Company.

It is the purpose of this letter to correct any false impression which Mr. Powers may have given and also to make clear to you the circumstances under which the contract for the release of the ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW was awarded to this Company.

In the first place Pathe Exchange, Inc., is not a French Company. It is an American corporation, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York and has no connection direct or indirect, remote or contingent with Mr. Hearst or any organization with which he is connected, nor does Mr. Hearst directly or indirectly own or control one single share of stock in this Company.

Long before the United States entered the war Pathe Exchange, Inc., entered into a contract with the International Film Service, a corporation controlled by the Hearst interests, for the release of news items in motion pictures photographed by International. As one of the considerations for the contract it was agreed that the news weekly should be known as "Hearst-Pathe News." Under the terms of said contract this Company reserved the absolute right to edit, cut, interchange, and title all pictures submitted to it by International for release, at its discretion, and this we have consistently done.

In other words, our sole relation with the Hearst subsidiary is to distribute films made by it in just the same way that we distribute films made by other producing companies.

Relative to the contract for the release of the ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW, I beg to say that this matter was first taken up with us in conjunction with the Universal Film Company and the Mutual Film Company, the proposition submitted being that the three companies should jointly release the official war pictures; and the amount payable by each of said companies was calculated in proportion to the number of positive prints of news reels distributed weekly by the respective companies. The terms proposed were accepted by a representative of each of said companies, the Universal being represented by Mr. Cochrane. The agreement was signed by Mr. Hart as Director of the Division of Films and also by this Company, and we have in our possession, at this time, the original signed agreement; the duplicate thereof being in the possession of the Committee on Public Information. When the time arrived for the final execution of the agreement by the Universal Film Company, it, for reasons unknown to us, declined to do so. Competitive bids were thereafter called for, for the release of the ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW and this Company among other leading film companies presented its bid. It did not seek to make any profit out of the transaction, and in fact we named a figure which, as experience has shown us, will result in actual loss. We of course know nothing relative to the bids submitted by the other film companies, but the contract was awarded to this Company in open competition with others.

Individual Members of the Means, Washington, D. C.

When Mr. Powers appeared before your Committee on June 18th, Mr. Treadway asked him whether the Universal Film Company was prevented from procuring war films.

Mr. Powers replied that he could not get a war picture except from the Creel Committee, and indicated that the Committee on Public Information had given this Company a monopoly, stating:

> "He (Creel) has allotted to one concern the exclusive privilege of releasing these pictures on the arrangement he has made. I do not know what bid these people (meaning Pathe) made, but I know they have secured the exclusive right to publish these pictures;"

and further that his Company was unable to secure any official war pictures; that such pictures could not be shown unless obtained from Mr. Creel or purchased from Pathe, and he even went so far as to state that he had endeavored to buy such films from this Company.

In the issue of the Motion Picture World (post dated) July 6th, 1918, the Universal Film Company carries in its advertisement the following extract from a letter from Mr. Charles S. Hart:

> "Each week beginning June 3rd we will place at your disposal OFFICIAL WAR FILMS that we consider valuable to the news weeklies. You will be charged $1.00 per foot for each foot of the film used by you."

I want to bring especially to your attention these two contradictory statements. Mr. Powers represented to your Committee on June 18th that his Company could not obtain official War Pictures. In his advertisement he quotes a letter received from Mr. Hart several weeks theretofore agreeing to place at his Company's disposal OFFICIAL WAR FILMS.

It is only reasonable to assume that Mr. Powers, as Treasurer of the Universal Film Company, had full knowledge of the facts stated in the advertisement referred to when he appeared before your Committee on June 18th, 1918.

I think it only fair to this Company to have the real facts in the case explained to you in order that any impression created by Mr. Powers' insinuations to the effect that this Company has any kind of a monopoly or is influenced or controlled in any manner by Hearst or any of his interests may be removed. I am sure your Committee wants the truth and nothing but the truth, and we court the most scrutinizing investigation for the purpose of confirming each and every statement herein contained.

Very truly yours,
PAUL BRUNET
Vice-President and General Manager.

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.
25 W. 45th Street, New York

"Sweet Patootie! Get this quick!" Wid

Pathé

It played Mr. Rothapfel's Rivoli to big business with everybody more than pleased.

Wid says; "A comedy clean-up... A Real Winner.. One of the best comedies ever screened.... Will please any audience... I'd grab this quick and make a lot of noise about it."

Produced by Anderson-Brunton Co.
Written by Edgar Franklin
Directed by Ernest Warde

COMING SOON

PICTURES MADE TO YOUR ORDER

WITH the organization of the Affiliated, exhibitors for the first time are really to have a voice in production.

More than that, part of our productions are to be made to your order. Like all other dealers, you, at last, can choose—dictate, if you please—the kind of product you want, and the price you will pay.

Through your National Director, you decide upon the cast, story and direction—in advance of these productions.

Upon the completion of the picture it is reviewed by the National Directors, to make certain that it lives up to specifications. Should it fail, you are no more obligated to take it than you are to pay for a suit of clothes that doesn't fit you.

Already three big special productions are being made to your order. Others are in course of preparation.

When you compare the rentals of these pictures with the prices charged for productions of equal merit, you will understand better why the co-operative booking plan of the Affiliated has swept the country.

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS CORP.

1476 Broadway (523 Longacre Bldg.)
New York

SEND FOR IT NOW!

The Affiliated Booklet, which gives you the entire story of exhibitor controlled co-operative booking. You cannot afford not to know about it.

Affiliated Distributors Corp.
1476 B'way, N. Y.

Gentlemen: Send me your booklet, giving the details of what the Affiliated plan will do for me.

Name .....

Address .....

Makino CHRISTIE COMEDIES
In Best Theatres

BOBBY VERNON

ETHEL LYNNE

"SMILING" BILLY MASON

BOOKED THRU FOREMOST INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES

100% Entertainment Value
Everywhere

JAY BELASCO

DOROTHY DANE

HARRY EDWARDS

CHRISTIE FILM CO. Incorporated LOS ANGELES

THE EXHIBITORS'
Declaration of Independence

July 4, 1918.

United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.
1600 Broadway,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

I am desirous of insuring the future of my business and if you can convince me that membership in your organization will bring about this result, as well as reducing my film rentals and improving the quality of the films I use, I shall take advantage of my opportunity to apply for membership. You may send me a copy of your new booklet and have a representative call upon me as soon as possible. Instruct him to demonstrate to me how my investment will be safeguarded, how I shall have a voice in the management and control of United, and why the formation of that association of exhibitors was in fact THE EXHIBITORS' DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

Sincerely yours,

.....

..... (Theatre)

..... (City and State)

CUT THIS OUT, SIGN IT AND SEND IT ON IT CAN'T DO YOU ANY HARM
IT MAY DO YOU A LOT OF GOOD

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA, INC.
J. A. BERST PRESIDENT
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY
DEPOSITORY, COMMERCIAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, BROADWAY AND 41ST. NEW YORK

STATE RIGHTS BUYERS~

FATTY ARBUCKLE

IN THE PICTURES

THAT MADE HIM FAMOUS

24 Single reelers

MANY TERRITORIES WERE SOLD OVER THE WIRE IMMEDIATELY AFTER OUR FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT.

Communicate at once for information regarding your territory.

W·H·PRODUCTIONS CO.

71 WEST 23rd St. Wonderful Hits NEW YORK CITY

The National Exposition of the Motion Picture Industry

TO BE HELD AT MECHANICS' HALL, BOSTON, MASS., FROM

July 13th to 20th

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF

THE MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA

Will Be The Biggest And Most Important Ever Held

Wednesday, July 17, has been set aside as World Night at the Exposition. Through the courtesy of the World Film Corporation the following World Stars will positively appear in person on this occasion:

Carlyle Blackwell June Elvidge

Evelyn Greeley Montagu Love

Madge Evans

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America wishes to express its appreciation of World Pictures courtesy, and urges all its members to show that appreciation in material form.

LEE A. OCHS, President.

TWO TURNAWAY NIGHTS ALREADY PROVIDED FOR

Saturday, July 13th (Opening Night) Alice Brady Night

(Miss Brady to appear in person, intr oduced by her father, Wm. A. Brady)

Wednesday, July 17th World Film Night

WATCH FOR OTHER IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS

For space in the Exposition Building, apply to Lee A. Ochs, 1600 Broadway, N. Y.

WE are pleased to announce that THE SCREEN TELEGRAM'S national editions will be issued hereafter from New York.

Special service for the western territory is being maintained as heretofore from our Chicago offices.

THE SCREEN TELEGRAM by virtue of its arrrangement with the Divison of Films of the Committee on Public Information will continue to present U. S. official war pictures showing our activities abroad.

THE SCREEN TELEGRAM is working in perfect harmony and accord with the United States government and all of its agencies.

This means service to your theatre and to your patrons.

James M. Sheldon

President,

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

1600 Broadway
New York

A Long-Arm Reach

¶ Having covered the trade field—maintaining, always, a minimum of waste circulation—Motion Picture News is now reaching the public through a novel and important enterprise.

Arrangements have been concluded with the well-known King Features Syndicate of 37 West 39th Street, New York City, whereby a weekly news service from the reading columns of Motion Picture News will be retailed with timeliness to the leading newspapers of the country.

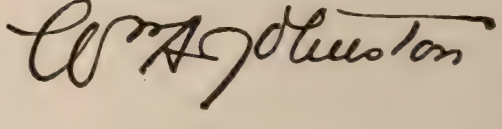
¶ Important happenings within the trade and studio will therefore be given a public circulation running into the millions.

Our objects are:

To help build up the photoplay sections of the newspapers so that the exhibitor may be brought adequately in touch with the greater motion picture public.

To make more prominent and through authentic news to give the public a correct impression of the motion picture and its great industry.

So far as we know this is the first step of this kind ever taken by a trade paper in any field; the first extension of trade news beyond the trade and to the public through the public prints.



OVER WITH A BIFF-BANG!

LEE SHUBERT — EDWARD DAVIDOW, TREASURER & GEN. MANAGER — ARTHUR HAMMERSTEIN

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION
PRESENTS

LUCILLE LEE STEWART

IN

THE NEW RALPH INCE PRODUCTION

ADDRESS ALL COMMUNICATIONS
EDWARD DAVIDOW, General Manager
ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION
1493 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

NEXT FRIDAY!

¶ The issue of Motion Picture News dated July 20th, out next Friday, will be in Boston for the opening of the Exhibitors League Convention and Exposition. It will be first and fresh with the news, brimful of interesting features, crowded with service of permanent value. Included in the contents is the Six Months Index to all pictures released —making it an issue of undoubted permanent value.

¶ For your special announcements, statements of the coming year's plans, etc., it is unequalled as an advertising medium.

¶ It is to your advantage to have advertising copy in early.

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 2. July 13, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

WHAT IS THE PUNCH? (W. A. JOHNSTON).....193
SERVING IT WITH SPEED AND GINGER.....195
WHAT KIND OF A FELLOW IS—FRIEND?.....205
INDEPENDENT FIELD TICKER.....247
THE HONOR ROLL.....198
ATMOSPHERE IN ADVERTISING (BY S. BARRETT McCORMICK).....218
WHAT THE WAR MEANS TO FUTURE PICTURES (BY EDWARD L. HYMAN).....197

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Exhibitor to Exhibitor Reviews.....207
Exhibitors' Box-Office Reports.....209
Ready-Made Ad Talks.....226
Exhibitors' Service Bureau.....212
Coming Program Offerings.....238
Short Subjects in Review.....249
Releases—Current and Coming.....259-60-61-62
Projection Department.....266
Music and the Picture.....273
Theatres Worth While.....276

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Pennsylvania Shake-Up Likely.....196
Newsy Hints of Next Week's News.....199
Creel States Position.....201
Universal Holds Chicago Meet.....203
In and Out of Town.....203
Live News from the Producers.....228
In and Out of West Coast Studios.....250
In the Independent Field.....243
Newsy Items from the Studios.....240

SCREEN EXAMINATIONS

"Brief Debut of Tildy, The" (O. Henry-General).....254
"Claws of the Hun, The" (Paramount-Ince).....252
"Clemenceau Case, The" (Fox Big Six).....256
"Empty Cab, The" (Bluebird).....257
"Fire the Cook" (Rolin-Pathe).....254
"Fly God, The" (Triangle).....252
"Ghost of Rosy Taylor, The" (American-Mutual).....253
"Golden Wall, The" (World Film).....253
"Her Disengagement Ring" (Strand-Mutual).....257
"House of Hate, The" (Pathe).....254
"Kid is Clever, The" (Fox).....256
"Miss Informed" (Strand-Mutual).....253
"One Dollar Bid" (Paralta).....252
"One Thousand Dollars" (Vitagraph).....255
"Other Men's Daughters" (Fox).....256
"Painted Lily, The" (Triangle).....254
"Safety Curtain, The" (Select).....257
"Shark Monroe" (Artcraft).....253
"Sisters of the Golden Circle" (O. Henry-General).....254
"Uncle Tom's Cabin" (Paramount).....256

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Franklyn Farnum in Comedy-Mystery Picture, "The Empty Cab."....142
Dorothy Gish and the Type of Pictures She Will Do for Paramount....143
The Thomas H. Ince Contributions to Paramount for the Coming Year....144-45
The New John Barrymore Series....146
Frank Brockliss....147
Vitagraph Presents "The Love Watch" with Corinne Griffith....148
"A Fight for Millions," the New Vitagraph Serial....149
Alice Brady Appears to Her Best Advantage in Select's "The Whirlpool"....150
Norma Talmadge's Latest is "The Safety Curtain"....151
Quality Comes First with Goldwyn—quantity Later....152-53
Bill Parsons Makes Another Mirth-Provoker, "Oh, Mister"..154
How the Newspapers Get Behind "My Four Years in Germany"....155
Hodkinson to Release Plaza Pictures....156
Hodkinson Wants Twenty Men in the Country to Call Him Boss....157
J. Warren Kerrigan in Paralta's "One Dollar Bid"....158
General Film Offers "Her Moment" with Anna Luther..159
Chaplin and Snakeville Reissues from Essanay....160
The Wolfville Tales....161
Triangle Announces that Something Big is Coming....162
Words About Lawrence Grant—the Kaiser in the Metro War Play....163-64-65
Regarding "To Hell with the Kaiser"....166-67
Other Metro Features—Including Latest Bert Lytell Number....168-69
William Fox's Big Six of 1918....170-71
Peggy Hyland in "Other Men's Daughters"....172
"Les Miserables" Ready for All Exhibitors....173
Sunshine Comedies....174
Pathe Presents Its Latest Serial, "Hands Up"....175-76
The Allies Official War Review through Pathe....177
Pathe Replies....178-79
Pathe's Highly Praised Comedy, "More Trouble," with Frank Keenan....180
Affiliated Distributors....181
100 Per Cent Entertainment in Christie Comedies....182-183
United Picture Theatres of America....184
W. H. Productions has Fatty Arbuckle Reissues....185
The Exposition....186
Screen Telegram Through Mutual....187
Advance Film Company Offers a Feature to the Trade....189
Essanay's Prize Winners through Perfection Pictures....192
"The Geezer of Berlin"....241
The Lyons-Moran Star Comedies....242

WM. A. JOHNSTON, Pres. and Editor. HENRY F. SEWALL, Vice-Pres. E. KENDALL GILLETT, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, Wm. J. McGrath, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

SHOW ONLY THE BEST!

It pays you in the long run to exhibit only the best photoplays. High class comedy dramas please your patrons and lay the foundation for future business. You can win permanent patronage by such pictures as "A Pair of Sixes," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Uneasy Money," "The Small Town Guy," "Two Bit Seats," "Fools for Luck," "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," featuring Taylor Holmes; "The Fibbers," "The Golden Idiot," "Filling His Own Shoes," "The Breaker," "The Prince of Graustark," "The Man Who Was Afraid" and the three Skinner pictures, featuring Bryant Washburn.

Essanay

Distributed by
George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 2 July 13, 1918

"What Is the Punch"?

THERE are few more important questions in production than the above.

The "punch" in a picture generally "puts it over."

We all know that the "punch" is the picture's vital element.

But just what is it?

Picture making has gone through successive phases in each of which some particular kind of "punch" has been a ruling favorite.

The western hold up; the train wreck; the dynamite explosion; the jump over the cliff; the burning house; the race between the motor and the train, etc.; all of these have had their day.

They parallel for the most part the dime novel, Golden Argosy, Fireside Companion days of fiction.

The Rex Beach novel introduced—with "The Spoilers"—a new "punch," the red blooded bare fisted man fight, which has had many repeats.

The famous Italian pictures "Quo Vadis," "Cabiria"—brought here the lavish spectacle and for a time there was a perfectly obvious effort to put the "punch" in through the insertion of spectacles regardless of expense—and often continuity.

The Star came and became great because the Star put the "punch" in the picture; simply because the appeal of the Star is the personality or heart interest appeal.

Today however many pictures are successful without any of the factors already cited, or at least without any undue insistence upon any of them, which indicates that we shall have to go deeper down to get the real basis of the "punch," and which indicates also that picture success today is mainly based upon a subtler and not so superficial an appeal.

Augustus Thomas made a notable address at the National Arts Club two years ago in which he divided dramatic appeal into six broad and embracing avenues.

These avenues are the broad ones into the human mind and heart.

He pyramided them, in wideness of appeal, beginning with the love of self preservation and ending with religious fervor.

As more concrete, though not so complete, we like the satisfactorily simple analysis of our P. S. Harrison.

People like to laugh and cry, he says. Good comedy situations make them laugh; stories of self-sacrifice make them cry.

All pictures do not fit this simple rule; yet it is significant to note how many do.

Witness the success of Booth Tarkington's novels—Monsieur Beaucaire, The Gentleman from Indiana, The Conquest of Canaan—in fact all his fiction, including even the likeable boy Penrod.

The hero is self sacrificing. He bears his burden of misrepresentation and sorrow through the clouds and deep darkness out into the sunshine of life.

Go over your novels and short stories and you'll be surprised how many fit this basic appeal. Nothing else so warms the human heart.

Two report cards from a prominent and most critical exhibitor recently caught our attention. He has marked down many a picture with an obvious punch in it; Stars count with him, evidently, only as one element in appeal.

He gives high rating to "Missing" and "Believe Me, Xantippe."

"Two entirely different pictures and my audiences enjoyed each immensely. Give me more stories like these." "They please the masses," etc.

Of course they do.

"Missing" appeals because of its human story of self sacrifice. It warms the human heart and moistens the eye. "Believe Me, Xantippe" is full of life's light humor. It makes wholesome, heartfelt laughter.

As a matter of fact, you can go right down our Exhibitors Box Office Report list and eliminating only the comparatively few specials based upon patriotism you will find highest markings on pictures based upon just these two broad classifications of heart interest appeal.

The "punch" then after all, is basically—heart interest appeal. It must have the background of life's realities. Its direct blow is on the human heart. Its volume is measured in the audience's tears of happiness—they are quite the same over funny or sweetly sad things.

The Punch and the Star

WITH the change of the "Punch" in the story has come also, and naturally, a change in the advertising of the picture—to the trade, and principally to the public.

So we see, nowadays, more and more the "plot" form of advertising, wherein the story is interestingly analysed and the high points of its heart interest appeal set forth to the public.

This form of advertising is calling for a higher order of ability and effort.

The star as the "punch" in the picture is the easiest form of advertising. Just the name emblazoned forth to the public sight is sufficient. We are assuming, of course, that the star is supported by the best of stories and direction; otherwise the letters of the star's name in electric lights will speedily lose their brilliancy in the eyes of the public.

(Continued at Top of Following Page)

(Continued from Preceding Page)

Here we have, of course, the basic reason for the Star Series of pictures, the continuity of the star in other words, so that each successive picture—if quality is upheld—gives cumulative advertising power to the star's name.

* * *

"Standardizing" the Picture

A PROMINENT and experienced producer gives the following elements of successful picture making, laying no especial stress upon any one of these four important factors: Star, story, direction, business management.

Business management includes studio facilities and operation.

The hit or miss method of production is eliminated by such an aggregation of production essentials. Quality production can only be sustained through the employment of all four.

As more and more pictures are made in this manner so will production be uplifted and made to approach—as pictures can approach, a reliable standard.

All of which must surely impress the tyro with the futility of believing that successful pictures can be turned out without a complete organization.

There would have been far fewer failures in production, far fewer hopes and capital blasted had the man with a good star or story or both gone to the complete organization and contracted for the making of the picture.

* * *

The Seat Tax in England

ENGLAND'S Cinema Trade Council, by sincere and intelligent cooperation with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, has succeeded in securing a revision of the seat tax schedule that removes many of the objections previously made by exhibitors, and at the same time seems certain to raise equal or increased revenues for the Government.

Now the Cinema Trade Council is completing its share of the bargain by urging exhibitors to raise their admission prices—with the twofold purpose of meeting necessary increases in operating expenses and also bringing additional tax revenue.

All in all, a situation that speaks volumes of praise for the manner in which English film men are handling wartime problems and a situation not without its lessons for us.

* * *

The Industry's Comic Supplements

"OLD EXHIBITOR" in a recent article in Variety—an article by the way which is chuckful of whimsical good sense—laughs over amateurish trade paper suggestions to exhibitors on how to advertise the picture.

He refers in particular to a brilliant idea put forth in connection with "Hit-the-Trail Holliday"—that the exhibitor dress his ushers in bartender suits and station them back of an imitation bar in the lobby.

We give the idea for the enjoyment of other exhibitors.

Seriously, and with no desire to exclude humor from the trade press, these advertising suggestions are about one hundred per cent impossible. The practice, too, of dealing in exploitation matter in a wholesale manner is a dangerous one if the exhibitor were minded to take it at all seriously. Some pictures deserve advertising emphasis; some don't. The soft pedal is frequently most desirable. If the exhibitor played up every picture as he is urged to, his patronage wouldn't last very long and he would have a mighty hard time winning back his public's confidence.

We might remark that the principle of our Exhibitor's Service Bureau is to tell the later run houses what the early run houses did—what advertising campaigns were originated to fit the picture houses, practical needs and equipment, and what has actually been applied in a successful manner.

There's a vast difference between this sort of practical showman advertising and the stereotyped plan books and generous suggestions made indiscriminately on all pictures.

* * *

The Answer

A NEW YORK producer had a telephone call recently from the photoplay editor of a daily in a nearby city.

Press matter and photographs were wanted on a picture advertised by a local exhibitor.

The producer, of course, referred the newspaper to the exhibitor; but the exhibitor, it appeared, had lost his press book, had no stills and hadn't even lifted his paper.

Valuable newspaper space, in other words, was offered; and there was no material to fill it.

Clearly the exhibitor was at fault here; and probably there are many such cases.

But the incident drives home again the twin agencies we have already advocated, and without which this lame situation will never be settled in a national way.

The exchange handling the above picture should have had an exploitation department on the job. The matter of properly advertising the picture should not have been left wholly to the exhibitor.

The exhibitor should have had the desired press matter in the advertising pages of his trade paper—the one he keeps, and not in the plan book he throws away.

* * *

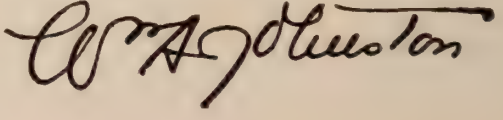
A Golden Opportunity

A GOLDEN opportunity is given to the picture industry in the aid it can give towards placing returning wounded soldiers in self-sustaining occupations. The industry has sent many of its own members to the front; it has backed them up with its dollars; it is a thought to be cherished that can still further help by aiding the boys who have returned after paying their debt to democracy with their blood.

Sydney Cohen, president of the New York State League, together with the executive committees of the different New York State locals, is cooperating with Charles S. Hart of the Committee on Public Information in handling the situation in that territory.

Positions of all sorts will be made available for the soldiers. Many will be found fit for work as door-men, ticket takers, cashiers and so on, while for those possessing the ability training as operators will be available.

Here is a chance for the local exhibitor organization in every section of the country to perform a wonderful work. The sequence of duty reads something like this: "Buy a Bond to give your boy a gun; aid the Y. M. C. A. and K. C. to give him some of the comforts of 'Home' over there; subscribe to the Red Cross to give him care if wounded; and—give him a 'job' when he comes back."



Serving It with Speed and Ginger

WHITE paper gets more costly with each shipment that is bought; and now come rumors from Washington promising all sorts of drastic rulings this year as to the amount of paper publications may use—regardless of their ability to buy it.

And still the boss hasn't suggested that we eliminate this page of ours.

We feared for ourselves last week when we used up most of the page to give the opinions of Abe and Mawruss on Expositions and such. But we seem to have squeezed by and—would you believe it?

We overheard at least four sidewalk fillum brokers at 729 who think they are being press-agented.

And we forgot to send our bill!

* * *

Speaking of Abe and Mawruss—Arthur James confesses to liking their "pernunciation" of National Assessment of the Motion Picture Industry.

And by the way:

That assessment of a certain well known but postponed dinner was certainly running true to form.

* * *

ONE of the most interesting contributions we have been able to offer you in many weeks is presented in this week's MOTION PICTURE NEWS. It is from ——— Hyman, former manager of the Victoria, Buffalo, a member of our Service Bureau Advisory Board, and now booking pictures for close to a dozen army training camps.

Manager Hyman has studied the soldier and the soldier's tastes in picture entertainment; he has calculated the proportion of our population that will be soldiers before this war is won—and from the premise has drawn a keen lesson for producers.

"Think of what the soldier wants before you form your future producing plans," says Manager Hyman. And then he tells you what personal experience has taught him regarding the desires of the soldier in screen amusement.

Be sure to read his story. It meets you just as you turn this page.

Mention of Buffalo, New York, reminds us of William L. Sherry of New York—and every town in that state. For a ten-minute conversation with that magnate last week convinced us that he knows more than the gazeteer about every burg in New York. Details of the theatres in each town, the managers' names and middle names roll off his tongue. Hudson and Valatie are as open a book as New York City.

* * *

THAT Advisory Board is to be front rather strongly this week—the second of the S. Barret McCormick articles being another feature of this issue.

If you read the first McCormick article a few weeks ago we know there is no need of our urging you to read this.

But while on the subject, let us arise to ask with all due modesty and restraint:

How in thunderation can anyone confuse such Service as the McCormick and Rothapfel articles and the other pages of our Service Bureau with the comic supplement truck that is masquerading under the guise of "Aids and Service"?

* * *

Sidney Garrett, of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., registers a protest that "What Kind of a Fellow is—Selig?" didn't chronicle the fact that the Colonel has joined the Film Athletic Club with the net result of one inch of avoirdupois removed from the waist-line.

Brother Garrett made his protest in the lobby of the Astor this week and as the Colonel was with him to give visual proof of his statement these lines have followed.

* * *

OUR old friend Frank Rembusch finds space in this issue for an article on "Co-operative Booking," which makes interesting reading. Frank favored us with another lengthy letter during the week which we really regret having to omit.

But it's one of those things that can't be cut—and space demands these days don't allow much breathing space.

You will remember that last week Alfred Black, of the M. P. E. L. wrote an open letter to Rembusch calling upon the A. E. A. to amalgamate at Boston as a matter of Americanism.

But Rembusch, who doesn't seem to be taking things as seriously as he used to a few years ago, replied in several pages of K. C. B. style, the essence of which was:—"Sure, exhibitors are going to amalgamate into one great big body—and it will happen at the A. E. A. convention at Chicago in August."

* * *

MANAGER EDEL, of the Strand, now steps to the front with a "program without a feature," if by feature you mean something of five reels or over. The current bill has as its headliner Harry Raver's three-reel novelty, "Outwitting the Hun."

And now a lot of film men will suddenly become the "discoverers" of the fact that length never did make a feature. Just to forestall a few of them we want to suggest that they get a file of W. A. J.'s editorials for many moons past. And for more recent articles the recent symposium by our Exhibitors' Advisory Board.

A CORKING IDEA!

What Producer Will Respond to a Suggestion Offering Unusual Benefits?

AUDITORIUM PHOTOPLAY THEATRE
NORFOLK, NEBR.
H. BLUECHEL, Manager, Phone 995
MOTION PICTURE NEWS, New York.

My Dear News: Relative to the Washington correspondence in your recent issue concerning the classing of motion picture theatres as non-essentials, why not have some one make trailers of this correspondence of Messrs. McAdoo, Garfield, Hoover and Creel, and let exhibitors use these trailers to get this information to the public, who are the ones that should know of this correspondence. I know of no better way to combat and put a quietus on this nonsensical talk that is being spread, no doubt by the pro-Germans, of motion pictures being a nonessential, and I know of no better way outside of newspaper publicity to fight it.

But let's do it now. Don't wait, as this non-essential talk about pictures is growing fast. Let's hear from some one else.

Respectfully,
H. BLUECHEL.

Local Exhibitors Aid Wounded

Executive Councils of State Motion Picture Exhibitors' League Approve Suggestion of Division of Films to Provide Work for Injured

NEW YORK motion picture men will co-operate with the Division of Films, Committee on Public Administration, in what is expected to spread into a national movement to provide positions for the wounded soldiers returning from France.

At a meeting this week of the Allied Executive Councils of all the locals of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn boroughs of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New York State, the question was brought to the attention of the joint councils by Sydney Cohen, who is chairman of the Executive Committee, by request of Charles S. Hart, director of the Division of Films.

Mr. Cohen outlined the situation in full, stating that when the wounded began to come back from France there would be demands for positions for them, and that he believed that the motion picture theatres could well co-operate with the Government in providing work for these men. He pointed out that they could be trained as operators, used as doormen, ticket takers, etc., and that there would probably be scores of these positions available in Greater New York alone.

In this connection he called attention to the fact that ushers and other classes of theatre employes had been declared non-essential by the Government, and showed that this arrangement would result in the not only filling the places of the younger men who may be taken for the army or other war work, but that at the same time there would be employment for the wounded who might have trouble in getting positions in other lines.

This proposition was indorsed by unanimous vote, and the Division of Films has been so notified. Details of working out of the plan will be arranged later.

It is expected that this same movement will be taken up by motion picture organizations all over the country, and that similar action will be taken in other large centres.

At this meeting it was announced that arrangements had been made with one common carrier deliver films from exchanges to theatre members in the three boroughs and then to return them to the exchanges. A cash bond was required of the common carrier for safe and prompt delivery of film. This arrangement will save the members the trouble of sending messengers to the various exchanges to gather their daily program, and will also facilitate work at the exchanges because it will result in their being able to fill a number of orders at one time instead of having to wait upon a mass of individuals.

Screen Scores Again as Necessity

Additional evidence that the motion picture screen is one of the best mediums of spreading publicity that tends toward the betterment of the country is found in the following letter to the Consolidated Film and Supply Company, of Atlanta, Ga.

E. T. Koch,
Manager, Consolidated Film Co.

Dear Mr. Koch:

For your information, please note that the writer made arrangements about four weeks ago for slides to be shipped to every motion picture house in the State of Georgia. From the reports that we are receiving these slides have been used to very good advantage. I want to say right here that there is no industry in the country today that has come to the assistance of both the Liberty Loan and Savings Stamps Campaigns stronger and more effectively than the motion picture.

Very sincerely yours,
JACK CARR,
Director of Publicity,
National War Savings Committee.

Tourneur Cameraman Drowned

John Van den Broek, one of the best known cameramen in the country, and for four years associated with Maurice Tourneur, met his death at Bar Harbor, Me., June 29, when a huge wave swept him off a rock on which he was operating his camera. The company was securing shots for a new picture.

Affiliated Distributors Get Advance Production

The Advanced Motion Picture Corporation's production, under the direction of Ralph Ince, "The Eleventh Commandment," starring Lucille Lee Stewart, has been given 1,675 days' booking by the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, according to an announcement made by Charles Pettijohn, general counsel for the Affiliated. Edward Davidow, general manager of the Advanced, made the arrangements at the meeting of the Affiliated members in New York, a few weeks ago. Lee Shubert, Arthur Hammerstein and Ralph Ince are sponsors for the Advanced Motion Picture Corporation.

Censors Dislike "Hell" in Title

According to advices from Cleveland, the Ohio censor board has put the ban on the word "hell" in the title of the Universal picture, "Hell Bent." It is said the Board notified local manager E. J. Smith, of Universal, that the picture could not go forth under that name.

At last reports the picture had been renamed to comply with the censors' request, and has been given the name of "Three Bad Men" for the State of Ohio.

Once before the Ohio Board took exception to the word "hell" when it was used in the title of "Hell Morgan's Girl." Film men are wondering just what attitude the Board will take on "To Hell With the Kaiser."

Artcraft Confirms Caruso Engagement

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation celebrated the Fourth by allowing the news to become public confirming the recent rumor to the effect that Enrico Caruso, the tenor, has been engaged to appear in Artcraft productions. The Famous Players-Lasky statement carries the news that only two productions will be made by the singer during the coming season, and no intimation has as yet been given as to the nature of the films.

When the rumor first became current, several days ago, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation was among the first to firmly deny it.

Coast Colony Hopes for Essential Footing

(Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS.)

LOS ANGELES.—According to a special wire from Washington, Provost Marshal Crowder will issue an order including motion picture people in the essential class of employment, with the same footing as legitimate concert artists and others of like profession. It is understood the order will affect directors, actors, cameramen, writers, editors, cutters, laboratory workers and scenic and property men.

The Crowder order is the result of an appeal made by the Motion Picture War Service Association of Los Angeles, through their representative Grant Carpenter, who has been in Washington for the past week.

Pathe Gets American Productions

(Special to MOTION PICTURE NEWS.)

LOS ANGELES.—It became known this week that all American Film Corporation subjects starring Mary Miles Minter and Margarita Fisher, as well as William Russell productions, will be released by Pathe beginning early in September. Productions now being made by American go to Pathe, the contracts having been signed by Mr. Hutchinson, of American.

"Hands Up" Instead of "Hidden Hand"

"Hands Up," and not "The Hidden Hand," is the name of the new Pathe serial which will reach the screen August 18.

Through an error, the latter name was used in a heading on the story regarding the serial, published in the July 6 issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Herrick Talks to City Editors

At the convention of the Association of City Editors, opening in Pittsburg, Saturday, Howard Herrick, director of publicity for the Division of Films, speaks on the work that the Hart division has accomplished.

What the War Means to Future Pictures

By Edward L. Hyman

This is the first of several articles from Mr. Hyman which will appear in these pages. Mr. Hyman was formerly manager of the Victoria theatre, Buffalo, one of the finest neighborhood houses in the whole country, and left that post to take up patriotic work with the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. He is now manager of the Liberty theatre at Camp Gordon, Ga., and in addition has charge of all the motion picture bookings for the Liberty theatres at Camps Gordon, Jackson, Sevier, Wheeler, Wadsworth, McClellan, Green and Beauregard.

Mr. Hyman is in the closest possible touch with the men of the National Army and his views of the changes in the character of pictures that the war will cause are striking.

MOVIE MAN—Exhibitor, producer and exchange head—you are going to change your ways a whole lot when this war is over.

In fact, you are going to shift your views in the matter of the selection of pictures—some time before the trouble over there is adjusted and America has righted things.

BUT after the war you are either going to shake up your policies—or perish in the maelstrom of reconstruction.

So you had better begin studying now.

Do it right away.

Study the American soldier.

He is the fellow who will determine your success.

Remember millions of those boys in khaki are going away or have gone.

They are coming back with new ideals, new longings, new physical make-ups.

They will want a different sort of picture than you are showing them, now.

And what they say WILL GO.

What is more, they are going to impart a demand for different amusement to the women and the men and the children who have not taken the Great Adventure with them.

Up here at Camp Gordon, where thousands of soldiers—American boys—attend the Liberty theatre every week, I can see the writing on the wall.

Want Brightness, Happiness

It isn't a pessimistic writing; it's promising.

MEN, in every sense of the word, are being made.

They want brightness, happiness, decency—and they are going to get it.

They are forming their new ideals even in the training camp over here.

They are the harshest critics that God ever made.

If they don't like a picture they will get up and walk out. They won't sit and grumble through a film as will the average at-home American picture fan.

Even now the soldier in camp after a few weeks or months of training won't stand for a dismal, long, drawn-out, eternal triangle play. He has learned to be natural, on-the-square. The effeminate has gone out of his life. He is used to hard knocks. He wants life as it is lived—and the better part of it. Revelations of vice don't satisfy him, any more.

I don't pose as an oracle, but I have, night after night, faced the proposition of pleasing lonesome men, but happy men. They wouldn't be happy at home with such a conflagration on, but yet they are lonesome.

The old stuff wouldn't go.

Edward L. Hyman

The wish-washy artificial stuff didn't "take."

"Can that stuff," was their cry and is their admonition when something doesn't please them.

"He-Man" Stories Wanted

Those boys are going to teach producers of motion pictures to make better pictures. Real He-Man stories will be the call.

And the producer is going to learn to select "regular" pictures.

I was paid the compliment of selecting films for nine Liberty theatres in as many camps in the southeastern tier.

I found it a big job—a mountainous one.

The soldier boy wants the He-Man films, and what he likes, his wife and the folks back home are going to like, when it is all cleared up over there.

At first they gave me the Liberty theatre at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga.

It was an uphill struggle.

Employment of methods used in the Victoria theatre back in Buffalo worked out toward success, however.

What the Men Want

I studied what the men did, what relaxation they naturally would want in consequence of the routine and events of their military life.

I realized they would get a steady camp menu of "movies."

That is why vaudeville was provided for them.

But they have learned to like the best in photoplays; they have set a new standard for themselves.

At Camp Gordon 2,400 men, privates and officers, often crowd the Liberty theatre.

Men of all types, they are, but with the same yearnings for that which touches their heart, that which makes them laugh and that which points the right way.

This is my humble suggestion:

If you do not "get" the soldier boys when they are home on furloughs, but the man up the street does, you can make up your mind that he is changing with the times. Then ask an intelligent soldier boy (and ninety-nine per cent of them are) what he likes in movies.

Therein lies the sesame.

Take a tip from one who is with Uncle Sam's nephews from early morn until the bugles call "taps."

Ohio Out of Boston July Convention

Ohio will not be represented at the national convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, to be held in Boston, July 13 to 20. This was decided at a meeting of the Ohio League recently, when that body convened at its headquarters in the Republic Building.

Representatives of the industry from Ohio have always been present at the roll call of the states at former conventions, but this year there was no enthusiasm expressed by any of the Ohio members. This is said to be a result of the alleged treatment accorded the Ohio delegates in the last convention in Chicago.

Although the feeling, as expressed in Cleveland, is strong for the formation of one national exhibitor organization, Ohio exhibitors do not feel, it is said, that the time is ripe for such an amalgamation. Consequently, they voted to stay away from the Boston convention.

Metro Buys Lockwood Contract

(Special to Motion Picture News)

LOS ANGELES.—Harold Lockwood is not to appear in additional subjects made by the Yorke Film Corporation, owned by Fred J. Balshofer, but will appear for the remainder of the year in Metro subjects. Metro has bought the Lockwood contract from Balshofer, the sum involved being announced as a quarter of a million dollars. It is reported that the contract expires about the first of January.

Harold Lockwood has gone to New York to complete the arrangements and film one subject in the East.

Fred J. Balshofer plans to turn his attention to the making of state rights productions, it is said.

Pennsylvania Censors Warn Against Titles

The Pennsylvania State Board of Censors of Motion Pictures, of which Frank R. Shattuck is chairman, has sent a letter of warning in regard to titles and subtitles to all motion picture exhibitors in the state. It is understood the letter was also sent to the exchanges, and sounds a suggestion to the effect that producers "soft pedal" in titling pictures. It the titles are objectionable the whole film will be disapproved, says the letter.

Chairman Shattuck, in declaring that the Board will be very strict in disapproving objectionable titles and subtitles, said that during the past year applications for the approval of pictures with titles coming under that classification have occasionally been made, with the result that either the pictures were condemned or the titles changed.

"During the past few weeks, however," said Mr. Shattuck, "there has been a perfect influx of such character of applications, and it seems to the Board that producers and exhibitors should be warned to take the rule into consideration when making contracts of any kind relating to the State of Pennsylvania."

Newspapers Support Laemmle View

Evidence that newspapers throughout the country are in accord with the stand taken by picture men that this is an essential industry, is now pouring in upon Universal as the result of a letter sent out some time ago by Carl Laemmle.

As told in Motion Picture News, the head of Universal wrote a letter to the publishers of all the newspapers in which were outlined the reasons which made it imperative that the screen be allowed to continue the work it is now doing. That this plea touched a responsive chord is plainly evident in the analysis that has been made of the newspaper clippings received at the Universal offices.

Typical of the spirit displayed by the publishers is the editorial recently published in the Evening Herald of Los Angeles. The arguments advanced by Mr. Laemmle in his letter were utilized by the editorial writer, and according to film folk who make their home in Los Angeles, an extremely favorable impression was made upon the readers of that publication.

Mrs. Spoor Gives Flag to Volunteers

Mrs. George K. Spoor, wife of the president of the Essanay Film Company, presented Unit 380, Illionois Volunteer Training Corps, with a large silk flag, at a military ceremony at the Essanay studios on June 21. The flag was made at West Point of heavy silk, with hand embroidered stars. It was accepted for the company by Captain Richard N. Woodman.

Although the company is officially enrolled in the state organization as Unit 380, it is known generally as the Essanay unit, George K. Spoor having supplied the company with guns as well as a drill hall.

Honor Roll

The following members of the motion picture industry are among the most recent to join the colors, to swell the ranks of Uncle Sam's fighting forces at home and abroad:

The Famous Players Lasky Exchange of Los Angeles was particularly hard hit by the recent call of men. J. J. Halsted, manager; L. R. Scranahorn, salesman, and S. H. Nesbit, booker of the Los Angeles branch, as well as Vernon Moore, salesman and M. H. Cline, accountant of the San Francisco branch, are now members of the Liberty Army.

William Shay, head cutter of the Douglas Fairbanks Company, left Los Angeles for Camp Kearny June 24.

Vester Pegg, cowboy who has appeared in scores of western subjects, has left the West Coast film colony for a Pacific Coast training camp.

Walter Melvin, chief usher at the Strand theatre, New York, is the latest of the Strand employees to join the colors for service in France. His name will be placed on the honor roll inscribed on the bronze tablet which has a prominent place in the Strand lobby. A grand total of forty-eight Strand employees are now serving their country.

Another star was added to the flag at Metro's west coast studios in Hollywood when Edward L. White, assistant cameraman, responded to the call to the colors in the draft of June 24. It is expected White will be sent to Camp Kearny at Linda Vista, near San Diego.

C. H. Griffiths, accountant for Jewel's Denver office, left for Liverpool recently having joined the British army. Fred Clark, poster clerk, left at the same time to join the U. S. Navy, which makes five service stars in the Denver office flag.

Another star has been added to the service flag of World Pictures, when Nat Barach, Manager of the Indianapolis exchange of "World Pictures," left for Spartanburg.

Arthur E. Rousseau, for three years secretary of Pathe Exchange, Inc., has resigned, to go to Camp Wadsworth at Spartanburg for military training.

Lester Hudson, shipper at the Standard Film Exchange in Cleveland, has gone to Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., where he is learning to carry a gun.

General Makes Changes

Changes in the personnel of the staff of the General Film Company exchange at Dallas were announced this week by "Smiling Jim" Kelly, now in charge of that office. Sol Davis, it is made known, will act as assistant manager of the sales department; C. M. Jagers will be in charge of the special feature department, booking and shipping departments, and G. G. Giles will act as auditor.

Edmondson Comes for Goldwyn Conference

R. S. Edmondson, European representative of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, and one of the best known motion picture men in Great Britain, is due to arrive in New York next week for his annual conference with Samuel Goldfish and the Goldwyn executives.

Goldwyn, being organized and its distribution being perfected in the United Kingdom, will, in its second season, have twice as many productions for distribution abroad as it had in its first twelve months. It was therefore deemed expedient, in spite of the difficulties of war-time travel, to have its principal foreign representative come over for a home office conference.

The Stoll Film Company, bearing the name of Oswald Stoll, and under the managing direction of Jeffrey Bernerd, is the British distributor of Goldwyn Pictures through an arrangement made by Mr. Edmondson. Trade showings of Goldwyn Picturse have been held in England and much enthusiasm was created for the Goldwyn product. The first release in England, through decision of Messrs. Stoll and Bernerd, is Mary Garden in "Thais," to be followed by Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus," Mabel Normand in "Joan of Plattsburg," Madge Kennedy in "The Service Star."

"News" Takes Its Place in the Trenches

Old copies of Motion Picture News are bringing joy to boys in the western front trenches.

"We have seen several copies of Motion Picture News, and every one has been badly worn and torn before it reached me," writes Bernard Shirley of the fifth Australian division, to his brother, Arthur Shirley. "The other day one of the boys brought a copy of the magazine to me showing an actor holding a large American flag and wanted to know if I knew him. I was overjoyed at seeing your picture, the first one since I left home. The soldier had promised to hand the magazine to some others, and so I could not get it. He would not permit me to cut out your picture."

Flinn Speaks at "Hundred for One" Dinner

At a dinner given by The Hundred for One Club last week, John C. Flinn, director of advertising and publicity of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, made an address concerning the motion picture industry and what it has accomplished during the past year. The One Hundred and One Club membership is made up of one man from every industry, and Harold M. Pitman, of the counsel for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is the member representing the motion picture enterprise. Mr. Flinn spoke at his invitation. The dinner was held at the Hotel Royalton and was well attended. Mr. Flinn's speech proved one of the most interesting offerings of the evening and received much appreciative applause.

Newsy Hints of News Stories in Next Week's "News"

[Following are brief flashes culled as we go to press from news stories that you will want to watch for in next week's Motion Picture News, where they will appear at length with complete details.]

It is interesting to note that thus far in the war motion picture films have fared well in avoiding the U-boats as they cross the Atlantic to screens of other nations. Fox Film Corporation, in this connection, celebrates the first anniversary of the landing of American troops in France.

Washington, D. C., was the scene for initial activities in the filming of Marion Davies' new production for Select. "The Burden of Proof" is what the story is called while in work. It is not a war drama, but touches upon the conflict in a remote way.

"A Fight for Millions," third of the Vitagraph serials featuring William Duncan, will be released to exhibitors on July 15. The first episode is "The Snare."

The complete schedule of the first six months' release of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's Success Series of reissues will be announced by Walter E. Greene. It includes twenty-six features, beginning September 1.

Universal will announce that all arrangements have been made to issue a revised version of Lois Weber's sensational production, "Scandal," under the title of "Scandal Mongers." The feature is the Bluebird release of July 22.

Frank Mills, who has had one of the most successful careers in the annals of screen or stage, has been engaged by Metro to appear opposite Edith Storey in forthcoming subjects.

Theda Bara as an artist's model is to be the central figure of a new drama to be filmed by Fox Film Corporation. The title at present is "Little She-Devil," but it may be changed later.

Early in August the screens of the country will get "The Great Love," D. W. Griffith's first production to be released by Artcraft. One of the most notable casts ever assembled is claimed for the feature.

Here and There

Stuart Paton and Company of Diando players, which includes George Larkin, Betty Compton, Horace Carpenter, Ora Carew and others, are now at work on the sixth episode of "The Wolf-Faced Man," and for the past week have been having real rough experiences. Many of the scenes taken in this period were filmed in a small desert plateau, thirty miles north of Los Angeles, and the last shots taken here were those of a landslide in which a fairly good-sized mountain was tipped over, supposedly on the leading man who "miraculously" escaped without injury.

The Diando Baby Marie Osborne Company are still at work on "Dolly's Vacation." Mildred Reardon is playing the lead in this, and it will serve as her screen debut.

James Vincent, Secretary of Motion Picture Directors' Advisory Board

Florida Calls to Producers

Jacksonville Holds Out Many Advantages to New York Manufacturers Especially During Winter—Fills the Bill

THE city of Jacksonville and the state of Florida can be made to lead in the production of motion pictures, if a plan advanced by H. J. Klutho, in a letter to Motion Picture News, "catches on." Mr. Klutho sees no reason why Jacksonville should not take its rightful place in the sun insofar as picture-making is concerned—and it can not be denied that Florida has plenty of sun.

But, in addition to the matter of climate, Jacksonville is well equipped, Mr. Klutho shows, to take care of producers in every way, from studio to "locations," and do it in a way that would make Los Angeles hide her head as vanquished.

"Jacksonville can be made of great interest to producers," said Mr. Klutho, "who wish to operate closer to New York than the West Coast, but the only way to do this is for at least half-dozen of the larger companies to get together and let it be known they are coming to Jacksonville the coming fall and winter. They can arrange their stories to suit the climate, and include in the scenarios semi-tropical scenery, beach scenes, all sorts of lake and stream scenes and society scenes of all descriptions. If high mountain scenery is required, eight hours' ride into Georgia will furnish it. Rolling country scenery can be had within seventy-five miles of Jacksonville.

"If six companies will club together and signify their intention to come, it will induce furniture houses to arrange and put in a supply of props needed, and will also induce customers to follow in the wake, and extras as well. It would be really a shame not to make use of the studios and sunshine offered here in Jacksonville."

In regard to the difficulties to be expected by New York producers this fall and winter, Mr. Klutho said: "If signs count for anything, the producers will have some difficulties confront them in making pictures in New York, when cold weather comes again. The fuel restrictions will go hard with them and make it difficult to produce economically, as they will have to do, to keep the already excessive cost down. As I understand it, last winter's difficulties will be multiplied many times, and producers will be up against it. They will either have to go to California or get a place nearer New York. Jacksonville is the place.

"There are some half-dozen studios here in Jacksonville, upon which very little money would have to be spent in order to make them serviceable, as compared with the huge sums spent in Los Angeles for similar accommodations. My own is complete and a thoroughly modern $50,000 plant, equal to anything you have in New York or Los Angeles, for the same amount.

"The trouble with Florida, heretofore, has been that companies have made Jacksonville a stopping-off place. They wait until the vicinity of New York is covered with ice and snow, when they are reminded of the fact that there is probably sunshine in Florida.

Pennsylvania Shake-Up Likely

Politics Said To Be Responsible for Probable Removal of Whole Censor Board After January 1 Elections

STRONG probability of a shake-up in the membership of the Pennsylvania Board of Motion Picture Censors, if not the removal of the whole board of three members on January 1 next, when a new Governor of the State will take office, has become an absorbing topic for discussion among the picture interests of Pennsylvania in view of the new twist that has come to the political situation since the May primaries at which candidates for Governor, to be elected next November, were selected.

The defeat in the primaries of the Republican faction of which Governor Brumbaugh, the present chief executive, is the leader, by the Penrose forces of the G. O. P., who nominated Senator Sproul for Governor, defeating J. Denny O'Neil, who had the Brumbaugh backing, makes it practically certain that Frank R. Shattuck of Philadelphia, chairman of the Board of Censors, and Dr. Allis P. Oberholtzer, also of Philadelphia, will be forced to walk the plank, as both are personal appointees of Governor Brumbaugh.

The third member of the board is Mrs. E. C. Niver of Charleroi, who was appointed by Governor Brumbaugh's predecessor in office, and was retained by the Brumbaugh administration. Mrs. Niver's tenure of office, it is conceded, is not as likely to be dependent upon the uncertainties of politics as are those of Governor Brumbaugh's personal appointees.

While neither Mr. Shattuck nor Dr. Oberholtzer is now or ever was in the category of a political job hunter, both are personal friends of Governor Brumbaugh, and therefore because of the unmistakably intense and bitter rivalry between the Brumbaugh and Penrose factions which manifested itself before the primaries in the removal by the Governor of many men from the State payroll because of their leanings toward the Penrose wing of the party, both these men are practically certain to be removed by Sproul if he is elected in November. Moreover, their chances of being retained will be no greater, of course, in the event the Democratic nominee, Judge Bonniwell of Philadelphia, being elected to the gubernatorial chair.

Another fact that adds to the practical certainty of the two male members of the board being ousted by Sproul, if he is elected Governor, is that Governor Brumbaugh removed a friend of Senator Penrose from the post of chairman of the censors before he placed Mr. Shattuck and Dr. Oberholtzer on the board.

The chairman whom Brumbaugh fired for his political leanings toward the Penrose faction, was none other than "Czar" J. Louis Breitinger, who won the enmity of a large percentage of the men in the motion picture industry in the State through the arbitrary methods and rulings of the board under his regime. There unquestionably was a sore spot left in the mind of Senator Penrose when Governor Brumbaugh fired Breitinger, for the latter was both a personal and a political friend of the U. S. Senator.

Hodkinson Explains New Move

Recruits Forces to Not Only Sell, But to Spread Gospel of Fair Deal—Obstacles Naturally Expected

ONE of the most significant moves in the business is claimed by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation in its call for twenty salesmen representatives to join its forces, and not only sell Hodkinson Service, but to spread the Hodkinson gospel of "responsibility to the exhibitor and a fair deal in every way."

Commenting on the announcement which appears in the ad columns of Motion Picture News, W. W. Hodkinson said: "This is not merely a 'want ad.' Note the wording and you will see that we are not simply engaging men, we are in fact recruiting a picked army for an offensive which we are contemplating.

"Every big reform movement encounters obstacles. The bigger and more sincere the endeavor the harder the battle. That is why we want men with moral courage in addition to their other qualifications—who cannot be stampeded by present conditions no matter how menacing.

"This is the reason we must have men with foresight—who can see what we stand for—who can appreciate why we are different to any other organization in the field—and who can realize that the forces that are back of us will eventually bring us complete success.

"We do not expect the ordinary average film man to see this distinction, and this is why our appeal is only to the bigger men of the business who are in fact looking for the very opportunity that I was looking for ten years ago when I entered business and which I did not find.

"The men who join us will be those who can see that our principles, ideas and plans for the reorganization of this industry are correct and inevitable, and, knowing this, they will be eager to join us in order to ride on the crest of the wave that is steadily gathering in size and strength.

"While we call these men salesmen representatives—that is only a partial description, so they will be our connecting link with the exhibitors.

"They will not only sell our product on a fair and square business basis, but they will also, out of a sense of responsibility to the exhibitor, assist him to their fullest capacity in making a success of the product they sell him.

"They will prove by deeds our belief that 'the exhibitor investment is an essential part of the industry and must be protected' is not press matter material, but one of the foundation stones of the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan which is moving steadily to fulfillment."

Maypole Ordinance Wins Feminine Approval

Clerical and women's organizations in Chicago who were at first opposed to the proposed Maypole ordinance for a majority power censor board to take the place of the Funkhouser method there gave their approval to the measure last week before the Council judiciary committee on the condition that certain amendments be adopted.

Alderman George Maypole accepted all of the suggestions for the amendments except one, which he said he wanted to consider further. This would give the second deputy superintendent of police power to veto recommendations of the censor board if the vote stood 6 to 5. The board also would be given power to override the veto of the second deputy provided eight affirmative votes were recorded.

The ordinance, as amended, would provide for the following: The board to be under control of the chief of police; censors to submit their recommendations in writing and the reports to be made a public record; board to have power to recall and revoke permits; all censored pictures to bear Chicago label, such as shown on pictures passed by the National Board of Censorship; permits for pictures to be shown to adults only abolished. These are now known as the "pink permits," and no permits are to be issued while pictures are involved in court litigation.

Rev. Smith Takes Ban on Film to Court

Declaring that the picture was made as a church production and sponsored by a federation of California churches, and that it was to be shown at the Lyric theatre, New York, under the auspices of the Church of the Stranger, Judge Mullin of the Supreme Court has been asked to revoke the order of the Commissioner of Licenses forbidding the presentation of "What Are You Going to Do with Us?"

This picture, which was made under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Paul Smith, of California, was scheduled for an opening at the Lyric theatre, but it was not shown on account of the fact that the license commissioner notified the Messrs. Shubert, owners of the theatre, that presentation of the picture would result in the revocation of the license of the theatre.

Upon being notified of this action, Rev. Dr. Smith took charge of the fight and employed attorneys. Judge Mullin had not decided the issue as this issue goes to press, but it is announced that in case of an adverse decision Dr. Smith and the Church of the Stranger have decided to carry the matter to the highest courts.

Entertains the Soldiers

H. A. Bercovich, manager of the Allen theatre in Moose Jaw, Sask., was the host recently to a party of over 100 returned soldiers. The boys from the Ross convalescent hospital were taken to the theatre in cars supplied by the Rotary Club.

Manager Bercovich intends to give the soldiers a treat quite often during the summer.

Explanations Clear War-films Row

Creel Declares Pathe Gives 80 Per Cent of Receipts from Army Pictures to Government—Other Companies Get News Reels Each Week

THE past week was one of explanations in the Creel-Universal-Pathe war pictures difficulty. But with the clearing away of the smoke of Independence Day celebrations came also a clearer atmosphere surrounding the army films, and it appears certain the matter has been adjusted to the best interests of all concerned.

One result of the controversy is the possibility of a resolution by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, calling for a report from George Creel on film contracts made by the Committee on Public Information with film distributors.

Previous to the intimation this report would be asked for, Mr. Creel had explained the Pathe situation, and had distributed to the various publications a story containing the details of the Allies' Official War Review.

Willing to Co-operate

On June 28 George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information, appeared before the House Military Committee at Washington to explain that he had not declined an invitation to testify regarding the methods employed by the Committee on Public Information in leasing films of motion pictures of the army abroad. He said he told Chairman Dent on the telephone, June 27, that he would not oppose a resolution by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts calling for a report on film contracts and that he was ready to furnish full information.

Discussing the motion picture arrangement before the meeting, Mr. Creel said the Pathe Company has a contract for displaying the Allies Official War Review pictures in theatres throughout the country and that 80 per cent of the receipts are turned over to the Government, the proceeds being equally divided among the Governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States.

Continue with News Weeklies

Last week, in correcting an erroneous impression, the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, said in a statement to the press:

"An impression prevails that the Government is not supplying any war film to be used in the news weeklies issued by the motion picture companies, due to the release of the Allies' Official War Review. In correcting this erroneous impression Charles S. Hart, Director of the Division of Films, send excerpts from a letter written by him to each of the several companies distributing news weeklies. The letter was dated May 23 and reads as follows:

"'Each week beginning the week of June 3 we will place at your disposal at the offices of this committee in the Times Building official war films that we consider valuable to the news weeklies. You will be charged one dollar per foot for each foot of this film used by you. The committee reserves the right to supervise the editing of this Official War Film to conform to the policies of the American Government.

"'Copy of this letter has been sent to the other companies interested.'

"Mr. Hart further states that the news

J. Searle Dawley, Chairman Directors' Advisory Board, Committee on Public Information

weeklies are receiving material regularly. The Allies' Official War Review is an entirely separate release, issued weekly by the Division of Films and distributed by Pathe."

This is said to be an indirect reply to the claim made by Universal that its organization was being snubbed in the matter of war films, while another distributor was reaping the harvest of partiality.

Charles S. Hart, Director of the Division of Films, also said: "The Division of Films is supplying material to the news weeklies regularly. While this division has no desire to enter into any controversy, it is impossible to pass by falsehoods which are evidently intended to hamper the work of the Government in its efforts to show to the greatest number of people in film form the activities of the American Expeditionary Force abroad and the war pictures taken by the Allied Governments."

Three Companies Disagree

In connection with the establishment of the Official War Review, George Creel said this week:

"Upon taking up the work of the Division of Films I found that the British and Italian Official War Films were in charge of Captain G. McL. Baynes, that the French films were being distributed independently through the French Pictorial Division, while the United States Official Films were put out through the Red Cross, all of these being supplied to and distributed by the several news weeklies, namely: Pathe, Beaumont, Mutual and Universal.

"After becoming possessed of all the facts and giving them due consideration, my conclusion was that all parties interested and the public, would be best served by issuing these films through the Division of Fims, thereby consolidating and co-ordinating the work of the Allies and ourselves in distributing the film propaganda.

"After taking the matter up with the various commissioners of the Allied countries, we were promised co-operation should we be able to secure distribution for their pictures on a wide and thoroughly comprehensive scale.

"We called into consultation the four weekly companies and told them we would give them the Official War Review comprising the exclusive topical pictures of Great Britain, France and Italy and the United States. We stated that we would give this same reel to each one of the four news weeklies for distribution. The representatives of these four weeklies, however, stated that this arrangement would place them in competition with each other. Requesting that they submit a plan of their own, they stated that they wanted us to give 500 feet of separate and distinct material to each news weekly, making a total of 2,000 for the four.

"Although this to my mind was not as efficient a method as the one suggested to them, we agreed to their plan on a basis of $5,000 for the 2,000 feet of film to be divided between them. The cost was to be pro-rated among them in accordance with the number of feet each weekly might use. This all four news weeklies agreed to do.

"After a week of consultation the contract embracing these terms was drawn up and the only one to sign it was Paul Brunet, president of Pathe. The other three companies wrote saying they did not want to sign the contract and would do so only under protest.

"It is not the policy of this division to handle matters "under protest," and I at once made a statement (under date of May 23) that our offer was withdrawn and that from June 3 all four news weeklies could get the U. S. Official War Pictures at the office of the Division of Films on the basis of one dollar per foot. If they wanted the British, Italian or French pictures, it was up to them to pay what those Governments demanded for their pictures."

Boland Branches Out

Tom Boland, of the Empress theatre, Oklahoma City, has purchased an interest in the First National Exhibitors' Circuit of Oklahoma and will in the future give most of his time to that concern's distributing work.

He has appointed as manager Jack Brainerd, formerly of the Mutual, the latter succeeding T. E. Larsen, who is no longer connected with First National.

Export Order Works Hardship

Fox Film Corporation Held Up Over Week in Showing Pictures to Custom Officials After Reels Had Been Packed

AN indication of the far-reaching effect of the recent Government order regarding film exports is given in a statement from the Fox Film Corporation that when the Government's ruling was received that corporation had to unpack and give a screening of 500,000 feet of film, which was all packed and ready for shipment to all parts of the world.

When the order from the Treasury Department was received, the foreign department of the Fox Film Corporation had on hand cases of films ready to be shipped to Wellington, New Zealand; Australia, England, South America and Canada.

At a moment's notice all these goods had to be unpacked, customs officials had to be brought to the projection rooms of the Fox Corporation at 130 West Forty-sixth street, and then, for about a week, everybody in the Fox foreign department had to labor far into the night to get the shipments ready again. By dint of tremendous efforts the consignments were exhibited to customs officials, approved, and put back into their cases on time.

In addition to this there was a large quantity of Fox films in transit to various American ports for shipment out of the country. These for a time were threatened with delay at the hands of the Government's agents, but the modification of the Treasury Department's original order, on solicitation of various film producers, allowed shipments in transit to go through without being censored by custom officials.

As the Fox Film Corporation is probably the largest exporter of film in this country, the change in censorship procedure, coming with such suddenness, bore most heavily on that concern.

A brief history of the change in procedure will show how the sudden switch makes it more difficult for the exporter: Before June 1, the film exporter applied to Washington for an export license. After getting the license, the exporter was then in a position to ship immediately to the Allied countries without censorship and to South America after the film had been censored. Under the present system the exporter must first have the films for all countries except Canada censored by customs officials. Then he gets his license. But he can get an export license only for the amount of film censored. Thus one of the most troublesome features of the whole change is that the exporter cannot tell how soon after he has had his films censored that he can ship.

How much delay will be entailed by the new system cannot be estimated at this time by officials of the Fox foreign department, but it is not believed it will be a great deal. The customs officials, the Fox people say, have been showing splendid cooperation and have been trying in every way to make things as easy as possible.

World to Develop New Talent

Heralds New Era in Production, with Films Following in Footsteps of Legitimate Stage — Policy Temporary

WORLD PICTURES, after figuring the matter out from every angle, has come to the decision that discovering and developing talent will be equal to doing a "big bit" for the industry, and directors have been instructed to be on the lookout for promising young ladies and youths who might later deserve their names in electric lights.

In a statement last week, World Pictures said: "Fully seventy per cent. of the income of the motion picture industry is derived from the youth of our land. This in itself indicates that the motion picture industry, out of necessity, is obligated to serve youth. This condition applies more to motion pictures than to any other form of entertainment. Youth calls to youth and youth must be served. Youth will not be contented with pictures confined either to the employment of elderly actors or to stories based on situations and conditions growing out of life when it has reached the sered and yellow.

"The powers that control the legitimate stage have for many years encouraged the development of the youthful players. Such can hardly be said of the motion picture industry. It may be that this grew out of the ease with which young men and women fitted into the business so far as it relates to the acting end. It may be by reason of the ease with which young men and women secured engagements, they did not take the profession as seriously as did their contemporaries who found work in the legitimate theatres. Motion picture engagements, in a great measure, are limited to the time required in making one picture.

"World Pictures has decided that they at least will do their bit in discovering talent and developing it. With this in mind Oscar Apfel left on Saturday for Wilmington, N. C., to picturize "Pirate's Gold," with Montagu Love as the star. Mr. Apfel has been directed by World officials to seek out among the young women of Wilmington who are ambitious to go into the pictures the most desirable. He will give them employment in such seconds that do not necessitate a lot of experience. If in the making of the picture he sees in any of these young recruits signs of unusual ability, they shall be given an opportunity, if they so desire, to become permanent with the World organization. This policy is not to be a temporary one, but hereafter when directors are sent out of town on locations, instead of taking a large company with them, they are to make use of local talent whenever possible. In this way the World Pictures hopes to develop material.

Large Attendance at General Division Meeting

The annual meeting of the General Division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry was held at the headquarters in the Times Building on June 29, when the following directors were nominated to serve on the National Board for the ensuing year: Paul H. Cromelin, John C. Flinn, Paul Gulick, James Hoff, Julian M. Solomon, Jr., Thomas G. Wiley, Fred J. Beecroft.

The attendance was the largest of any meeting held during the year and considerable interest was manifested in the general activities of the Association. A committee consisting of Thos. G. Wiley, Paul Gulick and James Hoff was appointed to arrange the details for a luncheon to be given on Wednesday, July 24.

A resolution was adopted recommending to the Executive Committee of the National Association that individual members of Class 5 who enter the service of the Government should have their dues remitted during the period of the war.

The Interocean Forwarding Company, Inc., and Reginald Ward, Inc., were elected as members of the exporters' section and the following were elected as individual members: Strader, George A.; Clark, Herbert S.; Ryskind, Morris; Botsford, A. M.; Kearney, Patrick; Beatty, Jerome; George, R. G.; Pritchard, R. E.; Stilson, P. H.; Gage, Frederick; Jackson, W. H.; Wilcox, Morris.

The complete directorate as nominated by the four branches are as follows:

Producers' Branch—William A. Brady, D. W. Griffith, William L. Sherrill, Carl Laemmle, Adolph Zukor, Samuel Goldfish, William Fox.

Supply and Equipment Branch—J. E. Brulatour, J. H. Hallberg, W. C. Smith, Donald J. Bell, Walter J. Moore, J. F. Coufal, E. M. Porter.

Distributors' Branch—Walter W. Irwin, Richard A. Rowland, Paul Brunet, W. R. Sheehan, Arthur S. Friend, E. A. Powers, Ricord Gradwell.

General Division—Paul H. Cromelin, John C. Flinn, James Hoff, Paul Gulick, Julian M. Solomon, Jr., Thomas G. Wiley, Fred Beecroft.

New York Convention Delegates to Dine

All members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New York State who are to attend the Boston convention are to gather for a dinner Tuesday evening at Healy's Sixty-sixth street restaurant.

News was received during the week that sixty-six exhibitors from Buffalo and twelve from Utica and Glens Falls had come into the state organization as a personal tribute to Sydney Cohen, president of the state organization. They will have representatives at the dinner.

Gish Subject Started

Dorothy Gish, accompanied by her mother, arrived in Los Angeles last week and began work on her first Paramount subject, directed by Elmer Clifton. Space is being used at D. W. Griffith's Studio.

In and Out of Town

Frank J. Seng, returned to New York last week after an extended trip through the Middle West.

Harold B. Franklin, manager of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, looked in on New Yorkers this week to see what is new in the exhibition line.

R. B. Palmore, Palmore-Homand Supply House, Baltimore, is in New York over the current productions. Mr. Palmore in addition to handling supplies, also is a buyer for the District of Columbia and Maryland territory.

Ernest E. Gagnon, representing the California Motion Picture Enterprise, with offices in Los Angeles, Dallas and Atlanta, is in New York on business.

Harold J. Binney, better known as "Josh," producer of the "Josh" Binney comedies, is in New York, where he expects to produce two or three comedies before returning to Jacksonville, Fla., where he has headquarters at the Klutho Studios. Fatty Filbert, featured comedian in the Binney comedies and members of his supporting cast, accompanied Mr. Binney to New York.

H. J. Klutho, owner of the Klutho Studios, Jacksonville, Fla., is in New York on business.

Bill Parsons, producer of Capitol Comedies, featuring himself, who arrived in New York, recently, expects to make several comedy productions in the East before returning to Los Angeles.

'Phone Conference Closes Goldwyn Conventions

Goldwyn's series of zone conventions with its branch managers and salesmen, held in New York, Chicago and Cleveland, was brought to a novel close on July 1 by a cross-continent telephone conference between the home office and four branch managers in the Far West and on the Pacific Coast. A Goldwyn executive in New York spoke the company's selling message for the year beginning in September into a telephone connected with the offices in Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle, and the branch managers in those cities listened simultaneously by means of a "looped" wire.

After the selling policy for the year had been outlined over the wire, each of the managers asked questions and for nearly an hour a joint discussion was carried on. Sometimes the home office executive talked, sometimes one manager talked to another while the others and home office man listened. In the brief time consumed the viewpoint of each was expressed as thoroughly as though the participants in the unique conference had been seated about a table in a central office in the territory—San Francisco, say.

Universal Holds Chicago Meet

Sales Organization Gathers for First Three-Day Session Held by Members in Years — Very Few Absent

AN event which may have a far-reaching effect upon the present producing and sales policy of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, is scheduled to take place on Sunday, July 7, at Chicago, when the first convention held by the members of its sales organization in years opens for a three-day session at the Sherman House.

With the exception of the men in charge of the exchanges at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Boston and Canada, every Universal exchange manager has been notified to be on hand in time for the opening of the first session. In the case of the exchanges just mentioned, it is expected that the executive officials of the Universal company will visit them in person in the very near future.

The delegation leaving New York will be headed by Carl Laemmle and Joe Brandt. Harry Berman, sales manager of Jewel Productions, Inc., will accompany the Universal officials for the purpose of representing his company at the discussion of plans scheduled to take place.

Easily the most important innovation, so far as a film company convention is concerned, is the fact that exhibitors are to have an important part in the third day's session. Unlike the usual procedure, it is proposed by Mr. Laemmle to lay all the Universal cards face up on the table so that the exhibitors present on the third day may have an opportunity to see such new Universal policies as may be formulated and make suggestions that will enable the film organization to adapt them to the theatre owners' greatest benefit.

Another subject of particular interest is the discussion scheduled to take place on the advisability of the adoption of a policy calling for the issuance of a new short reel program by Universal. In this, as in such other matters as should be brought before their attention, the exhibitors invited to attend the convention will be given a voice whether or not Universal again releases a program of one, two and three-reelers depends largely upon what these showmen have to say.

Another radical departure in convention procedure is the intention to confine the forum meetings to but one or two sessions. As so many executives have found to be the case, conventions at which the forum meetings prevail degenerate into talk-fests. For this reason it is proposed to hold as many sessions during the day as can be crowded in, to keep the discussions on an informal basis throughout.

One of the high spots of the convention will be the "Special-All-Jewel Show," to be held on the last day of the convention. This show will consist of "For Husbands Only," Lois Weber's newest work; "The Geezer of Berlin," the travesty on Jewel's "The Kaiser"; and "The Sinking of the Lusitania," Winsor McCay's marvelous pen picture of that tragic event. Of these films "The Geezer of Berlin" and "The Sinking of the Lusitania" are scheduled for early release, while "For Husbands Only" is not to be issued before September.

In keeping with the spirit of the times, the usual jollification which follows the holding of a business convention will be conspicuous mainly by reason of its absence.

Booking Record Broken by Famous Players

The week of July 1, designated by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as "Paramount and Artcraft Week" in and around New York City, displayed one of the greatest booking records ever presented in the industry, according to an announcement from the organization. The bookings are said to have set a new mark for the New York exchange of F. P-Lasky.

Seventy-nine theatres in this territory showed Paramount and Artcraft pictures every day during the week. For such a number of theatres to present the product of one organization in this way and particularly in this territory, is considered an achievement that has probably never before been duplicated.

The observation of "Paramount and Artcraft Week" in these theatres also marked, it is said, one of the most striking examples of close co-operation between distributor and exhibitor in the exploitation of the pictures. A newspaper campaign in which the distributors advertised for the exhibitor, their program for the entire week, and in which a number of the larger exhibitors took additional space tying up with the big advertising, offered a most effective exploitation plan.

Zecca and Fraconia Arrive on Coast

(Special to Motion Picture News)

Los Angeles.—Ferdinand Zecca, Pathe director-general, and his assistant, L. E. Fraconia, arrived July 1 and have completed arrangements for Fannie Ward to continue under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, of Universal City, using stories by Ouida Berger, who also arrived a few days ago.

Frank Keenan will continue at the Brunton Studios, with stories written by Jack Cunningham. Zecca has purchased the Western six-reel subject, "A Texas Rose," featuring Betty Compson and George Larkin, directed by Stuart Paton and produced by the Diando Film Corporation. He has also completed arrangements for the Diando organization to make five and six-reel Western subjects.

Chaplin Film Gets Name

(Special to Motion Picture News)

Los Angeles.—Charlie Chaplin's new picture has been named "Shoulder Arms," and several children have important parts in the production.

Noted Directors Aid Film Division

Advisory Board of Ten to Advise on Productions to Be Made by Committee on Public Information —Call for Scripts Sent

TEN of the leading motion picture directors of the country are to form an advisory board and co-operate with the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information. This announcement came this week, from Charles S. Hart, director.

Services of these men were volunteered by a committee representing the Motion Picture Directors' Association and were gratefully accepted by Mr. Hart, J. Searle Dawley is chairman of the board, with James Vincent as secretary. The other members are: Maurice Tourneur, Capt. E. H. Calvert, Edwin Carewe, Charles Giblyn, R. A. Walsh, Sidney Olcott, George Irving and Travers Vale.

Members of the Advisory Board will meet weekly at the office of the Film Division in the Times Building to act upon any work that may be awaiting it. The members will read and recommend scenarios for the division, and have already requested writers to submit scenarios of strong human interest and of a nature calculated to arouse patriotism and help in the winning of the war.

Mr. Dawley has been in motion pictures since the early Edison days, going from that company to produce some of the first pictures for the Famous Players. Since then he has been connected with Paramount productions. Mr. Vincent is also a pioneer having started with the organization of Kalem and since then has been with Fox, Pathe and other companies, and is now devoting his time to independent releases.

Maurice Tourneur, who is now at the head of his own company, had made a number of splendid pictures for Paramount, including "The Blue Bird." Sidney Olcott is another who started with Kalem. Later he was with Famous Players, and since then has been an independent producer, his latest production being "The Belgian."

George Irving scored one of the greatest of successes with the direction of "The Witching Hour." Up to recently he has been with Metro, and recently went with Goldwyn. Charles Giblyn began his career as a director with the New York Motion Picture Corporation, later went to Paramount, and is now with Goldwyn. Travers Vale began directing with the old Rex Company, and is now with World.

Edwin Carewe did his first directing for Metro, and with the exception of short intermissions has remained with that company. Raoul A. Walsh began his motion picture experience under D. W. Griffith at the old Biograph, and for the past three years has been directing for William Fox. Captain Calvert was for six years with Essanay, and recently has been directing big special pictures.

Barker Directs Beach Stories

Goldwyn Plans Six of the Writer's Works for Next Season— "Laughing Bill Hyde" Will Be the First

GOLDWYN'S cameras will begin turning this week on the first of the six Rex Beach productions that are to bear the Goldwyn imprint next season. The first of this new series of Rex Beach pictures will be his story, "Laughing Bill Hyde." Goldwyn has enlisted with Mr. Beach the talents of Willard Mack in the preparation of the scenario from the Beach story, and has given the direction of the production over to Reginald Barker.

This, in effect, means an all-star scenario organization, a star director and linking other identities with one of the most popular authors in the world.

During the coming season, Goldwyn will provide exhibitors with six Rex Beach productions, based upon the desire of both the author and Goldwyn to guarantee exhibitors in the coming season more profit-making productions than ever before.

It is quite likely that the other Rex Beach productions in the series in addition to "Laughing Bill Hyde" will be "The Crimson Gardenia," "The Net," "Going Some," "The Silver Horde" and one other story as yet unnamed.

The first of the new Rex Beach productions will be released in the early fall.

Each Rex Beach cast is well balanced and carefully selected under the supervision of the author. The value of this to the actors themselves is found in the fact that there are not less than six stars of the screen today who were made such by the attention they first attracted to themselves in Rex Beach roles.

"Laughing Bill Hyde," the first of the new Rex Beach productions, will be made under the direction of Reginald Barker, who has just completed Geraldine Farrar's first Goldwyn production. For years one of Barker's chief ambitions has been to supervise the making of one of the stories of this virile author, and this ambition is realized much more quickly than he anticipated, for it seemed more likely that he would continue as Miss Farrar's director in her second production. But Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, is a great believer in permitting men to realize their ambitions. When he heard that Barker had longed to do a Rex Beach story, he persuaded Miss Farrar to release him long enough to direct "Laughing Bill Hyde" on the theory that when a man is given something that he is eager to do no one else could do that thing quite so well.

You are not going to war. The men who are need all the comforts you can give them. Help them get cigarettes. That is your patriotic duty. If you aren't helping in the "smokes" campaign, get busy—now. Don't be a slacker!

Hurley Plan Is Helped by Films

The address of Chairman Hurley of the United States Shipping Board before the National Security League in Chicago last week is fresh evidence of the need to freely export American films, according to President Paul H. Cromelin of the Inter-Ocean Film. In this talk Mr. Hurley laid special stress on the utilization after the war of the great merchant marine now budding.

"This merchant marine, declared Chairman Hurley, must not be allowed to go to rot in peace time," said Mr. Cromelin. "The chairman told the business men that they must plant American wares so successfully in the foreign markets that all the new ships would keep busy.

"Meantime the American film is acting as publicity agent for this superb idea. It is showing in all neuatral lands, familiarizing them with American hustle and go—which is made possible by American success—tools. The demand for these tools is sure to follow in the lands where ambitious men are forging to the front. This, I think, takes in every land!

"Establish American supremacy thus and the orders for American goods will flow in. And what channel other than our films could get such a result? A paid advertising campaign that would attain anything like it would cost our manufacturers a billion dollars. The films do this very patriotic work gratis, and it will pay Mr. Hurley and every American interested in post-bellum problems to see that they get every shipping facility today that can be secured."

Over 100 Enroll in Operators' School

With the school for operators opened under the auspices of the local branches of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New York State open only a week, more than a hundred men and women are enrolled. The school is located at 644 Eighth avenue, next door to Loew's American theatre.

The object of this school is to provide a greater number of operators in order to meet conditions caused by the war. Neither age nor sex is a bar so long as the student appears fit for the responsibility of the work.

¶Next Friday's Motion Picture News, dated July 20th, will be on the job at the opening of the Exhibitor's League Convention and Exposition in Boston ∴ ∴ ∴

What Kind of a Fellow Is—Friend?

Being a Glance at the Real Human Side of the Big Men of the Picture Game Caught in Action

By William A. Johnston

A MAN with a habit of attempting epigrams once told us "Any business organization is as big as its lawyer and no bigger."

Maybe he was a lawyer himself trying to boost the profession; but it is possible to read considerable truth into his philosophy. And if that is so, it is also possible to reverse his epigram to good purpose.

We of the picture game know how big the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation is; you know through the medium of some eight odd MOTION PICTURE NEWS pages a few weeks ago and many advertising pages how much bigger it promises to be during the coming year.

And so it follows when we ask "What Kind of a Fellow is Friend?" that this same Friend is "considerable fellow." For we have been told that he is the legal brains of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Just now Arthur S. Friend bears the official title of "Treasurer of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation". Before the formation of that organization he was secretary and general counsel of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company. He is also at the present moment a member of the august Board of Directors that decides the destinies of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

But with all his importance we'll wager that there are few exhibitors who know the name of Friend, and many of the supposedly "wise" film men who do not realize how big a figure he really is in the industry.

For Arthur S. Friend doesn't delight in seeing his name spread all over the trade-paper columns. You never read his name unless it is a real news story about some National Association activity, some move to co-operate with Government agencies, or the organization of a fight to combat a particular piece of dangerous legislation.

And then you read what a reporter said—not what the press agent babbled.

Speaking of Mr. Friend's activities in the National Association reminds us that he is also a member of that body's Board of Directors. If we learn of any other jobs of the kind, we think we'll christen him "Board of Directors' Friend."

He is chairman of a committee appointed by the National Association to co-operate with Herbert Hoover of the Food Administration. And you may be sure that the Food Administration Committee has not fallen into the comatose state so popular with committees. To the contrary, Mr. Friend has co-operated in the making and handling of a number of films to serve the purpose of food conservation, and has given so much time to this work that at times he commutes between New York and Washington.

The same city that gave John R. Freuler to the picture business also claims credit for Arthur S. Friend. He was born in Milwaukee and attended East Division High School in that city, afterward attending Harvard and Harvard Law School.

But the hand of fate seemed pointed toward the theatrical world. For on his return to Milwaukee, Mr. Friend took a keen interest in theatrical affairs, and was actively engaged in the management of the Pabst and Shubert theatres.

Then New York called. And though it called on legal matters, Mr. Friend continued his interest in the theatre. As a result of friendships formed then when Jesse L. Lasky turned from the vaudeville field to pictures, Arthur S. Friend took an active part in the formation of the Lasky Feature Play Company.

And by the way, does film history record any other company that jumped overnight from an idea—with a more than modest bankroll—into a full-fledged film-producing factor as did the Lasky Company?

Goldwyn Stakes All on Clean Films

President Goldfish Declares His Conviction the Public Wanted This Sort of Pictures Has Been Shown by Over 5,000 Booking the Product

REVIEWING its achievements for the first year of its existence, Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn Pictures, announced this week that the company would continue its policy of offering nothing but the cleanest of pictures. The output of the Goldwyn Company will be doubled with the second year.

Mr. Goldfish was led to form the company, even in the perilous times of a world war, because he felt confident that there was a great demand for a clean product such as his company planned. He points to a roster of more than 5,000 Goldwyn exhibitors as proof that he has the right ideas and that exhibitors were waiting for such pictures. This is said to be the largest number of exhibitors ever secured by a twelve-month-old organization in the history of the motion picture.

Goldwyn also claims that it has what it believes to be the finest organization in the industry-compact, well-mannered, enthusiastic and intelligent.

In discussing the accomplishments of the company and its plans, Mr. Goldfish says:

"Perhaps you will realize more clearly just why there is a Goldwyn company if I tell you of some of the problems of production," says Mr. Goldfish. "Courage is required of motion picture producers with millions at stake who refuse to surrender to temporary tendencies for the debasement of screen stories. Always in motion pictures there has been and is an unhealthy undercurrent. Always there have been and are purely commercial factors with no concern for refinement or art.

"There are the money-making factors, who want to get their financial returns quickly. They know that there is a public that rushes in to see pictures that have an unhealthy moral tone, and that even some of the better elements that go to see pictures can be drawn in through lurid exploitation. There are likewise exhibitors who exist by showing this kind of output. The occasional monetary successes they score have a tendency to undermine the resolution of men of finer purpose, who, although they own theatres, usually resist the temptation of temporary profits that can be realized from salacious or unclean pictures.

"When I entered motion pictures as a producer I determined that I would never seek profits through the production of prurient pictures. I do not believe it is possible for a producer to establish himself as a permanent success with stories that affront the majority of clean-minded Americans. This is essentially a clean and healthy country. Outside of certain large cities there is no audience awaiting smut and suggestiveness. And there is instant resentment against those who try to force such things on our millions of young people.

"It requires no wisdom to figure this out. Goldwyn was created to make a clean and finely balanced product. One might imagine that it would take a longer time to establish an organization of this kind, but it has not. We have become so well established and have been so well received in a year that we are for the coming season making more than fifty productions where in our first season we made twenty-six. But even if it had taken longer, we were willing to give years of our time to establishing the Goldwyn name and to building solidly. We did not expect to make money from the start—nor have we surprised ourselves by doing so. Perhaps we will not make money in our second year. In Goldwyn we are all young men, and we can afford to wait for the rewards until later.

Samuel Goldfish, of Goldwyn

"But there is one thing we have done: We have catered to the best tastes and the finer instincts of the American people. We have put our dollars on decency to win, and have no doubts on earth of our success. We know that the majority of Americans want what we are making and intend to make for the future. And I am unanimously supported in this view by all of those who are a part of the Goldwyn organization."

Hodkinson Service Adds Plaza Pictures

Plaza Pictures are the latest product to be added to the Hodkinson Service. Announcement of the fact came from the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation this week, but aside from the fact that two, and possibly three, stars will be seen in the new pictures, none of the details were given.

However, Mr. Hodkinson authorizes his own guarantee that the pictures will be good pictures. "We are convinced," he says, "that the producers of this material have obtained a consistent quality of productions which, coupled with the popularity of the stars appearing in these pictures, will make our new offerings very acceptable to the exhibitors.

"Producers of Plaza Pictures decided to release their material through us because they wanted not only present profit for themselves, but also to prove to the exhibitor that they were ready to make good pictures, sell them at a reasonable price to help the exhibitor make money from them, and by that same token insure the continued prosperity of their own business as producers.

"We will be in a position to announce the stars in Plaza Pictures next week, and may say, moreover, that the production of Plaza Pictures is well ahead of schedule, so that we can assure the exhibitors that there will be no delay or trouble on that score."

WATCHFUL WAITING

Kleine Wonders If Italian Films Will Arrive

GEORGE KLEINE has one more reason why he desires to see the Kaiser's U-boats "strafed." Sitting in his Chicago headquarters office last week he was almost ready to lay the blame to them for what he believes to be the loss at sea of a large importation of fresh Italian war pictures that he purchased, and which were made recently along the Italian battle front.

According to the last reports received by Mr. Kleine, a shipment of positive prints of twenty-five six-reel features had been dispatched to him from Italy on April 25. Giving them a generous allowance of time to take the tedious and circuitous route to this country, the films should have arrived by May 25 at the latest. Due to the stringent war rules, the port from which the shipment was made and the name of the boat carrying them was not divulged by the Italian authorities.

Fearing the U-boat activities when he bought the pictures, Mr. Kleine gave orders to have the positives made in Italy rather than risk the negative in shipment. It is believed, however, that the vessel carrying the films has been a victim of the German raiders. In order to learn the fate of the pictures, Mr. Kleine last week got in touch with the Italian Ambassador at Washington and an investigation is being made.

EXHIBITOR TO EXHIBITOR REVIEW SERVICE

[These reviews, by P. S. Harrison, are based solely on the entertaining qualities of the picture. All other factors are considered of secondary importance.]

"Shark Monroe"

W. S. Hart Sure to Please in Tale of Alaska and the Sea

(Artcraft—July 8. Directed by W. S. Hart)

"SHARK MONROE" is a very good offering, containing suspense and heart appealing situations. It will be a sure hit with Hart followers inasmuch as, besides being well produced, it is something different from anything he has ever done heretofore.

The story, however, will not stand an acid test. Several of the situations are not logical and somewhat improbable.

Although it was written by Gardner Sullivan, a writer who has repeatedly displayed ability of the highest order, this cannot stand against him when one takes into consideration the demand for stories from his pen.

The story depicts Mr. Hart first as a captain of a schooner and later as a gold seeker in Alaska.

There he marries a girl forcibly to save her from the clutches of a notorious character.

Shortly after he discloses to her the fact that the ceremony was performed by a fake minister, although loving her he would not force her to marry him against her wishes.

But the girl having by this time discovered the noble character of the man, and also fallen in love with him, asks to become his wife.

The picture is clean and will entertain.

"Safety Curtain"

Good Treatment Makes Latest Norma Talmadge Satisfactory

(Select—July 10. Directed by S. A. Franklin)

ALTHOUGH the story does not present any new situations, fine treatment by Director Franklin and convincing acting by the star lift this offering way high.

Miss Talmadge is given ample opportunities for emotional work and she certainly takes full advantage of it. Her work in this picture is as good as any she has ever done.

The scenario was written by the director himself in association with Paul West. It tells of a little waif who, through force of circumstances, was forced to marry a brutal man.

She was saved from a fire by a British officer, and believing her husband had perished in it she consented to become his wife.

Later the husband showed up alive and attempted to coerce her to follow him again. However, he was stricken with the plague and died.

This picture is clean and full of heart appealing situations. It ought to take well with any audience.

"To Hell with the Kaiser"

A "Jazz Patriotic Picture for the Hurrah Type of Fan"

(Screen Classics, Inc.—Released Through Metro. Directed by George Irving. Screen Time, 95 m.)

IF you cater to the "Hurrah" kind of crowd which respond easily to the touch of an "electric button," this picture might please them. There are a number of situations that will enthuse such a crowd.

If, however, your patronage is composed of the more intellectual element that demands more serious entertainment, the kind that is based on logic, I am afraid this offering will not appeal to them.

Barring the first reel, which is the only part that conveys more or less a feeling of seriousness, the balance is fantastic. It is simply wildly imaginative fiction.

The scenario was written by June Mathis. In the first reel it gives an incident in the Kaiser's early life.

It goes back to June 15, 1888, when Frederick III died. Wilhelm II demanded of Bismarck to know the secrets of his dynasty.

He was shown certain documents outlining the empire's policy and was also told that one was missing and the only person who knew anything about it was his mother who was of English birth.

She was ordered to produce it under penalty of arrest. It was found to be pertaining to the conquest of England.

The main part of the story tells of an American, resident of Berlin, who refused to sell to the Kaiser his invention of a wireless apparatus for sending messages that no instrument could intercept.

It tells of the declaration of the European war and the death of one of the inventor's two daughters, who was in a convent in a Belgian town, at the hands of some German soldiers after a brutal assault on her. The inventor was also murdered.

It tells of the declaration of war by the United States and shows how the inventor's other daughter, aided by an instrument of her father's invention, helped an American aviator capture the Kaiser.

"Good Night, Paul"

Nothing to Brag About in This Constance Talmadge Offering

(Select—June 20. Directed by Walter Edwards)

THIS offering was intended for a comedy drama but it will hardly get any laughs. It is just a fair picture.

The scenario was based on the stage play of the same name by Roland Oliver and Charles Dickson.

It tells of a girl who pretended to be the wife of her husband's chum in order to extract some money from his uncle.

In the end the truth becomes known, the uncle finds a helpmate and even the nephew, who is supposed to be a woman hater, is paired off.

There are some very transparent X-ray gowns shown worn by the models of the dressmaking establishment which will make lots of young folks giggle.

Where this star is popular this picture may get by, but I wouldn't say too much about it if I were you.

"The Ghost of Rosy Taylor"

Mary Miles Minter Satisfies in Simple Story

(Mutual—July 8. Directed by Edward Sloman)

THIS is a simple story simply told. It will just hold the interest.

The story tells of an American orphan girl who returned to America from France.

While seeking employment without success she finds a package containing a house key and a letter requesting a woman to clean her country house weekly.

Upon investigation she learns the woman is dead, thereupon she assumes her identity.

The owner's young son mistakes her for a burglar and has her sent to the reformatory, from which she later escapes. She takes refuge at the old house.

Eventually the mystery is cleared and her relatives are located. She finds happiness in the love of the young man.

Part of the story is based on the element of mystery of the spooky kind, which helps somewhat to hold the attention.

The picture on the whole is clean, with an appeal mostly to the high class element.

"The Golden Wall"

An Average Offering with Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greely

(World—July 15. Directed by Doll Henerson)

THIS is an average program offering. It contains no heart appealing situations that might retain the interest of a picture-goer.

The story was adapted from an old French novel by Clara Beranger and is very simple. It tells of an impoverished young French nobleman who decided to come to the United States incognito and make a new fortune by hard work.

He became the superintendent of the estate of an American millionaire who had a young daughter.

The young nobleman fell in love with the girl but she suspected him of being a fortune hunter. In time, however, she learned that her suspicions were unfounded and they became engaged. After which he disclosed his identity.

Some of the situations are hardly logical. For instance, it is not probable that the superintendent of the estate of a wealthy man would live in the house as one of the family.

The action is somewhat mechanical and the characters hardly convincing.

"The Deciding Kiss"

Edith Roberts Stars in An Ordinary Offering

(Bluebird—July 8. Produced by Mr. Browning)

THE basic idea of this story is good—love for the children—but it has been badly expressed.

To begin with, Edith Roberts is too old for the part. You can't make a young woman look like a child simply by putting her in short dresses. You have to take into consideration the eye of the camera, which is relentless.

Assuming, however, that she would fit the part well, the idea of having a fairly mature young man fall in love with a child, however sincere that love may be, is repulsive to public taste.

That this last criticism is correct is evidenced from certain changes made in the story, which may be construed as an admission. For instance, the synopsis reads that the young man in the end married the child, while in the picture it has been changed. He marries his old sweetheart, while the child asks to still be loved as their child.

Another bad point is that a young lady of fairly mature age should be jealous of a little child.

The story was written by Ethel M. Kelly, and tells of two young lovers who adopted an orphan child in order to test themselves as to whether they would make a good father and mother.

You will get by with this picture provided your audience is not critical from a philosophical point of view.

"Outwitting the Hun"

Harry Raver Predicts An Interesting Novelty

(Staged and Directed by Giovanni Pastrone, Producer of "Cabiria"—Distributed by Harry Raver. Screen Time, 40 Min.)

THIS is an interesting and entertaining film novelty, in which the different roles are played by animated tin soldiers. It all happens in the dream of a little child.

The story is a fantastic representation of the present war. As the child falls asleep he dreams that his two tin soldiers, Track and Trick, representing the Hun and Allied soldiers respectively, become animated.

Track imprisons Trick in a shoe of large proportions but the latter escapes by cutting the shoe. His limbs, disjointed, come out of the shoe one at a time. They are again joined together outside.

Then comes the call to arms and the war commences, more tin soldiers taking part.

The firing of "Big Berthas," a miniature of the real ones, with all the details of loading and adjusting to position and the disappearance of the guns after each shot, is really amusing.

It also shows Track's invention of the Poison Gas and Trick's counter-invention of the Sucksmobile, which draws the fumes, thus neutralizing its effects.

Then comes the aerial battle, in which aeroplanes and Zeppelins participate. This battle is realistic.

There is nothing wonderful about the camera work. It has been done in this country just as successfully if not more so.

The trick, however, is in the conception of the thing and the successful co-ordination of the movements so that they could be made to appear as running smoothly.

It must have required lots of patience and hard thinking to produce it.

You can advertise this as a feature. You will get by with it as it will amuse your patrons. It is comical to watch the tin soldiers move and perform like human beings.

"The Claws of the Hun"

Charles Ray in a Convincing Patriotic Offering

(Paramount—July 8. Directed by Victor L. Schertzinger)

PROPAGANDA subjects when produced intelligently can prove of help to the Allied cause. They can also do harm, however, when done childishly.

This is one of those offerings that will do good as propaganda and at the same time entertain. It is full of thrilling situations and heart interest.

The basic idea in it is a conflict between duty to one's country and the pleading of a mother against it.

The story was written by R. Cecil Smith. It tells of a young American who, when war was declared by the United States against Germany, decided to enlist. But his mother begged him not to do so as she was afraid she might lose him.

German spies had kidnapped his father and were about to blow up his munition plant.

The young man, aided by a certain clue, succeeded in capturing the criminals, thus preventing the destruction of the plant and the killing of his father and many of the workers.

Finally his mother gave him her consent to enlist.

The action is swift throughout. Mr. Ray is convincing in his role and so is the entire supporting cast.

This picture will appeal to all classes.

"One Thousand Dollars"

Good Cast in a Rather Light Offering

(Vitagraph—July 8. Directed by Kenneth Webb)

THE story in this picture is light. It contains no big situations that will excite a picture goer.

It is from the pen of O. Henry. It tells of a young man who was cut off by his uncle's will with one thousand dollars and a provision to give an account as to how he spent it.

After trying to get rid of it unsuccessfully by various methods, he gave it to his uncle's ward.

There was a provision in the will of which he was ignorant, making him heir to a large fortune provided he spent that one thousand dollars wisely.

When told of that provision, while rendering a statement of the disbursement, he tore it so that the ward, whom he loved, would inherit the fortune. Eventually they became engaged.

The trouble with the story is that you can guess the action in advance.

The action becomes somewhat brisk in the last reel and that helps some.

The direction is creditable. With good scripts Director Webb could surely produce pictures.

This attraction may appeal to the high class element. Edward Earl, Agnes Ayres and Florence Deshon are included in the cast.

"Wedlock"

Sympathetic Role for Louise Glaum Puts This Over

(Paralta-Hodkinson—July 8. Directed by Wall Worsley)

THIS picture will please your patrons, in spite of the fact that there is a weak point in the story which almost spoils it.

The chief reason why it will appeal is because the principal character, the heroine, is given a very sympathetic part. In such cases picture-goers are inclined to overlook faulty spots.

The weak point in question is the method used by the heroine in compelling the villain to admit his guilt, thus proving the innocence of the hero, her former husband.

The story was written by Dennison Smith. It is based on the marriage of the hero, the son of wealthy parents, to the heroine, a girl beneath his station in life, with the consequent divorce on account of the objection of the parents.

After the divorce the hero married the girl chosen for him by his parents, but she secured a divorce when he was sent to the penitentiary on a false charge.

The heroine, who always loved him, succeeded in causing the guilty man to confess, thus securing the release of the innocent man. They were again married.

The picture is clean and ought to appeal to all classes.

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"All Woman" (Goldwyn)—"Star don't draw as she deserves."

"The Midnight Trail" (Mutual)—"Very fair picture."

"Two Bit Seats" (Kleine)—"Good."

"Kidder and Ko." (Pathe)—"Pictures like this is what the public wants."

"White Man's Law, The" (Paramount)—"A good picture."

"Say, Young Fellow!" (Artcraft)—"The best ever; come again." "Doug. stands 'em up again."

"De Luxe Annie" (Select)—"Big for two days."

"Viviette" (Famous Players)—"A very good show." "Just program stuff."

"Believe Me, Xantippe" (Famous Players)—"Very good."

"Joan of Plattsburg" (Goldwyn)—"Great picture, but business poor on account of public prudes."

"Final Reckoning, The" (Paramount)—Frederick line of photoplay doesn't please here; poor business."

"Masks and Faces" (World)—"Better than average business. A picture, that, if advertised in the correct way should bring good returns. A wonderful cast is the big point."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released within the previous ten weeks on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectations; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
"$5,000 REWARD" (Farnum—Bluebird).....May	Poor	"Poor business due to heat."
ACE HIGH (Mix—Fox).....June	Average	"Pretty fair."
ALIEN ENEMY, AN (Glaum—Paralta).....Apr.	Average	"Fine picture; star not popular." "Better than average business; story very good for patriotic subject and very well asembled; photography and direction fine.
ALL WOMAN (Marsh—Goldwyn).....June	Average	"Goldwyn does not draw for me; Mae Marsh good." "A very good picture." "Best Mae Marsh picture since 'Polly of the Circus'." "Poor business; hot weather; fine picture."
AMERICAN BUDS (Jane and Katherine Lee—Foxfilm)..... Apr.	Average	"Good picture, but did not draw." "A few more like this and I won't damn the business." "Fine kid comedy, but did not draw."
BACHELOR'S CHILDREN, A (Morey—Vita.)....Apr.	Average	"Just average business." "Picture good, but did not draw."
BARBARY SHEEP (Ferguson—Artcraft).....June	Average	"Not well liked."
BELIEVE ME, XANTIPPE (Reid—F. P. Lasky). May	Big	"Good picture, well received; fair business." "Draws well, very good." "Reid not strong here; Xantippe a very good story." "Very good comedy drama."
BELL BOY, THE (Arbuckle—Paramount).....Apr.	Extra Big	"He never made a better one than this." "Some picture." "A knockout." "Great." "Best Arbuckle comedy we ever ran." "Big business; great."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Ford—Fordart).....May	Average	"A joke to thinking people—great for kids."
BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH (Enid Bennett—Lasky) .....May	Average	"Very good." "Good circus stuff." "Very good; her best; getting very popular here."
BIT OF JADE (Minter—Mutual).....Apr.	Average	"Minter is well liked." "Light entertainment; good."
BLINDNESS OF DIVORCE (Fox).....Apr.	Big	"Good subject; well received." "My people do not want this type of play."
BLINDFOLDED (Barriscale—Paralta).....Apr	Big	"Story too common; did not get great interest; acting good." "Barriscale, another gone as far as our house is concerned."
BLUE BIRD, THE (Artcraft).....Apr.	Average	"Good picture, too high class for my town." "A magnificent production of a beautiful thought—no box-office value."
BLUE EYED MARY (Caprice—Fox).....June	Average	"Poor picture for her." "Poor title killed it."
BRAVEST WAY, THE (Hayakawa—Lasky).....June	Average	"Fair picture; star well liked."
BRAVE AND BOLD (Walsh—Foxfilm).....May	Big	"Fair picture." "As a star Walsh is our best box office magnet." "Pleased." "Very good, pleased greatly."
BREAKERS AHEAD (Dana—Metro).....	Big	"Fine picture." "Good." "One of the best features we have ever played." "Dana not a 'comer'—she is here." "Picture only fair." "Bum story."
BRIDE OF FEAR, THE (Carmen—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture."
BUSINESS OF LIFE (Joyce—Vita.).....Apr.	Big	"Very fine production." "Well liked."
CECILIA OF THE PINK ROSES (Davies—Select). June	Average	No comment received with report.
CONFESSION (Carmen—Fox).....May	Average	"Fair picture." "Carmen very good in this picture." "Has only little drawing power; star unknown here—picture O. K."
CROSS BEARER, THE (Montague Love—World)—Apr.	Average	"Big for two days." "Booked for week, closed on Thursday." "Good picture." "Good picture, but should never have been made." "Good picture; used it for a Catholic benefit."
CYCLONE HIGGINS, D.D. (Bushman—Metro)...May	Average	"Poor picture." "Not much picture." "Something new for Bushman, but seemed to take very well." "Patrons didn't go wild over this one."
DANGER GAME, THE (Goldwyn—Kennedy)....Apr.	Average	"Everybody well pleased." "Not as good as other Madge Kennedy's pictures." "Did not please."
DANGER WITHIN (Zoe Rae—Bluebird).....May	Average	"Pleasing." "Good program picture." "Zoe Rae draws well with the Kiddies."
DAUGHTER OF THE WEST (Baby Osborne—Pathe) May	Average	No comment received with report.
DE LUXE ANNIE (Norma Talmadge—Select)....June	Big	"In many ways her best picture." "First class in every respect." "Norma is a good bet these days."
DESERT WOOING, A (Enid Bennett—F. P.-Lasky).June	Average	No comment received with report.
DOG'S LIFE, A (Chaplin—First National).....Apr.	Extra	"House record." "Went over big, but not as much as expected." "A regular riot." "Very good." "Great." "Some comedy; good on two days—some HOT." "Very good."
DOLL'S HOUSE, A (Ferguson—F. P.-Lasky).....June	Poor	"No one here liked the picture on account of the finish of the story." "Disciples of Ibsen too few to warrant screening his masterpieces." "Good picture, not appreciated."
DOLLY DOES HER BIT (Osborne—Pathe).....Apr.	Big	"Picture very pleasing." "Star and pickaninny very good; story no good."
EAGLE'S EYE, THE (Wharton Serial).....	Big	"They enjoy this serial." "Going along very good at 11th chapter." "Good drawing card." "Pleasing patrons every week."
EMPTY POCKETS (Brenon—First National).....May	Average	"Good picture." "Very poor picture." "Not as good as we expected."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
FACE IN THE DARK, THE (Mae Marsh—Goldwyn) ....Apr.	Average	"Name and story killed it." "Star not popular here." "Mae Marsh is not popular here—and never will be with this kind of story." "Did not draw for me — reason not known." "Pronounced good; fair in drawing power. "Clever picture.
FAIR PRETENDER, THE (Madge Kennedy—Goldwyn)....May	Average	"Poor business." "This star does not draw here." "Fair, ordinary program picture. Not worth what we paid for it. A spy plot is dragged in to fill out five reels. Goldwyn needs pep."
FAST COMPANY (Farnum—Bluebird).....Apr.	Average	"Business good, but picture below standard." "As good as the kind they ask twice as much for."
FIREBRAND, THE (Pearson—Fox).....May	Average	"Poor story—Russian stuff is dead." "Virginia Pearson well received; fair picture." "Average program picture."
FIREFLY OF FRANCE, THE (Reid—Para.).....June	Big	"Star and story both well liked."
FOR SALE (Hulette—Pathe).....June	Average	No comment received with report.
GAME WITH FATE, A (Morey—Vita.).....June	Big	"Harry Morey becoming very popular here.'
GIRL FROM BEYOND, THE (Shipman—Vita)...Apr.	Average	"Everybody liked it." "Not as good as 'Dodging a Million'." "Good program picture." "Good picture." "Best Normand production—better than 'Dodging a Million'."
GRAIN OF DUST, THE (Lillian Walker—Crest Pictures)	Poor	"Better than average program picture; story drew more than star."
GUILT OF SILENCE (Salisbury—Bluebird).....May	Poor	"Wonderful snow scenes; fine picture."
HEARTS OR DIAMONDS? (Russell—Mutual)....Apr.	Average	"Considered rival of Hart." "Russell popular." "Excellent picture." "Fair picture."
HER FINAL RECKONING (Frederick—F. P.-Lasky) June	Average	"This class of story is not one that will send you any patrons—she should have better stories."
HER ONE MISTAKE (Brockwell—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Average	"Should not have been released." "Pleased all who saw it." "Gets by; weakest spot on Fox program."
HIS MAJESTY, BUNKER BEAN (Paramount—Jack Pickford).....Apr.	Average	"Great picture." "Press agent's promises not entirely fulfilled. Just a fair picture." "Suitable feature for war times. Plenty of good laughs. Satisfactory financially." "Fine picture, and just the type for star." "Went over big; star always liked." "Only fair." "Good—Pickford drawing better with each release."
HIS OWN HOME TOWN (Ray—Paramount).....June	Big	"He is a popular star; good picture." "Fine." "Good stuff." "Pleasing." "Good."
HIT-THE-TRAIL HOLLIDAY (Cohan—Artcraft).June	Average	"The star is no drawing card."
HONEST MAN, AN (Desmond—Triangle).....May	Big	"Desmond always a big favorite here."
HONOR OF HIS HOUSE (Hayakawa—Paramount).Apr.	Average	"Average picture; strong finish." "Average picture." "Good picture; well put on." "Good picture, but Hayakawa seems to be lessening as an attraction."
HOUSE OF HATE, THE (Pathe Serial).....	Big	"Sustains interest."
HOUSE OF SILENCE, THE (Reid—Paramount)..Apr.	Average	"Very bold. Has no place on Paramount programme." "Fair picture; fair business." "Hardly a theme for a family house. Used the shears on two scenes." "Story too strong." "Paramount falling down."
HOW COULD YOU CAROLINE?. (Love—Pathe).May	....	"Audience didn't like it."
HUMDRUM BROWN (Walthal—Paralta).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to Paralta standard. Poor story." "Picture fair—star don't draw here." "Good picture, but did not draw."
JOAN OF PLATTSBURG (Normand—Gold.).....May	Average	"Poor star; poor story; poor picture.'
JOURNEY'S END (Clayton—World).....May	Average	"Very light."
KAISER, THE (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"Three days' big business." "A picture with several powerful kicks—film in very poor condition."
LANDLOPER, THE (Lockwood—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture." "Pleased very much." "Very fair picture." "Not as good as usual." "Just an average programme offering, but Lockwood always draws." "Only fair." "Well liked."
LEAP TO FAME, A (Blackwell—World).....Apr.	Average	"Poorly directed, but pleased."
LEGION OF DEATH (Storey—Metro).....	Average	"Fine production, but story poor—did not draw."
LEND ME YOUR NAME (Lockwood—Metro)....May	Big	"He is very popular." "Fine; great comedy." "A good comedy." "Excellent value; business better than La Tosca at a better price."
LES MISERABLES (Farnum—Fox).....Feb.	Extra Big	"Good." "Four days; best production ever in house, but too long." "Good drawing card." "A bit too deep for all classes; well liked, however."
LESSON, THE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....May	....	"Very good; pleased most people."
LET'S GET A DIVORCE (Billie Burke—Paramount)Apr.	Average	"Not a picture that will please all the people." "Fair picture; good title." "Burke has lost her drawing power." "Story loses all its value on the screen—star not at her best."
LIE, THE (Ferguson—Artcraft).....Apr.	Average	"Very good picture because it had heart appeal." "Very good." "Pleased all." "Very good." "Very poor." "Pleased everybody.' "Star liked; fine production." "Good drama." "Just didn't draw—good picture, but fell down badly."
LITTLE MISS NO ACCOUNT (Leslie—Vitagraph).Apr.	Average	"Excellent picture."
LONE WOLF, THE (Lytell—Select).....June	....	"A very fine production."
LONELY WOMAN, THE (Bennett—Triangle)....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
LOVE'S CONQUEST (Cavalieri—Jewel).....June	Average	"Mere costume stuff—bored every one, no one pleased." "If the producers could only have heard what our people said when they went out."
MADAME SPHINX (Rubens—Paralta).....June	Average	"Good story, but morbid."
MAGIC EYE, THE (Zoe Rae—Universal).....Apr.	Poor	"Good picture, but did not draw for me."
MAN TRAP, THE (Rawlinson—Bluebird).....May	Big	"Herbert Rawlinson at his best, and a great favorite here."
MARRIAGE LIE. THE (Myers—Universal).....Apr.	Average	"Very good." "A very fair picture." "Miss Myers is always a good value."
MASKS AND FACES (Forbes-Robertson—World).May	Average	"Big, if not for costumes." "Poorest World ever ran."
MATING OF MARCELLA (Dalton—Para.).....May	Average	"A very pleasing picture." "Dragged at first." "Did not draw as well as usual." "Not as good as usual Dalton." "Average feature." "Very good."
MISSING (Blackton—Paramount).....June	Average	"This is one of the best pictures we have ever shown; a star in this picture would clean up for everybody. Some more like that, please." "Great; one of the best of the year." "Very good; best war picture yet."
"MILE-A-MINUTE KENDALL" (Jack Pickford—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"The picture pleased them all." "Dandy picture." "Fair picture, but not his best." "Fine." "All like Jack; he's good." "Real entertainment." "Below Pickford standard."
M'LISS (Mary Pickford—Artcraft).....May	Big	"Par excellence." "Pleasing feature—business only fair, possibly attributable to hot weather." "Fine production; star great." "One of Pickford's best." "This is a Pickford town." "Pleased." "Good picture." "One of Mary's best drawing cards anywhere."
MME. PAULETTE (Claire Anderson—Triangle)..May	Average	"Pleased."
MOONSHINE (Arbuckle—Paramount).....May	Big	"Fatty made good." "Below Arbuckle standard." "Very entertaining." "Fatty gets the business." "Not up to 'The Bell Boy,' but good." "Making best comedies on the market—not afraid to let someone else get a laugh." "Excellent Arbuckle comedy."
MR. FIX-IT (Fairbanks—Artcraft).....Apr.	Big	"Everybody pleased; good in every respect." "Big all week." "Reissues hurt star." "Fine, and a relief from his usual type of plays."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	Extra Big	"Extra big second week." "Good all week." "Splendid production." "A great picture; good business." "Hot weather; a loser at increased prices." "Well produced; made people talk." "Best war picture so far; made people think."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....May	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone."
OLD WIVES FOR NEW (—Artcraft.....May	Big	"Fine production."
OLDEST LAW, THE (Elvidge—World).....May	Average	No comment received with report.
ONE HOUR (Keefe-Foursquare).....May	Big	"A good picture, that draws business."
ONE MORE AMERICAN (Beban—Paramount).....	Average	"Great stuff." "Star not strong here." "Excellent." "Beban is wonderful, but the public can't see it." "Star great, but doesn't draw for me."
ONLY ROAD, THE (Dana—Metro).....June	Average	No comment received with report.
ORDEAL OF ROSETTE, THE (Brady—Select)..May	Average	"Being a dream saved this one." "Good picture."
OVER THERE (Richman—Select).....	Average	"Pleased immensely. "Poor picture; did not draw.
PAIR OF SIXES, A (G. Kleine—Perfection).....Apr.	Big	"Best comedy we have had in a long time." "Splendid; pleased greatly; title drew well." "Dandy picture, pleased all; fair business, hot weather."
PAY DAY (Drew—Metro).....May	Poor	"Did not go so well." "Average audience here does not care for Drew humor." "A real piece of cheese." "Pulled it off after first day."
PAYING HIS DEBT (Stewart—Triangle).....Apr.	Poor	"Pleased." "Good direction."
PEG OF THE PIRATES (Hyland—Foxfilm).....May	Average	"Star good; story poor." "Very poor picture." "Not wanted; very poor business."
PLAYING THE GAME (Ray—F. P.-Lasky—Para.).Apr.	Big	"Pleased everybody." "Ray's best yet." "Ray's best picture."
POWERS THAT PREY (Minter—Mutual).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to standard." "Star is popular here." "Just fair."
PRIMITIVE WOMAN, THE (Fisher—Mutual)....Apr.	Average	"Light entertainment; fair."
PRUNELLA (Clark—Lasky-Paramount). .....May	Average	"Did not please." "People walk out before the show is half over." "Very bad motion picture entertainment." "Splendid production, but decidedly not a picture the public likes."
PURPLE LILY, THE (Gordon—World).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with reports.
REASON WHY, THE (Young—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Well liked by majority." "Well produced, but misses fire."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
RED, RED HEART, THE (Salisbury—Bluebird)..Apr.	Average	"A very satisfactory picture." "Good title, fair picture."
RESURRECTION (Frederick—Paramount) .....May	Average	"This star was at her best.' "Very good." "Did not draw, poor subject." "Rotten; terribly suggestive." "This finishes Frederick here." "Very good but did not draw."
RICH MAN'S DARLING (Lovely—Bluebird)....Apr.	Average	"Splendid picture." "Average program offering."
RICH MAN, POOR MAN (Marguerite Clark—F. P. Lasky-Para.).....Apr.	Average	"Well liked by all; star will come back strong if given stories like this." "Not star's style of picture." "Good picture, but no punch in it." "Didn't draw as well as usual; good picture"
RIDERS OF THE NIGHT (Dana—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to Metro standard. Picture an improbable thing—Dana's work good." "Metro well liked."
RISKY ROAD, THE (Phillips—Universal).....Apr.	Average	"Just ordinary program value; does not justify Blue Bird tilt in prices."
ROSE O' PARADISE (Barriscale—W. H. Hodkinson).....May	Average	"Not up to standard." "Very poor feature—should never have been made."
RULER OF THE ROAD (Keenan—Pathe).....Apr.	Average	"Keenan always good." "Good." "Good picture, Keenan O.K." "Good, but did not take here." "Good picture, but no drawing card." "Keenan fine; makes good character study in this picture."
SELFISH YATES (Hart—Lasky-Paramount).....May	Average	"Had more good comments on this than other Hart." "Reissues have killed Hart in this town." "Good; best dramatic Hart story." "Very good; one of his best."
SMASHING THROUGH (Rawlinson—Univ.).....June	Average	No comment received with reports.
SOCIAL BRIARS (Minter—Mutual).....June	Average	"A very nice picture—well liked." "Very good." "A picture any exhibitor can boost."
SOCIETY FOR SALE (Desmond—Triangle).....Apr.	Average	"Good."
SON OF DEMOCRACY (Chapin—Paramount).....	Big	"Best series ever produced." "Big drawing card." "Great pictures." "Opinion divided on 'Mother'." "'My First Jury' immense." "This completes the series. Made a great hit with the old timers and brought many new faces. Young folks not greatly interested. Early promises not developed in closing incidents." "Best yet."
SOUL OF BUDDHA (Bara—Fox).....Apr.	Average	"Too strong; good business." "Bara's poorest picture." "A return date very successful." "Theda Bara scores again; splendid vehicle for her work." "Very good."
SOUL FOR SALE (Phillips—Jewel).....June	Average	"Good average feature; not the knockout the exchange claimed for it."
SQUARE DEAL, A (Fisher—Mutual).....June	Poor	"Not up to Fisher's standard."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National).....	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big." "Made big hit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture; out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card."
TIGER MAN, THE (Hart—Artcraft).....Apr.	Big	"Not up to Hart standard." "Best thing Hart has done for Artcraft; good story." "Big all week." "Not up to standard; weak." "Very good." "Pleased greatly, Hart is a favorite." "Fine, with big opposition—one of our best drawing cards." "Typical Hart picture." "Silly picture; three Hart pictures a year enough."
TRAP, THE (Brady—World).....Apr.	Average	No comments received with reports.
TREASURES OF THE SEA (Storey—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"A picture that just pleases."
TRAIL TO YESTERDAY, THE (Lyttel—Metro)..Apr.	Big	"A winner." "Best Western picture for a long time; will watch for future Lytell pictures. "Lytell certainly a comer." "Good picture—photography good." "Lytell a good star."
TRUE BLUE (Farnum—Fox).....May	Big	"Very good." "Farnum bigger every time." "Farnum very popular."
TRIUMPH OF THE WEAK (Joyce—Vita.).....May	Average	"Very good."
TWENTY-ONE (Washburn—Pathe).....Apr.	Average	"Very poor picture." "Average program picture.' "Pleasing comedy-drama—worth what we paid for it. Drew average business."
TWO SOUL WOMAN, THE (Dean—Universal)...May	Average	"Just fair value—no big thing."
TYRANT FEAR (Dalton—F. P.-Lasky-Paramount).Apr.	Average	"Don't like her in this." "Good of its kind." "Good." "Picture cut to pieces; story ruined."
UNCLAIMED GOODS (Martin—Lasky-Para.)....Apr.	Average	"Fair story; well acted." "Fair offering." "Good satisfaction." "This story was so impossible—just fair picture."
UP THE ROAD WITH SALLIE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Receipts increased for three weeks." "Best she has done to date." "The kind that pleases all." "Great show."
VENUS MODEL, THE (Normand—Goldwyn).....June	Average	"Pleased 99 per cent of patrons."
VIVIETTE (Martin—F. P.-Lasky).....June	Average	"Hot weather hurt a great deal, but picture did not please.' "Good picture.'
VORTEX, THE (Warren—Triangle).....Apr.	Average	No comments received with reports.
WESTERN BLOOD (Mix—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Big	"Very good; pleased." "Good Western." "Went over O. K." "Mix liked here; pleased."
WHISPERING CHORUS, THE (DeMille—Artcraft)Apr.	Average	"Acting excellent. Story too morbid." "Very gruesome.
WHITE MAN'S LAW, THE (Hayakawa—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"A good picture, with opportunities for entire cast." "Good—fine photography." "Well liked." "Drawing power failing here."
WILD GIRL, THE (Tanguay—Select).....June	Average	"Film in good condition."
WILD WOMEN AND TAME LIONS (—Fox). June	Extra Big	"The best I ever saw."
WINNING OF BEATRICE, THE (Allison—Metro).May	Average	'Good picture, but poor business." "Failed to win or please; Miss Allison remained hidden too long to come back, perhaps."
WITCH WOMAN, THE (Clayton—World).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
WITH HOOPS OF STEEL (Walthall—Paralta).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
WITH NEATNESS AND DESPATCH (Bushman-Bayne—Metro).....Apr.	Big	"Pictures like this make a manager willing to face an outgoing audience." "This feature brought many back a second time." "Hard rain; good picture; poor biz." "Fair picture." "Excellent."
WOLVES OF THE BORDER (Stewart—Triangle) May	Average	"Nothing out of ordinary."

FLASHBACKS

Individual Opinions on Earlier Releases Received During the Past Week

Splendid Sinner, The (Goldwyn)—"Did not please." "Production good; star poor."

Tempered Steel (First National)—"Best picture she has made."

Knife, The (Select)—"Not up to Select; story inconsistent."

Woman Between Friends, The (Vitagraph)—"Good program picture."

Thing We Love, The (Paramount)—"Good."

Girl with the Champagne Eyes, The (Fox)—"Just fair."

La Tosca (Paramount)—"A poor card; worst business in seven months."

Marionettes, The (Select)—"Excellent picture, but Clara has slipped with us."

By Right of Purchase (Select)—"Great." "Excellent value always with this star." "Norma sure draws them in."

Faith Endurin' (Triangle)—"Only fair."

High Speed (Universal)—"Jack Mulhall's smiles and quick acting always please."

Under Suspicion (Metro)—"A satisfactory feature."

Woman and the Law (Fox)—"Well liked.'" "Very good." "Good picture; well liked."

Hell Hound of Alaska, The (W. H. Prod.-Reissue)—"Hart being worked to death; good story—terrible ending." "Stood them up for three days."

Boss of the Lazy Y (Triangle)—"This picture is all right."

Land of Promise, The (Paramount)—"Very well liked."

Wooing of Princess Pat, The (Vitagraph)—"Good program picture."

Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—"Good stuff."

Mother's Secret, A (Bluebird)—"Very good."

Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—"Very pleasing."

Midnight Trail, The (Mutual)—"Our people can't see Russell. All alike; ought to get a new cast."

Interloper, The (World)—"Good picture; star don't draw."

Beloved Traitor (Goldwyn)—"Mae Marsh in very pleasing role."

Fair Barbarian, The (Paramount)—"Miss Martin's best picture."

Wild Youth (Paramount)—"Picture above crowd's head; considered a high class picture."

Camouflage Kiss, A (Fox)—"No draw for us."

Daughter of Destiny (First National)—"Better than previous Petrova subjects."

Family Skelton (Paramount)—"Too morbid."

Within the Cup (Paralta)—"Well produced but too long—ran 1 hour and 41 minutes."

Blue Jeans (Metro)—"Pleased greatly."

Heart of the Sunset (Goldwyn)—"Very poor; did not take. Good photography; impossible settings and theme."

Exhibitor Service Bureau

Observations on a Small City

What Muncie Is Doing Provides Points on All-Around Cooperation in Cities of This Class

ADMITTEDLY, the purpose of this series of articles is to induce greater co-operation between the newspapers and the motion picture theatres. The cities that we have been considering and which we will take up for the present are the larger ones—the points at which co-operation ought to be in the greatest evidence, though it is true that some of them make a most sad showing.

But now comes a letter saying: "Why not tell us something about the smaller cities? Most of the smaller city exhibitors are the ones that need advertising the most, but their newspapers are unable to afford to do anything to amount to anything for them. Why not show us what is being done in some of the smaller cities so that we can pass the word along to our editors and get them to do likewise?"

All right. Muncie, Indiana, has a census population of 24,969. That certainly does not put it in the large city class by a great deal. And, at the same time, while we do not consider this paper is supplying an ideal photoplay department by a great deal, it does show the start of doing things when the theatres show a willingness to co-operate. Four pages devoted to motion picture matter and advertising is certainly a mighty good showing for a city of that size.

Let's see what the theatres there are doing and what better the newspapers could do for the theatres, and how similar principles may be applied to cities of equal size, or even smaller. Naturally conditions differ in cities of this size from the bigger centres, and there are a lot of things that have to be taken into consideration, but certainly there is no difference in the willingness on the part of the theatres to advertise and on the part of the newspapers to co-operate as far as their facilities will permit.

There are two newspapers in Muncie. The Star has a circulation larger than the population of the city, some 26,000, but it covers the territory immediately around Muncie, and a great portion of these people can be brought to the city by the traction lines. The afternoon paper, The Press, is smaller, but a comer. We are citing The Star in this case for we need but one example to illustrate the points that we want to make. We have reproduced on the opposite page four of the pages from one of the Sunday issues of The Star.

The Saturday Press, in the issue that we have before us, has a page of motion picture matter, of which more than half is advertising, with the remainder devoted to reading notices for each theatre.

The first thing that strikes us about these Star pages is that the Wysor Grand theatre uses a solid page for its announcement for the week and two columns, nine inches deep, on "My Four Years in Germany," the attraction for the following week. We are told that this is unusually heavy advertising for this theatre, though it uses big space regularly. However, it appears to us that there is no reason why a theatre in a smaller city should not just as well use a full page display as a theatre in the biggest city. Its rate in the newspaper ought to be according to the pulling power of the advertisement, and for that reason it ought to cost no more per patron reached than the displays in the biggest cities.

Let's say right here that one of the first objections that we find among theatres that fail to advertise is: "I haven't the capacity. I couldn't seat the thousands of people if they came." We have heard that argument put up by houses in larger cities. We know of one case of a theatre that seats only 600. This house played a high grade of attractions, but the advertising that was done was very small. When the very intelligent photoplay editor went to suggest that he increase the space used and to point out the business that another house had built up by advertising and the evident prosperity of that theatre, the reply came: "It's all right for the Empire to use big space. It seats 2,200 and can afford it, but I can care for a little more than one-fourth that number. You can see that I could not afford the bigger advertising." He convinced himself that capacity was the block.

But that did not convince the newspaper man, though he dropped the argument for the time being; but that evening from seven to closing time he stood in front of the house and counted the number of people that entered. During the hourse of seven and ten there was time for three shows. There were about 800 people entering the house during that time. After the show he dug up the manager and told him the result of the count. The manager in turn looked at his cashier's record, which showed that there had been 787 paid admissions sold after seven o'clock, the time that she came back from dinner.

"Now," ran the argument of the newspaper man, "you ought to have had 1,800 people in your house during that time." The manager laughed. "Ought," he replied, "and having are two different things." And then the newspaper man recalled to him the excuse given was that the theatre could not afford to use larger space in advertising because it did not have the capacity to care for the people that might be brought.

Then the newspaper man made the manager a rather daring proposition, that of taking a half page advertisement. The picture he was to show on his change of bill for the latter half of the week was a really good one, and the newspaper man knew what to say about it. The proposition, in brief, was this: The theatre was spending about $5 a day in advertising. A half page of the newspaper space was worth $80, leaving a difference of $75. "Now," said the photoplay editor, "we'll fix your initial share of admissions for Thursday night at 800. All the additional admissions after seven o'clock that come in up to enough to pay for the advertisement we will take. You can have for yourself the increased business that comes during the day."

We say that this was a rather daring experiment because we do not believe in one-day advertising. It is our opinion that advertising must be continuous and up to a certain standard to build and hold business. But in this case it worked. There was a line in front of the theatre at eight o'clock, something that had rarely been seen, and the house played practically to capacity business until it closed. The admissions were more than doubled, and, while we haven't the exact figures, you can see the result at the ten and fifteen cent admissions.

Now what has the newspaper man done in the meantime? He had prepared a half page advertisement, using four full columns of the newspaper. It was attractively done and well written. In addition he gave the theatre a story about the picture, a rather unusual one, with a cut. "That's what did it," said the manager. "I never had that much story or a cut like that in the paper before." The newspaper man explained that this was co-operation, and, though he admitted that he had given more free space than he would regularly, he wanted to show what could be done.

Today this manager is using Sunday space ranging from a quarter page to a half, not in one, but three newspapers, and he has twice enlarged his house within two years.

But after those observations let's get back to the illustration from Muncie. The Star and Columbia theatres are under the same management, and we are told that C. R. Andrews, who directs their policies, was one of the first to realize the value of advertising and that he is probably the most consistent advertiser in the city. On the Columbia he uses here ten inches double column. There are two different advertisements for the Star, one two columns five inches on the Sunday bill and the other six inches double on the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday offering.

(Continued on page 222)

How Theatres In One Small City Have Been Converted To Advertising

Here are four pages taken from one Sunday issue of the Muncie, Ind., Star. Exhibitors and newspaper have both found out that cooperation pays in the smaller communities. See article on page opposite.

WEEK OF FEATURES AT WYSOR GRAND

Appears in Own Initial Production

King of Fun Makers In Big Feature Picture

THEDA BARA PLAY AT STRAND TODAY

Strong Drama of Northland

Film Tells His Career in Germany

Ambassador JAMES W. GERARD

IMPORTANT Change of Time

—ON—

Muncie-Newcastle-Indianapolis Division

At 6 a. m. Wednesday, May 1 1918

Trains Leave Muncie

Trains Arrive at Muncie

Ask Local Agent For Detail Schedule

MUCH TALKED OF FILM COMING HERE FOR WEEK

New Vaudette Theater "The Snail"

Written by the Man Who Defied the Kaiser

Authorized Film Version of Ambassador James W. Gerard's

"My Four Years In Germany"

THESE ARE THE PRICES

— One Week, Starting Sunday, May 5th —

CHILD ACTRESS IS STAR OF PICTURE

Pictures at Vaudeville-House

Today's Film Play at the Star

One of Screen's Great Favorites

NEW VAUDELLE

COLUMBIA THEATRE

HOUSE OF CLASS & QUALITY

"THE BLUE BIRD"

The Greatest Picture Seen in Years

WALLACE REID

"Nan of Music Mountain"

"THE ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID"

STRAND THEATER

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

DID SHE SIN — SHE MAKES HIM PAY

THEDA BARA

'The Forbidden Path'

Tuesday Wednesday Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge 'The Way Out'

THURSDAY-FRIDAY TOM MIX 'Six Shooter Andy'

SATURDAY ONLY Dorothy Dalton 'Unfaithful'

SOME PLACE TO GO STAR THEATRE

TODAY AND TONIGHT ONLY

"The Marriage Speculation"

SOME PLACE TO GO STAR THEATRE

NOTICE TO OUR PATRONS

"THE GUILTY MAN"

THE PLAY THAT ENTERTAINED BROADWAY FOR MONTHS

PHOTOPLAY AT STAR FIRST HALF OF WEEK

Theda Bara

THREATEN THE OVERTURN OF AUSTRIA HUNGARY

MEN WANTED

Shipping Department

BALL BROS.

LIBERTY THEATER

SUNDAY-MONDAY

YOU MUST SEE

CARMEL MYERS in the WINE GIRL

EXTRA

TOTO Everybody Knows TOTO Him Now

"HIS BUSY DAY"

Wysor Grand

THEATER BEAUTIFUL - PICTURES SUPREME

TODAY (Sunday,) and TOMORROW (Monday)

Continuous From 1:30 to 10:45

"The Sign Invisible"

Mitchell Lewis in A Mighty drama of the Northland

by Edgar Lewis The Master Producer

"First National" Attraction

Winona — Father of Winona — Von Bonbeau — Edgar Lewis The Master Producer — The Bishop — Monihan The Rough River Boss

Next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

CONTINUOUS FROM 1:30 TO 10:45

THE GENUINE BEARS THIS SIGNATURE

Charles Chaplin

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

First of the Million Dollar Comedies

CHARLES CHAPLIN IN A Dog's Life

The Biggest and Most Expensive Picture Yet Made By the Undisputed King of the Screen

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN A DOG'S LIFE

A DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM

PETROVA'S First From Her Own Studio

The story of an American girl's two marriages — first to a rascal who kills a man and disappears, the second a morganatic union with a Prince.

MADAME PETROVA "DAUGHTER OF DESTINY"

THERE ARE NO WAR SCENES

THIS IS NOT A WAR DRAMA

Two Attractions at the Liberty

Popular With Photoplay Fans

CARMEL MYERS IN IN "THE WINE GIRL"

Takes an Active Part in Bur and Play at the Liberty Theater Today.

ATTRACTIONS THIS WEEK

Open a Charge Account

NO COLLECTORS TO ANNOY YOU

We Do Not Charge Extra for Credit

Pay as You Earn — Wear as You Buy

Silk Dresses

Ladies' Suits

Women's and Misses' Coats

$12.98 to $35.00

MEN'S SUITS

$15.00 to 35.00

WALDNER'S CASH PRICE CREDIT STORE

HICKSON BARGAINS

In Slightly Used Furniture

Buy Home Outfits at Hickson's

$65 $95 $150

HICKSON'S 708-714 South Walnut Street Phone 3097

DUNKIRK

FRANKTON

LON MILLER for (Count) RECORDER

"TIZ" FOR FEET

Instant Relief for Sore, Tired, Tender Feet, for Aching, Swollen, Calloused Feet and Corns

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED Free Proof To You

Newman Asks Producer To "Know"

TWO of the leading exhibitors of the country and men representing entirely different sections of the country, the extreme east and the Trans-Mississippi west, are in unison in on important point on the exploitation of motion pictures—they want to be told honestly what the pictures are before they start advertising.

Thomas S. Soriero analyzes the theory and the practice of selling pictures by the producer to the exhibitor only, instead of selling them through the exhibitor to the public, which he contends is the only proper method. He declares that it is up to the producer to tell the exhibitor exactly what the picture is, so that the exhibitor in turn can merchandise the goods that he has bought.

Mr. Soriero objects to the generalities—the bunk—about the stars and says that when the producer does not tell the exhibitor honestly the character of the picture and give him real exploitation help, he is putting something over on both the exhibitor and the consumer. Ineffective publicity, he shows, does not help to create consumer demand. "He must know," says Mr. Soriero, "that his goods will meet the public demand and he should be able to show the exhibitor how and why."

Frank L. Newman hits the same argument in a different way, though he bases his conclusion on the same merchandising plan. He declares his belief that there should be no publicity sent to the exhibitor about the picture until after the producer himself has seen the finished product and knows just what kind of a production he has. Mr. Newman himself sees every picture before he runs it, but be knows that the great majority are not in the position to do this.

He calls attention to the "greatest ever" fault in advertising and points out that this is the surest way for the exhibitor to lose the confidence of his patrons. He wants frank dealing all the way through the exploitation and shows how it will work out for the best.

FRANK L. NEWMAN, manager of the Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, gets closer to his pictures than almost any of the other exhibitors, and he makes a strong point in declaring that the producers should themselves see the pictures before they send out a line of exploitation matter, instead of preparing this matter merely from a synopsis of the story of what someone says about the production:

This is a subject that every exhibitor should be interested in, and there is no doubt that the producers could greatly improve the aid they are giving us in exploiting pictures.

First, I want to take up the subject that I call the "Silent Salesman"—that is, my lobby display. Personally, I have never used any paper in front of my theatre since I have been in the picture business. Some years ago, when I was unable to get photos that were attractive, I used to take some paper and have cut-outs made on the mat board, but what I am vitally interested in is the photos we use in our lobby. This plays a big part in our business and can be a great asset to our business if we have the right kind of a lobby display.

The picture business, being so different from any other business because the patron must pay before entering the theatre, and he is always guided by the photos of the class of show he expects to see, except on some unusual occasions where it is a well-known stage play or some well-known book—then, of course, he knows something about the play itself.

We ought to have stills in our lobby without death scenes or murder scenes and photos that will appeal to the young and old.

For an example, last week I showed a well-known stage play featuring a well-known, legitimate star at the Royal theatre, which is located in the shopping district, and our patronage is about ninety per cent ladies during the day. I stood out in front of the theatre a great deal during that week and invariably seven out of ten would walk up and look at my lobby and ask me what we were showing at the other theatre, and we told them and they would just turn around and walk away. Now this play I have reference to is a well-known play and it was a great success on the stage just recently, and you would naturally think that that would offset the stills in my lobby even if they were not as attractive as they should have been.

What I am trying to bring out is this—that our lobby is the "Silent Salesman," and unless we have good "Silent Salesmen" our business falls off.

I remember not long ago of showing a picture where it was laid in a very fashionable home and nearly the entire story was a society play, but there was some incidental part where the hero meets the girl in a foundry, which was just incidental in this particular play—still the photos were about half of the foundry scenes and the other half society scenes. Now this picture would be misleading, because the foundry part was just incidental and meant nothing whatever to this particular play, and you know that well dressed people and good looking people are always attractive, and when you put out stills with foundry scenes you know they are not attractive and a great many times the patron would be misled and walk away from the front of the theatre, expecting to see a rough picture of some kind.

I am strongly in favor of having scenes that will appeal, and well dressed people in them. You know that people never tire of looking at good looking men and women both.

I think the producers should be interested in helping the exhibitor to exploit his pictures, because, after all, it is getting down to merchandising, and when the producer is getting out his advertising matter on different pictures and after he sees this picture and makes a statement that it is the best picture this star has ever made (possibly the real truth is that it is the poorest one that star ever made) and then he misleads you and you in turn believe in him and tell the same story to your patrons, and what is the result—they lose confidence in you and it does not take long to lose the business you have built up.

Personally, I run first-run pictures in both of my theatres and do not pay any attention to the advertising that is in the trade journals, and we see every picture before it is put on the screen and when I make a statement to my patrons I know exactly what I am telling them. I have never yet failed to get the business when I frankly make a statement to my patrons that I have an unusual

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Samuel L. Rothapfel, Rialto and Rivoli theatres, New York.
Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Edw. L. Hyman, Liberty theatre, Camp Gordon, Ga.
M. Marcus, former manager, Grand theatre, Pittsburgh.
E. Mandlebaum, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
M. W. McGee, Majestic theatre, Detroit.
Chas. G. Branham, Strand theatre, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landau, Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee.
Charles C. Perry, Strand theatre, Milwaukee.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
Ernst Boehringer, Liberty theatre, New Orleans.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Butte.
P. E. Noble, American theatre, Butte.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, Liberty theatre, Spokane.
G. F. Fullerton, Advertising Manager, Greater Theatres Co., Seattle.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

Soriero Wants Facts Told The Exhibitor play because I have never lost their confidence.

I appreciate that it is impossible to make one hundred per cent good pictures, but if the producer was frank with the exhibitor so that he could be guided and not mislead his patrons by making statements to them about his picture—taking the producer's word for it and then to have the patrons disappointed.

As I mentioned to you in one of my other paragraphs, that the picture business is so different from any other business—that they pay before they enter and if you have made some statement about a picture, that it is wonderful—naturally they go out feeling very much dissatisfied.

I believe there should not be any publicity about a picture until after the producer has seen this picture and knows just what kind of a play it is before he makes his frank announcement to the exhibitor.

THOMAS D. SORIERO, manager of the Park theatre, Boston, and the Strand, Lowell, contributes a thorough analysis of the question of exploitation. He declares that the producer is just as much bound by the demands of the consumer as is the exhibitor and that he should act accordingly. He declares that the advertising in the trade papers shows little effort to tie up the consumer demand with the exhibitor need:

The problem of vital interest to the exhibitor of motion pictures is all embraced in the term "merchandising." Somebody wants something. The exhibitor engages to supply it. The principle is the same—from supplying a demand for shoe strings to selling an automobile, a piece of land or a suit of clothes. In this case the customer wants entertainment, and the exhibitor engages to supply it.

To supply it he must buy it. Before he buys it he must know what his customers want. The manufacturer must also know what the customers want, so that he shall have it in stock for the exhibitor. The exhibitor must be a good buyer; that is, he must be able to judge the merchandise so that what he has bought will meet with the approval of his customers. If the customers do not get what they are paying for—entertainment—they will go elsewhere. So the first and final judge is the customer—in this case the audience.

When the exhibitor has in mind what he thinks the customer wants his next step is to procure it. He is greatly concerned in procuring exactly what he thinks will provide entertainment for his audience. This is one of the most essential steps in his merchandising problem—to obtain the goods which will respond to the demands of his audience.

The next consideration is to procure those goods at a figure that will enable him to sell at the price his customers will pay, and then have a fair margin of profit over and above his costs.

What his profit shall be must be determined by the price his customers are willing to pay and the number of customers whose demands he can meet; that is, the seating capacity of his house. This will also determine the price he can afford to pay for his merchandise, no matter what the value or how much his customers will pay. His net profit must always be limited by the seating capacity of his house.

So the next important consideration is to buy merchandise at a figure which will enable him to sell in limited quantities at a price the customer will pay. After he has procured this merchandise (entertainment) at the right figures, he is then concerned in convincing the customer that he has it, that it will give the customer maximum value for his money, and in telling him where he can get it, and the advantages of procuring it of him. This latter item is publicity, or advertising. Advertising is a selling expense, great or small, according to the demand for the commodity. Unadvertised goods are difficult to sell. Advertising secures a more rapid rate of turnover of capital. Up to a certain point, this is true in our case. But you cannot any more than exhaust the seating capacity of your theatre, and keep that seating capacity exhausted. After this is accomplished a greater proportion of advertising is wasted and produces no return for the money expended.

The exhibitor then is interested in filling the seating capacity of his theatre. So he procures the entertainment which he thinks will do this. This is buying. He tells customers and prospective customers he has it. That is advertising. He persuades them to buy it. That is selling. Buying, advertising and selling is merchandising. The manufacturer (producer) is a link in the chain and is governed by the same law of merchandising which confronts the exhibitor; that is, to supply the consumer's demand—entertainment.

If the exhibitor cannot buy his right goods at the right price he goes out of business, and the producer has lost one of his trade, a customer. If the exhibitor sells unadvertised goods he must add to his expense by extensive advertising. This cuts down his profits. So unadvertised goods are not so desirable and profitable to him as advertised goods.

Advertised goods are easier to sell, whether they are the products of the shoe manufacturer or of pictures. The producer of a picture occupies the same relative position that the manufacturer of shoes does to the local dealer. The right kind of publicity will make it easier for the exhibitor to convince his patrons that he has the entertainment he wants. This will enable him to exhaust the seating capacity of his theatre, and will make him a steady customer of the producer.

The producer is just as much bound by the demands of the consumer as the exhibitor is. He is bound by the same laws of merchandising; namely, buying, advertising and selling. He has a commodity that will satisfy a demand. He must show the exhibitor. Will he blackjack the exhibitor into buying what the public does not want? Then sooner or later the producer and the exhibitor will die a natural business death. For never forget for one minute that the consumer decides in the end, buys what it wants and pays the bills. And if you fail to provide the commodity it desires, the consumer says "To the bow-wow with you."

There is not a business administration expert or writer or an advertising and merchandising expert in the world whose opinion has any weight who does not know that the only excuse for any man to be selling something is that somebody wants it and that he has something of value in proportion to the price.

Ineffective advance publicity does not help to create consumer demand. Much of the present-day press matter dwells too great length on the stars. Why is this? Imagine any such need to gain a reader's interest in a gripping magazine story. If it is the star alone that people want to see, why the story? The star should be but a means to an end, and that end is to make a good story, visualized to entertain the patron. The only excuse for the use of the star's name is a sort of guarantee that the story will be entertainingly visualized.

So the press notices should briefly and concisely and convincingly explain the story so that the reader will want to see it, believing that he will be entertained satisfactorily.

And if the story will not allow of this, then the producer is putting something over on the exhibitor and consumer when he offers paste diamonds in the form of a made star in a poor story. This is not fair either to the star, exhibitor or patron, and will react unfavorably to all in the long run because the patron will eventually be the judge and court of last appeal.

There is a decided lack of proper selling talk in nearly all trade paper film advertising. There is little effort to tie up consumer demand with exhibitor need, so that he can judge the box-office value of the film in the limited time at his disposal. The burden of proof should not all be put on the shoulders of the exhibitor, whose patrons will not forgive him easily if his choice is unsatisfactory to them.

It is up to the producer to tell the facts exactly as they are, giving in the publicity all details necessary to the exhibitor in forming a correct judgment of its value to him in supplying his customer's demand. The producer should give every possible aid by assuming his share in the burden of convincing the consumer that the goods meet his demand. He should know that the goods will meet their demand, and should be able to show the exhibitor how and why, "which they don't do."

Then there is a completed chain from patron to producer, every link of which is as strong as the other, all making up the perfect whole of mutual benefit in which producer and exhibitor both keep in business, and make a reasonable net profit because the consumer has received value for his money in a commodity which he wants, namely—ENTERTAINMENT.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

IT is not always a pleasure to sit through two shows in the same day, having to analyze them all the time, knowing that it is a part of your work. It is sometimes hard to thrill when one would much rather be at the beach or in the mountains. But let us say that we have never yet more enjoyed a presentation than that at the Rialto this week, not only because of the excellence of presentation, but because of the effect of the arrangement of the numbers on the audience.

Now one of the advertised features of the presentation is a new installment of the Italian Official War pictures, showing the recent fighting on the Piave. There was a considerable sprinkling of Italo-Americans in the audience when we saw the presentation, and we have never seen an entire audience aroused to greater heights of enthusiasm. People stood and cheered and cheered again and there wasn't a person in the audience that did not get the fullest thrill of patriotism. And it wasn't the picture alone that was responsible for this, but the arrangement.

See how the Italian and the American themes are blended through the presentation and how one gets out of the whole presentation good Americanism, with a genuine American laugh at the end. In the first place, every musical number from the overture to the organ solo at the end of the performance is Italian. The scenic is of Cuba and of course the war spirit dominates in the feature picture, "The Claws of the Hun." Then, after all have been soothed with the beautiful music, stirred with enthusiasm, they are sent away laughing at the antics of the Katzenjammer Kids.

"Capricio Italien," a brilliant creation, is the overture. For this the lighting is all gold with the center of the main dome in green. The overture opens with the bugle calls of the Italian cavalry and then follows an artistic blending of the various instruments.

One of the Harold Horton scenics, views in Cuba, follows. This contains many interesting shots of life in the island republic including milking donkeys, scenes in harvesting sugar cane, besides many shots of unusually beautiful spots. There is a special music score used for this, including "Boardil," "Goysecas," "Espana Valse and ending with "Granada."

With the lighting all red except for the center of the dome in blue and the stage and orchestra in red Miss Annie Rosner then sings the aria from "La Forza del Destino" before the Byzantine setting.

By this time we are well soothed with beautiful music and attractive scenes. The time is here for a punch, and watch the wallop with which it goes over. To produce this the "Fighting Along the Piave" pictures are combined with the Animated. Hearst-Pathe offers as the opening number of a well arranged series of scenes with the drawing of the new draft numbers at Washington as the starter. The opening music is "It's Time for Every Boy to be a Soldier," and then when we are shown the rookies marching away the orchestra shifts to "The Girl I Left Behind Me." Then with scenes in the training camp come bugle calls and then the music goes back to "Time for Every Boy" with some fine shots of marching soldiers under the subtitle, "We Are Ready, Uncle Sam." There is great cheering with these shots and then come pictures of the men marching through London and "Over There" stirs the enthusiasm to a still higher pitch.

But it remains for the title saying that it was only a year ago that Gen. Pershing landed to bring the house to its feet. There is a shot of him coming from the ship and with "My Dough Boy" being played the pictures of the men fighting with the Allies swinging along at a martial clip cause yells of enthusiasm to come from all parts of the house.

Gaumont then supplies a little change from the martial with the Americans bringing baseball to England and here "Giddyap, Go On."

Now we come back to Hearst-Pathe pictures of what the Americans are doing in Italy and the full orchestra plays "Hands Across the Sea." These scenes show the arrival of the American ambulance units and what they are doing for Italy. The gallery literally went wild with its enthusiasm. Then we have a title declaring that Italy's armies are triumphant and that the Austrians flee before them and with that the music turns to "Bersaglieri," one of the most stirring of musical creations. We have here views of the marching men and of many incidents on the fighting front until the scene changes to "Fighting Along the Piave."

"Le Cid" is the music for the opening of the picture which first shows artillery being shifted into position and then preparations along the Piave with big guns mounted on barges. There are some fine shots of big guns in silhouette effect and then, as reinforcements are rushed to meet an Austrian thrust the music changes to "Garibaldi." In the scenes that follow we have some views of observation balloons going up, views from them and a village where the Italians refuse to yield. "Le Forza del Destino" is played here and when the scenes turns to a church "which is always the object of a Hun attack" we have the music carried on the organ. Finally we are shown the Italians ready for the attack with "Hurry" the music and then with the charge over the top the audience goes wild, inspired not only by the thrilling pictures but with the full orchestra playing "Italian Royal March."

There are some long distance shots of troops ready for the battle and close-ups of the men in the trenches. Battle scenes are graphically reproduced with the flashes of red from around the screen as the huge guns roar. A special battle agitato is played for these scenes which include pictures of Italians being shot down in the fighting and finally we are shown the troops of King Victor Emmanuel victorious, and here the music changes back to "Italian Royal March," with the final scene showing hordes of Austrian prisoners. During these pictures the audiences are constantly cheering, with their voices as well as with their hands, and when we saw them there was a tremendous outburst at the end. The pictures are wonderful and the musical setting ideal, but it is the arrangement given these pictures that gets the biggest possible punch out of them.

Follows Carlos Mejia singing "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto." The center dome is red with a blue center, gold on the stage half dome and blue lights on the orchestra. The outer curtains part at the side with the red curtains showing, giving an atmosphere of warmth to the music.

"The Claws of the Hun" is a very melodramatic picture, and therefore it is fitting that a considerable portion of the music should be striking. It opens with "Finlandia," one of the most stirring of selections, and then takes up "The Dixie Volunteers." Some of the other selections used are "Grand Old Flag" when the hero declares that he wants to do his bit. "Bonnie Blue Flag" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" are played with "Over There" as the marching men, with the hero among them, start away to war at the finish. There are several of the numbered selections, which we have mentioned before as indicating arrangements of music that are in the musical library of the Rialto and Rivoli, employed to get special effects. There is an interesting little bit at one point where the music all stops and a phonograph back of the stage plays "Over There" in reproduction of an instrument shown in the picture.

Then comes the lighter element of the bill. With the lights gold the cheery selections from "Miss Springtime" are played by the orchestra and then follows the Katzenjammer Kids in "The Heathen Benefit," in which the "cap'n" acts as a magician, with the youngsters as his "assistants."

FOR THE U. S.

Rothapfel To Stage Goverment Pictures Here

ANNOUNCEMENT is made this week that in addition to his work for the Marines Lieut. S. L. Rothapfel will stage all the presentations of government films shown in New York City. He will arrange the stage settings, the musical score and attend to all the other details. Some elaborate plans are being made.

Full accounts of the methods followed by Lieut. Rothapfel will appear in this department. They will be authoritative, first hand descriptions.

Rialto and Rivoli

This attractive stage setting was used during the run of "Revelation" at the New Garrick, St. Paul. It corresponds closely to the scene shown in the picture. "Kamenol Ostrow" was played with this

And so, after they had applauded to the echo, they all went away from the Rialto laughing.

Love and life unite in the theme of the presentation at the Rivoli, or rather the happiness of accomplishment. "Poet and Peasant," a happy selection which is played with the lights all gold and which draws repeated applause from the audiences.

Then come the Pathe-Post pictures, these showing scenes in Dominica, British West Indies. A few bars of "Rule Britannia" are used at the start and then the descriptive music turns to "Serenade." A considerable portion of this selection is carried on violin and harp, with the rest of the stringed instruments finally coming in. There are some good scenic shots and a laugh at the end with "one of the most troublesome animals on the island," and then the picture of a very indignant kiddie.

With the lights all red the orchestra then plays a few bars of "Maytime," the curtains part revealing Lieut. B. C. Hilliam seated at a piano, playing the final chords. He sings a parody on "Knocking the 'L' Out of Kelly," changing it into "Knocking the 'K' Out of Kaiser." He sings this without music except his own piano accompaniment, the orchestra coming in at the end. Then he plays an average love song and one of his own composition for the business man who is in a hurry, the effects by the orchestra adding no little part of the amusement.

Then the animated, which includes the first of the Allies' Official War Review. It opens with Gaumont pictures of Gen. Joffre welcoming the American commission with "Le Pere de la Victoire" the music, "Bombardment" succeeds as pictures of American gunners manning the French "44's" are shown. Gaumont shows pictures of the South substituting wheat for cotton and the number gets a big hand as "Dixie" is used. "Battle Hymn of the Republic," played on piccolo and drums only is the accompaniment for Gaumont pictures of school children at Tropico, California, burning their German text books and the same service furnished scenes in the speeding up of locomotive building at San Francisco for which "Listen to That Dixie Band" is played. Gaumont follows this with 7,000 marines being inspected at Quantico, Va., by Secretary Daniels and members of Congress. There are drills and a sham battle for which "Marine Hymn" is used and then "Semper Fidelis," the latter played with tom-tom effects as scenes of the Indian style of fighting are shown.

An open drum roll with the adjutant's call open the Allied War Review and then "Tarentella" is used with pictures of the patrol boats looking for submarines and then when "Hiram and Alphonse" are shown polishing up their weapons to go after "Fritz" it becomes "When Yankee Doodle Learns to Parley Vous." Next come pictures of the King and Queen of England honoring the heroes of the sea and there is great cheering as the marching men are seen and the orchestra plays "Admirals All." Then comes a remarkable picture of sailors forming the word "America," thousands of them, and finally the whole living word moving forward to the camera. Here, with striking effect, there is employed the trio from "Daughter of the American Revolution" which counterpoints "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Now there is an unusual element of love in the Hart feature, "Shark Monroe," and so with this in view "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice" is the next musical number, sung by Julia Beverly. There is something unusual in the lighting effects here, with the main dome in blue and the inner in the same color, with no side or proscenium lights. There is a new setting of a Greek temple beside a lake with just the faint impression of a sunset in the background while the only light on the stage is a faint, small spot on the singer's face, this coming from the side of the stage.

"Kangaroo" introduces the action of the feature and the theme is brought in as the third selection with the appearance of the girl. "It is "Contemplation" and is used twice during the running of the picture and at the end. "Flying Dutchman," "Go to Sea" and "Mountain Music," No. 3 and 4, are used during the feature with several of the numbered selections for the storm and fighting scenes.

Here again Mr. Rothapfel has adopted the expedient of using a violinist seated by the organist during a considerable part of the feature, as this is the only chance during the entire bill for the orchestra to get any rest. And so gradual is the substitution that one is almost unconscious that the big orchestra is no longer playing. It shows the wonders that can be accomplished in music even without a great force of musicians.

Then come selections from "Babes in Toyland," with Fatty Arbuckle winding up the bill with "Good Night, Nurse," unquestionably one of the funniest comedies that we have seen. Light and catchy music with all sorts of imitations are seen, and at one period "La Paloma" is brought in as the star does his dance. The audience is in a constant roar of laughter through the showing.

Now the thing that strikes us chiefly about the shows at these two houses this week is that while the bills are unusually good, here is something almost every exhibitor can do if he will give the same attention to his theatre as Mr. Rothapfel does. Probably the exhibitor could not have the same wealth of stage settings, certainly not the wonderful orchestras and not as high grade of singers, but he could have them on a different scale. And, yet the very thing that makes these bills stand out as they do is the perfectly harmonized spirit of each one.

Only a few days ago we were looking over some programs of a very large and handsome theatre. We happened to be familiar with the greater portion of the pictures listed and we could imagine what jarring sorts of programs would be the result. Not that the pictures were not good, but there had evidently been no selection with an eye to their relation to each other—there had been no calculation of the effect on the audience. In one instance we could well imagine the audience leaving and wondering a few minutes what it has seen, after all. There could have been no definite impression left.

When Mr. Rothapfel is on the job there will always be found a real theme, a genuine motif for each production. It may take the form of the presentation of the Rialto this week and carry Italian music nearly all the way through it, or it may take the form of the Rivoli where love, action and happiness are the notes struck. And in both cases one is aware that some definite impression has been left of every number that formed the bill. Everyone may not be able to figure it out that everything was done was done for a purpose. Everyone may not understand the wherefore for each particular thing, but one gets the effect, and gets it strikingly.

Atmosphere in Film Advertising

By S. Barret McCormick

Managing Director, Circle Theatre, Indianapolis, and Member Advisory Board

This is the second of the series of articles on advertising by Mr. McCormick, who is recognized as one of the best advertisers and most successful managers in the world of motion pictures. The first article, "Advertising Pictures to the Heart," appeared in the June 29 issue. We believe that this is the greatest series of articles on theatre advertising that has ever appeared. And they contain not theories, but accounts of successful methods that have helped to make the Circle theatre the splendid success that it is.

UNLIKE most commodities, amusements cannot be returned by the purchaser with a money back demand. Each attraction represents an individual product which when once consumed ceases to exist (except in rare instances) as a sales possibility for the person who has seen or heard it played.

It is the same as though an automobile factory made a hundred cars each year and each of a different model.

The same sales argument that created interest in one design would not apply to the next.

So in amusement advertising each production presents its own problems of merchandising.

Each picture must be sold on its own appeal. Generalization is impossible because of the varied elements that make photoplays marketable. It is just as logical to advertise a program as "A Thrilling Photoplay Bill," omitting title and description, as it is to advertise all Western films as "A Thrilling Western Story."

Salesmanship in Print

It is there that salesmanship in print enters. The finding of the marketable element and the presenting of an appealing sample to the prospective purchaser.

—and advertising is the only sample of an attraction that the public receives before buying.

It is the fragrant whiff from the cologne bottle that Madame gets before she decides on a certain perfume.

So atmosphere becomes an essential quantity in photoplay advertising. It is the frame to your sales argument. The dress of your salesman in print. It must convey a mental impression of the product either through subtle insinuation or bold proclamation.

Advertising atmosphere can be conveyed either pictorially or through the printed word. It is just as practical to impress refinement through elegant and harmonious reading as it is to visualize it through dainty etchings, just as possible to convey virility through vigorous words as it is to picture it with bold strokes and vivid color on a canvas.

Frederic Remington painted the West, so did Bret Harte.

Combination Is Necessary

In advertising, particularly amusement advertising, the combination of pictorial atmosphere and written atmosphere is desirable. The illustration speaks with a universal tongue, attracts the attention and interest, the reading should clinch the sales argument and convince of the necessity of purchase.

Pictorial atmosphere, it should be remembered, is not merely the illustration of a locality but the visual soul of the thing. Likewise written atmosphere must carry the spirit and express the human interest of the attraction.

Humor, Pathos, Tragedy all have their modes of expression in print not merely by proclaiming, either with words or pictures, the outer shell of their character but by digging beneath the surface and exposing the true reason for their being.

In photoplay advertising the still photograph must, of necessity, form the basis of most copy. Ordinarily it is the most effective sample of the animated commodity. But its selection for advertising purposes should be made not from the view of pictorial beauty but with the idea of visualizing the theme and heart appeal of the play.

Appealing to the Heart

Perhaps in a group of stills a splendid cabaret scene may appeal to the eye while the soul of the story is expressed in another picture, less beautiful to look upon, but which tells the theme. There can be but one selection to the advertising writer, the picture that carries its message through the eye to the heart.

Which of two illustrations for a play that we might call "Kultur" would be the most effective: The majestic sweep of belching cannon or the simple illustration of a shell blasted home, a mother lying dead before the open fireplace, a child in tears sobbing over the lifeless body?

And again in another play, whose very essence is spectacularism and magnitude, the individual, the personal element, must be subordinated to the selling appeal of the colossal.

Difference in Four Pictures

Take four recent patriotic pictures as an example of the varied styles of advertising atmosphere required to convey their spirit to the public. In "The Unbeliever" lay an ardent patriotism based on love and fervent heroism with which was mingled the subtle appeal of the Infinite. The human element dominated. Advertising had to aim not at the glory of fighting but at the glory of achieving the righteous conquest.

With "My Four Years in Germany" a vital document was opened to the public, patriotism ran rampant, but only through logical and authoritative channels. Advertising had to express the spirit of the picture by dealing with facts and elaborating incidents into patriotic appeals. "The Beast of Berlin" was purely emotional, advertising had to strike the dramatic chords and play on the brass and tympani of the senses. With "Pershing's Crusa-

Artistic atmosphere is given with the use of this display by Mr. McCormick in announcing Nazimova in "Revelation." The whole display centers on the woman element

Here is a case where use of a large cut is depended upon to supply the atmosphere, and it does it perfectly

Franklin to Tell of Picture Environment

HAROLD B. FRANKLIN, manager of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, and member of the Advisory Board, is not only at the helm of one of the finest motion picture houses in the whole country, but he is in the front rank of the originators in advertising and staging photoplays.

Readers of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS are familiar with the stage settings that he uses, for they have been illustrated here from time to time. Two of them, together with Mr. Franklin's views of music with pictures, appear on another page of this issue. He is one of the foremost organizers, and system plays a large part in the conduct of his theatre.

Hereafter articles from Mr. Franklin will appear regularly in these pages. He will tell how he arranges his stage settings and lobby advertising, discuss music with the pictures and many other angles of exhibition. Special reference will be paid to adding to the appeal of the feature. In other words, Mr. Franklin will tell of the plans that he uses to get the most out of each production.

Environment counts as much with a motion picture as it does in any other element of life. Mr. Franklin is pre-eminently qualified to tell you of the environment in which he places the productions shown at his houses. Watch for these articles. You will be sorry if you miss one of them.

And so we add another feature to the Exhibitors' Service Bureau. There are still others to come in the rapid expansion of this department for the welfare of the showman.

ders" there is the element of pride, the loyal patriotism that inspires everyone to feel that this is his picture of his war and the intense interest of knowing what is being accomplished.

How to Get Atmosphere

Atmosphere in advertising can be gained in a thousand different ways, perhaps merely by the selection of appropriate type or by a certain border, by a simple illustration or an elaborate art layout, by some bit of symbolism even foreign to the plot of the story, with a single word or with a full text that characterizes by its expression the theme and nature and character of the play.

But always the sales argument should be carried out to its fullest possibilities, whether it takes one word or a thousand, one illustration or a dozen for a sales talk half given is quite as ineffective as one over told, and advertising atmosphere, it should always be remembered, is purely a method of insinuation, the conveying of an idea through mental impressions.

Summer Changes Made in Parkway Theatre

Many changes have been made at the Parkway theatre, Baltimore, for the summer season by Manager Bernard Depkin, Jr.

A portion of the stage has been cut away and that space given to the enlargement of the orchestra pit. There is an elaborate stage setting with light stained glass, set in light colored wood strips. Behind the glass are electric lights which send a soft glow over the house between the picture showings.

AN AMERICAN POKER GAME WITH AN ENGLISH VALET IN THE POT!
TAYLOR HOLMES
With Lawrence D'Orsay, Frederick Burton, Virginia Valli
— IN —
"RUGGLES OF REDGAP"
BY HARRY LEON WILSON
From his entertaining Saturday Evening Post Story.
Engagement Extraordinary
"The Liberty Boys Quartette"
INITIAL SHOWING OF "CIRCLE SCREEN TOPICS" "THE LIVING NEWSPAPER"
"THE DEPTHS OF THE SEA"
CIRCLE ORCHESTRA
FOUR DAYS—STARTING TOMORROW
The Circle
SHRINE OF THE SILENT ART
"CARMEN OF THE KLONDIKE"

Here we have a case of introducing the characters in a picture to the newspaper reading. The atmosphere of the picture is thoroughly conveyed—and it will be noted taht there is not a line of descriptive matter about the picture used

Elizabeth Theatres Get "Long Bill" Habit

Elizabeth, N. J., a prosperous city just across the river from New York, is in the midst of a movement that calls for quantity in pictures. Copies of the local papers have been sent to this office with the request that we show what the theatres there are doing.

Broad theatre advertises "Three big features" and offer Walker Whiteside in "The Belgian," Carlyle Blackwell in "The Cabaret" and Pauline Stark in "The Man Who Woke Up," with a weekly as an additional attraction. Prices in the afternoon are ten and fifteen cents and in the evening fifteen and twenty-five, but you can be sure that bill is a full evening's entertainment.

Here is one of the advertised bills at U. S. Garden: Taylor Holmes in "Ruggles of Red Gap," Harold Lockwood in "The Trail to Yesterday," Charles Murray and Polly Moran in "His Bitter Half," and Charles Chaplin in "The Roustabout." It lacks a few reels of being as long as the bill at the Broad, but it is "going some" at that.

Colorado Theatre Aids in Thrift Stamp Sale

Majestic theatre, Grand Junction, Colo., is encouraging the sale of Thrift Stamps by offering one 25 cent stamp with each purchase of twelve 20 cent tickets to the theatre. The entire receipts for the week are to be invested by the theatre in Thrift Stamps, the management pledging itself to buy $1,000 worth.

Your Idea and Ours

THIS is easily one of the most artistic advertisements that we have seen. "The Studio Girl" has loaned itself splendidly to exploitation and we have noticed that several different theatres have adopted different ideas, yet all of them have gotten a good play on the picture.

Criterion theatre, Atlanta, Ga., is always one of our very best advertisers and generally gets a degree of distinction in its displays that is most commendable. Here the designer has given the suggestion of the artist's model in the main figure and then pictures the star cleverly as in a looking glass.

Criterion generally confines itself to announcing the name of the picture and the star. Where there are ample reading notices given, as they are in Atlanta, this is about all that is needed, but where the newspapers are not liberal with this news space it would be wiser to adopt a selling argument with the paid announcement.

"Greatest ever" advertising doesn't leave much to say about your next picture.

WE believe in using pictures of stars, and especially where the star is a woman, to the fullest extent in newspaper advertising, but the Grand theatre, San Antonio, Texas, seems to us to have gone

GRAND
ONE WEEK STARTING —TODAY—
THE UNBELIEVER
AN EDISON SUPER-FEATURE
The U. S. Marines Corps now in France take a prominent part in the extremely interesting production and seen in actual duty show themselves to be first in the fight, always full of
You Will See the Greatest Picture Ever Produced—It's Thrilling and Inspiring. With a Great and Clever Love Story
PRODUCED IN CO-OPERATION WITH the UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS
U. S. Marines Will Recruit in the Lobby All This Week See the HODGKISS Machine Gun used in FRANCE by the Marines on display in the Lobby.

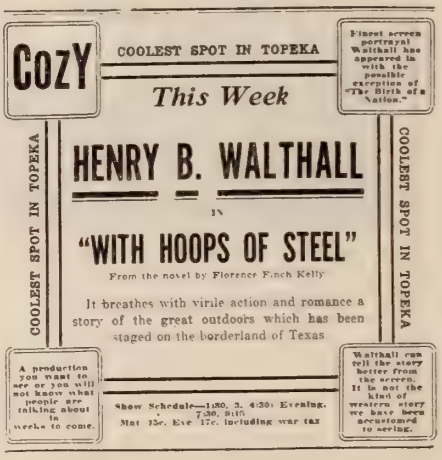
too far in this: While Miss Courtot is a most beautiful young woman and while her photo is attractive and all of that, she is not the selling argument of "The Unbeliever" by a great deal. The Grand has taken a space of seven inches deep across five columns and it has sacrificed fully one-third of this to a picture of Miss Courtot and then the display fails to even mention her name. In other words we are left merely with the appeal of a pretty face without anything to show her part.

And while the marine feature is mentioned three different times in the smaller type, their participation should have been brought out as the main feature of the picture instead of the statement of their part being divided up into different announcements.

Evidently the man who wrote this display had no dominant idea of the appeal of the picture. If he did he utterly failed to send it along to his public.

Ignorance may be bliss, but neither is there any pain until the club strikes.

YES, Cozy theatre, Topeka, Kan., used every inch of its space. In the first place it used the large ad about of 4½ inches double column for its Sunday announcement. And having all this space the designer of the "display" thought it would be a good thing to sprinkle a few facts around. He figured out that it was a



COZY
COOLEST SPOT IN TOPEKA
This Week
Finest screen portrayal Walthall has appeared in with the possible exception of "The Birth of a Nation."
HENRY B. WALTHALL
IN
"WITH HOOPS OF STEEL"
From the novel by Florence Finch Kelly
It breathes with virile action and romance a story of the great outdoors which has been staged on the borderland of Texas
COOLEST SPOT IN TOPEKA
COOLEST SPOT IN TOPEKA
A production you want to see or you will not know what people are talking about in weeks to come.
Walthall can tell the story better from the screen. It is not the kind of western story we have been accustomed to seeing.
Show Schedule—1:30, 3, 4:30; Evening, 7:30, 9:15
Mat 15c, Eve 17c, including war tax

pretty good thing to put the name of the theatre in a little box effect in the upper left hand corner, and, having done this, why would it not be a good thing to make the display "balance" nicely by putting something else in each one of the other corners, and so he proceeded to do just that thing. The result is just about as bad a mess as we have seen, a display that really dares people to read it.

Don't be afraid to risk something in advance. Opportunity begins with "O."

HERE is an excellent and an unusual one-sheet on the Outing-Chester pictures which are being distributed by Mutual. One of similar design will be issued with each release. H. F. Turrill, head of

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES
present
KAIETEUR
A hair-raising camera adventure through the river jungles of British Guiana in South America including a visit to the waterfall five times as high as Niagara — Patamonan Indian shooting fish — life on the coorial trails over mountain and mad water courses.

the poster department of the company, in describing their design says:

"In the Outing-Chester pictures the subjects have been assembled with a view to continuity and action. There is something doing all the time, and the progress of the exploring party is shown and told with all the artistry of a narrative of adventure; there is real action that leads to an interesting culmination. The same idea is carried out in the poster. Each one shows some definite action, while not attempting to portray an actual scene. In the color scheme, contrast is accentuated. Intense colors—never garish, however—with a maximum amount of white space, are used, which make the posters discernible at a great distance."

This is a mighty good idea in poster work and it is certainly going to cause a great deal more interest in the series than if the posters were simply the meaningless things that go out with most short subjects.

Let the other fellow's theatre use all the camouflage but keep the spot light on yours.

WE get this "advertisement" with the comment written on it: "Every Saturday down here. How do you like it?"

And we answer very emphatically, "Not at all."

It occupies a space four columns wide and twelve inches deep in the Saturday paper and is given an excellent position in the upper right hand corner of the page with no other advertisement touching it except a two column one at the bottom. The theatre is to be commended for using plenty of space and in getting good position, but then it is done. A large part of the matter under the heading "Local News" and Society Items" is pure waste. Its humor may be appreciated by the public of Fort Scott,

What Live Wires are Doing

Kan. It might be in a house program, but the Empress theatre would have done a great deal better to have devoted the space to straight advertisements of its productions. Here is a theatre that is changing every two days and certainly there is ample space to advertise these properly.

What do you think of a display that makes you read down to the last line of the smallest type to find the TO-DAY attraction? You have to do that with the story at the upper right hand to find that Douglas Fairbanks is, and even then the name of the production is not given.

The exhibitor who merely counts the number of reels that he shows is likely to be a staggering failure.

ANY time that you can attract attention to your theatre by unusual advertising, you will generally find it a mighty good thing. Here is a very cleverly conceived display, but we doubt very much whether it did a great deal of good in the way of bringing patronage.

Notice To Merchants

As a rule, pay day at the Strand is on Monday.

This week, however, it was deemed advisable, for certain reasons, to make the three remaining days,

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

additional pay days.

These extra pay days put a lot of money into circulation, and you can benefit by same by advertising your wares. You'll be sure to "cash in."

After you have "cashed in" on these pay days, we would suggest that you inform yourself further as to the meaning and value of "PAY DAY," the five-act comedy featuring MR. and MRS. SIDNEY DREW, now showing at our theater, TODAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY. You will find that you will be highly entertained as well as instructed.

Now, then, enjoy yourselves to the limit, It's always "PAY DAY" when the DREWS are around. You're PAID a thousand fold in real enjoyment when you witness their delicious humor. This particularly applies to "PAY DAY."

B. F. KEITH'S STRAND

In the first place managers should remember that the greater part of the advertising appeal is to the women and children. The address of this advertisement—"Notice to Merchants"—and the style in which it is set leaves the impression that it is a business announcement and we would expect that the greater part of the women and children would pass it by. It comes from the Strand theatre, Louisville, Ky.

Better to let the man who doesn't like the motion picture stay away as merely disinterested than bunk him with false statements and convert him into an enemy.

HERE'S a chatty ad from the Parkview theatre, Johnstown, Pa. And above everything about the display we like the frankness with which the display says that this is one of Fairbanks' old pictures.

We don't quite understand why some designers of displays think that they have to use heavy borders to bring out the meaning. Certainly the two pieces of heavy horizontal leads connecting the date with the remainder of the advertisement is distinctly unnecessary. In the first place it interferes with the prominence of the cut of Fairbanks and the white space is sacrificed at a place where it brings no return. We would a great deal rather have used this space with the words "An Old Friend" and then have made the name of the star larger and used the date close to the name plate of the theatre.

LAST week we reproduced a page from a daily newspaper showing the bad effect resulting from producers using lettering all over their cuts. We commented on the fact that many of the producers seemed desirous of getting in all of the possible advertising for the producer itself and that a newspaper that thought much of its apearance would rather do without illustrations than to print such advertising matter.

We were discussing the question merely from the point of view of the newspaper, but here is another illustration taken from the Dallas Times Herald; here is a mat that was sent out by Paramount during the time that Mme. Petrova was with that company and before she went with First National. The newspaper saved the mat and here it was used on the occasion of the visit of Mme. Petrova to that city to make a personal appearance in connection with the War Savings Stamps. Another newspaper used a cut sent out by Metro during the time she was a Metro star, but there was only a very small brand mark on that and it would probably be overlooked by the ordinary reader.

WHAT OF THE FOURTH?

THIS issue comes to you while your method of celebrating the nation's birthday at your theatre is fresh on your mind.

Why not sit down and write to us now what you did?

Send us photos of any special settings or lobby displays that you used. Even if these are not available, give us accounts of the way that you made this day stand out in the history of your theatre.

This lobby display was used by the Rialto, Toronto, in boosting the Essanay-General Film reissue of Chaplin's "A Night Out." All of the display work was in board effect, with cut outs arranged from the poster material supplied by General. The subject was given the entire lobby display during its run

Pace Set By Muncie Theatres Shows What Can Be Done In the Smaller Cities

(Continued from page 212)

Strand and Liberty theatres use each ten inches double column. Now let us mention one thing about the advertising of the Muncie theatres that we like. That is that they do not equalize the display on the various bills during the week—that is, with the exception of the Wysor Grand, where there were two unusually strong attractions that it wanted to bring out. In the other cases they feature the current attractions and mention the bills for later in the week in small type.

But there is another reason for this: The Muncie theatres have progressed beyond the point that many theatres in big cities stop at—Sunday ONLY advertising. The Muncie theatres advertise during the week, carrying displays sufficiently large to attract attention. They have realized that the way to get business is to keep the attractions constantly before the public. They have passed the most of the smaller cities that place the great share of their faith in word of mouth advertising after they have made a fair once a week display. And they get daily reading notices from the newspapers.

If you had a theatre in a city of 25,000 you wouldn't try to give a really good picture one day a week and then any old thing the remainder of the days and expect to make a success of your house. And in a great measure the same principle applies to advertising. Don't expect one advertisement to do the work. Be consistent in your efforts and you will soon find the business building steadily and permanently.

Now as for co-operation. There is about one and two-thirds pages of newspaper advertising in this issue of the Star and slightly more than that space devoted to matter about the pictures. Now the fault that we have to find is that the matter is practically all reading notices and that there is no news matter. We doubt very much whether the paper could afford to pay a photoplay editor to devote his entire time to that work, but certainly there is some one around the office who could prepare each week a column or more of bright newsy paragraphs about the players and about productions in the making. A careful rewrite of the Motion Picture News would give this material and it can also be bought already rewritten and in advance from a syndicate.

Another thing that strikes us as bad—cuts. Here is a case where it is distinctly the fault of the producer or his exchange men. We have mentioned this once before and have printed an example from a city much larger than Muncie. Note the effect on this page as the result of the producers and distributors putting lettering all over the matter. Only one of the entire number, that of Theda Bara, is without some degree of this lettering. In some cases it is so bad as to convert the free space practically into display advertisement. These cuts would probably pass muster for use in the display advertising, but it is hard to expect a newspaper that cares for its appearance to use these.

In suplying this matter the producers must remember that it is even harder to get the newspapers in the smaller cities to devote this space than is the case in the large centers where there is a demand for this matter as news and where the motion picture-going population is so large that it cannot be ignored without loss of prestige to the newspaper. Most of the newspapers in large cities have their own engraving plants and want to follow their own styles in making cuts. Every publicity department knows that and also knows that the smaller city paper is without this facility and that it probably cannot afford the expense.

Let's look further. Wysor Grand has used some striking advertising cuts in its page display. These are good cuts for advertising matter, but one can see immediately how out of place they would be in the news portion of the paper. One has only to turn to the news columns to see this, though perhaps these cuts offend less than do the average. Strand, as we noted, has a clean cut of Theda Bara, but that on "The Way Out" is practically an advertisement while the Liberty couldn't do much better on "The Wine Girl."

And right here is the point. The Liberty has used a display ad that has been supplied by the exchange, and it is a good one. And yet, when this exchange gets ready to provide one for the news pages it hands out one that makes the labeling more prominent than the scene itself. Another thing is that most of these cuts are available for use only on one production, even where they are only pictures of stars.

And this point had a good deal to do with co-operation. But let us say that many of the companies do supply decent cuts, but that it appears that many of the exchanges are at fault in simply getting a supply of the advertising sort and making the exhibitor take them so that at the end the newspaper has only a choice between using a bad cut or leaving it out entirely. Exhibitors are going to get a great deal more co-operation out of their newspapers if they will impress this on their exchanges and through them on the producers or distributors.

There is just space for a few more observations here. The case of the Muncie Star shows what we believe that most small city newspapers would be willing to do if they could get the advertising co-operation of the theatres. Some one has to blaze the way in everything. If your theatre starts to using larger space in advertising, the others are pretty sure to follow. You immediately conclude that there is no use of you spending more money if one of the results is going to be to make your competitor do the same. It's that spirit that prevents co-operation in so many instances.

If you are in one of these smaller cities go to your newspaper and have a talk with the business manager. Tell him what you want and what you would like to have in the way of co-operation. Don't tell him what he HAS to give before you will advertise. But show him how one theatre advertising has developed advertising from others in every city, large and small, where it has been tried and where the advertising theatre has gotten real CO-OPERATION. Explain to him that it is up to him to make your advertising pay by giving you space for news matter and cuts. He will see in a moment that if the other theatres are not convinced that advertising is paying you they will not come into the fold. If he has any real business sense, he will appreciate that.

Now when your paper has made this agreement, don't say to yourself that the paper has agreed to give you approximately so much space for reading matter and cuts and then conclude that any old thing will do. We know that the temptation to indulge in superlatives is mighty strong all the way through the film business. But be assured first that all of the good, big national advertisers have long ago dropped that form of advertising because they found that IT DID NOT PAY.

Prepare your matter carefully. Don't simply tear a sheet out of the press book and shoot it in without reading it. Know that it agrees with the story, that it is free of bombast and that it has an interesting twist to it. Encourage the paper to print short paragraphs about the plays and players, without mentioning the name of your theatre. Show it where this material can be obtained. Don't try to put over bunk, but do your share in honest co-operation.

Two of the recent patriotic settings at Shea's Hippodrome

Franklin Wants Great Composers to Write Musical Settings for the Big Productions

HAROLD B. FRANKLIN, managing director of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo and one of the leading exhibitors of the country, admits that he owes a great deal of his success to the emphasis which he lays on the music—one of the big features of the handsome Buffalo theatre. With his musical director, Alfred R. Moulton, Mr. Franklin attends to the selection of the musical setting for each picture that he shows.

"I hope some day to see the time when some far-sighted producing company will have such composers as Victor Herbert, Walter Damrosch or possibly John Philip Sousa write the musical settings for their productions," say Mr. Franklin.

"Why not have this work done by the big men in the music world. Fortunes are spent on stories, stars, and directors. Surely the finished product is entitled to the same consideration. Thomas Dixon did have Mr. Herbert write the score of 'The Fall of a Nation.' He was on the right track, but it evidently was dropped there—and no one picked up the idea.

"Good music is as essential to the success of the photoplay as good projection. Yet there are managers who would not tolerate poor projection that do not grasp the necessity of proper musical accompaniment.

"And when I say 'music' I do not necessarily mean operas, symphonies or the classics. Ragtime and popular music belong to everybody, while the classics may have a limited appeal. However, they both have a place on your program. Your music must be comprehensive alike to the high brow and the one who merely loves music for its own sweet sake.

"Good music can do more to make your theatre succesful than anything else. The size of your orchestra matters not. Quality—not quantity is essential. It is better to have one good pianist who properly accompanies the picture than five poor musicians.

"Music speaks a universal language—a language of emotional eloquence and melodic beauty. Every mood of pictured drama has a motif expressed in music.

"How readily 'Love's Ecstasy,' awakens echoes in your heart. Have you a touching scene of a loving little mother? There are hundreds of gentle flowing melodies. Does your picture call for gayety? There are plenty of happy and gay little tunes that will fit just right. Majestic marches of irresistible swing and spirit play up your weeklies and make 'Home' worth fighting for. Humor can be successfully brought out by careful attention. A vivid climax is made soul stirring when properly played up.

"Some of the truly great film productions owe much of their success to the musical settings given them. If a masterpiece like 'Hearts of the World' has so much stress laid on its musical accompaniment, it is quite apparent that the average pictures are entitled to the same careful thought as a notable production such as this Griffith spectacle that could hold up without music if necessary.

"At Shea's Hippodrome, we feel that our music has had as much to do with our success as the class of pictures that we show. Here we have a symphony orchestra of 27 soloists and with the advent of the new season, we expect to add five additional members.

"Managers and their musical directors cannot entirely depend on the music cue sheets furnished by the manufacturers. At our theatre every foot of film is screened two or three times before music is selected. When this is not possible, the one who selects the music should carefully familiarize himself with the subject by scrutinizing the advance press material, reviews in trade papers, etc., which will give him a thorough idea of his subject.

"How many managers are there who sit through the first show of each change of program, that pick their own shows to pieces, music and all? Try it some time. You will then know why your patrons come or do not come to your theatre. At Shea's Hippodrome the manager personally watches the first show with an assistant. Every little defect is jotted down. The good points also are noted. A copy of this review goes to the musical director with recommendations and commendations. I believe that it is just as necessary to hand out bouquets as brick bats. It makes the musical director feel that you are sincere in your criticism."

IT'S UP TO YOU

More Smaller City Matter Suggested for This Department

W. S. McLAREN, managing director of the Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich., and one of the live wires of the country called at this office this week and said many nice things about the Exhibitors Service Bureau.

But he said one thing, and we agree with him. That was the advisability of printing more matter about what the managers in the smaller cities are doing. He declared that these accounts would come close in the range of possibilities of still smaller theatres that would show the same pictures even later.

And we said to him, and we repeat to you, that accounts from the smaller cities, from the towns and the villages are welcome, and they will find a place in these pages. The matter which appears here is on-the-spot accounts of what theatres are doing. It is not imaginary stuff; we have to depend on you to send it in.

If you want to see more from the smaller cities, set the pace yourself.

Newman Puts Ideas Gathered in Many Tours Into Magnificent New Theatre

FRANK L. NEWMAN, who has so successfully conducted the Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo., of which he is president and general manager, is to have a new house that will outdo in every way not only his two present theatres but anything in that section of the country.

This theatre will occupy the site at 1112-1118 Main street, where two buildings were recently destroyed by fire. Mr. Newman has a 99-year lease on the site at an annual rental of $62,500. Mr. Newman writes that he is devoting the greater part of his time to the plans for the new house, and that he hopes to have it completed by Christmas.

This new theatre will embrace many ideas that Mr. Newman has originated since the construction of his other two houses. Mr. Newman is not only one of the most successful exhibitors in the country, and known as one of the leaders in the thought of the industry, but he believes in keeping in close touch with what the rest of the country is doing.

Several times a year he makes trips through various sections and inspects the new theatres, sometimes taking with him his musical director or other members of his staff. The result is that there is probably not another exhibitor who knows so thoroughly from personal observation what the finest new houses everywhere have accomplished. It is expected that the new house will not only concentrate the best features of other new theatres, but that it will present original ideas of Mr. Newman.

Music is one of the things to which he gives his chief attention. He directs the scoring of each production and is a firm believer in getting the spirit of the picture into the music. On a recent visit to the Motion Picture News he told of an instance in which he and his musical director had visited a large theatre in another city, and before they had entered the auditorium they heard the music and at once both of them announced the picture that was being shown—for the obviously proper music, and the same that Mr. Newman had used at his theatre for the same feature was being played.

It is not a surprise, therefore, to learn that there will be a 35-piece orchestra in the new house. Leo F. Forbstein, musical director for the Newman houses, has already started to work collecting the musicians, as a pick of the best artists in the country is planned.

Italian renaissance will be the general exterior design of the new house, which will have 2,000 seats in addition to two rows of loges in which there will be lounging chairs. The front of the building will be as high as a six-story building, finished either in stone or terra cotta. F. Alexander Drake is the architect.

Completion of this house will make Mr. Newman one of the leading men of the industry from the point of view of theatres controlled. Besides the two present Kansas City houses he is also interested in the Butterfly, Milwaukee. Mr. Newman is a member of the Advisory Board.

Frank L. Newman, building third Kansas City theatre

Pacific Coast Cities Succeed in Showing Many Films For Long Runs and Repeats

SHOWING of "A Soul for Sale," Jewel Production starring Dorothy Phillips at the Superba theatre, Los Angeles, is having a remarkable run which will go at least two weeks and possibly longer, which is considered remarkable because of the exceedingly warm weather experienced in Los Angeles during this period.

Much of the success of this film in Los Angeles is attributed to the advertising. Previous to the opening announcement of the showing of this photoplay eight inch ads were carried in all local newspapers and five hundred one sheet "snipes" were put out which bore the copy "A Soul for Sale. Inquire at 520 S. Broadway." That is the street address of the theatre. Seventy-five twenty-four sheets of pictorial nature and the usual advertising space was used. On the opening Sunday the film showed to more people than viewed "The Kaiser" on its opening day. The advertising and press matter was prepared by J. H. Beal, in charge of publicity for this theatre and at Universal City.

However, it is not believed "A Soul for Sale" will top the business of "The Kaiser, Beast of Berlin," for this timely subject which has played three weeks at the Superba, has been booked for a return engagement of an indefinite period for showing at the Garrick theatre beginning July 7th. It will probably go two weeks more.

"The Kaiser" is also to play a return engagement at the Palace theatre, Long Beach. Manager Fahey showed the film there four days, then it returned for three more, June 20, 21 and 22. Later in July "The Kaiser" will play its third run at Columbia theatre, Long Island, remaining for three days.

Another film brought back for a return engagement is the Clune production. "The Eyes of the World," which is now showing at Clune's Auditorium. This will probably run two or three weeks, raising its Los Angeles run from seven to nine or ten weeks. This film was originally shown at Clune's Auditorium, and practically the same advertising used at that time is being repeated.

The exceptional business of the Liberty theatre at Long Beach during the four days "Hearts of the World" was shown there last week, caused Manager O. Hoyt to extend the engagement for three days, making a run of seven days in this town of less than thirty thousand population, and which has at least ten theatres. The total receipts were said to exceed $7,000.

Reports from San Bernardino, California, where the picture is now being shown, are to the effect that a longer run or return engagement will be necessary there. The subject recently ran three weeks in a fourteen hundred seat house at San Diego, which is the longest run of any film or theatrical attraction there. The same prices prevailed in all cities, namely, twenty-five cents to one dollar top.

Town of 226 Doubles Pay for "The Kaiser"

Strand theatre, Jackman, Me., with a census population of 226, claims to have made a record with the showing of "The Kaiser." After paying a rental of $100 a day for the production, the books showed a profit of $112.55.

But the manager of the Strand didn't take any chances on getting his money back. After he had written into the American Film Co., Boston, and had found out how much the picture would cost him, he set about his own part of the work. After having tickets printed he jumped in his "flivver" and drove about the town and the surrounding territory and sold his tickets with the understanding that if he did not sell enough to pay expenses he would return the next day and pay back the money. He didn't have to make the second trip, but the only trouble that he reports was in finding seats for those who came.

"Convicts" Aid in Exploit of "Honor System"

William Stewart, manager of the Rialto theatre, Toronto, put over "The Honor System" to unusual business through a clever plan that he used in his display.

He placed prison bars across the windows in front of the theatre and behind these he had men in convict garb and in addition had men similarly dressed parade the street in front of the theatre and for a block on either side. On their backs he had announcements that "The Honor System" was being shown at the Rialto.

"Cool" Ushers Important in Summer; How Fans Outside Boosted a Theatre

EVERY time we think about the words "ushers' uniforms" we are reminded of the exhibitor whose name all of you know who came into the office the other day, picked up a copy of a publication and said something like this:

"Advertising suggestions? I would rather think it ought to be headed bankruptcy note. Every time these so-called suggestors run out of anything else to spring besides giving you enough law-violation stunts to put yourself and your wife in the penitentiary for life they suggest that you dress up your ushers as this and that. I suppose that a bi-weekly or even a daily change in costume doesn't cost anything—when you merely suggest it."

Few managers ever follow these freak suggestions and then only once in a long time on some special production. In the first place the motion picture theatre is dark a large part of the time and the "appropriate" costuming would be missed by a greater portion of the patrons. In the next place the sight of an usher dressed as a "rube" or devil leading a patron down the aisle is, to say the least, embarrassing to the patron. In the chief instance, the usher should be so costumed that a person would at once recognize him or her as the one whose duty it was to find a seat.

Usher Part of Your Theatre

The usher is just as much a part of your theatre as the sign in front of the house and the usher's costume should just as quickly be associated with the theatre as would the name of the house. But that does not mean that you should not freshen up the whole appearance of your theatre in the summer by costuming them so that they will apear, and really be comfortable. We cannot imagine a worse handicap to business than to see a couple of ushers lined up in front of the theatre mopping the perspiration from their brows. The immediate conclusion that the posssible patron reaches is that the inside of the theatre must be "powerful warm."

Sam W. B. Cohn, manager of the Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash., devotes more attention to the appearance of his ushers than do most managers. He uses girls for this purpose and when the summer season comes around he sees to it that they shall be supplied with garb that not only looks comfortable, but that is comfortable. "There is a whole lot in suggestion to your audience," says Mr. Cohn. "If the employes that the patron sees on entering the house look cool, it takes ten degrees off the temperature of the place because the people will conclude that if the people working regularly in the house look so cool the theatre must be cool. Costuming is a great deal like a smile; the suggestion is contagious."

Promptly on the first of June each year S. L. Rothapfel not only puts summer uniforms on the ushers, but he covers his seats with flowered white goods and in addition provides new curtains for the stage. Instead of the heavy velvets that are used during the winter there are lighter curtains that at once suggest the open window of the summer home with the white canopies fluttering in the breeze. He carries the idea still further and during the summer season you will see that most of his stage settings for the musical numbers are those that will suggest summer and coolness of it. You find here a rose garden with its blooming flowers, and REAL flowers on the stage, or reproduction of the depths of the woods and evergreens.

Costume worn by girl ushers, Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash., this summer

Let 'em Know It's Cool

Cooling and ventilating the theatre is an important thing, but it is not more important than letting the public know that it is cool. In one Southern city where it gets very warm and where the summer is exceptionally long, a manager uses a small line every day in his advertising calling attention to the coolness of his house and keeps in the lobby a sign saying that the theatre is 10 or 20 degrees cooler than the street. Another manager made a hit by inviting the public to come to the theatre, not to see a picture, but to inspect the ventilating system. As the people came in the theatre was wide open, full of light and air. Then he explained the ventilating system and showed them "how it works." It had a splendid effect of getting word-of-mouth advertising started. If you have one of these modern ventilating systems, you can stir up a lot of interest, especially among the housewives who are too familiar with warm kitchens by showing them the fan system.

Another manager reports that he made business for the summer season by having printed small cards which said:

> Temperature Yesterday at Madison Weather Bureau:
> 98
> Temperature Yesterday in Empire Theatre:
> 72

"I used the exact records," this manager explains. "In winter time the people do not pay so much attention to the official records, but in summer it seems that everyone believes that today is just a little bit hotter than the day before and you will generally find that a large portion of the people know just what the thermometer registered the day before. I knew then and so I did not take a chance at putting in any fake temperature, but even if I had to make the printer work day and night and cause the cards to cost me a little more, I got the official figures in. I had several people to mention the fact to me and to comment on my enterprise. Had I merely dealt in generalities half of the advertising power of the announcement would have been lost."

Fans Outside Theatre

Here is another summer suggestion that attracted attention to a theatre:

"My house is on the side of the street that is hit by the sun in the afternoon. Those who can select the way to go usually take the shady side of the street. One day it was unusually warm and I had to make a hurried trip to an exchange for a film with which to fill in my program and I became so heated that I stopped on a corner where there was a breeze to cool off. During this short pause I noticed many things that I never knew existed at that very corner. It gave me an idea and I went back to my theatre and ordered six of the largest buzz fans. My house was in the middle of the block and I had a torrent of fresh air rushing out to the sidewalk. Of course the people stopped; pretty soon there was almost a jam. And when they stopped they read the announcements that I had in front of the theatre.

Ten Per Cent Increase

"Those six electric fans I credit with an increase of ten per cent in business. I am a great believer in newspaper advertising, but I am sure that these fans attracted more attention to my house than any newspaper display that I have ever used. For two years now they have been a feature and if you'll walk up and down the street you'll hear people say 'Let's go across in front of the Royal and cool off.' And after they do stop it's up to my lobby displays to bring them inside."

Here are just a few of the ideas. There are a lot more in every community, there are new ones being brought out every day. Some of the simplest little things bring business. Let us hear what you are doing in this summer season.

Ready-Made Ad Talks

Dorothy Phillips in "The Mortgaged Wife"—Story of Young Wife's Sacrifices

(Jewel Production—Six Reels)

Dorothy Phillips, in "The Mortgaged Wife," a Jewel production in six reels is coming to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week as a special attraction. One of the most absorbing dramas of the domestic relations question, that has ever been presented for review on the screen is shown when Miss Phillips presents the featured feminine role in "The Mortgaged Wife," written by Frank Howard Clark, and produced under the direction of Allan Holubar. In the supporting cast are seen, Albert Roscoe, who has done such fine work in some of Miss Phillips' best known features, has the principal male role; William Stowell, Sam De Grasse and Edwin August. "The Mortgaged Wife" tells of the sacrifice a young wife makes to save her husband from imprisonment for stealing. He comes to her and pleads that she intercede for him with the president of the bank from whom he had stolen the money. Prior to her marriage the president of the bank had admired Gloria, and she takes the only epening left through which she can possibly save her husband. She gives herself as collateral to the bank president until such time as her husband can pay the debt. Instead of working to free his wife, the husband renews acquaintance with another woman. He finally takes to underhanded methods in securing money with which to supply the wants of his new-found friend and is detected in the act of aiding a German spy. The bank president proves a man in his relations with the young wife and after her husband meets an untimely death, she and the man to whom she had offered herself as collateral for a debt are united.

June Elvidge in "Joan of the Woods," a World Picture of Strong Dramatic Fiction

(World Five-Reel Production)

"Joan of the Woods" is June Elvidge's latest starring vehicle on the World program. George McQuarrie and John Bowers are in the principal supporting roles. The picture was produced under the direction of Travers Vale. The story was written by Louise Vale. Miss Elvidge has the title-role. She lives in the heart of the woods and succumbs to the ardent wooing of a young attorney who is spending his vacation near her home. The young wife is taken to the city, and because of her backwoods manners, her husband is ashamed to present her to his friends. A baby is born after the husband has deserted his wife for an old sweetheart. The wife dies, and little Joan is reared in the surroundings of the city. When she has reached the age of majority she meets and weds Norman Dicks, Judge Wentworth's stepson. A baby is born to Joan while her husband is on a yachting tour. The baby dies before the husband returns, and the young wife attempts to bury her child in the lake. She is detected and brought before Judge Wentworth, her mother's husband, to answer for the attempted crime. During the trial the judge discovers that Joan is his own daughter.

"Joan of the Woods," featuring June Elvidge, will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

William Hart in "Shark Monroe"—Written By C. Gardner Sullivan—New Hart Role

(Artcraft Five-Reel Production)

"Shark Monroe," Bill Hart's latest, is a knock-out—it's something different in the way of Hart offerings. C. Gardner Sullivan, one of the most accomplished writers for the screen, is responsible for the story, and the picture was produced under Mr. Hart's direction. Katherine MacDonald, Joe Singleton, Bertholde Sprotte and George McDaniel are seen in the principal supporting roles. Bill Hart's pictures are always of the red-blooded brand, and this one is no exception to the rule. Where the exception comes in is the fact that Bill has the role of a sea captain piloting his ship, "The Gull," from the Klondike sea ports to Seattle. And Bill is some pilot. He hits the mark every time in his characterizations of the Western good-bad man, the man of the Northwest and the cowpuncher and sheriff, but wait until you see him play around the centre of that target in "Shark Monroe," his latest picture for the Artcraft program. "Shark" meets a girl from the East, who accompanied by her brother, who is on the downward path, is on her way to the Klondike region. He takes them aboard his vessel, and tries to make a man out of him, and in so doing he arouses the animosity of the sister. But in the end he proves himself to be the man of the two, and he and the girl are united. "Shark Monroe" is a rapid-fire Hart picture, full of pep and red-blooded action.

It will show at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

READY-MADE AD-TALKS PUBLISHED IN LAST WEEK'S ISSUE

July 6, 1918.

FEATURES

TITLE OF PLAY	PRODUCER
"Other Men's Daughters"	Fox	5 reels
"Good Night, Nurse"	Paramount-Arbuckle Comedy	2 reels
"The Kaiser's Shadow"	Paramount	5 reels
"You Can't Believe Everything"	Triangle	5 reels
"Uncle Tom's Cabin"	Paramount	— reels
"Ghost of Rosy Taylor"	Mutual	5 reels
"The Girl in the House"	Vitagraph	5 reels
"The Voice of Destiny"	Pathe	5 reels
"A Little Sister to Everybody"	Pathe	5 reels
"The Eagle"	Bluebird	5 reels
"The Heart of a Girl"	World	5 reels
"Closin' In"	Triangle	5 reels
"Annexing Bill"	Pathe	5 reels
"A Man's World"	Metro	5 reels
"Some Job"	Fay Tincher Comedy —World	2 reels
"Hell Bent"	Universal	5 reels

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley in "The Golden Wall"—Royal Romance

(World Five-Reel Production)

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, supported by little Made Evans, Johnny Hines, Winifred Leighton, Jack Drumier, Florence Coventry, George MacQuarrie, Louise de Rigny, Kate Lester and A. G. Corbell will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in "The Golden Wall," a five-part World picture produced under the direction of Dell Henderson, and written by Clara Beranger. Mr. Blackwell has the role of a French Marquis, and Evelyn Greeley that of a millionaire's daughter. "The Golden Wall" is a romantic episode of this young couple, the one possessing everything that money can buy, the other penniless. Mr. Blackwell is called upon during the portrayal of the character of the Marquis d'Aubeterre, to all sorts of stunts, and he proves himself as accomplished an athlete as he is an actor for the screen. Romance runs rippling through this screen drama with a dramatic touch that only such a recital by way of the screen, can give. Love, romance and adventure always serve as an excellent combination for entertainment on the screen. These three essentials are contained in this World offering in full measure, and the principal characters are portrayed by some of the best artists working before the camera.

"The Golden Wall," with Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley, portraying the chief roles, will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Kitty Gordon in "Tinsel"—Supported by Muriel Ostriche and Frank Mayo

(World Five-Reel Production)

Kitty Gordon, supported by Frank Mayo and Muriel Ostrichs, two stars in their own right, comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in "Tinsel," her latest work before the camera. "Tinsel" is a story of modern society life, depicting the various types of men with whom a young girl comes in contact when she swings into the social whirl. It was directed by Oscar Apfel, one of the best known directors for the silent drama. Others in the cast are: Bradley Barker, Ralph Graves, George De Carlton, Tony Merlo and Marie Nau. "Tinsel" is one of the best screen dramas in which the famous stage star has been seen. It offers opportunities for Miss Gordon to display all those qualities which placed her in the front rank with the stars of the stage. Muriel Ostriche, who has the principal supporting feminine, has been seen to fine advantage in several World productions, and will be remembered for her excellent work on the stage before taking up work before the camera. Frank Mayo is one of our best known male stars. The story tells of how the daughter of a wealthy woman is made to meet the various types of men of society in order that she might form her own opinion and not follow the dictates of others. She proves that her judgment is sound, but not until her mother has intervened and shown her the right path to follow.

"Tinsel," Kitty Gordon's latest picture at the ——— theatre of ——— week.

"The Glorious Adventure," Mae Marsh's Latest Dramatic Screen Hit—A Corker

(Goldwyn Production)

The manner in which a young girl, wrapped in the luxury of a Southern refinement and grandeur, takes it upon herself to seek, alone, "the glorious adventure" which turns out to be the happiness which comes from helping others, is the story which Mae Marsh tells in her latest Goldwyn picture. "The Glorious Adventure," written by Edith Barnard Delano and produced under the direction of Hobart Henley, whose production, "All Woman," featuring Miss Marsh, was said to be her best since her appearance in "The Birth of a Nation." Miss Marsh is known to you all, so there is no need for an introduction. She has delighted millions with her capable performances before the camera, and the management of the ——— theatre promises a rare treat when her latest, "The Glorious Adventure," comes to the ——— theatre ——— week. Miss Marsh has a typical Marsh role—one that elicits sympathy from the start and one that offers her in dramatic situations that only a Miss Marsh can handle to advantage. The story tells of how a young Southern girl, in search for "the glorious adventure," meets the owner of a factory whose harsh treatment of his employees, arouses them to desperate means. The girl takes it upon herself to defend the factory people and vindicates their action in blowing up the owner's factory.

"The Glorious Adventure" has the punch of real drama and you will enjoy every minute of the time that Miss Marsh is on the screen.

"The Brief Debut of Tildy," an O. Henry Subject—Side Lights on Restaurant Life

(General-O. Henry Two-Reel Release)

"The Brief Debut of Tildy," one of the many entertaining bits of short fiction accredited to O. Henry, is this author's latest work to be presented for screen review. In the cast of players are seen Betty Blythe, Alice Terry, William Shea and Bernard Siegel. The drama is in two reels and was produced under the direction of George Ridgewell, for release on the General program. The human incidents that meet the eye of a visitor to one of New York's free-and-easy restaurants, are cited in this drama with a touch of naturalness that only an O. Henry could give to a story of this type. It relates the love affairs of two distinct types of girls, both waitresses, the one good to look upon, the other freckled and homely in her appearance. The freckled one longed for the loving arms of an admirer to embrace her—the beautiful one was bored with the continual gazes of the patrons of the restaurant. But one day a new customer arrives and makes eyes at the homely and lonesome one. Her paradise had been found. Yes—the stranger even took the liberty to kiss her. And then he disappeared. After the expiration of a week or more he returned to apologize. During the interval, the homely one spent all her spare moments in looking pretty. The apology is all that was offered. He left, never to return.

"The Brief Debut of Tildy," an O. Henry two-reeler, at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Alice Brady in "The Whirlpool"—Screen Version of Successful Novel

(Select Five-Reel Production)

Victoria Martin's novel, "The Whirlpool," has been adapted for screen presentation and produced by Select Pictures Corporation, with Alice Brady in the featured role. This, Miss Brady's latest screen work, will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Alan Crosland directed. In the supporting cast with Miss Brady are seen H. E. Herbert, J. E. Gilmore, William Davidson, Robert Walker, Warren Cook, William E. Williams, Louise Lee, Virginia Lee, Mabel Guilford, Wally Clark, H. van Beusen and Joseph Burke. William Marshall photographed. The picture is in five reels. Miss Brady has the role of Bella Cavallo, stepdaughter of a gambler. Her mission in life is to lead the men, who frequent her stepfather's gambling resort, on, to play the losing game. Inwardly she revolts against the life she is compelled to lead, but on the surface she wears a smile, and to all outward appearance she is contented with her lot. Richard Brettner is one of the patrons who tries to win Bella. Brettner, in order that he might buy expensive presents for Bella, steals, but is acquitted by a friendly judge. Later he is implicated in a murder and Bella has reason to believe that he is innocent. "The Whirlpool" offers strength in the drama and offers Miss Brady in a role that brings to the screen, her best exhibition of dramatic acting.

Alice Brady, in "The Whirlpool," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

"We Can't Have Everything"—Cecil De Mille Production with an All-Star Cast

(Artcraft Five-Reel Production)

Cecil B. De Mille's latest Artcraft creation for screen presentation is "We Can't Have Everything," adapted from Rupert Hughes' popular work of the same title. Mr. De Mille's last work,

"Old Wives for New," adapted from Richard Harding Davis' book of the same name, was received by motion picture audiences throughout the country in a manner that stamps it with the approval of all. This, his latest production, deals with the vexatious problems of marriage and divorce in the high society circles of New York. In the cast interpreting the principal roles are seen Kathlyn Williams, as a society woman; Elliott Dexter, Wanda Hawley, Sylvia Breamer, Thurston Hall, Raymond Hatton, Tully Marshall, Theodore Roberts, James Neill, Ernesy Joy, Billy Elmer, Charles Ogle and Sylvia Ashton.

Mrs. Cleever is the neglected wife of Peter Cleever, a wealthy man who succumbs to the wiles of a pretty dancer. Jim Dyckman loves Mrs. Cleever, but she remains true to her faithless husband and gives Jim no encouragement. Later, she obtains a divorce. Jim has married a motion picture actress. Jim's wife soon tires of him, obtains a divorce and marries a young aviator. Jim becomes a captain in the U. S. army and Mrs. Cleever a nurse. They are married on the battlefields.

At the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, Cecil De Mille's latest creation, "We Can't Have Everything." A Rupert Hughes story.

"The Coming of Faro Nell," Latest Wolfville Number by Alfred H. Lewis

(General Two-Reel Release)

"The Coming of Faro Nell" is the latest number of the Alfred Henry Lewis Wolfville series of two-reel dramas released on the General program. In the cast are seen, Robert Burns, Tex Allen, William Lester, George Hold, Patricia Palmer, Hattie Buskirk and Euna Luckey. The picture was made under the direction of George Sargent. The scenes of the action are laid in a Western dance hall. Cherokee Hall is seen dealing for the boys at the Red Light when the game is interrupted by the entrance of a surly stranger, one Boone, who has spent most of the evening imbibing in whiskey at the bar, unnoticed and alone. He loses steadily until his last dollar has passed across the table. He leaves with a threat to return with a six-shooter working overtime. That night he returns and is shot dead as he enters the door of the saloon. Cherokee is the only person around. He cares for the body and rides away into the night. A posse is sent in search of Cherokee, who is also accused of robbing the stage. The posse apprehends the real murderer and hold-up man. Cherokee arrives on the scene and explains that he has been at Boone's cabin, protecting his daughter, Nell.

The latest number of Alfred Henry Lewis' Wolfville series, "The Coming of Faro Nell," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Jack Pickford, Louise Huff in "Sandy," by Author of "Lovey Mary" and "Mr. Opp"

(Paramount Five-Reel Production)

Jack Pickford and Louise Huff present "Sandy." If nothing more be said in the way of introduction, these few words, alone, should be a sufficient incentive for you to be present at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. "Sandy," you will, no doubt, remember, is from the pen of Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Lovey Mary," "Mr. Opp" and "Calvary Alley"—all "best sellers" and all having been presented on the screen with huge success. It remains for Jack and Louise to interpret the author's loveable characters of Sandy and Ruth and they give a characterization of these parts that will surprise the author herself. In the supporting cast with Jack and Louise, are seen James Neill, Edythe Chapman, C. H. Geldart, Julia Faye, Louise Hutchinson, George Beranger, Raymond Hatton, Jennie Lee, Parkes Jones and Don Lykes. George Melford produced the picture. It tells the story of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, Kentucky belles, thoroughbred horses and gentlemen of the old school of Southern chivalry. The action centers about a young Scotch lad, who arrives in America as a stowaway and is befriended by a Kentucky maid. The girl has a brother whose dissipation and deviltry causes her the only unhappiness she knows.

Jack Pickford and Louise Huff in Alice Hegan Rice's story, "Sandy," will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran in "Shot in the Dumbwaiter"—Biff, Bang, Bing

(Universal-Moran-Lyons Comedy—One Reel)

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, the Universal fun-makers, offer as their latest comedy, "Shot in the Dumbwaiter." There is only one reel but—Oh boy—what fun these two comedians do squeeze into this one reel. Zip, bang, bing—from start to finish. And comedy every inch of the way. There is no time left for anything but good hearty laughs. Eddie and Lee are on the job every minute and turning funny tricks during the entire course of the thousand or more feet of some of the best comedy film you have seen for some time. Mr. Ups and Mrs. Ups—Mrs. Downs and Mr. Downs, are two young couples living, one above the other, in the same apartment house, but each ignorant of the other's presence until one night Mr. Ups and Mrs. Downs return home at the same time and discover that there are burglars in the apartment. Mrs. Ups and Mr. Downs had remained home and it is Mrs. Ups who discovers the burglar. She rushes to Downs's apartment and the chase starts. Up and down the dumbwaiter the couple go until they are intercepted by Mr. Downs and Mrs. Ups and a policeman. What happens? A reconcilliation, of course, and they are happy for ever afterwards.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran in their latest comedy, "Shot in the Dumbwaiter." At the ———theatre on ——— of ——— week.

I MISSED IT

Another Exhibitor Who Doesn't Want His Name Used Is Heard From

PRETTY soon we are not going to be able to print any names with the letters that come in to the Ad Talk writers. Two weeks ago we printed a letter from a man who admitted that he has been overlooking an opportunity because he did not use these. Now read this:

"Three weeks ago I played a certain picture and I did not do much business with it. I'll have to admit that I didn't even see the picture before I played it or during that time. As a matter of fact I was out of town during the actual showing, but I know that I ought to have known about it in advance.

"Last week a theatre in the neighborhood section played the same picture. I met him at an exchange today and I said: 'Such and such was an awful flivver, wasn't it?' 'Not for me,' he replied, 'I did next to my best day's business with it.' And then when I asked why, I found that a local girl who is in the pictures had a role in this film. I asked him how he knew this in advance so as to circularize his neighborhood.

"'I read THE MOTION PICTURE NEWS,' he replied.

"And I am going to read every line of it hereafter."

Roy Stewart in One of the Red Saunders Stories, "The Fly God"—Western Drama

(Triangle Five-Reel Production)

Another of the red-blooded, "Red Saunders" stories, "The Fly God," presents Roy Stewart, one of the screen's most capable portrayers of Western characters, in the role of Red Saunders. The story was written by Henry Wallace Phillips and produced for the Triangle program, under the direction of Cliff Smith, who has turned out some of Mr. Stewart's best Western dramas. In the supporting roles with Mr. Stewart are seen Edward Peil, Claire Anderson, in chief feminine support; Aaron Edwards, Percy Challenger and Walter Perry. Unlike anything that Roy Stewart has done, "The Fly God" is a type of the Western drama that will get under the skin and take you to the land of the Western sun. It's real in its presentment. The action runs at top speed from the flash of the title to the end of the final reel, and during all this time, Roy Stewart is portraying a character that will elicit the sympathy and admiration of every man, woman and child in the audience. Red Saunders is riding the plains when he hears a cry for help. On investigation he finds Robert Allers, a consumptive, and his wife, who are on their way to Arizona. Allers has been robbed of his savings and Red takes him and his wife to his ranch and provides every comfort. Allers is bent on getting the man who stole his money, and he does so. He is saved from lynching by Red and his band of cowboys. The trial is had, the jury retires for deliberation and a fly decides the verdict. How?

See Roy Stewart in "The Fly God" at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Billy West in His Latest Fun-Maker, "Straight and Narrow"—Laugh-a-Minute

(King-Bee Comedy—Two Reels)

Billy West is going the "straight and narrow" now. He demonstrates that this can be done in his latest comedy, of the same name. "Straight and Narrow" is a scream from start to finish and any patron of the ——— theatre who fails to get a bunch of laughs when Billy covorts on the screen in this, his latest comedy for the King-Bee Film Corporation, has got something against his or herself. The comedy shows, in addition to Billy, Babe Hardy, Leo White, Rosemary Theby, Budd Ross and Fay Holderness. Billy and Babe wander into a mission house. Billy decides that it is for his best interests in life to go straight but Babe can't see it that way. They are not in the mission house long when a detective, who has been on their trail, nabs both, and away they go to the station house. The mission head pleads for her two new charges at the station house and they are released on the condition that she take them to her home. Soon after their arrival, Babe's fingers start to itch and he commences an inventory of the silverware and other valuables kept by his hostess. But wait until you see what follows their initiations into the society, as presented at the home of their hostess. Babe and Billy certainly do make things lively about that woman's house.

Billy West in his latest comedy, "Straight and Narrow," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Charles Ray in "The Claws of the Hun," a Story of a "Slacker" Hero

(Paramount Five-Reel Production)

If you want to witness the real, American spirit in regard to "doing your bit" in the great world war, accept the invitation of the management of the ——— theatre and see Charles Ray in "The Claws of the Hun," which will show at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Nothing Mr. Ray has ever done for screen presentation can compare with his latest drama, in point of real, absorbing interest. Its theme strikes home because it deals with a subject in which every man, woman and child in America today is interested. "The Claws of the Hun" tells of the son of a wealthy munitions maker, who wanted to enlist in the army but is persuaded not to because of his mother. His heart and soul are with the boys at the front. But there is more than one way to take a punch at the Kaiser, and Charles Ray demonstrates one of these many ways. He could not be downed. He wanted to do something for Uncle Sam and was not contented until he had done his bit. His bit amounted to a big bit before he finished, for he saves not only the life of his father but those of thousands who worked in his father's munitions factory. And he emerged from the battle which he stages, with flying colors. He gets the respect of those who had condemned him for being a "slacker." Jane Novak is Mr. Ray's leading lady.

Charles Ray in "The Claws of the Hun" will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Chester Conklin and Mary Thurman in Sennett Comedy Full of Laughs, "Ladies First"

(Paramount-Sennett Comedy—Two Reels)

Do you want a good laugh, or more correctly stated—do you want many good laughs? Chester Conklin and Mary Thurman, supported by Harry Gribbon, Eva Thatcher and Paddy McGuire, will be at the ——— theatre ——— week in "Ladies First," to furnish these promised laughs. This collection of fun-makers has never failed to date to supply a brand of comedy that is inimicable. Chester Conklin has delighted more people by his funny antics on the screen than any other comedian now working before the camera. He has been seen in comedy for years back and he is just as good now as he was when he first made you laugh in the early days of the motion picture. Mary Thurman is considered one of the prettiest comediennes working before the camera. Nor does she have to rely on her beauty. Miss Thurman is an accomplished comedienne and has had her schooling in the most popular comedy company furnishing amusement for picture patrons—Mack Sennett and his cohorts. The trials and tribulations of a husband who is not appreciated by his young wife, form the backbone of this comedy which Chester and Mary put over with a bang. If it hadn't been for a male dressmaker, whom Mary took a shie to, Chester would have been a most contented husband. But—well, "Ladies First" will tell the story better than we.

Chester Conklin and Mary Thurman in "Ladies First"—a bunch of good laughs.

Live News from the Producers

Serial Policy Wins Much Favor

Vitagraph Gets Over Score of Yearly Contracts on New Booking Plan —Four Serials Promised in Coming Year

WHAT Vitagraph terms a remarkable demonstration of exhibitors' faith in Vitagraph promises and Vitagraph product has been recorded during the past week as the result of the new continuous serial policy announced by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company.

About a week ago Mr. Smith, in letting it be known that Antonio Moreno had resumed his place on the roster of Vitagraph stars, gave out a statement in which he stated that a permanent serial policy had been decided upon by Vitagraph, whereby William Duncan, with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan, would head one serial company and Moreno and Carol Holloway another. The company will produce four serials a year, each of these companies appearing in two productions, it was stated.

Already a score of exhibitors in various sections of the country have signed in advance for a yearly serial service on the new Vitagraph booking plan. This is believed to be the first time in the history of the industry that exhibitors have been given the opportunity of arranging their serial bookings a year or more in advance, and the first time that contracts for such service have been made for that period of time.

Within an hour after a telegram had been sent out to Vitagraph branches by Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization, announcing the new serial policy, an exhibitor in Cleveland had signed up for four fifteen-episode serials, and, although the plan is less than a week old many other exhibitors have followed his lead. This is taken as an indication that the exhibitors have grasped the chance given them to stabilize their serial business with Vitagraph product as they have their feature programs, and in affording them this chance Vitagraph has taken another step forward toward standardization of the exhibitors' business.

Florence Deshon, In Vitagraph's "One Thousand Dollars"

News from the office of Walter W. Irwin is to the effect that bookings on "A Fight for Millions," the William Duncan serial which is to start on July 15, have broken all previous records with the company's serials. Every branch office, it is said, has already reported a greater demand for this serial than for any other at the same date before release time, and the indications are that these will be greatly increased during the next few weeks.

Friendship Incentive to Farnum in Film

"WHEN, the other day at the offices of the Fox Film Corporation," said an announcement this week, "William Fox gave a private screening of his forthcoming production, 'Riders of the Purple Sage,' he brought to conclusion a real-life story which is as fascinating and as beautiful as many of the fictions shown in the films. For, woven in every scene of 'Riders of the Purple Sage' is the record of the friendship of William Farnum, star of the production, and Zane Grey, the author.

"Farnum and Grey have been the closest of friends for many years. This friendship began in the West, where, both lovers of the outdoors, they found a bond of common interest in their passion for hunting and fishing. In the years that have followed, this friendship has grown strong and enduring through the test of close companionship and in the perils and hardships of out-of-door life.

"Together the two men have hunted big game in the Rockies; together they have fished the streams and lakes from the Columbia River to Southern California; they have lived with each other under the most trying circumstances—in camp, on the trail, roughing it generally. They have tested each other in the greatest of all trials—close companionship—and their friendship has grown into something as strong and as lasting as their own mountains.

"It was on one of these long hunting trips—an expedition into the wildest part of Utah—that Zane Grey first conceived the idea of writing 'Riders of the Purple Sage,' his romance of the early Mormon days in Utah Territory."

In another story on this page will be found news of the purchase by William Fox of two additional Zane Grey stories, for William Farnum.

Fox Buys Two More Grey Books

In line with his policy to buy only books of the best authors, William Fox has purchased the motion picture rights to two more of Zane Grey's books. The latest novels of this author, two of whose works have already been filmed by the William Fox forces, are "Last of the Duanes" and "The Lone Star Ranger."

Purchase of these two novels followed the success which William Farnum achieved in filming "Riders of the Purple Sage," the story of the rough life in the early days of Utah Territory. Under the direction of Frank Lloyd, Farnum scored such a triumph in this play when William Fox saw the picture at a private screening in New York that he ordered that Farnum should go ahead immediately on "The Rainbow Trail," the sequel to the "Riders" story. "The Rainbow Trail" is now in work in Arizona, with William Farnum as the star and Frank Lloyd as the director.

The success of "Riders of the Purple Sage" also led to negotiations for "Last of the Duanes" and "The Lone Star Ranger."

Carey, Grand Marshal in Parade

Harry Carey, Universal's cowboy star, was conferred a signal honor recently by the Los Angeles Advertising Club, when he was chosen to act as grand marshal of the parade of club members from the Southern Pacific depot to the organization's headquarters, staged in honor of the visit of Celestine J. Sullivan, special envoy from President Wilson to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

Sullivan brought to the Angeleno scribes a message from the nation's chief executive urging every member to attend the convention of the associated clubs of San Francisco, July 7 to 11 inclusive.

Carey, with his band of Universal cowboys, welcomed the official emmisary with a fusilade of gun shots and a series of war whoops.

Triangle Gets Taylor Holmes for Comedy

H. E. Aitken for the Triangle Film Corporation, has closed a contract with Taylor Holmes for a three-years' term with that company to make comedy pictures. It is the purpose of the Triangle to feature the well-known actor as a comedy star and present him in a series of program releases along the lines that made Douglas Fairbanks famous when Triangle introduced the latter to the film field about three years ago.

Among Vitagraph's Thirteen Feminine Stars Are Agnes Ayres, Jean Paige, Hedda Nova, Edith Johnson and Florence Deshon. Their Popularity Is Ever on the Increase

Illness Causes Change in Metro Plans

A shift in the plans of directors at Metro's New York studios has been necessary owing to the illness of Edwin Carewe, who has sustained a minor operation at Miss Alston's private hospital. Mr. Carewe having completed the production of "The House of Gold," with Emmy Wehlen as star, was to have directed Emily Stevens in "Kildare of Storm," a screen version of the novel by Eleanor Mercein Kelley published by the Century company. His brother, Finis Fox, was scheduled to assist him. Since Mr. Carewe's enforced absence from the studio renders this impossible, Harry L. Franklin directs Miss Stevens in the Kelley story, production on which has already been begun. Mr. Franklin is now engaged in completing a capable cast, assisted by P. Thad. Volkman.

According to the earlier schedule, Mr. Franklin expected to handle the production of "His Bonded Wife," starring Emmy Wehlen.

Frederick Film Starts Soon

Goldwyn Pictures is already making preparations for Pauline Frederick to begin work on her first production for that organization. The staff that will make her pictures has been organized and the sets and gowns are ordered. Miss Frederick is a frequent visitor at the company's studios.

Gloria Joy and Henry King, in "The Locked Heart," Distributed by General

Hoodoo Number Is Lucky for Vitagraph

IT is so long ago since the "Hoodoo 13" has been in good standing in our best superstition circles, that folks nowadays pay little or no attention to it. Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, shows his contempt for the old hoodoo by listing thirteen young women as featured stars in Blue Ribbon features and other Vitagraph productions. He has even gone farther by picking them from thirteen different cities of the world. For instance:

Anita Stewart, who is soon to appear in "The 'Mind-the-Paint' Girl," first of a special series of Vitagraph productions, acknowledges Brooklyn as the place of her nativity. Alice Joyce of the soulful eyes, is from Kansas City, Missouri; Corinne Griffith comes from Texarkana, Texas; Gladys Leslie is a product of Manhattan Isle; Nell Shipman was born under the British flag, while Hedda Nova hails from remote Odessa, Russia. Carol Holloway, teammate of Antonio Moreno in the list of Vitagraph serial stars, was born in Williamstown, Massachusetts; Edith Johnson, who is in the new William Duncan serial, "A Fight for Millions," was born in Rochester, New York, and started her career properly by going to Vassar College. Grace Darmond, Earle Williams' beautiful leading woman, is a Canadian, a native of Toronto. Betty Blythe affords Los Angeles something to be proud of in addition to the "most wonderful climate in the world." Agnes Ayres is from Chicago; and Paris, Illinois, hard by, gave us demure Jean Paige. Florence Deshon gave the great Northwest representation in the screen hall of fame, having come from Tacoma, Washington.

However, their birthplace had nothing to do with their selection for starring honors by Albert E. Smith, because Mr. Smith's first consideration when he selects a star is what he calls "dramatic temperament," plus good looks. That his system is a pretty gone one, is attested by the fact that Vitagraph is generally known as the school for stars.

"Hypocrites" Hopes to Break All Records

THE three outstanding personalities directly connected with the making of the film version of "The Hypocrites," now being distributed by General Film Company, are expected to make this production one of the most attractive and widely booked features released in recent months, according to a General Film statement. Elizabeth Risdon, star; Henry Arthur Jones, the author of the original play, and George Loane Tucker, the director, are names for the exhibitor to conjure with, the statement continues, and should call forth the best showmanship of the exhibitor.

The success of Elizabeth Risdon in the English melodrama, "Seven Days' Leave," presented on the New York stage for several months last winter, is expected by General Film to add greatly to the drawing power of "The Hypocrites." The dramatic talent of the star who contributed to the success of "The Manxman" and "The Mother," two photoplay successes, is said to be strikingly emphasized in her latest film story which has been greatly embellished by the masterly Tucker direction which made successes of such features as "The Manxman," "The Cinderella Man," "Joan of Plattsburg" and "The Mother."

General Film is said to be building its sales and exploitation campaigns for the screen story with a view to duplicating the tremendous success enjoyed by "The Hypocrites" on the legitimate stage.

Announcement for the release date is to be made in the near future.

Stover Uses Universal Films on Road

G. H. Stover, manager of the Orpheum vaudeville, Tacoma, Washington, called at Universal Exchange in Portland recently to arrange for film service for a traveling circuit which he will run out of Portland, through tributary towns during the summer vacation season.

Mr. Stover is associated in this venture with his father, W. B. Stover, and may make the enterprise permanent, if the test which he is making in his vacation proves satisfactory.

When Goldwyn's Branch Managers Met In New York Recently, Madge Kennedy Decided to "Sit In" to Help the Color Scheme

Five Pictures to Start Goldwyn New Year

FIVE productions, two of them virtually completed, for Goldwyn's second producing year, which begins the first week in September, are under way at the Fort Lee studios of the company.

This means that the twenty-six pictures promised for the year which was begun with "Polly of the Circus" have been finished and are undergoing titling and assembling. With the release of "Money Mad," starring Mae Marsh, on August 25, Goldwyn's first milestone will have been passed.

Geraldine Farrar's initial Goldwyn production, which probably will be the first release of the new year, is nearing completion under the direction of Reginald Barker. Its title has not been announced, nor has the nature of the story been made public. Herbert Rawlinson heads a supporting cast including such well-known figures of the stage and screen as Violet Heming, Hassard Short, Percy Marmon and Maude Turner Gordon.

Tom Moore's first Goldwyn starring vehicle, completed some time since, is being given the final polishing touches of assembling and titling and will be ready for release among the first few of the forthcoming season.

Madge Kennedy has been photographed in the concluding scenes of her newest production, "Friend Husband," written by Lois Zellner and directed by Clarence G. Badger, and has begun work on her first picture for the new year. Its title has not yet been announced, nor has its nature been made public.

Mabel Normand's "Back to the Woods" is completed and she is at work on a new production, no details of which have been made public. Mae Marsh has finished "Money Mad" and is already busy on the first scenes of a picture to be released early in Goldwyn's second year of their successful career.

Mutual Completes Hayakawa Selling Plans

SELLING plans for the series of Sessue Hayakawa specials, produced by the Haworth Pictures Corporation and to be distributed through exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation, have been completed, it was announced this week, at a series of conferences between Haworth representatives and officials of Mutual. These meetings were held in the office of James M. Sheldon, president of Mutual, in Chicago.

September 1 has been selected as the date when the first of the Hayakawa specials will be available for pre-release. The succeeding pictures, eight in all, will be available at Mutual exchanges.

The exhibitor will be provided with the most complete array of advertising ever furnished, Mutual declares.

Some novel and original experiments are said to have been made in the preparation of the paper to fulfill the theatre's demand for "something new." Two sets of one-sheets and two sets of three-sheets will be furnished. Sixes, sixteens and twenty-four sheets will be supplied in addition to a vast quantity of other material necessary to the exploitation of productions of high quality.

"His Birthright" and "The Temple of Dusk" are to be the first of the Hayakawa specials, both of which will be completed well before the date of release.

Goldwyn Proud of Its Directors

Goldwyn Pictures begins its second releasing year the first week in September with a roster of directors of which it states it has every reason to be proud.

Reginald Barker, Hobart Henley, George Irving, Charles Giblyn and Clarence G. Badger are five names to conjure with in picture production. Each is a master of his craft, each in the forefront of his profession.

Lawrence Grant Like German Kaiser in Looks Only

Lawrence Grant, who has the featured part in "To Hell with the Kaiser," has a reputation for a peculiarly striking resemblance to the German ruler, and in addition to his screen impersonation, he has played the part in his own vaudeville sketch for the past two years. As a matter of fact, it is said that Grant is quite unlike the Kaiser except when he wants to look like him—then, in a twinkling, he can so arrange the muscles of his face to assume an expression that causes the likeness to become immediately apparent, even without the moustache.

To a representative of Motion Picture News Mr. Grant last week remarked, in speaking of his character part: "Many people who have remarked the extreme length of cane affected by a number of Englishmen do not know that this custom is due to the Kaiser indirectly. These canes vary in length from 42 to 45 inches. I use a medium 44. The Kaiser came to visit King Edward some years ago, bringing with him one of his very long crook handled canes, which, used in his left hand, served to hide the deficiency in its length. Edward, with his well-known tact, a gift which made him beloved by all with whom he came in contact, ordered a cane of the same length; several of the men in his entourage ordered similar canes, and by this simple act of courtesy the length of the Kaiser's stick was not noticeable, and the camouflage of the afflicted arm was still further help because the British also carried their long canes in the left hand. Similar canes were soon displayed in the best English stick shops, everybody in the London world bought one to follow the King, and the long stick had become the English fashion, and had come to stay. It's management is a little difficult at first, but once used no one would ever give it up again for the old-fashioned ordinary cane of 36 inches."

Lawrence Grant, Who Has the Role of the Kaiser in "To Hell with the Kaiser," Metro Release

H. H. Buxbaum, Special Representative to Exchanges for F. P.-Lasky Corporation

Jewel Patriotic Films Score Steadily

According to a report said to have been made to Joe Brandt, assistant treasurer of Universal, by Edward Armstrong, manager of the Denver office, and Gus A. Metzger, general manager of the Portland and Seattle offices, the West and Northwest are particularly keen on subjects of a patriotic nature.

Both these Universal representatives point to the popularity of such subjects as "The Kaiser," and "The Man Without a Country," which they handle for Jewel Productions, Inc., and to the steadily increasing demand for the boy scout serial, entitled "Boy Scouts to the Rescue."

As evidence of the business being attracted by subjects dealing with patriotism, Armstrong cites the experience encountered by Manager Erb of the Plaza theatre, Denver.

Erb, whose normal business is highly satisfactory, booked "The Boy Scouts to the Rescue" as an experiment. With the very first episode, the Plaza's attendance was increased by five hundred above normal and it has been growing steadily ever since.

Ella Hall Appears With Fred Stone

Ella Hall, recently in Universal productions, has been engaged to support Fred Stone in his first Artcraft picture, "Under the Top."

Wanda Hawley, who recently played an important part in "We Can't Have Everything," and was also cast for the role of Sophie at eighteen in "Old Wives for New," had been entrusted with the role in Stone's first film. Miss Hall was substituted. Miss Hawley will work in another Artcraft picture, it is understood. She recently signed a contract with Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Ella Hall was born in New York and educated there; she made her first appearance on the stage with "A Grand Army Man," and then went to the films, appearing with Biograph, Reliance and Universal. Among her best pictures were "The Buglers of Algiers," "Little Miss Fix-It," "Green Magic," "We Are French," "The Spotted Lily,' etc.

F.P.-Lasky Plans Cause Ripple

Wires and Letters Pour Into Offices Carrying Congratulations and Good Wishes — Exhibitors Pleased with Outlook

THE FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY Corporation plans for the coming year commencing September 1, announced in Motion Picture News in what was probably the largest amount of advertising space ever taken by one company at one time, created wide interest throughout the trade, according to a statement made this week by the company.

It is said that many wires and letters poured into the New York headquarters of the organization, expressing much appreciation of what Famous Players-Lasky announced as the greatest undertaking by one organization since the inception of the motion picture industry. Congratulations, says the statement, have been heaped upon the executives of the company, and from every state a representative showing of recognition from exhibitors and exchange men over the importance of the announcement and its effect upon the industry has been received.

In speaking of the occasion, Famous Players-Lasky said: "The dedication of the organization and its activities toward helping to keep up the morale of the nation at a time when such stimulus is most desirable, has attracted the attention of persons outside of the film industry, as has the fact that the producers of Paramount and Artcraft pictures will present a greater output during the next twelve months than any one concern has ever approached, namely, two hundred and eight feature productions and one hundred and fifty-six short subjects, covering practically every demand of the exhibitor in making up his program.

"Shortly after the initial announcement made its appearance in the advertising and reading pages of Motion Picture News, telegrams and letters began to pour in from exchanges who stated that exhibitors in their respective territories were behind the great plan of thte Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for the coming year. Messages direct from exhibitors and of a similar nature were also received. That the big organization has laid out a schedule of pictures particularly suitable to the present demands of motion picture patrons everywhere in the country, pictures that will exclude from the screen all morbid and tragic material was of particular interest to exhibitors who expressed their satisfaction over this decision.

"The possibility of obtaining more Paramount and Artcraft pictures, as outlined in the new schedule, also met with popular enthusiasm, especially in communities where the present maximum supply is far less than the demand.

"Of particular interest, was the announcement of the Success Series, which will give exhibitors the opportunity in presenting some of the most famous masterpieces of the screen in modern dressing."

Fox Visitor Lauds Gladys Brockwell

A tribute to the industry and cheerfulnes of Gladys Brockwell, the William Fox star, was recently paid in a letter to the William Fox home office by a visitor to the Fox studio at Hollywood, Cal.

"Friday," states the letter, "I went to the studio and met Gladys Brockwell. Apparently Miss Brockwell is always the first one you meet here because she begins work about 8 o'clock in the morning and quits about 6, and she is the same person at 6 o'clock at night that she is at 8 in the morning—a very pleasant, likable girl. Her picture, which is now called 'Kultur,' looks like a crackerjack. It is the one which shows how Germany forced Austria to declare war."

Donald Crisp, Jesse L. Lasky and Douglas Fairbanks Greeted Fred Stone and Family at the Station, and Gave Them a Royal Welcome to Filmland. Stone Will Star in Paramount Pictures

One of the Beauty Spots Used As a Background for Metro's "A King in Khaki," Starring Harold Lockwood

World Sees Biggest Year Ahead

Bases Belief on Facts Gathered by Publicity Department — Thinks Conditions in Country Point to Sure Prosperity

THE coming season will mark the biggest year in the history of the motion picture industry, is the opinion of World Pictures. This is not the hope born of desire but is the deduction based on certain incontrovertible facts. In the last issue of World Works, a house organ published by the World Film Corporation, and distributed among its employees, attention is called to the fact that opportunity is crying in a stentorian voice; that she is close at hand and not to neglect the chance of reaping the reward that accrues to the alert and industrious.

An enumeration of these facts includes—Farm Products: A billion bushel wheat crop. The states particularly interested are those North of the Mason and Dixon line. The largest, oat, barley and rye crop in the history of the United States. This will be of vital benefit to the northern states. The biggest yield of flax. Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Kentucky will cash in. The bumper crop of tobacco. Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Missouri and Connecticut, are the principal producers. All of these products will be sold at prices that insure a tremendous income to the farmer and make him a creature of wealth. Cotton and corn. The United States crop forecast on these two essentials indicates an enormous yield. All southern states will profit on cotton. Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, the principal states of the corn belt, will reap great wealth from this cereal.

Fruits. The reports for the apple crop show that New York State alone, as an example, will produce over 1,200,000 barrels, the largest crop recorded. Other states interested are Washington, Oregon, Missouri and Michigan. On small fruits, the South, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, New Jersey, Delaware and New York are particularly fortunate, with first-class conditions existing insures large supplies.

And all in all with bank vaults crowded with gold and rates of interest low, the desire for entertainment by men, women and children must necessarily become intense and the moving picture theatre is bound to look forward to a standing room only condition.

World Pictures sees the handwriting on the wall. It is active in its preparation to meet the demand for interesting features. Its studio is buzzing with the hum of industry.

Pearl White Begins Pathe Serial Shortly

Pearl White, Pathe's serial star, is expected to return from her vacation just after the Fourth of July and will immediately begin work on her new serial. The working title is "The Lightning Raider," and it will follow in release sequence, the Pathe-Astra serial, "Hands Up," some time next fall.

In "The Lightning Raider," Pearl White assumes a part said to be rather unusual to her former roles, but the scenario is reported to be full of remarkable opportunities both for stunts and for legitimate acting. The serial will be staged in the Astra studios in Jersey City as usual, although it is understood that some of the exteriors will require long journeys by Miss White and her supporting cast.

Paralta Names Barriscale Feature

It is announced that "A Wife's Conscience" will probably be the title of Bessie Barriscale's Paralta production which is being filmed at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles. At the base of the story, and its whole reason for being, there is said to be a problem of human life which makes thrills and suspense, causes the characters much travail, and puts Miss Barriscale, as Dorothy Kingsley, into a situation of risk from which it seems that there is no way out—and yet keep the sympathy of the audience.

The plot centers about the woman's little daughter, a girl whose dark hair is a matter of surprise and comment with her blonde father and mother, and among their friends.

In this production Bessie Barriscale is directed by her husband, Howard Hickman. Both Mr. Hickman and the star are said to be particularly pleased with the character of the story, which was, in fact, found for her by Mr. Hickman. It was written by William Parker.

July Sees Last of "House of Hate"

Pathe announces the release of the concluding episode, No. 20 of "The House of Hate," on the regular program for the week of July 21. This episode is called "Following Old Glory," and is said to provide a satisfactory finale of this Pathe serial.

The romance in which the two characters played by Pearl White and Antonio Moreno have been concerned, arrives at a happy conclusion. Stern justice overtakes the Hooded Terror and his confederates and there is a battlefield scene staged, in which Pearl White and Antonio Moreno have opportunity to inject patriotic flavor into this concluding episode.

Pathe executives stated that "The House of Hate" has not only been the most satisfying serial ever released by that house from a technical standpoint, but it has been the greatest money maker.

Mary Miles Minter, American-Mutual Star, in "The Ghost of Rosy Taylor"

"The Glorious Adventure" Is Mae Marsh's Newest Production for Goldwyn

Metro Chooses New Wehlen Subject

"His Bonded Wife," a five-act screen romance by Lois and Arthur Zellner, has been chosen by Maxwell Karger, Metro's manager of productions, as the next starring vehicle for Emmy Wehlen. Miss Wehlen recently completed "The House of Gold," by Katharine Kavanaugh. Charles J. Brabin will direct the production, assisted by Alfred Raboch. June Mathis made the screen version, and work on the new picture will be begun shortly. Mr. Brabin is now choosing players to support the star in this feature. Lois Zellner is also the author of the feature photodrama on which Edith Story is at present engaged. In "His Bonded Wife," her husband was her collaborator.

In the new Metro picture Miss Wehlen will play the part of a fashionable girl upon whom society has called. She decides to go away somewhere and just be herself. Accordingly, she sets out for a beach resort where persons not overburdened with wealth are accustomed to find amusement and relaxation. She finds both,—and also a young man who means a great deal to her future. There are events of an unusual nature in this story which provides a genuinely unique "twist," and an opportunity for scenes of a nature seldom seen in a screen drama.

Melford Directs Lila Lee

George Melford, one of the most experienced and successful of the Famous Players-Lasky directors, has been assigned to direct Lila Lee, the new Famous Players-Lasky star, in her first Paramount picture, "The Cruise of the Make-Believe," from the story by Tom Gallon. One of Mr. Melford's early pictures was "The Cheat," in which Fannie Ward was starred, with Sessue Hayakawa as her leading support. On all the recent Hayakawa pictures, notably in "The City of Dim Faces," scheduled for release in July, the individuality of Mr. Melford has been clearly stamped.

"Cuddles," as Miss Lee is known to vaudeville, is now settled with her guardian, Mrs. Gus Edwards, in a bungalow in Hollywood.

About New Pictures

Mary MacLaren's second Universal Special Production has been completed under the direction of Ida May Park, the Universal woman director. It is an adaptation of the story, "Bread," by Evelyn Campbell.

Tom Mix, the William Fox star, has begun work at Hollywood on a new Western production, the temporary title of which is "The Man Afraid." The scenario was written by Lynn Reynolds, who is also directing it.

That "The Kaiser's Shadow," in which Dorothy Dalton, the Ince star, will next be presented by Paramount, will be an intensely absorbing photoplay, is the promise of the producer. R. William Neill directed the picture, under Ince's supervision.

In Mae Marsh's newest Goldwyn picture, "The Glorious Adventure," the star is said to enjoy some delightful moments. Costuming and settings are also said to be very original, and the story is far out of the ordinary.

Alice Brady has entered upon the production of another feature to be released by Select Pictures. No name has been chosen for the picture, but it has been scheduled to follow "The Whirlpool."

Louise Glaum's third Paralta Play, "Wedlock," has been completed at the Brunton studio in Los Angeles. Wallace Worsley, director, has turned the picture over to the developers and cutters.

"Her Husband's Honor" has been selected as the title of the first Edna Goodrich feature, in her new series for Mutual. It was produced under the working title of "The Gadabout," from Mabelle Heikes Justice's story.

With a company of thirty-five people, William S. Hart spent three weeks in the Santa Monica Mountains near Los Angeles, making exterior scenes for his newest Artcraft picture, "Riddle Gawne," under Thomas H. Ince's supervision.

Charles Frohman Everett, nephew of the late Charles Frohman, has the leading part in the George K. Spoor feature, "Young America." He has appeared in many motion picture productions, prior to which he was on the legitimate stage.

A majority of the exteriors for "Judgment," a Metro production co-featuring Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum, supported by Herbert Standing and a Metro all-star cast, have been photographed.

Reports received by General Film Company indicate that exhibitors are keenly interested in the forthcoming production of "Good Luck in Old Clothes," an Ebony comedy. All the players in it are negroes.

Anita Stewart has completed "The 'Mind-the-Paint' Girl," the first of the special series of Anita Stewart productions which Vitagraph plans to release in the near future. Further stories are now under production.

In "The Rainbow Trail," which William Farnum is now making at the William Fox studios at Hollywood, Cal., the star appears in a dual role, playing in the earlier part of the film the characters of Shefford and Lassiter.

J. Warren Kerrigan, Paralta star, completed his third production under that banner, recently, just one year since he started filming his first picture for that organization. The production is the screen version of the novel, "Toby."

"Waifs," with Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in the leading roles, will be released by Pathe on August 24, according to announcements. Walter Hiers appears in support of the co-stars.

Preparations are being made at the Ince studio at Hollywood for still another picture starring Enid Bennett, some of the scenes of which will be laid in the Hawaiian Islands.

Immediately after completing the picturization of Gouverneur Morris's story, "You Can't Get Away with It," under the title of "The Fallen Angel," Jewel Carmen has begun on "Above the Law," a production based on the magazine story of the same name, by Max Brand.

Herbert Standing, for years a player on the English stage, and the father of seven sons, all of whom adopted his profession, is a member of the all-star cast headed by Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum, in the forthcoming Metro production, "Judgment."

Thomas H. Ince Presents Wm. S. Hart In "Shark Monroe," An Artcraft Picture

"Pirates Gold" To Be Made by World

What is said to be a real thrilling and blood warming tale entitled "Pirate's Gold," has been purchased by World Pictures from the author, Forest Halsey, for Montagu Love.

In the course of a hunting trip in one of the South Atlantic states last winter, Mr. Halsey came in contact with a peculiar race of people who live in the swamps. These people, as the author expresses it, "have a lurking suggestion of Spanish forebears," and their English was also spoken with a foreign accent. He had as his guide one of the natives and one night around the camp fire questioned him concerning this queer tribe and drew from him the matter from which the story was written.

The scenario is said to be a thriller and is modern in treatment. Oscar Apfel, who is to direct the picture, left New York early last week for the South to locate the scenes and engage natives themselves who will lend a unique background to a picture that promises originality.

Lloyd Searches Classics for Farnum Subject

Although he is extremely busy directing "The Rainbow Trail," the William Fox production which William Farnum is producing at Hollywood, Cal., Frank Lloyd, Mr. Farnum's director, is poring through the classics of literature to find a new play for the Fox star.

Mr. Lloyd believes that motion picture followers want such pictures as "Les Miserables," which he directed. Usually a motion picture director speaks of his latest success and forgets the pictures he made in the past, but Mr. Lloyd always mentions "A Tale of Two Cities" in the same breath with "Les Miserables," both of which he considers his greatest works.

"The Rainbow Trail," which he is now engaged in producing, is the sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage," which Farnum just completed. Both pictures are taken from novels Zane Grey.

Stars Appear in Farrar Film

Goldwyn Chooses Herbert Rawlinson for Role Opposite Singer—Violet Heming and Hassard Short in Prominent Roles

GOLDWYN this week, in a statement to MOTION PICTURE NEWS, said that the company's emphasis upon production quality is made clear by an inspection of the cast engaged to appear with Geraldine Farrar in her first Goldwyn picture, now in the course of making at the company's Fort Lee studios.

Miss Farrar's leading man is Herbert Rawlinson, for several years a star in his own right, and possessing a definite following of his own in probably every section of the United States.

Another person who has been starred separately is Violet Heming, who has an important role in Miss Farrar's production. Miss Heming is known in most of America's larger cities through her stage successes and recently seen on the screen in "The Judgment House" and "The Danger Trail."

Still other well known names to be found in Miss Farrar's cast are Hassard Short, famous in support of many stars of stage and screen; Percy Marmont and Maude Turner Gordon.

Reginald Barker, Miss Farrar's director, is making headway with her first Goldwyn production, which has been under way without interruption or delay of any sort for two weeks. There has been considerable speculation in picture circles over this first Farrar story because of the atmosphere of secrecy and mystery that Goldwyn has thrown around it.

On the stage of the Fort Lee studios the Farrar company works carefully screened against intrusion or interruption. No outsiders have been permitted to come near the company while at work and members of the cast have been asked to maintain secrecy even about their own roles until the moment of the production's release in the early fall.

Meanwhile all of the preliminiary work has been completed for Miss Farrar's second production. The supporting players have been selected, the scenic sets are in readiness and the feminine players have received their gown charts. This reduces delays between pictures to a minimum.

"To Hell with Kaiser" Reaches Screen

THE new Screen Classics, Inc., superfeatures, "To Hell with the Kaiser," opened an engagement at the Broadway theatre, New York, on June 30, immediately after it had emerged from the cutting and editing rooms. The picture presented Lawrence Grant as the Kaiser, Olive Tell as Alice Monroe, and a large cast. John Sunderland is presented as Winslow Dodge, an American aviator.

The battle of two air-armies on the Western front is included in the many scenes. The opposing forces are each represented by forty aeroplanes in combat, shown at close view. It was necessary to use several cameras in order to obtain all angles of these scenes.

"To Hell with the Kaiser" was directed by George Irving and a staff of capable assistants from the scenario by June Mathis, and produced under the personad supervision of Maxwell Karger. It is distributed by Metro Pictures Corporation.

This picture, which has been developed in seven reels, is the fifth Screen Classics, Inc., production recently seen on Broadway. Others have been "Revelation," starring Mme. Nazimova; "Lest We Forget," a dramatization of the sinking of the Lusitania, with Rita Jolivet, a passenger of the ill-fated ship, as the star; "Toys of Fate," another Nazimova feature, and "The Slacker," a patriotic production de luxe starring Emily Stevens.

"To Hell with the Kaiser" is said to be not only a powerful arraignment of Prussianism and the Hohenzollerns, but it also contains a story effectively and dramatically told, in which heart interest and romance are combined with facts of international importance, facts which make amply apparent the Kaiser's attitude in this war.

Alice Joyce, Betty Blythe and Carol Holloway, a Trio of Vitagraph Winners

Theda Bara and Her Property Snake in the New Version of "The Clemenceau Case," Fox Production

Bara Takes Vacation of Two Weeks

Having completed "The Message of the Lilies," Theda Bara, the William Fox star, is taking a two-week vacation before beginning on her next picture. An announcement from the William Fox offices states that the star's next production will give her an opportunity to portray a role entirely different from any she has yet created.

J. Gordon Edwards, who directed Miss Bara in "The Message of the Lilies," "Cleopatra," "Salome," and other productions, also has gone on a vacation in Big Bear Valley, Cal., where he will spend his days fishing for trout. Mrs. Edwards accompanied her husband on the trip. "The Message of the Lilies" was the twenty-seventh photodrama Mr. Edwards has made for the Fox Film Corporation.

General Claims Popularity for "Shame"

"Shame," the seven-reel feature in which Zena Keefe is starred, continues to be the most successful feature production ever released by General Film Company, says a General statement issued this week. "Bookings for the John W. Noble production we are distributing for Duplex Films, Inc., have more than exceeded expectations, and the film is going better than ever," a General Film official stated. "To date we have not received an unfavorable report from exhibitors who have shown this feature, and in every instance it has lived up to all predictions as to its drawing power. That this is not exaggerated is indicated by the fact that "Shame" smashed all box-office records when shown for a week at the Majestic theatre operated by K. Moreland of Missouri Valley, Iowa, topping the record established by one of the most successful of the "Kaiser" pictures by $75 on the week's business. "Shame" has been unusually successful throughout the Middle West, where repeated showings are being made by numerous exhibitors who have already given the production a week's showing.

Fox Forces Complete Seven Pictures

Seven productions were completed during the week by William Fox companies, it is announced from the Fox Film Corporation offices. Four were begun and two others are nearly completed.

"The Message of the Lilies," a superproduction, has finished photographing at Hollywood, Cal., under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. Jewel Carmen, under the direction of Robert Thornby, has completed "The Fallen Angel," a picturization of Gouverneur Morris's story, "You Can't Get Away with It," and has begun "Above the Law." Tom Mix, also at Hollywood, has finished "Fame and Fortune," which is based on Charles Alden Seltzer's magazine story, "Slow Burgess," and has begun on a new production.

At Hollywood, also, is William Farnum, who is at work on "The Rainbow Trail," a sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage," the books of both of which Zane Grey wrote.

In the East Virginia Pearson, following the completion of "Her Price," has begun the filming of "The Liar," at the Blackton Studio in Brooklyn. Peggy Hyland has begun "Bonnie Annie Laurie" at Newdorp, Staten Island, and George Walsh has finished "Yankee Doodle Dandy." Two other big productions have been completed by R. A. Walsh and Richard Stanton.

Katterjohn Joins Famous Players-Lasky

Monte M. Katterjohn, one of the best known of the younger scenario writers of the country, has been permanently engaged by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a member of the scenario staff at the West Coast studios.

Mr. Katterjohn has already written the continuity for "The Source" and "Broken Threads," two forthcoming Paramount pictures starring Wallace Reid. He is now at work on an original script for Lila Lee.

Monte Katterjohn hails from Indiana. He began his career as a newspaper writer.

Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum Are In "Judgment," Metro Film

"Hands Up!" Is the Commanding Title of Pathe's New Serial, and it Promises to be a Great Money-Maker for the Exhibitor

Universal Keeps Active in the Northwest

G. A. METZGER, according to an announcement this week by Universal Film Company, doesn't intend to allow summer to interfere with business. Mr. Metzger, manager of the Portland branch of Universal, is a firm believer, it is made known, in the idea that business will come to him who goes after it hard enough.

Recently Metzger sent out a letter to showmen in which he pointed out that the amount of busines done by an exhibitor during the summer season is in direct ratio to the amount of energy he puts into trying to get it. His letter continued as follows:

"Old Sol plus the gentle breezes of summer and good roads inviting every one who owns or can borrow a car to stay outside, is a combination that the theatre man views with annual alarm; and usually the summer 'dull season,' so-called, is accompanied by an outbreak of retrenchment.

"Which may be well and good—but in a big percentage of the cases the retrenchment starts in on the advertising end of the budget, which is just where the pruning hook should be applied last of all.

"If you want 'em inside, you've gotta convince 'em you have something there that out-lures the sun and the wind and the call of the outdoors; and you can't convince 'em by curtailing your advertising.

"Walter Armstrong showed what can be done in competition against the outdoor impulse when he put over the lobby on 'The Guilt of Silence' in Portland recently and packed his house for four days running in spite of a run of the kind of weather that makes every one want to stampede to the seashore.

"The summer dull season doesn't have to be so all-fired dull, unless the exhibitor helps it along by lying down on his crowd-getting activities."

Zeppelin Film Scores in Canada

General Film's two-reel war feature, "The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21," has established itself as the most popular war picture of the day in Canada, according to reports received from the Canadian General Film exchanges. The film, which was featured for a week at the Imperial theatre in Montreal to tremendous crowds, has created a big sensation in that Canadian city and is one of the most widely booked war features now on the Canadian markets. Canadian government officials who have viewed "The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21" are said to be greatly pleased with it, and it is expected that wide use of the film will be made throughout Canada because of the great faithfulness with which it portrays the Hun orgies over London.

Hodkinson Denies Kerrigan Withdrawal

"J. Warren Kerrigan will not go to Paramount as stated in the trade press recently." This is the simple and emphatic statement issued by the home office of the W. W. Hodkinson Corp. It is further stated that Mr. Kerrigan is under contract and will continue to release his pictures through the W. W. Hodkinson Corp.

Mr. Kerrigan's latest production, "One Dollar Bid" is now available for booking and he is hard at work on a "Burglar for a Night," a production in which Kerrigan depicts the adventures of the son of a rich New Yorker, who entangled in the plot of two crooks to defend him, completely vanquishes his enemies. The usual cast is beheaded by Miss Lois Wilson, who is very popular throughout the country.

Nell Shipman, Grace Darmond, Gladys Leslie, Anita Stewart and Corinne Griffith Are Numbered Amongst Vitagraph's Brightest Stellar Assets. They Are a Part of the Hoodoo Squad—Which Is Not Hoodooed

Mutual Names Hayakawa Films

"His Birthright" and "The Temple of Dusk" Available for Pre-Release September 1—Good Casts Promised

WITH two productions announced, a large staff of salesmen in the field and studio operations in Los Angeles running at top notch, the making and marketing of the Haworth Pictures Corporation's series of special productions starring Sessue Hayakawa are well under way, Mutual states.

The distribution of the pictures is to be handled out of the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation.

The first two productions on the schedule are: "His Birthright" and "The Temple of Dusk." The initial productions will be available for pre-release September 1.

These first productions were selected by Hayakawa and his directors, William Worthington and James Young, who will alternate in directing his productions, after a thorough consideration of the best available dramatic material. The plays chosen were finally decided upon as being the most effective vehicles for Hayakawa's talents, and containing dramatic elements that will appeal most strongly to the public taste at the present time.

In "His Birthright" Hayakawa is cast in the role of Yukio, son of Saki San and Lieutenant John Milton, of the United States Navy, born in Japan while the U. S. Navy is in Japanese waters.

Marion Sais will be Hayakawa's leading lady in "His Birthright." Tsuru Aoki, wife of the Japanese star, has an important role in this production.

Mary Anderson is the ingenue of the Haworth Pictures Corporation and plays the part of the Admiral's daughter. Miss Anderson has been appearing in pictures for the past three years, and was featured by Vitagraph in a number of productions. Howard Davies, who has the important role of Admiral John Milton, was a vaudeville actor before entering filmdom.

"The Temple of Dusk" will be under the direction of James Young. Mr. Young's productions while with Lasky and Vitagraph stamp him as a master-craftsman. Notable successes which he directed were: "Oliver Twist," "On Trial," "My Official Wife," "Deep Purple" and "Heart of the Blue Ridge."

An unusually strong cast has been selected for "The Temple of Dusk," Jane Novak, Sylvia Bremer and Lewis Willoughby having important roles.

"The Temple of Dusk" was written by Frances Marion for Hayakawa. It is a Japanese subject which calls for sumptuous Oriental settings and costuming. A beautiful Japanese tea garden used in one of the scenes is an exact replica of one of the famous gardens in Japan. The production also calls for twelve Geisha girls, all real Nipponese, who give a realistic interpretation of their native dance.

New Davies-Select Film Started

Work on Marion Davies second Select Picture was begun on July 1. The present plan is to do the studio scenes in the Norma Talmadge Studio in East Forty-Eighth street. Julius Steger will have entire charge of the production, and Andre Barlatier will do the camera work. Mr. Steger was busily at work on the script for this picture for three weeks.

Mr. Steger promises a surprise in this new Davies picture. The story, which as yet has been given no title, is an adaptation from a well-known work and is said to contain a big thrill. It is claimed to be right up to the minute, and has a patriotic flavor. Among the new contracts which continue to reach the home office, calling for the showing of Miss Davies' first Select Picture are two secured by Branch Manager V. P. Whitaker of the Washington Exchange. One of these covers the Jake Wells circuit of theatres in the Virginias, with first-run showings at the Colonial in Richmond, and the Wells theatre in Norfolk; the other is the contract secured from Manager De Hoff of the New theatre in Baltimore, where the picture is said to be booked for a long run at an early date.

Mistake in Names

World Pictures announced this week that "The Millionth Chance," in scenario form, has been purchased from Hamilton Smith, instead of Godwin Smith, as published last week.

Big V Comedies Ignore Hot Weather

There is to be no summer let-up in the production of Big V Comedies, according to Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company. Two companies are steadily working at the company's studio in Hollywood and they will continue there indefinitely, Mr. Smith says. One of these companies is headed by Lawrence Semon, the other by Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock, and they alternate on the Vitagraph program, a Semon comedy being presented one week and a Montgomery-Rock product the other.

A statement from the Vitagraph offices is to the effect that the comedy business is on the increase and it is attributed to the general desire of the public to see the brighter side of life, even if it is slapstick.

Although both Semon and the Montgomery-Rock combination go in solely for slapstick, there is a difference in the productions of the two. The former combines burlesque with his buffoonery, using legitimate productions oftentimes as the basis of his comedies, while Montgomery and Rock run more to acrobatics and hazardous stunts in putting over their laughs.

World Pictures Engages Armand Kalicz

World Pictures announces the engagement of Armand Kalicz, now appearing in "The Miss Burglar" at the George M. Cohan theatre, New York City, to support June Elvidge in "The Love Wraith," Travers Vale directing. Mr. Kalisz is well known on the legitimate stage. He has also appeared in vaudeville with Amelia Stone as headliners. "The Love Wraith" was written by Earl Mitchell. Work on this picture is now in progress at World Studio. The theme of the story is based on an expose of hypnotism, spiritualism and fake mediums. Miss Elvidge is called upon to portray a dual role.

Percival with Metro

Walter Percival is the newest recruit from the ranks of musical comedy stars to "go and do it." In the role of Beauty Blair in Metro's production of "Our Mrs. McChesney," Miss Barrymore's first screen vehicle of this season, Mr. Percival is making his first appearance before the camera.

Triangle Names July 14 Productions

Described as an unusual mystery play, "Marked Cards," featuring Margery Wilson and Wallace MacDonald, is the first release on the Triangle program for the week of July 14.

"Marked Cards" was written by Adela Rogers St. Johns. It is a story of sacrifice. The heroine sacrifices her honor that she may save the boy she loves from the gallows. And she wins the affection of the obstinate mother who objected to the marriage of her aristocratic son to the beautiful daughter of a farmer laborer. H. D'Elba directed this production.

"Hell's End," with William Desmond, is the second release of the week of July 14. The New York underworld forms the background of this play, which shows Desmond as the ruler of a district from which the picture takes its unusual title, a refuge for crooks and political intriguers.

Mae Marsh Appears Soon in "Money Mad"

"Money Mad" is the title of Mae Marsh's last release in Goldwyn's first producing year, which will end the first week in September. Beyond the knowledge that the production will be first shown to the public on August 25 and in the sight of a lot of strange photographs with a strange Mae Marsh in them, there is nothing much to report but mystery.

Is Mae Marsh in "Money Mad" a fortune teller, the queen of a harem or what? The publicity department gives it up.

Christie Gets More Distribution

Another new contract to be announced by the Christie Comedy Company is the handling of Christie comedies weekly through Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin by the First National Exchange, Inc. The Minnesota headquarters of this exchange are in Minneapolis.

Louise Glaum's Most Recent Paralta Play Is "Wedlock"

American Drops Program Films

President S. S. Hutchinson Plans Direct Dealings with Exhibitor—Will Make Big Features of Unusual Merit

DIRECT dealings with the exhibitor; the establishment of personal representatives in each of the distribution centres of the country; the withdrawal of its product from a program and the confining of all its future activities to the making of exceptionally high class feature productions for release at irregular intervals—these in brief are the salient features of the new policy shortly to be formally announced by President Samuel S. Hutchinson of the American Film Company, Inc.

A representative of MOTION PICTURE NEWS called upon Mr. Hutchinson to ascertain just what might be the full meaning of the American's recent announcement that it was prepared to pay anywhere from $1,000 to $25,000 for stories suitable for motion picture presentation. The American's president was found in his offices at the Chicago plant and was in a mood to reveal more fully his new sales plan.

"Yes," admitted Mr. Hutchinson, "we have received some really exceptional stories as a result of our advertising and were delighted to find that many of them were submitted by men and women whose names are found right at the top of any list of famous American authors. Already several manuscripts have been accepted and placed in production. More are still arriving and we expect shortly to be in a position to announce our productions for many months ahead.

"However, in future no arbitrary release dates will compel us to rush work at the studio unnecessarily in order to make a certain scheduled release date. We aim instead to control our own distribution—to take as long as may be necessary in order to properly put on each subject and shall demonstrate to the trade that American is making quality pictures rather than aiming to turn out as many as possible. We are about to announce a policy of dealing direct with the exhibitor. I shall have personal representatives in each of the country's distribution centers—men who are there to keep in daily contact with the exhibitors, to make daily reports to the home office—to establish a bond of contact between manufacturer and exhibitor such as I believe no other film manufacturer has ever established.

"Our productions will continue to feature such stars as Mary Miles Minter and Marguerita Fisher, and occasionally we shall probably announce a picture with an all-star cast, one perhaps that depends for its drawing power as much upon the story itself as upon any players who may interpret it. In addition to all of the above, I control, of course, the features made by William Russell Productions, presenting the popular athletic star, William Russell, whom exhibitors have found to be an immense drawing card.

"Though we shall begin our sales campaign sometime in July, it will be early in the fall before any of the new productions will be issued. However, each sales representative will have a print of some of the new subjects at least sixty days in advance of its first public showing, so exhibitors can see for themselves just the high quality pictures which we are prepared to offer them. Bookings will probably be made in the order of appllcation so it behooves all exhibitors to get in touch, as soon as possible, with either my personal representatives in the field or direct with the home office. Until I make formal announcement of the names and addresses of my personal representatives, exhibitors should write direct to the executive offices of The American Film Company, 6227 Broadway, Chicago. We will reply by mail giving each exhibitor a time and place where he can see the first of our new pictures and arrange bookings. As already stated, the bookings will probably be arranged in order of application, so those who first apply will stand the best chance of being assigned an early showing.

"We are not aiming to make a tremendous quantity of pictures per year, but shall adopt as our slogan the phrase, 'Quality first.' All the way through, quality not quantity, is to be the thought kept in mind by directors, stars, and all engaged in any part of the actual picture making."

Pasadena May Get C. K. Young Studio

Harry Garson, manager of Clara Kimball Young, announces that plans have been culminated whereby Miss Young will build her own studio in Pasadena, and that the site for the studio is now practically determined.

It is said that Mr. Garson's recent proposal to the Pasadena Board of Trade to establish a large motion picture studio there met with much discussion, due to the fact that heretofore all motion picture companies have been barred from Pasadena. The proposition was given much public consideration by many prominent business men of the city, with the result that when the proposal was put to the vote at a recent citizens' meeting, 155 out of 175 votes went for the erection of a studio for Miss Young.

It is announced that Miss Young will spare no expense to make her studio site one of the beauty spots of Pasadena, and that plans are already well under way for the laying out of the grounds. The various studio buildings will be drawn on the old mission style of architecture, and will include the instalment of a pipe-organ.

Paramount Chooses Washburn Title

Bryant Washburn, recently induced to twinkle in the Paramount constellation, will make his bow under his new management in "The Gypsy Trail," so Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of productions, announces.

Coming Program Offerings

July Brings Six from Metro

Five Are All-Star Series Pictures and One is Special Screen Classics Film—"Kaiser" Feature Heads List

METRO will issue five All-Star Series pictures, and a special Screen Classics, Inc., production during the month of July. The seven-act de luxe patriotic feature is "To Hell with the Kaiser," which has been directed by George Irving from the scenario by June Mathis, with Lawrence Grant as the hated monarch, and Olive Tell as the American girl, Alice Monroe. They are supported by John Sunderland, as the American birdman; Winslow Dodge and other players. The five regular July releases will be in the order named, "Opportunity," starring Viola Dana; Bert Lytell in "No Man's Land"; May Allison in "A Successful Adventure," and Edith Storey feature, either "The Demon" or "As the Sun Went Down," and "A Pair of Cupids," starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

The July 1 release, "Opportunity," with Viola Dana in the stellar role of Mary Willard, is an adaptation by John H. Collins of Edgar Franklyn's story in the All-Star Weekly, directed by Mr. Collins. Miss Dana appears as a "tomboy girl" who is determined to see a prize fight.

July 8 has been chosen as the release date of "No Man's Land," with Bert Lytell as star. "No Man's Land" will be Mr. Lytell's second appearance in Metro's All-Star Series productions, the first being "The Trail to Yesterday. Anna Q. Nilsson is the star's leading woman in "No Man's Land," and prominent in his support are Eugene Pallette, Charles Arling, Mollie McConnell and Edward Alexander.

"A Successful Adventure," starring May Allison, will be Metro's third release of the month. June Mathis wrote "A Successful Adventure," and it has been directed by Harry L. Franklin, assisted by P. Thad. Volkman.

The release of July 22 will be an Edith Storey feature, but whether "The Demon" or "As the Sun Went Down" has not as yet been decided. "The Demon" is a screen version of the novel of the same name by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, adapted and directed by George D. Baker. "As the Sun Went Down" is a screen version of George D. Baker's play of the same name, adapted by himself and directed by E. Mason Hopper.

The final July release will be "A Pair of Cupids," co-starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. "A Pair of Cupids" is from the pen of Luther a Reed, and was produced under the working title of "Both Members." Charles J. Brabin has directed it, with Rudolph J. Bergquist as cameraman.

Select Presents Three Stars During July

BESIDES Alice Brady's latest Select Picture, "The Whirlpool," which was released on the last day of June, therefore virtually becoming a July production, Select Pictures Corporation will have available for exhibitors, during the month of July, three new attractions by three Select stars. These pictures are "The Safety Curtain," Norma Talmadge's latest subject; "A Pair of Silk Stockings," in which Lewis J. Selznick presents Constance Talmadge, and Clara Kimball Young's production of "The Savage Woman," made by Miss Young in California, with her own company.

"The Safety Curtain," which will be presented in New York during the week of July 8 at all the Marcus Loew houses, is undoubtedly, according to Select, another hit to be chalked up to the credit of Norma Talmadge.

The story of "The Safety Curtain" is taken from the novel of the same name by Ethel M. Dell. It is a story of a little English girl who, earning her livelihood as a phenomenally clever dancer in the English Music halls, later becomes the bride of an English officer of infantry, and takes part in stirring scenes which have a military flavor.

Cyril Harcourt's play, "A Pair of Silk Stockings," has been filmed by Constance Talmadge as her latest Select Picture. This comedy-drama had a run in New York at Winthrop Ames' Little theatre, after it had stayed for two seasons at a prominent London playhouse. Later the piece was seen in two of the principal American cities.

All reports received from Hollywood, California, have indicated that Clara Kimball Young has made the best picture of her career in "The Savage Woman."

Norma Talmadge Has Completed "The Safety Curtain" for Release by Select

July 8 Brings Two Artcraft Films

Cecil B. De Mille's special production, "We Can't Have Everything," is scheduled for release under the Artcraft trademark July 8. Featuring an all-star cast, this picturization of Rupert Hughes' satire on divorce is said to be a worthy successor to Mr. De Mille's former Artcraft specials, "The Whispering Chorus" and "Old Wives for New."

In the cast are Kathlyn Williams, Elliott Dexter, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts and Sylvia Bremer, Thurston Hall, Raymond Hatton, Tully Marshall, James Neil, Ernest Joy, Billy Elmer, Charles Ogle and Sylvia Ashton.

The same date, July 8, marks the release of "Shark Monroe," in which William S. Hart is presented by Thomas H. Ince. In this production Hart forsakes the Western type of role which has come to be inseparably associated with him in the minds of picture fans, and is seen as a "sea dog," the skipper of a sealing schooner who is widely known for his cruelty.

Katherine MacDonald plays the part of the girl in the cabin, and Joe Singleton, Bertholde Sprotte and George McDaniel are conspicuous in the supporting cast. Mr. Hart himself directed the picture under Mr. Ince's supervision, and Joe August is responsible for the photography.

Fox Releases "Her Price" As Special

Revealing the temptations which are said to beset the girls who would climb the ladder of fame, Virginia Pearson in "Her Price," which is announced from the William Fox offices as the latest special feature release, portrays the role of an opera singer who betrays her beauty for a career only to find that the price she paid is too much. The picture is described as being one of the strongest in which Miss Pearson has appeared in a long time, and is said to be full of tense situations and a powerful human appeal.

Playing opposite Miss Pearson in "Her Price" is Victor Sutherland. Others in the cast are Edward F. Rosen, Henri Leone, Charles H. Martin, Paul Stanton and Mrs. Allan Walker. "Her Price" was written by George Scarborough and directed by Edmund Lawrence.

Pathe Releases "First Law" in July

With what Pathe announces as a distinguished cast, remarkable photography, able directing and a really gripping story, "The First Law," which will be released by Pathe the last week in July, should be a really great feature to draw business in spite of whatever August weather conditions may be, Pathe declares.

Mrs. Irene Castle is starred in "The First Law," and in her support are Antonio Moreno, J. H. Gilmour and other distinguished players. "The First Law" was written by Gilson Willets, who is now regularly engaged by Pathe, and who is responsible for the new Pathe serial, "Hands Up."

Lois Meredith, Popular Player, Who Appeared in Vitagraph's "Over the Top"

World Releases "Heredity" on August 5

The World Picture release for August 5 is "Heredity," a five-reel feature starring Barbara Castleton. The supporting company is headed by John Bowers and Madge Evans. Others in the cast are George MacQuarrie, Joe Smiley and Margaret MacWade. It was directed by William Earle and the story is from the pen of Maravene Thompson.

The plot of "Heredity" briefly concerns Nedda Trevors, a descendant of a famous family who, in the time of Charles the First, had rendered a great service to this monarch and were accorded signal honors. Reverses having overtaken the Trevors, Nedda is compelled to seek employment in a factory. She charms the son of the millionaire owner of the plant, but will not marry him because of the difference in their financial standing. Her mother is mysteriously murdered and through circumstantial evidence she is arrested for the crime. Her freedom is secured through the efforts of the young millionaire. The story is dramatic and forceful and full of surprises. It is the mysterious suspense that gives the entertaining qualities to "Heredity."

"A Good Loser" Heads Triangle List

A western play, "A Good Loser," is the first release on the Triangle schedule for the week of July 7, offering Peggy Pearce, the former Keystone Comedy player, who heads the cast supported by Lee Hill. Joe King will support Gloria Swanson in "Everywoman's Husband," a psychological drama of society, scheduled for the second release of the week.

"A Good Loser" is a story of friendship and sacrifice. The sweetheart of the hero is married to his chum, but he is loyal to the woman who forgot him and with devoted friendship for his pal, he sacrifices his life that they may know happiness.

"Everywoman's Husband," the second release of the week, tells of the struggle between youth and age, the dominating influence of the mother that nearly wrecks the domestic happiness of her daughter.

Program Glances

In "Her Screen Idol," the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy released July 1, Mr. Sennett has adopted the odd device of showing a play within a play. One of the scenes takes place in a motion picture theatre.

Mary Miles Minter, in "The Ghost of Rosy Taylor," a screen adaptation of the story of the same name, by Josephine Daskam Bacon, published in the Saturday Evening Post, is Mutual's feature for the week of July 8.

Mabel Normand, she of the extraordinary eyes and madcap moods, is soon to be seen in a new Goldwyn picture. This time it is "Back to the Woods," and the plot bristles with excitement and, as must be expected of Mabel Normand, wholesome fun.

Gloria Joy, a child screen star of prominence, is to be featured in the series of Oakdale productions which will be distributed by General Film, beginning about July 20, according to an announcement issued this week. The series consists of six five-reel subjects.

Billie Rhodes appears in a Strand Comedy, "Her Disengagement Ring," released July 9. This is a story of the eternal triangle. Two rivals for Billie's hand believe firmly in the old maxim, "All's fair in love or war," and carry it out to the bitter end.

Toto comedies for early release are "Beach Nuts," July 28; "Do Husbands Deceive?" August 11, and "Nipped in the Bud," August 25.

"A Hot Time in Snakeville," said to be an uproarious comedy hit, is released this week by General Film Company. This is the seventh subject in the second series of ten Essanay reissues which have proved even more popular than the first series of ten, General Film reports.

"The Claws of the Hun" will be a Paramount release July 8, and is said to be one of Charles Ray's best. It has some military scenes taken at Camp Kearny and is withal, according to reports, a most effective picture with the war as a background.

The third release of the Outing-Chester scenic classics, "Mountaineering Memory," is scheduled for July 14. This scenic shows the cameraman's graphic picturization of a trip through the Canadian mountains, accessible from Banff, Alberta, and shows Mount Assiniboine close up.

"The Ghost of the Rancho" is the title of the next Bryant Washburn release by Pathe. It is the feature of the program released August 11.

Bert Lytell tries his hand at burglarizing in his forthcoming Metro picture, "Boston Blackie's Little Pal." The screen star's role is that of "Boston Blackie," the gentleman crook of whose exploits Jack Boyle writes in the Red Book Magazine.

"Cupid Angling," the new Douglas Color Picture, was featured in the bill at the Imperial theatre of San Francisco, week of June 16. This will be distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. Ruth Roland is the featured star.

An example of the advancement some of the American universities are making in the preparation of the hundreds of thousands of young men and women who each year enter their doors to acquire an education, is one of the features of the 126th Paramount-Bray Pictograph.

"The Great Love," which D. W. Griffith, producer of "Hearts of the World," "Intolerance" and "The Birth of a Nation," has recently completed for release by Artcraft, is claimed to be the most startling picture of the period.

After a rest of about two weeks, most of which period was devoted to the cutting and titling of her latest Select picture, "The Safety Curtain," Norma Talmadge has begun the making of her next production in her own studio at East Forty-eighth street, New York City.

Sessue Hayakawa's last Paramount picture is "The City of Dim Faces," by Frances Marion. And from all accounts it is going to be his best.

Lucille Lee Stewart has been engaged by Metro for the role of Vera, the "chorus-lady," with Ethel Barrymore in the screen version of "Our Mrs. McChesney." "Our Mrs. McChesney" has been adapted by Luther A. Reed from the play by George V. Hobart and Edna Ferber.

Actual work before the cameras has been begun by Mme. Nazimova in her Screen Classics, Inc. production of Henri Kistemaecker's play, "L'Occident," under the direction of Albert Capellani.

Charles Frohman Everett In George K. Spoor's "Young America"

General Plans "Her Moment" for July

Arrangements are now being completed by General Film Company to release the Anna Luther feature production of "Her Moment," filmed on the West Coast by the Author's Photo-Plays, Inc., shortly after July 15. The work of editing and cutting the film is in its final stages and the first of the prints will soon be on their way to General Film exchanges. General Film is planning a strenuous sales campaign in support of this six-reel feature which is declared to be one of the most unusual and cleanest problem plays filmed in many a day. The entire exchange system of the company is being mobilized for the unusual exploitation campaign which General Film officials believe the high quality of the feature demands.

The outstanding feature of the photoplay, picturized from an unusually strong heart interest story by Samuel H. London, is declared to be the splendid acting of Anna Luther, who does the best work of her career in the many highly dramatic scenes in the story. There is said to be no effort at preachment in the presentment of the story, "Her Moment," and the clean, straightforward manner in which it has been handled is expected to make it widely popular with all classes of patrons.

Jack Pickford's Farewell

Jack Pickford, star of Paramount pictures, who is now a member of Uncle Sam's navy, makes his last screen appearance until after the war in "Sandy," the Paramount release for July 1. The story of "Sandy" is from the pen of Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Lovey Mary," "Mr. Opp" and other tales. It is a tale of Kentucky with its Blue Grass belles, thoroughbred horses and gentlemen of the old school of Southern chivalry.

Louse Huff is again seen in the leading feminine role and the other principals of the cast are James Neill, Edythe Chapman, C. H. Geldart, Julia Faye, Louise Hutchinson and Raymond Hatton

NEWSY ITEMS FROM THE STUDIOS

Bernard Randall is now working with Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex in Paramount's new patriotic comedy drama, "Come On In," under the direction of John Emerson. Mr. Randall played in stock with Truex fifteen years ago in the Middle West, and since then has had interesting parts in many big pictures, among them Rex Beach's "The Auction Block."

Chet Withey, after finishing Jack Barrymore's picture, "On the Quiet," has started work on a new Billie Burke production, "In Pursuit of Polly." Owing to Mr. Barrymore's illness his next picture has been postponed for several weeks.

Exhibitors who run vaudeville, as well as pictures, have a splendid opportunity to play up Lawrence Grant, the Kaiser in "To Hell with the Kaiser." Particularly if they have booked him in either of his vaudeville sketches, "The Final Arbiter" or "Efficiency," in both of which he played the role of the Kaiser.

Much may be expected from the next Geraldine Farrar picture when Miss Farrar herself says in relation to it: "I want to enact roles that I have never had before. I want to do the last thing that any one on earth would expect me to do," and when Goldwyn absolutely refuses admittance to the studio to anyone, even the star's friends, while this picture is being filmed.

Mae Marsh's next appearance in "Money Mad" ought to create something of a sensation, since she will be "swathed in veils, smothered in pearls, and clasped by snakey armlets and anklets," according to reports from headquarters.

Mabel Normand keeps within convenient reach of whatever studio set she is working in, a little table on which is a bottle or two of ginger ale and sarsaparilla and a tall glass of cracked ice. Thus does she manage to keep cool through a long day of interiors.

June Elvidge is making plans to attend the Exhibitors' Convention at Boston and will appear officially on "World Night."

Madge Kennedy, Goldwyn star, corresponds regularly with Mary Garden, ex-Goldwyn star, now in France, and keeps her informed of what is going on in the picture world. Her correspondence has taken the form of a weekly letter. One week she omitted it and received a cable from Miss Garden to know what was wrong.

Another bit of service. Aubrey M. Kennedy of the Symphony theatre, is serving tea to his feminine patrons each afternoon, from two until five, without charge.

New York has welcomed "Smiling Billy" Parsons, who has come East to make four comedies. If they complete them with their usual speed their stay will be only too short.

Carl Harbaugh has finished directing Peggy Hyland in "Other Men's Daughters," and is taking a few weeks' vacation before directing Miss Hyland in her next picture.

Alice Brady Takes a Cup of Coffee "Out On Location," While Director Emile Chautard Takes His Ease—With the Frenchman's Customary Bottle of Vin Ordinare Close at hand!

John Sunderland, leading man in "To Hell with the Kaiser," is continuing the good work of appearing in war pictures and will be seen next in support of Claire Whitney in a propaganda picture, produced by the Warner Brothers and directed by Jack Harvey.

Lois Meredith has finished her work in the Jack Barrymore picture, "On the Quiet," and expects to sail for France soon, to engage in war work. The Empey picture, "Over the Top," in which she played the lead, may have been her inspiration.

If Tom Moore can't have a round of golf or a set of tennis between sets he can and does have a game of croquet with whichever of the three M's is not busy at the time.

Leah Baird is out for suggestions for a title for the new serial in which she is appearing. She has appealed to a great many exhibitors in letter form for help and believes that among their replies she will find what she wants.

Sally Crute, now playing Mme. Cadiere in "L'Occident," happened to wear an Oriental pendant one day in the Metro Studio, which caused quite a bit of inteerst, as its inlaid jewels were in the form of a parrot in a ring, which is the official Metro trademark.

Lucile Lee Stewart, who takes the part of Vera in "Our Mrs. McChesney," the new Metro-Ethel Barrymore picture, is another war gardener. After many trials and tribulations she has a flourishing vegetable patch at her Long Island home, every plant in which was personally supervised by her.

Frank Mills will have the honor of being Edith Storey's first leading man upon her return to the East Coast. His most recent work was with Norma Talmadge in "De Luxe Annie." Herbert Blache is Miss Storey's director.

The next war book to be filmed will be "Private Peet." Famous Players-Lasky has put the soldier-author under contract and has already begun work at Fort Lee. Scenes were taken last week at Camp Devens.

Bill Hart has been kept busy denying, first, his marriage to anyone, and secondly, his retirement from pictures. Paramount's official announcement of eight new pictures of his for next year has put an end to the second, at least.

Emily Stevens, after finishing "Kildare of the Storm" for Metro, expects to depart for the Adirondacks for a summer rest.

Herbert Rawlinson will be leading man for Geraldine Farrar in her new picture. He has already finished a picture opposite Mabel Normand, which has not yet been released.

Violet Hemming will also appear in the Farrar picture. Her beauty, and her stage, as well as screen experience, make this young English actress a very important addition to the cast.

Mary Louise Walker, remembered in many of the Sidney Drew comedies, has returned to the legitimate stage via. the Actors and Authors' Theatre Company, to portray the ingenue role in a new comedy.

Director Wilfrid North, of Vitagraph, spent last week-end resting in Atlantic City preparatory to beginning Anita Stewart's next picture, "Human Desire."

In "Human Desire" Miss Stewart has the part of a little novice in a convent in Italy. To portray the part correctly she is taking lessons in language and gesture of a well-known teacher of Italian in New York City.

Oscar Apfel, World director, has picked Cypress Swamps, North Carolina, for locations for Montague Love's next picture, "Pirate's Gold."

Ruth Findlay, leading woman for Wm. Gillette last season in "A Successful Calamity," will appear in the ingenue role in "The Scar," a new Kitty Gordon picture.

A Neptune dinner in "You Can't Believe Everything" is one of the features of the production. It is staged on a float built over an elaborate swimming pool, and shows the many guests in gorgeous bathing costumes.

Twenty-one theatres in New York City presented Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in "For Sale," Pathe production, one week recently.

"Is'nt diss chust a lofely war ve are running, Papa ?"

(ANOTHER OF THE HEART BREAKING SCENES from)

"The GEEZER OF BERLIN"

WATCH FOR RELEASE DATE A Travesty on "THE KAISER- The Beast of Berlin" WATCH FOR RELEASE DATE

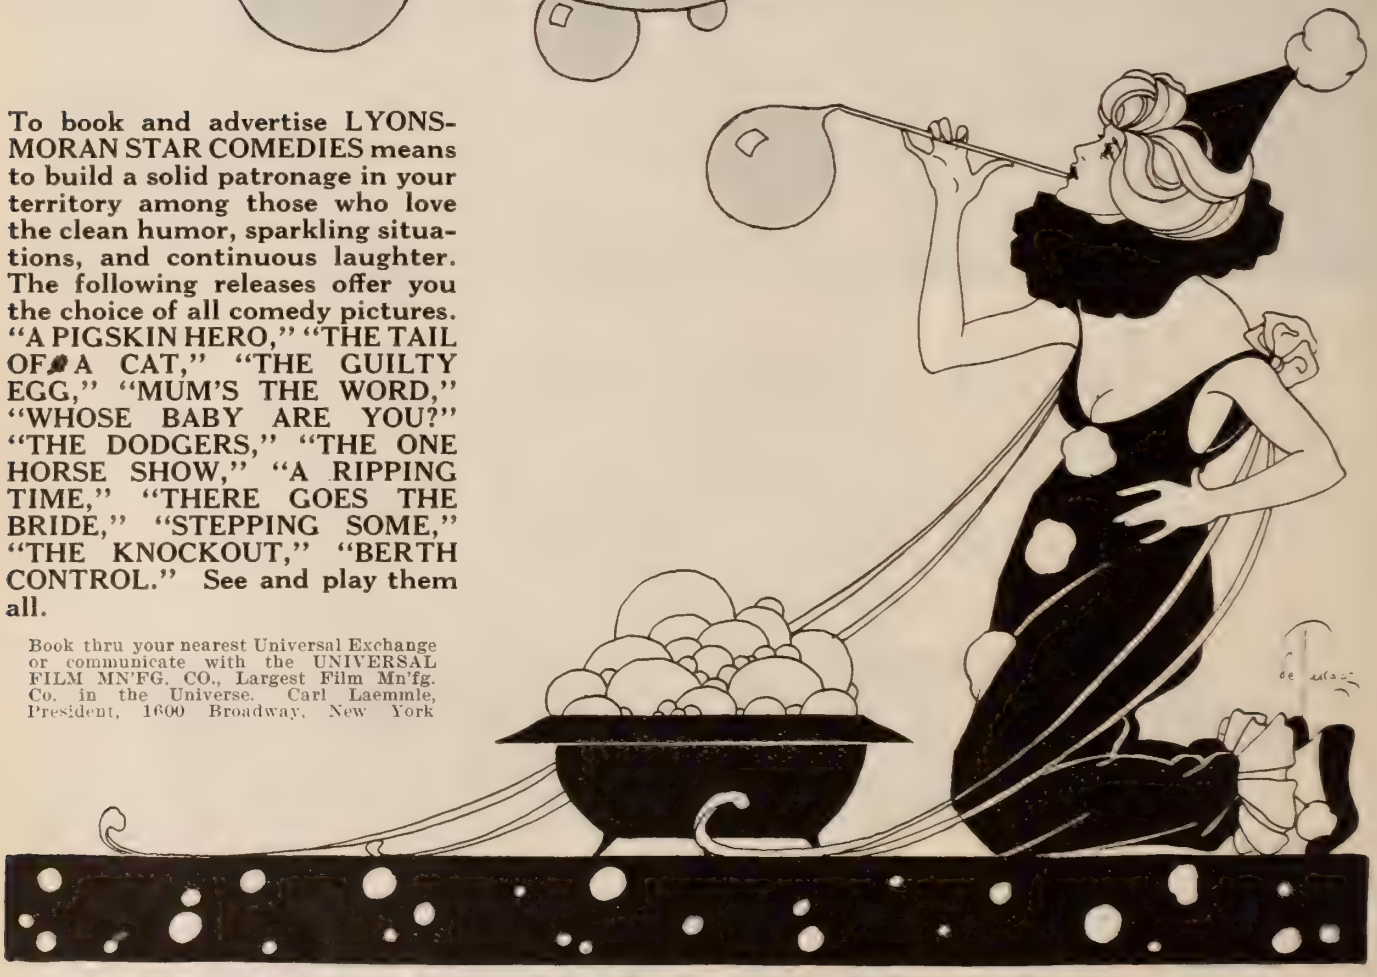
LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES

MAKE THE WORLD SHAKE WITH LAUGHTER

LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES are propaganda pictures—made and released as a propaganda of joy and happiness for millions of Americans. Devoid of vulgar "slap-stick" and immeasurably better in genuinely high class comedy, these pictures are the talk of the trade, the hit of the season and the most consistent money-getting comedy attractions yet presented to the Industry.

To book and advertise LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES means to build a solid patronage in your territory among those who love the clean humor, sparkling situations, and continuous laughter. The following releases offer you the choice of all comedy pictures. "A PIGSKIN HERO," "THE TAIL OF A CAT," "THE GUILTY EGG," "MUM'S THE WORD," "WHOSE BABY ARE YOU?" "THE DODGERS," "THE ONE HORSE SHOW," "A RIPPING TIME," "THERE GOES THE BRIDE," "STEPPING SOME," "THE KNOCKOUT," "BERTH CONTROL." See and play them all.

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO., Largest Film Mn'fg. Co. in the Universe. Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 Broadway, New York



In the Independent Field

Blanche Sweet, Under Harry Garson's Management in Motion Pictures

Executive Heads Elected

The following representatives of the Affiliated Booking plan are announced:

For Michigan, W. S. Butterfield, Battle Creek; Paul Schlosman, Muskegon; Harry Trendal, King Perry and John P. Church, Detroit; C. H. Seaman, Grand Rapids. For Northern Ohio, Henry H. Lustig, M. B. Horwitz, William J. Slimm, Samuel Bullock, Michael Schachtel, all of Cleveland. For Southern Ohio and Eastern Kentucky, Charles Weigel, Henry Hoefle, Otto D. Dickman, John Weinig, John Huelner, all of Cincinnati.

For the Exhibitors' Booking Corporation of Illinois and Wisconsin: William Heaney, William Burford, H. Gundling, M. A. Choynski, L. H. Frank, Joseph Hopp, Sam Gold, Abe Ostrofsky, Jacob Cooper, George Hopkinson and Clyde Bates. For Upper Western New York, Ira Moshier, Buffalo; Harold B. Franklin, Buffalo; William Fair, Jr., Utica; W. H. Linton, Little Falls; Charles Hyman, Niagara Falls; William A. Callahan, Rochester. For Indiana and Western Kentucky, Hugh O'Donnell, Washington; Charles Olson and A. C. Zearing, Indianapolis; C. R. Andrews, Muncie; B. V. Barton, Indianapolis; Frank J. Rembusch, Shelbyville. For South Atlantic States, B. B. Varner, Lexington; R. D. Craver, Charlotte, N. C.; Harry Crandall, Washington, D. C.; Percy N. Wells, Wilmington, N. C.; C. L. Welsh, George W. Pryor, Harry Bernstein, Virginia; A. F. Sams, South Carolina. For Rocky Mountain and Pacific States, J. S. Barlow, A. L. Stallings, U. G. Miller, Glen Harper, Bryon Park.

Mabel Scott in Graphic

Ivan Abramson has engaged Mabel Juliene Scott to portray the leading feminine role in his next Graphic Film Corporation production, the title to which has not been announced.

Colonel Roosevelt in Pictures

Issues Statement Concerning His Purpose and Expectations—Frederick L. Collins Associated with the Colonel

THE following statements from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Frederick L. Collins, president of the Petrova Picture Company and publisher of McClure's Magazine, mark the final consummation of negotiations for the Roosevelt series of pictures in connection with motion picture production.

"Several of the more important producers of motion pictures have approached me with plans for films based on the books that I have written. I have never considered any of these offers seriously until recently, when it occurred to me that large sums might be realized for the American Red Cross or other war charities through the production and exhibition of such pictures. I have therefore, consented to the production of a limited number of pictures to be produced and exhibited in accordance with a properly co-ordinated plan, on the definite condition that all of the royalties received by me during the war may be devoted to such war charities as I may designate.

"Knowing very little about the filming business myself, I have placed my motion picture affairs in the hands of Frederick L. Collins, publisher of McClure's Magazine, who already has wide interests in the motion picture field, and who is, I believe, in a position to produce these pictures or to secure their production under his supervision in a dignified and successful manner.

"I shall be very glad to co-opeerate in every possible way with Mr. Collins and his associates in the hope that a considerable sum may be raised and help meet the war needs. The final succeess of the undertaking of course, depends not upon me but upon the consideration and support of the great motion picture public. Exactly to the extent that the motion picture public approves these pictures, it will help to provide additional means for backing these men at the front."

Frederick L. Collins is president of the Petrova Picture Company and McClure Pictures, Inc., and is the publisher of McClure's Win-the-War-Magazine. Speaking of the decision of Colonel Roosevelt to consent to the production of his works in film under his supervision, Mr. Collins said:

"It is true that I have at last been fortunate enough to convince Colonel Roosevelt of the desirability of adapting his books and writings to motion pictures. When the matter was first broached to him he was not at all favorable to the plan, but when it occurred to the Colonel that thousands of dollars for the Red Cross and other war charities would be raised by the production of such a series of patriotic pictures at this time, he began to see the matter in quite a different light.

"My associates and I have not, as yet, decided whether we will produce all of these pictures ourselves, or arrange for their production, under our supervision, by other producers. Probably one film, based on one article of Mr. Roosevelt's will be produced by a different firm. In fact, we have not determined, finally, the order in which the pictures should appear.

"Some of Colonel Roosevelt's more recent patriotic writings of a non-political character, such as "Fear God—and Take Your Own Part," "Put the Flag on the Firing Line," and "The Hun Within Our Gates," should certainly be among the first films to be produced, although a picture of a more general character, based on "Theodore Roosevelt—an Autobiography," may be the first production to be released.

"Every attempt will be made, in the production and distribution of these pictures, to have every detail comport with the dignity of the Colonel's position and with a full realization of the opportunity for patriotic service which his generosity has made possible."

Export and Import to Handle Rolfe Features

Ben Blumenthal, president of the Export & Import Film Company, announces that he has just completed negotiations whereby the Export & Import Company will handle the foreign rights to all forthcoming B. A. Rolfe Productions.

The first release of this concern will be a serial in ten or twelve episodes, featuring Houdini. Following this serial Mr. Rolfe will produce a series of special features in which Florence Reed will be ready for release on or about the 15th of September, 1918.

Burnstein Manager of Magnet Film

Jules Burnstein, one of the oldest film exchange men in the city, and for a long time manager of the Pathe exchange has been appointed manager of the Magnet Film Exchange. Magnet controls the rights to the entire W. H. Productions Co. output of re-issues.

F. C. Sumner, who has also been associated with Pathe for a number of years as Branch Auditor, Inspector Auditor and Systematizer, has been appointed assistant manager to Mr. Burnstein.

A Striking Illustration of the Beauty Conserved by the Camera in Robert C. Bruce Scenics, Distributed by Educational Films Corporation

Late Subjects for Educational

To "When the Giant Wakes"—Scenes Laid in Virginia Coal Fields—Cast Selected—"Your Fighting Navy" Ready

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION OF AMERICA announces "When the Giant Wakes" as the working title of its picture production with many of the scenes laid in the West Virginia coal fields.

The cast has been engaged and its members are preparing to go to Charleston, W. Va., under the leadership of Carroll Fleming, director, and George B. Wilson, the business manager. Among the players are Ethel Grey Terry for the leading feminine role, Albert Hall and Harry Hollingsworth for prominent masculine roles, Robin MacDougal, the Tyltyl in "The Bluebird," in the juvenile role; also J. J. Dunn, Charles Mason, William T. Hayes, L. F. Kennedy and George Harcourt.

The personnel of the staff under Director Fleming and Business Manager Wilson includes George A. Grimmer, assistant director; R. B. Schellinger and Harry W. Lyon, photographers; Arthur Lent, technical director; William Miles, master of properties; Mrs. Jane Erskine, wardrobe mistress.

The Educational also announces that prints of its patriotic-naval picture, "Your Fighting Navy at Work and at Play," are now available for state right buyers and exchanges. Since its completion, several months have been spent in cutting out inessentials, trimming to flashes, editing and titling, making a forceful continuity and tinting and toning under the guidance of naval experts.

"Mexico Today," George D. Wright's series of one-reelers descriptive of actual conditions in the Southern republic, is booking heavily, according to reports. The series was edited by President Skinner of the Educational Films Corporation.

E. M. Newman, traveler and lecturer, whose scenic, "Through the Nation's Parks," is released the first week in July by the Educational, has written to the home offices in New York from Paris on the eve of his visiting the war front. He says:

"Life goes on here as before, more soldiers perhaps, and food plentiful, but very expensive. No one seems to mind Big Bertha or the air raids. American soldiers are everywhere and very popular. France and England look to us and we must finish the job. Paris is not quite so gay, but just as attractive as ever. Now for a tin hat and what goes with it and I am off."

Joseph S. Skirboll of the First National Exhibitors' Exchange, Pittsburgh, writes the Educational Films Corporation that Robert C. Bruce's "Me and My Dog" is the most beautiful scenic he has ever seen. Both "Me and My Dog" and "Just for Joy," another Bruce Scenic, are being distributed by Mr. Skirboll over the Pittsburgh territory, begining opening at Harry Davis' Grand Opera House.

Reissues Doing Well

The series of Fatty Arbuckle comedy re-issues released by W. H. Productions, have proved strong box-office comedy attractions, according to reports coming from the W. H. Offices.

Al Jennings First Feature Titled

The first picture of the Al Jennings Production Company, now being made at the Jennings Culver City studios, is titled "The Lady of the Dugout." Al Jennings is starred in the production, suported by his brother, Frank. In the title role, Corene Grant impersonates a real character in the lives of the famous outlaw brothers—the lady of the dugout. W. S. Van Dyke is directing.

Al Jennings himself is president and general manager of the company, formed for the purpose of producing a series of multiple reel features, starring Mr. Jennings in the character of outlaw and train robber.

The organization is a corporation operating under the laws of the State of Arizona, with home offices in Tucson, Arizona, and studios at both Tucson and Culver City, Cal. In additional to Mr. Jennings as president and general manager, its officers are: B. F. Robbins, vice-president; Frank F. Jennings, treasurer and secretary, and F. R. Shields, assistant manager. Mr. Shields has been prominent in Los Angeles picture circles for some years.

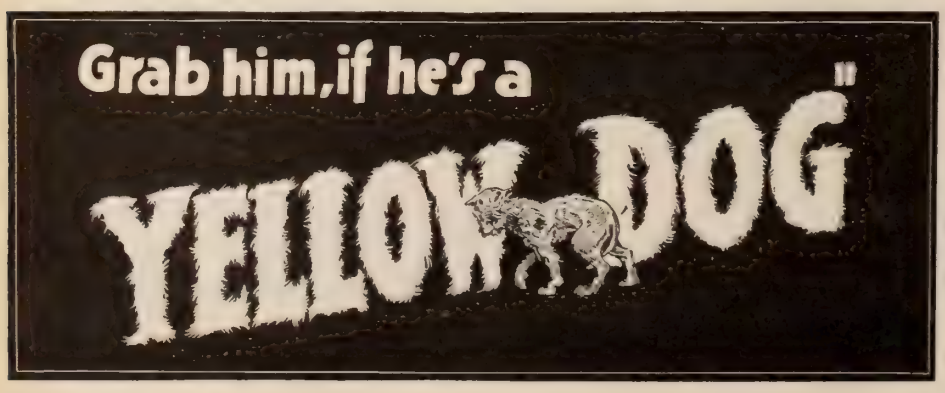
Francis Ford Completing Second Feature

Francis Ford is putting the finishing touches to his second Fordart Production, "The Isle of Intrigue," at his studio in Los Angeles. Elsie Van Name, Mary Emerson and Duke Worne are in the principal roles. The feature is in six reels.

The second of the series of Miniaturettes, short subjects under production by Mr. Ford, is titled "Solitaire."

R. B. Palmore Enters Distributing Field

R. B. Palmore, Palmore-Homand Company, Baltimore, handling motion picture supplies, announces that his company has entered the distributing end of the business and that he is now operating in the Maryland and District of Columbia territory. Mr. Palmore is in the market for independent features and reports business good in that territory.



Sherry Opens New Boston Exchange

A Boston exchange of the newly organized William L. Sherry Service has been opened at 16 Piedmont street, with Aaron Corn as manager. Mr. Corn was for many years connected with Paramount's New York exchange and for the last two months with the United States Picture Theatres of America. This organization now has offices in fourteen cities in different parts of the country. Headquarters are in the Godfrey Building, New York.

The William L. Sherry Service will distribute all of the productions of the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation and De Luxe Pictures., Inc., the first of the Keeney pictures, "A Romance of the Underworld," is to be released on July 15. It is a screen adaptation of the stage play by the late Paul Armstrong. Catherine Calvert is featured. The picture was directed by James Kirkwood. The first of the De Duxe pictures, "The Street of Seven Stars," will be released July 22. Doris Kenyon featured.

Parex Sends Reports on Sherry Releases

Charles F. Schwerin and Frank Lightman, representatives of the Parex Film Corporation, which recently opened an exchange in Cleveland, returned to the city last week after their first trip through the state with good accounts of the reception accorded the Sherry pictures. "They brought a lot of contracts back with them," said Manager Walter R. Liebmann, "which is the best evidence of appreciation on the part of the exhibitors." The present Parex releases include "Romance of the Underworld," "Marriage," "Out of the Night" and the special feature attraction, "The Street of Seven Stars," with Doris Kenyon in the leading role.

Josh Binney to Shoot Four in New York

Harold J. Binney, president and director general of the Florida Film Corporation, stated that the next four pictures to be made under the Josh Binney banner will be made in New York. Mr. Binney and a number of his people arrived in the city last week and expect to remain here until about the middle of October. Funny Fatty Filbert and Laura DeCardi are the featured comedians. The first of the four pictures to be made here will have Coney Island for a background. Upon completion of the four pictures to be made in New York, Mr. Binney and his company will return to Jacksonville with headquarters in the Klutho Studios.

Suggestions for Title

Joseph A. Golden, president, Western Photoplays, Inc., which company has under production a serial in which Leah Baird is featured, reports that to date he has received replies from seventeen exchanges, seventy-two exhibitors and more than two hundred fans regarding the title for Miss Baird's serial.

Gaumont Features War Subjects

News and Graphic Contain Major Percentage of War News— Gaumont — Serial Reaching Buyers

GAUMONT COMPANY has seen to it that its news weeklies, Gaumont Graphic and Gaumont News, have contained their full quota of war news. The late issues of these independent news reels are brim full of the war subjects.

At this time, when the cheering tidings have come that a million of our soldiers will be on European soil before July 4, and that the tide of war has at last turned against the Hun, the Gaumont independent news-reels are featuring official war news.

In Gaumont Graphic No. 13 is shown the launching of the "Liberty," the biggest member of our war marine, and the official test of a new and non-sinkable life boat. Featured in this same issue are two subjects, "The Eyes of the Army," an aviation picture, showing daring flyers, "The Cavalry of the Clouds," with more than a dozen airplanes in thrilling formations doing death-defying stunts, and Rodman Law, daredevil parachute artist, landing safely after leaping from an airplane 6,000 feet above the ground; and "The Navy is Ready," showing the men who will lead the Marines.

Gaumont News No. 14 contains more official war pictures. From England, we get interesting scenes showing Yankee soldiers and sailors introducing baseball to dear old London town. From France came the first pictures of American gunners manning the huge French "400's" on armored railway trucks; the rapidity with which American engineers are constructing military railways and suspension bridges in France; and Marshal Joffre welcoming the American Mission.

A military spectacle presented by 7,000 Marines in honor of the Secretary of Navy, foreign military missions, members of Congress, and many distinguished citizens makes up another very interesting subject. A sham battle, the testing of gas masks, the Indian style of fighting which is expected to get the German goat, and a "chow" banquet, are all portrayed.

Gaumont's serial, "The Hand of Vengeance" is bringing in communications from all parts of the country, to the offices of the company in Flushing, and officials of that company state that they exject to do a record business with this serial when it is ready to be distributed to the independent buyers.

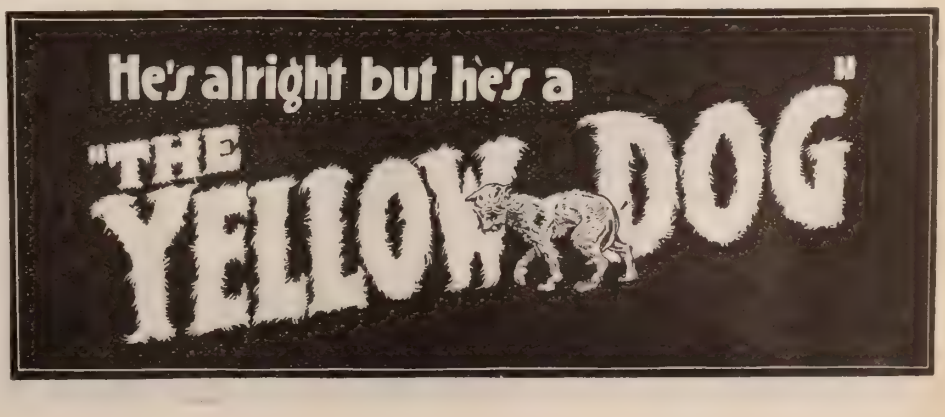
Slide, posters and extensive advertising material have been prepared by the Gaumont Company in handling the exploitation of the serial. It is announced that the first episodes will be ready for release soon.

Bulletin to Help Exploit Arrow Re-Issues

W. E. SHALLENBERGER, president of Arrow Film Corporation, following the announcement that Arrow Film would release a series of J. Warren Kerrigan and Lockwood-Allison re-issues, states that he has inaugurated an extensive advertising and publicity campaign to further the proper exploitation of this produce. In addition to the trade paper publicity and advertising, Arrow Film is issuing a monthly bulletin, the first issue of which is now in the press. This bulletin will contain in addition to the list of Arrow releases and the advertising matter issued in connection with each production, advertising and exploitation talks by Dr. Shallenberger, articles on state rights conditions, reports from men in the field as to local conditions, write-ups on Arrow productions and general items of interest to state right buyers. The bulletin will be mailed gratis to state right exchange men and it is expected will simplify at least the matter of negotiation by correspondence.

A reversal of the generally accepted method of territorial division has also been inaugurated by Dr. Shallenberger so as to call for the use of a minimum number of prints of each attraction instead of the maximum.

"The reason for this," said Dr. Shallenberger, "is my belief that exchanges should be protected in the amount they invest in a production. It is better that an exchange keep one of two prints continually working and pass up a few bookings rather than buy or be compelled to buy three or four prints each working half time. If the demand for a production compels the use of additional prints, then the exchange will, of course, guide itself accordingly."



Col. Ruppert Talks on Plans

Baseball Magnate Gives Interesting Statement Regarding Plans and Aims for Film Clearing House

REGARDING his plans and aims for a Film Clearing House, Colonel Jacob Ruppert gives out the following statement:

"I am particularly impressed with the fact that there appears to be a great overproduction in the motion picture industry at the present time of undesirable and unpopular material. I judge that the material is unpopular because of the reports which have been made to me of the quantity of film which remained idle and unrented. The same reason indicates the undesirability of such product.

"One of the great things which will be accomplished for the motion picture industry by the Clearing House is that the Clearing House will greatly diminish the overproduction with which the industry is at present afflicted.

"One of the chief causes of over-production at the present time is the fact that a national distributing organization cannot be supported unless it has an adequate and continual flow of product to distribute and rent. When a single national distributing organization and rental force can only draw upon the product of one producer the volume of that product must necessarily be very great in order to support the organization.

"When the Clearing House is in full operation the producer will no longer be obliged to worry about producing a sufficient quantity of pictures to support a distributing organization of his own. The volume of business which the Clearing House is certain to do relieves each individual producer of the large expense which is an incident of maintaining the national distributing organization devoted to the distribution of a single product.

"The Clearing House will afford the producer the opportunity to catch his breath. It will relieve the producer of the tremendous strain and financial burden which results from the continuous production of pictures on a schedule or program basis. It will improve the quality of the production.

"The plan will give the producers more time to find and produce better stories. In my judgment fewer releases, better made, will earn more money for the makers. The plan will also eliminate to a great degree the waste and extravagance which always results from this type of overproduction."

Col. Jacob Ruppert, Who Has Decided to Enter the Motion Picture Industry

When asked if he or the Film Clearing House had any connection with the supposed $100,000,000 corporation described in a recent issue of one of the trade papers, Colonel Ruppert said:

"This is the first I have heard of any proposed merger or consolidation of exchanges. The Clearing House has no connection with any such proposal. We are entirely unaffiliated with any existing distributing system.

"The Clearing House has not been formed for the purpose of serving any particular concern or interest in the motion picture industry. Its purpose is to handle the physical end of distribution of films and paper for all of those who have such material for distribution and rental."

Tourneur Completes Drury Lane Melodrama

Maurice Tourneur announces the completion of his screen version of the Drury Lane melodrama, "Sporting Life." Hiller and Wilk, Inc., will handle the exploitation and sales of this independent production by Mr. Tourneur's own company. Director Tourneur after the completion of his first independent production, commenced work on another special feature, the title to which has not been announced.

W. H. Re-Issues Bring Good Reports

W. H. Productions Company announces that there is a big demand for the series two reel Shorty Hamilton comedy re-issues, and the series of a single-reel Fatty Arbuckle Comedies, and the series of Bessie Barriscale super-features. A number of territories have already been disposed of for these subjects, and according to the exchanges, W. H. Productions product is meeting with the approval of the public.

Mr. Weiland, president of the Standard Film Company of Pittsburgh, which controls the rights to Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, writes: "I have been in the film business a number of years, but am frank to say that these re-issues are getting more money, not only for the exchanges but for exhibitors in this section of the country than a great majority of the new productions."

McMahan Jackson of Cincinnati, Ohio, write: "You will no doubt be interested to know that the series of Keystone comedies which we control for this territory is not only proving to be a life saver for a great number of the smaller exhibitors, but a great majority of the large and first run houses have contracted for the entire series."

E. H. Engler of E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga., says: "Your series of Shorty Hamilton two-reel Western comedy dramas which I control for this territory, is bringing more than the expected results. In a number of cases they are being featured in preference to the longer subjects."

Capitol Company's First Release Soon

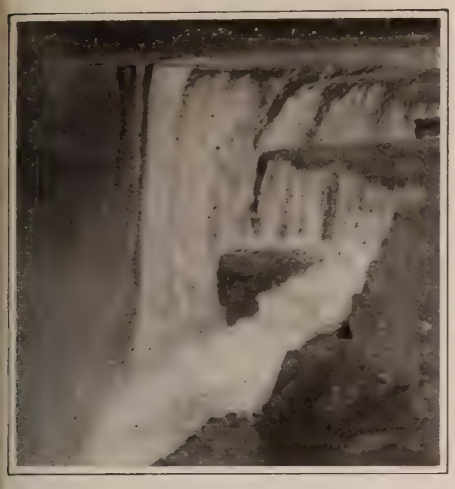
Ike Schlank, president and general manager of the Capital Film Company, with headquarters in Indianapolis, incorporated under the laws of Indiana, announces that the first release of the company will be offered within a short time. The company will limit its output to one, two and three-reel subjects.

American Standard Adds Two to Program

William Stoermer, general sales manager, the American Standard Motion Picture Corporation announces the following addition to the Company's program: "Hearts Aflame," in four reels, starring Marie Stewart, and "Shattered Souls," featuring Arthur Donaldson, also a four reel subject.

Shipman Reports Progress in West

Ernest Shipman reports from Los Angeles to his New York office that several independent productions have been taken over by him for exploitation on the state rights market. He also reports that a new arrangement has been entered into between the W. H. Clifford Photoplay Company, Inc., and himself and that the fourth and fifth releases of the Shorty Hamilton series have been completed and that their release dates will be announced shortly.



Scene from "Kareteur," Outing-Chester Film, Through Mutual Film Corporation

Parsons Comedies Go to Loew Theatres

"Smiling Bill" Parsons, comedian of the screen, is shortly to project his beaming cinema presence upon the gaze of audiences in about thirty Loew theatres in Greater New York. The Loew offices have contracted with Goldwyn, which distributes the Capitol Comedies in which Parsons is the star, for 110 days booking in their New York City and nearby houses.

Four of the Parsons comedies already have been released, but the Loew houses will start the first, "Bill's Baby," and follow it with "Bill's Predicament," "Birds of a Feather" and "Matching Billy," thereafter keeping pace with the releases as they come along every two weeks.

At the Newark theatre, in Newark, N. J., Manager McNulty reports success with the comedies featuring Parsons as a new and pleasing screen personality. All of the Capitol Comedies used there so far have been run a full week with the feature picture. Ben Leo, manager of the Washington theatre, New York City, and Manager Woodhull, of the Baker Opera House, Dover, Del., find the comedies well liked.

Raver's "Outwitting the Hun" Liked

"Outwitting the Hun," a three-reel novelty feature which Harry Raver imported from Italy, is meeting with big success in the cities where it has been shown. Reports from the Strand Theatre, New York, indicate that it was received with enthusiasm by large audiences. Mr. Raver says that he hopes to establish a precedent in the fact that a three-reel feature can be exploited with the same degree of success as a five-reeler.

Gagnon Reports Good on "Mothers of Men"

Ernest E. Gagnon, representing California Motion Picture Enterprise, with offices in Los Angeles, Dallas and Atlanta, dropped off in New York last week after a trip through the country. He reports business good. Mr. Gagnon is exploiting "Mothers of Men" in the Southern territory.

THE INDEPENDENT FIELD TICKER

Territorial Sales Reported During the Past Week

Production	Buyer	Territory
Series of Jester Comedies (Jester Comedy Company)	L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle	Washington, Oregon, Montana, Northern Idaho, Alaska.
Series of Jester Comedies (Jester Comedy Company)	Variety Pictures Corporation, Baltimore	District of Columbia, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia.
Series of Jester Comedies (Jester Comedy Company)	United Program Film Service, St. Louis	Southern Illinois, Eastern Missouri.
Series of Jester Comedies (Jester Comedy Company)	J. W. Leigh, New Orleans	Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi.
Series of Jester Comedies (Jester Comedy Company)	Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas	Texas, Oklahoma.
"Mothers of Liberty"	California Motion Picture Enterprise	Georgia, Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana.

State Rights Distributors Change Policy

AT a recent meeting of the State Rights Distributors, Inc., a change in the policy of the organization was instituted. By this change the obligation of its members to accept purchases of the Buying Committee, has been rendered null and void. A system was adopted whereby each member of the organization shall have a voice in the purchasing of features.

In developing the new idea, plans have been adopted to cover possible instances where, at some future time, some members for local reasons may be unwilling to join in a collective purchase. In such an event, any group of members that may be anxious and willing to proceed, will have the privilege of forming a syndicate among themselves for the purpose of taking over either the negative rights, or the rights to a large portion of the territory.

As heretofore, the Home Office of the organization in the Longacre Building, will continue to conduct itself in the capacity of New York headquarters of all members, handling all the matters of interest to them.

Following is a list of the organization's members: S. L. Lesser, San Francisco, Cal., holding the franchise for California, Nevada and Arizona; B. S. Cohen, Four square Pictures, Inc. of Denver, Col., controlling the franchise for Wyoming, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico; H. L. Dollman, Doll-Van Film Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind., controlling the franchise for Illinois and Indiana; M. R. Rosenberg, De Luxe Feature Film Co. of Seattle, Wash., controlling Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana; L. D. Netter, Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland, Ohio, controlling Ohio and Kentucky; Harry F. Grelle, Supreme Photoplay Productions, Pittsburgh, Pa., controlling Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia; Sydney B. Lust, Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C., controlling Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia; Nathan Hirsh, Pioneer Film Corporation, New York City; J. J. Allen, Famous Players Film Service, Toronto, Canada, controlling the Dominion of Canada, and Arthur S. Hyman, Dawn Masterplay Co., controlling the Michigan franchise.

Fullman Represents Stoll

It was announced in New York this week that The Stoll Film Company of London, England, has appointed Arthur L. Fullman, of 302 Broadway, New York, its American representative.

One of the Scenes in the Dwight L. Elmendorf Pictures of Italy, to Be Released by Educational Films Corporation

Why and Wherefore of Re-Issues

By W. E. Shallenberger

(Arrow Film Corporation)

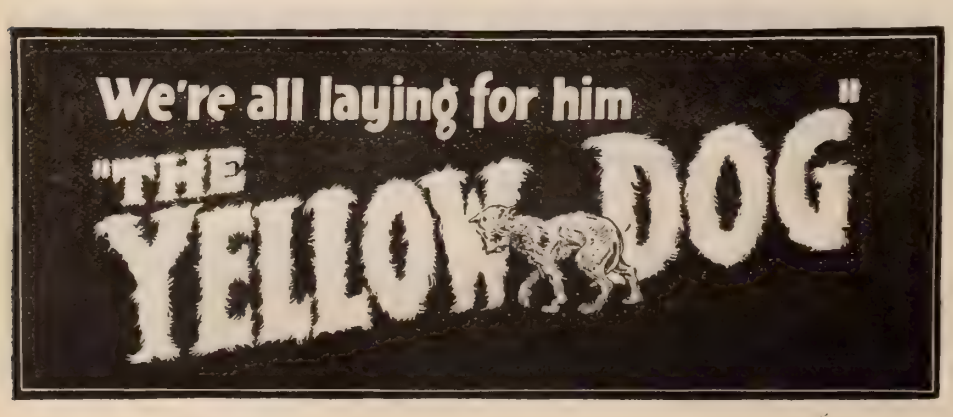
The question of business exigency, as well as business ethics, has been raised in connection with the re-issuing of photoplays and a slight flurry has arisen caused by exponents and objectionists to the recirculation of productions that have once been issued and then withdrawn from the market.

But to use a once popular, trite saying, "There's a Reason." Re-issues have, in fact, been a demand on the part of exhibitors, the reasons being, as I view them, because of the fact that present day popular cinema artists, whose reputations and popularity were given birth to by reason of their work in the early subjects of their motion picture activity in short length productions, now appear only in larger productions that are expensive to book. Producers now confine their activities mostly to 5, 6 or 7 reels, expending their greatest endeavors on these extra length attractions. It is as expensive today to produce a two-reel production as it was to produce a five-reel attraction two or three years back. The same amount of endeavor was put into these earlier short length attractions as is now put into the average five-reel feature and, finally, the opportunity to the exhibitor to play a popular star in a short length production at a cheap price is, in some instances, the salvation for the exhibitor in overcoming a burdensome rental account.

But the ethics of the practice of re-issuing has been violated in some instances. Just as long as re-issues are advertised as such without an attempt to fool either the exhibitor or the public in the belief that these are new productions, there can be no objection to the practice. But, in order to give the exhibitor and the public the full benefit of a re-issued motion picture, that is to say, in order to bring the attractions up to the last minute standards, re-issued photoplays should be retitled and re-edited.

There are few short length productions that cannot be recut, re-edited and retitled so as to make them just as attractive as though they were produced now in their entirety. Manufacturers are, therefore, justified and should be encouraged in re-issuing meritorius attractions just as there are popular, legitimate attractions rewritten in part and restaged to meet 1918 standards of the public.

Take, for instance, the re-issue of the J. Warren Kerrigan short length productions and the Allison-Lockwood five-reel productions. Is it to be maintained that the work of these stars is any the less entertaining two years back than they are today? If a theatre can book such re-issues as such, at a decided saving, why should the owners of the old negatives be discouraged from reaping their just rewards because another producing concern may have since contracted for the services of such stars? It might also be said by paraphrasing a once famous remark, "New productions may come and new productions may go, but meritorious re-issues will live on forever."



Horwitz Buys Foursquare Exchange

Joe Horwitz, New York, concluded arrangements last week whereby he becomes a half owner of the Foursquare Exchange in Cleveland. Mr. Horwitz also owns the Detroit Foursquare and will make his headquarters in that city, spending Friday and Saturday of each week in Cleveland. He has appointed Eddie Fontaine, manager of the Pathe Exchange in Detroit, in charge of the Cleveland office.

"Stolen Orders" Moves

"Stolen Orders," William A. Brady's melodramatic spy drama which has been running at the Park theatre, Columbus Circle, has been moved to the Lyric theatre, 42d street. It will run at the Lyric indefinitely. Mr. Brady announces that he will show this picture at Poli's theatre, Washington, D. C., for one week, beginning Sunday, July 7.

Clara Kimball Young, Select Star, Now Producing in California

THE CENTRAL STATES

WISCONSIN ILLINOIS MICHIGAN INDIANA IOWA

Confidence Helps Us All

¶ The following short but to-the-point note from a Central States Amusement corporation is a splendid example of the spirit that has helped build up this section of MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

¶ The note said: I consider your opinion of the various features on the market the best yet, and shall not hesitate to take hold of anything that gets a favorable report in MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

¶ And it was signed by McKinney and Palmer Amusement Company, Washington, Ind.

We Get Lots Like It

THE CENTRAL STATES

July 13, 1918

Bee Hive Adds Quantity and Quality to Activities

THE Bee Hive Exchange in Chicago has added some more quantity and quality to their distribution activities for the central west States. R. C. Cropper, manager of the Bee Hive, last week closed a deal with E. W. Hammons, of the Educational Film Corporation, to distribute five of their subjects in Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin. The rights for the distribution are exclusive and Mr. Hammons himself came on to Chicago to close the negotiations with Mr. Cropper.

The Educational releases to be handled by the Bee Hive are the Bruce Scenics; Newman's Wonder Travel Pictures; Ditmar's Animal Pictures; the Katzenjammer and Happy Hooligan cartoon comedies, and the series of twelve of Wright's "Mexico To-Day."

Mr. Cropper was very much elated over the securing of the distribution rights for these subjects. A silent compliment paid to the Bee Hive Exchange was the fact that Mr. Hammons had turned down the offers of several ofher central west exchanges seeking the rights. With their Billy Wests and "Song Hits in Photoplays" releases the Bee Hive is now releasing on an average of 25 reels a week. The acquisition of the Educational releases now makes the Bee Hive Exchange stand out alone in the Chicago territory as a house of short feature subjects.

Mr. Cropper has banked all his hopes and plans on the success of the short subject for the future and what he has to say briefly on it is very interesting. "No more features for me," said he. "I have every confidence that the short subject is coming to be recognized as greatly essential by exhibitors and I am even sanguine enough to look forward to it as being able to supersede the feature. Right now exhibitors who are handling my subjects, such as the Billy Wests and 'Song Hits in Photoplays,' are featuring them on their programs. It is only the backward, losing exhibitor who considers a good short subject a filler nowadays."

Kurtz Becomes Organist at Clinton, Iowa

K. G. KURTZ, who for five years has been teaching and demonstrating for the Bartola Musical Instrument Co. at their Chicago office and display rooms, leaves that organization on August 1st. Mr. Kurtz, well and popularly known throughout the whole central west territory as a wizard on the Bartola, will become the organist at the Amusu theatre, Clinton, Ia. The Amusu is conducted by Norman Samish and Mr. Kurtz will also have an interest in the theatre. The orchestra at the Amusu is one of the latest type Bartolas.

Kurtz before taking up teaching and demonstrating on the Bartola was a member of a well known musical act in vaudeville, the Burratt Bros. He has been withe Bartola Company almost since its inception, and has played on every type of instrument that has evoluted through the skilled hands of Bartola makers all the way from the first model to the present top notch orchestra today, the $10,000 De Luxe.

Funkhouser Trial Avoids Censor Talk

THE TRIAL of Major Funkhouser, who was suspended, as second deputy police commissioner and motion picture censor, a month ago, proceeded all during last week at Chicago before the civil service commission. Not once during the entire week was any reference made to his activities as censor of motion pictures. The charges all concerned his maladministration as moral supervisor. The story of the trial is one of sordid acquisition against the Major by acting Chief Alcock and other witnesses alleging misuse of police funds and the police force is carrying out the duties of his office. It is expected that some time during this week, near the finish of the hearing, a reference may be made to his odious activities as censor of Chicago's motion pictures.

Sherry Service Opens in Chicago

THE William L. Sherry Service is opening a Chicago office. The new quarters will be at Room 404, Consumer's Building. Howard F. Brink, one of the well known veteran film men, is to be in charge of the office and he is at present in Chicago directing the work of opening the office.

They will handle special productions, starting with the Kinney Productions. Other branch offices are to be opened in Detroit, Minneapolis, and Kansas City. Before coming here Mr. Brink was general sales manager for Paramount at Buffalo.

Dawn Buys Griffith Film

WHAT is said to be the biggest deal in state right features ever recorded in Michigan is the sale of David W. Griffith's picture, "Hearts of the World," to the Dawn Masterplay Company, of Detroit.

With Milwaukee Film Men

JUNE CAPRICE in "Miss U. S. A.," is playing a three-day engagement at the Princess theatre. She followed W. S. Hart in "Between Men."

ON Tuesday of last week Leo Brownski of the Lincoln theatre, bought five hundred dollars worth of War Savings Stamps.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS drew packed houses at the Alhambra theatre, the fore part of last week. On Thursday, Wallace Reid started a three-day engagement in the "Firefly of France." Both bills were supplemented with community singing.

JAKE DISCH of Cudahy, paid a short visit to the city last week. He signed up a number of features for his theatre.

WILLIAM FARNUM was a whole week at the Strand theatre, in "True Blue."

FLOSSIE JONES of Waukesha, one of the leading woman exhibitors of the country, came into the city last week and booked the star series of Paramount for the fall season.

"THE PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK" played to packed houses at the Butterfly theatre, last week. Sir Forbes-Robertson is proving an attractive figure to the patrons of the theatre.

MIKE KAHN of the Quality Film Service, reports that through the assistance of D. O. Reese, sales manager of the "Song Hits in Photoplay, who stopped here on his way to New York from the coast, that at present there are twenty-four houses lined up for the features. The Sax theatres will run the downtown section, and the rest are outlying theatres. Mr. Reese reports that the entire United States is now sold on the songs.

"OVER THE TOP," featuring Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey, went over big at the Davidson theatre, last week.

BERT WINNINGER of the Winninger Players of Sheboygan, was in town last week and signed up for a three-day run of "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin."

EMMY WEHLEN had a very good run at the Merrill theatre in the "House of Gold. On Thursday, Alice Joyce came for a three-day run, in "Find the Woman."

THE Mirimar theatre closed recently, for remodeling and redecoration and opened again the first week in July; under the management of R. C. Wheeler, manager of the Downer.

THE Milwaukee Exhibitors' Club has bought "The Garden of Allah," "The Crisis," and the Shorty Hamilton features, for the members of its circuit.

ED. TRINZ formerly the manager of the Avenue theatre of this city, will shortly go to Chicago where he will manage the Vitagraph theatre, in the interests of Lubliner and Trinz.

AFTER a three weeks' fishing trip, Frank Trottmann, manager of the Gem and Greenfield theatres, sent an eight-ounce fish to his friends.

THE State theatre has closed for three weeks, in order to make extensive improvements and to redecorate.

R. CUMMINGS, manager of three houses in Oshkosh, was in town last week and booked a number of pictures.

THIS week, the Strand theatre will run "My Own United States" for a full week's run. Beginning the first of September the Strand will run the entire Metro program.

DAVE FEINBERG, manager of the Modjeska theatre, made a short trip to Chicago last week.

THE quarters of the Milkaukee Exhibitors' Club are undergoing extensive alterations. The inner office is being made much larger.

ALTHOUGH "To Hell With the Kaiser" not yet been released, the local branch of the Metro has been swamped with orders of bookings.

B. BRISTOL, bookkeeper for the local branch of the Metro, left for camp last week, with the new National Army.

"REDEMPTION," featuring Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, and "Raffles," featuring John Barrymore, have been secured by the Milwaukee Exhibitors' Club for exclusive showings in southern Wisconsin. Although there has been no publicity given them since the purchase, Manager Tanzer announces that he has had at least eighteen inquiries as to bookings.

THE Milwaukee Exhibitors' Club has engaged three singers to accompany the "Song Hits in Photoplay."

EMILY STEVENS is fast growing in popularity with Milwaukee audiences. She returned to the Merrill theatre on Sunday, in "A Man's World."

In Springfield Theatres

GEORGE RIGRDAN, local manager for the Majestic theatre, is in Chicago enjoying a brief vacation. The theatre will be dark until August 11.

GEORGE M. COHAN made a big hit with fans in "Hit-the-Trail Holliday" at the Gaiety. The drys here were tickled to death with the play this being a very dry town, while the wets did not take to the picture so kindly.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS in "Say, Young Fellow," and "Fatty" Arbuckle in "Good Night Nurse," came to the Gaiety on June 30 for four days. The Vaudette offered Enid Bennett in "A Desert Wooing" on the same four days.

BEN ROVIN has booked the "Lonesome Luke" comedies for the Amuse-U. Clara Kimball Young in "The Claw" will come to the Lyric on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 27, 28 and 29.

VIRGINIA PEARSON in "The Firebrand" and "The Riders of the Night" with Viola Dana played to usual business at the Lyric, June 17, 18 and 19.

THE LYRIC has booked Universal Current Events and Universal News Weekly. The Princess has Hearst-Pathe News and the Vaudette uses Mutual's Screen Telegram.

"THE PLANTER" opened a three days' run at the Princess on June 23 and had a fair day. Other openings on this date were George M. Cohan at the Gaiety in "Hit-the-Trail Holliday"; Pauline Frederick in "Her Final Reckoning" at the Vaudette, and June Caprice in "Blue-Eyed Mary" at the Lyric.

WALTER GALE is now assistant manager at the Vaudette.

W. W. WATTS, owner of the Vaudette and Gaiety theatres, is planning to attend the Motion Picture Convention at Boston next month. Watts is the most active of down-town exhibitors and attends all the conventions with great regularity. He was state treasurer of the order for many years, refusing the office last spring at the Chicago meeting.

THE FOUR BIG DOWNTOWN HOUSES all have new chief operators, the old hands having left. The theatres have a contract with the operators which runs until 1919, so there was no grievance with the men who have gone out. It is rumored that the former employes are now seeking their old places, and that they will shortly make an effort to redeem them.

LINA CAVALIERI broke the Vaudette house record for poor attendance with "Love's Conquest." Manager Watts says that the four days seemed like four years in Germany..

"THE GRAIN OF DUST," in which Lillian Walker is starred, had three good days at the Princess. Patrons were very lavish in praise of this picture. Kitty Gordon followed in "The Interloper" on June 19 and 20, and Bessie Barriscale came on the 21st and 22d in "The Rose o' Paradise." Business was just a trifle off the last of the week. The sixteenth episode of "The Eagle's Eye" will be due at the Princess June 26 and 27.

ALMA RUBENS made quite a hit in "Madame Sphinx," a Triangle play shown at the Gaiety on June 21 and 22. "Love Loops the Loop," a Mack Sennett comedy with Mary Thurman and Charlie Murray, was also on the bill and kept the house in an uproar.

"UP THE ROAD WITH SALLIE," Constance Talmadge's Select picture, pleased big crowds at the Lyric on June 20, 21 and 22.

MISS RUTH NAYLOR, a Springfield young woman, who has appeared in Goldwyn pictures, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Taylor, 619 South Fifth street.

THE GAIETY THEATRE scored a hit with "Old Wives for New," De Mille's Artcraft picture. Manager Thornton held the picture over one day longer than booked and had a fine business. The picture opened on June 16, one of the hottest days ever seen here, and played to fair business. It turned cool on Monday and the crowds got bigger every day for the next four, so the management was very much pleased with the outcome.

"MISSING," Paramount picture, had three very fair days at the Vaudette June 13, 14 and 15.

ARE YOU USING THE NATIONAL MAGIC PROJECTOR CARBON
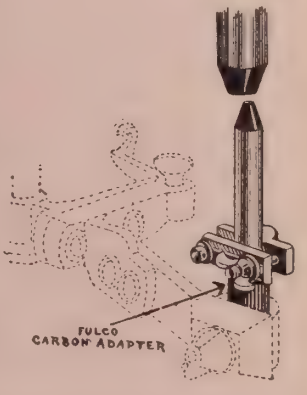
FOR DIRECT CURRENT ONLY
OR
THE NATIONAL WHITE A. C. SPECIAL CARBON
FOR ALTERNATING CURRENT ONLY
THE USE OF THESE SPECIAL CARBONS WILL IMPROVE YOUR PROJECTION
WE ARE THE LARGEST DISTRIBUTORS OF THE NATIONAL CARBONS IN THE COUNTRY
ALL SIZES CARRIED IN STOCK

FULCO

Carbon Adapters.....$.50 each
For Silvertip Carbons
Carbon Savers.....1.00 each
Super Carbon Saver, extra large, extra heavy for heavy amperage ....1.50 each



Chicago Branch
UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORP'N
R. H. FULTON, Manager
512 South Wabash Avenue

BEN ROVIN announces that he has booked Metro pictures, Salesman Reilly from the Chicago office having secured Ben's signature to the contract for the Amuse-U. Ben also announces that from now on he is "off" serials, and thinks that they do a house like his no good. "The Hell Hound of Alaska" played the Amuse-U Saturday, June 22, and Ben stood them up all day. Business continues top-notch at Ben's palace, and he says last week was the banner one of the year.

"THE COLD DECK" played to nice patronage at the Capitol June 22. Manager Maisel has good luck with the Hart plays, doing well every time. Robert Warwick was announced for June 27, the play being "The Argyle Case." "The Shoes that Danced," "Wild Sumac" and "The Hard Rock Breed" are Triangle plays that have been shown at the Capitol lately.

Gathered in Green Bay

MARY PICKFORD played a return engagement in "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm," at the Orpheum theatre, June 19-20, and drew big crowds. This film was shown last winter at the house.

WILLIAM DESMOND was seen in the five-reel Triangle film, "The Captain and His Soul," at the Royal theatre, June 25.

BESSIE BARRISCALE was the attraction, June 26, at the Colonial theatre in the Paralta picture, "Blindfolded."

GEORGE BEBAN played in the Paramount film, "Lost in Transit," at the Orpheum theatre, June 17-18.

THE Fox film, "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," featuring the Fox kiddies, pleased the children, and grown-ups, who attended the Orpheum, June 23.

WALLACE REID played in "The Hostage," a Paramount film, June 24-25, at the Orpheum theatre.

NORMA TALMADGE was seen June 24-25-26, in the feature production, "Martha's Vindication," at the Grand theatre.

"THE NARROW TRAIL," an Artcraft offering, with William S. Hart in the lead, was presented June 26-27, at the Orpheum theatre.

"SOCIAL BRIARS," a Mutual five-reeler, featuring Mary Miles Minter, proved a drawing card at the Colonial theatre, June 24-25.

JACK PICKFORD and Louise Huff appeared at the Orpheum theatre, June 21-22, in "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," a Paramount offering. The picture was well received by patrons.

TWO serials, Chapin's "Son of Democracy," and the Vitagraph "Vengeance and the Woman," which are running on the Orpheum's summer program, are winning favor with patrons. Four chapters of each serial have been shown since the first week in June. Large crowds have been attracted to the house by the films, according to Manager H. K. Timm.

They Say in Chicago That—

TED HARDCASTLE, now connected with the local Kleine offices, is out on the territory doing special work on "The Unbeliever."

W. SCHOUBBE, night shipping clerk of the Kleine Exchange, is the cause of another service star in the Kleine flag. Schoubbe was drafted last week and sent to South Carolina.

E. F. LESSNER, formerly of the advertising department of Rothacker Film Company, has joined the National Army, and was in Chicago last week on furlough. We were much surprised to see the stripes of a corporal on his arm and only can add, "More power to you." He is attached to the 15th Company, 161st Depot Brigade, Rockford, Ill.

THE DeBarri Scenic Company of this city, is making alterations and enlarging their plant for a new product. It is to be the manufacture of sets for motion picture theatres.

B. W. ALBERT, booker at the local Goldwyn Exchange, has been called to the National Army. He is stationed at Atlanta, Ga.

AS we said before, T. W. Chatburn, manager of the local Vitagraph Exchange, wears a continual smile. One of the main reasons for this is, that "Chat" has already signed up four hundred days on "Over the Top."

THE Bryn Mawr theatre showed "Over the Top" June 23 and 24, to capacity houses. The Regent theatre did the same thing June 24 and 25.

MAY ALLISON stopped off a few hours in Chicago on her way to the coast.

J. R. GRAINGER, who has been handling the Fox showing of "Cleopatra" for the last couple of months, at the Colonial here, returns to the New York office this week. Jimmie renewed all his old friendships while here, and did every bit of business that could be done with "Cleo."

MANAGER BRINK, of the newly opened Sherry Exchange here, announces that their first picture for distribution, "A Romance of the Underworld," has been passed satisfactorily and that salesmen have already been started out through Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. Otto Allinger, former booker at the Central Film Company here, has joined the Sherry forces at their local exchange in the Consumers' Building.

"TO HELL WITH THE KAISER" will open for two weeks at the Playhouse on Michigan avenue, beginning July 7. Cress Smith, manager of the local Metro Exchange, plans to open Chicago's eyes with some new exploitation stunts during the run here.

W. G. MAXCY, head of the Bartola Musical Instdument Company, stopped off in Chicago last week on his way from Oshkosh for a short vacation at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks. He was accompanied by his wife. Both Mr. and Mrs. Maxcy are well-known whist players, and they will participate in the tournament to be held at Lake Placid.

A. G. SPENCER, formerly with Paramount and Triangle, is now a member of the sales staff of the local Metro office. George Wilson, formerly with Paramount, is also a new addition to the same sales staff.

SPRAGUE GREEN, salesman for the Bee Hive Exchange, after coming in off an extensive road trip through Illinois last week, reports that some exhibitors of the small towns are still using electric pianos as a balleyhoo.

GLENN HARPER, secretary of the Los Angeles Theatres Owners' Association there, stopped off in Chicago a day last week on his way back home, after attending the directorate meeting of the affiliated producers at New York.

E. J. SPARKS, of the S. A. Lynch Enterprises, has been moving around the central west territory for some time. He was last seen at Kansas City looking over the theatre prospects there.

This Is the New Location In Chicago of the Local Branch of United Theatre Equipment Company, 512 South Wabash. Ralph Fulton Is Manager

A. L. ABRAMS, vice-president of the American Photo Player Company, spent ten days doing intensive missionary work for the fotoplayer at St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, and other towns throughout that territory.

THIRTY theatres throughout Chicago were showing "Over the Top" for one, two or three days last week. The local Vitagraph office, through Manager Chatburn, combined with the managers of all these theatres in getting display space for their advertising in the daily papers. The "Evening Journal, "of June 22, carried a full half-page layout of theatres announcing "Over the Top" for the week to follow.

DOLL-VAN have placed "Hearts of the World" at the Mary Anderson theatre, Louisville, Ky., for a two-weeks' run. This is the final week of the showing there.

WM. BUCKLEY, director of Spanuth's Vod-A-Vil Movies, helped exploit the new pictures with a trip through Illinois visiting exhibitors.

EMMA COHEN, who took over the management of the Casino theatre, on West Madison street several months ago, has transformed the house from a hang-out for rough-necks to a genteel up-to-date respectable motion picture theatre. The Casino now has a reputation as being one of the best conducted houses in the Loop, and much of its patronage is made up of women.

MORRIS TAITUS, for the past two and one-half years head shipping clerk with Unity Photo Plays Company, has joined the National Army, and is stationed at Columbia, S. C.

D. O. REESE, formerly engaged in selling territorial rights for "Song Hits in Photo Play," is now connected with the Bee Hive Exchange here. He is selling "Song Hits" throughout the local territory for Mr. Cropper.

JOE RODERICK, former manager of the Universal Exchange of Milwaukee, is one of the latest of the Laemmle organization to join the National Army. Joe dropped into Chicago before going to camp, and said "Good-by" to all his friends.

KATHERINE MELCHER, who since the opening of the Paramount policy at the Auditorium theatre, played the organ there, has left and become organist at the Woodlawn theatre, the handsome new south-side house recently opened by A. Karzas.

H. A. SPANUTH, originator and maker of the Vod-A-Vil Movies, is selling his new product this week throughout Michigan and Indiana. We last heard of him closing contracts at Indianapolis.

H. A. VANDAWALKER, head of the Doll-Van Film Company here, has been forced to return the two Canadian sailors who were here on a furlough driving the Eskimo dog teams, Mr. Vandawalker has been using in connection with his "Carmen of the Klondike" picture. They are British Naval Reserve men, and their furlough had expired.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD," handled by Doll-Van in Indianapolis, played its second week at the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, last week. Business was reported bigger than the first week.

A. L. ABRAMS, of the local office of the American Photo Player Company, announces that the Rialto theatre, at Spartanburg, S. C., have installed a fotoplayer.

MILTON SIMON, former manager at Indianapolis for the United Picture Theatres Corporation, is now on the local Goldwyn sales staff.

J. S. MEDNIKOW, salesman-chief for the Celebrated Photo Plays Company, has returned from a trip through Illinois. "Med" reports a number of the houses in small towns closing because of the hot weather and daylight saving law.

PHIL SOLOMON is doing some special service work for Kleine's "Unbeliever" this week throughout Illinois.

CELEBRATED PHOTOPLAYS began releasing their newly-acquired Gaumont picture last week.

DOROTHY GISH and Madge Kennedy were screen star visitors in the Breezy Burg for a day last week. Miss Gish and her mother are on their way East. Madge Kennedy came on from the East to join her husband, Harold Bolster, of Goldwyn, who has been here for the last ten days.

THE BIJOU DREAM on South State street played "Cecilia of the Pink Roses." They showed their enterprise in selling the picture to the public with a beautiful lobby decoration of artificial roses. Even the big display posters outside of the theatre were bordered with fresh-looking roses, and the name of the picture was outlined in the blooms.

WALTER ALTAND and T. H. McMillan, who sell Four Square products for different territory, left the Chicago office last week for a trip through Illinois and Indiana.

FINN AND HYMAN, after seeing four episodes of Vitagraph's new serial, "The Fight for Millions," booked it for their string of houses in Milwaukee, Decatur, Champaign, Moline, Madison, Aock Island and Davenport. Therefore, was the smile on Manager Chatburn's physiog when we entered his office one day last week.

FOR SALE—Lease on beautiful one thousand seat theatre. For sale cheap. Illinois town, 40,000 population. Answer C. A. J., care of Motion Picture News, Chicago Office.

Dubuque News and Views

"OVER THE TOP" completed a highly satisfying four days' run at the Grand, during the week of June 23 and will long be remembered as one of the most wonderful pictures ever witnessed in this city.

"THE ITALIAN BATTLEFRONT," which was shown at the Majestic during the latter half of anniversary week (June 16 to 23), was held over on Sunday and shown in conjunction with a Charlie Chaplin jingle, "Chase Me, Charlie."

CARMEL MYERS was presented at the Family theatre, recently, in "The Girl in the Dark."

"THE BABY GRANDS," Jane and Katherine Lee, appeared at the Dreamland, Sunday and Monday of last week in a Fox production, "We Should Worry."

SUNDAY, June 23, marked the appearance of one of Dubuque's favorite actresses, Mary Fuller. She was presented with Lou Tellegen in "The Long Trail," at the Family theatre. The Family had a capacity house.

NELL SHIPMAN, in "The Girl from Beyond," was the feature shown at the Princess, June 23.

"THE HOUSE OF HATE," with Pearl White and Antonio Moreno, gives great promise of being a "ringer" serial for the Family theatre. The first and second episodes, shown June 17 and 24 respectively, were exceptionally well attended.

HARRY WILBUR of the Liberty, advertised the World feature, "Rasputin, the Black Monk," presented at his theatre, Wednesday, June 26, as the picture "with seven reels and seven stars." The advertisement did the work all O. K. and the Liberty had an extra good crowd.

WALLACE McDONALD and Claire Anderson pleased Dreamland audiences in "Mlle. Paulette."

"THE CAMOUFLAGE KISS," with "the sunshine girl," June Caprice, was not only the Sunday feature but also THE feature of the week at the Liberty theatre. Miss Caprice's photoplays never fail to draw a record crowd.

"THE CITY OF FADING LIGHTS," with Octavia Handworth, and an episode of "Vengeance and the Woman," were the program at the Liberty on June 24.

VIOLA DANA gladdened Dubuque fans in "Blue Jeans," shown at the Grand last week.

VIVIAN MARTIN is now having her inning in Dubuque. Her recent release, "The Petticoat Pilot," exhibited at the Princess, drew so well that Mr. Billos, the manager, in order to accommodate the crowds, was compelled to cut short the picture and keep his theatre open for half an hour beyond the usual closing time.

THE star of "Jules of the Strong Heart," George Beban, was welcomed at the Family theatre in "The Marcellini Millions."

THE Union Park theatre's special feature, last week, was a Bernstein production, "When Destiny Wills."

JACK PICKFORD and Vivian Martin in "The Girl at Home," went "big" at the Family, Tuesday, June 25.

ETHEL CLAYTON and Carlyle Blackwell were seen at the Liberty, Saturday, June 22, in "Broken Chains."

"THE BELGIAN," with Valentine Grant and Walker Whiteside, completed a successful two days' run at the Princess theatre, June 24 and 25.

"THE VORTEX," a Triangle, starring Mary Warren, was the attraction at the Liberty theatre, June 25.

SOME of the features to be shown at the Princess theatre during July are: "The Keys of the Righteous," with Enid Bennett; "Bachelor's Children," with Harry Morey; "The Knife," with Alice Brady; "The Spy," with Dustin Farnum; "The Secret of the Storm Country," with Norma Talmadge; "Hidden Pearls," with Sessue Hayakawa; "Things We Love," with Wallace Reid; "The Seven Swans," with Marguerite Clark; "The Danger Game," with Madge Kennedy; "His Mother's Boy," with Charles Ray and "The House of Glass," with Clara Kimball Young.

THE last episode of "The Seven Pearls," with Mollie King and Creighton Hale, was presented at the Liberty, June 28.

MARY GARDEN delighted Princess patrons, June 26 and 27, in "The Splendid Sinner."

GEORGE WALSH, in "The Pride of New York," was shown at the Dreamland theatre, June 26.

THE "big special" program at the Star theatre at Decorah, Iowa, shown June 27, consisted of a picture of our boys "over there," "Under the Stars and Stripes in France," "Out West," a Fatty Arbuckle two-act comedy, and another comedy, "The Movie Dummy." Other pictures presented that week were "Keys of the Righteous," with Enid Bennett, and "The Turn of a Card," with J. Warren Kerrigan.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL," shown at the Auditorium at Cuba City, Wis., is probably the most popular serial ever run at that theatre. Episode seven, "The Lion's Prey;" eight, "The Strands of Doom," and nine, "The Bridge of Death," attracted capacity houses there.

"THE PRIDE OF NEW YORK," with George Walsh, was the best-liked feature presented at the Crane at Monticello, Iowa. Other pictures run there, June 23 to June 30, were "Fuel of Life," with Belle Bennett; "Fools for Luck," with Taylor Holmes, "Thais," with Mary Garden, "Treasure Island," with the Fox Kiddies, and "The Regenerates," with Walt Whitman and Alma Rubens.

Directory of Chicago Exchanges and Supply Houses

RALPH O. PROCTOR
Division Manager

PATHE EXCHANGE

Consumer's Building

FRANK B. ROGERS
Branch Manager

RALPH BRADFORD
Manager
Triangle Distributing Corporation
Maller's Building
5 South Wabash Avenue.

H. J. BAYLEY
Manager
GOLDWYN
College Building, Chicago

FRANK J. FLAHERTY
Manager
FOUR SQUARE PICTURES
Incorporated
207 South Wabash Avenue

CRESS SMITH
Manager
METRO PICTURES CORPORATION
Maller's Building
5 South Wabash Avenue

CENTRAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
"In the Heart of the Film District"
FANS—FANS—FANS
606 Consumer's Building, Chicago

LOOK

WE have secured exclusive rights for distribution in this territory for all releases of the Educational Film Corporation, which will consist of the following releases each week:

BRUCE SCENICS BEAUTIFUL
NEWMAN'S WONDER TRAVEL PICTURES
DITMAR ANIMAL PICTURES
KATZENJAMMER and HAPPY HOOLIGAN CARTOON COMEDIES
WRIGHT'S MEXICO TODAY

NOW READY FOR BOOKING BY

"The House of Short Reel Specialties"

BEE HIVE EXCHANGE

220 South State Street Chicago, Ill.

Jay E. Sherwood, Manager of Grand Theatre in Madison, Wisconsin.

Indianapolis and Indiana Items

THE Park theatre has had its last week in pictures. According to Shafer Ziegler, lessee, the Park will close Saturday, June 29, not to reopen until the early autumn theatrical season. For years the Park has served the Indianapolis theatre-going public with high-class melodrama. It took on pictures for the summer season. Phil Brown is manager.

W. BENJAMIN, salesman for the Central Film Service Company of Indianapolis, is in the Bartholomew County Hospital, suffering from severe injuries sustained last week when his automobile plunged down an embankment leading to an iron bridge, several miles south of Columbus.

ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED Indianapolis News carriers were the guests last week, of Barton & Olson, summer lessees of English's theatre, and Henry Dollman, president of the Doll-Van Film Company, to see D. W. Griffith's photoplay production, "Hearts of the World," in its third week at English's. The carriers were in four different divisions, each division attending the performance on a different night.

S. BARRETT McCORMICK, managing director of the Circle theatre, is devoting a large part of his time to the War Savings Stamp drive in Indianapolis. He is chairman of the committee in charge of entertainment for the three central points of interest in the downtown business district. These three include the Battleship Indianapolis, constructed on Market street between the Circle and Pennsylvania street, at an expense of $2,500; the Kaiser's Bier, and the giant National Cash Register, erected on another public thoroughfare. The latter is an exact reproduction of a cash register three stories in height. At each one of these centers Mr. McCormick is marshaling theatrical talent to create enthusiasm in the drive.

C. W. McDANIEL of Chicago, has been placed in charge of the General Film Corporation's Indianapolis office to succeed Managers T. F. Holland and Hill, who were called into the National army. Mr. McDaniel is not a stranger to exhibitors in Indianapolis, for not much more than a year ago he worked out of Indianapolis for the General. He has started a new stunt in Indianapolis for the convenience of visiting exhibitors. He has arranged to hold special screenings of all new releases, Tuesday of each week, at the Colonial theatre, the General's first-run house in Indianapolis.

MANAGER BRISCO of the Princess theatre at Elwood, believes in word-of-mouth advertising along with his newspaper campaign. He has started the practice of delivering a short talk on his next showing at each performance. By taking material embraced in trade paper reviews he is able to arrange a strong appeal.

CARL ROSENBUSH, former manager of the Victory theatre at Union City, died last week of pneumonia at Camp Taylor. He was drafted early last spring. His father, H. G. Rosenbush, owner of the house, is managing the property himself.

RALPH O. PROCTOR, division manager of the Central states, for Pathe, at Chicago, visited Indianapolis last week, in an endeavor to assist R. S. Shrader, the local Pathe manager, in securing a location for new offices, in compliance with the recent film ordinance passed by the Indianapolis city council.

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC., a Delaware corporation, complied with the foreign corporation laws of the state of Indiana. E. W. Penrod, Indianapolis, is named as agent.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Mutual Film Corporation and V. H. Hodupp, Inc., who operated film exchanges in the Keystone Theatre and Wimmer Buildings, have notified Jacob H. Kilkene, director of the fire prevention bureau, that they will comply with the fire-prevention ordinance which provides that a film exchange shall not be operated in a building where there is a public assembly room. These companies have leased new quarters at 111 West Maryland street. G. B. Svenson, speaking for the Mutual, said, without doubt, the fire-prevention ordinance would greatly reduce fire hazards and danger in connection with the handling of films.

OWING to the length of the performance of "Hearts of the World," which opened at English's, the curtain rises at 2:05 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:05 o'clock in the evening. One of the predominating features of the presentation of this film is the orchestral score.

THE Doll-Van Film Corporation, Indianapolis, increased its capital stock from $50,000 to $150,000.

THE Blinn Theatre Company of Frankfort, has taken over the lease of the Star theatre in that city and will operate the house along with its other houses there. This company owns the leases of the Princess, Blinn and Royal.

J. H. CHRISTIE, of Scottsburg, manager of the Scenic theatre, has taken over the Dream theatre at Salem.

NAT BARACH, for more than a year manager of the Indianapolis World Film Corporation office, has been called to the colors.

R. J. MITCHELL of Petersburg, a prominent confectioner in southern Indiana, is constructing a new theatre with a seating capacity of 1,000. Petersburg has a population of 2,000.

THE American theatre, being constructed by A. Devoe, at Washington, is nearing completion. This house, which is to have a seating capacity of 700, is to be a showy little theatre.

A. M. JONES of Noblesville, who owns the lease on the U. S. theatre, in that city, has taken over the lease of the Wild Opera House, where he will show pictures and vaudeville.

THE Lyric theatre in Indianapolis, the leading Barton & Olson house, is committed to a strong program of pictures for the summer season. This house will use the Fox Big Six this summer.

Heard in Detroit

EDDIE MURPHY, of the Gladwin Park theatre, has booked "Shame" and also Paralta pictures through the General.

THE Monarch theatre, Midland, is now signed up for the entire series of Paralta Pictures.

CLAUD C. CLANCY, the new owner of the Gem theatre, Sheboygan, has contracted for Paralta pictures.

THE new Blackstone theatre, 30 Michigan avenue, Detroit, will open with "Shame" (General) on July 4th. A. D. Walstrom, the owner of this house, has signed a contract for Paralta Pictures.

M. S. BAILEY is certainly putting on a lot of business for Paralta Pictures. Among his latest in Detroit are the Eagle, Farnum, Bernhardt and Norwood theatres.

C. KAIN, of the Crystal theatre, Detroit, has leased the Willis theatre, at Willis and Hastings streets.

BOB PELTIER, of the Bijou theatre, Mt. Clemens, has booked Sousa and his band of sixty pieces for July 23 on a percentage arrangement, 75-25.

J. C. FISHMAN, of the Standard, announces that starting July 1st he will release a series of two-reel Western comedy dramas featuring Shorty Hamilton. There will be a new release every other week, altogether 16 pictures. "We expect to book them like wildfire," said Mr. Fishman. "Exhibitors are hungry for good short subjects, especially western."

THE NEW HOME THEATRE has opened for business. The opening attraction for two days was a Goldwyn picture—Mabel Normand in "The Floor Below." The following two days was shown "Mothers of Liberty," a Standard feature. George Hoffman will manage the new house, and has placed his son, George Hoffman, Jr., in charge of the old theatre, which is directly across the street.

LLOYD HAMMOND, salesman for the Mutual, was a convict last week—not in reality—just in motion pictures. Lloyd is taking an important part in the big feature being made in Detroit under the personal direction of Sidney M. Golden. H. N. Nelson is doing the photography. It will be completed in about three weeks. All the scenes are being taken right in Detroit.

THE BUSIEST EXCHANGE in Detroit the past two weeks has been the Dawn Masterplay quarters in the Owen building. The number of visitors there, the number of long-distance calls, telegrams and special delivery letters to that concern, indicate that the whole state has its eyes on the Dawn. The reason, of course, is "The Hearts of the World" and "Carmen of the Klondike," their newest acquisitions in the way of big features.

Among the visitors last week were Col. W. S. Butterfield, Edward Beatty, John Cuddihy of Calumet, Herb Weil, of Port Huron, Bob Peltier, Mt. Clemens, and Charles Seaman, of Grand Rapids.

EARL H. RATHBUN, son-in-law of Col. W. S. Butterfield of Battle Creek, and formerly with the State Film Co., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the quartermasters corps. Congratulations.

JOE VISGER, for a few months with the Paramount Exchange, Detroit, has been made a sergeant with Ambulance Co. 338 at Camp Custer. Sam H. Barrett, formerly with the Universal Exchange, is with the same division.

THE BIG REGENT THEATRE, Woodward and the Boulevard, did an immense business the first week under the new picture policy. The Dawn Masterplay Co. is operating the Regent for the summer. "The Whip" was the attraction the last half of the week and it proved a big drawing card. "Raffles" is the attraction the first half of this week while a double bill, consisting of Norma Talmadge and a Frank Keenan feature, will be the attractions the last half.

Prices at the Regent for the summer are 10 cents in the afternoon and 10 and 15 at night. The music is furnished by the big organ and a thirteen piece orchestra. The Regent is unquestionably giving the biggest show in Detroit for the money.

JACK MOWAT, manager of the Lincoln Square theatre, Detroit, which will open about September 1st, has booked "Carmen of the Klondike" for his first attraction and will keep it on an entire week. He is paying regular first-run money for this big feature, owned by the Dawn Masterplay Co. The Lincoln Square is at Fort and Junction avenues and will seat about 2,000 people on one floor.

MANAGER HYMAN, of the Dawn, announces the following state bookings on "Carmen of the Klondike"; Bijou, Mt. Clemens, four days; Bijou, Battle Creek, four days; Majestic Gardens, Grand Rapids, one week; Fuller, Kalamazoo, four days and Franklin, Saginaw, three days.

H. M. BERMAN, manager of the Jewel Productions, Inc., and Joe Snitzer, special representative for the Universal, were in Detroit last week conferring with W. D. Ward.

GLENN REITZEL, a young man of very pleasing personality, who started as office boy with the Dawn Masterplay Co. and then managing road shows for them, has been promoted to assistant manager. He well deserves the increased responsibilities and the increased remuneration. Congratulations, Glenn.

JOHN CUDDIHY, who operates the Calumet theatre, in Calumet, was in Detroit last week. He called at the Dawn Masterplay Exchange and booked "Hearts of the World" and "Carmen of the Klondike." Mr. Cuddihy is considered one of the real showmen in the upper country.

THE FILM ATTRACTIONS at the Miles theatre, Detroit, for the remainder of the summer will be divided between Fox and Metro. Manager Greening has booked the Big Six from Fox, and also five or six Metro pictures, some regular program and other Metro specials.

L. J. GARDINER, manager of the United Theatre Equipment Co., Detroit, says that Powers machines have been "selling like hot cakes the past thirty days." "As fast as they came in they were shipped out to exhibitors.

THE BLACKSTONE THEATRE, 30 Michigan avenue, Detroit, which opened July 4th, has been equipped by the United Theatre Equipment Co. with Powers Machines, and Gardiner's Velvet Gold Fibre Screen.

"MILLIONAIRE DOLLAR DOLLS," featuring the Dolly Sisters, a Big Metro special, will be shown at the Miles theatre, Detroit, week of July 9th.

FOR HIS SPLENDID BUSINESS on "The Unbeliever," A. J. Reed, of the George Kleine Exchange, Detroit, received a check last week being in the form of a "bonus" for himself and his employes.

The Detroit Exchange stands at the top of the Kleine offices for big business on "The Unbeliever."

Manager Reed reports that three prints are booked solid way into August.

"THE KAISER" is still booking exceptionally strong and everywhere it is doing a smashing business. "In all the years I have been connected with the business, I never remember a feature that had so many bookings and rebookings as 'The Kaiser,'" said Manager W. D. Ward, of the Universal. "I have yet to find an exhibitor who has not made money with it." Five prints of "The Kaiser" are working solidly out of the Detroit office.

News from Fond du Lac

WITH the house prices advanced to twenty-five cents, "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin" smashed all records at the Bijou theatre, at the opening performances, June 25. The house was packed to the doors at each performance and hundreds were turned away. The house record under the present management—ten years—was broken. Both matinee and evening performances on Wednesday, drew big crowds, with every indication that the demand would be such as to necessitate extending the run over another day. Manager Smith of the Bijou, is now putting out his advertising for Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany," which comes the middle of July.

FANNIE WARD, in "The Yellow Ticket," drew a splendid business at the Orpheum, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 24, 25 and 26.

MANAGER AINSWORTH of the Orpheum, presented Billy Burke in "The Land of Promise," Paramount picture, the first week in July.

ORPHEUM patrons who were unable to see the first of the new Chaplin comedy series, "A Dog's Life," when it was presented here, have been clamoring for a return engagement and Manager Ainsworth has let a willing ear to their demands. As a result, "A Dog's Life" is booked for a return date, July 21.

MANAGER AINSWORTH of the Orpheum, has booked "The Doctor and the Woman," Lois Weber's picture, for July 8, 9 and 10. Inasmuch as the cast is the same as that in "The Price of a Good Time," which made such a hit here recently, Mr. Ainsworth is anticipating a splendid patronage.

WILLIAM S. HART, idol of the Fond du Lac contingent of Young America, has accepted the presidency of a Fond du Lac organization, the X-Bar-B Club.

THE popularity of William S. Hart in "The Narrow Trail," necessitated a return date on Thursday, June 27, at the Orpheum.

THE L. D. Hinkley Circle, Waupun, Wis., is $55 ahead as the result of a benefit performance put on at the Scenic theatre recently. The money will be used in caring for a French soldier's orphan.

Saginaw Short Notes

CHARLES Q. CARLISLE, manager of the Mecca-Palace theatre of Saginaw, was very favorably impressed with the strong schedule of attractions for the coming year, presented by Paramount and Artcraft, in MOTION PICTURE NEWS of recent date. He was enthusiastic over the line-up, and declared he did not see how any manager could be otherwise with such possibilities before him. Needless to say, Mr. Carlisle is displaying these pictures in Saginaw. Among his recent offerings have been Vivian Martin, in "Viviette," "The Manxman;" Pauline Frederick, in "Rescurrection;" Billie Burke, in "Let's Get a Divorce," and Sessue Hayakawa, in "The White Man's Law."

GERARD'S "My Four Years in Germany" played a return engagement at the Franklin theatre, June 19, 20 and 21, before large crowds, at the popular prices of eleven cents for children and twenty-five cents for adults, including the war tax.

AMONG the attractions provided at the Bijou theatre of late, have been Ethel Clayton, in 'The Man Hunt;" William S. Hart, in "Truthful Tulliver;" Charles Richman and Mary Fuller, in "The Public Be Damned;" June Elvidge and John Bowers, in "A Woman of Redemption;" "Alimony," and Charles Richman and Anna Q. Nilsson, in "Over There."

RIVERSIDE PARK, Saginaw's summer amusement resort, has opened, and among the free attractions provided are motion pictures.

"TARZAN OF THE APES" was presented before two big audiences at the municipal Auditorium in Saginaw, Mich., June 24 and 25, under the auspices of Merlin Grotto. More than 2,000 were present for each performance, and the picture was booked for a return engagement on June 29 and 30, when it also did a big business. The municipal management brought the film back for the second appearance, and gave afternoon and evening performances.

What Racine Is Doing

BUSHMAN AND BAYNE, playing in "Social Quicksands," and the two Drews in a comedy, proved successful attractions at the Palace, Saturday, June 22. "The Boy Scout," starring Bobby Connelly, was shown at the afternoon performances for the benefit of the children.

"QUICK TRIGGERS," with Near Hart, and a Charlie Chaplin comedy, coupled with "Boy Scouts to the Rescue," made a good day's program at the Rex. The Boy Scouts of the city were admitted free of charge to all performances and turned out almost en masse to see the picture.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS drew to capacity at the Bijou in "Manhattan Madness," for one day. Carmel Myers, a new actress to Racine, was shown in "A Broadway Scandal," on Sunday, June 23, to good houses.

"THE SUBMARINE EYE," made by the Williamson Brothers, well advertised on billboard and in the newspapers, was shown at the Bijou for three days, beginning Tuesday, June 25. Jack Richardson, in "His Enemy—the Law," preceded the underwater picture on Monday.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN in "The Co-respondent," and Alic Howell in "Her Unmarried Life," constituted the Rex program, Sunday, June 23, and Ethel Clayton followed on Monday and Tuesday, in "The Man Hunt."

"THE TIGER MAN," with William S. Hart, was the attraction offered by the Palace theatre, Monday and Tuesday, June 24 and 25, and patrons of the picture house packed the place both days, to see it.

WITH the plasterers at work on the ceiling of the new Rialto theatre, the interior of the lobby is now receiving attention. Work on the balcony is practically finished, with the exception of the final touches, and the roofing has been laid.

With Lansing Exhibitors

EMPRESS THEATRE, which plays vaudeville and motion pictures in combination, played Edgar Rice Burrough's "Tarzan of the Apes," the week of June 16. Manager Neal billed the film in the smaller cities and villages for ten miles around about Lansing and did a good business with it.

PLAZA THEATRE has canceled "The Eagle's Eye" because of waning interest.

THE Vaudette theatre played "Civilization," the week of June 17, at five cents, profiting by the vogue the picture had when first shown for three days in one of the legitimate theatres and then in a return engagement at another local house, at which times prices were above the usual admission.

"PERSHING'S CRUSADERS," an official government war film, had its first showing in Lansing, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 23-25. A special filming for state and city officials at the Industrial School for Boys gained enthusiastic approval from officials and from the state's charges.

For the Pick of the Pictures

THE DOLL-VAN FILM CORPORATION

207 South Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Ill.
D. M. Vandawalker, Jr.
Vice-President

Merchant's Bank Bldg.
Indianapolis, Ind.
Henry Dollman
President

Apollo, Peoria, Breaks Records with "Over the Top"

THE Apollo theatre carried off honors in Peoria the week closing Saturday, June 22.

All former attendance records for an entire week were broken as persons flocked to the Apollo to see Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey in the screen version of "Over the Top." Every show during the day for the entire week was well attended and during the evening performances crowds were lined the full length of the lobby waiting to get seats. While many pictures shown for three days have drawn equal crowds, there has been none of an entire week to attain such a record.

Dee Robinson, manager of the Apollo, had his theatre in gala attire for the patriotic picture. The usual curtain drawn over the screen between shows was replaced by two large American flags, drawn back to form draperies during the showing of the film. In accordance with the custom when this picture is shown a box was placed in the lobby for patrons to donate smokes to the soldiers. Each day the box was filled, so the Sammies will have a warm spot in their hearts for the Apollo and its manager.

In addition to the patriotic play which was put on without an advance in price, the usual Apollo News Weekly was shown. One morning an early morning show was given especially for the soldiers at Camp Herring. Three hundred and fifty of them came to see the caterpillars in action and to obtain instruction from the films.

Capital Prepares to Announce First Film

ANNOUNCEMENT of the definite date when the Capital Film Company will begin its releases is to be made within the next two weeks. The president and general manager, Ike Schlank, has returned to the company's executive offices in Indianapolis after a tour of the Middle Western territory, and immediately declared himself to this effect. Mr. Schlank has been visiting the larger cities in the Middle West, engaged in supervising the establishing of the company's exchanges. Shortly his efforts in this respect will be transferred to the Eastern section of the country. "But in the meantime," Mr. Schlank announces, "we shall perfect our release plans and announce definitely the day of release." Construction of our studio and laboratories, though delayed, will not be much longer postponed. We are fortunate, though, in having on the fifty-acre tract we recently acquired some buildings which, with very little remodeling, can be used temporarily until the studio can be constructed.

The site of the Capital Film Company's new plant lies on the edge of the city of Indianapolis. In the centre of the fifty-acre tract is a huge mansion, with all the necessary surrounding buildings, and this can be used to splendid advantage. We are beginning, also, to assemble our players and staff of directors. The Capital, as has already been announced, will produce only one-reel, two-reel and three-reel pictures. The demand for these is growing daily and the company will devote all its resources to the business of supplying the demand.

Parex Opens Detroit Office

THE Parex Film Corporation is the latest film exchange to locate in Detroit. This concern will handle exclusively William L. Sherry pictures, the first being "A Romance of the Underworld," featuring Catherine Calvert. It will also have eight Doris Kenyon features, and a number of big pictures by Frank Keeney.

E. H. Wells has been appointed manager of the Detroit exchange which has opened for business at room 202 Film Building, occupying a part of the Mutual exchange.

MOTION PICTURE FILMS CLEANED BY HAND
New and Old Films CLEANED and CONSERVED
A. TEITEL
112 North La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois

Central States Edition Brings Results Promptly and Plentifully

Jay E. Sherwood, of Madison

JAY E. SHERWOOD, manager of the Grand theatre in Madison, is one of the leading men in the picture business in Wisconsin and yet one of the most modest. His picture is not familiar to the public, but he has consented to appear as a first release in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Mr. Sherwood opened the Grand about ten years ago and it was the first successful moving picture house established in the capital city and has always been one of the leaders. Since his first venture Mr. Sherwood has successfully managed the Fuller Opera House five summers with moving pictures, the Majestic, Olympic and Gem.

The first pictures ever shown in the state capital were put on by Mr. Sherwood when, eight years ago, he gave an exhibition to a joint session of the senate and assembly, two nights in the assembly chamber, thereby aiding in securing an appropriation for the University of Wisconsin Extension Division in establishing the visual instruction department in that institution.

Nine years ago Mr. Sherwood gave a series of free pictures in the Public Library, using such pictures as Lancelot and Elaine, Oliver Twist, etc., accompanied by lectures for the children. He has also given over fifty private exhibitions in schools, lodges and clubs in Madison.

During the past eight years all legislative matters affecting the moving picture exhibitors' business in Wisconsin have been handled by Mr. Sherwood and he had the satisfaction of killing in the committee room or on the floor of the legislature over thirty bills adverse to the moving picture industry. Furthermore, during that time not a single adverse bill has become a law.

Mr. Sherwood is past president of the Wisconsin Exhibitors' Association, vice-president of the Northwest Association of Minneapolis and is national vice-president for Wisconsin of the Moving Picture Exhibitors League of America. At present he is serving as state chairman of Wisconsin War Co-operation Committee and is a director in American Exhibitors.

Mr. Sherwood has always endeavored to uplift the moving picture business and has done much unselfish work in assisting his fellow exhibitors.

Don't You Remember?—In Chicago

CHICAGO has turned out more motion picture producers, managers and stars than any other city in the country. Ralph Kettering, publicity and advertising director of Jones, Ralph & Schaefer of Chicago, has determined to show them up in a series of short, terse reminiscences entitled, "Don't You Remember?" Here is the first of Mr. Kettering's harking back to the other days:

Don't You Remember When——
Louise Glaum played Naturich in "The Squawman"—in Chicago.
Howard Hickman married Bessie Barriscale—in Chicago.
C. Milford Giffin was with the Dearborn Stock company—in Chicago.
Richard Stanton played in "Conscience"—in Chicago.
Clara Kimball Young did "Jane Eyre"—in Chicago.
Elisha H. Calvert changed his name from Billy Helm—in Chicago.
Oscar Apfel played juveniles with Hunt's Stock company—in Chicago.
Thurston Hall was the matinee idol of the North Side—in Chicago.
Herbert Brenon thought he was a better actor than director—in Chicago.
Roland West had a corner on vaudeville acts for Loew—in Chicago.
Adolph Zukor was in the cloak business—in Chicago.
Jesse Lasky produced "girl acts"—in Chicago.
When William De Mille was better known than Cecil B.—in Chicago.
Bryant Washburn was a "rep" actor—in Chicago.
Kathlyn Williams made "Kathlyn" famous—in Chicago.
Lafayette McKee liked to act in stock—in Chicago.
Bessie Barriscale played "Lovely Mary"—in Chicago.
Aaron J. Jones first thought he was busy—in Chicago.
Nathan Ascher sold gloves—in Chicago.
Madge Kennedy played "Over Night"—in Chicago.

Dawn Masterplay Booking Big on "Hearts of the World"

The Dawn Masterplay Co. announce that the following theatres have already signed contracts to show "Hearts of the World," while others are still pending: Washington theatre, Detroit, indefinite engagement; Bijou, Mt. Clemens, four days; Martha Washington, Ypsilanti, three days; Palace, Flint, one week; Fuller, Kalamazoo, one week; Bijou, Battle Creek, one week; Franklin, Saginaw, one week, Orpheum, Jackson, one week; Bijou, Lansing, one week; Bijou, Bay City, one week; Majestic, Ann Arbor, one week; Majestic Gardens, Grand Rapids, one week; Calumet theatre, Calumet, one week; Ma-

THE WEST COAST

Summer Is Here

¶ Going to slow up because everybody says Summer days are dull days?

¶ Of course not!

¶ We hear you—you are going to redouble your efforts, going to sell twice as hard, because Summer is a time when a man's selling brains are put to the test.

¶ There's one sure way of getting double strength in your punches—back up your salesmen with advertising in The West Coast, back up your circular mail with advertising that is right alongside of the exhibitor's home news.

¶ Let the exhibitor know when your salesman enters that he is salesman for an exchange that has faith enough in its product to advertise it in the paper that

DOMINATES THE FIELD

Communications Pertaining to "The West Coast" Section Should Be Sent to Our
LOS ANGELES REPRESENTATIVE Telephone Pico 780, F 4661 429 SO. FIGUEROA STREET

THE WEST COAST

Lasky Dance and Carnival Big Success

APPROXIMATELY $9,000 was realized from the recent carnival and dance held at the big Lasky studio at Hollywood for the benefit of the Folks at Home Fund of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation West Coast studios. This handsome sum will be devoted to the care of the men of the studios who are now in the service of the United States and the dependents they have left behind. Although for several weeks the committees in charge of the big event had worked with a zeal that was inspirational for th success of the affair, even their most sanguine hopes were exceeded in the actual result.

Virtually every star of importance in California was present and did something to aid. Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Fred Stone, Clara Kimball Young, Dustin Farnum, Milton Sills, Doraldina, Charlie Chaplin, Constance Talmadge, Blanche Sweet, Mary Miles Minter, Louise Glaum, Lillian Gish, Mildred Harris, Carmel Myers, Bessie Love, Marjorie Daw, Pauline Starks, Elsa Lopez, Natalie Talmadge, Molly Malone, Eleanor Fields, Colleen Moore, Clara Kennedy, Edna Earle, Mary Charleson, Anna Walthall, Henry B. Walthall, Bryant Washburn, Earle Williams, Elliott Dexter, Edythe Chapman, Julia Faye, Edna Mae Cooper, Charley Murray, Roccoe Arbuckle, Billy Mason, Robert Harron, Alice Lake, Elmo Lincoln, May Kelso, Ruth Roland, Polly Moran, Jerry Dean, Louise Fazenda, Mary Thurman and dozens of others took part.

Jesse L. Lasky was present and made a speech and others who were conspicuous were Cecil B. De Mille, Milton E. Hoffman, Donald Crisp and Mme. Aldrich, who sang "The Star Spangled Banner." The business arrangements were largely in the hands of Fred Kley as treasurer. It was he who finally collected the money which will be placed in the fund for the ninety-one men in the service.

Director Lloyd Stages Big Entertainment

MEMBERS of the Submarine Base Training Station, numbering more than 3,000, at San Pedro, were given an excellent vaudeville entertainment under the auspices of the Stage Woman's War Relief, Tuesday evening, June 25, this being one of the series to be given here, one every three weeks. Mrs. Lillian Brockwell originated the plan and many members of the film colony are vitally interested.

The initial program was staged under the direction of Frank Lloyd, director of William Farnum at the William Fox studios, and contained eight acts. Harry McCoy told stories and played his own piano accompaniment; Tom Mix with his famous horse "Blue," did some fancy roping and gun play. Mme. Aldrich sang home songs, and the Fox string quarette gave two numbers. William Farnum, Dusting Farnum and Nancy Caswell presented the sketch as originally written "The Littlest Rebel." This is the first time the Farnum Brothers have ever appeared together in the same bill. Polly Moran, in evening clothes, sang paradies, and the program ended with the presentation of the Willard Mack sketch "Kick In," featuring Gladys Brockwell, supported by Herbert Hayes, Alfred Fremont and Dorothy Davenport.

For these entertainments, a big stage with complete lighting equipment, drops, sets and properties was finished by the William Fox studios, Manager Sol Wurtzel personally supervising the erection and equipment.

"Vengeance Is Mine" Completed

A PRODUCING company financed by Los Angeles men has just completed the filming of "Vengeance Is Mine," under the direction of Bert Bracken. The photoplay is from a story by Anthony Kelly, and will offer a noteworthy cast, including Mitchell Lewis, Tom Santchi, Margaret Landis, Vivian Rich, Goldie Goldwell and others. The film has a Northwestern mining atmosphere, and will consist of six or seven reels. The subject has been made for the state rights market.

Theda Bara and Her William Fox Company, As They Were Snapped While Filming "A Fool There Was"

Film Managers Give Benefit for Marines

A BENEFIT performance for the United States Marine Corps, which has untiringly assisted in all sorts of patriotic affairs in San Francisco during the past two years, was given in the Exposition Auditorium on Saturday evening, June 30, under the direction of a committee of film managers headed by M. J. Cohen of the George Kleine system. The Marine Corps band of eighty pieces gave a preliminary concert, which was followed by a vaudeville program.

Arrangements for the entertainment were made by a committee of which Colonel Lincoln Karmany, commander of the United States Marine Corps at Mare Island, was honorary chairman. The local film men, doing the active committee work under the direction of Chairman Cohen, were Louis Reichert, president of the United Motion Picture Industries of California; Sol L. Lesser, director California division, U. S. Official War Films; W. Harold Wilson, publicity director, California division, U. S. Official War Films; Newton Levi, Mutual Film Corporation; Benjamin Simpson, Triangle Distributing Corporation; Robert Drary, Alhambra theatre; Edward Baron, American Photoplayers; W. J. Citron, Fox Film Corporation; Louis R. Greenfield, Kahn & Greenfield Circuit; C. W. Midgley, American theatre, Oakland; James Beatty, San Jose, and A. H. Moore, U. C. Theatre, Berkeley.

War Service Association Incorporated

ARTICLES of incorporation have been filed by Motion Picture War Service Association, officers of which are named as follows: D. W. Griffith, chairman; Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Cecil B. De Mille, Douglas Fairbanks and Lois Weber, vice-chairmen; Mack Sennett, treasurer; S. E. V. Taylor, secretary. In addition to those above named, the incorporators named are Marguerite Clark, Theda Bara, Douglas Fairbanks, Wm. S. Hart, Jesse L. Lasky, J. Gordon Edwards, William Farnum, J. Searle Dauley, Morris Tourneur, Henry McRae, S. Rothapfel, William Fox and Frank E. Woods.

Grant Carpenter, who has been identified with West Coast newspapers for the past several years, has been selected as secretary to Chairman Griffith, and is now on a trip connected with the business of the association which will take him to Washington, D. C. Prior to his departure, Mr. Carpenter collected statistics concerning the industry from the producing, releasing and exhibiting angle, and these will be presented to officers of the Government, as well as army and navy, in the hope of getting the industry classed as an essential one.

William S. Hart At His Own Studio In Hollywood Is Just As Busy As a Director As He Is As An Actor. This Is a Set In "Riddle Gawne," Now In Production

Theatre Owners Discuss Vital Themes

MATTERS of intimate interest to the exhibitors of Southern California were discussed at the recent by-weekly meeting held in Los Angeles. The leading question which came up for discussion was that of protecting theatres from the showing of improper films, the interest having been aroused by an editorial appearing in a Los Angeles paper which set forth that fifty per cent. of the pictures shown are "cancerous."

Manager H. S. Lewis of the Hollywood theatre, was called upon to explain the co-operation he was giving the four minute men, and he read a portion from his weekly program, as follows: "Attention! Do you realize the importance of the messages which the Four Minute Men bring you? Do you know that they are the direct personal representatives of President Wilson? Prominent men in the community donating their time, energy and expenses to come and tell you that which you should know of what is being accomplished to win the war for you and me. Thirty-five thousand of them speaking in the United States every day. What they say is official. The Theatre Owners' Association of Southern California has given them the exclusive use of its theatres (90 per cent. of all theatres in the territory) for the duration of the war.

I ask you to come and hear what the President has to tell you—things which you must know of—and I ask you to please remain seated until the Four-Minute Man has finished speaking.

Mary Thurman, Polly Moran, Harry Gribbon and Charley Murray of the Mack Sennett Paramount Comedies were guests of the Association, and entertained while being entertained. All told stories, and Miss Moran promised to return at an early date and sing.

Hawkins Returns from Tour

FRANK J. HAWKINS, general manager of Haworth Productions, Inc., has returned from a tour of the country which took him to practically all leading distributing centres, where he arranged for first run bookings of films starring Hayakawa. Mr. Hawkins announces a change in the initial release date of the first Haworth Production from June 7th to September 1st. He admitted there were two or three distributing centres in which rights for the Haworth Productions had not been sold.

Denver, Colorado, Exchanges

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation
WALTER S. RAND, Manager
1440 Welton Street, Denver, Colo.

Metro Pictures Corporation
AND
Screen Classics Inc. Productions

Harry Lustig
Supervising Western Exchanges

Exchanges	Branch Manager
LOS ANGELES	HARRY G. BALLANCE
DENVER	CHARLES KLEIN
SALT LAKE CITY	A. B. LAMB
SEATTLE	CARL STEARN
SAN FRANCISCO	LOUIS REICHERT

DUHEM
MOTION PICTURE MFG. CO.
Films Made to Order
EXPERT DEVELOPING, PRINTING AND COLORING
CAMERA OUT-FITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED
CAMERA MEN SENT ANYWHERE
985 Market Street, San Francisco, California

Titles
Inserts
Commercial Printing
H. C. JACOBSMEYER CO.
Formerly
Motion Picture Title Co.
Bdwy 1153
Home 10525
631 S. Spring St.
Los Angeles.

CAMBRIA SPRING COMPANY
"Quality First"
Auto and Truck Springs, Wheels, Rims and Bumpers
General Blacksmithing
"Largest Spring Factory on the Pacific Coast"
Forging Made and Frames Straightened
Phones: Main 1076 Home F-5233 916-918 So. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, Cal.

MOUNTED POSTERS RENTED
5c Per Sheet
Southern California
Poster Rental Co.
804 South Olive Street
Los Angeles

Los Angeles Can Co.
Manufacturers of
FILM CASES
303 San Fernando Blvd.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Sunset East 389 Home 10689

THEATRE SETTINGS
We Have Installed Hundreds From $100 to $10,000 Each
BEST SCREENS, SCENERY
EDW. H. FLAGG SCENIC CO.
Largest in the World
Los Angeles San Francisco

WINFIELD-KERNER COMPANY
Established 1905
Manufacturers of Actinic Ray Arc Lamps for Motion Picture Producers and Photographers. Effect Lamps and equipment. Resistance and Magnet Coils made to order.
Phones: Pico 2646 A 2215
325-27 E. Sixth St., Los Angeles

Directory of Los Angeles Exchanges and Supply Houses

HARVEY E. GAUSMAN
Manager
Foursquare Pictures, Inc.
514 W. 8th St., Los Angeles, Cal.
or
So. Cal. and Ariz. Trade

IRVING LESSER
Manager
ALL STAR FEATURE DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
514 West Eighth Street

B. E. LOPER
Branch Manager
Select Pictures
736 South Olive Street

C. J. MARLEY
Branch Manager
Western Triangle Distributing Corporation
900-12 Knickerbocker Bldg.

Pacific Amusement Supply
Sole Southwest Dist. for
NICHOLAS POWER CO.
PRECISION MACHINE CO.
THOS. A. EDISON CO.
800 So. Olive Street

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT
J. J. HALSTEAD
Branch Manager
Marsh-Strong Building

H. F. CHARLES
District Manager
American Photo Player Co.
737 South Olive Street

Mutual Film Corp.
JOE MERRICK
Branch Manager
825-27 South Olive Street

Goldwyn Pictures
BENJAMIN FISH
Branch Manager 912 So. Olive Street

J. SLIPPER & CO.
Projecting Machines
Baird, Simplex, Motiographs
Hertner Transverter
Theatre Equipment and Supplies
728 South Olive Street
Write for Catalog

Perfection Pictures
Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
E. H. SILCOCKS
Branch Manager
209 Knickerbocker Building

Peerless Film Service, Inc.
Christie Comedies and Others
Two-Reel W. S. Hart Pictures
The Pick of Two-Reel Keystones
Twenty Six one and two-reel Charlie Chaplin Comedies
HARRY MacINTYRE, Mgr.
802 South Olive Street

M. & R. FEATURE FILM COMPANY
H. W. STUBBINS
Branch Manager
730 South Olive Street

EDWARD H. WATSON
District Manager
SUNSET FILM CORP.
Knickerbocker Building, L.A.
Fairbanks, Hart, Keenan and Talmadge subjects, and Evelyn Nesbit in Redemption

VITAGRAPH
So. California and Arizona
W. H. HEPBURN
Branch Manager
Knickerbocker Building
643 South Olive Street

E. D. TATE, Branch Manager
PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
732 South Olive Street
An Office that Knows its Subjects

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.
Successor to California Film Exchange
DAVID BERSHON, MANAGER.
Distributors of Universal, Jewel and Lois Weber Productions, Blue Bird Photoplays, Century and Lyons & Moran Comedies
822 S. OLIVE ST.

What Exchanges and Theatres Are Doing

B. E. LOPER, manager of the Los Angeles Select branch, is home from attending the convention of the Central and Western states managers, at Chicago, and is very enthusiastic regarding the future release of this program.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE FRED C. QUIMBY of the Pathe Exchanges, is now on a tour of the West Coast, and is daily expected in Los Angeles by Branch Manager E. D. Tate.

MRS. ANABELLE McVEY, owner of the Casino and Grand theatres at San Diego, was a program shopper on Los Angeles Film Row, this week.

THE Pantages theatre at San Diego, the Hippodrome, has contracted for the showing of the Vitagraph serial featuring William Duncan, "A Fight for a Million," and it is very probable other Pantages vaudeville houses on the coast will use this subject.

AFTER running the Vitagraph feature, "Over the Top," for three days at the Columbia theatre at Phoenix, Manager George Mock believes there is even still greater opportunity for this film there, and so has booked it for a return engagement of four days.

"THE WARRIOR," which played a week's engagement at Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles, to good business, is now playing the second down town engagement with a one-week run at the Alhambra theatre, managed by Herman Bosley. "The Warrior" is handled in the California territory by the M. & R. Feature Film Company.

THE Portola Theatre Company of Santa Barbara, which is managed by M. Marcus, is now owner and lessee of every theatre in that city, lease having been taken this week on the Potter theatre, a 1,200-seat house, when the former manager, H. Callis was called to the Service.

L. W. THOMPSON, who for three years was with the Paramount Exchanges in San Francisco and Los Angeles in the capacity of salesman, has been engaged by the General to serve as salesman for Hodkinson subjects.

MRS. R. CASSELL, who has been successful in conducting the Colonial theatre at Monrovia, is now building a new house at the United States Balloon School grounds at Arcadia. Work on this has progressed very satisfactorily, and the dedication will be on July 4, for which occasion Mrs. Cassell has booked "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin."

D. S. MITCHELL, formerly with the Universal Exchange, has been added to the sales staff of the Vitagraph branch in Los Angeles, by W. H. Hepburn, and Mitchell will take charge of the Arizona territory, Robert Amador having been transferred to the southern California district.

FRANK HUDSON, who has served as manager of a number of exchanges throughout the West, for the General Film Company, has been engaged by the All-Star Features Distributors, and will work out of the Los Angeles office.

THE Los Angeles branch of the All-Star Features Distributors announces the handling of Foursquare Pictures in this territory, as well as in San Francisco, the list including "The Eagle's Eye" serial and fifteen feature subjects.

"VOD-A-VILLE MOVIES," distributed in California territory by the All-Star Features Distributors, will have first run at the Alhambra theatre, Los Angeles, for one week, and will then play a week's engagement at the Cabrillo theatre at San Diego. Other bookings include four days at the Grogg at Bakersfield; four days at the Strand, San Bernardino, and two days each at the Hipp, Phoenix, Arizona, and Warners at Pasadena, and Rialto at Fullerton, as well as a number of engagements at Los Angeles suburban theatres.

BERT LUBIN, special representative of Metro, devoting all of his time to Screen Classics, is now at San Francisco, after a very successful trip to Denver, Seattle and other points in the Northwest. He made contracts for the showing of the Nazimova "Toys of Fate," and "The Million Dollar Dollies," at the Isis theatre, Denver; Clemmer theatre, Seattle; New Victory theatre, Tacoma; Peoples theatre, Portland, and other important bookings in Oregon cities.

THE Kale-Alta Slide Company at San Francisco, has been sold by Vernon Handley to B. O. Youngman. Mr. Youngman thoroughly understands the slide business, and is already making plans for material improvement at his plant, and for a general extension of business.

JOHN P. MONOHAN of the Liberty theatre at Brawley, was in Los Angeles this week, making bookings for the next two months, the period he will be absent from his theatre while on a vacation he will spend in and about Seattle, his former home. While here he booked all of the Jewel productions which he has not shown, and also secured exclusive use for a number of the films handled by the All-Star Feature Distributors.

Boy City Completes New Judge Brown Series

THE BOY CITY FILM CORPORATION, with studios at Culver City, under the personal management of Judge Brown, has completed the second series consisting of ten two-reel boy stories, all of which feature Martin Pendelton, Ernest Thompson and Harold Wilson. The titles of these films are "Kid Politics," "The Boy Built City," "The Love of Bob," "Dog vs. Dog," "The Case of Benny," "Frank's Indorser," "The Discoverer," "The Tank Gang Rebellion," "Bars of Honor" and "Partners of Cupid."

In and Around Denver

DENVER hit six cylinders on the heat stuff during the past ten days, but that didn't daunt the Curtis Street managers in the least. Lured into these attractive picture emporiums by the refrigerating process now installed in every house on the world's greatest amusement boulevard, the fans found the coolest spot in town, not excepting the nearby resorts.

EUGENE O'BRIEN, who plays opposite Norma Talmadge in all of her Select pictures, is a Boulder, Colo., product. That's why a big delegation of Boulderites blow into Denver in a chartered trolley or by automobile every time there's a Norma picture on at the America.

TONY ARCHER, until recently a broker at Denver Paramount, left Denver for the shipyards at Vallejo, Cal., last week on a call to the colors.

JOHN THOMPSON, who operates the Thompson and the Ogden, Denver's leading and prettiest suburban theatres, is planning for another new house to be built at Leadville.

T. Y. HENRY, of Foursquare Pictures of Colorado, has returned from a successful percentage exhibiting tour of Wyoming. He was accompanied by Mrs. Henry.

HENRY FULKERSON, owner of the Lyric, at Powell, Wyo., was in Denver a few days ago contracting for service. Mr. Fulkerson's theatre is one of the finest small theatres in Wyoming. He has his own lighting system at Powell, a town of 1,800 population, has no electric light service. The Lyric seats 500.

PERCY EDWARDS has sold his interests in Greybull, Wyo., to George McKay. He still retains his theaters at Basin, Worland and Thermopolis.

R. J. CHURCHILL has returned from the big Fox meeting at New York, and immediately called in his salesmen for a conference meeting in order to unload some of his surplus "pep" and new ideas. He says he can't see why the editor of the Fox publication referred to him as "M. Paderewski Churchill." R. E. Churchill, a brother of R. J., has joined the local Fox sales force.

STERLING G. MENDENHALL, owner of the U. S. A., at Sidney, Neb., ran into Denver a few days ago, and booked the entire Select service, including specials. He has recently completed improvements costing $1,500.

ALF. KEHR, of the Gem theatre, at Ogallala, Neb., was also in Denver recently to contract new service.

S. N. WARD has succeeded Alvin S. Frank as manager of the Star theatre, at Cripple Creek. Mr. Frank has been called to the colors.

M. C. GEARHARDT, formerly of Cheyenne, has taken over both the Empress and the Lyric at Fort Collins. Those theatres were formerly owned by Messrs. Whiteman and Beier.

BEN S. COHEN, president of Colorado Foursquare, reports heavy bookings on the Chaplin reissues. Extra prints have been ordered to take care of the business.

HUGH RENNIE, also of Foursquare, accompanied by Mrs. Rennie, is out on a percentage exhibition tour showing "Carmel of the Klondyke." He will cover Leadville and Arkansas Valley points.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS BERGER, of Rock Springs, Wyo., visited Denver last week en route to Chicago, where they will visit Mr. Berger's parents. Mr. Berger operates the Oracle and the Grand at Rock Springs.

"THE EAGLE'S EYE" is showing at the Rourke theatre, La Junta, and also at Fort Lyons, where it is making a big hit with the inmates of the United States Naval Hospital.

MANAGER CASSIDY, of Sherry Service, announces several bookings of "Romance of the Underworld," featuring Catherine Calvert. The picture will be released in this territory in the near future.

Portland News and Gossip

W. W. KOFELDT, who resigned from his Pathe berth of Northwest manager to take charge of the Majestic theatre for J. J. ("Bill") Parker, may not linger long in the Rose City. He's in Class 1 of the army draft, and is prepared to report at a training camp within a month.

THE ruling relative to draft-age men in non-essential employment was applied to Abraham Nelson, secretary-treasurer of the Majestic Amusement Company, and he's now in the Spruce Division.

A NUMBER of other film men are involved in the new draft classifications, while Draft Board heads in Oregon are not inclined to permit able-bodied embryonic scrappers to hold down film jobs they consider might be turned over to older men.

C. S. JENSEN, of the firm of Jensen and Von Herberg, the leading film exhibitors of the Pacific Northwest, is now a resident of Portland. He motored down from Butte recently, and announced upon arrival that he would make the Rose City his permanent home.

The Enid Bennett Company at Work on Location on the West Coast. Chet Lyons, Fred Niblo, Victor Schertzinger and Caroline Rankin Are in the "Assemblage"

JENSEN AND VON HERBERG operate the Liberty and Columbia theatres in Portland, in addition to the Rialto at Butte, and the Coliseum, Liberty, Strand and Mission in Seattle.

THE Columbia is undergoing extensive alterations, while a Wurlitzer Hope-Jones Unit Orchestral organ is to be installed immediately.

MR. JENSEN was in Portland for six months in 1915, when he and Mr. Von Herberg took over the Columbia theatre. He went to Butte more than a year ago, and has been at the helm of the new Rialto until he turned it over to Ralph Ruffner a couple of weeks ago.

MR. JENSEN'S presence in Portland does not affect the managerial situation, E. J. Myrick continuing at the helm of the Liberty and supervising the operation of the Columbia.

A WEALTH of pine and fir boughs, a bottle of cedar oil, and a hidden boy who made bird music, provided a lobby combination which attracted much attention at the Strand theatre when Manager Armstrong had "Ace High" on the bill.

THE only drawback to the complete effectiveness of the display was the inclination on the part of patrons to linger in the lobby to inhale the forest ozone.

C. A. ROEDER, San Francisco, importation on the Famous Players-Lasky staff of C. M. Hill in the Oregon territory, is opening up the Eastern Oregon field for that company.

GEORGE GUTHRIE, manager of the Oregon theatre, Salem, Ore., has a new manager, according to reports. A remarkably fine baby girl.

G. H. STOVER, of the Orpheum vaudeville, Tacoma, Wash., has started something. That something is a summer traveling film circuit, to be run out of Portland through tributary towns during the vacation period. W. B. Stover, his father, is identified with him in the enterprise.

WALLACE MORRILL, of Milton, Ore., is the new manager of the Sunset theatre of that town. He bought it from W. B. Burton. Mr. Morrill has long been identified with entertainment enterprises. Mr. Burton changes his residence to Eugene.

O. J. CARLSON has leased the Houlton theatre, Houlton, Ore., and is showing pictures four days a week. Carlson is building his own theatre in Columbia City, and will have it ready for the public within a few days.

LUE VERNON is putting the musical pep into pictures at the Lyric theatre, South Bend.

E. D. STULLER, manager of the Riddell and Myrtle Creek theatres, has sold out, andl will leave Riddell soon.

DON GEDDES recently sold his Strand theatre, at Moscow, Idaho, to Mr. Haynes, and is now the owner of Ye College Playhouse in Seattle, purchased from Charles Cowes.

H. S. WOODS, of Oakesdale, Wash., has added the Garfield, Wash., theatre to his list.

WILLARD EDDY, of Goldendale, Wash., has bought the Star theatre from J. E. Clark.

Fox Opens Studios to Men in Uniform

IT is announced from the William Fox offices that through the kind permission of Mr. Fox and Sol Wurtzel, Pacific Coast manager of the William Fox studios, an invitation has been extended to all of the men of the Army and Navy to pay a visit to the Fox studios at Hollywood, Cal., any Saturday afternoon that might suit their pleasure.

The William Fox studios are located on Western avenue, between Santa Monica Boulevard and Hollywood Boulevard, and may be reached by Hollywood cars to Western avenue.

Directory of San Francisco Exchanges and Supply Houses

OUR MOST RECENT SUCCESSES INCLUDE

"The Still Alarm" — A Successor to "The Whip"
"The Grain of Dust"
"Nine Tenths of the Law"
"The Crucible of Life"

OUR FILLERS SURPASS ALL OTHERS

GAUMONT WEEKLY—2 each week
VAUDEVILLE MOVIES—2 each month
2 BILLY WEST COMEDIES—Monthly
1 SONG HIT IN PHOTO-PLAYS—Weekly

California Distributors of United States Official War Films

ALL STAR FEATURES DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.

SOL. L. LESSER, President

191 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco
514 West Eighth Street, Los Angeles

PEERLESS FILM SERVICE

INCORPORATED

100 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco
802 South Olive Street, Los Angeles

Christie Comedies—A new one each week
28 Two reel Mack Sennett Keystone Comedies
26 One and Two reel Charles Chaplin Comedies
35 Mutt and Jeff Cartoon Comedies

TURNER and DAHNKEN

BRANCH OF

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT, Inc.,

Music Rolls Exchanged—Supplies of All Kinds

134 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California

M. H. LEWIS

Branch Manager

Paramount-Artcraft

SELECT PICTURES

Clara Kimball Young
Norma Talmadge
Alice Brady
Constance Talmadge

Third Floor
985 Market Street

G. A. METCALFE
Distributor

POWER'S MACHINES
SPEER CARBONS

117 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

PERFECTION PICTURES

Distributed Through
The George Kleine System
M. J. COHEN
Branch Manager
183 Golden Gate Avenue

M AND R

730 SO. OLIVE ST., L. A.
107 GOLDEN GATE AVE., S. F.

NOW BOOKING

THE EYES OF THE WORLD

A CYCLONIC WHIRLWIND—From the Story by Harold Bell Wright.

Ramona—Story of Early California. From the Story by Helen Hunt Jackson.

The Avenging Conscience, with the Clansman Cast.

The Warrior—Featuring Maciste.

McClure's—Geo. Loane Tucker Production, Mother.

Life or Honor?—Featuring Violet Palmer, James Morrison, Leah Baird.

Married in Name Only, with Milton Sills.

One Law for Both—Featuring Rita Jolivet, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison.

Sins of Ambition—Featuring Barbara Castleton.

R. B. QUIVE
Branch Manager

VITAGRAPH

985 Market Street
Fifth Floor

San Francisco News Condensed

COLIN CAMPBELL, the well-known director, has been in San Francisco with a Universal company, obtaining scenes for "The Yellow Dog," a war story being filmed from the original narrative in the "Saturday Evening Post." The company has also been working at Pleasanton

TURNER AND DAHNKEN, operating the big California circuit of motion picture houses, are planning to test the climatic conditions in Alameda on July 1 and 2 by taking a series of pictures at Neptune Beach, with a view to establishing a studio on the east side of San Francisco Bay.

THE World theatre, at Gilroy, formerly owned by A. M. Wicker, has been purchased by Stickley and Brooks. Fred Brooks, one of the members of this firm, ran the Home theatre, Twenty-fourth and Brandt streets, San Francisco, several years ago. The deal was made through the United Theatre Exchange of San Francisco. New equipment for the theatre has been installed by Walter J. Preddy.

L. H. KILLINGSWORTH, formerly proprietor of the Lincoln theatre, San Francisco, has purchased the Strand theatre, Los Gatos, from Manager Wolff.

THE first official War Review made by the Government will be released in San Francisco on July 7.

OLIVER KEHRLEIN has booked "Hearts of the World" for the first week of July at his Fresno theatre.

H. W. HOLLANSWORTH, booker in the George Kleine office, has answered his country's call, having enlisted in the merchant marine branch of the Service.

O. V. BATES, former shipper for the George Kleine system, is somewhere in France with Pershing's forces.

ED H. LINNELL has purchased a motion picture outfit, and is touring the small towns and mining camps of Shasta County.

"PERSHING'S CRUSADERS" opened its first San Francisco engagement at the Columbia theatre on Saturday evening, June 29. The film will be exhibited at various theatres in the San Francisco neighborhood at the close of the San Francisco run. Sol L. Lesser, chairman of the California Division of Official U. S. War Films, is going to Los Angeles, attending the first showing of this film at the Alhambra, and M. J. Cohen, publicity director for the division, will deliver an address at the Alhambra's first showing.

GRACE MARBURY SANDERSON, who wrote "The Finger of Justice," is in Seattle, booking the picture in the Northwest territory.

LOUIS HYMAN is on his vacation, enjoying the wonders of the Yosemite Valley.

J. F. GOSS, manager of the Orpheum and Berthana theaters of Ogden, Utah, has been in San Francisco on business.

Cassidy Manages for Sherry in Denver

THE recently established William L. Sherry Service has opened an exchange in Denver at 1723 Welton street, in charge of H. D. Cassidy, one of the most widely known and popular film men in this territory. D. J. Savage, general sales manager for the Sherry productions, after concluding the arrangements for the opening of the new exchange on film row, departed for Dallas, where another distributing office will be established. He states that Sherry will release nothing but high-class feature productions, with nothing under six or seven reels.

Mr. Cassidy will have charge of Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah and western Nebraska.

After disposing of his entire theatre business, in 1915, Mr. Cassidy entered the distributing business with the Universal Film Supply Company at El Paso, and later with the same company at Salt Lake. In 1916 he went over to Mutual as sales representative in Denver territory, and later was promoted as manager for Mutual at Salt Lake. Last January, when Mutual closed their Salt Lake office, he joined the sales force of the World in Denver.

Clara Williams Goes to New York

CLARA WILLIAMS, who has been seen in Ince, Triangle and state rights pictures made at West Coast studios during the past several years, left last week for New York, where she will spend several weeks.

In Salt Lake Film Circles

J. B. RODEN, of the Fox office, has returned from New York City, where he attended the fourth annual convention of the Fox Corporation held June 2 to 9.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by the local branch of Pathe that the Government has selected the Pathe organization to release the "Allies Official War Review," exclusive and authentic moving pictures, photographed by Government camera men attached to the Allied nations' fighting force on the French, Italian and Belgian front. These pictures are released through Pathe offices by the Committee on Public Information of the United States Government, which receives the rentals used in turn for financing their moving picture department. The pictures will be released one per week.

OF the local Pathe branch force, L. D. Purdy has returned from Idaho, while W. A. Calkins just now is taking a short business trip in Utah, mainly Ogden and vicinity.

OF the recent pictures, "Moral Suicide" and "The Yellow Ticket," are going over in great shape.

F. C. QUIMBY, Pathe sales manager, is expected to visit the local branch soon. He is making a tour of exchanges.

M. M. STEWART, manager of the Strand theatre and local publicity man of the Swanson Circuit, reports that "The Reason Why," featuring Clara Kimball Young, Utah's motion picture star, is scoring a big success. He also says that "The Country Store" is a success with children's matinee Saturday as a drawing card.

F. B. McCRACKEN, manager of the Famous Players-Lasky local branch, has returned from a tour of inspection of the Nevada exhibitors of the Famous Players-Lasky attractions, and found them all in good condition. From all accounts they want the new Flagg Comedies and Fred Stone in Artcraft Series, who formerly was a member of the famous Montgomery-Stone team. Mr. McCracken has returned from San Francisco, where he attended the convention. I. Goodwin, of the Royal theatre, at Lehi, Utah, was in the local branch office this week, and signed up for the entire Selective Star Series, Arbuckle and Sennett comedies. E. V. Saderup, road man of the local branch, is making a tour of Southern Utah in the interest of the company.

GEORGE CARPENTER, manager of the Paramount-Empress theatre, announces that a $15,000 Hope Jones organ will be installed in the Paramount-Empress theatre next month.

LOUIS MARCUS, district manager of the Famous Players-Lasky concern, has returned from San Francisco, where he attended a meeting of the Famous Players-Lasky representatives of the West.

EDW. P. KIMBALL, organist of the Tabernacle choir and director of the Paramount-Empress theatre orchestra, is enjoying a vacation in New York City and getting some new music.

PARAMOUNT-EMPRESS employes raised $2,100 in the War Savings Stamp drive.

AN innovation has been sprung by the Paramount-Empress theatre this summer by giving a week's vacation with pay to all its employes. This theatre also has started a "drive" on the hot weather for, in addition to its regular ventilation system of modern style, it now has a huge exhaust fan in the balcony which keeps the air moving constantly.

What's New in San Diego

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG appeared personally at the Cabrillo theatre, Monday evening, during the showing of one of her pictures, and spoke briefly.

MISS AVIS LaPORTE, organist and assistant to Manager R. E. Hicks of the Cabrillo theatre, was married recently, to Lieut. Frank LaRue of the 158th infantry, stationed at Camp Kearny.

MISS MARIE DRESSLER, well-known motion picture star, accompanied Mrs. Edward R. Brainerd of Los Angeles, on a visit to Camp Kearny, where Mrs. Brainerd has a son in the service, soon to leave for France.

WORK is progressing on the new Liberty theatre at Camp Kearny, and plans are nearly completed for the formal opening some time in July. Dustin Farnum, the originator of the part, will play the lead in "The Virginian," with Raymond Wells, Douglas Fairbanks, Frank Campo and other well-known players in the cast. Farnum has recently been made "god-father" to the 115th ammunition train at the cantonment.

IN a big patriotic campaign just concluded here to perfect the organization of a community council of defense, Kent G. Bush of the Broadway Amusement Company, controlling the Broadway, Superba and Illusion in this city, the Silver Strand in Coronado and a house at Camp Kearny, was chairman of a committee having in charge the showing of films and slides for the school children. The Spreckles Hippodrome was tendered by the management for this display, and the house was filled Saturday morning, without charge to the youngsters.

Salt Lake City Exchanges

W. A. CALKINS, Branch Manager

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.

D. PURDY, Representatevi — 64 Exchange Place

SUNSET FILM LABORATORIES

(Successors to Bill Horsley Laboratories)

Holly 3693. Sunset Blvd. and Gower St. 579963

Developing — Printing — Tinting

Highest quality laboratory work promptly executed

Equipped to handle print work and give it personal attention. Our guarantee for satisfaction is backed by ten years' laboratory experience.

Holly 2752

CROSBY FILM LABORATORIES

Developing, Printing, Tinting, Toning and Special Films Made to Order

5813-27 Santa Monica Boulevard

JAMES A. CROSBY — Los Angeles, Cal.

Yes, we are now ready for business in our new home.

Slides and Film as you want them, when you want them.

L. A. SLIDE & FILM CO.

4th Floor HENNE 122 W. 3rd St.

Telephone: Hollywood 1290

GEORGE W. CHAPMAN CO.

Incorporated

EVERYTHING IN MOVING PICTURE PROPS.

Specialties: Miniature Sets and Plaster Breakaways

5155 SANTA MONICA BOULEVARD

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Portland, Oregon, Exchanges

General Film Company, 390 Burnside Street

Paralta Plays—Chaplin Comedies—O. Henry and Judge Brown Pictures

GEORGE J. EKRE, Branch Manager

Service Film & Supply Company

Biggest Supply House in the Northwest

393 Oak Street — Everything for the Theatre

Mutual Film Corp.

GEO. E. JACKSON

Branch Manager

401-403 Davis Street

C. M. HILL

Branch Manager

Paramount—Artcraft

9th and Burnside Streets

Place Your Ads. In The West Coast Section. You Won't Regret It.

Directory of Seattle Exchanges and Accessory Firms

NOW BOOKING

(Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana)

CARMEN

of the

KLONDIKE

SEVEN-REEL PRODUCTION that made new Box Office Records at Clemmer (Seattle) Theatre with a nine-day run

SONG HITS IN PHOTOPLAYS

500 with Orchestration

Hart, Fairbanks, Keenan and Talmadge Reissues

COMING—"The Grain of Dust"

By David Graham Phillips

DE LUXE FEATURE FILM COMPANY

M. Rosenberg, President and General Manager

2014 Third Avenue, Seattle, Washington

392 Burnside Street, Portland, Oregon

L. J. SCHLAIFER ATTRACTIONS

Distributors of

"PARENTAGE"

"The BIRTH of DEMOCRACY"

"CLEOPATRA"

with Helen Gardner

"IDLE WIVES"

"WAR'S WOMEN"

JESTER—Two Reel

SUPER COMEDIES

FEATURING TWEDE-DAN

2022 THIRD AVENUE (Film Row) SEATTLE

EXHIBITORS FILM EXCHANGE, INC.

Franchise Holders for the Northwest First National Exhibitors' Circuit

NOW BOOKING

A DOG'S LIFE

MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY

TARZAN OF THE APES

THE FALL OF THE ROMANOFFS

THE STILL ALARM

ETC., ETC.

1200 FOURTH AVENUE

F. V. FISHER, Manager

GREATER FEATURES COMPANY

2020 Third Avenue

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

FEATURING COMEDIES

"FINE" and "REFINED"

JACK LANNON, OWNER

Lantern Slides

J. C. COREY SIGN CO.

3rd & University St., Seattle

Cutouts and Lobby Displays

H. B. DOBBS

Branch Manager

Select Pictures

308 Virginia Street

FOR SALE—Three Musketeers, 8 reels; The Princess of Bagdad, 7 reels; Lightning Conductor, 6 reels; Propatria, 5 reels; Uncle Sam's Boys in France, 5 reels of European scenes; What Eight Million Women Want, 4 reels; Unborn, 5 reels; Nell of the Circus, 4 reels; Southern Girl, 4 reels; Garden of Allah, 3 reels; Uncle Sam Preparing; Cleopatra, 6 reels; Wild Animal Hunt, 2 reels, and many other Features; junk dealers save stamps; send for list and prices; deposit for rewind examination. RIALTO FEATURE FILM COMPANY. 218 Seneca St., Seattle, Washington.

"THE WARRIOR" with MACISTE the ITALIAN

GREATEST COMEDY DRAMA OF THE YEAR

FLAT RENTALS Washington Oregon Idaho Montana

W. S. BREWSTER ATTRACTIONS

2020 Third Avenue, Seattle, Wash.

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION" "THE CRISIS" "RAMONA"
"THE SUBMARINE EYE" "THE MASQUE OF LIFE"

Paramount-Artcraft

2019 Third Avenue

H. G. ROSEBAUM GEO. P. ENDERT

World Film Corp.

J. A. KOERPEL, Branch Manager 1301 Fifth Avenue

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM

Perfection Pictures

W. J. DRUMMOND Branch Manager 2012 Third Avenue

Bee Hive Exchange

BOOKING

BILLY WEST COMEDIES

MARK GOLDMAN

Northwest Manager

2016 Third Avenue

What Seattle Exhibitors Say

W. W. KOFELDT has been succeeded as manager of the Seattle branch of the Pathe Film Exchange, by Lawrence O. Lukan. Mr. Kofeldt has accepted the position as manager of the Majestic theatre, one of the Northwest's largest houses.

GRACE MARBURY SANDERSON, a young San Francisco scenario writer, has been in Seattle to establish a film exchange for the handling in this territory of "The Finger of Justice," said to be a great soul-gripping drama.

F. C. QUINBY of New York, salesmanager of the Pathe Film Exchange, was a recent visitor to Seattle. Mr. Quinby has been investigating conditions all over the United States. He has found conditions exceptionally good all over and especially in the Northwest. "Conditions are different in different places," said Quinby, "and therefore no two places can be compared. For instance, in the Middle West, in the small towns, business for the picture houses is fairly, if not very good. While in the small towns, that are inland, in Washington or Oregon, the displayers are not doing good business. Some have been compelled to close up. This condition even prevails in Montana."

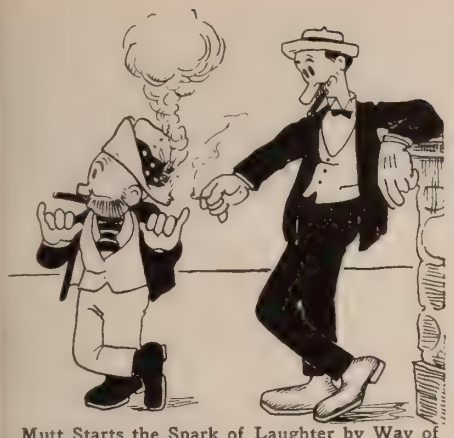
F. V. FISCHER, manager of the Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Seattle, announces that "My Four Years in Germany" is breaking the pace wherever shown. Some of the picture houses in which it has been especially well received are: The Appollo, Tacoma, where it played for eight days; the Clemmer, Spokane, where it was shown to a crowded house for eight days, and at the Princess, Everett, where the residents enjoyed it for a full week. Mr. Myrick, manager of the Liberty, Portland, Ore., has ordered "My Four Years in Germany," and is not only figuring on decorating his theatre especially for this film, but has also asked Mr. Mertil, the organist, to play special music for the depicting of the scenes.

MADAME PETROVA, who is making a tour of the country in the interest of the War Savings Stamp Committee, will appear in person at the Coliseum and Liberty theatres, in Seattle. Madame Petrova has been exceptionally successful wherever she has gone, raising money for the committee in greater amounts than was expected. The exact date of her appearance has not been announced, but it will be the first part of July.

THE Exhibitors' Film Exchange has not only three road shows out with "My Four Years in Germany," but is getting ready to push the "Crusaders," another National production. Mr. C. H. Feldman, salesman for the Exhibitors' Film Exchange, has just returned from a trip through Oregon, where he has been very successful in booking "My Four Years in Germany" and "Tarzan of the Apes."

Mitchell Lewis Goes to Spokane

MITCHELL LEWIS has been engaged by the Washington Motion Picture Corporation at Spokane, and left for that place Monday to begin work under the direction of Larry Trimble, who is in charge of making this company's first film.



Mutt Starts the Spark of Laughter by Way of Jeff's Hat. Fox Cartoons Continue to Deserve Popularity

Short Subjects in Review
by Clara DeLissa Berg

TY COBB SAYS A GOOD WORD FOR BASEBALL

Ty Cobb is as good an American as he is a ball player and every word he utters in the Screen Magazine interview that shows the relation between the Great Game now calling young men, and the less, will receive hearty endorsement. It is a timely subject and a popular one in every sense.

Even with the danger from U-boats minimized, there will still be work ahead for the diver, and the newly invented suit here shown, in which a storage tank makes unnecessary the usual life lines and tube to the surface through which he breathed, should play an important part in underwater exploration.

The making of cheese is a clean and appetizing process. Like all industrial subjects which appear in the Screen Magazine, this is brief but so well titled that the various steps are easily understood.

There is plenty of comedy, if unconscious, in pictures of various queer lizards which are shown in close-ups. Unlike the "lounge" variety, these little fellows are active and always ready for a good scrap.

Willie Hopkins, in his clay sculptures, gives us his idea of "the beast of Berlin."

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE NO. 78.
UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.: JULY 5.

IS THIS TO BE OUR NEXT PURCHASE?

The Post Travel Series, which is covering the less-known islands of the West Indies, uses its picture of Dominica to urge the purchase, by the United States, of all islands in the Caribbean now held by European powers. This it does by a series of maps, and titles which bear quotations from the editorial pages of the New York Times. We doubt the wisdom of this propaganda, which more than hints at the possibility of unpleasantness with nations now allied with us in battle.

However, the picture itself is one of the pleasantest yet put out in this series. Roseau, the chief town of Dominica, lies on the shore between ranges of lofty mountains which extend out into the sea and form great headlands at the mouth of the harbor. Its houses are tiny, pasteboard affairs, and its population seems to be entirely negro, the women who congregate in the market place and gather on the rocky ledges that border the harbor being picturesque creatures, with heads artistically done up in bandanas.

The famous Botanical Garden has beautiful lawns and many varieties of trees, among which is that from which comes the calabash, known to all pipe smokers.

DOMINICA (Post Travel Series No. 4).
PATHE EXCHANGE: JULY 7.

OUR ONLY VOLCANO

"Mount Lassen in Action," the Educational Film's picture of the famous California volcano, has fine material in its well-taken scenes of cones and craters, mud holes, steam vents, "paint pots," and boiling lakes, but somehow misses fire in dramatic effect.

This failure may be due to lack of the imaginative touch in the titling, which is confined to bare statements regarding the volcano's action. It is due partly to the fact that not until the end is the majestic peak seen in its entirety. Had we glimpsed, in the opening of the reel, the towering cone with its dense column of black smoke, curiosity would have been aroused and interest in the ensuing phenomena would have been more intelligent.

The film is notable for the fine blue and sepia tones which characterize all of the releases of the Educational Film Corporation.

MOUNT LASSEN IN ACTION.
JULY 6.

BRAY CARTOONS MAINTAIN HIGH RANK

We don't really intend always to give first place to the Pictograph cartoon, but these products of the Bray studios are so original in conception, and because of the large staff of artists at Bray's are of such varying kinds of excellence, that they often become the "feature" of the Pictograph release, however pleasing the other subjects are.

For example, L. M. Glackens, who furnishes the fun for the current number, illustrates "Our First Fliers," queer animals, extinct countless ages ago, and known only by their fossil remains. Though there is plenty of humor in the titles, and the animals themselves are veritable nightmares, they are anatomically and historically correct, and their movements, in some instances paralleling those of Langley's airplane, are doubtless accurately reproduced. Our only quarrel with Mr. Glackens is that he does not point out the fact that it is fact with which he deals. We certainly hope he gives us more of these entertaining and interesting monsters.

Drawings and fade-outs serve to give liveliness to another interesting subject entitled "schematography," which is the name given by its inventors to a shadow picture made of students by their gymnasium instructors and used by them as "horrible examples" of incorrect and ungraceful posture. With the camouflage of clothes removed, the present fashionable manner of standing is seen to be both unhealthy and ugly.

W. L. Finley, Fish and Game Commissioner of Oregon, who has been responsible for a number of unusually delightful nature-study reels, contributes charming pictures of wild animal babies. We understand that more are to follow.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPH NO. 25.
PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORP.: JUNE 30.

BROTHERS IN ARMS

The first number of the Official War Review, issued by the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information and distributed by the Pathe Exchange, shows nothing new in material but serves to emphasize the international aspect of the conflict and the varying forms of service rendered by the several nations opposed to Germany.

American troops and wagon trains are seen on their way to the front line, and American artillery is shown in action with anti-aircraft and long range guns. The famous Blue Devils are pictured as they advance up a wooded slope of their native mountains. They run quickly forward, fling themselves on the ground, fire, and again advance. Italian activities on the sea are illustrated by two submarine chasers firing at full speed. What Britain has done as her part is recalled when the men who raided and bottled up Zeebrugge are decorated by the King and Queen. A picture of the famous mole which the British destroyed gives an idea of the size and difficulty of the undertaking. One of the most interesting of the episodes is the funeral accorded the German aviator Richthofen, which was carried out with full military honors, the body being carried in state by English soldiers while a company of Anzacs fired the final salute at the grave.

The reel closes with a fine shot of marching sailors at the Great Lakes Naval Station with a great mass of men in white aligned to form "AMERICA" in the background.

Titles and title cards are notable for their simplicity and good taste.

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW NO. 1.
(Committee on Public Information).
PATHE EXCHANGE, JUNE 24.

THEIR MAJESTIES AT THE FRONT

There is nothing new or unfamiliar in the latest of "Britain's Bulwarks" to be released, but it reflects very pleasantly the democratic and personal manner in which King George and Queen Mary meet and mingle with officers and men near the front. In their tour of inspection, Their Majesties are met and in the eyes of all men kissed by their dutiful son, the Prince of Wales, on the dock of Calais, a sight which explains the sentimental hold of the British royal family on their subjects, and which will be viewed with sympathetic amusement by Americans. While the king examines trophies of war in a small French town, Queen Mary visits an American hospital. An exhibition of tank ability is as interesting to the screen spectator as to the king, both waiting with considerable concern to see how the men fared who rode the lunging monster. Apparently no harm has befallen them, as they come crawling out to daylight and terra firma. The king is also treated to the sight of a curtain of fire behind which advances are made, and to a deadly flame, invented by the Huns but improved and turned against its originators by the British army.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY WITNESS THE BLACK ARTS OF WAR (Britain's Bulwarks No. 9).
PATHE EXCHANGE: JULY 7.

MODEL TREATMENT FOR A BEAUTIFUL SCENIC

The fact that rural Mexico reaps its finest valuable harvest from the rich soil bordering its rivers and canals, gives George D. Wright, whose fine Mexican series is being released by Educational Films, an opportunity to present an unusually picturesque and interesting reel.

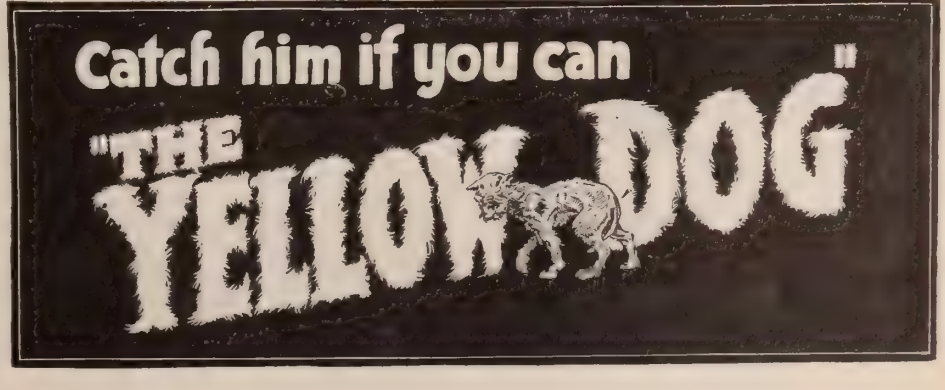
On the banks of these quiet backwaters, the peon plants his seeds, each one placed in the exact spot in which it is to grow up, and gathers in a fine crop of melons and vegetables which he loads, after carefully washing them in the river, on tiny skiffs for transportation to the larger boats on which he carries them to town. This last journey is made by poling the heavy load, which includes not only the garden truck but several members of the peon's family, all of the thirty miles down to Mexico City.

The film offers a succession of charming scenes in the richly verdured country, and many picturesque and laughable incidents along the quais and market place in the city itself. It hardly needs the title man to call our attention to the exquisite light and shadow effects of early morning scenes as the boats gather at the landing places, as the entire film, by reason of its fine photography and tinting, might well be the product of an artist's brush. However, we cannot but thank the editor for the care with which he has arranged the material and for the apt titling, which in every way enhances the attractiveness of the pictures.

MEXICO FLOATING GARDENS,
EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.: JULY.

FINE AVIATION PICTURES

Don't miss Pathe News released June 23. It has some aviation pictures that take away your breath for beauty and daring. A squadron of them flies down the screen in a V formation, exactly resembling a flock of wild geese. At another time they are seen keeping a perfect right angle with reference to each other. An aviator drops in a parachute while impertinent planes dart around and under him in momentary danger, so it would seem, of collision.



In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Paralta Paragraphs

Work will be started within the next day or two on two new Paralta subjects at the Robert Brunton studios. Louise Glaum has just finished work in "Wedlock," which is the final title selected for the first sympathetic role photoplay in which she has appeared in many months. This man directed by Wallace Worsley with Jack Gilbert as leading man, from a scenario by Dennison Cliff.

Another subject just filmed, which has been given a final title, is "A Wife's Conscience," which was written by William Parker. Howard Hickman directed this film which has Ed Coxen, Charles Gunn and Mary Jane Irving as the principal supports of the star, Bessie Barriscale.

Louise Glaum is next to play in a French story which has atmosphere of several different periods, the last being of the present day with backgrounds of the war.

About Metro Players

Production activities at the Metro studios are to be speeded up considerably, and all departments are working to that end. As announced in last week's issue of Motion Picture News, the scenario department now has three stories prepared in advance for each company, and this same program is being carried out with respect to the technical, wardrobe and property departments.

Work has been started at the Metro studios on the first May Allison picture, notwithstanding the fact that the star will not arrive in Los Angeles for several days. The script was all in readiness the first of this week, and Director Wilfred Lucas began the making of scenes in which Miss Allison will not appear. Darrel Foss, former leading man in Triangle pictures, has been engaged to take the lead opposite Miss Allison.

Filming will be started within a day or two on the next Bert Lytell picture, immediately upon completion of the last scenes for "Boston Blackey's Little Pal." The story has been titled "Unexpected Places," and is an adaptation from the Frank R. Adams story prepared by Albert S. LeVino.

Will S. Davis has completed filming of all scenes for "Judgement," which co-stars Anna Q. Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum, and has left the employ of Metro. No announcement has been made as to whether this company is to be continued or not.

Paramount-Artcraft

Thomas H. Ince has purchased film rights on another Lone Wolf story by Louis Joseph Vance, the novelist, which in fiction form was known as "False Faces." Mr. Ince has entrusted with J. G. Hawks, the work of preparing the scenario for this story, and the melodrama will be filmed in the very near fuutre.

Maude George has been engaged to play an important role in the Hawaiian subject starring Enid Bennett, now being filmed under the direction of Fred Niblo. Miss George takes the role of an Hawaiian girl. She will be remembered for her recent appearance opposite William S. Hart in "Blue Blazes Rawden."

The staff at the Ince studio is particularly well suited to the filming of an Hawaiian story. G. Harold Percival, the art director, has made two trips to the Islands, and is thoroughly familiar with the atmospheric detail of Hawaiian scenery, and has prepared some especially beautiful sets for this film. Miss Bennett spent several days on the islands while en route from Australia to the United States, as did also Fred Niblo, who toured Australia with American plays. Tom Walsh, the casting director, a native of Australia, visited the islands and so has Robert McKim, who portrays the heavy role. Others in this cast are Jack Holt, leading man; Charles K. French, and Lydia Knott.

Now that William S. Hart has completed the eight Artcraft subjects which make up the first year of his contract, he is taking his first vacation which he proposes to spend in reading stories in the hope of securing some suitable for future productions.

The most recent Artcratf completed is "Riddle Gawne," in which Mr. Hart takes the role of one endowed with a spirit of vengeance. His wardrobe for this is black throughout, which adds effectiveness to his part. There is but one scene in the picture in which anything about Hart is other than black, and that is when the silver handle of his six-shooter registers.

The scenario for the next Hart picture, production of which will be started within two or three weeks, has to do with military matters, but will contain no actual war scenes.

William S. Hart is now completing the eighth subject for Artcraft, and when this is finished he will have fulfilled one-half of his present two-year contract. This film has been titled "Riddle Gawne," and is a western cattle country story in which Mr. Hart takes the role of a rancher who spends a greater part of his life in searching for the murderer of his brother. Kathrine MacDonald plays opposite Mr. Hart, and the play has a cast of unusual size, including Lon Chaney, Gretchen Lederer, Gertrude Short, Milton Ross, Leon Kent, George Fields and others, as well as the Hart cowboys. Many of the scenes for the film were taken in the Santa Monica mountains, and the company spent several days at a dairy farm where a western rancho set was built. One of the most expensive scenes for the picture was that showing the burning of a number of buildings at the ranch.

Universal Newsettes

Arthur Hoyt, formerly a member of the Universal acting stock company, and for the past year casting director at the Triangle studios, Culver City, has returned to the Universal and is playing an important role in "The Yellow Dog," now being produced by Colin Campbell.

Arthur Shirley is also back at the Universal, playing in the Harry Carey Company.

Another to return is Lon Chaney, who has just completed an engagement as heavy for William S. Hart. Chaney will play with Monroe Salisbury in "The Devil Baptiste.".

A company of child players has been organized at Universal for the making of five or six reel subjects which will star Zoe Rae and George Hupp. The first story to be filmed is from "Sinbad the Sailor." Millard Webb, who was assistant director to the Franklin Brothers in the making of Fine Arts and Fox kiddie pictures, with Norman Dawn, is in charge of the direction. Mr. Webb has had a very wide experience in the work of directing children.

A Hooverizing plan in the method of set building is being tried out by this company. The idea was conceived by Dawn, who has served the studio as technical director. It provides for the double exposure of all scenes for which special sets are built. This plan provides that the set shall be built to but one-half its usual height, which means fifty per cent reduction in the amount of material, and almost the equivalent in labor. A drawing is then prepared, and the upper section is photographed from this, this being accomplished by masking out half of the frame when the action scenes are taken, and reversing the mask when the upper section of the sets are filmed.

Edna R. Schley, author of "Her Temptation" and several Red Saunders photoplays, as well as others, has been added to the scenario staff at Universal City.

Fox Studio Doings

"Above the Law," a comedy-drama of western atmosphere with a touch of Broadway, is the next Jewel Carmen-William Fox photoplay now being directed by Robert Thornby. Olga Printzlau, a new member of the Fox staff, prepared the adaptation from the Max Brand story of the same name. The story pertains to a dancing couple of the stranded honeymoon theatrical troop starting out to capture a bandit, taken by Harry Woodward, with the result that the bandit captures them and the heart of the girl. Edward Hearn appears as the dancing partner of Miss Carmen.

William Farnum, Frank Lloyd and company leave the latter part of this week for the Grand Canyon of Arizona for a stay of two weeks. For the past week they have been working at Brown's ranch making some exteriors for "The Rainbow Trail," sequel to "The Riders of the Purple Sage," and the remaining exteriors will be taken in Arizona. The company will consist of about twenty people. Ann Forest is the leading woman of the troop.

Theda Bara is to play a light comedy role in "The Little She Devil," filming of which will be started about July 1. This is a radical departure from the roles heretofore played by this actress. The story opens in the mountains of Spain, has a portion of the play laid in Paris, and then returns to Spain for the final scenes. Miss Bara takes the part of the belle of a small town. The story was written by Neje Hopkins, and J. Gordon Edwards will be in charge of the direction, this being his twenty-eighth feature production for Fox.

When Director E. J. LeSaint sought to get hilarious action from between two and three hundred extra people working in a Berlin cafe scene for the coming Gladys Brockwell subject "Kultur" by an orchestra playing a German air this week, he discovered something was wrong. After several attempts he decided to change the music and Yankee Doodle was substituted. Success crowned his efforts.

Live Triangle Items

Triangle producing activities have been increased in the past few days by the addition of two more directors. William C. Dowlan, who directed a series of pictures for Metro in the east, following the making of several Mary Miles Minter subjects for the Mutual, last week, took up the filming of "Alias Mary Brown," a crook story co-starring Pauline Starke and Casson Ferguson.

Early last week Albert Parker arrived from the east, having been engaged by Harry E. Aitken, and sent west. A subject is now being speedily prepared for him to begin work, and it is intimated at the studio he will direct Gloria Swanson, who was recently placed under a long term contract by Triangle.

Olive Thomas has been working day and night to finish her latest picture "Toton," and the last scenes being taken on Monday, she departed for New York Tuesday, where she will spend almost a month with her husband, Jack Pickford, now in the navy. Norman Kerry and Jack Perrin play the masculine leads in this subject.

"The Golden Fleece," principal roles of which are taken by Jack Curtis, Joseph Bennett and Peggy Pearce, was finished this week when scenes were made in Los Angeles' Chinatown.

The activities of the Roy Stewart Company under the direction of Cliff Smith includes work at the Triangle ranch where scenes for "Cactus Crandall" were filmed. This play was originally known as "The Fighting Gringo." The entire Stewart Company went to near Capistrano, where the thirty-three people took part in the annual round up at the largest ranch in California. This film will serve as the debut for Marion Marvin as a Triangle leading woman.

Here and There

How Director Lynn Reynolds and his star, Tom Mix, secure out-of-the-ordinary stunts enacted by horses, was shown last week when, after going to a distant location, the company was disbanded when four horses refused to make a jump from a bridge with Mix. It is the contention of both Reynolds and Mix that once you fool a horse you cannot get desired action from him again, and for this reason they gave up shooting one day in order that another horse, which had been trained to do jumps, could be taken to the location.

Roscoe Arbuckle and players are working day and night to complete the next release which is at present known as "The Cook," at the Long Beach studios. The cause of the speed is the fact that Buster Keaton has been called by the draft, and is to report in New York within a few days. Alice Lake, Al St. John and the usual Arbuckle cast are playing in this subject.

Hollywood Hookum

JULY 13, 1918 NEWS MORE NEWS

Fair and Warm.

Al Parker is one of us.

The week's rumor: Goldwyn is coming West.

Jimmie Quirk is in Los Angeles—he says for a vacation.

Bob McKim still maintains he's the meanest man of the screen world.

Lon Chaney's record shows he has played everything from the part of a Hindu to a Hottentot.

And so we have a new impresario of the screen—Mr. J. D. Hampton, of J. Warren Kerrigan Pictures.

Bill Russell is next to give the screen world "The Way It Was," which may or may not be a question.

Priscilla Dean insists that she will be fashionable, and so was seen on Seventh Avenue doing her New York shopping.

Bill Keete is seriously considering entering the secret service. He vows he could at least track an elephant in the snow.

Bertram Grassby, even though Los Angeles is semi-dry, has been cast for the role of "Duke de Sauterne" in "Merry Mary Ma-Guire" with Mae Murray.

Another automobile accident is reported from Hollywood, and B. Ziedman may be charged with running down an innocent Studebaker. Yes, he's a speed bug.

Tom Brerley, Bill Hart's technical man, is expected to have a celebration all his own, for Gene Allen, the business manager, has built Tom a private office.

William Duncan is trying to save the daylight by shooting from eight A. M. to eight P. M., and there are those in his company who say "the daylight saving plan is not a success."

Horace B. Carpenter is said to be the original serial hound—yes, he worked in "The Adventures of Kathleen," but for the sake of Miss Williams will not say how long ago that was.

Christy Cabanne refuses to disclose the secret relative to the brand of mustache wax he uses, fearing no doubt, Consolidated Crepe Hair Corporation might attempt to monopolize the market.

Charley Gerrard was the boss when he and Doug. were back in Dublin as Irish nationalists, but now Doug. weilds the megaphone in the direction of "Should a Woman Tell?" and Charley plays the heavy.

Julius Firthman is no more. His authorial name is now Stephen Fox. All of which indicates he has some cunning in this scenario writing game. (He never reads HOOKUM so it is safe to say anything about him here.)

Jack Livingston has played the part of an English soldier with a streak of yellow so earnestly that he shudders every time a stranger comes near him, fearing it might be a secret service man, but such is "The Price of Applause."

Ben Wilson decided Jack Mulhall should not take a chance in making a sea dive, so a double was secured, but two hours out of port they found him in his stateroom a sick man, so Jack has the distinction of doubling for his double.

The team of Montgomery and Rock are still alive, even though they jump from a nine-story building. (Their friends are going to ask the City Fathers to change the building ordinance, so that a regular skyscraper can be built for them to play about.)

It may be all right for exhibitors to change the title of pictures, inasmuch as it only costs them a dollar and a half per change, but should not the producer, or at least the actor and writer have a look in. We refer to Bert Lytell's opening Metro subject which came out as "Dakota's Revenge."

Gerald Duffy, now in charge of publicity for William S. Hart, has found an effective way of assisting in directing the filming of scenes which provides that he shall hurl large rocks at the players if they do not follow instructions. He did this with a husky extra man the other day, and got away with it.

Members of Company I, 346th Infantry, stationed at Camp Lewis, Washington, have a cub grizzley bear for a mascot, and haye named it Theda Bara. Members expect to leave for overseas shortly, and so wired Miss Bara this week to learn if she would accept the bear for custody until their return. A wire took the affirmative answer, and so the Fox star is daily expecting the arrival of her namesake at the Fox Studio.

Screen Examinations

"The Fly God"
(Triangle—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

LIKE "The Red Haired Cupid," this is one of the Red Saunders stories, by Henry Wallace Phillips, and Roy Stewart is again presented in the character of the ingenious ranch owner. There is something more than interesting plots in these stories by Mr. Phillips. He incorporates in them a real human note. You can always tell one of these notes when they come along because they make you smile and cause your heart to expand or give you that "grand and glorious feelin'" inside. This note, the result of an extensive knowledge of human nature, Mr. Phillips injects by action and by characterization. "Red" himself is a lovable character. And in "The Fly God" we have Jimmy-Hit-the Bottle, an Indian cook excellently played by Aaron Edwards whose careful attention to the baby of the story is both funny and human.

It doesn't seriously affect one's enjoyment in the picture that one of its turning points has been passed over as a mere incident. The title of the picture is derived from the fact that one member of a jury allows a fly to make his decision. If the fly crawls to the top of a window, he will decide "not guilty." And the fly gets to the top. It is on this incident that the picture's title is based. But as it was a minor point in the story anyway, it is probable that Director Cliff Smith decided not to bother much about it. The Triangle press sheet, however, plays this up in all the advertising hints. It would be better to select an outstanding feature.

Mr. Smith knows exactly how to put on Westerns. And in "The Fly God," besides securing a realistic atmosphere for the story he has missed none of its human or humorous possibilities. Mr. Stewart gives a fine performance in the stellar role, and others in support besides Mr. Edwards are Claire Anderson, Edward Peil, Percy Challenger and Walter Perry. Steve Rounds photographed.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Red Saunders (Roy Stewart), ranch owner, comes upon the Allers (Edward Peil and Claire Anderson), who are journeying to Arizona. One of their horses has broken a leg. Red manages to get them to his ranch. Allers is a consumptive, and is very weak. Unwilling to see them go on Red tries in various ways to put Allers to work, eventually securing employment for him in the saloon owned by "Wind River" (Walter Perry). One day a bad man (Lewis Durham) enters the bar. Allers recognizes him as the man who robbed him on the desert. The bad man shoots but misses. Allers hurls a heavy missile at him and kills him. Things look black for him, as the dead man was the brother of the town sheriff. Red prevents the sheriff's followers from lynching his friend. In the meantime Mrs. Allers has become a mother. She receives the best of care from Jimmy (Aaron Edwards), the Indian cook. At Allers' trial she appears with the baby. Its presence seems to move the tough jury, eleven of whom have received their instructions from the sheriff, but it remains for Shorty Stokes (Percy Challenger), the twelfth member, to turn the tide in Allers' favor. The actions of a fly determine his verdict. The trial over, the Allers depart on their way, leaving a score of friends at the ranch.

Time, 50 minutes.

"The Claws of the Hun"
(Paramount-Ince—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

AND now it is Charles Ray who takes a turn at the patriotic picture. "The Claws of the Hun" shows him as a rich young man who is kept from joining the army by his invalid mother. However, when he acts the hero in a spy plot, saves the "papers" and is tortured by Hun agents, invalid mama glimpses the stars and stripes beyond the haze of her illness and proudly sees him enlist. The spy part of this story is purely melodrama, but it is of the polished variety and is presented with the utmost skill. Audiences at the Rialto theatre frequently found themselves unable to keep silent while Ray was beating off the Hun assailants and applauded vigorously when he got the better of six or eight of them.

It is the star's fine characterization of the young enthusiast that lifts "The Claws of the Hun" from the purely melodramatic class in which it might be classified because of its plot. As the youth before whom the thought of serving his country looms glorious, whose hopes are dashed to the ground by the selfish interference of his mother, Ray gives one of those sympathetic and human portrayals for which he is noted. Nor does he lose sense of the part when he enters into the more strenuous passages of the picture. Here in "The Claws of the Hun" we find deft characterization and exciting melodrama, a combination which is certainly extraordinary in any field of story telling.

The story was written by R. Cecil Smith, and directed by Victor Shertzinger. The values of the plot are expertly balanced, the suspense is surely sustained, and the melodramatic part is developed with speed and a real sense of its ever-increasing force. Jane Novak is a most suitable heroine, Robert McKim an equally suitable German spy, while Melbourne MacDowell gives a fine performance as the boy's father.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

When the United States declared war, John Stanton (Charles Ray), son of a munitions manufacturer, Godfrey Stanton (Melbourne MacDowell), determined to enlist. But when his mother insists that she will die if he does, he stay at home. Virginia Lee (Jane Novak), the girl he loves, straightway brands him a slacker. The senior Stanton's secretary, Alfred Werner (Robert McKim), a German spy, traps his employer in his office one night and demands certain plans entrusted him by the government. He threatens to blow up the works if refused. John has stumbled upon the plot and while hastening to his father's rescue is also made captive. They attempt to get the secret from Stanton by torturing John, but neither one weakens. Eventually, John makes his escape and dashes to the rescue of his father, arriving just in time to save the munition works from the hand of the Hun. When he recovers from his injuries, John receives his mother's permission to enlist and the blessing of his father and Virginia.

Length—4,503 feet.

"One Dollar Bid"
(Paralta—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

J. WARREN KERRIGAN is featured in this picture adapted by Tom Geraghty from the story by Credo Harris. He is seen in the role of Toby, a drunken recluse of the Kentucky mountains. The ambition to reform and again find a place in the world is kindled by a young woman with whom he comes in contact in a strange way. There appears to have been an old law in Kentucky to the effect that, providing any member of the community become obnoxious, the sheriff may auction him off to the highest bidder for whom he must work for the period of one year. And the heroine gets Toby for a single dollar.

The romance of these two springing from such peculiar circumstances gives promise of being as entertaining as it is unusual in the first half of the picture, but the latter reels fail to justify these hopes. The continuity is by no means sufficiently compact to retain the interest. It wanders considerably, contains much that is unnecessary and then at times reveals big gaps that should have been bridged with action.

Kerrigan's portrayal of Toby is a good piece of work. Lois Wilson makes a delightful Virginia Dare. Joseph Dowling, Leatrice Joy, Arthur Allardt, Jess Herring, Elvira Weil and Clifford Alexander complete the cast.

Ernest C. Warde directed while Charles Stumar photographed. The locations and camera work contribute much of the attractiveness of the film.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Toby (J. Warren Kerrigan), recluse in the Kentucky mountains, is a heavy drinker, and is generally scorned by the townsfolk. His only friends are Dink Wallerby (Jess Herring), a moonshiner, and his daughter, Nell (Elvira Weil). He teaches the girl reading and writing, and so earns her love. Finally Toby becomes such an irritant to the townspeople that they make use of an old statute and auction him off to the highest bidder. No one bids for him except Virginia Dare (Lois Wilson), a Northern girl, who is visiting her uncle, Colonel Dare (Joseph Dowling). Her scorn for him hurts him to the quick, and gradually he gains a hold on himself, at length earning her admiration. Dink gets into trouble with a revenue officer, and kills him, and circumstantial evidence points to Toby as the murderer. He is on trial for his life when Dink's confession brought by Nell frees him. At one time a lawyer, Toby takes up the defense of Dink, and earns him an acquittal. He then sends Nell away to boarding school, and takes up his residence with Dink in his mountain cabin. Here Virginia, accompanied by a kindly old judge who proves to be Toby's father, finds him.

Length, 4,500 feet.

"The Ghost of Rosy Taylor"
(American-Mutual—Five Reels)
Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

MARY MILES MINTER as Rhoda Eldridge Sayles is seen possibly at her best in this latest American production, for on every occasion required she registers fully up to standard, and as a result, this, combined with her able support and capital direction, "The Ghost of Rosy Taylor" may be set down as a winner. The three "M" girl, demure and chic, is just as charming as ever she was, and whether it comes to innocent pouting or angry indignation, she is captivating just the same.

There does, however, seem to be a waste of footage in the first reel, where several yards are unnecessarily given to a street brawl among women vegetable venders in a French village, for what purpose cannot be divined, as it has absolutely no direct relation to the picture, unless it be to give Rhoda's father a chance to die—she, of course, being detained on her marketing junket by these happenings.

It is, however, a picture full of heart interest and pathos, and whoever was responsible for the locations, he or she showed keen judgment, and the requisite disparity beween the quarters of the city given over to the colored people and the residential districts with their parks and boulevards compared with the squalor of the former is striking indeed.

Young and old alike will enjoy this picture, and again acclaim Miss Minter a capable actress of many parts. Edward Sloman directed.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Following the death of her father, Charles Eldridge (George Periolat), Rhoda Eldridge Sayles (Mary Miles Minter) comes to America, and soon finds herself without funds. Sitting disconsolate in a public park she finds an envelope addressed to Rosy Taylor, which contains a key and a two-dollar bill as well as a note asking Miss Taylor to go weekly to the home of a Mrs. Du Vivier (Helen Howard), and clean it during the owner's absence in the country. Rhoda, discovering that Rosy Taylor is dead, visits the Du Vivier home and cleans it so well that the owner, on her occasional trips to town, is delighted. She believes the work is being done by Rosy Taylor, a negress, recommended by her friend, Mrs. Herriman-Smith (Emma Klunge). To her astonishment Mrs. Herriman-Smith when thanked for having sent the woman, insists that the latter has been dead for weeks. Puzzled as to the identity of the model housekeeper, who is never to be found at her work, Mrs. Du Vivier asks her brother, Jacques Le Clerc (Alan Forrest), to investigate. He finds Rhoda in the house, and believes her a thief, sending her to the Juvenile Court, from which Rhoda escapes and returns to the apartment where she finds a pretty gown left by Mrs. Du Vivier for her mysterious servant. Attiring herself in this finery, Rosy plays at being mistress of the house, and is seated in the library when Le Clerc, tiptoes up, thinking she is his sister, and kisses Rhoda. This launches a romance which reaches its culmination in the discovery that Rhoda is heiress of her millionaire uncle, Joseph Sayles, and a highly eligible debutante. Of course, Le Clerc wins her after some pains.

Screen time, 63 minutes.

"Shark Monroe"
(Artcraft—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

WILLIAM S. HART discards his chaps, guns and cowboy hat in his latest Artcraft, "Shark Monroe," replacing them with the skipper's rig, the togs of the Alaskan miner and his bare fists. This atmospheric change which the star undergoes is by no means unwelcome. It is not only the western bad man who can radiate strength of character in every close-up. It is Mr. Hart himself who is capable of doing this in the full degree and it is gratifying to note that he is here seen in a characterization at variance with the majority of his former ones. He would be dominating, though seen as a traffic policeman.

The story, furnished by C. Gardner Sullivan, embodies those essentials without which no Hart picture would be typically such. The hero is constantly misrepresented to the girl and his various deeds of self-sacrifice appear as vulgar brutality in her eyes. It is not until the end that her eyes are opened to all that he has done for her. This arrangement of the plot suffices to cast a plentiful supply of sympathy in the way of the man, and Mr. Hart certainly does know how to portray suffering. His work has an irresistible appeal. There is a climax wherein he refuses to fight the villain because he believes the girl loves him, which is well sustained through a number of scenes. When at last, however, he learns the truth of the matter he delivers a blow on the jaw of his tormentor that lifts him off his feet, and rests him not so gently on the other side of the saloon never to get up again.

Mr. Hart again took up the director's megaphone, and has acquitted himself of a difficult task with credit. The storm at sea is effective in all shots, save those showing Monroe rescuing Webster when the sea is quite becalmed. The Alaskan snow stuff is beautiful and was well photographed by Joe August. In fact, Mr. Hart's handling of the whole script is commendable. He is naturally thoroughly well acquainted with the Ince school of production, and has employed his knowledge to advantage.

Katherine MacDonald, one of the screen's real beauties, plays with spirit as the girl. Joe Singleton is the villain, George McDaniel the weakling, while Bertholde Sprotte has a pleasing character role.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Shark Monroe (William S. Hart), master of the sailing vessel "Indiana," stops at a water-front saloon in Seattle, and sees Webster Hilton (George McDaniel), a drunkard, refuse to fight when struck by a much smaller man. He is bullying him when Webster's sister, Marjorie (Katherine MacDonald), enters to take him home. It develops that Webster has spent the money for their passage to Skagway, Alaska. Monroe offers to take them up, providing Webster works his way. Marjorie gets a very bad impression of him on the voyage, as Monroe, realizing the low level to which Webster has sunk, apparently mistreats him in the girl's eyes. When they land Webster vows to get even. Monroe, whose admiration for the girl, has grown to love, sells his vessel, and with his mate, McNab (Bertholde Sprotte), sets out for the north to prospect. At a saloon kept by Baxter (Joe Singleton), Webster continues his drinking, encouraged by the proprietor, who desires Marjorie. When Webster is far in debt to him he proposes marriage to her. She accepts, believing this is the only way to repay her debt to him. The ceremony, however, is broken up by the arrival of Monroe, who at the point of a gun takes the bride from the quavering groom and marries her himself. After this Webster vows vengeance, and the thought of some day being able to beat Monroe makes a man of him. Monroe takes Marjorie to the far north, but never so much as lays hands on her. Webster arrives with Baxter and challenges Monroe. Seeing the great change for the better wrought in him Monroe takes a beating from the young fellow. Marjorie discovers from McNab that Monroe was never really married to her, and that he took her from Baxter to save her and to inspire her brother. Her heart goes out to him, and after Monroe has finished with Baxter, she goes to his arms.

Time, 55 minutes.

"The Golden Wall"
(World Film—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"THE GOLDEN WALL" is a comedy-drama of average merit, in which Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley are co-starred. It was written by Clara Beranger and relates how a French nobleman dropped his title in order to make a love match in America. The object of his affections, however, gets the idea that he seeks her money, and so it is by no means easy sailing. The story is clearly developed with Mr. Blackwell doing the comedy honors. There are times though when there seem to have been opportunities for comedy overlooked. The plot is undeniably thin and would have benefited if comedy touches had been used with greater freedom. This, of course, is easier said than done, but there are stretches of uninteresting action that would have permitted further comedy.

Dell Henderson has given the picture a good production and has laid it in a number of pretty garden locations. Besides Miss Greeley and Mr. Blackwell the cast includes Madge Evans and Johnny Hines, two World favorites. Others are the reliable Jack Drumier, George MacQuarrie and Kate Lester

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

The Marquis d'Aubeterre (Carlyle Blackwell), discovers, on the death of his father, that he is penniless. Scorning a marriage for money, yet realizing he must have funds to educate his younger sister, he goes to America and, under the name of Charles Fontaine, secures a position in manager of the estate of Lathrop (Jack Drumier), a millionaire. His daughter, Marian (Evelyn Greenley), takes a dislike to him because she believes him after her fortune. But gradually, Charles establishes himself in her graces. Out exploring an historic tower with her one afternoon they are locked in by the drunken keeper. Marian believes this a trap of his and tells him so. He makes a sensational exit from the tower via. rope and trees, to prove his virtue, but before going, insists that he would never marry her unless she had no money or he had as much as she. Subsequently, Marian discovers the duplicity of another suitor and decides that Charles is the man for her, after all. She asks her father to cut her out of his will and then goes to Charles. But he has had the good fortune to make a lucky investment. Their positions are reversed and all ends happily.

Length—4,500 feet.

"Miss Informed"
(Strand-Mutual—One Reel)
Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

MISS BILLIE RHODES, as Mary, was most certainly misinformed in this case when she went out to gather evidence of a comprising nature to force Andrew Arbuckle to forgive his son for marrying an actress, and in so doing she nearly loses her own beau, Jack (Cullen Landis). William Bevan as a man about town, a regular rounder, gets Newlywed's father to visit a cabaret, and there Mary decides to get in her work, but not knowing the father, she enmeshes Bevan, and it all looked like "love's labor lost," until Mary confronts the two gay Lotharios. It is then that the father realizes she has the goods on him, and he receives his son and danghter-in-law with open arms.

It is up to Strand standard, and is a sure-fire mirth-provoker.

"The Painted Lily"
(Triangle—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

THE striking beauty of Alma Rubens is set in a mediocre setting in "The Painted Lily," which presents the story of the innocent country girl lured to the city by the polished villain and returning to rural bliss after having run through an underworld melodrama in which she suffers much. This plot, developed by Catherine Carr, with a more liberal supply of coincidence than is usual in these days, fails to stir the spectator to any degree of enthusiasm. Toward the end the coincidence becomes so obviously convenient that the whole story tumbles quite out of the dull monotone it has maintained from the beginning and falls to pieces altogether.

Miss Carr's story, however, would have appeared to better advantage had it received skilled treatment. The scenario was prepared by "Cinema Exchange," evidently a new writer in the picture field. But whoever the continuity writer masking under this business-like title, he has run right through the job as if he were painting a board fence. There is no tone to his work, no color, save one and that a tedious gray. The crises are pictured in the same tempo as the incidental scenes.

Miss Rubens plays effectively and receives good support from a cast including Jack Richardson, Claire Anderson, William Mong, Francis McDonald, Alberta Lee and Gene Burr. Thomas N. Heffron directed, with C. H. Wales at the camera.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Mary Fanjoy (Alma Rubens), daughter of a country florist (William V. Mong), marries Cecil Grey (Jack Richardson), a "promoter" from the city. His promotion business proves to be a gambling house, which fact he reveals to her shortly after their marriage. She is completely disillusioned. To make matters worse, he tells her the marriage ceremony was mock. So Mary, not daring to go back and face her father, remains with Grey as a foil in his establishment. However, when London Louie (Gene Burr) is released from jail and starts in to blackmail Grey, there comes a change. The gambling house is raided. Grey, penniless, is at the mercy of alitteration Louie. Mary returns to him after a short visit home to bury her father. Louie forces her to pose as Jeanette, once a "capper" in the gambling house, but killed in the raid, and visit her blind mother (Albert Lee) to rob. But back on the blind lady's farm, Mary is unable to carry out the plan. The blind mother is sweet, and the hired man, Tom (Francis McDonald) is pleasing.. When he proposes she tells him all about it, but this makes no difference. Louie and Grey arrive to rob the town bank, and both are mortally wounded when the sheriff gets active. Grey, dying, confesses that the wedding ceremony was bona fide after all, and so all ends happily.

Time, 55 minutes.

"The Brief Debut of Tildy"
(O. Henry-General—Two Reels)
Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

TILDY'S (Alice Terry) debut was certainly brief. She and Aileen (Betty Blythe) were waitresses in a restaurant. Aileen got all the attentions and Tildy none. One day, however, Mr. Seeders (Wm. Shea), when under the influence of liquor, embraced Tildy and set her heart aflutter. When, however, two days later he apologized for his action Tildy was crestfallen and broken-hearted.

That is the whole story, but it is screened in such an appreciable manner as to prove a decided hit, no matter where shown.

"Sisters of the Golden Circle"
(O. Henry-General—Two Reels)
Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

THE original story of O. Henry is most faithfully depicted in this "Sisters of the Golden Circle," for the production of which a very capable cast was secured, including Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres, Alice Terry and Frank Kingsley.

Mrs. Pinkey McGuire (Alice Terry) only recently married to one Pinkey McGuire (Frank Kingsley), a man with a record and a past of interest to the police, are riding atop a Fifth avenue bus. Sitting alongside are also another newly-married couple, to wit, James Williams (Edward Earle) and his wife (Agnes Ayres). A great resemblance is to be noted between the two men, and when Mrs. Pinkey, after realizing that detectives in an auto are trailing the bus, whispers to Mrs. Williams, things begin to happen.

Pinkey slides down the offside of the bus and makes a getaway in Central Park, and Williams is arrested as Pinkey. It is Mrs. Williams who makes this possible, and she, for a time, sacrifices her new husband's happiness and certainly his appearance in aiding the real Pinkey, simply because she recognized the girl sitting beside her as a "Sister of the Golden Circle," or a newlywed.

It's a prettily gotten up picture, nicely directed and reflects credit upon all the participants therein.

"The House of Hate"
(Pathe—Eighteenth Episode)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

PEARL, after her escape from the electric chair, impersonates Nan Fields, her double, who was executed, and makes another attempt to trap the Hooded Terror. Haynes visits her at her home. At first she acts the part before him, but when the opportunity presents itself she makes him captive and leaves him under the guard of the butler. She is aware of the fact that the Hooded Terror plans trapping Gresham that night and warns him. Gresham is on hand with a force of detectives. Pearl meets the Terror and is surprised when he acts suspicious and demands that she accompany him to his hiding place. Once safe in his lair he reveals his knowledge of her real identity and tells her to prepare for death. She draws a pistol and demands him to remove his hood. This episode is entitled "At the Pistol's Point."

"Fire the Cook"
(Pathe-Rolin—One Reel)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"FIRE THE COOK" presents Toto in another comedy reel. He is chief chef and bottle washer in the home of a millionaire. The home, incidentally is run by the servants. Toto proceeds with various stunts in which he displays his limberness and the air of nonchalance he assumes in executing them makes them quite funny. He is supported by Bud Jamieson, Clarine Seymour, Margaret Joslin and Harry Todd.

THE ROBERT BRUNTON STUDIOS

5341 MELROSE AVENUE LOS ANGELES, CAL.

SOME RECENT PRODUCTIONS

MADAM WHO?
ROSE O' PARADISE
WITHIN the CUP
BLINDFOLDED
PATRIOTISM
MAID O' THE STORM CONSCIENCE
AN ALIEN ENEMY
SHACKLED
WEDLOCK
THE LITTLE SISTER OF EVERYBODY
CAROLYN OF THE CORNERS
A MAN'S MAN
TURN OF A CARD
ONE DOLLAR BID
CARMEN OF THE KLONDIKE
ALIMONY
HIS ROBE OF HONOR
"HUMDRUM" BROWN
WITH HOOPS OF STEEL
THE BELLS
MORE TROUBLE
THE ORLEANS STAGE
TWENTY-ONE
THE GHOST OF THE RANCHO
ALL WRONG
The ONE WOMAN
INSIDE the LINES
THE MAN OF BRONZE
BLUE BLOOD
HONOR'S CROSS
SOCIAL AMBITION
THE TEMPLE OF DUSK

Perfectly equipped studio space for independent units.

Productions made to order at flat price or cost plus, with or without personal supervision.

"One Thousand Dollars"

(Vitagraph—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

KENNETH WEBB, whose name has been added, only recently, to our list of directors, has tried his hand in the creation of O. Henry's "One Thousand Dollars" for screen presentation. As an O. Henry story, they don't come much better, then this one, but as a subject for dramatization, it offers just fair entertainment. The plot action isn't there. There isn't enough material for five reels of dramatic action. Not until the fourth reel is there anything resembling "punch," either in action or thought expressed. Our friend Henry never meant that this work of his should be presented on the screen in five reels of the silent drama, else he would have given his creation a more vigorous pair of supporting legs, on which to stand. In his inimicable way, the author could take one or two incidents common to everyday life, and by surrounding these incidents with Greenwich Village atmosphere, or that which hangs over the inhabitants of any section west of Fifth avenue, could pen a story that defies competition for quality of enjoyable reading matter.

But when this same material is given to a director for the silent drama in the form of a script and the continuity writer serves only that material and those incidents of which the author wrote, said director is going to find it pretty rough going, if he is to create five reels of drama with the major portion of his working script made up of "atmosphere."

Because "One Thousand Dollars" is not a hundred per cent. production, is not the fault of Director Webb. It is the fault of O. Henry, first, and, secondly, the fault of the continuity writer who prepared the adaptation. The author's offense is slight because it was not his purpose to serve his entertainment via the screen. His mission was to prepare interesting reading which he did to perfection. The continuity writer, then, must take the blunt of the charge.

The picture opens with scenes showing a "devil-may-care" young aristocrat driving madly down Fifth avenue with a motor cycle policeman in hot pursuit. A flash or two with sub-titles intervening should suffice to put this action over. Director Webb, in the absence of plot action, was obliged to shoot two or three hundred feet of this action. He may have relied on the fact that views of Fifth avenue and Fifth avenue traffic, would prove an interesting subject for the screen. He may be correct. There are thousands out through the country who will enjoy every foot of the scenes. Therefore, Director Webb is both right and wrong. As Addison's "Spectator" remarked when asked to decide an argument, "Much can be said on both sides."

Commencing with fourth reel we get some good live material, and from them on things move along at a rapid gait. The play, as a whole, is light, but entertaining and for those who enjoy the light drama with sprinklings of good light comedy and self-sacrifice, "One Thousand Dollars" will fill the bill.

Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres and Florence Deshon have the principal roles. All three are favorably known to picture fans. And all three are seen to fine advantage in this offering. Templar Saxe and Anne Brody are seen in minor character roles. The interior settings are appropriate and nicely appointed. The lighting is good, as is the photography. The sub-titles are free from the flowery expressions, to the point and heightened occasionally by good bits of humor.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Eddie Gillian (Edward Earle), nephew and favorite of his crabbed old uncle, Old Bryson (Templar Saxe), is a "high flyer" and speed fiend. Margaret Hayden (Agnes Ayres), Bryson's ward, is Eddie's idea of a loving wife-to-be. But Eddie likes to pal around with Lotta Laurier (Florence Deshon), a burlesque star.

Old Bryson dies, and, when the will is read, the servants, Margaret and Eddie, gather around to hear its reading. Eddie receives a thousand dollars with the proviso that he must account for every dollar spent. He asks several people, including a hack driver and a blind beggar what they would do with a thousand if they had it. There suggestions are not suitable. Eddie hits on an idea. Margaret is leaving, and he decides to give her the thousand, explaining that it was overlooked in the reading of the will, and that she was to receive it. He then goes to make a report to the lawyer. It is then that he learns that by the terms of his uncle's will he was to receive half-a-million providing he spent the thousand judiciously, otherwise it was to go to Margaret, the testator's ward.

He tells the lawyer he gambled the amount, and the lawyer goes to tell Margaret of her good fortune. But the secret is learned, and Eddie and Margaret decide to pool the interests and become partners for life.

"The Clemenceau Case"
(Fox Big Six—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"THE CLEMENCEAU CASE," adapted from the Alexandre Dumas work, was one of Theda Bara's most successful early pictures, and William Fox did well to select it as one of his Big Six of 1918. Even though four years have passed since it first saw the screen, it ranks today with her best efforts. She is again the heartless vampire, on which type of role she made her reputation. She played the part of the Dumas lady for its full worth and was aided by an excellent cast, which included William E. Shay, Stuart Holmes, Frank Goldsmith and Jane Lee, then much smaller than she is now.

The scenario shaped from the Dumas work was commendable in every fashion. The interest remains at a high pitch from beginning to end and there are innumerable powerful situations in the two chief episodes, respectively the betrayal of Clemenceau by his wife, and Clemenceau's subsequent plot which ends in her death when he sees the domestic happiness of his dearest friend menaced by her insatiable desire for conquest.

The picture was excellently directed. About the only way it can be distinguished from a modern made production is by the clothes worn by the players.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

In Paris, Iza (Theda Bara), a model, marries Pierre Clemenceau (William E. Shay), an artist. Soon afterwards, however, she becomes the consort of Duke Sergius (Frank Goldsmith), an exceedingly rich member of the aristocracy. She scorns all that is good and beautiful and is responsible for Pierre's mother (Mrs. Allan Walker) leaving him. But despite all precautions taken by Iza, Pierre discovers her perfidy. He challenges Sergius to a duel and kills him. Iza discovers to her delight that Sergius has bequeathed her his entire fortune. Pierre accompanies his closest friend, Ritz (Stuart Holmes) to America, where he takes up his residence with his wife and child. Pierre is fond of Ritz's child (Jane Lee) and is happy partaking of the ideal domestic life of his friend. Iza, however, has also come to America and when Ritz meets her his head is completely turned. He becomes her slave. So Pierre, not able to bear another tragedy, kills Iza and gives himself up. And so Ritz is restored to his wife and child.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin"
(Paramount—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

ALL the beautiful sentiment, the inspiring pathos, the beauty of soul and character and the marvelous influence the innocent childish appeal of Little Eva, cast over a momentous question, and the lives of an oppressed people, have been skillfully emphasized by Director Dawley in his production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." All that is lacking is the bark of the hounds as they are led in pursuit of Eliza, who crosses the ice-filled river to a haven of freedom and rest. Director Dawley has suppressed, advisedly, the whipping scenes which are accentuated to the nth degree in the stock productions touring the country, to a bare flash on the screen. He has played up the sentimental interest and the characters of Little Eva and Topsy, both portrayed by Marguerite Clark, and in the scenes in which these two characters appear together on the screen some of the best double exposure work that has ever left a laboratory is seen.

Marguerite Clark is, in the language of the enthusiastic matinee girl, "immense." She registers the characters of both Little Eva and Topsy with a surpassing degree of artistry. Her work in the role of Topsy is the better, if discrimination may be indulged in. Director Dawley has given this character a little the best of the argument and played it up to the minute. But also Miss Clark looks the part of Little Eva, acts the part, and for all the world is not over ten years of age—a work of art in itself.

The escape across the ice could not have been staged with greater realism. The old, picturesque river-boat is seen flapping its ungainly paddle-wheel down the Mississippi. The role of Simon Legree, portrayed by Walter Lewis, is given only a flash of prominence. Only a flash of the lawyer character, Phil Riley in the role, which is played up in the stage production, is given. Some good comedy is seen in the episodes showing Topsy under the instruction of Ophelia, portrayed by Mrs. Priestly Morrison with fine appreciation. J. W. Johnston, Florence Carpenter (Eliza), are very good; Henry Lee, Augusta Anderson, Henry Stamford, who gives a good performance in the role of St. Clair; Ruby Hoffman, Susanne Willis, Thomas Carnahan and Jere Austin are seen.

The lighting and photography are examples of fine art in these branches. The picture has been cut with care and with the end in view to whip up the action to top speed. The sub-titles are few and sufficiently explanatory. Credit is not given for the continuity.

As a dramatic production, Paramount's adaptation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is all that the public could wish for. The question as to whether it will take in this or that locality must be decided by the exhibitor. He knows his audience and his audience knows "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

"Other Men's Daughters"
(Fox—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Peter Milne

"OTHER MEN'S DAUGHTERS," by E. Lloyd Sheldon, is a picture in which the double standard figures prominently. Other things which figure are divorce, wild revelry and a road house, where, as its proprietor, Mike Donlin frankly says, everyone is known as Smith. It deals with a man, Reynolds by name, who has besmirched the name of a beautiful dancer, once respected in her country home. The dancer's father plans a terrible revenge. He suggests to Reynolds' supposed friend that he accomplish the ruin of Reynolds' daughter, and therein lies the climax. The daughter, however, comes out of the scrimmage safely and there is an ending as happy as possible under all the circumstances.

This story has been well staged by Director Carl Harbaugh, a Fox director who seems quite capable of handling any sort of picture, whether comedy, drama or sex melodrama. In "Other Men's Daughters" he has kept his story moving swiftly and has handled its many intricacies smoothy. Despite some rather false turns it takes during its course, he has managed to make the whole gripping in the accepted sense of the word. The climax in particular was effectively staged.

Peggy Hyland as the plotted against daughter plays a trying emotional role. Her support includes Eric Mayne as the father, Riley Hatch as the other father and Regina Quinn as the dancer. Miss Quinn plays most effectively in a role that provides her with a number of opportunities. Elizabeth Garrison, Frank Goldsmith and Robert Middlemas complete the cast.

All things considered, "Other Men's Daughters" should be well received by that portion of the public that likes the picture with a predominant sex element.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Shirley Reynolds (Peggy Hyland), at boarding school, learns that her father (Eric Mayne) and mother (Elizabeth Garrison) have separated. The cause is Reynolds' hilarious parties with various questionable women. His mistress, Lola (Regina Quinn) is named by Mrs. Reynolds as co-respondent. Shirley attempts to effect a reunion and to this end visits her father's apartment one night. A party is in progress. Another unexpected visitor is Lola's father, Wayne (Riley Hatch), who has come with intent to kill Reynolds. Shirley, however, prevents this. After the party has been dismissed by the surprised Reynolds, Wayne contemplates a more horrible revenge. Trask (Frank Goldsmith), a hanger-on at all Reynolds' affairs has looked with envious eyes on Shirley. Wayne suggests that he lure her to a road house and turn her over to him (Trask). Trask accepts this plan and Wayne puts it through. Reynolds also has been summoned by Wayne so that he may realize how he feels about his daughter. But Shirley's persistent suitor (Robert Middlemas) also appears and when the game is learned a general fight starts. Lola, to save Shirley, tells her father that it was Trask and not Reynolds that betrayed her. In the locked room, Shirley struggles with Trask. Wayne climbs on the roof and pulls Trask from the window. He is killed in the fall to the ground. Satisfied that a "jury of fathers" will not convict him he departs with his daughter. Reynolds is despondent. His wife will not forgive him. But Shirley is made happy with her sweetheart.

Time—60 minutes.

"The Kid Is Clever"
(Fox—Five Reels)
Reviewed by Joseph L. Kelley

GEORGE WALSH'S latest medium through which he meets the public, via screen drama, is "The Kid Is Clever." It resembles an old-fashioned "crazy quilt" in plot construction and nowhere near as "comfy." But we understand, George's mail brings daily, communications from all quarters of the globe, complimenting him on his screen work and these communications, 'tis said, number thousands. Therefore it is safe to assume, that there are at least, thousands, who will "go mad, simply mad, over 'The Kid Is Clever.'"

If Director Paul Powell had put his star pupil through some Walsh stunts and sprinkled these through his production he would have something substantial, and surely something in the way of welcome diversion to an otherwise crazy story. George does some rough-and-tumble work in the way of fistic combats, but none of the real thrillers that he is capable of doing and putting over in regular Fairbanks' style.

Just an average program picture is the proper digest of this one.

It will neither call for ravings on the part of an audience, nor will it terribly depress. They will see it through, and then spend a few minutes on their way home wondering what it was all about—that is the story.

Randolph Lewis, the author, had a good idea, but his execution of its construction and enlargement to a proper dramatic vehicle, was poor. He wandered in his thoughts and threw his incidents in at any old time and place. And the director followed meekly in the path blazed by the author and continuity writer.

Doris Pawn has the leading feminine role opposite Mr. Walsh, and Ralph Lewis, A. Burt Wesner, Don Likes and Clyde Hopkins are seen in support. The photography and lighting are very good. John Leezer was at the camera.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Kirk White (George Walsh), college graduate and athlete, with a terrible aversion to work of any kind, is the son of a munitions maker, Stephen White (A. Burt Wesner). Dad is at loss to make a man of his son. He realizes that his son is of a romantic and adventurous nature, so he decides to test him. He gives Kirk six months in which to seek adventure before starting the career he, the father, has mapped out for him.

Leaving his father's office, Kirk accidentally makes the acquaintance of Jane Ogden (Doris Pawn), and she gives him the impression that she is a motion picture actress, while in reality she is the daughter of a wealthy broker. She tells him that she is sailing for Havana the following day. Kirk decides to take passage on the same boat. Dad and a motion picture magnate frame up a series of thrillers for Kirk, which they contend will cure him of his appetite for such.

After clearing port, the ship's crew start a mutiny. Kirk thinking the mutinous acts a put-up job, handles the crew in actor style. On reaching Mexico, Kirk and Jane are made prisoners. An insurrection is started, and Kirk, thinking that it is only part of the father's plot, takes it as a joke. But he learns that he has been mixed up in real adventure after he has been rescued by U. S. Cavalry. Kirk and Jane agree that they should settle down.

"Her Disengagement Ring"

(Strand-Mutual—One Reel)

Reviewed by F. G. Spencer

KEEN rivalry exists between Harry (Wm. Bevan) and Jack (Cullen Landis) for Mary's (Billie Rhodes) hand, and by using underhand methods Harry nearly wins out.

There is plenty of harmless comedy in this single reeler, and some of the situations utilized are unique indeed.

Will surely prove an acceptable filler.

"The Empty Cab"

(Bluebird—Five Reels)

Reviewed by Peter Milne

"THE EMPTY CAB" is a good, fast mystery story, winding up with a laughable surprise ending. F. McGrew Willis, who wrote it, has skilfully maintained the mystery, and it is not until a few scenes prior to the last that the clue to the whole thing is discovered. With the type of plot presented in "The Empty Cab" this is a task demanding a writer well acquainted with his medium. He is deprived of the usual means of development and must needs jump into the middle of his story and keep it going with mere "jazz." It was this sort of picture that Douglas Fairbanks did in "Manhattan Madness." The mystery turned out to be a put-up job. Franklyn Farnum has the same experience in "The Empty Cab."

There is a good amount of incidental comedy running through the whole picture and the surprise finale is handled cleverly and should go a long way toward putting it over with the audience. Jimmie, the embryo reporter, upon discovering that his long story regarding the round-up of the counterfeiters is not printed at all complains to the editor. But then upon looking about the office he discovers every member of the counterfeiting gang occupying a desk. It was a put-up job and the laugh is on Jimmie.

Farnum appears to advantage in the role of the reporter. Eileen Percy, erstwhile with the Fairbanks company, is the feminine interest and exceedingly interesting, while others are Harry DeMore, Frank Brownlee, Harry Lindsey and Fred Kelsey. Douglas Gerrard's direction is most satisfactory.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Jimmie (Franklyn Farnum) wakes up one morning to discover that his father has grown tired of paying his bills. The idea of work doesn't appeal to him strongly but he finally lands in a newspaper office and demands a job. He gets it and his first assignment is to run down a gang of counterfeiters. So in he plunges. A load of the most mysterious sort of adventure awaits him and there is a gretty girl (Eileen Percy) who calls upon him to rescue her diverse times. Eventually, Jimmie believes he has succeeded in rounding up the gang and he writes his story with much enthusiasm. Much to his chagrin, it does not appear in print the next day. He seeks the managing editor and places his complaint before him. And then, to his amazement, he looks about the office to discover that all the counterfeiters are reporters, the pretty girl, the society editor. His father, it appears, had bought the paper and had issued instructions to the staff to treat Jimmie rough. And they were dutiful, but Jimmie won a wife.

Length—4,750 feet.

"The Safety Curtain"

(Select—Six Reels)

Reviewed by Peter Milne

RECENTLY we called attention to the fact that a picture concerning the woman with a past was quite uninteresting because it was just that and nothing else. "The Safety Curtain" goes to prove that with intelligent treatment, from plot construction to direction, such a theme may be made as dramatically sustaining as the most original theme. It is an adaptation of a book by Ethel M. Dell. It offers Norma Talmadge the part of Puck, a little waif of the English music halls who marries a British army officer when she believes her former husband dead. To this role she brings all those varied capabilities for which she has justly gained fame as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, emotional actress on the screen. She makes the tired littl dancer a human and appealing figure, nor does she relax her hold on the sympathies when later she is seen as the wife of the army officer. Her alertness, her ability to change her expression in an instant makes her constantly the center of attraction.

Miss Dell's story has a very dramatic beginning within the walls of the music hall, where Captain Merryon rescues Puck from the burning stage. Subsequently the scene shifts to India where for a time Merryon lives in happiness with his wife. The shadow of the past which hangs menacingly over Puck's great happiness creates a strong portion of suspense, and when finally the blow falls it carries a mighty punch. Here, however, the picture steps away from the conventional in its development. Captain Merryon entertains only pity, not anger, toward his wife. He understands. And with the death of the heavy from the fever all ends happily.

Nor is the picture at all conventional in development from start to finish. The course that the book travelled was refreshing in its every turn and the adaptors, S. A. Franklin and Paul West, have seen to it that the original spirit is preserved on the screen. Mr. Franklin's direction is most creditable. He is undoubtedly one of the best dramatic directors in the business today, and his handling of "The Safety Curtain" bespeaks of this skill in every scene. The fire scenes in the theatre are realistic to a degree and the atmosphere of the Indian army post creates a perfect illusion.

Eugene O'Brien heads the supporting cast as Captain Merryon and contributes an exceedingly polished performance. The part fits him well and as usual he shows himself the thorough actor in every movement and gesture. Anders Randolph as Vulcan, the strong man of vaudeville, gives a skilful performance as the heavy, while Gladden James and Lillian J. Hall round out the cast of principals.

Albert Moses and Ed Weynard photographed the picture and have done generally good work. The rain storm effect with its difficult lightings is specially commendable.

THE STORY AND PLAYERS

Puck (Norma Talmadge) has been taken from the London streets by Vulcan (Anders Randolph), who does a strong-man act, and made her his wife. He is exceedingly cruel to her and employs her as a dancer to gain him more funds. Captain Merryon (Eugene O'Brien), a British officer, home on leave from his post in India, visits the music hall and on this particular night, something goes wrong with the electrical attachments and a fire starts. The safety curtain is dropped, preventing the fire from reaching the front of the house. Captain Merryon, seeing that Puck is in danger from her place on the stage, takes her in his arms and bears her to the street. She is reported burned to death by the evening papers and so is Vulcan. In Merryon's apartment, Puck rests easily and breathes a sigh of relief when she reads that Vulcan is reported lost. A bond immediately springs up between Merryon and Puck, as neither of them have a friend in the world, and the result is that Puck goes back to India as Captain Merryon's wife. Here they live as man and wife in name only. Puck is fearful that her past will become known, as she has not told her husband of Vulcan. During the extremely hot season she goes to the hills with the rest of the women from the post. There she again meets Sylvester (Gladden James), a man whom she was once called upon to dismiss, not gently, from her dressing room. He tells her that Vulcan is still alive and her hopes are dashed. Sylvester promises silence if Puck will but pay the price. She flees from him, however, and returns to the army post. There is a cholera epidemic raging and Merryon has returned to his home, fatigued. There, Puck joins him. After a few days of bliss, Vulcan appears on the scene and Puck is forced to tell the whole story to Merryon. She decides that it will be for the best if she leaves him, but the fateful plague intervenes and Vulcan breathes his last, leaving no barrier between Captain Merryon and his wife.

Time—84 minutes.

"Mexico To-Day," George D. Wright's Picture Released by Educational, Is Proving Very Popular Through Its Entertaining Qualities

Promotion and Demotion

By WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER

EVERY once in a while comes a Smug Slicker whose ideas about the motion picture "game" would slop over on a twenty-four sheet, but whose actual knowledge of the industry could be written on a Thrift Stamp and leave room for a P. S.

This promotor person usually knows more than a little about the Ways and Means of financial retouching and enlarging even though his photographic knowledge is lower than a U-boat.

The promotor usually manages to manage a small calibred chap who used to work for a film company and was so good that he fell into the habit of accepting a new title every now and then instead of a wage raise.

So, learning that it is customary among real film men to have frequent conferences, they usually call a conference and confer and confuse—and thus is launched a new venture on the Celluloid Sea. The Smug Slicker furnishes the sucker list, engineers the come-to-me prospectus and the ex-film expert polishes up his old titles, sets them in bold face type and furnishes the ignorance.

Something should be done to discourage and disfranchise ventures of the class built for revenue from stock sales only. It is a crime that costs the industry as much, if not more than it costs the public who seek to ride into Opulence the easiest way. Furthermore, the waste of money and time is unpatriotic and not at all in line with our Win-the-War policy.

It is always easier to offer a criticism than it is to suggest a remedy, but it seems to me that some control can be exercised through the industry itself whereby good faith and ability must be established before any individual or group of individuals receive even casual recognition or encouragement from the trade or the trade journals.

The money taken away from the public by stock jobbing "picture" schemes would buy enough Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps to do a world of good and would aggregate a Red Cross contribution of magnificent proportions.

The knowing ones in the Motion Picture Industry have been wailing for some time about overproduction and extravagant distribution methods, and while it is quite true that possibly new blood will enable us to better cope with the situation, it is also reasonable to assume that the remedy can come from within the industry; certainly it is not to be had from, or through, either ignorant promotors with good intentions, or piratical men who are successful promotors of unsuccessful enterprises.

Men of sound business judgment, men who have the capital and experience and the proper purpose should be made welcome and are, but every one of us should do everything within our individual power to protect the public and our industry from the harmful and destructive influence of unprincipled or unsound promotors who prey upon prestige and pocketbook alike.

The time has arrived when it is our definite duty to the Government, as well as to ourselves, to put the Motion Picture Industry on a sound basis. The day of higher purpose is here. Merely waving the flag and printing platitudes will not suffice. Personal animosity and jealousy, selfish and sordid interests must be put aside. It is the time for "reel" co-operation and co-ordination. We must make for greater efficiency—we must save more money that we may give more—we must make more money that we may donate more to the cause, and we must exert every energy to weed out and keep out any person, persons or corporation not in full sympathy with our all important task of making our world sound and safe. We must do more than just our bit—we must protect the public to the full extent of our power.

Fitchtenberg in New York

Herman Fitchtenberg is in New York as representative of the Consolidated Film and Supply Company, of Atlanta, Ga.

Anna Q. Nilsson, Franklyn Farnum and Cast In the Metro Production, "Judgment," Made on the West Coast

Features---Current and Coming

American Standard Motion Pictures Corp.

Tom Brett Comedies.....2 reels
The Blackmailers .....5 reels
Ignorance .....6 reels
S. O. S.....6 reels
Mormon Maid .....6 reels
Whither Thou Goest.....6 reels
God's Man .....5 reels
The Wolf Girl (Beatrice Allen).....2 reels
Turned Up (Nat Goodwin).....5 reels

Bluebird Photoplays

July 1. The Empty Cab (Eileen Percy, Franklyn Farnum) 5
July 8. The Deciding Kiss (Edith Roberts). 5
July 15. Winner Takes All (Monroe Salisbury) 5
July 22. (Title not decided) 5
July 29. (Title not decided)..... 5

Universal Productions

July 1. Hell Bent (Harry Carey) (Special Attraction) 6
July 15. Her Body in Bond (Mae Murray) Special Attraction 6
July 22. Special Attraction (No release this week) .....
July 29. The Mortgaged Wife (Dorothy Phillips) 6

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

(Successors to Paramount Pictures Corp.)

June 16. The Bravest Way (Sessue Hayakawa)
June 23. The Firefly of France (Wallace Reid)
June 23. A Desert Wooing (Enid Bennett)..
July 1. The Kaiser's Shadow (Dorothy Dalton) .....
July 1. Sandy (Jack Pickford).....
July 8. The Claws of the Hun (Charles Ray)
July 15. The City of Dim Faces (Sessue Hayakawa) .....
July 15. Uncle Tom's Cabin (Marguerite Clark) .....
July 22. The Vamp (Enid Bennett).....
July 29. Less Than Kin (Wallace Reid).....

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

June 2. A Doll's House (Elsie Ferguson)..
June 16. Say Young Fellow (Douglas Fairbanks) .....
June 16. Hit-the-Trail Holliday (George M. Cohan) .....
June 23. How Could You Jean? (Mary Pickford) .....
July 8. Shark Monroe (Wm. S. Hart).....
July 8. We Can't Have Everything (C. B. De Mille).....
July 22. The Great Love (D. W. Griffith)....
July 29. The Danger Mark (Elsie Ferguson).

First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life."
Ambasador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
"Tarzan of the Apes" (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
"Passing of the Third Floor Back" (Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson).
"Tempered Steel" (Mme. Petrova). .....
"The Life Mask" (Mme. Petrova).
"The Light Within" (Mme. Petrova).
"Daughter of Destiny" (Mme. Petrova).
"Patience Sparhawk" (Mme. Petrova).
Edgar Lewis's "The Sign Invisible" (Mitchell Lewis).
Herbert Brenon's "Empty Pockets."
Herbert Brenon's "Fall of the Romanoffs" (with Ilidor).
"Alimony" (Josephine Whittell).
"Pershing's Crusaders."

Fox Film Corporation

SPECIAL FEATURES

June 23. The Scarlet Road (Gladys Brockwell) .....
June 30. The Kid Is Clever (George Walsh).
July 7. Other Men's Daughters (Peggy Hyland) .....
July 14. Her Price (Virginia Pearson).....
July 21. Miss Innocence (June Caprice).....

Fox Standard Pictures

Mar. 24. Rough and Ready (Wm. Farnum).. 6
Apr. 7. The Blindness of Divorce..... 7
June 16. Under the Yoke (Theda Bara)....

Goldwyn Pictures Corp.

July 14. The Glorious Adventure (Mae Marsh) 5
July 28. Back to the Woods (Mabel Normand) 5
Aug. 11. Friend Husband (Madge Kennedy) 5
Aug. 25. Money Mad (Mae Marsh)..... 5

GOLDWYN SPECIALS

The Manx-Man 7
For the Freedom of the World.... 7

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

(Paralta Plays)

May 13. Rose o' Paradise (Bessie Barriscale) —
May 27. Shackled (Louise Glaum)..... —
June 10. Patriotism (Barriscale)..... —
June 24. One Dollar Bid (Kerrigan)..... —
July 27. Wedlock (Glaum)..... —
July 27. Maid of the Storm (Barriscale)..... —
Aug. 4. Burglar for a Night (Kerrigan)..... —

Jewel Productions, Inc.

Come Through.
Pay Me.
Sirens of the Sea.
Man Without a Country.
The Correspondent.
The Price of a Good Time.
The Grand Passion.
The Doctor and the Woman.
The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin.
A Soul for Sale.

Perfection Pictures

(GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM)

Feb. 25. Ruggles of Red Gap (Essanay).... —
Feb. 11. The Unbeliever (Edison) 7
Apr. 7. A Pair of Sixes (Essanay)..... —
June — The Unchastened Woman (Rialto De Luxe) 7

Metro Pictures Corporation

June 24. A Man's World (Emily Stevens), Metro 5
July 1. Opportunity (Viola Dana), Metro.. 5
July 8. No Man's Land (Bert Lytell), Metro 5
July 15. A Successful Adventure (May Allison), Metro 5

(SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS)

Lest We Forget (Rita Jolivet), Screen Classics, Inc. 8
The Legion of Death (Edith Storey), Metro-Rolfe 7
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana), Metro-Rolfe..... 7
Revelation (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
The Slacker (Emily Stevens), Metro..... 7
Draft 258 (Mabel Taliaferro), Metro..... 7
My Own United States (Arnold Daly), Froham 8
The Million Dollar Dollies (Dolly Sisters), Emerald 5
Toys of Fate (Nazimova), Screen Classics, Inc. 7
To Hell With the Kaiser..... —

Mutual Film Corporation

June 24. Up Romance Road (Wm. Russell), American 5
July 1. No release.
July 8. Ghost of Rosy Taylor (Mary Miles minter) American 5
July 15. No release.

Oakdale Productions

The Locked Heart (Gloria Joy).....5 D
No Children Wanted (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Marylee Mixes In (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Wanted, A Brother (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Sallie 'O (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Little Miss Grown-up (Gloria Joy).....5 D

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

June 23. The Voice of Destiny (Baby Marie Osborn), Diando 5
June 30. A Little Sister of Everybody (Bessie Love, George Fischer), Pathe.. 5
July 7. Annexing Bill (Gladys Hulette, Creighton Hale), Astra..... 5
July 14. More Trouble (Frank Keenan, John Gilbert, Clyde Benson, Roberta Wilson, Helen Dunbar)..... 5
July 21. Cupid by Proxy (Marie Osborne) Diando 5

Select Pictures

June 10. The Claw (Clara K. Young)..... 5
June 15. Cecilia of the Pink Roses (Marion Davies) 6
June 20. Good Night Paul (Constance Talmadge) 5
June 30. The Whirlpool (Alice Brady)..... 5

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Chas. Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn).. 5
The Barrier (Rex Beach Production)..... 7
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5
The Public Be Damned (Charles Richman, Mary Fuller) 6

Triangle Distributing Corporation

(Subject to change without notice)

June 23. You Can't Believe Everything (Gloria Swanson) 5
June 23. Closing In (William Desmond).... 5
June 30. The Painted Lily (Alma Rubens).. 5
June 30. The Fly God (Roy Stewart)..... 5
July 7. A Good Loser (Peggy Pearce). 5000 ft.
July 7. Every Woman's Husband (Gloria Swanson) .....5000 ft.
July 14. Marked Cards (Margery Wilson) 5000 ft.
July 14. Hell's End (Wm. Desmond)....5000 ft.
July 21. By Proxy (Roy Stewart).....5000 ft.
July 21. False Ambition (Alma Rubens).5000 ft.
July 28. Golden Fleece (Joe Bennett, Peggy Pearce) .....5000 ft.
July 28. Beyond the Shadows (Wm. Desmond) .....5000 ft.

Vitagraph V-L-S-E

June 24. The Girl in His House (Earle Williams, Grace Darmond) 5
July 1. Tangled Lives (Harry Morey, Betty Blythe) 5
July 8. One Thousand Dollars (Edward Earle, Agnes Ayres, Florence Deshon) 5
July 15. Love Watches (Corinne Griffiths).. 5
July 22. To the Highest Bidder (Alice Joyce) 5
July 29. A Gentleman's Agreement (Nell Shipman, Alfred Whitman)..... 5

World Pictures

June 24. A Woman of Redemption (June Elvidge) 5
July 1. Heart of a Girl (Barbara Castleton, Irving Cummings) 5
July 8. Tinsel (Kitty Gordon, Muriel Ostrich, Frank Mayo)..... 5
July 15. The Golden Wall (Carlyle Blackwell, Evelyn Greeley, J. Hynes, Madge Evans) 5
July 22. Joan of the Woods (June Elvidge, John Bowers, George MacQuarrie). 5
July 29. Neighbors (Madge Evans, Johnny Hynes) 5

Releases in the Independent Field

For Manufacturers' Addresses, Names and Addresses of Buyers handling films in any territory, or any other additional information write—State Rights Department, Motion Picture News

Arrow Film Corporation

The Deemster.
Eyes of the World.
Ramona.
Weavers of Life.
Souls Redeemed.
Persuasive Peggy.
Today.
The Mad Lover.
The Woman's Law.
Right Off the Bat.
The Struggle Everlasting.
The Accidental Honeymoon.
Million Dollar Mystery (Revised Edition).
The Finger of Justice.

Atlantic Distributing Corporation

Nine-tenths of the Law (Mitchell Lewis) 6 reels
The Devil's Playground (Vera Michelena) 7 reels

Big Productions Film Corp.

VICTORIA FEATURE FILMS
The Sunset Princess (Marjorie Daw).

Christie Film Company

One Reel Comedy Issued Weekly
Whose Wife?
The House that Jack Built.
Never Surprise Your Wife.
In and Out.
Betty's Adventure.
By Orange Aid.
All Dressed Up.
Red Crossed.
Here Comes the Groom.
Somebody's Baby.
Regular Patsy.
Love and Gold Bricks.
Their Breezy Affair.
Kids.
Efficiency.
Just Like Dad.
This Way Out.
Where is Your Husband?

Commonwealth Pictures Corp.

Charlotte, in The Frozen Warning.

Coronet Film Corporation

LIVING STUDIES IN NATURAL HISTORY
Animal World, No. 1 Issue.
Animal World, No. 2 Issue
Birdland Studies.
Horticultural Phenomena.

Cosmofotofilm Company

Incomparable Mistress Bellairs.....4 reels
Liberty Hall .....4 reels
The Black Spot.....4 reels
Victoria Cross .....4 reels
His Vindication .....5 reels
I Believe .....7 reels
The Hypocrites .....6 reels

Crest Pictures

Lust of the Ages.....6 reels
The Grain of Dust.....6 reels

Doll Van Film Corp. (Chicago)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Mad Lover.
Public Defender.
Carmen of the Klondike.
The Grain of Dust.
Hearts of the World.
The Crucible of Life.
Nine-tenths of the Law.
The Belgian.
The Zeppelin's Last Raid
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman.

M. S. Epstin

Raymond L. Ditmars' "The Depths of the Sea," in a series of four parts.

Export and Import Film Co.

Birth of Democracy.
Why the Bolsheviki?

Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick, Clifford Bruce, Reine Davies).
The Bar Sinister (Edgar Lewis's production).
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy).
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon).
One Hour (Zena Keefe and Alan Hale).
A Trip Through China.
The Fringe of Society (Milton Sills, Ruth Roland).
The Cast-Off (Bessie Barriscale).
The Submarine Eye.
Whither Thou Goest.
Should She Obey?
Men.

Fort Pitt Corporation

The Italian Battlefront.

Frohman Amusement Corp.

The Witching Hour (C. Aubrey Smith, Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold, Marie Shotwell and Robert Conness.....6 reels
Conquest of Canaan.....5 reels
God's Man .....9 reels
My Own United States (through Metro).
Gaumont Co.
The Hand of Vengeance.....
Gaumont Co.

General Enterprises, Inc.

Mother (Elizabeth Risdon, McClure)....6 parts
The Warrior (Maciste) (McClure).....7 parts
The Liar (Jane Gail, Stanley Walpole)...6 parts

Jesse J. Goldburg

SCRANTONIA PHOTOPLAY CORP.
May 6. Cheerful Liars.
May 13. Fate and Fortune.
May 20. Parson Pepp.
May 27. The Ring and the Ringer.
RIALTO FILM CORPORATION
Apr. 15. My Husband's Friend.

Graphic Features

Apr. 1. Moral Suicide.

D. W. Griffith

Hearts of the World.

Hiller & Wilk, Inc.

(Pictures handled in the Open Market)
"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."
"Sporting Life."
"The Battle of Gettysburg."
"The Wrath of the Gods."
HART, FAIRBANKS, KEENAN AND TALMADGE RE-ISSUES
William S. Hart
The Patriot.
Captive God.
The Dawnmaker.
The Return of Draw Egan.
The Devil's Double.
Truthful Tulliver.
The Gunfighter.
The Square Deal Man.
The Desert Man.
Wolfe Lowry.
Douglas Fairbanks
The Good Bad Man.
Reggie Mixes In.
Flirting with Fate.
The Half Breed.
Manhattan Madness.
American Aristocracy.
The Matrimaniac.
The Americano.
Frank Keenan
The Thoroughbred.
Jim Grimsby's Boy.
The Sins Ye Do.
Bride of Hate.
The Drab.
Norma Talmadge
Children in the House.
Going Straight.
The Devil's Needle.
The Social Secretary.
Fifty Fifty.

Ivan Feature Productions

One Law for Both (Rita Jolivet, Vincent Serrano, Leah Baird, Pedro De Cordoba, James Morrison).....7 reels
Babbling Tongues (Grace Valentine, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson).....7 reels
Married in Name Only (Gretchen Hartman, Milton Sills, Marie Shotwell).....6 reels
Sins of Ambition (Barbara Castleton, Wilfred Lucas, Leah Baird, James Morrison) .....7 reels
Human Clay (Mollie King).....5 reels
Life or Honor (Leah Baird, James Morrison, Violet Palmer, Edward Mackey) .....6,500 ft.

Jester Comedies

April —. All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)...2 parts
May —. The Wrong Flat (Twede Dan)..2 parts
June — It's a Great Life.
July — His Day Out.

Renowned Pictures Corporation

The Public Defender.....6 reels
Naked Hands .....5 reels
Mother Love and the Law.....7 reels
In Treason's Grasp.....5 reels
Should She Obey?.....7 reels

Frank J. Seng

Parentage .....7 reels

U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp.

Just a Woman (Charlotte Walker).
The Crucible of Life (Grace D'Armond).
Men (Charlotte Walker, Anna Lehr, Robert Cain, etc).
Those Who Pay (Bessie Barriscale).
The Belgian (Walker Whiteside, Valentine Grant).
The Zeppelin's Last Raid.

Ernest Shipman

JOSH BINNEY COMEDIES—Featuring Fatty Filbert. One release a month.
June — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers....2 reels
July — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
Aug. — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Oct. — Fred's Frivilous Fiancee.....2 reels
W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.—Featuring Shorty Hamilton. One five-reeler per month.
May — Denny From Ireland.....5 reels
June — The Snail .....5 reels
July — The Ranger .....5 reels
The Curse of Eve—Six-part Drama.
FRANCIS FORD PRODUCING COMPANY—(Releasing six feature pictures per year.
Now Released: Berlin Via. America....6 reels year for open market.
In Production: A Man of Today.....6 reels
To Follow: The Fourth Generation.....6 reels
The Coast Guard Patrol—Seven Parts.
A Nugget in the Rough—Five Parts.
Trooper 44—Five Parts.
The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Nell Shipman).
Bill Tinger's Poems—A series of one-reel comedy dramas issued semi-monthly.
THE TITAN FEATURE PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, Spokane—Six feature pictures per year for open market.
Walker Whiteside—(In a seven-part drama for Japanese Secret Service in America).

W. H. Productions Co.

William S. Hart as Two Gun Man in "The Bargain" .....6 reels
William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" .....5 reels
William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" .....5 reels
Also Series of two-reel W. H. Hart productions.
Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale).

Romayne Superfilm Company

Me und Gott or "The Crimson God"....5 reels
(Depicting the Kaiser's attempt to enslave the world.)

Western Import Co.

Mickey (Mabel Normand).

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

SCENICS
Apr. 3. The Making of Russian Caviar. 850 ft.
Apr. 10. White Water and Windy Willie —Where the Clouds Come From .....1,000 ft.
Apr. 17. Our Egypt of the Southwest..1000 ft.
Apr. 24. The Cruise of the Quickern'ell..1000 ft.
May 1. Tidbits of Travel .....1000 ft.
May 8. What the Ice Age Left.....1000 t.
May 15. The Silent Wonderlands of the West. No. 1 .....1000 ft.
May 22. Following the Course of the Cayuse .....1000 ft.
May 29. The Silent Wonderlands of the West. No. 2 .....1000 ft.

Short Subjects Current and Coming

Josh Binney Comedies

(FEATURING FUNNY FATTY FILBERT)

May — Fabulous Fortune Fumblers.....2 reels
June — Fred's Fictitious Foundling.....2 reels
July — Freda's Fighting Father.....2 reels
Aug. — Fatty's Fast Flivver.....2 reels
Sept. — Fatty's Frivolous Fiancee.....2 reels

Educational Film Corp. of Amer.

SCENICS

May 1. Tidbits of Travel.....1000 ft.
May 8. What the Ice Age Left.....1000 ft.
May 15. The Silent Wonderlands of the West, No. 1.....1000 ft.
May 22. Following the Course of the Cayuse .....1000 ft.
May 29. The Silent Wonderlands of the West, No. 2 .....1000 ft.

DITMARS "LIVING BOOK OF NATURE"

Apr. 22. Wild Goats and Sheep.....500 ft.
May 6. Wild Babies .....500 ft.
May 20. The Friendly Bee .....500 ft.
Apr. 8. Night Animals .....500 ft.
—Wild Goats and Sheep.....
—Wild Babies .....
Apr. 15. Milan Cathedral; Logging in Italy. .....

BRUCE SCENICS

—The Course of the Cayuse.....
—What the Ice Age Left.....

NEWMAN TRAVEL PICTURES

Tid Bits of Travel.....
Our Egypt of the Southwest....

CARTOONS

May 6. Der Two Twins (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.
May 13. His Last Will (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.
May 20. Der Black Mitt (Katzenjammer Kids) .....500 ft.

BENJAMIN CHAPIN'S PARAMOUNT SERIES

The Son of Democracy.

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

PARAMOUNT BRAY PICTOGRAPHS

July 1. Schematography, The Art of Correcting Injurious Postural Habits; With the Deep Sa Anglers; Animated Technical Drawing—E. Dean Parmlee.
July 8. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 1; Beauty to Order, The Advanced Art of Dermatology; Cartoon by Wallace Carlson.
July 15. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 2; Preparing the Victory Army; In Nature's Gardens; Cartoon by Earl Hurd.
July 22. Helping Humanity to Be Healthy and Happy, No. 3; An African Game Hunt; Motion Analyzed (first of a series analyzing motion); Cartoon by Bray Studios.
July 30. Why Batters "Fan Out" (second in a series analyzing motion); Animated Technical Drawing—E. Dean Parmlee.

PARAMOUNT BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES

July 1. Auckland: The Metropolis of New Zealand.
July 8. Rotorua: The Yellowstone of the Antipodes in New Zealand.
July 15. Among the Maoris of New Zealand.
July 22. Wellington and the North Island of New Zealand.
July 29. Down South in New Zealand.

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES

Moonshine.
No release this month.
July 8. Good Night, Nurse.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNETT COMEDIES

May 6. His Smothered Love.
May 20. Battle Royal.
June 3. Love Loops the Loop.
June 17. Two Tough Tender Feet.
July 1. Her Screen Idol.
July 15. Ladies First.
July 29. Her Blighted Love.

PARAMOUNT FEATURE—"THE SON OF DEMOCRACY"

Mar. 4. My First Jury.
Mar. 11. Tender Memories.
Mar. 18. A President's Answer.
Mar. 25. Native State.
Apr. 1. Down the River.
Apr. 8. The Slave Auction.
Apr. 15. Under the Stars.

Fox Sunshine Comedies

Mar. 3. Her Husband's Wife.....2 C
Mar. 17. A Selfmade Lady.....2 C
Apr. 7. A Waiter's Wasted Life.....2 C
May 5. A Neighbor's Keyhole.....2 C
June 2. Wild Women and Tame Lions....2 C
June 30. Who's Your Father?.....2 C

Fox Film Corporation

MUTT AND JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS

May 5. A Fisherless Cartoon.....½ reel
May 12. Occultism .....½ reel
May 19. Superintendents .....½ reel
May 26. Tonsorial Artists .....½ reel
June 2. The Tale of a Pig.....½ reel
June 9. Hospital Orderlies .....½ reel
June 16. Life Savers .....
June 23. Meeting Theda Bara .....
June 30. The Seventy-five-Mile Gun .....

General Film Company

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES
(O. HENRY STORIES)

The Purple Dress (Agnes Ayres, Evart Overton) .....2 D
The Enchanted Profile (Agnes Ayres, Evart Overton) .....2 D
The Girl and the Graft (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Sisters of the Golden Circle (Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle) .....2 D
Brief Debut of Tildy (Alice Terry, Betty Blythe, William Shea) .....2 D
Mammon and the Archer (Agnes Ayres, Jane Jennings, Edward Earle) .....2 D

(WOLFVILLE TALES)

The Clients of Aaron Green (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Cynthiana (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns)....2 D
Tucson Jennie's Heart (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Faro Nell, Lookout (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Dismissal of Silver Phil (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
The Coming of Faro Nell (Patricia Palmer, Bob Burns) .....2 D
Winning of the Mocking Bird (Carol Halloway, Robert Burns) .....2 D

BLUE RIDGE DRAMAS
(Ned Finley)

The Return of O'Garry.....2 D
Mountain Law.....2 D
The Raiders of Sunset Gap.....2 D
O'Garry Rides Alone.....2 D
The Man from Nowhere.....2 D

ESSANAY
GEORGE ADE FABLES
ESSANAY COMEDIES (1 reel)

Our Little Nell.....1 C
Check Your Hat, Sir.....1 C
Wild Algy of Piccadilly.....1 C
All Stuck Up.....1 C
The Lie That Failed.....1 C
The Jazbo Sheriff.....1 C

SNAKEVILLE COMEDIES
(One reel each)

Sophie's Legacy.
Sophie Gets Stung.
Slippery Slim, Diplomat.
Slippery Slim and the Claim Agent.
Slippery Slim's Stratagem.
A Hot Time in Snakeville.
A Snakeville Epidemic.
Snakeville's Ne wSheriff.
Sophie's Birthday Party.

ESSANAY SCENICS

How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising .....1 Sc.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada .....1 Sc.
Water Powers of Eastern Canada.....1 Sc.
A Romance of Rails and Power.....1 Sc.
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelley .....1 Sc.

CHAPLIN COMEDIES

By the Sea.....1 C
In the Park.....1 C
Work .....2 C
A Woman .....2 C
The Tramp .....2 C
His New Job.....2 C
A Night Off.....2 C

JAXON FILM CORP.

"A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM" SERIAL (Jane Vance, Wm. Sorelle) 12 Episodes .....1 D

JAXON COMEDIES

The Unofficial Maneuver.....1 C
What Occurred on the Beach.....1 C
An All-Fools' Day Affair.....1 C
Beating Him to It.....1 C
Forced Into Matrimony.....1 C

JUDGE BROWN STORIES

Love of Bob .....2 C-D
Dog vs. Dog.....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Three Fives.....2 C-D
Kid Politics .....2 C-D
A Boy Built City.....2 C-D
The Case of Bennie.....2 C-D

HANOVER FILM COMPANY

Camille (Helen Hesperia).....6 D
The Marvelous Maciste.....6 D
Monster of Fate .....

VICTORY FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

The Triumph of Venus (Betty Lee) .....

DUPLEX FILMS, INC.

Shame (Zena Keefe).....7 D

RANCHO SERIES

In the Shadow of the Rockies.....2 D
Where the Sun Sets Red.....2 D

COSMOFOTOFILM

Hypocrites (Elizabeth Risdon) .....6 D

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS CO.

Physical Culture Magazine .....1 Educ.

CLOVER COMEDIES

From Caterpillar to Butterfly.....1 C
A Widow's Camouflage.....1 C
Love's Lucky Day.....1 C
O, the Women.....1 C

EBONY COMEDIES

Busted Romance.....1 C
Spooks .....1 C
The Bully .....1 C
The Janitor .....
Mercy, the Mummy Mumbled.....1 C
A Reckless Rover.....1 C
Are Working Girls Safe?.....1 C
The Comeback of Barnacle Bill.....1 C
Some Baby .....1 C
Good Luck in Old Clothes.....1 C

DIAMOND COMEDIES

Way Up in Society (Diana Allen).....1 C
His Fatal Fate (Dana Allen).....1 C
Her Ambitious Ambition.....1 C
His Matrimonial Moans.....1 C

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO. (Inc.)

Why—The Bolsheviki.....5 D

INTERSTATE FILM COMPANY

The Last Raid of Zeppelin L-21 (War Event) .....2000 ft.

PROGRESSIVE FILM

On a Fox Farm (Educational) .....1 reel

VICTORY FILM MFG. CO.

The Triumph of Venus.....5 D

CRYSTAL FILM CO.

Romeo and Juliet.....2 C

CRYSTAL COMEDIES
(Pearl White, Estelle Deland, Don Barclay, William Browning)

What She Did to Her Husband, Almost Lucky .....1 C
What's in the Trunk?.....1 C
Reuben's Romance .....1 C
The Lady Detective, His Wedding Day....1 C
Troubled Waters .....1 C
Her Necklace, His Hoodoo Day.....1 C

HIGRADE FILM ENTERPRISES, INC.

Billie in Society (Ray Hughes).....2 C
Buneo Billy (Billy West).....2 C
Billy in Harness (Billy West).....2 C
Boarders and Bombs (Billy West).....2 C

AUTHOR'S PHOTO-PLAYS

Her Moment (Anna Luther) .....6 D

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

The Locked Heart (Gloria Joy).....5 D
No Children Wanted (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Marylee Mixes In (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Wanted, a Brother (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Sallie 'O (Gloria Joy).....5 D
Little Miss Grown-up (Gloria Joy).....5 D

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

CAPITOL COMEDIES
(Featuring "Smiling Bill" Parsons)

May 6. Bill's Baby.....2 reels
May 20. Bill's Predicament.....2 reels
June 3. Birds of a Feather.....2 reels
June 17. Matching Billy .....2 reels

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from preceding page)

King Bee Comedies

Apr. 1. The Scholar.....2 reels
Apr. 15. The Messenger.....2 reels
May 15. The Handy Man .....2 reels
June 1. Bright and Early .....2 reels
June 15. Straight and Narrow .....2 reels

George Kleine System

MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S COMEDIES "GIRLS YOU KNOW"

Mar. 13. The Man Eater.....Edison
Mar. 27. The Stenog.....Edison
Apr. 10. The Art Bug.....Edison
Apr. 24. A Good Sport.....Edison
May 8. The Starter .....Edison
May 22. The Spoiled Girl .....
June 5. The Lonesome Girl .....

ESSANAY

Mar. 29. Broncho Billy's Indian Romance.
Apr. 5. Broncho Billy, A Friend in Need.
Apr. 12. Broncho Billy's Wild Ride.
Apr. 19. Broncho Billy's First Arrest.
Apr. 26. Broncho Billy and the Rustler's Child.
May 3. Broncho Billy's Last Deed.
May 10. Broncho Billy's Squareness.
May 17. Broncho Billy's Secret.
May 24. Broncho Billy and the Greaser.
May 23. Broncho Billy's Fatal Joke.
June 7. Broncho Billy's Grit.
June 14. Broncho Billy's True Love.
June 21. Broncho Billy and the Western Girls.
June 28. Broncho Billy Wins Out.
July 5. Broncho Billy Trapped.
July 12. Broncho Billy Rewarded.

LINCOLN-PARKER WORLD TRAVELOGUE

Mar. 1. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 1.
Mar. 8. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 2.
Mar. 15. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 3.
Mar. 22. Peru, The Land of Incas, No. 4.
Apr. 29. Peru and Scenes Around Lake Titicaca, Bolivia.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO-DREW COMEDIES

Mar. 18. Special Today.....1 C
Mar. 25. When a Man's Married.....1 C
Apr. 1. Gas Logic.....1 C
Apr. 8. A Youthful Affair.....1 C

Mutual Film Corporation

STRAND (BILLIE RHODES)

June 25. Her Spooney Affair.....1 C
July 1. Miss Informed .....1 C
July 8. Her Disengagement Ring .....1 C
July 15. Like Mother Made.....1 C

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES

To be issued one a week

June 30. Ex-Cannibal Carnival .....
July 7. Kaieteur .....
July 14. Mountaineering Memory .....
July 21. Zuni Kicking Races.....
July 28. A White Wilderness.....
Aug. 4. A Coorial on the Orinoco.....

SCREEN TELEGRAM

Issued Sunday and Wednesday of Each Week

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Sunday, June 30, 1918

The Furniture Movers (Toto, Bud Jamison, Clarine Seymour), Rolin.....1 C
Guadeloupe (Post Film Co.), Educ.....1 reel

Sunday, July 7

An Ozark Romance (Harold Lloyd).....2 C
Dominica (Post Film Co.), Educa.....1 reel

Wednesday, July 10

Hearst-Pathe No. 56.....1 top

Saturday, July 13

Hearst-Pathe No. 57.....1 top

Sunday, July 14

Fire the Cook (Toto, Clarine Seymour, Bud Jamison), Rolin.....1 C
Our Volcanic Neighbors (Post Film Co.), Educ.....1 reel
Allies' Official War Review, No. 3.....1 top

Wednesday, July 17, 1918

Hearst-Pathe News, No. 58.....1 top

Saturday, July 20, 1918

Hearst-Pathe News, No. 59.....1 top

Sunday, July 21, 1918

Kicking the Germ out of Germany (Harold Lloyd, Bebe Daniels, Harry Pollard)—Rolin .....1 C
East Indies of Trinidad (Post Film Co.) Educational .....1 reel
Allies' Official War Review, No. 4.....1 top

BRITAIN'S BULWARKS

(Official Government Pictures—One reel each)

June 23. No. 7, Fighting the Hun at St. Quentin .....
June 30. No. 8, Destruction Wrought by the Hunt at St. Quentin.....
July 7. No. 9, King George and Queen Mary Witness the Black Arts of War...
July 14. No. 10, With the Policemen of the Allies on the North Sea.....
July 21. No. 11, The Canadians on the Western Front .....

"THE HOUSE OF HATE" (ASTRA)

(Serial) Two reels each

(Pearl White, Antonio Moreno, Paul Clerget, John Webb Dillion, Peggy Shaner)

June 2. Thirteenth Episode, Enemy Tliens.
June 9. Fourteenth Episode.
June 16. Fifteenth Episode, The False Signal.
June 23. Sixteenth Episode, The Vial of Death.
June 30. Seventeenth Episode, The Death Switch.
July 7. Eighteenth Episode, At the Pistol's Point.
July 14. Nineteenth Episode, The Hooded Terror.
July 20. Twentieth Episode, Following Old Glory.

Triangle Distributing Corp.

TRIANGLE COMEDIES

Mar. 3. A Discord in A Flat.....1 C
Mar. 3. His Hidden Shame.....1 C
Mar. 10. Wives and Worries.....1 C
Mar. 10. She Didn't Do It.....1 C

KEYSTONE RELEASES

May 19. Newspaper Clippings (Francis McDonald, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
May 26. Are Wives Unreasonable? (Ed. Brady, Claire Anderson).....2 C
June 2. The Poor Fish (Ed Brady, Claire Anderson) .....2 C
June 9. Flapjacks (Geo. Hernandez, Josie Sedgwick, F. McQuarrie).....2 C
June 16. Isn't it Warm? (Bill Dyer, Harry Depp, Claire McDowell).....2 C
June 23. Cupid and the Cop.....2 C
June 30. Pearls Without Price.....2 C

UNIVERSAL FILM COMPANY

Monday, July 1, 1918

NESTOR—The Butler's Blunder (Eileen Sedgwick) .....1 C

Wednesday, July 3, 1918

L-KO—Phoney Photos (Neal Burns, Rua Rogers) .....2 C

Monday, July 8, 1918

NESTOR—Oh, Man! (Eileen Sedgwick)...1 C

Wednesday, July 10, 1918

L-KO—The Belles of Liberty (Rube Miller and L-Ko Beauties).....2 C

Monday, July 15, 1918

NESTOR—The Pursuing Package (Harry Mann, Kathleen O'Connor).....1 C

Wednesday, July 17, 1918

CENTURY COMEDY—Choo Choo Love (Alice Howell) .....2 C

Monday, July 22, 1918

NESTOR—Repeating the Honeymoon (Eileen Sedgwick) .....1 C

Wednesday, July 24, 1918

L-KO—Clean Sweep (Merta Sterling, Billie Armstrong) .....2 C

Monday, July 29, 1918

NESTOR—Bruin Trouble (Belle Bennett)..1 C

Wednesday, July 31, 1918

CENTURY COMEDY—Hoot, Toot! (Alice Howell) .....2 C

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS

July 6. Naked Fists (Neal Hart).....2 D
July 13. The Branded Man (Helen Gibson).2 D
July 20. The Shooting Party (Mignon Anderson) .....2 D
July 27. The Pay Roll Express (Helen Gibson) .....2 D
Aug. 3. The Human Target (Kingsley Benedict, Claire Du Brey) .....3 D

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY

July 3. Number 31.
July 10. Number 32.
July 17. Number 33.
July 24. Number 34.
July 31. Number 35.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE

July 6. Number 78.
July 13. Number 79.
July 20. Number 80.
July 27. Number 81.
Aug. 3. Number 82.

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS

July 6. Number 60.
July 13. Number 61.
July 20. Number 62.
July 27. Number 63.
Aug. 3. Number 64.

LYONS-MORAN STAR COMEDIES

July 1. Bad News .....1 reel
July 8. Shot in the Dumb Waiter.....1 reel
July 15. Almost Welcome .....1 reel
July 22. The Vamp Cure.....1 reel
July 29. A Duck Out of Water.....1 reel

SERIALS

"THE BULL'S EYE"

Two Reels Each

(Eddie Polo)

May 6. Fourteenth Episode, The Firing Squad.
May 13. Fifteenth Episode, The Stained Face.
May 20. Sixteenth Episode, Running Wild.
May 27. Seventeenth Episode, In Irons.
June 3. Eighteenth and Last Episode, The Runaway.

"THE LION'S CLAWS"

Two Reels Each

(Marie Walcamp)

June 24. Thirteenth Episode (In Disguise).
July 1. Fourteenth Episode (Hell Let Loose).
July 8. Fifteenth Episode, The Bridge of the Beast.
July 15. Sixteenth Episode, The Jungle Pool.
July 22. Seventeenth Episode (Title not decided).
July 29. Eighteenth Episode (Title not decided).

BOY SCOUTS TO THE RESCUE

Universal Special

Apr. 15. Aides of a Nation, No. 1.....2 reels
Apr. 22. On the Trail, No. 2.....2 reels
Apr. 29. The Great Mine Disaster, No. 3.2 reels
May 6. The Spies, No. 4.....2 reels
May 13. Treachery at Sea, No. 5.....2 reels

Vitagraph

BIG V COMEDIES

July 1. Bonds and Banners.
July 8. Hindoos and Hazards.
July 15. Skippers and Schemers.
July 22. Bathing Beauties and Big Boobs.
July 29. Wounded Hearts and Wedding Rings.

THE WOMAN IN THE WEB (Serial)

(Hedda Nova, J. Frank Glendon)

June 24. Hurled to Destruction (Twelfth Episode).
July 1. The Hidden Menace (Thirteenth Episode).
July 8. The Crash of Fate (Fourteenth Episode).
July 15. Out of the Web (Fifteenth Episode).

A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS (Serial)

(William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Toe Ryan)

July 15. The Snare (First Episode).
July 22. Flames of Peril (Second Episode).
July 29. The Secret Stockade (Third Episode).

DREW COMEDIES

(Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)

July 1. Cupid's Column .....
July 8. Boobley's Baby .....
July 15. The Honeymoon Baby .....
July 22. The Cub and the Daisy Chain.....
July 29. Their Agreement .....

WHARTONS, INC.

The Eagle's Eye (Serial), featuring King Baggott, Marguerite Snow, twenty episodes—two reels each.

EXHIBITORS' PERSONALS

KENTUCKY

Tony Sudekum, manager of the Crescent Amusement Company, which operates the Princess theatre, Hopkinsville, has renewed his lease from L. H. Davis for a term of years, and now contemplates the rebuilding of the theatre. While this work is going on, the Rex will be repainted, and the Princess picture service transferred thereto.

NEW YORK

Al. Nathan, who has been managing the Broadway theatre, New York City, for the past few months, left last week to assume the management of the Hollman theatre, Montreal, Canada. He will be succeeded at the Broadway by M. Kashin, former manager of the Superba theatre, Los Angeles, and the Empress and Alhambra theatres in San Francisco.

OHIO

Michaels and McIntosh, who formerly operated the Princess theatre, at Ashland, have gained control of the Opera House, while the Princess has been reopened by J. H. Clark, and renamed the "Band Box." Mr. Clark formerly operated the Opera House here. Michaels and McIntosh also conduct the Grand theatre.

Paul Gusdanovic, owner of the Orpheum, East Ninth street; the Homestead, West Twenty-fifth street, and the Norwood, St. Clair avenue and East Sixty-fifth street, Cleveland, has just added another motion picture theatre to his string of local houses by the purchase of the Eclair, St. Clair avenue and East Seventy-sixth street.

PENNSYLVANIA

Charles Segal has assumed the management of the Fifty-sixth Street theatre, Philadelphia, which brings his total of theatres to four, three of which are being run as motion picture theatres, and one has been taken over by the Government for war work.

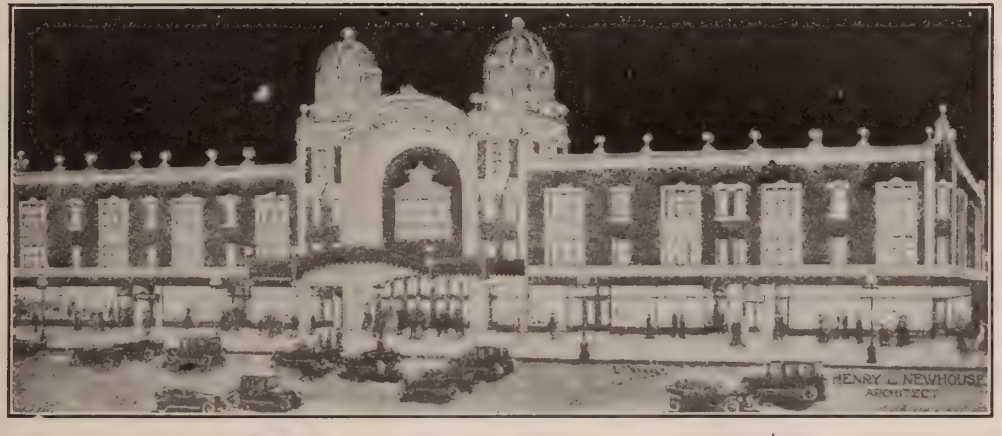
Manager Murphy, of the Family and Arcadia theatres, Philadelphia, has installed female ushers, ticket sellers and water carriers. William Katz, formerly of the Stanley theatre, is handling the projection machine at the Arcadia.

TEXAS

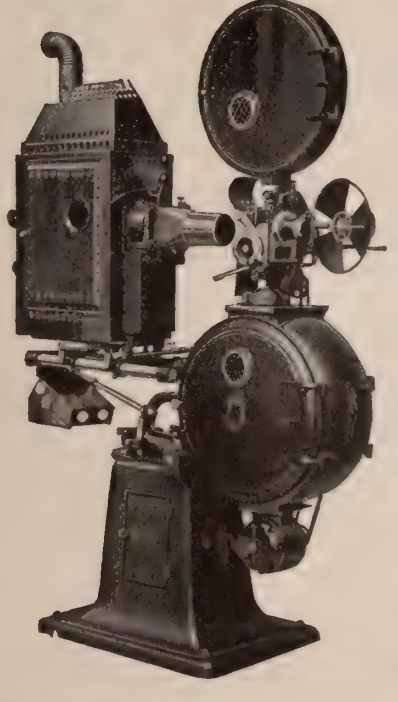
Carl Hoblitzelle, head of the Interstate Amusement Company, which controls the Majestic theatre, Dallas, has closed a three-year lease for the Dallas Opera House, which has been used by the Majestic management since the old Majestic was destroyed by fire.

Accessory News

– SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS –



The Howard Theatre, Chicago



Chicago's newest and most magnificent Photo-play Theatre uses

Motiograph De Luxe

Seavers & Zahler, lessees of the new Howard Theatre, selected Motiographs, knowing their ability to give perfect results, having given them a severe test in the famous Karlo Theatre, Chicago.

You may give your Theatre a gorgeous effect from decoration and lights but don't overlook the Booth; equip it with the best projection— THE MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE — and every patron will be satisfied with the projection.

Write for Motiograph Literature

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
561 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Illinois

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

The importance of safe-guarding a reputation is not under-estimated at the Eastman factories.

EASTMAN FILM

means a film that is absolutely dependable and uniform—rigid tests and careful inspection prevent its ever meaning anything else.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

BETTER SATISFACTION

This notice is addressed to the minority of our subscribers who do not regularly answer advertisements. The service described is, however, open and free to all who wish our help.

We do not wish to discourage you from writing direct to our advertisers; in fact, you do not do enough of it for your own good, but we do want you to get the proper goods to fit your needs.

There are many, perhaps you, who are too busy to write each company separately; therefore we are offering our co-operation, which means that you will receive full information on any subject which you may designate by merely filling out the coupon, designating by numbers the goods in which you are interested.

Your inquiries thus received will be forwarded to reputable manufacturers, even though the goods on which you wish information are not advertised in the "News."

1. Advertising Novelties
2. Architectural Suggestions
3. Arc Controllers
4. Brass Rails
5. Building Material
6. Cameras—Camera Attachments —Camera Lenses
7. Carbons
8. Chairs
19. Chair Upholstery
10. Change Making Machines
11. Condensers
12. Converters and Transformers
13. Developing Material
14. Developing and Printing
15. Developing Tanks
16. Disinfectants and Perfumes
17. Economizers
18. Electric Signs
29. Elevators and Escalators
20. Exterior Lighting
21. Film Cabinets
22. Film Carriers
23. Film Cement
24. Film Cleaners
25. Film Dyes
26. Film Stock
27. Fire Extinguishers
28. Floral Decorations
29. Gas Engines
30. Generators (See Gas Engine Card)
31. Heralds
32. Interior Lighting
33. Interior Telephones
34. Laboratory Apparatus
35. Lenses
36. Lighting Sets
37. Lithographers
38. Lobby Display
39. Lobby Novelties
40. Metal Ceilings
41. Motors
42. Mural Paintings
43. Musical Instruments
44. Paints
45. Perforating Machines
46. Printing Machines
47. Programs
48. Projection Booths
49. Projection Lenses
50. Projection Machines
51. Projection Machines (Homes)
52. Rectifiers
53. Reels
54. Rewinders
55. Rheostats
56. Safety Exit Locks
57. Screens
58. Slide Ink
59. Slides
60. Slip Covers
61. Stage Setting
62. Studio Lights
63. Tickets
64. Ticket Selling Machine
65. Ticket Taking Machine
66. Tripods
67. Uniforms
68. Vacuum Cleaners
69. Ventilating and Fans

Gentlemen: Please send me descriptive matter on the subjects marked in the above lists.

Name.....

Theatre.....

City.....

State.....

Accessory News

SECTION OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Editor

ALFRED S. CORY.....Technical Editor

Laboratory Work

THE attitude of mind of some people for whom we all have more or less respect is sometimes peculiar to say the least. We wonder how they can allow some things to go on about them which they seem to encourage rather than put a stop to. It is done however every day, yet whenever we run into the condition anew we wonder at it, forgetting that we have ever heard of it before.

That every man who does a job for you or sells you something deserves his legitimate profit, is something with which we should all agree, even when we are doing the buying; be it in the purchase of an organ, projection machine, charis, or even developing the printing. Some purchasers of these commodities or services, however, seem to think that if they can take them away from the seller without allowing him a profit they have done something of which they should be proud.

An incident occurred the other day which caused a decided shock considering the source, yet it was so flagrant a case that it is well worth citing here. I was talking to the manager of the largest organization handling films in the world. He had a considerable amount of developing and printing to be done which it was necessary to handle with a great deal of care and to turn out promptly. We talked the whole thing over and he finally told me what he was going to pay for the work. I will not quote the price, yet from my knowledge of raw stock, chemicals, labor, taxes and other incidentals I felt sure it could not be done for the price—and done right.

I expressed my surprise at any one risking a valuable negative in this way, for it was impossible for it to be properly handled for the price. My only satisfaction was to be told that developing and printing was absolutely a matter of price and nothing else.

There is little doubt, but that our friend or those whom he represented did not realize the risk which was being taken. They could not have known that laboratories are being opened continually, inspired by the beautiful dream of the millions of feet of new positive film turned out and distributed by the industry each week, and hoping that they may become rich by sharing in its production.

There are today in the New York territory some six or eight high class laboratories which quote on large orders the lowest price possible and still leave a profit, yet below this price they can not and will not go. The footage can be gotten out, however, for less money, but the quality of work is not there—it can not be and must not be expected, the risk is so great that their bids should not be considered.

Developing is a science—it demands chemical knowledge—it demands skilled labor—it demands the utmost care in handling—it demands certain temperature of air and chemical baths—it demands proper drying under certain conditions—the printing machines must be of the best type, also the perforating machines, both being operated by experienced hands. This means the best skilled labor obtainable, which in turn means a large outlay of money in salaries.

The film companies, big and small, also all want more or less financial credit which is given or not in accordance with the rating of the company in question. This also costs money to carry. It is obvious, therefore, that the following is true:

1. A laboratory must have proper up-to-date equipment.
2. A laboratory must have men doing the work who have had experience and know how to turn out a well developed or printed film.
3. A laboratory must have good financial backing.

These three requirements cost money and can not be had in every shop which has a developing tank and a drying drum. Producers in general must pay the closest attention to these three conditions—they should insist on them or they should take their film elsewhere.

Is it right for any man to spend thousands of dollars for a story—in settings, stars' salaries, negative stock, good cameras, etc., and then in order to save a quarter of a cent per foot allow some junk laboratory do the final work on the film and prepare the prints to be shown to the public? Why not save on production overhead and splurge a bit on the developing and printing? Twelve dollars a foot production cost is low for most features, yet in saving a quarter of a cent per foot on printing, most of our picture friends would gladly risk all this labor, cost and time, and consider that they had turned a great trick in the saving.

The fireproof storage protection of the negative is also most essential, as this represents the entire production cost. For this reason alone the laboratory not properly equipped and housed should never be considered, even for the poorest work.

To perform laboratory service is not merely to grind out a specified number of positive prints. Quality prints are the first requisite, of course; these can only be made if the laboratory is properly equipped and supervised. But, then, it is important that each print is known to show screen brilliancy and proper continuity before it is packed and shipped. Many exhibitors have been embarrassed by the showing of prints improperly assembled or with entire scenes missing, or by the exhibition of prints not of standard or uniform quality. There is no excuse for these faults if the negative itself has proper photographic value and the laboratory has lived up to the promises made by its salesmen.

In placing a developing and printing contract it is well to look into the record and standing of the laboratory. It is a good idea to obtain a financial rating, as well as trade opinions, so that reliability and responsibility are definitely established.

Don't take any man's word for his "wonderful plant." Verify the salesman's assertions; if you can not visit and inspect the plant yourself, delegate some trustworthy friend or representative to make the inspection, or find out the facts in the case through some reliable source. Remember: Talk is cheap and "seeing is believing."

E. K. GILLETT.

Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

An Interesting Method of Decreasing the Heat at the "Spot"

SINCE the earliest days of cinematography, designers of projection apparatus and operators have endeavored to devise some effective method of reducing the heat of the condenser beam, so that the "spot" at the projection aperture would be of low enough temperature to permit of stopping the machine and projecting individual film pictures upon the screen, or so that motion pictures could be projected slowly with high lower illuminants without danger of spoiling the film by overheating.

The water cell, the alum cell and the glycerine cell have all been experimented with in the endeavor to obtain "light without heat" at the projection aperture, but they have all proven inefficient, or incapable of yielding the desired effect; the result being that they have not come into extensive use, and are only employed in isolated instances where, if the light source is of low power, they may be found fairly effective.

Leaving out of account the researches on cold light of the French investigator Dussaud, which are far from the stage of practicability as regards motion picture projection on a large scale (as in theatres), there seems to be no immediate prospect of securing intense illumination for projection purposes without an equally intense amount of heat as its necessary complement. Moreover, if we would diminish the heat at the aperture of the projecting machine, it appears that we must also sacrifice intensity of illumination in almost the same ratio, if we propose to lower the temperature of the spot to that degree where it is no longer capable of igniting, or otherwise affecting, the film which is brought into the path of the concentrated beam projected by the condensers.

It has been amply proven that while cells containing liquids transmit a high percentage of the light, when placed in the path of the condenser beam, they also transmit a high percentage of heat, so that the desired cooling of the spot is not attained when high power sources are employed, and those solutions, moreover, which are most absorptive of heat radiation, appear to possess unfavorable characteristics in other directions, such as tendency to evaporate and crystallize; to boil; or to become diffusing.

Our attention was recently drawn, however, to a purely physical method of diverting the heat from the light-spot by which motion picture images are projected, which will be here described and commented upon, not because it is a new or a valuable discovery, for it is neither, but because it has interest for the student and the experimenter.

If a piece of fine-meshed wire-cloth, or gauze, is placed in the slide carrier of a projector (just in front of the condensers), and the condenser beam is then projected upon the aperture (or cooling plate) of the machine, forming the usual spot of light, it will be found, if the wire cloth is of fine enough mesh, that one can allow the projected spot of light to fall upon the hand for a much longer time without the hand being burned than is the case (other things being equal) when the wire-cloth is removed from the slide carrier, or to state the case another way, the hand can endure the heat of the spot at higher amperages when the wire-cloth is in place in the condenser beam than when it is removed. Clearly then the wire-cloth, or grating as we shall hereafter term it, has diverted a considerable percentage of the heat in the condenser beam, so that it does not arrive at the spot of light on the projection aperture.

It has been assumed by some experimenters that the wires of the grating carry off the heat from the intense light beam passing through, basing their deduction on the action of the Davy miner's lamp, the invention and importance of which is a familiar story to all readers. The radiation from the flame of the miner's lamp is not comparable in intensity, either as regards light or heat, to that emanating from the white-hot crater of the carbon arc, however, and an elementary investigation serves to show that the ability of the wires of a grating to conduct the heat away from the direction in which the light is projected, is too slight to account for the decrease in temperature noticed at the spot when the grating is in place.

The manner in which a sensible amount of heat is removed from the condenser beam by the grating has therefore to be sought in another direction, which becomes readily apparent when we consider that light and heat are forms of wave motion. The action of the grating thus falls within a department of physics, or more exactly of physical optics, which embraces those consequences of wave motion going under the name of diffraction. Although the usual text-book on optics would have us believe that light travels only in straight lines, still it is a consequence of wave motion that the outer rays of a beam may stray away to the sides of the principal direction in which the beam is being projected, which may be elementarily explained as due to the circumstance that the outermost rays are not kept in place in the beam by any neighboring rays as are the central rays. The fact that light can escape to the sides of the geometrically defined path of propagation, and can invade the margins of a geometrical shadow, may be demonstrated by observing the border effects when light is projected through an extremely narrow slit, and when a collection of extremely narrow parallel slits is interposed in a projected beam of light, the diffracting effect is much increased, and a considerable percentage of the radiation (either light or heat) proceeding through such a collection of parallel slits, i. e., a grating, will be thrown to each side of the vertical direction of the slits, as may be proved either by observation or by calculation.

The theory and action of diffraction gratings is considered in all works on physical optics, and need not therefore be entered into here, but it requires to be pointed out that extensive diffraction does not occur unless the slits of the grating are so fine, or narrow, that they approach in width the wave-length of the radiation traversing them. It is also well to observe here that the finer the grating is, i. e., the more separate slits within a unit of linear measurement, the greater is the diffracting effect, and consequently the farther are the deviated or diffracted rays thrown to the sides of the beam which is projected directly forwards. The most customary and familiar application of diffraction gratings is in spectroscopy, where luminous radiations are studied, and it is apparent that for such work the slits of the gratings used must be very small if the grating is to have sufficient diffracting action upon the exceedingly short waves which constitute visible radiation.

NOTE.—The number of slits, or rulings, on diffraction gratings used in analyzing visible radiation ranges from 3,000 lines per inch upwards.

It is well known, however, that heat waves form a vast region of the so-called invisible spectrum beyond the red end of the visible spectrum, and as red light has the longest wave-length of all the visible radiation, the wave-lengths become longer and longer as the invisible infra-red region is entered, so that heat radiation is in the form of much longer waves than is any visible radiation. Thus instead of the exceedingly fine gratings used in visual spectroscopy, much coarser gratings may be used in investigating heat radiation, and a grating having only a few hundred slits per inch will produce, by its diffractive effect, a noticeable deviation of the heat rays (or waves) of the condenser beam used in motion picture projection.

Thus it is seen that the decrease in the heat of the spot, when a wire grating is placed in the slide-carrier, is not due to the heat having been absorbed and carried off by the wires of the grating, but is due to a part of the heat radiations having been deflected outside of the direction in which the light rays are traveling, provided, of course, that the grating is of fine enough mesh to accomplish this. It is possible to secure wire-cloth of fine enough mesh to accomplish this deflection of the heat rays to a very pronounced extent, and the fact that the heat of the condenser beam is thus largely diffracted out of the line of propagation of the light has been verified by Leimbach,[1] who used a bolometer to measure the invisible radiation, and who has given a very interesting treatment of the subject.

A further interesting characteristic of diffraction by a grating is that the diffracted heat (or light) is not thrown out in single beams to each side of the direct transmitted beam, but forms a series of diffracted beams or spectra to each side of the direct beam, the positions of which may be readily calculated from the formula:

$$\sin a = \pm\frac{h\lambda}{d}$$

where a is the angle of diffraction h is the order of the spectrum, λ is the wave-length of the radiation (either light or heat) and d is the grating constant, i. e., the distance between like positions in two consecutive slits. It is seen that the smaller d is, or in other words, the more lines within unit space of a grating, the further to the sides of the direct beam are the heat waves diffracted.

Coming now to practical experiments, the most readily available gratings are pieces of wire cloth of about 150 to 500 mesh, i. e., 150 to 200 openings per inch, which are an article of commerce and much used in chemical work, such as sifting powders to a given fineness. With a grating composed of 150-mesh wire-cloth, cut to size of a standard lantern slide and inserted in the slide-carrier of a projection machine, one can allow the spot from a 40 ampere D. C. arc to fall upon the hand indefinitely, while with a grating of 200 mesh a 60 ampere spot can be endured for upwards of 30 seconds, while it will instantly burn the hand if no grating is interposed. For lower amperages the effect of heat in the spot is correspondingly much decreased, but the proposition then becomes unfeasible due to the loss of light (intercepted by the wires of the grating) which will be again alluded to further on. In practical experimenting with gratings, in conjunction with the condenser beam of the motion picture projector, the maximum amount of heat will not be diverted from the direct projected beam of light unless the cone in front of the slide-carrier is removed, for if the cone is left in situ the diffracted heat waves will be largely reflected back again into the beam proceeding to the projection aperture.

A grating of wire-cloth does not produce the most perfect, or most extensive deviation of the heat rays, however, because the spaces of such a grating are small squares instead of comparatively long slits, and the resultant diffraction effect, or deflection of the rays, takes place radially in all directions around the projected condenser beam, being almost impossible of calculation, and not nearly as effective as the operation of a grating composed of parallel slits running in one direction only. An extensive and well defined diffraction of the heat rays from the condenser beam occurs when a grating composed of vertical slits (about 150 to the inch) is placed in the slide carrier, and the most encouraging experimental results are secured with a grating of this type, which may be made by accurately ruling a strip of white paper several feet long with fine accurately spaced black lines, and photographing this down to about 3 inches in width on a lantern plate with slow contrasty characteristics. It is necessary to use a well corrected objective in carrying out the photographic reproduction, and it is advisable to do the copying with a camera and objective of large size (not smaller than 8″ x 10″), placing the lantern plate in the center of the field (by the use of a kit) and using a small stop if necessary to secure critical definition.

As was stated in an earlier paragraph, the use of these gratings in decreasing the heat of the condenser beam is of experimental interest rather than of practical importance, because experience shows that the wires or opaque spaces between the openings or slits of the grating intercept a very large percentage of the light, thus robbing the projected picture of considerable brightness. So far as can be ascertained empirically, if the spaces and the bars, or wires, of a grating are equal in width, the light projected through the grating will be diminished close to 50 per cent, so it is seen that cooling of the spot in this manner would be too dearly bought in the estimation of the practical operator. Since, however, this ability of the wire-cloth grating to decrease the heat at the spot (in the manner explained) is frequently "discovered" by experimenters with projection apparatus, we have taken this occasion to explain its mysteries, and we hope we have demonstrated that it is not new in principle or application, and cannot therefore be claimed as anyone's brilliant invention.

[1] Physikalische Zeitschrift, Vol XII (1911), pages 791-798.

A Safety Switch

IN many steel mills, factories, mines, and similar industries where most of the workmen have little knowledge of electricity, it is desirable to use switches having no live parts exposed or accessible in the ordinary operation of the switches or when replacing fuses.

This is fully accomplished in the Krantz Auto-Lock Switch, marketed by the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Company, which is intended for use on main circuits or wherever an ordinary knife switch is applied. The switching parts and fuses are enclosed in a steel box, the cover of which is in two parts, one being screwed on to form a permanent covering for that end of the box containing the switch, and the other part being hinged so as to swing back and permit the renewal of fuses, which are located in this portion of the box. An ingenious latching mechanism makes it impossible to open the cover without first throwing the switch to the "off" position and rendering all fuses and other accessible parts dead. Thus fuses may be replaced at any time with absolute safety. As long as the door of the case is open, the switch contacts can not be closed.

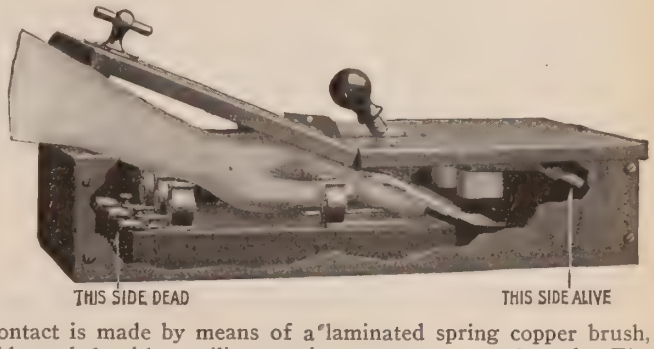
By using a padlock, the switch handle can be locked in the "off" position, making it impossible for any one to close the switch, except the person holding the key to the padlock. By using another padlock, the cover may be locked shut, so that the fuses cannot be tampered with. Either of these padlocks can be used independently of the other, so that the switch cover can be locked shut with the switch either "on" or "off," or the switch can be locked in the "off" position with the cover either locked or open.



Contact is made by means of a laminated spring copper brush, double ended with auxiliary arcing contacts at each end. The outer leaves of the brush are bronze to provide additional spring pressure.

The stationary contacts are of hand-drawn copper and are mounted on slate bases, one of which in the fused switch carries one of the fuse clips while the other forms the terminal block for the incoming line and is mounted under the stationary portion of the cover.

The operating mechanism is galvanized steel of the toggle type, and is attached to the under side of the stationary end of the cover. This mechanism can be easily removed for inspection by removing several screws.

In closing, the pressure between the contacts causes the laminations of the brush to spread apart, giving it a wiping or self-cleaning action.

The double-ended brushes provide a double break, dividing the arc between the two ends, each of which is provided with a separate arcing tip.

In the closed position the switch is held in positive contact by

ADVERTISE YOUR BUSINESS

BY THE QUALITY OF YOUR PROJECTION

Nothing is as good as the Best, and the Best can only be obtained by an up to date machine.

We will take in your old machine on part payment on a New Machine or sell you a New Machine on the MONTHLY PAYMENT PLAN.

Write today for Particulars and Catalog

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade
300-302 Mallers Building 5 South Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screen and Everything for the Theatre

WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Remember it is through the print that the production is judged by the public.

Safeguard YOUR production by entrusting the DEVELOPING and PRINTING to us.

We have a reputation for quality and promptness.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.

416-24 West 216th Street New York City
Telephone 6881-2 Audubon

WHY PAY—

$58.50 for 110 volt Motors

and an additional sum for 220 volt motors for POWER 6A when we will sell you a thoroughly efficient motor equipment, 110 or 220 volts A. C. or D. C. for $35.00 net, including the motor attachment for your mechanism? Our motors have no wooden bearings and no friction wheels to wear out. We are exclusive distributors for SIMPLEX Machines and all Supplies.

LEWIS M. SWAAB

1327 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Printing, Developing, Toning, Tinting

Titles
Domestic Foreign

Empire City Film Laboratories, Inc.

345 West 40th Street New York

throwing a toggle over center. A spring provides a quick-break for opening, the mechanism being independent of the operating handle.

These switches are supplied for 250, 500 and 600 volt, for either alternating or direct-current, service, and in capacities up to 2000 amperes.

The safety features of this switch have been recognized by the American Museum of Safety which has awarded it a gold metal and special mention.

Transactions of Rochester Meeting of S. M. P. E. Now Published

PERSONS in all branches of the industry who are interested in the technical aspects of motion picture production and projection, and in the efforts of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers to standardize the important integrals of cinematographic procedure, will find much interesting material in the latest publication of the Society, which contains the ambitious program of papers read by various members at the last meeting, held at Rochester, N. Y., on April 8 and 9, 1918.

The present issue (No. 6) of the Transactions of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, departs somewhat from its predecessors in that no committee reports are contained therein, and it was decided at the Rochester meeting that in future committee reports would not be published in the Transactions unless they were compilations of technical information on the subject considered. This robs the Transactions of their possible value as archives, as we pointed out at the Rochester meeting, but in the case of the average reader the customary, brief reports of the various committees will not be missed, and the Transactions of the Rochester meeting represent quite the finest piece of publishing which the Society has yet made available to the industry.

The increasing attention to detail which is being brought to bear by those members who occasionally favor the Society with papers has been responsible for some comprehensively illustrated articles, and the latest Transactions accordingly appears upon coated paper suitable for the reproduction of half-tones, of which there are quite a number in the issue now before us.

Number 6 of the Engineer's Transactions contains, besides the President's address, the following collection of papers, all of which were read at the Rochester meeting: (1) Standardization of Exposure, by John W. Allison; (2) Optical Requirements of Motion Picture Projection Objectives, by Alfred S. Cory; (3) Artificial Light in the Motion Picture Studio, by Max Mayer; (4) Condensers, by C. Francis Jenkins; (5) The Portable Projector, by Alexander F. Victor; (6) Theoretical vs. Practical as Applied to Standardization, by F. H. Richardson; (7) Incandescent Lamps for Motion Picture Service, by A. R. Dennington, and (8) Some Considerations in the Application of Tungsten Filament Lamps to Motion Picture Projectors, by L. C. Porter and W. M. States.

Of these numbers (2), (3), (7) and (8) have already appeared in the technical pages of Motion Picture News, through the courtesy of the Society and of the respective authors.

In spite of the increased size and more imposing character of the latest issue of the Engineer's Transactions, the published price of the same remains as formerly, 25 cents per copy. Any one interested in the technical phases of the industry may secure copies of this interesting publication by remitting the price to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, 712 Eleventh St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Lucas Lands Numerous Two-Machine Installations

THAT aggressive selling methods get the business is well exempified by the success which the Lucas Theatre Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga., distributors of the Simplex projector in the South, are encountering in the sale of Simplex machines.

They advise us that they have just made two-machine installations in the Strand theatre, Birmingham, Ala.; Chickasaw Shipbuilding Co., Mobile, Ala.; Southern Textile Exposition, Greenville, S. C.; Aluminum Co. of America, Maryville, Tex.; Stringer and Summerour, Marietta, Ga., and the Liberty theatre, Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Simplex Outing July 13th

THE annual outing of the employees of the Simplex Company will be held at Belvidere Park, North Beach, near Long Island City on Saturday, July 13.

Over two hundred employees will attend the event. They will assemble in front of the Simplex Company's building at 9 a. m. and march to the Long Island Ferry at 34th street to the accompaniment of a band of eight pieces. The musicians are from the Forty-seventh Regiment, Brooklyn.

Special cars will convey the guests from Long Island City direct to the park, and breakfast will be served immediately upon the arrival of the holiday seekers. A special feature of the day will be an old-fashioned clambake, served at one o'clock, and light refreshments will be served during all hours of the day.

The amusements will consist of numerous games, and prizes will be offered to the successful entrants. There will be a baseball game between the married and single men, and it is expected that it will be hotly contested, as there are a number of clever ball players in the Simplex Organization.

A flag with thirty stars will be raised in honor of the Simplex employees who are now in military service.

The committee of arrangements consists of T. Lambert, P. Keller, Charles Lutz, A. Kindleman, R. Curtiss, A. Darrow, R. Kneuer, S. Kaplan, L. Johnson and T. Healey.

Eclipse Terminal Meeting with Approval of Operators

THE ECLIPSE TERMINAL, which is styled by users "the perfect-contact lug," bids fair to become the universal lug for projection machine lamps, judging from its increasing use in all quarters. Operating practice has shown beyond any doubt that no one particular style lug meets all requirements, hence the two styles of Eclipse terminals, A and B, each style having its particular advantages according to the type of the machine.

One decided feature of the Eclipse Terminal is the extremely firm contact which it produces, by a clamping action which is distinctly different from that employed in any other lug. The clamping device opens wide enough so that all sizes of wire commonly used for projection work may be inserted with extreme ease.

These lugs are sold and distributed by The Eclipse Terminal, P. O. Box 617, Syracuse, New York.

Nicholas Power Notes

ARTHUR J. LANG, export manager for the Nicholas Power Co., was royally received on his arrival at Colon and was interviewed at column length.

Mr. Lang is just as keen on boosting his own United States as he is strong in his endeavors for his company, two worthy objects which ought to succeed.

Through the Perkins Electric Company, Montreal, there were installed two Powers Cameragraphs in the Military Training Camp at St. Johns, P. Q. Also four machines were sold to the Government for educational purposes; two each at Winnipeg and Calgary.

Operator's Inquiries.

V. GASTON, HOPEWELL, VA.: "What is the cause of my picture being out of focus in the center? My lens is of correct focal length and focussed in all four corners. Picture is 10 x 14 feet at 96-foot throw."

REPLY: When the screen picture cannot be focused sharply at the center and edges simultaneously it is a sign that the lens has a very curved field, assuming, of course, that it is otherwise in good condition and properly put together. The precise cause and effect of curvature of the field of a lens is dealt with in an article on "The Optical Requirements of Motion Picture Projection Objectives," which will be found in the Camera Department, issue of May 18, pages 3017-3019.

The dimensions given call for a projection lens of 6" E. F., and we are indeed surprised to hear that an objective of such long focus appears to possess such a curved field, as the 6" lenses commonly met with are most always superior to those of shorter E. F., due principally to their shallower curves and smaller angle of field. Perhaps the objective has been put together incorrectly, so that some of its components are not facing in the proper direction. In assembling the customary projection lens all of the deeper curves, i.e., the most strongly convex surfaces, should be so placed that they will face the screen when the objective is in place in the projecting machine. If the trouble is not due to misarrangement of the lens components, the objective should be shipped to the maker for testing and adjustment. It is bad business to continue projecting a screen picture which is not tolerably sharp all over, and a more satisfactory lens should be secured at once. So long, however, as the present objective must be used it is better to focus for the center than for the edges of the picture, unless the total sharply defined area is then much smaller than when the edges are focussed for.

EXTRA

Precaution should be used in selecting your equipment. The majority recognize us as authorities on perfect projection

SOLE SOUTHERN DISTRIBUTORS Simplex TRADE MARK PAT'D. PROJECTORS

Service PLUS Quality
THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
ATLANTA-GEORGIA.

"AMERICA'S GREATEST INDEPENDENT MOVING PICTURE MAIL ORDER SUPPLY HOUSE"

No. 4 PHOTO CINES OUTFIT
Never successfully equalled at the exceptional pre-war price of $250.00 Complete
CAMERA-TRIPOD-2 in. F-3-5 B & L-Tessar Lens a fully equipped M. P. outfit especially adapted to topical work.
Send for Descriptive Catalogue

PRINTERS We have them right in stock—ready for delivery—models of approved type, at very reasonable prices.
Send for Our Catalogue of M. P. Apparatus

G. GENNERT, 24 East 13th Street, New York City
Chicago Los Angeles

PERFECTED PROJECTION

THE mechanism of the DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector is so wonderfully simple as to commend itself instantly to the amateur operator, while it combines all the necessary qualities of perfected projection to delight the appreciation of the professional.

Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, on transports, at home and "over there."

Write today for our Catalogue H-3.

The DeVry Corporation
109½ North Wells Street Chicago, U. S. A

DE V

THE M-P HARVEY EXPOSURE METER
M-P METER $250 — No2 METER $125
A new principle for Motion Picture Cameras. Shows Shutter Openings and all stops for all lenses. Exterior work only. The No2 Harvey Exposure Meter is for other cameras.
Your Dealer or G L Harvey 105 So Dearborn St Chicago
FORM NO 23

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service
We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.
MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO. N 170
80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone, 3227 Chelsea
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

The Camera

Sidelights on Manufacture of Motion Picture Film

Multitudinous Processes, Repeated Tests and Unusual Cleanliness Features of Eastman Plant Where Motion Picture Film Is Made

THE entire fabric of the motion picture industry is based on a series of romantic struggles and achievements; but no phase of its rapid growth is more worthily exemplified by that spirit of patience, fortitude and unrelenting resolve, which alone can bring success, than that pertaining to the manufacture of the mile after mile of film which has made the full development of all the other branches of the industry possible. To produce the high-quality film required for present-day operation has meant constant research in the mystic realms of chemistry and physics and the design of all sorts of special machinery. Up at Rochester, N. Y., is the extensive plant of the Eastman Kodak Company, and it is here that the work of research and development of apparatus for the production of high-grade motion-picture film is most keenly and persistently carried on.

Successful results in the making of motion-picture film have been obtained by the Eastman Kodak Company by playing a game of preparedness that has involved the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars. To get these results has required energy and foresight and pluck—the energy to take care of an ever-increasing demand for more and more film, the foresight to anticipate this demand and prepare for it, and the pluck to put through before hand the preparatory measures necessary to fulfill promptly and without a hitch all future requirements.

Entrance to the Kodak Park Works Where Eastman Motion Picture Films Is Manufactured

Even in the early days of motion pictures the problem of making high-quality film in the comparatively small quantities then needed was no small matter. But in later periods when the demand for film of high average quality trebled and quadrupled many, many times, the problems of the manufacturer increased in startling leaps and jumps.

The factor of high-average quality alone, for instance, is one of the biggest of bugbears; it means, of course, that a camera man can get the same kind of good results at one time with one piece of film that he can with another piece from different stock at another time, providing in both cases the conditions of exposure are the same. Moreover, to get a high-average quality film in the large quantities necessary for present-day production requires the greatest care in the selection of raw materials and repeated tests and examinations—and rejections. Then again the manufacture of a product in large batches is far different from that in small lots—it requires complete reorganization of the plant.

The film-making plant of the Eastman Kodak Company is now working on a quantity as well as a quality basis, and it is as complete and as up-to-date as the ingenuity of scientists and works engineers can make it. Furthermore, a large research laboratory and a complete testing department are maintained where new "wrinkles" and unusual ideas are continually being tried out for the purpose of improving the product, if possible, and of devising new and better methods of manufacture.

To one who has just passed on a tour of inspection through the maze of buildings (some ninety in number scattered over an area of 225 acres) that comprise the Company's Kodak Park plant, where film is made, the multitudinous operations, the many tests and the spick-and-pan working quarters are likely first to impress themselves most forcibly. The diversity of raw materials necessary for the making of sensitive film stock will also strike one as extraordinary. Who, for instance, would think that bales and bales of cotton are required for the manufacture of the thin transparent cellulose backing on which the light-sensitive picture-making coating is spread, or who again would imagine for one instant that some two tons of silver bullion are used each week in the Eastman plant for making the sensitive coating? Two tons of silver a week! Think of it!—close on to four million troy ounces a year, almost as much as the total output of the white metal from Arizona, one of the leading silver-producing states in the Union! When the sixteen-to-one idea fell into the discard way back in 1896, everybody said that the silver industry had absolutely and irrevocably passed to the bow-wows; but the movies have helped bring it back to life with a mighty thud. Besides the silver and cotton, there are the various acids for treating these products, barrels and barrels of which are required. Then come the organic solvents, including alcohol and other liquids, for converting the nitrated cotton into a honey-like fluid from which the thin film is made, and lastly the gelatine and chemical compounds for making the sensitive coating.

Left—A Battery of Nitrating Centrifugals. Prepared Cotton Is Placed in the Vats and Immersed in Nitric and Sulphuric Acid. Center—Large Batch of Prepared Cotton in Store Room. Right—Tumbling Barrel Units in Which the Nitrated Cotton Is Dissolved in a Mixture of Organnic Solvents to Make Honey-Like "Dope" from Which the Transparent Film Support Is Made

For the convenience of analyzing the various steps taken in the manufacture of Eastman motion picture film four general processes may be considered as follows: (1) The chemical preparation of the raw materials, (2) spreading of the support or cellulose backing for the sensitive coating, which is usually called the emulsion, (3) spreading of the sensitive emulsion in a thin layer on the support, and (4) slitting of large film rolls into stock sizes, inspection and packing for shipment. As already emphasized, every process must be carried on in the cleanest of surroundings. How important this factor of cleanliness is one can well imagine by considering the fact that any fleck of dirt lodged on the surface of the film will be enlarged on the screen many times. Only the purest of chemicals are utilized, and to insure as pure a product as possible many of the chemical materials are manufactured by the company itself.

The campaign for an absolutely pure product commences with the selection and treatment of the raw materials and is particularly rigid in connection with cotton. After being carefully cleansed and prepared to make it soluble, the cotton is passed through a huge drying machine in order to remove the moisture which it contains under ordinary atmospheric conditions. Special machines, called nitrating centrifugals, are used to mix the cotton with nitrating acids. These acids act upon the cotton in such a way that it may later be dissolved into honey-like dope and subsequently formed into a transparent sheet or film backing. After being treated with acids, the cotton when washed and dried is called nitrated cotton. A nitrating machine is shown, in one of the accompanying illustrations, with cover raised and consists of a large-sized perforated basket which rotates in a vat. A mixture of nitric acid and sulphuric acid is poured into the vat until the cotton is completely immersed. Operators clad in rubber gloves and goggles so as not to be burned by splashing acid douse the cotton with paddles, as shown. The sulphuric acid is used to dilute the nitric acid and to absorb any moisture present in the mixture.

After a short immersion the acid is drained off from the cotton and then the basket is rotated at a high speed to throw out through the perforations as much of the acid as possible. The treated cotton is next removed to tanks of water where it gets its first washing. After being rinsed in the above-mentioned tanks the cotton is again passed into centrifugals where water is played on it and then conveyed to other water tanks where it is thoroughly washed to remove all traces of acid. The excess of water is now removed and the cotton is then ready to be taken into solution by organic solvents. When dissolved the cotton is changed to a thick viscous fluid resembling honey which is called "dope." This dope is prepared in rotating barrels as shown herewith.

Large Tanks in Which Treated Cotton is Thoroughly Washed

The dope is passed through an elaborate system of filters and finally spread in a thin layer over polished surfaces where it quickly hardens and becomes a flexible transparent substance ready to be formed into a backing for the sensitive coating. Two thicknesses of support are made, one being about .003 inch thick for N. C. or camera film, and the other a little over .005 inch thick for motion-picture film.

The silver, which is used in such great quantities to make the sensitive emulsion, is the purest that can be obtained. The proverbial slogan, "99.9 per cent, pure" just about fills the bill here. The silver comes in bars weighing about 500 troy ounces. Each bar of silver is placed in a large porcelain crock as shown in one of the accompanying illustrations containing dilute nitric acid. Silver nitrate is formed in solution which in the next step is evaporated to the point of crystalization. In viewing the many crocks with their wealth of contents, as shown in the illustration, one is dangerously liable to let his imagination go rife. Think of all the treasures literally going into "soak"! The precious solution of silver nitrate is poured into evaporating dishes which are placed on steam tables where the solution is heated to facilitate evaporation. After a certain amount of the silver nitrate has been crystalized, the crystals and liquid remaining, which is called mother liquor, are poured off into draining dishes which allow the mother liquor to drain off. Here again we get that everlasting search for purity which is so necessary for high-quality photographic material. The silver nitrate crystals are next redissolved and recrystalized until all impurities are removed—a process which virtually reduces itself into a chase after that one-tenth per cent of foreign matter in the bullion silver in order to have in the final run a straight "100 per cent pure" product. The pure white silver nitrate crystals are now placed in porcelain draining baskets, as shown herewith, where as much of the liquid as possible is drained off. The crystals are next placed in shallow glass trays and allowed to dry at first on open racks and then in drying closets. They are finally placed in covered jars and stored until needed.

Left—Silver Nitrate Department. Bars of Silver Are Dissolved in Nitric Acid, Forming Silver Nitrate, which Is Evaporated in Large Porcelain Dishes. When Removed from Evaporators and Cooled, Silver Nitrate Separates from the Solution in Large Crystals. Center—Weighing Silver Bullion. Each Bar Weighs 42 Pounds. Two Tons of the Precious Metal Are Used Each Week at the Eastman Plant. Right—Crystals of Pure Silver Nitrate in Drying Closets. Each Tray Contains 1,000 Ounces

We now come to that mysterious something, the light-sensitive emulsion on which when coated on the cellulose backing the invisible or latent image is impressed, and through suitable chemical development brought out as a negative. To make a sensitive emulsion a silver nitrate solution is mixed with a solution of potassium of bromide and gelatine dissolved in hot water, thus forming insoluble silver bromide in the solution, which is the compound that is sensitive to light. The warm solution of gelatine containing the silver bromide is coated on the nitrocellulose backing already described. The gelatine solution with the silver compound in it is called an emulsion because of the way in which the silver bromide remains suspended in the gelatine. The emulsion for negative film which is exposed in the camera is of greater speed than positive film which is used to print from the negative. After the emulsion has been applied the film is handled only in dark rooms which are kept at a constant temperature and humidity. Of course, the need of handling the huge quantities of sensitive film and operating numerous machines in dark rooms increases the difficulty of manufacture and greatly adds to the care and vigilance that must always be exercised to secure a high quality product. The large rolls of sensitized film are now packed in long tin cans and stored in a special room until the slitting and inspection departments are ready for them. The film is inspected very carefully and then slit into strips 1⅜ inches wide and cut into lengths of from 100 feet to 400 feet. A battery of perforating machines is employed for perforating film for producers who do not do their own perforating.

Cinefilm Shipping Room

In the manufacture of such a highly sensitive material as moving picture film, and particularly of a reliable product of high average quality as now demanded, a continual search for defects from start to finish is absolutely essential. For this reason inspections and tests figure in practically every process. In fact, the company's testing department is about as thorough and well organized as it is humanly possible to make it. Besides repeated chemical tests of raw materials, emulsions, etc., strips are taken from every large roll of film and subjected to numerous tests. The entire surface of every large roll before being cut up is also closely examined by a special inspector. The negative film is tested for speed of exposure with apparatus designed for the purpose and for quality by actual studio tests.

To illustrate to what great lengths the inspection department goes to see that only high grade material is sent out, the care with which the perforating machines are repeatedly examined and tested each day is particularly worthy of mention. The process of perforating the film accurately is important because unless the perforations are absolutely correct in spacing and alignment unsteadiness both in the camera and the projecting machine will be the result. Each machine is daily subjected to a rigid test, all guides and punches being carefully examined with gauges which show up to ten-thousandths of an inch variations in dimensions due to wear. Lengths of film are also tested for variation in pitch and alignment. Moreover, gauge tests are made for width and the perforations are examined under powerful glasses to see that the edges are clean-cut and uniform.

In line with that continual striving for the utmost cleanliness in every corner and niche of the big factory where sensitized film is produced, all winding, slitting and perforating machines are provided with suction outlets which obviate the possibility of small specks of dust adhering to the film. The finished film, after a final inspection, is carefully wrapped in black paper and packed in tin containers, which in turn are placed in special strawboard cartons. The film is then ready for shipment.

Safety or non-inflammable film is also being made by the Eastman Kodak Company, the support for the emulsion being of cellulose acetate. The preparation of this support is similar to the other excepting that the cotton is treated with acetic anhydride and acetic acid (a form of purified and concentrated vinegar) instead of nitric and sulphuric acid. Panchromatic film is another product manufactured by the Eastman Kodak Company. The emulsion of this film is sensitive to practically all the colors.

Music and the Picture

Patrons Seek Good Organ Music

THE LEADER, under the management of G. Shields, has installed a $10,000 Kimball organ, which has added much to the popularity of this already popular picture house. Short organ recitals by Spencer Tutman between the evening shows have been inaugurated as a feature that has struck a responsive chord in the picture patrons. Mr. Tutman is an artist at the organ and presents a varied program of classic music that pleases all.

At the morning shows Bert Eberly presides at the piano to accompany the shows. Speaking of the organ, Mr. Shields had this to say: "Organ music is an appealing form of accompanying the pictures and in many of the productions of today is almost a necessity to give the proper atmosphere to the scenes presented. Owing to present war conditions, several months were consumed in the building of the organ in the Leader, but now that it is completed we have found it a big attraction. Many patrons tell me they come especially for the good organ music we have. We feel that the outlay is well worth while."

The Leader has the distinction of being the only house in Washington that continuously run all shows one week. Mr. Shields declares that he thus gives everyone the opportunity to see his show and he has no reason to return to semi-weekly changes.

PATRIOTIC MUSIC

To comply with the wishes of some of our readers, we are herewith publishing a comprehensive list of American music and the music of our Allies. Names of the publishers will be furnished upon request.

AMERICAN MUSIC

1—Columbia Fantasia, by T. H. Rollinson.

2—Fantasia on Dixie, by Otto Langey.

3—Grand American Fantasia, by Theo. Bendix. An exceptionally fine arrangement of American melodies.

4—Fifteen National and Patriotic Melodies, arranged by R. Gruenwald.

5—American Fantasia, arranged by V. Herbert. No doubt one of the finest and most popular arrangements of American melodies in form of a fantasia.

6—Memories of the War (1861-1863)—Medley of American War Songs, containing the following songs: Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the Boys Are Marching; John Brown's Body; Carry Me Back to Old Virginia; When Johnnie Comes Marching Home; Our Flag Is There; Marching Through Georgia; The Battle Cry of Freedom; Massa's in the Cold Ground; Arkansas Traveler; The Reveille.

7—Columbus—A Grand Descriptive Fantasia Synopsis: Grand Opening Fanfare, Announcing the Majesties of Spain; Torchlight Dance; The Sorrows of the Departure; Fealty to the Flag; Parting Salute; The Anchor's Weighed; On the Vast Waters; Merriment of the Sailors; Great Storm Scene; The Storm Gradually Abates; Prayer; Quietness; Dullness; Melancholy; Muting of the Crew; The Voice of Columbus Quells Excitement on Board; Salute of the Great Guns; Aborigines Heard in the Distance—Hail Columbia. Arranged by A. Herman.

8—Battle of San Juan Hill—A Descriptive and Patriotic Military Fantasia, by A. C. Sweet.

9—Hurrah for Old Glory—A National Medley March, containing the following patriotic airs: Glory, Glory, Hallelujah; Old Folks at Home; Hail Columbia; The Girl I Left Behind Me; Star Spangled Banner.

FRENCH MUSIC

1—La Belle France—An Overture, containing the following songs: Au clair de la lune? Cadet Rouselle; T'en souviens tu? Le chant due Depart; J'ai du bon tabac; Le Roi Dagobert; La re Michel; Fanfan la Tulipe; La Bonne Aventure; La Marseillaise. By L. P. Laurendeau.

2—La Belle France—A Waltz, on the following popular French airs: Ah, c'cadet; La Marseillaise; Partant pour la Syrie; Le petit Tambour; La bonne Aventure. By Th. M. Tobani.

3—French National Defile (Le Regiment deu Sambre et Meuse)—March, by A. Turlet.

4—Pere de la Victoire and March Loraine, by Ganne. Two patriotic marches most appropriate for new reels and patriotic films.

ENGLISH MUSIC

1—Sounds from England—A selection on English melodies, containing: Heart of Oak; Cherry Ripe; The Banks of Allan Water; The Dashing White Sergeant; The Bay of Biscay; Sir Roger de Coverly; Sally in Our Alley; Come Lasses and Lads; The British Grenadiers; The Soldier's Joy; Rule Britannia; God Save the King. By O. Langey.

2—Twelve English Songs—1, British Grenadiers; 2, Sally in Our Alley; 3, The Anchor's Weighed; 4, My Pretty Pane or When the Bloom Is on the Rye; 5, Twickenham Ferry; 6, The Midshipmite; 7, Black-Eyed Susan; 8, The Bay of Biscay; 9, The Vicar of Bray; 10, Goodbye, Sweetheart, Goodbye; 11, Ever of Thee; 12, The Roast Beef of Old England. Arranged by L. O. de Witt as solos for cornet and trombone.

IRISH MUSIC

1—Dreams of Erin—An overture, containing the following Irish songs: Sprig of Shillelagh; The Minstrel Boy; Irish Washerwoman; Paddy Whack; The Cruiskeen Lawn; Oft in the Stilly Night; Brian Borochme's March; The Low Backed Car; The Blackbird; Savourneen Delish; Paddy O'Rafferty; Paddy Carey; Peter Street.

2—Twelve Irish Songs—1, The Minstrel Boy; 2, Savourneen Delish; 3, Killarney; 4, Come Back to Erin; 5, Believe Me, if All Those Endearing Young Charms; 6, The Meeting of the Waters; 7, The Last Rose of Summer; 8, The Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow; 9, The Dear Little Shamrock; 10, Wearing of the Green; 11, The Harp That Once Thro' Tara's Halls; 12, The Cruiskeen Lawn. Arranged as solos for cornet or trombone.

ITALIAN MUSIC

1—From Italy, a selection of Italian folk songs by Otto Langey, containing the following airs: Antonio; La Scillitana; Santa Lucia; O Marenariello; Hou la la; O Solo mio, and several others.

2—Italian Royal March and the famous Garibaldi March, two of the most inspiring marches ever composed.

3—Fantasia Napolitana, containing the following songs: Nenna Mia; O Passariello! O Papa rraccianno Marinella; Santa Lucia; A Palomella Mariannina stamalata; Dimme na vota si Funiculi Funicula; Cicuzza; Santa Lucia. By E. Boccalair.

Russian, Roumanian, Japanese, Belgian and Servian music, see the collection of patriotic songs published by G. Schirmer, also The Mammoth Collection published by Carl Fischer.

Review of Latest Compositions

1—"Kathleen," an allegretto, by S. M. Berg, might aptly be described as a surprise waltz. The first movement is marked molto lento and is constructed similarly to the recognized form of French waltzes. There is a pleasant surprise which occurs in the second movement and the trio from which the composition derives its name. The counterpoint in the opening movement is of considerable interest to the musicians. Played in straight tempo, it is an excellent dancing waltz, and with the markings noted, an entertaining concert number. It is also published for piano solo. This can be obtained from Belwin, Inc.

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents for each cue sheet to cover the cost of postage and typeing. Remember it takes time to get these cue sheets to you—don't wait till the last minute to write us.

Alimony
All Woman
At the Mercy of Men
Alladin and His Wonderful Lamp
The Auction Block
Brave and Bold
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
The Beloved Traitor
Brown of Harvard
The Belgian
By Right of Possession
Carmen of the Klondike
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Cheating the Public
The Claw
Deemster (The)
DeLuxe Annie
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Devil's Playground
Draft 258
The Darling of Paris
The End of the Trail
The Fair Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
The Grain of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
Honor's Cross
The Heart of the Sunset
The House of Glass
How Could you Jean?
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
The Knife
Lest We Forget
Legion of Death
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Men
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Hour
One Law for Both
Parentage
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
The Submarine Eye
The Service Star
Social Ambition
Stella Maris
The Splendid Sinner
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
The Warrior
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
The Whirlpool
Within the Law
Womanhood
The Zeppelin's Last Raid

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of special releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

2—"Prudence" (Entr' acte), by Ernst Luz. A number in gavotte style, effectively arranged. Illustrates romance. Lends itself easily to different tempos, making it valuable for playing to the photoplay. A melodious number throughout. (Published by J. W. Stern, 102 W. 38th St., New York City.)

3 "Source Dans Le Desert," idyl by Marguerite W. Horton. Some most interesting songs by this composer have already been published, and this new Orientale for piano is worthy of them. It is one of those exotically colorful bits of eastern impressionism which, without making too great demands technically, allows intelligent interpretation and a skillful use of the pedals on the part of the pianist to secure a maximum of effect. (Published by G. Schirmer, 3 E. 43rd St., city.)

4 "Love's Melody" (reverie), by Shannon. A charming slow movement with a most delightful melody, most appropriate for love scenes. (Published by Vandersloot.)

5—"Astralita Serenade," by Mabel A. Whaley. A number which should be owned by any orchestra leader or piano player. (Published by the Red Star Music Co., Red Star, Ark.)

6—"After the War Is Over," by James A. Casey. Leaders who are in search for something distinctly novel and pretty should send for this number, which in its typical march rhythm is a sure success with any audience.. (Published by the Echo Music Co., New York and Seattle.)

7—"Over the Top, Boys," patriotic march by S. M. Berg, found for its origin the well known adage, "Necessity Is the Mother of Invention." When the musical expert made the score for the picture "Over the Top," in which Arthur Guy Empey starred, he found it necessary for the latter to have an original theme, and so the above was created, which is an excellent allegro, march theme, portraying plenty of enthusiasm and whole-hearted action to characterize the dare-devil Empey. (Published by Belwin, Inc., Columbia Theatre Bldg., New York City.)

8—"Harbor of Dreams," reverie, by J. R. Shannon. A composition opening with a melodious "three-fourths expressive movement," finishing with an exceptionally fine trio—most appropriate for love themes. (Vandersloot Music Co., Williamsport, Pa.)

9 "When the Yanks Come Marching Home." One-step by Jerome & Furth. A worthy song to go with our great hit, "Over There." A wonderful over-night success. You never played a better dance for orchestra. (Published by Jerome Pub. Co., New York City).

10—"Dramatic Recitative," by Sol P. Levy. One of the finest compositions recently published for heavy and dramatic situations. (Cinema Music Co., Columbia Theatre Bldg., New York City, or Belwin, Inc.)

11—"At the Yankee Military Ball," fox-trot, by Harry Jentes. The most popular and most often requested fox-trot and exquisite dance number which every music lover will appreciate. (Leo Feist, 44th St., New York City.)

"HER ONE MISTAKE"

(Fox Special)

Reviewed on page 2421

REEL 1

1—At Screening—Allegro Vivace 2/4.
2—At Silver Beach—Lento 6/8.
3—I'm awfully tired, mother—Andantino Con Espressione 4/8; segue: Andante Mosso 4/4.

REEL 2

4—Enter Mr. Scully—Andante Con Espressione 9/8.
5—When Scully enters rooms—Andante Appassionato 4/4.
6—Five years later—Andante 2/4.
7—When Charlie plays piano—Song—Mother of Mine.
8—The bulls have found us—Andante Dramatico 4/4.

REEL 3

9—Ain't you taking me with him?—Andante Doloroso 3/4.
10—Won't you even let me say good-bye?—Moderato 4/4.
11—I am coming tonight—Andante 2/4.

REEL 4

12—While Chicago Charley's pal—Lento 4/4.
13—The next morning—Andante 4/4.
14—When Miss Gordon enters Charley's room—Andante Dramatico 4/4.
15—At struggle—Allegro 4/4.
16—And then—half an hour later—Adagio Cantabile; segue into Dram. Andante 4/4.

REEL 5

17—I'll report the loss to headquarters—Valse Triste 3/4.
18—This is the girl who pawned the ring—Dram. Tension 9/8.
19—Chicago Charley was rotten-bad—Moderato 4/4.

FINIS

"THE VENUS MODEL"

(Goldwyn Production)

Reviewed on page 3950

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet).

Theme: "Dawn of Love" by Bendix

1—"Capricious Anette" (Melodious Alleg. Mod.), by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: "Happy gives little morning vaudeville."
2—"Jasmine Allegretto," by Kretchmer (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Send Miss O'Brien to me."
3—Theme (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "The greatest day in the week."
4—"Love's Wilfulness" (2/4 And.), by Barthelemy (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "The lonely home life."
5—"Caressing Butterfly" (4/4 Alegretto), by Barthelemy (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Happy has designs."
6—Continue to action (55 seconds), until—T: "This would only happen."
7—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Meanwhile, one of the money creditors."
8—"Sunshine and Shadow" (4/4 Allegretto non troppe), by Sudds (3 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Good news is sometimes."
9—Continue pp (50 seconds), until—T: "One day as young man, etc."
10—"Maesmawr" (Valse Lente), by Kretschmer (5 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "As the days pass."
11—"Courtesy" (3/4 And. Intermezzo), by Wiegand (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "I won't allow you to go."
12—"Vanity Allegro Caprice," by Jackson (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Happy keeps her engagement."
13—Continue to action (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Oh! it's all right."
14—Theme (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Show it to the manager."
15—"Return to me soon" (Allegro), by Gregh (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "The following morning."
16—"Dramatic Recitative," by Sol. P. Levy (4 minutes), until—T: "Paul explains.'
17—"Dramatic Narrative," by P. Pement (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "The reason why Paul."
18—"The Vampire" (A Dramatic Theme), by Levy (2 minutes), until—T: "Meanwhile, Briggs, etc."
19—Continue pp (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Well, if I were you."
20—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy (3 minutes), until—T: "A big night for Happy."
21—"Wild Rosebud" (Mod. Mel.), by Tobani (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—T: "The next morning."
22—"L'Adieu" (12/8 Dramatic), by Favarger (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: Old Braddock arrives.
23—"Springtime" (Mod. Valse Int.), by Drum (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "She did it all."
24—Theme (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "The man who was there last."
25—Continue ff (30 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"PEG OF THE PIRATES"

(Fox Production)

Reviewed on page 3141

REEL 1

1—At Screening—"Down Down" (Medley of Southern Airs).
2—There is only one rose—"In Beauty's Bower" (Allegro 6/4).
3—And down the coast—Allegro 3/4.
4—Mistress Pegg—Valse Lento 3/4.
5—The day of the betrothal—Allegretto 2/4.
6—But Uncle, you know—Adagio 4/4.

REEL 2

7—When pirates rush into house—Agitato Furioso 4/4.
8—Sir Edgar Brenton—Maestoso 4/4.
9—Pardon me for intruding—Allegro 2/4.
10—Sir Windham—Andante 2/4.
11—When Peg holds gun in pirate's face—Dramatic Tension.

REEL 3

12—That wench—Agitato.
13—Cruiser appears—Agitato.
14—That she-devil will be the death of us—Agitato.
15—When Peg takes flour and whitens up—Danse Macabee.

REEL 4

16—Cruiser appears—Drummers play signal.
17—Peg holding school—Valse 3/4.
18—After pirate comes out of cabin—Agitato.

REEL 5

19—Peg climbs aboard ship—Continue No. 18—Agitato.
(a) When drummer plays signal—(a) drummer imitate.
(b) When battle begins—(b) Battle agitato.
20—Peg goes to pirate cabin—Andante 2/4.
21—Drummer enters hall—"Wedding March Militaire."

FINIS

"CECILIA OF THE PINK ROSES"

(Marion Davies Film Company Production)

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet)

Reviewed on page 3457

Theme: "The Last Rose of Summer" from "Martha" by Flotow

1—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Cecilia's childhood was spent, etc."
2—"Dolorosa Poeme D'Amour," by Tobani (3 minutes and 35 seconds) until—T: "Jeremiah Madden and his friend."
3—"Let Erin Remember" (Irish character Song), (3 minutes), until—T: "Father McGowan's friends."
4—"Nocturno in F" (Melodious Moderato), by Krzyzanowsky (5 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "We can only hope and pray."
5—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—T: "Early that evening."
6—"Sleeping Rose" (Valse Lente), by Borch (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "You might try to get, etc."
7—Theme (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Doctors are only guessin'."
8—"Rakes of Mallow" (Characteristic Irish Song) (Allegro), (25 seconds), until—followed by 9—"Kathleen Mavourneen" (Irish Pathetic Song), (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "I am glad you have no school." 50
10—"Quietude" (Andante Moderato), by Gregh (2 minutes and seconds), until—S: Cecilia near her mother's bed.
11—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "Where Charity, etc."
12—"Pathetic Andante," by Paul Vely (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—S: Interior of church.
13—Organ improvise to action (Church scene) (40 seconds), until—T: "And with his thoughts."
14—"Adagietto" from Irene Berge's Symphonette (3 minutes), until—T: "Mary Darlin', don't leave me."
15—"Largo," by Haendel (50 seconds), until—T: "When prosperity dawned."
16—"Visions" (Intermezzo Moderato), by W. Buse (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "As the foundation of his fortune."
17—"Largo," by Haendel (40 seconds), until—T: "Johnny was sent, etc."
Note—To be played as a violin solo with piano acc.
18—"Babillage," by G. del. Castillo (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Jeremiah Madden, though lonesome."
19—"Cruiskeen Lawn" (Irish Song Moderato) (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "The humiliations and, etc."
20—Organ improvise to action (scene or prayer) (15 seconds), until—S: Cecilia goes to bed.
21—Repeat "Babillage," by G. del Castillo (same as Cue No. 18) (2 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "I hope it pleases you."
22—Sorrow Theme," by P. Pement (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "A trifling incident."
23—"In Lover's Lane" (Characteristic Int.), by A. Pryor (4 minutes), until—T: "They call me Cecilia."
24—Theme (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: "He helped me being King."
25—"Illusion" (Mod. Int.), by Bustanoby (2 minutes),—T: until "And to Cecilia the world, etc."
26—Theme (2 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "The passing years."
27—"Berceuse" (And.), by Karganoff (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Cecilia's fiancee pleads, etc."
28—"Souvenir," by Drdla (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Jeremiah Madden's birthday."
29—"Paddy's Wedding" (Allegro Irish Song) (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "This is getting on my nerves."
30—"Lamentoso," by Gaston Borch (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Such beautiful roses."
31—Silence (30 seconds), until—T: "I'll play the song, etc."
32—Theme (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—T: "Ain't I entitled, etc."
Note—To be produced as a piano solo.
33—"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" (Irish Song) (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—T: "Where mirth does, etc."
34—"Spanish" (4/4 Cabaret Dance) (50 seconds), until—T: "Notorious Joe Dickson."
35—"The Vampire" (Dramatic Theme), by Levy (1 minute and 10 seconds) until—S: Cecilia near piano.
36—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: Interior of restaurant.
37—Repeat "The Vampire" (same as cue No. 35) (1 minute), until—T: "You're just like your mother."
38—Chorus from "Just Like Your Mother Was" Song (30 seconds), until—S: Flashback to restaurant scene.
39—Repeat "The Vampire," same as cue Nos. 35-37 (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "The oft repeated offence."
40—"After Sunset" (Dram. Mod.), by Pryor (4 minutes and 15 seconds) until—T: "Cecilia and Horace realize."
41—Cavatine" (Dramatic), by Bohm (4 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Take them both."
42—Continue pp (30 seconds), until—T: "Life's turning point."
43—Organ Solo to action (Scene of Prayer) (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Close up of Cecilia's head.
44—Theme ff (30 seconds), until * * * * * END.

THE BARTOLA
Should be Heard Before Deciding to Purchase Any Instrument
Write for catalogue.
CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent, 707-712 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

Theatres Worth While

Front and Lobby View of the Jones Theatre, Canon City, Colorado

Handsome New Colorado Theatre

ON April 22 Canon City, Colo., a city which the census gives a population of 5,162, opened a theatre that would be a credit to cities many times that size. It is the Jones and is owned by Lewis A. and his son, Jesse E. Jones, and under the management of the latter.

The theatre occupies a plot 44 by 120 feet in the centre of the business portion of Canon City. It has concrete floor and side walls and the front is of brick. There is a red tile cornice and the light brick are faced with white tile on the lower portion. The house seats 999. The seats are leather upholstered, with wood finish, and are gray in color. The majority of them measure 20 inches, with some 18-inch seats down in front for the children, making them as comfortable as it is possible to make a seat.

They are set up on a concrete floor, which possesses the proper slope so that everyone can view the stage or screen without craning of necks. The concrete floor can be flooded whenever it is deemed advisable, thus doing away with dust from sweeping and helping to make the theatre clean and sanitary at all times.

There is a ladies' rest room and toilet and a gentlemen's room. A bubbling sanitary fountain is placed conveniently at the rear of the auditorium.

Two heating plants were installed so that the theatre could be kept warm and comfortable at all times. One of the plants would be sufficient to keep the house warm during even the coldest weather, but the Messrs. Jones wanted to be certain on that point so put in two.

Two Simplex moving picture machines of Type E are installed in a fireproof operating booth. The two machines will enable the management to run continuous pictures with no stop whatsoever between reels. Every possible convenience has been afforded the operator so that he can work at his best at all times. Automatic fire shutters protect the audience if at any time a fire should start in the booth.

A feature in the balcony will be the step lights, which, when the house lights are dark, will be lighted and thus aid the people in climbing the stairs and finding their seats without stumbling all over everything and everybody.

The theatre decoration is beautiful. The woodwork is done in white enamel and mahogany. The lower walls have been done in Tiffany finish and the side walls have been paneled in very pretty shades of pink and green. The ceiling is finished in tan, affording splendid contrast and giving a most artistic effect.

The lighting was planned by an expert, the indirect system being used. Bronze fixtures of excellent design have been installed and add much to the effect of the interior.

Music is one of the features of the theatre and this is being supplied by a six-piece orchestra. A handsome organ has just been ordered and will be installed later.

There is a daily change in the bill, with no Sunday shows and no matinees. There are two presentations in the evening, with the admission fifteen cents for adults and ten cents for children.

Isis Theatre, Salt Lake, Remodeled

AFTER several weeks of earnest work on the part of a corps of experienced decorators, the Isis theatre of Salt Lake City has blossomed forth as one of the prettiest and most comfortable little playhouses in the mountain territory.

Harry A. Sims, owner of the playhouse, realized some time ago the need for a thoroughly up-to-date place of picture entertainment, out of the high rent district, and still near the heart of the business district. The purchase of the Isis followed his study of local conditions, and after operating it for a few weeks in its former condition to feel out the possibilities of his stand, he drew plans for the extensive improvement of the house.

The exterior is in pure Egyptian style, to conform to the name, with the exception of the Etruscan gargoyles set in the side panels. The interior of the house is beautiful in subdued colors, water lily and lotus designs, and harmonious shaded light effects. The ventilating and air cooling systems are perfect, and the chairs are comfortable.

Mr. Sims has signed contracts for Paramount and Artcraft second runs, taking the entire output of those organizations.

"Since the improvements in the house were completed and high-class pictures were put on, we have noted not only a marked increase in business, but an improvement in the class of patrons coming to the house" Mr. Sims says. "The automobile trade is much greater than before, and it is really surprising to see the number of cars that draw up to the house on these hot summer nights. The patrons were especially pleased with the improvements, which cost in excess of $5,000, and this in connection with the good pictures we show, has brought us an increase of business that has justified the expense of making a beautiful and homelike place."

Isis theatre, Salt Lake City

New Allen Theatre for Edmonton

EDMONTON, Canada, is to have for itself a reproduction of the handsome new Allen theatre of Toronto, Canada's finest photoplay house, according to announcement just made by the Allen interests. A long-term lease has just been secured on valuable property on Jasper avenue and erection of the theatre will begin shortly.

Jule and Jay J. Allen, owners of the Temple theatre corporation, and present lessees of the Monarch theatre, started in a modest way with one theatre in Calgary some eight years ago, and the new Allen, in Edmonton, when completed, will be the thirty-seventh spoke in their moving picture wheel. In addition, they operate the largest film exchange in the world, outside of the United States, the Famous Players Film Exchange, with exclusive rights to Paramount and Artcraft pictures.

Sufficient land has beeen leased to permit of a fireproof structure of pleasing architecture, seating at least 1,600. There will be numerous exits, and every modern convenience will be installed. As in Toronto, special attention will be given to the musical program, and in addition to an orchestra of sixteen pieces, the Temple theatre corporation has already placed an order for a $15,000 pipe organ for the Edmonton house.

The auditorium will be of an architectural style possessing great beauty without being too ornate, while utility and convenience have not been lost sight of in the planning. The seating will be in Roman amphitheatre style, with seats rising in tiers, so that every one is assured a convenient and unobstructed view of the screen and stage. The acoustic properties insure full benefit of the musical part of the program being enjoyed in any location in the theatre.

YOUR THEATRE'S PICTURE

Let Us Know When It is Ready and We Will Tell You the Data We Want

WE are anxious to print pictures and descriptions of the "Worth While Theatres" in this department—especially the new houses. However, with the present delays that are encountered in the shipment of building materials, it is impossible for us to keep any accurate account of the days for future openings and we invite managers to send in photographs of such new houses, both interior and exterior views together with description and we will then send a blank for the additional data that we need.

Established houses which have not been pictured in the NEWS are invited to share these columns. This matter is intended not only to give an account of the better houses, no matter the size, but also to give hints which may prove of value in future construction and equipment.

In sending photos be sure to enclose them in cardboard to prevent breakage.

Directory of New Theatres

ARIZONA

J. N. Xalis has let the contract for the construction of the building of the new theatre at Twelfth street and G avenue, in Douglas, to J. M. Sparks, and work has already been begun. It is understood that the contract amounts to more than $60,000. Mr. Sparks expects to have the building finished before October 1. Including the organ, interior decorations, seats and other work, the theatre will represent an outlay of more than $100,000 when completed and will be one of the finest in the West and by far the finest in Arizona.

A. V. Grosseta, owner of the Opera House, Tucson, which was recently destroyed by fire, has decided to rebuild it as a motion picture theatre for the Broadway Theatre Company.

CALIFORNIA

Blythe's new theatre, operated by Todd and Fletcher, was opened recently to capacity business under the personal management of T. E. Fletcher. The theatre has not yet been named, and in all probability some kind of a contest will be utilized for this purpose.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

The Criterion is the latest picture theatre in Washington, built by Marcus Notes, a pioneer in the picture amusement here. To put it in its present attractive shape the structure cost $41,500, remodeled from a former building. It is situated on the corner of Ninth and D streets in the center of the motion picture amusement district. Its entrance, which is plain but attractive, gives it a distinction among its more pretentious neighbors. The Criterion has a seating capacity of 600, including its balcony of 100, which has already become its most comfortable feature.

The lighting system is soft, the color scheme restful in its pastel green, and the appointments comfortable.

MAINE

Alfred S. Black, of Rockland, president of the Bath theatre, Inc., has awarded the contract for the remodeling of the Dreamland theatre at Bath to A. L. Tripp, of Waterville.

MARYLAND

Architect Edward H. Glidden, of Baltimore, has been commissioned by the Forest Park Motion Picture theatre, to prepare plans for a theatre to be erected on the west side of Garrison avenue, south of Liberty Heights avenue, Baltimore. The cost will be around $20,000.

MASSACHUSETTS

The new Empire theatre, at Fall River, now in course of construction, will be ready for occupancy in a few days, the installation of an immense organ costing $15,000 now engaging the attention of the contractors. The theatre will be under the management of J. W. Spitz.

NEW JERSEY

A motion picture theatre, the apparatus of which was installed by Frank Hammond, chief operator at the Strand, was opened recently at May's Landing, for the benefit of the Bethlehem Steel Company's war workmen.

NEW MEXICO

The new theatre at Gibson was opened recently, with a Red Cross entertainment, to capacity business.

NEW YORK

Gronenberg and Leuchtag have filed plans for the erection of a two-story fireproof theatre with a seating capacity of 1,000 at the northeast corner of Lee avenue and Roebling street, Brooklyn, the site of the old Corse Payton theatre. The site will have a frontage of 101.2 feet on Roebling street and 48.3 on Lee avenue. The building, it is estimated, will cost $45,000.

Mathis G. Witort has had plans prepared for a motion picture theatre to be erected at 798 Bank street, Brooklyn. The structure will be one story, 100 x 38, of brick, with a flat roof and equipped with steam heat. It will have a seating capacity of 400. Architect C. Jerome Bailey, of Waterbury, Conn., prepared the plans.

The Colonial theatre, at Norwich, is rapidly nearing completion. The carpenters are putting on the mouldings and door castings; the frescoing and the dressing of the walls is rapidly being done. The floor of the lobby is ready for the tiles, but the mechanic who is to lay them has reported that he cannot get at the work under two weeks, and this will delay the opening, so that the theatre will not be completed at the time set, which was July 1.

OKLAHOMA

The New Majestic theatre, at Tulsa, which has been remodeled and rebuilt, opened on June 20. One of the features of the new theatre was the installation of a Robert Morton organ bought from the American Photo Player Company. McCarty and Rothstein are the proprietors. W. R. MacArthur, sales director for the American Photo Player Company's Chicago office, was present at the opening. The Robert Morton organ was installed at a cost of $25,000.

RHODE ISLAND

The contract for the erection of Miller's theatre on the new site formerly

Comfort plus Good Picture EQUALS
SATISFIED PATRONS

You have the picture. Have you the necessary comfort? You must have only the right sort of seating equipment to give a satisfactory reply to this question.

OUR

OPERA CHAIRS

Assure

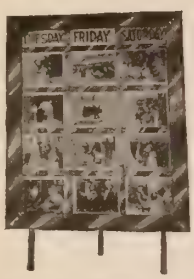
That necessary comfort to patrons and economy to you. Low prices, but high quality. Quick shipment of many styles.

Write for Catalogue N.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

1475 Buchanan Ave., S. W., Grand Rapids, Mich.

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS



Frames, Easels, Rails, Grills, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

MR. EXHIBITOR:—
Don't you realize that not alone does "NEWMAN" stand for QUALITY, but also ORIGINALITY?
We are Originators of every conceivable style of frame in which to properly display POSTERS AND PHOTOS.
YOU will eventually use brass frames. WHY not now?

Get our Latest Catalogue.
It is yours for the asking.

The Newman Mfg. Co.
717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Established 1882
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.
Corner Unit Hinged Frames

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

occupied by the Wakefield Opera House, Providence, has been let, and work will be commenced as soon as the debris from the old building which was recently destroyed by fire can be cleared up.

WASHINGTON

Winona is to have a motion picture theatre, as R. R. Hutchinson, of Endicott, has rented the storeroom of the Hotel Winona, which he will fix up for motion pictures.

The new Paramount theatre, Okanogan, opened recently under the management of C. P. Scates.

The Acme theatre, 117 Occidental avenue, Seattle, will be remodeled and changed to a motion picture house. Alterations will cost about $10,000. The Acme Theatre Company is the owner, and F. W. Grant, architect.

Theatres Changing Hands

CALIFORNIA

J. R. Peveler has leased the Star theatre, Crescent City, which was formerly operated by Oliver Powell. Clyde Stowers is the new machine operator.

J. M. Deeds has relinquished the management of the Red Bluff Opera House, after seven months' service.

OREGON

C. A. Luthy has bought the Stayton Show House, Salem, from Harry H. Humphreys, who has been drafted, and liable to call at any moment.

The Arcade theatre, Dayton, has been leased by Dr. Henry E. Morris, who has already assumed personal charge.

WASHINGTON

Ross Smith, of Endicott, is in Dayton, to assist his brother, E. C. Smith, in the management of his theatres during the summer.

New Blood

By Will M. Ritchey

"WHY is it that the film companies shun the manuscripts from new writers, and discourage them with their work?" I was asked by a prominent author the other day. "They seem only to want the material of experienced authors, which kills the spark of ambition that any new writer may have to put his thoughts into screen stories. I don't believe that a story is read by the scenario department these days unless the reader recognizes the name of the author as a person who is well known and who has written some good things."

The above is not the opinion of one man, but a great many, and it is for this reason that I publish it. The majority of new writers seem to think that it is no use to write scenarios for the various companies because their efforts are not wanted, which is entirely wrong. New blood is being sought in every branch of the industry from artists to authors in an effort to get a new angle on stories because the people who pay their good money to see motion pictures are constantly demanding

MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT

UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
TELEPHONE 4600 YONKERS

HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

Business Offerings

FOR SALE—Complete motion picture theatre equipment. Seats, Machines, Screen, Fountains, economizers, etc. Very reasonable. Write Louis Rosenthal, 1482 Broadway, New York City.

Just a Reminder
YOU can SAVE MONEY by purchasing equipment at
THE INDEPENDENT M. S. COMPANY
Courtesy with Service
Room 603
729 Seventh Avenue, New York

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

The Estey Theatre Pipe Organ gives your people music to listen to as good as your pictures are to look at.
THE ESTEY ORGAN CO.
Brattleboro, Vt.
See our two-page ad in the July 20th issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS

UNIVERSAL
Motion Picture Camera
more speed, better results, at half the price.
Write for 6 new features
Burke & James, Inc.
240 E. Ontario St., Chicago something new, and it is up to the film companies to supply the demand.

Writing screen stories has been simplified in order to encourage new blood to submit stories suitable for the needs of the various studios. All that is required now is a detailed synopsis of the author's story. Not so long ago complete continuity as well as a synopsis was required on all stories submitted for approval to the scenario departments. The studios now employ experienced continuity writers who put any purchased script into the proper scenario form. In this way the author is saved a lot of tedious work, as well as a great deal of time, and this has all been done to encourage the new as well as the experienced to submit their ideas for the screen with the least possible work on their part. This doesn't look as if the studios were discouraging new writers, as my friend suggested, does it?

I told him what was being done to make new authors feel that their ideas were welcomed by the scenario departments, and he was very much surprised.

"How is it that they don't have them accepted?" he asked.

This is not a hard question to answer at all. In my long association as editor of the Balboa and American scenario departments I have read scores of scripts from authors, real and near, so I have been able to see what the trouble was with new writers' stories. It is nothing more than a lack of study on the part of the writers. By this I mean screen study. The screen, like anything else, has its limitations and writers should make a careful study of these before they attempt to write a story for motion pictures. Any story that needs a lot of explanation is undesirable. The day of "padding" pictures is over, and producers are trying to enact their productions in as little footage as possible.

Then effects and business that could not possibly be done is used by the writers, and they wonder why their stories are returned marked "unavailable." Give some thought to your work, using the screen as your blackboard and teacher, because you will discover something you didn't know with each picture you see. Study the stars and the type of stories they want, and then with these in mind set about weaving your story.

The scenario departments have the "Welcome" sign out for new blood, and their scripts are always carefully read, because even a real good new idea will be purchased. This is the day when the story is the prominent factor, and the new writers, as well as the more experienced, are coming into their own.

Clara Kimball Young Likes the Coast

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is to produce all future pictures in Los Angeles. 'Lease has been taken on portion of Griffiith Studio, and she will be back from a trip East early in July. Other companies under the management of Harry Garson will also produce at the same place. These units to be headed by Blanche Sweet, House Peters and other stars whose names have not yet been announced.

Miss Young went East July 1, having completed the picture on which she was working.

TransVerteR

Perfect Light Control
At the will of the Operator

THE amperage can readily be regulated to light or dark pictures as easily as turning gas up or down.

At the same time, the voltage lowers and raises automatically in proportion to the changing length of the arc.

The Transverter insures a perfect arc, a steady, bright, white light and more artistic projection of pictures without waste of current.

You can make a perfect dissolve with two-arc Transverter

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th St., Cleveland, O.

MANUFACTURE REPAIR
MOTION PICTURE MACHINES AND SUPPLIES
Stereopticons
Theatrical Lighting Apparatus
Stage Effects, etc., to order
HENRY MESTRUM
166 W. 48th St., New York
Succ. to C. B. Kleine, est. 1865
Bryant 2948

The Accessory Department teems with Items of Interest to Operator and Exhibitor alike.

"WE NEVER DISAPPOINT"
TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES
INCORPORATED
220 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK
ALLAN A. LOWNES
GEN. MGR.

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
New York City

With Discrimination

We select only the finest grades of raw material for our product.

We select only the best of expert workmanship to manufacture our product.

With the same careful discrimination we have selected the following reliable concerns as distributors of our product.

UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORPORATION

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 1604 BROADWAY, N. Y.

729 7th Ave., N. Y. City
28 Piedmont St., Boston, Mass.
57 E. Elizabeth St., Detroit, Mich.
16 No. 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn.
938 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.
115 W. 7th St., Cincinnati, Ohio
13th & Harney Sts., Omaha, Neb.
714 Huron Road, Cleveland, Ohio
1233 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.
514 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.

813 WALNUT ST., KANSAS CITY, MO.

SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 9 NASSAU ST., ATLANTA, GA.
1815 Main St., Dallas, Tex.

THE SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY COMPANY

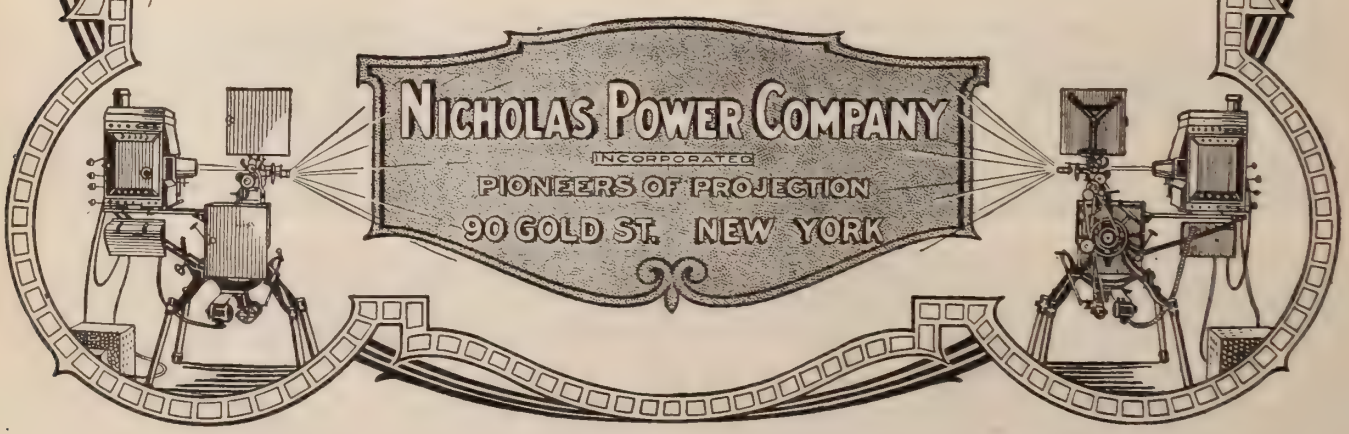
EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 1514 WELTON ST., DENVER, COL.
136 E. Second South St., Salt Lake City, Utah

G. A. METCALFE

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, 117 GOLDEN GATE AVE., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
1210 Fourth Ave., Seattle, Wash.

PACIFIC AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

800 S. OLIVE ST., LOS ANGELES, CAL.



THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

Simplex

"HAVE A HEART"

Don't expect your Operator to do the impossible

"SEND THE Simplex TWINS TO HELP YOUR OPERATOR"

They say the Operator can make or break the show.

Maybe that's so.

We know he can break it.

But he can't make it if the Machines haven't got the stuff in them.

True, he does his darnedest; you've got to give him credit for that.

We have a lot of respect for him. Also a lot of sympathy.

That's why we plead for the Operator at the top of this page.

And, speaking of the picture: may it come true.

Whatever helps your Operator, helps you.

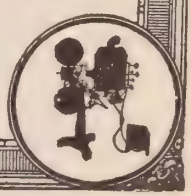
The Operator welcomes the Simplex twins. With their help he knows he wins



THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

PHOTOPLAYLETS

MAKE YOUR LOCAL MERCHANTS GLAD TO USE

SCREEN ADVERTISING

Real Actors in Real Settings—Any "Copy" desired by the Individual Advertiser appears Simultaneously with the Action, making Valuable Screen Space 100% Efficient

Auto Supplies
Bakers
Banks
Beauty Parlors
Candy Dealers
Cigars and Tobacco
Cleaners and Dyers
Coal Dealers
Druggists
Express and Drayage
Florists
Furniture Dealers
Grocers
Hardware Dealers
House Furnishings
Jewelers
Laundries
Lumber Dealers
Meat Markets
Men's Clothing
Milk Dealers
Miscellaneous
Musical Instruments
Opticians
Photographers
Restaurants
Shoe Dealers
Tailors
Taxicabs
Undertakers
Women's Apparel
Etc., Etc.

?-WHY-?

Psychologists say—
That the Five Senses convey ideas in the following ratio:—
Eye - - - - - - - 85%
Ear, Nose, Taste and Touch 15%

Statistics Prove—
That 90% of the inhabitants of an average community are regular patrons of good Photoplay Theatres; That 99% of every audience Sees All good Motion Pictures Screened.

Common Sense Dictates—
That properly made and displayed Motion Picture Advertising is 99% of 90% of 85% PERFECT—that is 75.7%. No other method of selling can approach such efficiency.

Photoplaylet Prints fit conditions because they properly combine expert advertising knowledge and photographically good film. They are actually the ultimate ideal for advertising a local business.

But We Do Not Sell Direct to Users because Photoplaylets need Circulation to make them effective—who controls the circulation in your community?

Think This Over! You Who Have Dormant Gold Mines! Why Not Make Them Produce? There Never Was a Better Time Than Now!

Wonderful Sample Outfit—
Helpful Cooperation—Investigate

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

JULY 20, 1918

Motion Picture News

Reg. in U. S. Patent Office

DOMINATES THE FIELD

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

TRADE MARK ARTCRAFT PICTURES

THEY'RE THE MARKS OF BETTER MOTION PICTURES

You know it. But what is more important---

Everybody in your town knows it. And tonight and every night they're crowding the theatre that displays these marks.

Is that your theatre or the other fellow's?

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

OL. XVIII-NO. 3 Entered as Second Class Matter, October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3rd, 1879 PRICE 10 CENTS

Premiere Presentation of the Brilliant Young Star

Edith Roberts

in "The DECIDING KISS"

Based on Ethel M. Kelley's National Fiction Success "TURN ABOUT ELEANOR"

The story of how a scrimpy little Cape Cod girl blossoms into a most beautiful young woman winning the Fiance of her Guardian.

One of the most delightful Film Plays of the season—Supporting cast includes the popular New York leading man Thornton Church.

Book thru your local Bluebird Exchange or BLUEBIRD PHOTO PLAYS inc.
1600 Broadway New York

Bryant Washburn

"The Gipsy Trail"

A SPARKLING society comedy about a young adventurer who is hired by a persistent wooer (who wishes he were a gipsy) to kidnap a beautiful girl. That's the outline of "The Gipsy Trail," a play of today which will be Bryant Washburn's first Paramount Picture.

"The Gipsy Trail" was a great success when produced at the Plymouth Theatre in New York. As a motion picture, it will be a tremendous hit for Bryant Washburn—and for you.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, Pres. JESSE L. LASKY, Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE, Director General
NEW YORK

The "NEWS" advertisers believe YOU worth while; justify them.

The First

JOHN EMERSON-ANITA LOOS

production, entitled

"Come On In"

A Paramount Picture

Starring

SHIRLEY MASON and ERNEST TRUEX

Will be released early in the Fall

TRADE MARK
Paramount Pictures

Paramount Pictures
FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L LASKY Vice-Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

Jesse L. Lasky presents

Wallace Reid

"in The Firefly of France"

A Paramount Picture

By MARION POLK ANGELLOTTI

Scenario by MARGARET TURNBULL Directed by DONALD CRISP

The Germans Were Battering Down the Door!

TRAPPED in the old chateau, the American aviator, the girl he loved, and the Firefly, France's hero, waited for the enemy who sought the secrets that one of these three possessed.

The girl. Was she a Hun spy? The American didn't believe it and he stepped forward to meet the attack!

That's Wallace Reid in the famous Saturday Evening Post story that is one of the tensest tales the war has inspired.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General

NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

She Made Them Look Like Fools In Wilhelmstrasse

THE Prussian - Whose-Brain-Is-As-Withered-As-His-Arm calls "No. 87" of the German Intelligence Service to get her orders.

Next scene: America.

'No. 87" is holding a poisoned knife at the very throat of America. She has gathered all the cracks of the German Secret Service to watch this country's blood flow.

Then a tremendous climax! Her Yankee whip snaps; Prussia's house of cards comes tumbling down and—

Your people stop at the door to ask, "When is the next Dorothy Dalton picture coming? They certainly are great!"

THOMAS H. INCE presents

Dorothy Dalton

in "The Kaiser's Shadow"

A Paramount Picture

By Oclavus Roy Cohen and J U Giesy. Directed by R. William Neill. Photographed by John Stumar. Supervised by Thomas H. Ince.

Another 100 Per Cent Combination of Star, Story, and Production!

In advertising this feature, take full advantage not only of the name of a premier box-office star—Beautiful Alice Joyce—but of the name of the author—Florence Morse Kingsley—whose works have had a steady sale in your town for years.

Your bookseller will be glad to co-operate with you.

Be sure to announce the personnel of the unusually strong cast supporting Miss Joyce in this feature:

Walter McGrail
Percy Standing
Jules Cowles
and* Little
Stephen Carr

And Use Every Unit of These Box-office Stimulants:

Special One-Sheet Sepia Drawing-Etching of ALICE JOYCE

1 three sheet
1 six sheet
Heralds
Full Lobby Display
Star Cuts
Scene Cuts
Plan Book and Press Sheet

ALBERT E. SMITH

Presents

ALICE JOYCE

in

"TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER"

From the Widely Read Novel of the Same Title

By FLORENCE MORSE KINGSLEY

Directed by Tom Terriss

"I'll Auction Off Myself to the Highest Bidder!"

The speaker was Barbara Preston, the most beautiful woman in the town of Barford. And grim necessity had prompted her decision. She had waged an heroic struggle to meet the greatest crisis of her life.

She needed money—she needed it at once. And it was with fluttering heart that she mounted the auction block, even as beautiful slaves had done centuries ago.

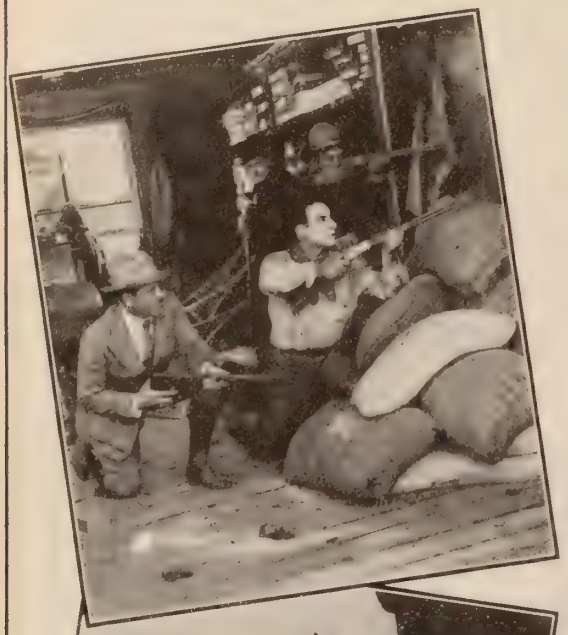
Then followed the greatest sensation that staid old Barford had ever known. And the man who bid the highest and won beautiful Barbara Preston was the man she loathed—the man who had barred her path to happiness at every turn.

And Barbara Preston found herself at the mercy of the one man she had reason to hate. But was this merely a step in the working out of her destiny?

Florence Morse Kingsley's justly famous novel has been picturized in such a way that you will live the scenes with Barbara Preston.

VITAGRAPH

The Serial Event of the Twentieth Century!



ALBERT E. SMITH
Presents

WILLIAM DUNCAN

"The Strong Man of the Screen"
Supported by
EDITH JOHNSON and JOE RYAN
IN

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

Written by
ALBERT E. SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY
Directed by WILLIAM DUNCAN

BILLBOARDS BUILDING BIG BUSINESS

For every exhibitor who books "A Fight For Millions" are stretching across the entire continent NOW. They are telling America's millions that "Fighting Bill" Duncan is here with another big superserial to thrill and entertain them in greater measure, even, than they were thrilled and entertained by "The Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance—and the Woman." And they'll find this new serial better than either of its famous Duncan predecessors. You'll say it's better when you

See it at your nearest Vitagraph Exchange

VITAGRAPH

Three Big Circuits That Had Given Up Serials Decide They Cannot Afford to Pass Up

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

They Are Pantage's Circuit
The F. & H. Amusement Co.
and
The B. S. Moss Circuit

THIS TRIO OF GREAT CIRCUITS

all operating independently in three different sections of the continent—the West and Northwest—Chicago—Greater New York—have the very pick of the market. These theatres are among the thousands of theatres whose managers realize the powerful value of Vitagraph serials. They have seen the previous Duncan serials pack theatres for Fifteen Weeks Each on the days that they were run. You can insure your business for fifteen weeks if you

Book It at Your Nearest Vitagraph Exchange

VITAGRAPH

B. A. ROLFE
announces the signing of

HOUDINI.

In a SERIAL.

It is authentic
Houdini

the appealing figure of

NORMA TALMADGE

(presented by JOSEPH M. SCHENCK)

signals Success! every time it appears upon the screen. Here she is again—superb!—in

THE SAFETY CURTAIN"

by Ethel M. Dell,
directed by S. A. Franklin

the latest of her

SELECT SP PICTURES

Margarita Fisher in
"Impossible Susan"
Released by Mutual July 22

MARGARITA FISHER

STAR IN A SERIES OF PRODUCTIONS OF CONSISTENT BOX OFFICE VALUE INCLUDING "MISS JACKIE OF THE NAVY," "MISS JACKIE OF THE ARMY" AND "A SQUARE DEAL,"

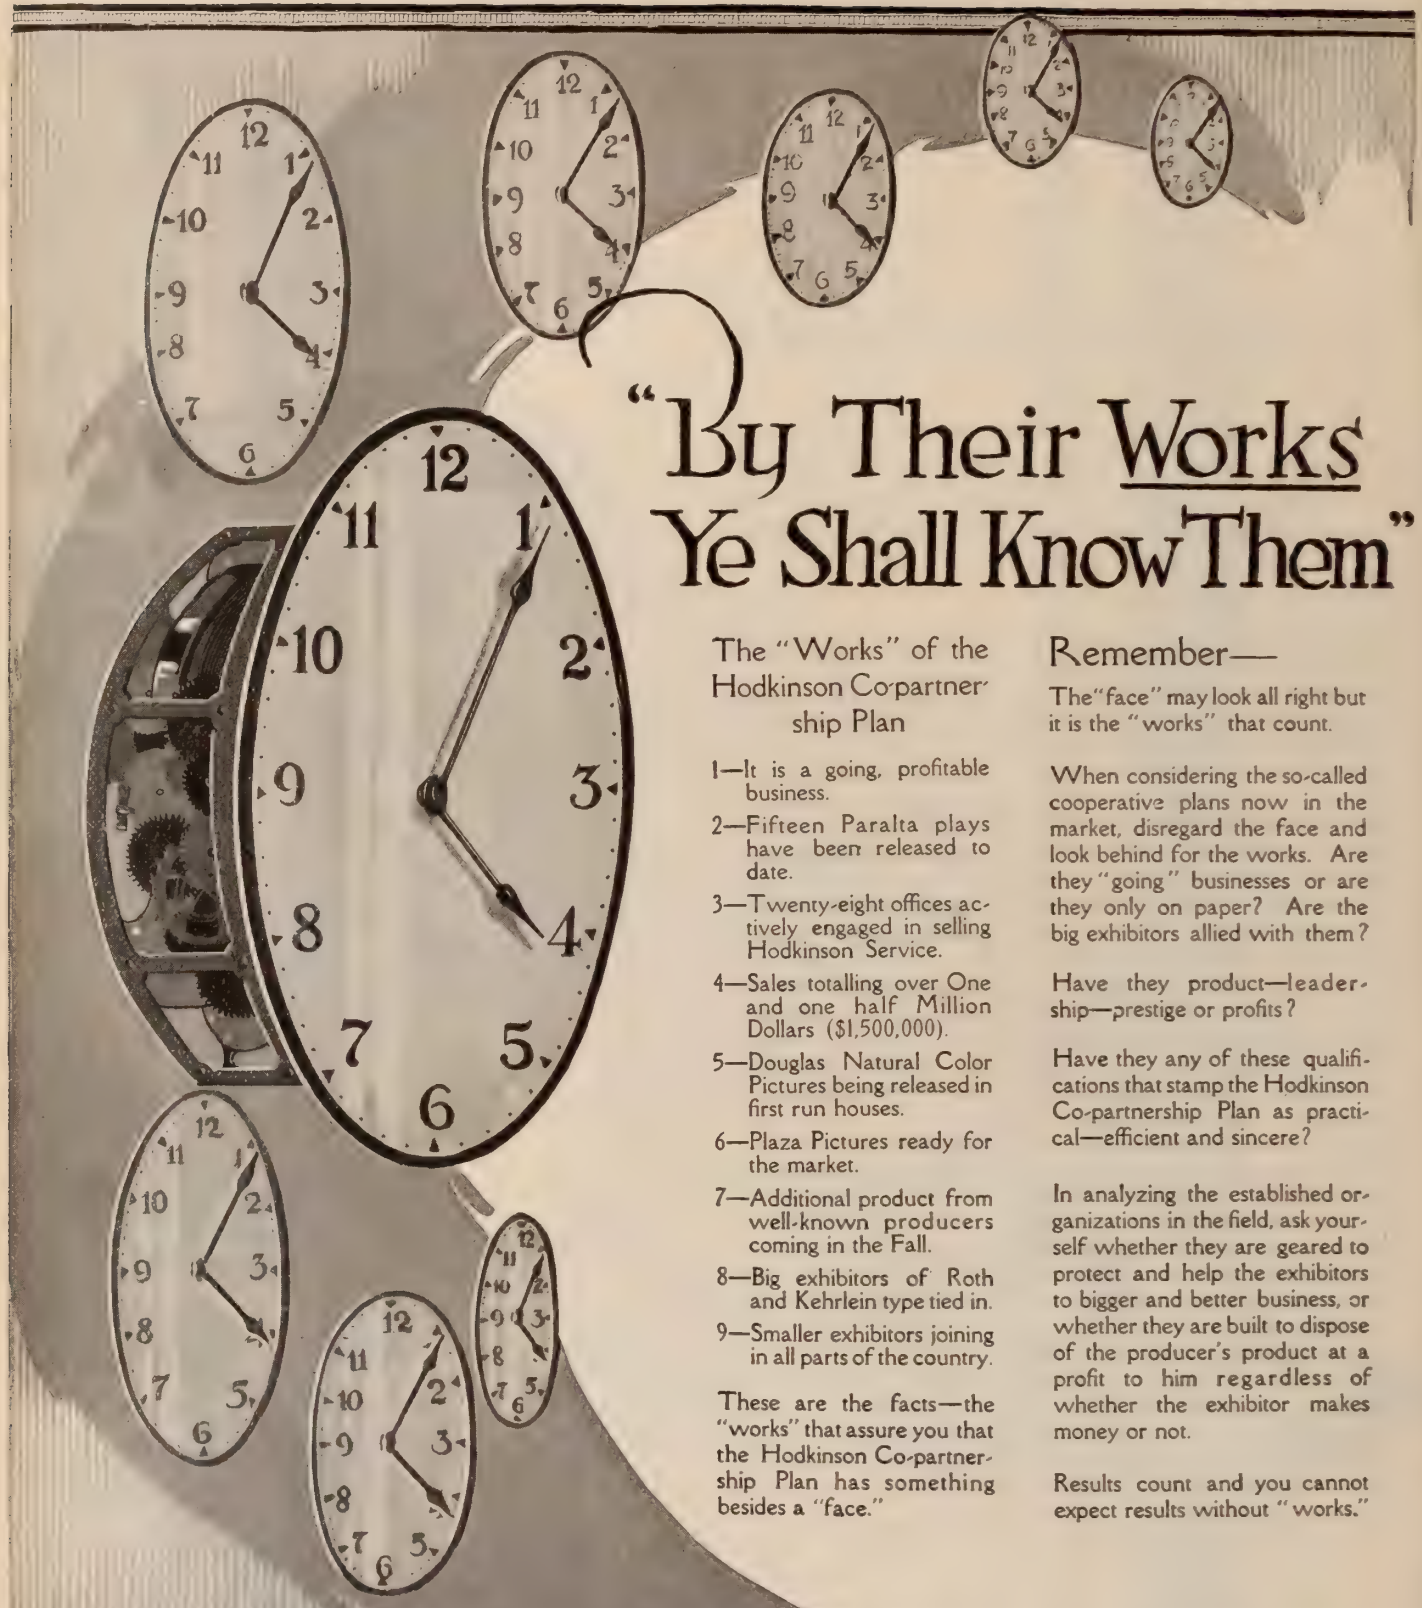
IN

"IMPOSSIBLE SUSAN"

WHICH DEALS CLEVERLY WITH THE QUESTION OF WHETHER CLOTHES MAKE THE WOMAN OR WOMAN MAKES THE DUDS AND INVOLVES THE DISILLUSIONMENT OF TWO CYNICAL BACHELORS.

PRODUCED BY AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC., UNDER THE DIRECTION OF LLOYD INGRAHAM FROM THE STORY BY JOSEPH POLAND.

AVAILABLE JULY THE TWENTY-SECOND AT EXCHANGES OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION.



"By Their Works Ye Shall Know Them"

The "Works" of the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan

1—It is a going, profitable business.

2—Fifteen Paralta plays have been released to date.

3—Twenty-eight offices actively engaged in selling Hodkinson Service.

4—Sales totalling over One and one half Million Dollars ($1,500,000).

5—Douglas Natural Color Pictures being released in first run houses.

6—Plaza Pictures ready for the market.

7—Additional product from well-known producers coming in the Fall.

8—Big exhibitors of Roth and Kehrlein type tied in.

9—Smaller exhibitors joining in all parts of the country.

These are the facts—the "works" that assure you that the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan has something besides a "face."

Remember—

The "face" may look all right but it is the "works" that count.

When considering the so-called cooperative plans now in the market, disregard the face and look behind for the works. Are they "going" businesses or are they only on paper? Are the big exhibitors allied with them?

Have they product—leadership—prestige or profits?

Have they any of these qualifications that stamp the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan as practical—efficient and sincere?

In analyzing the established organizations in the field, ask yourself whether they are geared to protect and help the exhibitors to bigger and better business, or whether they are built to dispose of the producer's product at a profit to him regardless of whether the exhibitor makes money or not.

Results count and you cannot expect results without "works."

W·W·HODKINSON·CORP.

527 FIFTH·AVE·NEW·YORK·CITY·

Hodkinson Service At All General Film Exchanges

First Production

"Petticoats and Politics"

A timely comedy drama of the West in which Miss King displays her unique ability as an athlete and "two gun" woman. A satirically humorous story of woman suffrage and its battle against "graft ridden" politics in Nevada.

A production that will appeal to everyone as a wholesome relief to war conditions and war pictures. Five reels of photoplay—no padding.

Released as part of Hodkinson Service.
Watch for announcement of new stars

W. W. Hodkinson Corp.

527 Fifth Avenue, N.Y. City—Hodkinson Service at all Film Exchanges

PARALTA PLAYS

PICK OF THE PICTURES

LOUISE GLAUM

IN HER THIRD PARALTA PLAY

"WEDLOCK"

BY

DENNISON CLIFT

Produced under the personal supervision of

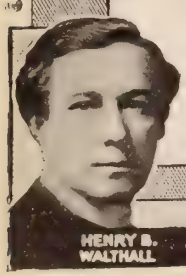
ROBERT BRUNTON

Directed by Wallace Worsley

In the role of Margery Harding, Louise Glaum will be seen as a young telephone operator who, persecuted by the family of the man she loves, clings to her high ideals, until after a series of climaxic situations, the hand of fate strikes at her persecutors. The untangling of the web gives Miss Glaum exceptional opportunity for displaying her rare histrionic abilities to their greatest advantage.

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc. 8 WEST 48th STREET NEW YORK CITY

Foreign Distributors: Inter-Ocean Film Corporation
Canadian Distributors: Globe Films, Ltd.



DISTRIBUTED THROUGH
"HODKINSON SERVICE"
AT ALL GENERAL FILM EXCHANGES

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS

A sunshine picture of rare charm and appeal presenting a child star of the first magnitude. This "Baby Joy" feature is an intensely diverting drama in which the love of a small child opens the locked door of a father's love.

A Series of Six Five-Part OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS with Gloria Joy

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company
25 West 44th Street, New York City

"IN CONVENTION ASSEMBLED"—

at Inter-Ocean Building, New York, awaiting the summons of foreign buyers everywhere—

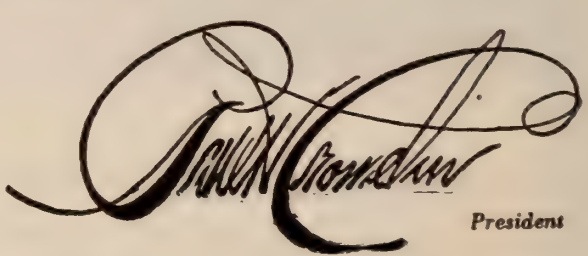
WORLD PICTURES
PARALTA PLAYS

SELEXART SPECIALS
RAPF'S "TODAY" AND "MAD LOVER"
PYRAMID'S "INSIDE THE LINES" AND "MAN OF BRONZE"
INCE'S "WHITHER THOU GOEST"—"THE VICTIM"—
"HUNTING BIG GAME IN THE FROZEN NORTH"—
"13th LABOR OF HERCULES"
VIM, BLACK DIAMOND AND BINGO COMEDIES—
(MABEL AND FATTY) CARTOONS
SPEER CARBONS—FULCO ACCESSORIES AND SUPPLIES

Sold to a foreign territory only when their suitability to that territory is assured.



President

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION
INTER-OCEAN BUILDING — 218 W. 42nd ST. NEW YORK CITY
PAUL H. CROMELIN
PRES. & GEN'L. MGR.

Goldwyn Pictures

Quality Pictures or Closed Theatres

THE 14,000 and more motion picture exhibitors of America owe a great deal to those producers who have put character and quality into their product.

If you, as an exhibitor, sought to build a permanent place for yourself in your community or section by depending upon sensational, poorly made and unhealthy pictures, you soon would be a bankrupt.

After all, there are only two kinds of motion pictures: The kind that build solidly, continuously and permanently. And, the kind that sap the reputation of your house; that undermine public confidence and liking.

There is either a big place in this industry for a quality company like Goldwyn, or no place at all. And the presence on the Goldwyn books of more than 5,000 active accounts reveals clearly the nation-wide exhibitor approval of Goldwyn.

Our productions and stars made their first great appeal to the women and children of America. They instantly increased the matinee patronage throughout the nation. They rapidly extended their vogue to the male patrons of the screen and to-day they have created in Goldwyn the strongest name and reputation value in the motion picture industry.

For the coming season, Goldwyn's stars and their screen-plays represent a concentration of Power. The power of Production. The power of Star Personality. The power of the coherent, well-told Story. The power of great Technical Achievement. And the power of the fair and equitable Sales Policy of the Goldwyn organization.

SAMUEL GOLDFISH
President

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Geraldine Farrar

STAR SERIES

SIX PRODUCTIONS

AMERICA'S most famous and popular native artiste. The power of her name and personality established still-unbroken records for thousands of theatres throughout the world. One of the few great stars of the screen; a remarkable dramatic actress. Returning again to the field of modern emotional drama as a Goldwyn star.

Miss Farrar's productions will reveal this glorious woman in present-day roles. They will make the most of her splendid abilities and will not sacrifice her beauty or identity in costume or pageant dramas. This series embraces more Geraldine Farrar pictures than have ever before been released in a single year.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

REX BEACH PICTURES

Rex Beach

STAR SERIES

SIX PRODUCTIONS

THE author-favorite of the world's strong-blooded races. Backed by five successive screen productions of unparalleled box-office power. Where annually he gave you one great profit-making picture from a famous Rex Beach story, he will now give you six of them in a year.

These vital Rex Beach productions provide, beyond question, the greatest series of pictures available to the American exhibitor during the coming year. They bear the most popular author-name the screen has ever known. Offered at prices that make these productions a remarkable "buy" for all exhibitors seeking packed houses.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Pauline Frederick

STAR SERIES

SIX PRODUCTIONS

THE popular and beautiful star whose power and magnetism have been the basis of prosperity for thousands of exhibitors. Goldwyn will again present her in the type of emotional dramas that made her famous and established her as one of the great drawing cards of the screen.

Pauline Frederick's Goldwyn productions will reveal her as a woman of to-day, in gowns and fashions of to-day. The assets of her personality that have been sacrificed and overlooked are the very elements that Goldwyn is going to make the most of. She appeals to America's masses and classes.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Mabel Normand

STAR SERIES

EIGHT PRODUCTIONS

BEYOND question the greatest of screen comediennes. Without one rival in the entire field of comedy-drama. The element of comedy will be emphasized in all of her coming productions, thereby giving her millions of admirers the rollicking type of stories they expect from this star.

Mabel Normand has been described as "the star who never has to be introduced." This means that she has won public affection. You love her the moment you see her. Exhibitors have found that under the Goldwyn name she has held all of her old friends and at the same time won a tremendous new following.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Mae Marsh

STAR SERIES

EIGHT PRODUCTIONS

RANKING, without question, as the leading young emotional star of the screen. Raised to new heights of popularity and box-office drawing power under the Goldwyn name by being presented in such splendid successes as "The Cinderella Man," "Polly Of The Circus," "All Woman," "Money Mad," and "The Beloved Traitor."

Mae Marsh's Goldwyn productions for the coming season will give her bigger opportunities in emotional and romantic drama and assure exhibitors still more profitable engagements than in her first great Goldwyn year. Goldwyn unhesitatingly says that last year Mae Marsh had more successful productions as a whole than any other star in motion pictures.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Madge Kennedy

STAR SERIES

EIGHT PRODUCTIONS

THE fresh, wonderful personality that provided exhibitors and the public with the one new star sensation in motion pictures last year. Her eyes and smile, her comedy and melodramatic farce won her a nation-wide audience instantly. She has brought new patrons into picture theatres everywhere.

For her new season's Goldwyn productions Madge Kennedy is being given more dramatic stories, without forfeiting her wonderful comedy talents. Miss Kennedy began her screen career by winning the nation's "matinee patronage." Having captivated the women and children, she extended her vogue to the men. Several thousand exhibitors already rank her in the first six stars of the screen.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

Tom Moore

STAR SERIES

EIGHT PRODUCTIONS

IN TOM MOORE exhibitors have a star of their own making and, incidentally, Goldwyn's first male star. We have been literally forced to make him a star at the demand of the theatre-owners of the country and the American public. His is the most pleasing romantic, athletic male personality in pictures.

Goldwyn is doing with Tom Moore what few producers have ever done before—offering him at moderate and attractive rentals to enable exhibitors from the start to make a big profit on his Goldwyn productions and to convey to the public the satisfaction that an exhibitor always feels when he is making a big profit on a star.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
16 East 42nd Street New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

"Madge Kennedy in The Service Star Goldwyn's Finest Achievement," Says Harold Edel.

"NOT unmindful of the other beautiful and successful Goldwyn productions you have given us for presentation at The Strand, I now congratulate Goldwyn for making with MADGE KENNEDY in THE SERVICE STAR what is unquestionably your best production. It is a splendid story, excellently made.

"Madge Kennedy is one of the most popular stars presented in The Strand Theatre and it gives me great pleasure to express my own and The Strand's approval of this wonderful star who scored such an immediate success on the screen."

These are the words of the Managing Director of the first great motion picture Institution ever created in America—an institution that is a permanent tribute to the ideals and the foresight of the late Mitchel H. Mark.

In The Strand he made quality pictures and quality showmanship the dominant ideas, and as one of the last big negotiations of his active career he put Goldwyn Pictures in his nationally-famed theatre.

Today—and all week—you will see at The Strand

MADGE KENNEDY

in

THE SERVICE STAR

By Charles A. Logue

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

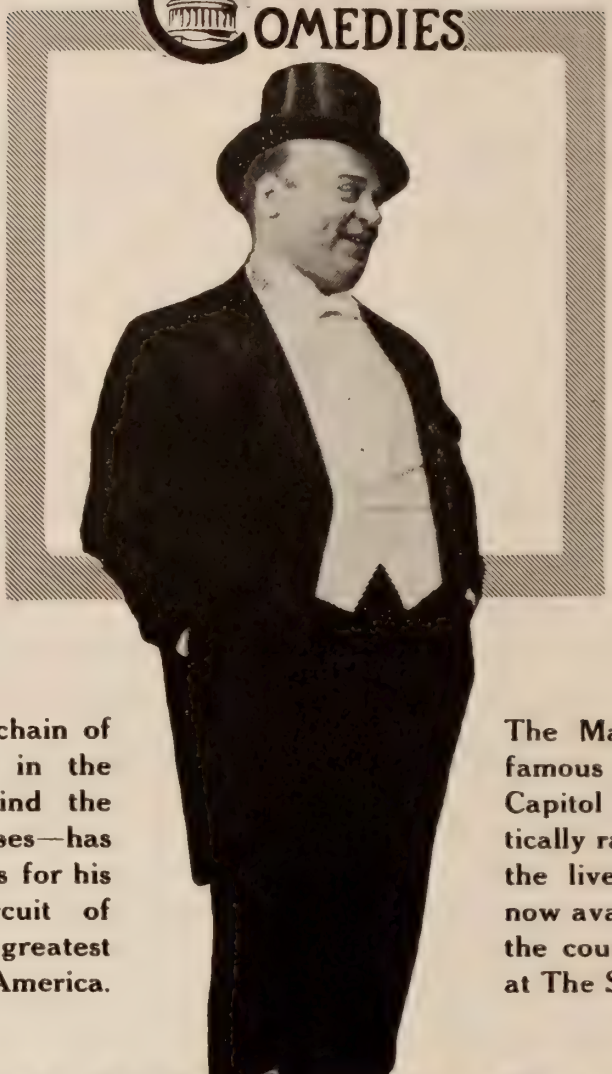
16 East 42nd Street New York City

CAPITOL COMEDIES

Approved by

MARCUS LOEW



Praised by

HAROLD EDEL

The head of the largest chain of motion picture theatres in the world—ever alert to find the screen's newest successes—has booked Capitol Comedies for his entire metropolitan circuit of houses catering to the greatest volume of patronage in America.

The Managing Director of the famous New York Strand plays Capitol Comedies and enthusiastically rates them as "by all odds the liveliest and best comedies now available to the exhibitors of the country - - - very successful at The Strand."

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS

in

CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a year Every Second Monday

has, with five speedy, exciting and laughable releases, established himself as a nation-wide favorite with the patrons of the large and small theatres of the country. The largest volume of business ever booked on new comedies is sufficent proof of the immediate popularity of this newest of screen entertainers. Capitol Comedies are released exclusively through the offices of

[redacted] GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION [redacted]

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

Important, EXCLUSIVE Pictures From All the Allied Fronts

you get them in

ALLIES' OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

Therein are the OFFICIAL war pictures of

UNITED STATES GREAT BRITAIN FRANCE ITALY

gathered by expert cameramen operating with all the facilities of their respective Governments at their disposal. The war is the subject of first importance in every household in the land. Everyone wishes to see the pictures of what is happening "over there." Your audiences are ready made when you show the "Allies' Official War Review!"

Presented by

Committee on Public Information
George Creel, Chairman

Division of Films
Chas. S. Hart, Director

The current issue contains:

ITALY FLINGS BACK THE FOE
AMERICAN HEROES AT CAMBRAI
SCENES OF A FRENCH REGIMENT JUST AFTER A BATTLE
IRISH HORSE AT CAMBRAI
A BRITISH TANK AND ITS TROPHY
GENERAL ALLENBY'S CAMEL CARAVANS
SCENES OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS IN THE FIRST LINE

Distributed by PATHE

Why fear the "hot weather" and the "slow months" when you can play a truly special feature of special attractiveness and with thousands of dollars worth of the very best kind of newspaper publicity behind it —

MORAL SUICIDE

with

John Mason, Leah Baird and Anne Luther?

Two one sheet posters, one block one sheet, two three sheets, one six sheet and one twenty-four sheet; attractive lobby display of 11x14 photos; a 22x28 scene photo; four slides, newspaper cuts and Campaign Book with music plot; every aid to the successful exploitation of this picture has been given you!

Presented by Graphic Film Corp.
Written and directed by Ivan Abramson

Distributed by PATHÉ

Pathé

Nowhere at any price can you get better comedies than the following

HAROLD LLOYD

comedies which will be released during the hot months. Quality sticks out all over them as thick as bumblebees in a clover field!

Kicking The Germ Out of Germany (July 21st)
That's Him (August 4th)
Bride and Gloom (August 18th)
Two Scrambled (September 1st)

Get Them - They Are Trade Getters!

Produced by Rolin
One Reel Each

" WITH ALL DUE RESPECT TO HIS RIVALS, MR. GRIFFITH HAS DEMONSTRATED HIS CLAIM TO THE SOLE AND ONLY RIGHT TO PROVIDE A PICTURE THAT WILL GO ON THE 'BIG TIME' AND STAY THERE AT TWO DOLLAR PRICES."

—(Washington, D. C., Herald.)

This Holds True From London Around the Globe

D. W. GRIFFITH'S

"The Birth of a Nation"
"Intolerance"
"Hearts of the World"

These are the Only Productions Directed Personally by Mr. Griffith During the Past Four Years

"THE GREAT LOVE"

A Drama of To-day—Soon to be Released
The First of a Series of Six Six Reel Pictures to be Released on the Artcraft Program

All the Griffith Productions Carry the Name "Griffith" and the Trademark "DG" on the Border Line of the Main Title

---

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD"

Fourth Month in New York and Boston at $1.50 and $2.00 prices, Third Month in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia.

Now Playing Return Engagement Los Angeles after Ten Weeks.

Over Eighteen Thousand Dollars more than "The Birth of a Nation" for the same length of time,—did over Ninety-Eight Thousand Dollars.

Washington, D. C., during summer weather played to over Twenty-Eight Thousand Dollars in two weeks.

Now beginning third week.

D. W. GRIFFITH PICTURES, A. L. GREY, General Manager
4500 SUNSET BOULEVARD :: LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

TO THE EXHIBITORS

Desiring a change from being on one subject at a time from one to two years, when the story does get slightly monotonous, I look forward, with a great deal of pleasure, to doing some shorter pictures and getting the relaxation of an occasional change of story during the year.

Many years ago, I used to do pictures known by the name of "Biograph." In the last four years, my staff and I have produced "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," and recently "The Hearts of the World." I am very glad to say that the people seem to like "The Hearts of the World" about as well as "The Birth." Nevertheless, according to a promise made sometime ago to the Artcraft people, we are going to deliver to you six six reel subjects done absolutely under our personal direction.

We are very happy to again be with you, and to renew the pleasant relations that existed between us in the days of "Pippa Passes," "Judith of Bethulia," "The Sands of Dee," "The Battle of the Sexes," "The Escape" and "The Avenging Conscience" in the days gone by.

Most Sincerely Yours,

D W Griffith

We Solicit Laboratory Work

Because:

The Quality of Our Work Is of the Highest;
Our Facilities Unequaled;
Our Responsibility Unquestioned;
Our Service Unexcelled;
Our Prices RIGHT.

Ask for Quotations

¶ There's an iron-bound guarantee for you—Mr. Manufacturer—in dealing with a laboratory backed by twelve years of knowing how. Kalem's record spells Quality, Responsibility and Service.

¶ This Security and Satisfaction is yours at a price that will interest.

¶ Let's talk it over!

KALEM COMPANY
235 WEST 23d STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Everyone of the million Americans now in France has friends and relatives who want to know about him.

The People Want to Know what their own flesh and blood—their relatives and friends—are doing in their Country's Service

Everyone is Vitally Interested

PERSHING'S CRUSADERS

The first U. S. Official War Film Feature answers these questions, which are uppermost in the national mind

Was ever more vitally interesting picture offered to the exhibitors of America?

OFFICIAL U.S. WAR FILM RELEASED BY COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION GEORGE CREEL CHAIRMAN

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

Distributors
Except for California, Michigan and N. Dakota

THE BIG 6

THEDA BARA
in

"THE TWO ORPHANS"

"THE CLEMENCEAU CASE"

"A FOOL THERE WAS"

Available Now to Every Exhibitor!

Don't let your Opposition Beat you to it

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

WILLIAM FARNUM
in

"A SOLDIER'S OATH"

"THE BONDMAN"

"THE PLUNDERER"

HATRED! PASSION! POWER!

The biggest production in which this popular star has ever been seen-

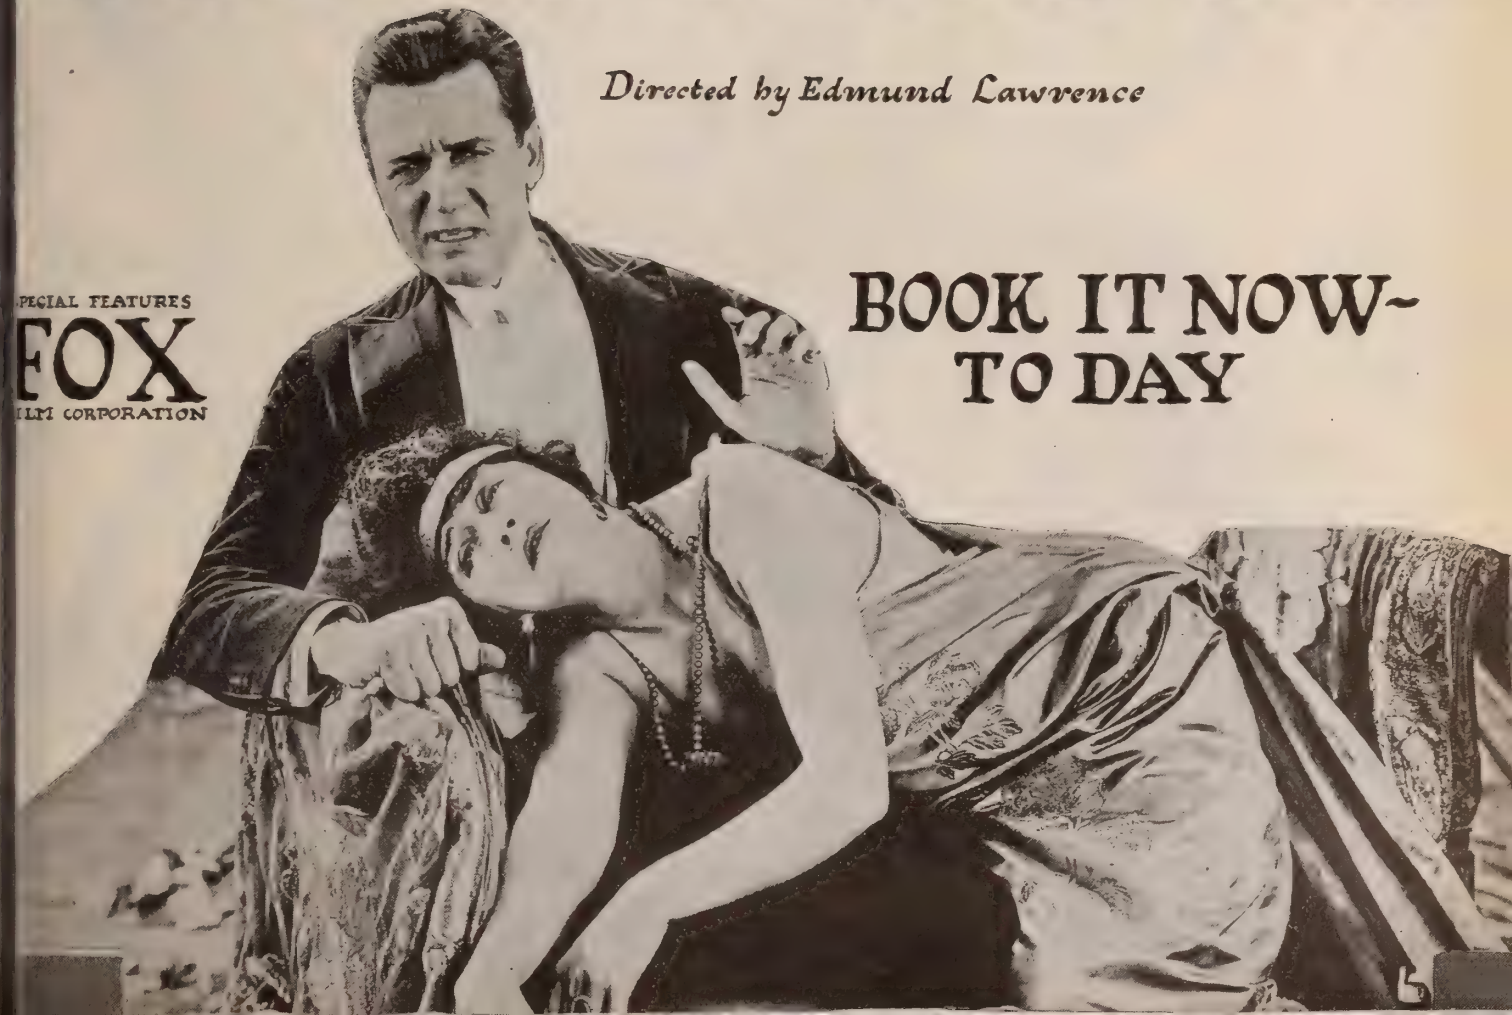
William Fox presents

VIRGINIA PEARSON

in

HER PRICE

Directed by Edmund Lawrence



SPECIAL FEATURES
FOX
FILM CORPORATION

BOOK IT NOW-
TO DAY

WILLIAM FOX
Presents
HENRY LEHRMAN'S

"WHO'S YOUR FATHER?"
"WILD WOMEN AND TAME LIONS"
"A NEIGHBOR'S KEYHOLE"

SUNSHINE COMEDIES

Also
BUD FISHER'S
MUTT
and JEFF

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

BOOK THEM NOW!

PACKING THEM IN!

Released in August as an individual attraction

NOW BOOKING at rental prices for immediate playing dates

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

William Fox presents

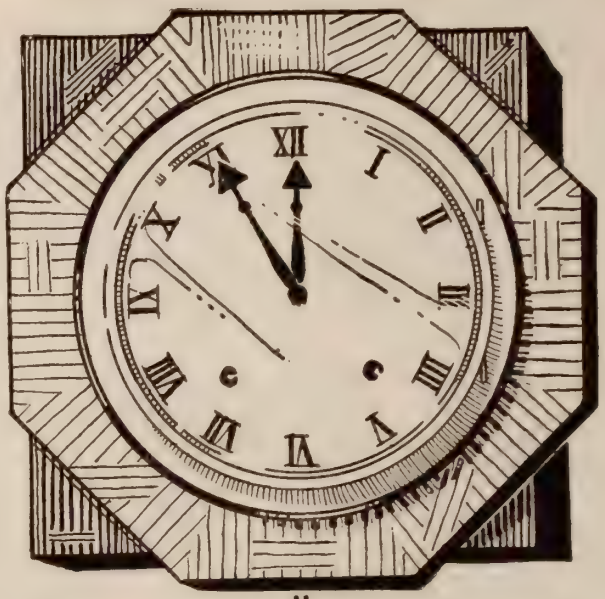
THEDA BARA in CLEOPATRA

"OPEN SESAME"



"OPEN SESAME"

ANY MOMENT

Exhibitors May Expect to Hear the Vital Message!

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 BROADWAY NEW YORK

THERE MUST BE A REASON

Why America's Greatest Picture Theaters Are Running

Gaumont News
EVERY TUESDAY

The News-Reels of
REAL NEWS

Gaumont Graphic
EVERY FRIDAY

IN THE EAST

The Rialto and the Rivoli, New York City's motion-picture theaters de luxe, use more subjects from the News and Graphic than from all other news-reels.

"Rivoli Animated is full of spice this week . . . every picture included is from Gaumont, with the exception of a single picture from Universal. Rothapfel has the choice from all of the news weeklies at his two houses." —Motion Picture News, July 6.

IN THE WEST

When Sid Grauman started his new Million Dollar Picture Palace in Los Angeles he made up his animated weekly by selecting the best subjects from all the news-reels.

It didn't take him long to recognize the superiority of the Gaumont News Service, and now he is running the News and Graphic exclusively, because they not only have the newsiest subjects, but have them first!

OTHER SECTIONS OF THE UNITED STATES ARE JUST AS ENTHUSIASTIC

TEN thrilling 2-reel episodes, filled almost to overflowing with gripping situations which hold one breathless with suspense from the first scene to the last, are crowded into

The HAND of VENGEANCE

The Amazing Photo-Serial for Independent Buyers

NO EXHIBITOR CAN AFFORD TO MISS THIS SURE-FIRE MONEY-MAKER

Gaumont Productions Are Handled Only by the Best States-Right Exchanges

Gaumont PARIS

Gaumont Co.
FLUSHING, N. Y.

Gaumont LONDON

If it's "Raw-Stock" you need—see—write—or wire

Chester D. Coram

Sales Manager

Bay State Film Co.

Boston, Mass.

Factory: Sharon, Mass.

10 High Street

Clean Pictures

vs.

Censorship

What Causes Censorship

1. Self Constituted "Regulators."
2. Professional reformers.
3. Suggestive and misleading titles.
4. Fake advertising.
5. Extreme sex pictures, camouflaged with alleged scientific and hygienic excuses.

A LATE picture paved the way to its filth with a sub-title reading: "TO THE PURE MIND ALL THINGS ARE PURE."

Then followed a full description of how to sniff cocaine from the thumb-nail. Possibly the "coke" was pure.

Why hang out signs in cities where we do not have censorship reading, "Children under fourteen years not admitted today?" If, by these "exhibitors" own admissions, the productions are unfit for children—then they are unfit for adults.

We have been proclaiming to the skies that this industry has become a potent factor in the educational world, and that we are teachers. This is generally true—but—there is room for improvement. If we are moulding character for this and the next generation, are we doing a truly wholesome work in depicting the underworld, hypodermic needles, gauze-draped vampires, assaults of women and other depths of depravity?

Producers Please Note:

Prohibition Is Here, Professional Reformers Will Seek New Fields.

The exhibitor is going to have something to say about the making of the productions to be shown on his screen.

Keep these few thoughts in mind when you are preparing a production for the AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTOR'S CORPORATION and the EXHIBITOR BOOKING CORPORATIONS affiliated with it.

We have taken a decided stand for clean pictures—because—it is the SUREST WAY TO WIPE OUT CENSORSHIP.

Nothing but clean pictures for the next twelve months would put all censor boards out of business because the picture public will not stand for idiotic and senseless rules and regulations which now, in most instances, operate as a persecution of one of America's most useful industries.

Affiliated Distributors Corp.

1476 B'way (523-4-5 Longacre Bldg.) New York

Send this Coupon for "THE AFFILIATED PLAN"

Affiliated Distributors Corp.
1476 B'way, New York

GENTLEMEN: Please send me your booklet "The Affiliated Plan" on clean, wholesome productions from Producer to Exhibitor Direct.

NAME.....

THEATRE.....

CITY.....

Mr. Edwin A. Frazee

(The Man of Mystery)

Presents

A Two Reel Photo Picture

Entitled

"The Haunted House"

Made in California

By

Frazee Film Productions

A comedy drama, full of original and sensationally funny situations, different from the hackneyed and tiresome misnamed " Comedies " foisted upon theatre managers through false advertisements.

" The Haunted House " contains a love interest, a heart interest and logical thrills of suspense. In addition there are puzzling delusions, mystical illusions and wierd magic, together with a screen visualization of theatrical " Black Art " never before accomplished in Motion Pictures. Behind all is a feasible plot that does not insult the intelligence of audiences by inaneness. The production is an interesting entertainment.

Mr. Frazee for many years attained vogue by directing for Keystone Company its most successful comedies. During the past year he has been perfecting his inventions. He wrote and directed " The Haunted House " which will be released on State Rights Plan in July, 1918. All letters of inquiry should be addressed to

Charles I. Bolles, Executive,
Frazee Film Productions,
Studios and Laboratory—Boyle Heights,
Los Angeles, California.

"PACIFIC COAST CENTER of the MOVING PICTURE INDUSTRY"

No, we do not notice any business slump. We are placing more stars and leads, more directors and capable supporting artists than ever. We are selling more good stories, managing more notable actors and actresses, placing more publicity.

We are regarded by the managers and artists as an "Institution" and a necessity.

We refer to anyone connected with the industry.

WILLIS and INGLIS

WRIGHT-CALLENDER BUILDING

LOS ANGELES

"Me und Gott"

6 REELS

THE FILMPLAY THAT WILL AMERICANIZE AMERICA

Story and Direction by Wyndham Gittens

With a superb cast of players including

Frank Brownlee, Paul Wigel, Nigel de Bruillier, Betty Burbank, Josephine Crowell, Gertrude De Vere, Ray Eberlee, Fred Bond and others

SEE IT--BUY IT--AND CLEAN UP ON IT

The picture will be screened for the trade in Chicago on July 15, 16, 17, 1918. Mr. H. Y. Romayne, president of our company, will be at the Sherman Hotel during his stay in Chicago. The picture will be screened in New York during week commencing July 25, 1918. Mr. Romayne will be at the Astor Hotel during his stay in New York

THIS PICTURE WILL BE SOLD TO STATE RIGHTS BUYERS ONLY

ROMAYNE SUPER-FILM COMPANY

221 Marsh-Strong Bldg.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Be sure to mention "MOTION PICTURE NEWS" when writing to advertisers

ROBERTSON-COLE CO.

World-Wide Film Distributors

Offering both to the producer and foreign rights buyer the prestige, distributing power and unquestioned financial responsibility of an organization of world wide significance

TO THE PRODUCER

The resources of this organization with offices in the important centers of the commercial world, together with affiliations backed by years of successful international trading offers the American producer a foreign distribution with returns only possible through a company of its size.

TO THE FOREIGN RIGHTS BUYER

Offering a catalogue of proven merit comprising established feature successes, subjects for regular program release, comedies, educational and scenic productions.

We Control the Foreign Rights on the Following Productions :

"The Woman Eternal," "The Eleventh Commandment," "The Devil's Playground," "The Crucible of Life," "Just a Woman," "Her Fighting Chance," "The Serpent's Tongue," "Nine-Tenths of the Law," "The Master Crook," "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," "The Zeppelins' Last Raid," "Grain of Dust," "Raffles," "The Sunset Princess," "The Pendleton Round-Up," "The Finger of Justice," "The Great White Trail," "The Lust of Ages," "Those Who Pay," "The Eagle's Eye," "Weavers of Life," "Souls Redeemed," "The Belgian," "Betty, Be Good," "A Bit of Kindling," "The Mormon Maid," "The Castoff," "Men," "America Preparing," "The Eyes of the World," "Ramona," "The Sin Woman," "Fringe of Society," "The Struggle Everlasting," "The Accidental Honeymoon," "The Silent Witness," "Bab the Fixer," "The Bar Sinister," "The Fly Bite," "The Checkmate," "The Rich Little Poor Girl," "The Wild Cat," "Sunny Jane," "The Public Defender," "Parentage," and the Jester Comedy Series.

To Foreign Rights Sales Organizations

A department of our organization now handles the detail work for some of our largest film exporters. We ship, route, collect, take care of exchange, insurance, etc. Operating everywhere and with shipping facilities as close to perfection as war time conditions will permit we offer a connection of decided advantage to the film distributor in foreign territory.

FILM DEPARTMENT, 1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

Telephone Bryant 5646

SOON TO APPEAR
IN THE LIGHT
OF WESTERN STARS
BY ZANE GREY
Sincerely
Dustin Farnum
SHERMAN
PRODUCTIONS
LOS ANGELES
NEW YORK

IN ACTION BY OCTOBER 1st

THE ADVANCE GUARD IN THE EXHIBITOR'S ARMY OF INDEPENDENCE

THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY—AN EXHIBITOR ARMY—UNDER EXHIBITOR COMMAND—PLEDGED TO SECURE EXHIBITOR BENEFITS AND TO MAKE THE INDUSTRY SAFE FOR THE EXHIBITOR

The following pages list the pioneer recruits in the co-operative movement of

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES of AMERICA INC.

J. A. BERST President

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY.

Depository, Commercial Trust Co. of New York, Broadway & 41st New York

United Picture Theatres of America
Largest Booking

THE PIONEERS

(The following theatres have all completed their enrollment in United; and have each contracted for from one to seven days showing of all United pictures.)

EASTERN THEATRES

LYRIC, New York City
CLAREMONT, New York City
COSTELLO, New York City
CHELSEA, New York City
ROSE, New York City
WINDSOR TERRACE, New York
OSCEOLA, New York City
NEW KINGSTON, Brooklyn, N. Y.
ELECTRA (B'way), Brooklyn, N. Y.
ELECTRA (3rd Av.), Brooklyn, N. Y.
KONLY, Brooklyn, N. Y.
HOOPER, Brooklyn, N. Y.
AVON, Brooklyn, N. Y.
PLEASURELAND, Brooklyn, N. Y.
PARAMOUNT, Newark, N. J.
PLAYHOUSE, Newark, N. J.
HAMILTON, Yonkers, N. Y.
BIJOU, Bayonne, N. J.
STEINWAY, Astoria, N. Y.
PARK, Rutherford, N. J.
EMPIRE, Pt. Richmond, N. Y.
AMITY, Spring Valley, N. Y.
LIBERTY, Hyde Park, Pa.
GRAND, Harrisburg, Pa.
LANCASTER, Boston, Mass.
CAMBRIDGE OLYMPIA, Cambridge, M.
DAY ST. OLYMPIA, Sommerville
IMPERIAL, So. Boston, Mass.
REGORSON, Rochester, N. Y.
STRAND, Ithaca, N. Y.
METROPOLITAN, Washington, D. C.
SAVOY, Washington, D. C.
AMERICAN, Washington, D. C.
REX, Richmond, Va.
LIBERTY, Cumberland, Md.
LYCEUM, Chestertown, Md.
IMPERIAL, Newport News, Va.
COLUMBIA, Petersburg, Va.
ISIS, Lynchburg, Va.
STAR, Buchanan, Va.
FAMILY, Clifton Forge, Va.
OPERA HOUSE, Charleston, W. Va.
PARK, Middleboro, Mass.

MAJESTIC, New York City
HEIGHTS, New York City
FRANKLIN, New York City
BUSHMAN, New York City
PARADISE, New York City
WINDSOR, New York City
COMET, New York City
BUNNY, Brooklyn, N. Y.
COLONIAL, Brooklyn, N. Y.
SUNSET, Brooklyn, N. Y.
ETUDE, Brooklyn, N. Y.
VERMONT, Brooklyn, N. Y.
VICTORIA, Brooklyn, N. Y.
ELITE, Brooklyn, N. Y.
COLONIAL, Newark, N. J.
CRITERION, Newark, N. J.
NATIONAL, Jersey City, N. J.
EMPIRE, Bayonne, N. J.
FRANKLIN, Astoria, N. Y.
STAR, New Brighton, N. Y.
GLOVE, Gloversville, N. Y.
PERGOLA, Allentown, Pa.
YONNIS, Scranton, Pa.
GARDEN, New Haven, Conn.
LAWRENCE, New Haven, Conn.
CANNON'S, New Haven, Conn.
STRAND, New Bedford, Mass.
EMPIRE, New London, Conn.
PALACE, Buffalo, N. Y.
BROADWAY LYCEUM, Buffalo, N. Y.
CRANDALL, Washington, D. C.
APOLLO, Washington, D. C.
PALACE, Washington, D. C.
DIXIE, Richmond, Va.
PALACE, Frostburg, Md.
CITY OPERA HOUSE, Frederick, Md.
OLYMPIC, Portsmouth, Va.
PITTS LEADER, Fredericksburg, Va.
IMPERIAL, Hot Springs, Va.
EMPIRE, Winchester, Va.
FAIRFAX, Culpepper, Va.
APOLLO, Martinsburg, W. Va.

PALACE, New York City
BUNNY, New York City
KEYSTONE, New York City
CONCOURSE, New York City
PARK WEST, New York City
SCREEN, New York City
WILLIAMSBURG, Brooklyn, N. Y.
MILLER, Brooklyn, N. Y.
OXFORD, Brooklyn, N. Y.
PALACE, Brooklyn, N. Y.
MONTAUK, Brooklyn, N. Y.
JEFFERSON, Brooklyn, N. Y.
NEW FRANKLIN, Brooklyn, N. Y.
COLUMBIA, Far Rockaway, N. Y.
CITY, Newark, N. J.
BERGEN, Newark, N. J.
SUMMITT, W. Hoboken, N. J.
RIALTO, Passaic, N. J.
CASTLETON, W. New Brighton, N. Y.
HAPPY HOUR, Lake Placid, N. Y.
FAMILY, Gloversville, N. Y.
NEDSON, Allentown, Pa.
GRAND, Harrisburg, Pa.
SALEM, Salem, Mass.
BIJOU, Bridgeport, Conn.
WEST END, Bridgeport, Conn.
ELITE, Bridgeport, Conn.
HAMILTON, Dorchester, Mass.
ELMWOOD, Buffalo, N. Y.
REPUBLIC, Annapolis, Md.
KNICKERBOCKER, Washington, D. C.
AVENUE GRAND, Washington, D. C.
RICHMOND, Alexandria, Va.
VICTORIA, S. Richmond, Va.
MUSIC HALL, Centerville, Md.
LYRIC, Crisfield, Md.
STRAND, Hopewell, Va.
REX, Berkley, Va.
HIPPODROME, Covington, Va.
STRAND, Charlottesville, Va.
ELKS, Pulaski, Va.
PLAZA, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

CENTRAL THEATRES

ROSE or ALCAZAR, Chicago, Ill.
LEXINGTON, Chicago, Ill.
MADLIN, Chicago, Ill.
JACKSON PARK, Chicago, Ill.
NEW STRAND, Chicago, Ill.
ELBA, Chicago, Ill.
FAMOUS, Chicago, Ill.
QUEENS, Chicago, Ill.
HAMILTON, Chicago, Ill.
LEIDA, Chicago, Ill.
SCHINDLER, Chicago, Ill.
LA PETITE, Kankakee, Ill.
GARDEN, Michigan City, Ind.
AMERICAN, Moline, Ill.
PALACE, Muscatine, Ia.
NEW HOME, Indiana Harbor, Ind.
DREAMLAND, Galena, Ill.
FAMILY, Elkhart, Ill.
ORPHEUM, Fairfield, Ia.
LUNA, Lafayette, Ind.
LYRIC, Moline, Ill.
PRINCESS, Hooperstown, Ill.
DREAMLAND, Mt. Pulaski, Ill.
DREAMLAND, Michigan City, Ind.
BURKE, Kenosha, Wis.
HARTLEY, East Chicago, Ind.
FISHER, Danville, Ill.
HEUCH'S OPERA HOUSE, Cincinnati, O.
ALHAMBRA, Columbus, O.
MAJESTIC, Chillicothe, O.
ALHAMBRA, Newark, O.
CAMERAPHONE, Pittsburg, Pa.
COLONIAL, Beaver Falls, Pa.
PASTIME, Portage, Pa.
VIRGINIA, Wheeling, W. Va.
STAR, Monessen, Pa.
ROBINSON GRAND, Clarksburg, W. Va.
KNICKERBOCKER, Braddock, Pa.
BARNES, Elmwood City, Pa.
LYCEUM, Kittaning, Pa.
MAJESTIC or COLUMBIA, Erie, Pa.
ORPHEUM, Franklin, Pa.
OPERA HOUSE, Grafton, W. Va.
NELSON, Fairmount, W. Va.

CENTRAL PARK, Chicago, Ill.
DREXEL, Chicago, Ill.
TIFFIN, Chicago, Ill.
ACME, Chicago, Ill.
PLAISIR, Chicago, Ill.
HARVARD, Chicago, Ill.
CHOPIN, Chicago, Ill.
E. A. R., Chicago, Ill.
JEFFERSON, Chicago, Ill.
FOUNTAIN, Chicago, Ill.
BOWEN, Chicago, Ill.
FOX'S, Aurora, Ill.
AUDITORIUM, So. Bend, Ind.
ORPHEUM, Westville, Ill.
IDLE HOUR, Roseville, Ill.
PERL, Highland Park, Ill.
PRINCESS, Dubuque, Ia.
PRINCESS, Freeport, Ill.
STARLAND, Anderson, Ind.
PARK, Champaign, Ill.
PRINCESS, La Porte, Ind.
MAJESTIC, Madison, Wis.
CRYSTAL, Ligonier, Ind.
WALLACE, Peru, Ind.
IDEAL, Lemont, Ill.
STARLAND, Anderson, Ind.
WESTERN PLAZA, Cincinnati, O.
CHAMPION, Columbus, O.
SCHILLER, Columbus, O.
GRAND, Ironton, O.
MODEL, Pittsburg, Pa.
REGENT, Newcastle, Pa.
EMPIRE, New Brighton, Pa.
NEW PARK, Johnstown, Pa.
PENN, Uniontown, Pa.
MAJESTIC, Charleroi, Pa.
CAMERAPHONE, Sharpsburg, Pa.
MAJESTIC, Grove City, Pa.
ELITE, Homestead, Pa.
MAJESTIC, Pittsburg, Pa.
COLUMBIA, Warren, Pa.
PALACE, So. Fork, Pa.
ELMORE, Pittsburg, Pa.
GRAND, Indiana, Pa.

PHOENIX, Chicago, Ill.
ASHLAND, Chicago, Ill.
VISTA, Chicago, Ill.
HARPER, Chicago, Ill.
HUB, Chicago, Ill.
AUSTO, Chicago, Ill.
ROSEWOOD, Chicago, Ill.
DE LUXE, Chicago, Ill.
RAINBOW, Chicago, Ill.
ATLAS, Chicago, Ill.
NEW BROOKLINE, Chicago, Ill.
PRINCESS, Joliet, Ill.
JEFFERSON, Ft. Wayne, Ind.
CRESCENT, Ottawa, Ill.
PRINCESS, Monticello, Ill.
CROWN, Crown Point, Ind.
AMERICAN, Rock Island, Ill.
STAR, De Kalb, Ill.
ILLINOIS, Chicago Heights, Ill.
WYSOR-GRAND, Muncie, Ind.
LA SALLE, La Salle, Ill.
STAR, Lincoln, Ill.
PRINCESS, Woodstock, Ill.
LYCEUM, Peoria, Ill.
ORPHEUM, Rockford, Ill.
WASHINGTON, Richmond, Ind.
ERIE, Hyde Park, O.
LIBERTY, Cumminsville, Cincinnati, O.
JOHNSONIA, Leesburg, O.
STRAND, Portsmouth, O.
KISKI, Vandergrift, Pa.
NOVELTY, Pittsburg, Pa.
STRAND, Altoona, Pa.
GRAND, Harrisburg, Pa.
GRAND, Donora, Pa.
CENTURY, N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa.
LYRIC, Oil City, Pa.
COLONIAL, Farrell, Pa.
HOME, Rochester, Pa.
OLYMPIC, Greenville, Pa.
LYCEUM, Meadsville, Pa.
FAIRYLAND, Fairchance, Pa.
BARNEYS, Pt. Marion, Pa.
STRAND, Pittsburg, Pa.

America Is Already the Circuit in the World

GRAVOIS, St. Louis, Mo.
BOOKER WASHINGTON, St. Louis, Mo.
MIKADO, St. Louis, Mo.
OLYMPIA, St. Louis, Mo.
BROADWAY FAMILY, St. Louis, Mo.
STAR, St. Louis, Mo.
ARCO, St. Louis, Mo.
MAJESTIC, Memphis, Tenn.
PALACE, Pana, Ill.
FRANCIS, Dyersburg, Tenn.
POWHATAN, Maplewood, Mo.
AMERICAN, Terre Haute, Ind.
GEM, Centralia, Mo.
DAISY, Memphis, Tenn.
THREE WARD, Minneapolis, Minn.
ADLER, Marshfield, Wis.
MAJESTIC, La Crosse, Wis.
LUDCKE, St. Peter, Minn.
TWIN CITY, St. Paul, Minn.
THE BEST, Brainerd, Minn.
ELKS AND GRAND, Bemidge, Minn.
STAR, Duluth, Minn.
PEOPLE'S, Superior, Wis.
ORPHEUM, Minob, N. D.
GRAND, Grand Forks, N. D.
GRAND, Breckenridge, Minn.

MONTGOMERY, St. Louis, Mo.
CINDERELLA, St. Louis, Mo.
MOGLER'S, St. Louis, Mo.
SHAW, St. Louis, Mo.
LAFAYETTE, St. Louis, Mo.
18TH STREET, St. Louis, Mo.
WOODLAND, St. Louis, Mo.
PRINCESS, Springfield, Ill.
SHOAFF'S OPERA HOUSE, Paris, Ill.
GLEN, Centralia, Ill.
MAJESTIC, Charleston, Ill.
WOODLAWN, Evansville, Ind.
ORPHEUM, Cape Girardeau, Mo.
AMERICA, Minneapolis, Minn.
AMERICAN, Minneapolis, Minn.
COLONIAL, Winona, Minn.
NEW LYRIC, Stevens Pt., Wis.
STAR, Stanley, Wis.
BRUNSWICK, Duluth, Minn.
NEMEC, St. Cloud, Minn.
GARDEN, Rochester, Minn.
REX, Virginia, Minn.
GRAND ORPHEUM, Fargo, N. D.
LYRIC, Williston, N. D.
LYCEUM, Morehead, Minn.

PALACE, St. Louis, Mo.
CONGRESS, St. Louis, Mo.
PAGEANT, St. Louis, Mo.
KING BEE, St. Louis, Mo.
EASTON-TAYLOR, St. Louis, Mo.
NOVELTY, St. Louis, Mo.
HIPPODROME, Keokuk, Ia.
KOZY, Paducah, Ky.
ORPHEUM, Mexico, Mo.
EMPIRE, Jonesburg, Ark.
"K," Mattoon, Ill.
YALE, Shelbyville, Ind.
NEW GRAND, Panama, Ill.
PRINCESS, Minneapolis, Minn.
IONE, Minneapolis, Minn.
IDEAL, Grand Rapids, Wis.
RUBY, New Ulm, Minn.
DREAMLAND, Wiltman, Minn.
MILO, Little Falls, Minn.
GRAND, Northfield, Minn.
MAJESTIC, Hibbing, Minn.
STRAND, Huron, S. D.
GRAND, Devil's Lake, N. D.
LYRIC-RIALTO, Aberdeen, S. D.
LYRIC, Waterlawn, S. D.

SOUTHERN THEATRES

BEST, Pine Bluff, Ark.
MAJESTIC, Wichita Falls, Tex.
ROYAL, San Antonio, Tex.
ROYAL AND CRYSTAL, Little Rock, Ark.
HIDALGO, El Paso, Tex.
WIGWAM, El Paso, Tex.
QUEEN, Dennison, Tex.
PRINCESS, Orange, Tex.
GEM, Sherman, Tex.
QUEEN, Mercedes, Tex.
GEM, Temple, Tex.
STRAND, Galveston, Tex.
JEWEL, Clarendon, Ark.
HIPPODROME, Wolfe City, Tex.
MAJESTIC, Stuttgart, Ark.
WILBERT, Plaquemine, La.
BIJOU, Houma, La.

CENTRAL, Hot Springs, Ark.
PRINCE, Houston, Tex.
WASHINGTON, Dallas, Tex.
LYRIC, Terrell, Tex.
LINDSAY, Lubbock, Tex.
REX, Waco, Tex.
DITTMAN, Brownsville, Tex.
TIVOLI, Beaumont, Tex.
NATIONAL, Pharr, Tex.
AZTEC, Eagle Pass, Tex.
BEST, Hillsboro, Tex.
ORPHEUM, Marlin, Tex.
JEWEL, Helena, Ark.
TEXAS GRAND, Dalhart, Tex.
QUEEN, Lonoke, Ark.
LOUISIANA, Baton Rouge, La.

CRYSTAL, Esteline, Tex.
STRAND, Laredo, Tex.
MONOGRAM, Childress, Tex.
OLD COURT, Quanah, Tex.
AMUSU, Corpus Christi, Tex.
BEST, Cleburne, Tex.
ELECTRA, Victoria, Tex.
BEST QUEEN, Bonham, Tex.
DREAMLAND, Cuero, Tex.
CRESCENT, Austin, Tex.
GEM, Palestine, Tex.
POSEYS, Marvell, Ark.
MOORE'S, Vernon, Tex.
MISSION, Amarillo, Tex.
HAPPY HOUR, Leonard, Tex.
SCOUT, Oakdale, La.

WESTERN THEATRES

WONDERLAND, Kansas City, Mo.
WARWICK, Kansas City, Mo.
MAYWOOD, Kansas City, Mo.
GEM, Guthrie, Okla.
ISIS, Augusta, Kans.
ELECTRIC, Springfield, Mo.
WICHITA, Wichita, Kans.
BEST, Parsons, Kans.
FOLLY, Oklahoma City, Okla.
REX, Arkansas City, Kans.
STRAND, Salina, Kans.
DE LUXE, Hutchinson, Kans.
MUSE, Omaha, Neb.
PALEN, Omaha, Neb.
MAJESTIC, Ft. Dodge, Ia.
PALACE, Cedar Rapids, Ia.
MAJESTIC, Fairburg, Neb.
PRINCESS, Denver, Col.
PASTIME, Albuquerque, N. M.
LYRIC, Miami, Ariz.
MORRIS, Hot Springs, S. D.
IMPERIAL, Alliance, Neb.
OGDEN, Denver, Col.
IRIS, Belle Fourche, S. D.
LYRIC, Casper, Wyo.
SEGERBURG OPERA HOUSE, Telluride, Col.
STRAND, Boise, Ida.
HUREE, Caldwell, Ida.
BURLEY, Burley, Ida.
ORPHEUM, Pocatello, Ida.
MARGARET, Anaconda, Mont.

ELECTRIC, Kansas City, Mo.
BONAVENTURE, Kansas City, Mo.
TEMPLE, Lawton, Okla.
MAJESTIC, Tulsa, Okla.
GEM, Eldorado, Kans.
GLORY B, Miami, Okla.
COLUMBIA, Coffeyville, Kans.
ASHLAND, Kansas City, Mo.
MAJESTIC, Enid, Okla.
ISIS, Wellington, Kans.
DREAMLAND, Herrington, Kans.
ELECTRIC, St. Joseph, Mo.
SUN, York, Neb.
LYRIC, Lincoln, Neb.
EMPRESS, Grand Island, Neb.
PLAZA, Hastings, Neb.
STERLING, Superior, Neb.
RIALTO, Pueblo, Col.
PARIS, Santa Fe, N. M.
PALACE, Trinidad, Col.
ORPHEUM, Scottsbluff, Neb.
DEADWOOD, Deadwood, S. D.
GRAND, Sheridan, Wyo.
CORONADO, E. Las Vegas, N. M.
OLATHE OPERA HOUSE, Olathe, Col.
PARAMOUNT, Glenwood Springs, Col.
WEAVER, Mountain Home, Ida.
IDEAL, Emmett, Ida.
REX, Rexburg, Ida.
MONTPELIER, Montpelier, Ida.

GILLHAM, Kansas City, Mo.
GLADSTONE, Kansas City, Mo.
HAYS OPERA HOUSE, Hays City, Kans.
YALE, Muskogee, Okla.
ELECTRIC, Joplin, Mo.
GRAND, Iola, Kans.
LIBERTY, Picker, Okla.
ROYAL, Emporia, Kans.
POWELL, Ponca City, Okla.
LIBERTY, Durant, Okla.
LYRIC, Abilene, Kans.
GRAND, Chanute, Kans.
MAGIC, South Omaha, Neb.
ROHLFF, Omaha, Neb.
PALACE, Waterloo, Ia.
LYRIC, Wymore, Neb.
GEM, Plattsmouth, Neb.
PRINCESS, Colo. Springs, Col.
GRAND, Deming, N. M.
PACE, Chadron, Neb.
W. S. A., Sidney, Neb.
ELKS, Rapid City, S. D.
HOMESTAKE, Lead, S. D.
LYRIC, Sterling, Col.
DREAMLAND & EMPRESS, Montrose, Col.
MAJESTIC, Nampa, Ida.
STAR, Weiser, Ida.
ORPHEUM, Twin Falls, Ida.
REX, Idaho Falls, Ida.
LYRIC, Bozeman, Mont.

In addition to the theatres listed above, each having contracted to exhibit United Pictures for one to seven days, and each holding from one to seven shares of United stock, scores of others have signified their intention to enroll with United, but have not as yet filed contracts with the branch offices

NOTICE

NO ORGANIZED EFFORT TO ENROLL MEMBERS HAS AS YET BEEN MADE IN THE FAR WEST, PHILADELPHIA, DETROIT, CLEVELAND, INDIANAPOLIS OR ATLANTA. ON THE OPENING OF THESE BRANCHES, DOZENS OF IMPORTANT THEATRES IN THESE CITIES AND THEIR ENVIRONS WILL BE ENROLLED.

DON'T BE A SLACKER

ALL OF THE THEATRES LISTED ON THE FOREGOING PAGES HAVE SIGNED

The Exhibitors' Declaration of Independence

THEY HAVE INVESTIGATED THE UNITED PROJECT THOROUGHLY AND ARE CONVINCED THAT THEIR MEMBERSHIP IN UNITED

WILL BRING THEM A BETTER QUALITY OF FILM AT LOWER RENTALS;

WILL FREE THEM FROM TAXATION SPRINGING FROM WASTEFUL METHODS NOW IN VOGUE;

AND WILL INCREASE THEIR INDIVIDUAL IMPORTANCE IN THE INDUSTRY.

Take a Tip from Them—Enroll with United Now!

OFFICERS OF UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA

J. A. BERST.....President and General Manager
LEE A. OCHS.....Vice-President
MILTON M. GOLDSMITH.....Treasurer and General Counsel
C. R. SEELYE.....Secretary

ADVISORY BOARD OF EXHIBITORS

ALFRED S. BLACK, Rockland, Maine.
L. W. BROPHY, Muskogee, Oklahoma.
HERMAN J. BROWN, Boise, Idaho.
D. W. COHEN, Binghamton, New York.
HARRY M. CRANDALL, Washington, District of Columbia.
FRANK EAGER, Lincoln, Nebraska.
H. E. ELLISON, Denver, Colorado.
WILLIAM EPSTEIN, Houston, Texas.
THOMAS FURNISS, Duluth, Minnesota.
A. J. GILLIGHAM, Detroit, Michigan.
GEORGE H. GRIEVES, Colorado Springs, Colorado.
ALFRED HAMBURGER, Chicago, Illinois.
S. S. HARRIS, Little Rock, Arkansas.
GILBERT HEYFRON, Missoula, Montana.
ERNEST H. HORSTMAN, Boston, Massachusetts.
FRANK HOWARD, Boston, Mass.
WILL ISENBERG, Greenville, Mississippi.
H. B. KESTER, Pittsburg, Pa.
GEORGE A. MAUK, Phoenix, Arizona.
CHARLES A. McELRAVY, Memphis, Tennessee.
WILLIAM NEVILS, Dallas, Texas.
HECTOR M. E. PASMEZOGLU, St. Louis, Missouri.
E. E. RICHARDS, Kansas City, Missouri.
R. D. SHIRLEY, Omaha, Nebraska.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES of AMERICA INC.

J. A. BERST President

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY.

Depository, Commercial Trust Co. of New York, Broadway & 41st New York

Just Finished!

"The Son-of-a-Gun"

and

"The Yellow Streak"

Five reel western classics featuring

G. M. Anderson

(Creator of the Broncho Billy Character)

Release dates and distributors announced later

FRANK POWELL
ANNOUNCES··
HOUSE PETERS
AND JANE MILLER
IN
"THE FORFEIT"
A PICTURIZATION OF··
THE FAMOUS BOOK BY RIDGWELL CULLOM
NOW BEING-PRODUCED BY
SUNSET PICTURES (INC)
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS
"Every Man has his Price-Every Man and Woman"
-The Forfeit-

VIRGINIA PEARSON

The Most Versatile Star on the Screen

Presented in

Wm. Fox Productions

CURRENT AND FORTHCOMING RELEASES

"A Daughter of France"
"The Firebrand"
"Her Price" "The Liar"

Ready for Release

AL and FRANK JENNINGS present their first

Pictured Episode

in six parts, entitled

"LADY of the DUGOUT"

An absolutely authentic story of real thrills from their careers of outlawry before being pardoned by President McKinley. All scenes are actual facsimiles photographed by David Abel upon the original outlaw territory in Texas and Oklahoma.

Based upon their outlaw stories, written in collaboration with Will Irwin, and appearing in the Saturday Evening Post.

An expose of real outlawry as compared to reel outlawry.

The first of a series of stories by real outlaws in the real West. Everything in supplies up to 24 sheet stands.

Under personal arrangement and direction of

W. S. VANDYKE

Address all inquiries to

Al Jennings Production Company

Culver City, Cal.

FILM CLEARING HOUSE

INCORPORATED

ECONOMICAL DISTRIBUTION

For Producer, Exchange Man and Exhibitor

THE FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INCORPORATED, reduces the High Cost of Doing Business for every one of these factors, and accomplishes it sanely and safely. It proposes to do the work of physical distribution of the films of every exchange system or film manufacturer who welcomes a Clearing House that

DOES

Store, inspect, repair, distribute, keep books for, receive money due on, all live reels entrusted to its care throughout the United States, and take care of paper and accessories. It will operate throughout the United States.

DOES NOT

Manufacture, act as sales manager or sales agent for purchase, deal in, or exhibit films, store inactive reels or owe any allegiance whatever to any individual, corporation, groups or factions in the motion picture industry.

PROPOSED SCHEDULE OF PRICES

(ON QUANTITIES ACCEPTABLE TO FILM CLEARING HOUSE)

Five cents per reel per week on all films in care of Film Clearing House.

28½c per reel per week, one distribution a week.
18½c per reel per week, on each distribution twice a week.
17c per reel per week, on each distribution three times a week.
16½c per reel per week, on each distribution four times a week.

(NEW YORK SCHEDULE SLIGHTLY HIGHER)

FILM CLEARING HOUSE, Inc.

18 East 41st Street, New York City

JACOB RUPPERT
President

TELEPHONE, VANDERBILT 4396

FRED DENNETT
Vice-Pres. and Gen'l Mgr.

Be advised

that the territories covered

by

OHIO
WASHINGTON
IOWA
MISSOURI
SOUTH DAKOTA
COLORADO
ARIZONA
NEBRASKA
CALIFORNIA
KENTUCKY
MICHIGAN
NORTH DAKOTA
OREGON
NEVADA
NEW MEXICO
KANSAS
MINNESOTA

Metro Exchanges are now releasing

GOD'S MAN

The George Bronson Howard Sensation made by William L. Sherrill President of Frohman Amusement Corporation, starring

H. B. WARNER

METRO
PICTURES CORPORATION

Motion Picture News

Vol. 18 No. 3. July 20, 1918

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

WHAT'S NEW? (WM. A. JOHNSTON).....351
SERVING IT WITH SPEED AND GINGER.....353
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING 360
INDEPENDENT FIELD TICKER.....438
DIRECTORS' AND PLAYERS' SERVICE SECTION....453
SIX MONTHS' INDEX TO RELEASES.....493
HOSPITALITY'S PLACE IN THE PICTURE (BY HAROLD FRANKLIN) 374
McCORMICK'S METHOD OF STAGING SPECTACLES.381

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Compromise Likely on New Film Tax.....354
Convention Tuesday, But No "Expo."....357
Goldwyn Adopts "Star Series" Plan.....359
Crowder Exempts Skilled Workers.....355
Business Slack in North West.....358
In and Out of Town.....356
Live News from the Producers.....384
In and Out of West Coast Studios.....490
In the Independent Field.....437
Newsy Items from the Studios.....465
Directory of New Theatres.....495

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Exhibitor to Exhibitor Reviews.....361
Exhibitors' Box-Office Reports.....363
Ready-Made Ad Talks.....382
Exhibitors' Service Bureau.....366
Coming Program Offerings.....403
Releases—Current and Coming.....497-8-9
Projection Department 412
Music and the Picture.....428

SCREEN EXAMINATIONS

"Beach Nuts" Rolin-Pathe).....450
"Cupid by Proxy" (Diando-Pathe).....449
"Dad's Knockout" (Capitol-Goldwyn).....451
"Danger Mark, The" (Artcraft).....448
"Deciding Kiss, The" (Bluebird).....448
"Everywoman's Husband" (Triangle).....452
"Fatty and Mabel Adrift" (S. A. Lynch Ent.).....452
"Fight for Milions, A" (Vitagraph Serial).....451
"House of Hate, The" (Pathe).....452
"Joan of the Woods" (World Film).....449
"Locked Heart, The" (General Film-Oakdale).....448
"Love Watches" (Vitagraph).....451
"We Can't Have Everything" (Artcraft).....450
"Widow's Might" (Capitol-Goldwyn).....451

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Edith Roberts Presented in Bluebird Feature for First Time.....292
Bryant Washburn to Appear in "The Gypsy Trail".....293
The John Emerson and Anita Loos Productions.....294
Stirring Tale of Patriotism and Adventure in "The Firefly of France.....295
And Dorothy Dalton Also Does Her Bit in a War Spy Thriller.....296
The Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature of the Week.....297
"A Fight for Millions," a New Serial.....298-99
Houdini to Do a Serial for B. A. Rolfe.....300
"The Safety Curtain" Another Norma Talmadge Hit.....301
Margarita Fisher in "Impossible Susan".....302-03
The "Works" of the Hodkinson Co-partnership Plan...304-05
Louise Glaum in "Wedlock".....306
"The Locked Heart" Brings a New Child Star to the Screen.....307
Inter-Ocean 308
The Goldwyn Stars.....309-10-11-12-13-14-15-16
Edel Has High Praise for Madge Kennedy in "The Service Star".....317
And Joins in Praising Bill Parsons Along with Marcus Loew.....318
The Current Issue of the Allies' Official War Review.....319
"Moral Suicide" Suggested to Stimulate Summer Business.320
Harold Lloyd's Summer Comedies.....321
Griffith Pens a Message to the Exhibitors of the Country.322-23
Kalem Laboratory Work.....324
Pershing's Crusaders.....325
Fox's Big Six.....326
Virginia Pearson's Latest Picture Is "Her Price".....327
"Cleopatra," the Theda Bara Special, on the Market.....328
Sunshine Comedies.....329
Triangle Still Holds Back the "Vital Message".....330
The Gaumont Product.....331
Mr. Coram Offers Raw Stock.....332
Affiliated Distributors Corporation.....333
A Two-reel Picture, "The Haunted House," Puts in an Appearance.....334
Willis and Inglis.....335
"Me und Gott," State Rights Feature to Be Screened in July 336
Robertson-Cole 337
Dustin Farnum in "The Light of Western Stars".....338
United Picture Theatres Corp.....339-340-41, 42
G. M. Anderson's Announcement.....343
Virginia Pearson's Current Releases.....345
Al. and Frank Jennings to Show Ways of Real Bandits on the Films.....346
Film Clearing House.....347
Metro 348
Essanay's Prize Winners.....350
"The Kaiser" Still Going Big and—Bigger.....390-91-92-93
Lyons-Moran Star Comedies.....394
A Glimpse of "The Geezer of Berlin".....395
McCay's Pen Picture, "The Sinking of the Lusitania"....399

WM. A. JOHNSTON, Pres. and Editor. HENRY F. SEWALL, Vice-Pres. E. KENDALL GILLETT, Sec. and Treas.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, Wm. J. McGrath, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 429 South Figueroa St.; 'Phones 780 Pico, F-4661. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book.

Copyright, 1918, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

SHOW ONLY THE BEST!

It pays you in the long run to exhibit only the best photoplays. High class comedy dramas please your patrons and lay the foundation for future business. You can win permanent patronage by such pictures as "A Pair of Sixes," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Uneasy Money," "The Small Town Guy," "Two Bit Seats," "Fools for Luck," "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," featuring Taylor Holmes; "The Fibbers," "The Golden Idiot," "Filling His Own Shoes," "The Breaker," "The Prince of Graustark," "The Man Who Was Afraid" and the three Skinner pictures, featuring Bryant Washburn.

ESSANAY
GEORGE K SPOOR PRESIDENT

Distributed by
George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 18. No. 3 July 20, 1918

What's New?

A Brief Look Both Ways from the Middle of 1918

"IS there anything new in this business?"

The question was put to us recently by an experienced executive who has seen the film business run in circles since its very inception—starting on new lines and coming back in due time to the old ones.

He is now frankly—but, like a true film man—hopefully sceptical.

Yes, we said, some things are new.

Pictures and picture theatres are better.

Picture theatres are decidedly better. Perhaps the most striking advance is right here; although, in itself, the picture theatre field remains still the one to be most developed.

We are not going into a recital of the modern theatre and its new dress. That is well known.

The important advance—the thing that is new—lies in the management. We have with us today a new set of managers. They are the kind of showmen the theatrical business used to get. Many are young men; all are men of considerable vision and specialized ability. They have to be, for they manage investments now running into the millions.

And they are the kind of men and their success is such that they will command still greater capital.

This is all new.

So, also, is the realization that the picture theatres of the country are the industry's real foundation, that their aggregate invested wealth makes the industry's largest and most enduring asset.

This surely is quite different from the older days when the power lay altogether with the maker of the film.

Today the whole business, its policies, plans, its recent developments—and in a few instances its shrewest vision—all centre right about and are based upon the picture theatre, the new kind of picture theatre with its investment, its stability, its new way of pleasing the public.

How will these plans develop? What will they be?

That will depend altogether upon the men back of the plans. The plans and facilities are at hand. Men of big and true vision are needed. We have a few such men—not many; the business has suffered for the lack of such men more than from any other lack.

But these men will come to the fore, and capital, plenty of it, will come with them, and in their plans the theatre will play a central part.

The Most Important Factor

WE have spoken of the new kind of theatre management.

The new way of presenting pictures marks the most noticeable advance. But to our mind, quite as good and quite as important—and destined to be the future's greatest factor—is the new way of advertising pictures to the American public.

Here's a big advance!

The picture, because of itself, used to advertise itself.

Today people shop for pictures and, in many centres, they follow the magnet of the advertiser's phrases and all around appeal.

We believe that, some day, the motion picture will be the most widely and frequently advertised commodity in the world; and this era will be brought about by co-operative effort, in an intelligent and just way, upon the part of the maker and exhibitor of pictures.

There is much talk of service today. That is just what service means—co-operative advertising effort, to help the dealer sell the maker's goods more successfully.

It is crude as yet—mighty crude.

But, just the same, it's value is being recognized; and one thing is certain, that no big picture making and selling organization will ever succeed in the future in which service—meaning primarily judicious advertising to the public—is not a very big foundation plank.

Pictures are better.

Better, we believe, because picture making organizations are better and because pictures are being made for a larger and more critical public.

During the past few years the belief has prevailed that a man with an idea and a camera could go out and make a picture. And, in consequence, the pathway of production has been strewn with many wrecks.

The best pictures today are made by the best organizations—not necessarily the biggest but rather the best in equipment, experience and policy.

Following the "Punch" Trail

PICTURES, it seems to us, have followed the trail of the "punch"—that vital element in other words, which "gets" the public in and "puts the picture over."

The trail has been a crooked one, for "the punch" seems to have been a dancing will-of-the-wisp light, leading production off this way and that—to thrills of mystery, danger and daredeviltry, to photographic tricks, to lavish spectacles, to sex appeal, to high salaried Stars.

Today picture production is settling down. The Star is being put in a proper place with a proper value as an important essential—but only one important essential in the making of box-office pictures.

The story has come up; so has the director; so, too, has the business organization and management which must exist to keep the other essentials up to a steady standard.

(Continued on next page)

(Continued from Preceding Page)

Picture production is therefore getting beyond the accidental success era, past single essentials; and pictures in consequence are appealing to a much wider and better public.

Following the Flag

THERE is another new development, one which has to do with the war and one that will play a heavy part in the great peace era to follow the war.

This is the expansion of our export film trade.

It is a long neglected factor: but with the dawn of new world markets, new trade facilities, new relations between this country and others it must of necessity be neglected no longer. It will not be.

And the character of pictures will be changed to fit this new development. Because of the commercial importance of the big export trade to come pictures will be made more closely to the requirements of the world market. And pictures will be made, must be made to precede and parallel the American product which is destined to play so important a part in the great reconstruction era that will shortly face all Europe.

These are a few things that are new in motion pictures.

Fundamentally, the motion picture will in our opinion, be always new, despite the old circles it travels in for certain periods.

It will always be new because it will always be the greatest medium of telling to the world all that is new in human minds, human effort and human progress.

Watch Chicago

AT the conclusion of an interview in Chicago last week George K. Spoor said: "Watch Chicago!"

And we are inclined to believe that Mr. Spoor's announcement, forthcoming within a few weeks, will be worth watching.

At present we are privileged only to editorialize.

Chicago it seems has been doing a lot of basic thinking and experimenting for the past few years—all of it quite apart from New York's feverish devotion to production and distribution problems and our well known and absorbed application to the matters of the day only.

Mr. Spoor believes that something is fundamentally lacking in the motion pictures, that this something must enter right now in order to reinvigorate the public appetite, and furthermore that this something can and should be used to order the business—not by any means to control it but rather to iron out its economic wrinkles to the best interests of the people who make, exhibit and see pictures.

So we'll watch and see—hopefully. An ordering agent, sanely applied, will truly be welcomed.

Using Trade Paper Ads

THERE'S a case in point, in our Exhibitors' Service Bureau this week, where an exhibitor reproduced a trade paper advertisement in his newspaper, to reach his public.

But the trade paper advertisement related to another picture put out by another company. So there's trouble.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that trade paper drawings and type matter to-day are being used right along by the exhibitor in his public advertising, which is as it should be and as we have urged upon the producer right along.

Such is the demand by the exhibitor, for this practical and direct aid, that one Exhibitor—quite innocently we are sure—used the other fellow's layout.

We have this suggestion to the advertiser here in New York: when you have made your trade paper advertisement so attractive and notable that the exhibitor wants it, run a panel in the page stating that mats of this advertisement in such and such sizes will be furnished on request.

Don't forget to have varying sizes, including plenty of smaller ones. The small town exhibitor wants the latter kind.

Try it—and note how many requests will come in.

The Industry is Essential

THE motion picture industry is definitely classed as essential by the recent and most important ruling from Provost Marshal General Crowder; and therefore its necessary workers are exempt from "work or fight" law.

The early newspaper reports of the ruling gave the impression that the exemption applied only to actors and others engaged in the production branch of the industry.

This is far from correct.

The ruling covers all skilled persons employed in the creation and presentation of motion picture production. Draft boards will be obliged to consider all such persons as engaged in productive employment.

Such persons are those concerned in the production, distribution, and exhibition of pictures and its allied and necessary branches. This is our opinion of the ruling.

The attitude of the Government we judge to be this: the industry is essential, and therefore its essential machinery must not be impaired.

The application of the ruling by the draft board to the individual, we also judge, will largely centre about the word skilled.

The Government will expect the utmost co-operation in this as in all war matters. Persons not necessary to the industry's structure, men who could be replaced by women—as for instance theatre ushers, office clerks and the like will of course not be classed as skilled or necessary workers.

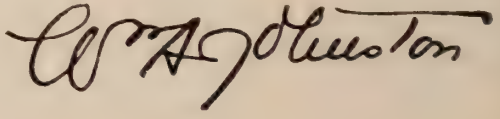
The War Service Association

FULL credit, we are informed, for the boon given the industry by the Crowder ruling goes to Mr. Grant Carpenter and his appearance, with brief, before the Provost Marshal General.

Mr. Carpenter is Secretary of the Motion Picture War Service Association, an organization which grew up almost over night recently on the Pacific Coast, backed by plenty of enthusiasm and generous subscriptions. Full accounts of its rise and progress have appeared in MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

The Association's purposes are to render to the Government the industry's fullest possible service during the war; to dispense war charity to deserving individuals connected with the industry; and to protect and advance the best interests of the industry and its individual members during the war.

An organization so quick to respond to a pressing situation—and with such ability and success—certainly, on this single count alone, deserves the support and co-operation of every individual member of the industry.



Serving It with Speed and Ginger

GOING to Boston? Yes? No? Oh well, we feel the same way about it.

It's a shame to miss the chance to wallop Old Man Expense Account—and yet?

Maybe you will and perhaps you won't, huh?

Which leaves it up to Fate and the next man you meet—if he's going you'll go also.

* * * *

We wish to emphatically deny the rumor that Frederick Elliott and Lee Ochs will lead the Grand March at Friday's Movie Ball in the Arena.

It isn't that kind of Arena.

* * * *

BUT while still on the subject of Boston and cod we are moved to remark that this fillum game surely is a great life even if you do weaken.

A few years ago—not so many—and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America could have cracked the whip and the manufacturers would have said a meek "Yes! Yes!" to any orders given.

Expositions, balls—anything even to the busting up of a Board of Trade or the keys to the National Assessment were placed on a platter if the League whip cracked.

But we do progress. This year the manufacturers stage an eleventh hour rescue scene to save their bankrolls and—barring the righteous resentment of the Boston exhibitors at a rather crude deal—it doesn't even create a ripple in the ranks of the exhibitor customers who pay the bills.

Some of them don't even know there's a National League; many of them didn't even know there was an Exposition planned—few cared.

And—to lift a line from the galley of type kept standing year in and out:

"Here's hoping that the whole mess results in an honest-to-real exhibitor organization!"

* * * *

Tell us something: Here it is within a few days of an annual exhibitor convention and we haven't seen Sam Trigger's name in a single line of type. Where, oh where, is Sam? No wonder there couldn't be an Exposition.

* * * *

WE don't want to take up this whole esteemed and constantly read page talking about Boston but the Weather Bureau has requested the following lines:

STORM WARNING: Watch out for storm coming from general direction of New York when League elects new officers.

TRADE WIND NOTE: Keep close watch on Stock under hatchways when trade paper winds—also from general direction of New York—begin to blow.

FAIR WEATHER FORECAST: Outlook promises clear skies and warm weather for National Association election Friday.*

ALL WEEK: Continuous wet weather in scattered sections culminating in cloudburst Friday night.

J. D. Williams and Harry Schwalbe held an "at home" Tuesday noon in the Astor grill. Bill Wright, Eugene Pearce, Bill Parsons and Yours Truly were only a few in the circle gathered about the corner table.

Suddenly from outside the ring came a voice:

"Say, Mr. Williams, please may I step into your office for a minute?"

*Weather Bureau reserves its traditional right to go wrong on at least one of the above forecasts. Take your pick.

AS we said before we didn't like to devote this entire page to Boston—and the reason is found in the fact that there hasn't been so much real news to talk about for weeks—and months.

Washington produced the two big stories. First, in the issuance of Provost Marshal Crowder's new ruling making explicitly clear the motion picture status under the draft regulations. Second, in the first hint regarding the industry's prospects in the new tax legislation.

We'd like to use 72 point black faced type to state right here that the credit for securing the Crowder ruling goes to the Motion Picture War Service Association—the greatest production ever staged in Los Angeles.

Grant Carpenter, assistant secretary of the Association, came to Washington and turned the trick.

Brother Carpenter is going to stick around these parts for a time organizing the Eastern branch of the War Service Association. When you meet him you'll say the same thing we do here—a clean-cut, efficient type.

An unusual type also—with a record that includes an all-around newspaper career, law practice for years, Government service, some writing and a bit of politics.

* * * *

An outraged citizenry has asked us to insert a few lines urging Messrs. Hammons and Skinner to confine their energies to making and distributing pictures.

They do make good pictures, which gives the rest of us a chance to get value received when we deal with them—

But—matching dollars and matching for the lunches is something else again.

* * * *

ASIDE from the tax story mentioned above there is news in abundance in the pages immediately following this:

There's the important announcement from Goldwyn of the adoption of the Star Series booking plan on Page 359; and other interesting Goldwyn news on Pages 376, 385 and others.

Not to forget one of the prettiest pieces of advertising ever carried in a trade paper in Goldwyn's rotogravure on Page 309.

There's a story on theatre conditions in the Northwest that is full of interest.

There's a gust of crisp, last-minute items wired from Los Angeles—every one a bit of news that you ought to know.

There's another corking article on advertising for exhibitors by S. Barrett McCormick.

* * * *

There's the first definite release announcement from Artcraft regarding the new Griffith subject, "The Great Love."

And then William Kalem Wright gave us a view of his new duplex automatic developer and printer which sure is a wonder—it almost makes everything automatic but the collecting of the bills, and Kalem is one laboratory which doesn't have to worry about that item.

And while on the subject of laboratories there is an exclusive special from the Rothacker shop on the subject of advertising through the screen. It's real meat—and you should read it to be posted on the angle of motion destined to be most important within a few years.

* * * *

Here's one bit of rumor which we didn't put into the news columns this week—that to the effect that the M. P. E. L. will probably withdraw from the National Association before the week is over.

It's most likely true—it may be important.

Compromise Likely on New Film Tax

McAdoo Suggests Doubling of Theatre Tax to Ways and Means Committee, But Washington Reports Indicate Congress Expects Long Parley Before Final Action

REPORTS of the Treasury Department suggestion to Congress that theatre admission taxes be doubled in the coming year's tax schedule which startled theatre men on Tuesday, have been followed to MOTION PICTURE NEWS by statements from Washington that both House and Senate committees are likely to make extensive modifications in the suggestions before legislation is adopted.

Exclusive reports from the Capital indicate that the tax legislation is likely to go through the same process as last year's levy—the Ways and Means Committee of the House tussling many weeks with the problem after which the Senate Finance Committee, headed by Senator Simmons, will remake the schedule to suit itself. Public hearings to all industries affected are likely to be given by the Senate Committee.

Change in Footage Tax Asked

Besides the suggestion that the tax on theatre admissions be doubled the memorandum of the Treasury Department to the Ways and Means Committee also suggests that the footage tax on raw and developed stock be replaced by a flat 5 per cent tax on all rentals.

The present tax is one-quarter of a cent on raw stock and one-half on positive, which is passed along to the exhibitor by most of the companies in the form of the fifteen cent per reel tax. With a change in the method of taxation to a flat levy on rentals, the reel tax will probably be replaced by a flat 5 per cent charge on all rentals, unless the manufacturers decide to shoulder a portion of the tax themselves.

Film men on the whole are understood to favor this change in the tax as it will remove the inequality of levying the same tax on high rental subjects as on cheaper films. The change is likely to cause a ruction in the ranks of the first-run theatres, however, since a flat 5 per cent charge will make a tremendous increase for them over the present payment of fifteen cents per reel for each day's bookings.

Washington reports indicate that this portion of the legislation will stand through the mill of House and Senate action.

On the theatre tax it is declared there is a wide diversity of opinion. Sentiment in the Senate is understood to favor in general principle a doubling of the admission tax, but to incline toward more liberal treatment for the moderate priced picture theatres than the higher priced forms of amusement.

Washington Has Open Mind

MOTION PICTURE NEWS' informant declared, "Concerted, dignified action by the motion picture industry will be met with an open mind in Washington and most certainly forestall any legislation likely to be drastic in its effect on the smaller theatres. But anything in the nature of 'protesting' must be side-tracked, for Congress has a tough job in providing all the revenue needed for war and it must be realized that increases are inevitable all down the line.

"But the legislators know that they are walking on thin ice in making increased demands on many industries, and they will welcome with open arms anyone who will come down here with facts and declare and prove his willingness to help them."

Chairman Claude Kitchin read the Treasury's memorandum to the House Committee on Ways and Means. In addition to the clauses affecting motion pictures it contained a full schedule of radical luxury taxes affecting all lines of merchandise, clothing, automobiles, restaurant meals, etc.

SIX MONTHS INDEX

Save It and It Will Save Time and Trouble

ON Page 493 of this issue will be found the Six Months Index to all feature productions released. Keep this index at your elbow during the coming months and it will save you much time and trouble. Together with the name and release date of the picture will be found the page on which Motion Picture News Screen Examination appeared, the page of the Harrision "Exhibitor to Exhibitor" Review, the page of the music chart and the page of the Ad-Talk.

Don't be forced to look at random through your file of Motion Picture News when you want all the information available on a picture you have booked—it's all listed for ready reference in the Six Months Index.

On Page 493.

Pathe Boosts Allies' Official Review

With the desire that the Allies' Official War Review have the widest possible distribution, Paul Brunet, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., has notified the managers of the thirty Pathe branches in the United States that the fullest co-operation must be given the Committee on Public Information, and the Division of Films, in placing this weekly feature in every city, town and village in the country.

"Wide distribution is the paramount object," declared Mr. Brunet. "The placing of the U. S. Government films before the greatest number of people is the Government's desire and Pathe's desire. Exclusive runs and consideration of regular customers, must all be subordinated to the main issue, distribution. In fact it is vitally necessary to obtain this important wide distribution."

Mr. Brunet said that under no circumstances shall Pathe managers accept excessive rentals for the Allies' Official War Review film. "Bear in mind," he said, "that we have promised Mr. Hart, director of the Division of Films, that every Pathe employee will loyally co-operate with a great endeavor to have the Allies' Official War Review shown in every motion picture theatre in America."

Buffalo Briefs

(Special to Motion Picture News)

The Lyric theatre closes Sunday evening for the summer season. During the last week Manager Charles H. Bowe has been admitting all soldiers and sailors free.

A. W. Skinner, connected with local merchandising interests for several years, has been added to the local Fox organization as a roadman.

Herman Robbins, assistant general manager of the Fox Film Company, was in Buffalo this week to confer with Manager T. W. Brady and Clayton Sheehan, special representative.

B. P. Rogers, in charge of the Fox business in Canada, was a Buffalo visitor during the week, calling on several exhibitor friends here.

Earl L. Crabb, manager of the Strand theatre, is vacationing for the week in Detroit.

Burke Gets Mid-West Territory on "Stolen Orders"

J. W. Burke, president of the Mid-West Greater Feature Co., Denver, has contracted with William A. Brady for the rights to "Stolen Orders" for Colorado, Utah, Nevada and New Mexico. "Stolen Orders" has recently completed a four weeks' run at the Park theatre, New York, and is now running another engagement at the Lyric theatre. It is also showing at Poli's theatre, Washington, D. C.

General Makes Two More Changes

Two changes in branch managers are announced this week by General Film. F. E. Stuart, for several years assistant manager of the Detroit exchange, has been promoted to the management of that exchange. C. E. Kells has taken charge of the Omaha branch as acting manager, succeeding John W. Hicks, Jr.

Crowder Exempts Skilled Workers

War Service Association Gains Favorable Interpretation—Exempts Necessary Workers in Production, Distribution and Theatre Ranks from "Work or Fight" Rule

THE securing of a ruling from Provost Marshal Crowder exempting all necessary skilled workers in the film ranks from the recent "work or fight" rule chalks up the first bit of achievement for the Motion Picture War Service Association recently formed in Los Angeles.

Instructions have been sent to all draft boards throughout the country, telling of the amendment in the "work or fight" rule, placing the motion picture industry in the essential class under the draft regulations. The new order affects all classes of the industry—placing it squarely up to the employers and employes to show proof to the individual draft boards that the men affected are skilled and necessary workers, not easily replaced by women or men outside the draft ages.

Provost Marshal Crowder's order came just in time to relieve a situation rapidly approaching chaos in Los Angeles, and only a trifle less serious in its effect on theatres and exchanges throughout the country.

Text of the Amendment

MOTION PICTURE NEWS is enabled to give herewith the first publication of the official text of the Provost Marshal's new order. In the form of a war department telegram dated July 5 it is as follows:

To Draft Executives of All States:

Number B—1885.

Communicate to all Local and District Boards at once.

Sub-division (c) of Section one twenty-one K, Selective Service Regulations, is hereby amended as follows: "Persons, including ushers and other attendants, engaged and occupied in and in connection with games, sports, and amusements, excepting owners and managers, actual performers including musicians, in legitimate concerts, operas, motion pictures, or theatrical performances and the skilled persons who are necessary to such productions, performances or presentations."

CROWDER.

CBW—mcf.

The words constituting the amendment to this clause have been italicized by MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Grant Carpenter, assistant secretary of the Motion Picture War Service Association, is given credit for securing the modification in the ruling. Mr. Carpenter is now in New York, stopping at the Astor, and will probably remain here until plans have been completed for the extension of the Service Association's activities to the East. He has been assured warm support by many prominent film men.

The War Service Association has made plans for war relief work on a national scale. In addition it is making arrangements to co-operate heartily with all departments of the Government and seems destined to secure official recognition as the medium of co-operation between the Government and the industry. The War Service Association also hopes to be of aid in combating censorship agitation.

Trouble in Los Angeles

The amendment to the "work or fight" rule reached Los Angeles on the day following the receipt by hundreds of motion picture people of anonymous letters urging that they get into an essential occupation. The letters, coupled with the attitude of Los Angeles draft boards to make drastic inroads on the production forces, caused considerable excitement at the studios.

The last paragraph of the letter read: "Official interpretation of the clause of article 3, section 121-K, is that it cannot be construed as to refer to those engaged in the making of motion pictures, who are therefore classed under the provision of the new order as engaged in a non-essential pursuit."

Many copies of the letter were turned over to the federal and city officials for investigation in the hope of discovering the responsibility for their mailing. The excitement created among the studio forces promised to grow to serious proportions when the ruling from Washington arrived to clear the skies.

Service Association Plans Ball

Plans for the first event to raise money for the War Service Association have now been made, and provides for a mask ball to be given August 3 at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. In addition to a dance there will be several entertainment numbers. Admission to this ball will be by invitation only, and the admission fees will be $3 per person. Shrine Auditorium has a seating capacity of 4,000 in the balconies.

Another important feature taken up by the association at a recent meeting is a correspondence department. This is in charge of Jeanie MacPherson, and names and addresses of men formerly of the motion picture industry, now in the service, are being collected. All those who do not have relatives in position to take care of any emergencies needed at home, or are not hearing from relatives or friends, will receive weekly letters from members of the association.

At the meeting last week of the directors of the association, Lois Weber was named chairman of the woman's auxiliary which will supervise knitting, sewing and salvage work, and contribute to the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., K. of C. and other organizations that have ways of better carrying work to the soldiers.

WHO'S WHO

All Classes Affected by Crowder Amendment

WHILE it was obviously necessary for Provost Marshal Crowder in amending the work or fight rule as told in the story on this page to use general terms, it is stated on authority that the express intention of the army officials is to exempt the following classes from the provisions of the original ruling:

"Producing directors, actors, camera men, scenario writers, film editors, film cutters, heads of the laboratory, scenic and property departments, managers of theatres, musicians, projection machine operators, necessary auditors in the case of large theatres chains, executives of distributing and exchange organizations, and necessary skilled employees in those branches."

Zukor Thanks Crowder for "Essential" Ruling

Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, last Monday thanked Provost Marshal General Crowder for his decision to list the motion picture business among the essential industries under his "work or fight" law, and said that in his opinion the screen would vindicate the Provost Marshal General's judgment.

"The motion picture industry," said Mr. Zukor, "is already on a war basis. In making our plans at the present time for the season of 1918-19, we are deciding to produce only plays of a cheerful nature, because we believe it to be a patriotic duty that devolves at this time peculiarly upon the screen to bring comfort and courage to the heart of America. But the screen is doing an even more important work. It is interpreting the ideals and aims of American democracy to the rest of the world, and in order to aid the Government in this direction to our fullest ability, we have decided to select only such subjects for production as will indicate to the peoples of foreign nations the qualities and spiritual texture which have been developed in American manhood and womanhood by the institutions which we are now striving to preserve.

"The American motion picture will battle on the screens of the world for the defeat of German autocracy."

Honor Roll

The Honor Roll continues to grow, day by day, and the industry has just cause to be proud of its boys who are flocking to the colors.

Among the latest are the following:

Another General Film branch manager is resigning to enter the service of his country. Irving C. Jaycocks, in charge of the New Haven exchange, has enlisted in the navy and will be called for service shortly.

Marc Edmund Jones, the writer, left the Vitagraph plant to become a soldier. He has been at it now for about eight weeks and is a regular soldier in more ways than one, belonging to Co. E, 22nd Infantry, U. S. A., now stationed at Sacketts Harbor, Madison Barracks.

Harry Edwards, just to be different from the other juvenile men of the Christie Comedy Company, has enlisted in the navy instead of seeking army honors.

Meredith Algro, shipping clerk at the Los Angeles Mutual Exchange, has enlisted in the navy, and has taken up service at the Submarine Base, Los Angeles Harbor.

Hank Mann, the comedian with the bashful eyes, seen in Sennett and Fox Comedies, as the featured laugh maker, answered the draft on June 23rd, and is at Camp Kearny.

The general manager of the Standard Film Corporation, Phil L. Ryan, has volunteered his services to Uncle Sam and been appointed to service with the Eighth Depot Battalion, Signal Corps.

Ray Nehls, formerly with Mutual and until recently a salesman out of the World's Denver office, has joined the colors and left for the training camp at Deming, N. M.

Murray Hawkins, one of the best known film salesmen in Denver territory, has resigned his position with Select Pictures and departed for San Francisco as a recruit in the Officers Reserve Corps.

D. E. Schayer, booking clerk of the Famous Players-Lasky Salt Lake branch, has been called to military service and hopes possibly to get a commission in motion picture work for the Government, as there is a great demand for motion picture men in connection with Liberty theatres,

James B. Gilmore, formerly very active as a salesman in various distributing organizations in the Intermountain and Northwestern States, recently enlisted with the Marine Corps and is now at the Mare Island training station.

Kenneth Harlan, who has supported numerous Bluebird and Universal stars, has been called to the colors and is now stationed with the Fortieth Division at Camp Kearny, Linda Vista, California.

Minneapolis Sees Changes in Film World

(Special to Motion Picture News)

Minneapolis, Minn.—W. C. Lestico, who has been acting as assistant booker at the local Triangle exchange for the past six months has been appointed manager of the office to succeed W. F. Seymour who recently came to Minneapolis from the Pacific Coast but who was called into immediate army service June 27. Mr. Lestico is well known in this territory having been active in the local film field for about four years.

Arthur Huesman has been appointed manager of the local General exchange to succeed R. K. Evans who recently became manager of the Jewel Productions department of the Minneapolis Universal exchange. Mr. Huesman was formerly booker at the General.

H. J. Roberts has resigned as manager of the Minneapolis Pathe office and has gone to Spokane where he expects to resume film work. Mr. Roberts' successor has not been named as yet by R. O. Proctor, district manager who has been in this city for about a month is taking charge of the office until a new manager is appointed. Henry J. Kaufman, former assistant booker at the Universal exchange here has joined the Pathe force succeeding Henry Fryklund, who has entered the national army service.

A. H. Fischer, formerly of the Independent Film & Supply Co. at Montreal has assumed charge of the Minneapolis Metro exchange, succeeding Louis H. Coen, who recently resigned to become manager of the Universal exchange here. Mr. Fischer has been assisted in getting started off in his new position by S. A. Shirley district manager who has been in Minneapolis for two weeks prior to Mr. Fischer's coming.

Fire Damages Fairbanks' Dressing Room

Fire believed to have been of incendiary origin destroyed on July 7 a portion of the Famous Players-Lasky property occupied by the Douglas Fairbanks company, at Los Angeles. Fairbanks' dressing room was completely burned, as was also negative and positive film in the room adjoining which is used for cutting. The negative of the one-reel Liberty Loan subject, "Swat the Kaiser," and the positive of "Bound in Morocco," were destroyed. Fairbanks lost his entire wardrobe at the studio, and a handsome silver mounted saddle given him by cowboys on his birthday.

Lesser Buys "Hearts of World" Territory

Sol Lesser bought "Hearts of the World" of D. W. Griffith at Los Angeles July 8 for Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota. This gives Lesser control of the production west of the Mississippi River.

George Davis, of the Alcazar theatre in San Francisco, reports that "Hearts of the World" in its third week in San Francisco is playing to record business. Davis is associated with Lesser in the deal.

In and Out of Town

Walter H. Brooks, manager of the Coatesville Auditorium, Pa., which is owned by the local Y. M. C. A. and ranked as one of the best conducted theatres in the country was in New York this week.

Grant Carpenter, secretary War Service Association, Los Angeles, is in New York combining a business with a pleasure trip.

J. Eugene Pearce, general manager, Josiah Pearce Company, Los Angeles, is in New York on business.

Leo A. Landau, manager, Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee, dropped in on New Yorkers this week. He is here on a business trip.

Frank L. Newman, manager of Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo., is one of the prominent theatre managers of the Middle West who was seen in New York this week.

Olive Thomas, Mrs. Jack Pickford in private life, arrived in New York this week from Los Angeles. She is resting after her work at the Triangle studios.

Division of Films Stages Exposition

A bird's-eye view of the war, this was the effect of the thousands of war trophies, including airplanes, submarines, big guns, small guns, tanks, rifles, ammunition and scores of different kinds of war materials captured from the German by the American, French, British, Belgian and Italian troops, which were shown in the Allied War Exposition that was opened by the United States Government in San Franciscvo.

This Allied War Exposition, which will be shown in a number of large cities of the United States after leaving San Francisco, is a part of the educational work of the Committee on Public Information, George Creel, chairman, and is under the direct supervision of Charles S. Hart, Director of the Division of Films. The Exposition is in charge of Chester I. Campbell, Director of the U. S. War Exhibits.

Dawley Visits Los Angeles

J. Searle Dawley, president of the Eastern Studio Motion Picture Directors' Association, arrived in Los Angeles, July 7, from his honeymoon trip which was spent in Alaska. While on the Coast Mr. Dawley is being entertained by members of the Association. A dinner was given in his honor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club on the evening of Monday, July 8. William D. Taylor, president of the Western body, was toastmaster.

Convention Tuesday, But No "Expo"

Lack of Support from Manufacturers Causes Abandonment of Boston Exposition at Eleventh Hour—Hot Fight Likely in Convention Opening—Mystery in N. A. M. P. I. Election

BOSTON celebrates Motion Picture Week, starting next Monday—but it is a Motion Picture Week without a Motion Picture Exposition. Lack of support by the manufacturers caused the announcement early this week that the Exposition would be abandoned and only the usual annual meetings held in the Hub.

But there won't be any lack of action around the Historic Commons. On Monday the Executive Committee of the M. P. E. L. meets, on Tuesday a three day convention opens at the Tremont Temple, and on Friday the National Association holds its annual meeting at the Copley-Plaza.

Friday night brings the affair that is expected to aid in recouping the losses suffered in promoting the abandoned Exposition—a Monster Movie Ball at the Arena with several prominent stars as the guests of honor.

Elections the Sole Interest

The magnet that will draw New York film men to Boston is found in the elections of the M. P. E. L. and the National Association.

The most prominent candidate to succeed Lee Ochs as president of the League is found in a Boston "native son," Ernest Horstman. Other candidates are said to be doing quiet electioneering work while rumor has it that the New York delegation may take the lead in a bitter fight against the present controllers of the League should there be any appearance of "machine politics."

Mystery surrounds the National Association election through the lack of avowed candidates for the office of president. If there is electioneering being done it is super-gum shoe work. William A. Brady has announced his desire to retire from the post though it is said that he might possibly be induced to take the reins again. William Fox is the man most prominently mentioned as his successor.

Up till Thursday there was no statement forthcoming as to the effect of the Exposition's abandoning on the plans of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers to hold their annual meeting in Boston.

Ochs Issues Statement

Following the announcement of the decision to call off the Exposition Lee Ochs issued the following statement:

To the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America and to the Motion Picture Industry:

Abandoned at the last moment by the producer and distributor branches of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, I have been compelled to call off the exposition scheduled to be held in the city of Boston, July 13 to 20 at Mechanics' Building. With all arrangements completed and with everything understood between the exhibitors holding the exposition and the manufacturers and distributors who were to take part within a few days of the holding of the exposition the manufacturers and distributors almost unanimously refused to support the motion picture exposition plans in which the National Association had a 50 per cent interest.

Page 493

¶ The Six Months' Index to all pictures released—with full cross-references to all MOTION PICTURE NEWS reviews, music charts, ad-talks, etc., will be found on page 493.

¶ This invaluable feature should be at your elbow constantly during the coming months.

The exceptions among the manufacturers and distributors were William A. Brady, the president of the National Association, World Film Corp., William L. Sherry and William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Co.

I desire to express my thanks to them for the support generously given but which under the conditions cannot be accepted and I also wish to extend the thanks of the League to National Carbon Co., Nicholas Power Co. and Precision Machine Co., who also supported the exposition by signing contracts for space. In lieu of the exposition and to make up in some part the loss sustained by the League by reason of the action of the National Association, a grand ball will be held at the Arena in the city of Boston on Friday night, July 19, at which many of the great stars of the motion picture world will be present. In behalf of the League I also desire to thank the trade papers for the space that they have generously donated to the League in furtherance of the aims of the exposition.

The convention of the exhibitors will be held as scheduled and from present indications will be the largest convention ever held under the auspices of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America.

(Signed) LEE A. OCHS,
President Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America.
New York City, July 8, 1918.

Black Chosen President of Maine League

The Maine State League held a largely attended meeting at the Elmwood Hotel, Waterville, Me., Tuesday, July 2. Much important business for the best interests of the exhibitors of Maine was transacted.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: Alfred S. Black, of Rockland, president; John W. Goodwin, of Hallowell, secretary; S. Hansen, of Camden, treasurer.

Delegates to the National Convention at Boston, July 16, are: Alfred S. Black, John W. Goodwin, S. Hansen, W. W. Williamson, S. W. Wing, F. M. Eugley.

Alternates are: S. T. Stitham, William Reeves, William P. Gray, Neal Kelleher, Paul Peaks, George P. Churchill.

The meeting was adjourned to a meeting to be held at the Lenox Hotel, Boston, Mass., July 19, at 2 p. m.

Thrift Trailers on Feature Films

The National War Savings Committee, Bureau of Motion Picture Publicity, announced last week that W. S. S. thriftettes, consisting of short animated cartoon trailers, will be attached to features released during the ensuing three months. These trailers will have, it is said, a design title in which the shield and eagle will be prominent, and each of the thirteen releases will be a different subject.

To encourage thrift and the buying of War Savings Stamps, the National War Savings Committee is asking motion picture theatres to run the trailers with features as they appear and to announce their appearance from time to time on the screen, in the lobby, in programs and in the newspapers.

World Rewards Employes with Promotion

World Pictures announces the promotion of Norman Moray from chief clerk of the New York branch office to be assistant manager, New York branch office.

Harry M. White, from special assignment New York branch office, is to become manager of the Indianapolis branch office, vice Nat Barach, resigned, to go with the colors.

This is in line with the policy of World Pictures to promote its own men who have made good, instead of going outside to secure competent help in propagating World work.

Business Slacks in Northwest

Vicinity of Minneapolis Hard Hit By Poor Conditions—Los Angeles Theatre Meets War Times By Lowering Prices

IF records for June can be taken as a criterion the Northwest and certain Coast sections are experiencing one of the worst summer slumps in the motion picture business this year. In the larger cities of the Northwest territory business has taken the worst slump in years, many theatres closing up for one or two months while others have cut down their number of weekly film showings to two and three where previously theatres have been open every evening and Sunday afternoons.

In the Dakotas the motion picture business is up to standard for summer months in some districts but in most towns it has dropped off to almost nothing, a majority of the second and third class towns of the two states having but one picture theatre operating two or three nights a week. The Sunday closing law and the warm weather has been the direct cause of many North Dakota theatres closing their doors until late in August. The draft and call for men for work in the grain fields has also cut theatre attendance down considerably in these districts.

Minnesota exhibitors from all over the state have reported business conditions unusually poor even for summer months. In the Twin Cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul, even the largest theatres have shown a marked falling off in attendance. Some exceptionally good pictures including "Over the Top," "Revelation," "Hit the Trail Holliday," "M'Liss," "How Could You, Jean," "Say, Young Fellow," "My Four Years in Germany' and "Tarzan of the Apes" shown to Twin City film followers during the last six weeks have drawn only fair crowds.

The weather in Minnesota during recent weeks has changed from extremely hot to rainy more than a score of times. The Third Liberty Loan, the Salvation Army drive, the Y. M. C. A. and W. S. S. campaigns and band concerts at the parks, fishing and bathing seasons have also been responsible for a good percentage of the decrease in theatre business.

That a portion of the slump has spread to California is indicated by the report this week that the first material reduction in price to be made by any down town Los Angeles theatre, is by the management of the Symphony, which heretofore has had an admission fee of fifteen, twenty and thirty cents. The prices announced for the immediate future are ten and fifteen cents, plus war tax.

Since before the inauguration of the ten and fifteen cents, plus war tax, all Los Angeles theatres in the down town district have maintained a price of fifteen, twenty and thirty cents, except in one or two instances where fifteen and twenty cents was charged for afternoon performances. The cause for the reduction in price is given as a falling off of business at theatres, the complaint being made that the seven hundred to nine hundred seat houses were unable to compete with the programs given by the larger houses, and consequently a lower admission price may serve to increase the patronage.

Portland Theatre Adds to Its Admission Fee

Portland motion picture admissions took another slant skyward recently when the Liberty theatre, Oregon's largest photoplay theatre, increased entrance fees for evenings, Sundays and holidays to 25 cents from the old price of 20 cents.

This raise followed three weeks of 25-cent pictures—"The Unbeliever," "Tarzan of the Apes," and "My Four Years in Germany." Afternoon prices will be maintained at 20 cents, the prevailing Portland figure for the leading down-town houses.

The five-cent increase has not affected Liberty business to a noticeable extent. Photoplay attractions are high-class and among the most expensive on the market, the new $50,000 Wurlitzer Hope Jones organ and the presence of Henry B. Murtagh as organist has added to investment and overhead, and the combination of attractions, music and an auditorium environment which is a delight to the eye form an effective barrier to any complaints as to admission charges.

During the past year Portland has been advancing steadily in motion picture development. The week-run for features has usurped the place held by the three and four-day engagement, and today the three-day run is almost a novelty. This inauguration of the longer run means a bigger market from which the exhibitor may choose his subjects, and naturally tends towards the screening of better pictures.

Last November, when the war tax went into effect, the downtown theatres generally raised prices from 15 to 20 cents. However, no effort was made to fix the admission fee definitely at 20 cents, for many a 25-cent picture has been shown and such productions as "Cleopatra" and "Over the Top" were presented at 50 cents.

The Peoples theatre holds screening records for the past year, many of its Fairbanks and Pickford offerings, as well as "Over the Top," running for ten days.

Studio Workers Hear Anti-Fire Talk

Setting forth the necessity of protecting material against fire, particularly in war times, when material is needed for the prosecution of the war and is therefore difficult to obtain, Capt. E. T. McGann of the Fire Prevention Bureau, Los Angeles Fire Departmebnt, lectured to the studio workers at the Lasky plant in Hollywood recently.

Capt. McGann told of two fires that had been disastrous in the extreme and were the results of carelessness. The Captain pointed out the necessity of observing the rules of the organization not only as a measure of self-protection but as a war measure also. His remarks were heartily applauded.

Idaho Faces New Early Closing Measure

Herman J. Brown, theatrical manager controlling the houses in Boise, and also president of the Idaho State Exhibitors' League, calling at the Universal Salt Lake office recently, said that there is a big fight now on to head off a measure which threatens to put a serious handicap on the exhibitors of Idaho.

Governor Alexander threatens a measure to prohibit the opening of any theatres in the state before 6.30 p. m. during the war. All members of the exhibitors league, recently meeting at Pocatello, went on record as strongly opposed to such a measure, which they deem as emphatically unjust.

Before leaving for home Mr. Brown was assured by Gus Hager, manager of the Universal exchange, that his organization would be glad to give the Idaho Exhibitors' League all the co-operation possible in their effort to head off its passage.

Dallas Experiences Trouble with Operators' Union

Dallas, Texas, moving picture houses will either have to recognize the claims of the girls of the Film Inspectors' Union or decide between the alternative of curtailing their exhibits or close altogether, according to R. R. Pengilly, delegate from the Operators' Local No. 249.

Mr. Pengilly says that the Operators' Union has notified the film houses of their determination to fight for full recognition.

Mr. Pengilly said that he was hopeful all film houses would sign up with the Inspectors' Union. He said that he did not believe that any film house would have to close, but declared that films from exchanges on the labor council's unfair list would not be handled.

A meeting of film inspectors and operators has been called for the purpose of endeavoring to adjust the differences.

Oklahoma Houses Close Before Dark This Season

Managers of amusement houses in Chickasha, Okla., have agreed to close their places at 4 o'clock every afternoon for the remainder of the season for cotton cleaning. Such an agreement was reached at a conference of theatre managers and members of the County Council of Defense. Employes of the theatres and moving picture shows will thus have an opportunity to get out in the fields and help in saving the crops. Not only this, but it was argued that matinees furnished an inducement for cotton field slackers to evade work in the fields. The Council of Defense had previously taken up the matter of closing certain business houses for part of the day so the employes could help in the fields. The theatre men followed the suggestion and volunteered to close their places.

Many Applications

It is reported from Los Angeles that David W. Griffith, Thomas H. Ince, Charles Chaplin, Mack Sennett, Cecil and William DeMille, William Bertram and Roy Neill are applicants for membership in the Motion Picture Directors' Association.

Goldwyn Adopts "Star Series" Plan

Radical Change in Booking Policy Will Offer Six Series in Coming Year—Goldfish Names Titles in Making Announcement

STAR series booking with six separate series guaranteeing fifty productions is the gist of Goldwyn's important announcement of plans for the coming year. Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Mae Marsh, Madge Kennedy, Tom Moore and the Rex Beach productions make up the list.

The announcement of series booking gains unusual interest from the fact that during its first year of existence Goldwyn followed the collective system of selling a year's productions in a unit.

In addition to these series it is understood that Goldwyn will offer independent specials frequently during the year, bringing the total of releases well over the fifty mark, to which is added the two-reel Billy Parsons comedies once a month.

Statement from Mr. Goldfish

The announcement of a change in booking plans comes in a statement from Samuel Goldfish, president of the Goldwyn Picture Corporation, which also contains many of the titles for the coming releases. The statement follows:

"Goldwyn Pictures will be released for our company's second year, beginning in September, under the Star Series plan. This announcement will no doubt occasion surprise among the country's exhibitors, for Goldwyn in its first year abided by the principle of collective selling—selling a year's productions under a single contract—and made the biggest kind of success of this principle. But exhibitors, I feel sure, will welcome the policy of selling Star Series because of its greater flexibility and because this system is in perfect accord both with their needs and desires.

"Previously we have told exhibitors of our doubled output of productions in our second year—of our expansion from twenty-six productions to in excess of fifty productions in twelve months; and we have been tremendously gratified by the favorable responses this announcement caused.

"For the coming season Goldwyn will offer: Geraldine Farrar, six productions; Rex Beach, six productions; Pauline Frederick, six productions; Mabel Normand, eight productions; Mae Marsh, eight productions; Madge Kennedy, eight productions; Tom Moore, eight productions.

"I am now able to tell exhibitors more than the mere number of the productions they will receive from Goldwyn; the titles are also made known here for the first time.

"No Costume Films for Farrar"

"Miss Farrar's first three Goldwyn productions are 'The Turn of the Wheel,' by Tex Charwate, 'The Hell Cat,' by Willard Mack, and 'The Pirate Woman,' from the novel, 'Three Palms Cay,' by Capt. E. A. Dingle, first published in Munsey's Magazine. In all of these stories she is again the modern emotional actress that her public desires her to be. We are not wasting her talents or beauty in costume stories of a past period.

Samuel Goldfish, President of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

"Rex Beach's six stories are 'Laughing Bill Hyde,' 'The Crimson Gardenia,' 'The Iron Trail,' 'The Net,' 'Going Some' and 'The Silver Horde.' In the first of these stories Willard Mack is co-operating with Mr. Beach in the preparation of the scenario and Reginald Barker is the director. To my mind, plus the great cast that will be chosen, this as closely approximates an all-star production as anything possibly could. All of his productions for the year are from his most popular stories.

"Pauline Frederick's first Goldwyn production will be 'The Poverty of Money,' an emotional drama from one of Willard Mack's well-known plays.

"Mabel Normand will be seen first in the coming season in a rollicking broad comedy, 'Peck's Bad Girl,' by Tex Charwate, which should bring joy to everyone.

"Mae Marsh is completing her first production for the new year, a romantic emotional drama, 'Hidden Fires,' by J. Clarkson Miller. As I first said on the day we announced her as a Goldwyn star, she is the ablest young emotional actress on the screen.

"Madge Kennedy, having won out immediately and gained tremendous popularity in her first year in pictures, will begin her new season in 'The Kingdom of Youth,' by Charles A. Logue, who wrote her other success, 'The Service Star.'

"Tom Moore is launched as a star in 'Just For Tonight,' also by Mr. Logue, a surprising and delightful picture directed by Charles Giblyn.

Many Productions Ready

"Each of the stars I have mentioned, with the exception of Miss Frederick, has completed his or her initial picture of the series for the coming season. Rex Beach's first production will be begun shortly.

"Our first release for the coming season will be Geraldine Farrar in 'The Turn of the Wheel' on September 1. This story was directed by Reginald Barker. Goldwyn surrounded this successful star with an all-star cast, including Herbert Rawlinson as her leading man; Violet Heming in an important role and Hassard Short and Percy Marmont in other important roles. It is a fitting picture with which to inaugurate a new season and will start all Goldwyn customers off right for a new year.

"Not because I am expected to say this, but because I believe and mean every word of it, I feel that Goldwyn for the coming season has the most perfectly balanced group of stars and productions in the motion picture industry. We have grown to our present position from two causes other than our stars and production. Those causes are remarkable organization of loyal, hard-working, enthusiastic men and women and the splendid support of the exhibitors of the country.

"We owe a great deal to the exhibitors who have made us welcome. We felt that another quality organization was needed in this industry, and exhibitor patronage has proved that we correctly sensed an actual requirement. My hope and belief is that we will do more for exhibitors than ever before; that we will maintain with them the same pleasant and amicable relations that were established in our first year. I am proud of the announcements that we are enabled to make elsewhere in this publication. We have planned on sound and safe lines. We have a clean organization with a fine record behind it and a better promise ahead of it. We are going to grow bigger still. Goldwyn has been erected and made during the most trying period in the world's history. Having accomplished what we have under adverse conditions, it is fair to predict for Goldwyn a still bigger and more important role in this industry in the period of fair weather that lies ahead."

Edward Bizar Back with Metro

Edward Bizar announced this week that he is back with Metro as Screen Classic traveling representative in New York State. He was formerly with Metro in Quebec, where he had been for over a year.

Successful Screen Advertising—Why?

An Analysis of the Conditions Which Make Screen Advertising Proper and Profitable

By H. H. Dewey

Manager Photoplaylet Department, Rothaker Film Manufacturing Company

FACTS are always more impressive in the aggregate but they do not concern any one of us intimately when so arranged. And this is the time when we all need to know about things that will put more money in our pockets. It is literally true that we have just begun to fight and that the Third Liberty Loan, the War Savings Stamp Drive, the Red Cross, the Thrift Stamps, the Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus and the Y. M. C. A., not to mention ordinary, income, and excess profits taxes are rather tangible reasons for the increased efficiency in business that is becoming so necessary. So I will first outline some facts in the aggregate and then sift them down to individuals.

To intelligently cover the subject it is necessary to vary from accepted standards in the world of amusement to which I address myself now—successful advertising is a subject which deserves essentially serious consideration. And it deserves this serious consideration because I propose to show you how to make more money than you are making now. So I will again return to my "facts in the aggregate"—they are rather interesting.

The usual estimate of 20,000,000 people per day who now pay admissions to motion picture theatres may not be exactly accurate but it is near enough to the real figure to serve our purpose. An advertising man's first thought after reading this statement would be "some circulation," and then he would figure that the highest circulation attained by any periodical in the world is only a little over 2,000,000 per week and that the page rate therein is "fierce." So we have the reason for the average advertising man's loss of poise when he thinks of your business in terms of his own. Many are the dreams that have been dreamed of making the "movies" into a gold mine for advertising. I had one myself five years ago and since it faded I have naturally been interested in collecting data on other unfortunates.

I have also been interested in bringing the possibilities of the motion picture and of its home, the theatre, within the reach of each individual who helps to make up the amazing, but meaningless, total set forth above. It did not take much study to learn, and prove for myself, that the properly made motion picture is approximately 85 per cent efficient for conveying ideas in their entirety. And that about 90 per cent of the inhabitants of every community are "fans." And that approximately 99 per cent of this 90 per cent see every bit of every picture they go to see and that every one of them is a BUYER of goods of some kind from local merchants. These statistics are as amazing as the "20,000,000 per week," but they mean something to every one of us who thinks in terms of profit—legitimate and honestly gotten profit.

They mean something to each of us for just one reason. That reason is a tangible medium that can be ordered and shipped about the country in familiar tin and wood containers. It pleases the 99 per cent of 90 per cent of 90 per cent of 85 per cent and sells goods to each of them according to their respective needs. And furthermore it is something that will make money for those exhibitors who put themselves in line to let it do so.

Now let us look into the reasons for this and into what made it an actuality. In the first place its production meant intelligent co-operation between perfect equipment for the production of photographically good film and expert advertising knowledge. Both had to be based upon a careful analysis of conditions within your industry and upon an intelligent application of these conditions.

Inasmuch as the success of the motion picture theatre depends primarily upon the degree to which audiences can be pleased and made to return again and again our first consideration must be to ascertain just what is certain to please audiences. I am perfectly aware that this statement is a bromide, yet it is true that most producers of motion picture advertising have consistently ignored the very fundamentals of success which it elucidates. To make a picture that will advertise successfully and at the same time be acceptable to the average audience seems to be the easiest thing in the world. But it is more difficult than it seems, and many have found after the first fruits of their exploitation of this almost perfect medium have been consumed that they could not fool all the people all the time. In other words it is necessary to make motion pictures for advertising that will please both audiences and advertisers, be immediately profitable, and provide repeat orders. In this work particularly is it true that there is no profit from only one sale. But what is the standard to which motion picture advertising must conform to meet these requirements and be universally and permanently successful?

The answer is so obvious that it has been overlooked or deemed impossible. It is only necessary to make motion picture advertising conform to the best standards in filmdom. The most accurate gauge of what is required is the regular programs. Each exhibitor knows what best suits his patrons—if he doesn't he will not long be an exhibitor. But if he will apply the same measure to the film he screens for his advertisers that he does to the film he displays for his audiences he cannot go wrong. Thus the problem is solved simply and surely. And the fundamental requirement "please the audience" is met.

In considering the advertiser we have no difficult problems to solve. They are easily analyzed and classified for the reason that practically all advertisers have realized the great possibilities of motion picture advertising in high-class houses and have been familiarized with film through the activities of those who have usually been long on promises but short on production. There is no use of overlooking, or glossing over, the fact that most advertisers have been exploited shamefully. And I am equally well aware of the fact that many exhibitors have had similar experiences, or would have had them, if they had not been astute enough to look askance upon certain smooth-tongued gentlemen who sought screen privileges. There is just one simple rule to apply to film designed for the approval of the advertiser. It is the same that we have applied to the audience. Give them the same standard that your audiences demand in your regular program and make the theme of the action suitable to their publicity requirements. This also sounds simple, and is comparatively so if much common sense is mixed consistently with the film by competent producers.

I now address you individually, Mr. Exhibitor. On your part you have only two things to consider. First, can you please and satisfy your audiences if you screen advertising film? Another consideration directly connected with this is the satisfaction of the demands made upon your screen space by advertisers, your grocer, your clothier, your furniture man, or your banker. (Perish the thought that you have a note at the bank and that you ought to requite the little favor by prostituting your screen with an execrable piece of film which your banker has confidingly purchased from one who perhaps had the best intentions in the world but who was short on ability to put them into the film itself!) Both your audiences and your advertisers may be disposed of by the same rule—give them the same standards in their advertising film that you do in your regular program. Then we come to the second thing that you ought to scrutinize carefully when considering screen advertising.

Your screen is the best medium your local advertisers can find to reach their trade. If you value it properly and carefully gauge its powers you will soon realize that you have been letting something get past. But do not fall into the error of putting too high a price upon your privileges. Likewise do not undervalue them. If you do, so will everyone else and there is too much of that already. There is a very definite way to ascertain what you should have and I have already had the pleasure of helping many exhibitors arrive at a true valuation. Bear in mind that Quality (with a capital), is what counts and keep each advertisement up to a certain definite standard instead of relying on a large number of unsatisfactory ads to produce the profit that should be yours.

If you are fortunate enough to be able to connect with a reliable Service Agency which has built up a reputation for careful dealing it is far better to arrange with it for handling your screen space. This is really a business in itself and you should properly

(Continued on page 362)

EXHIBITOR TO EXHIBITOR REVIEW SERVICE

[These reviews, by P. S. Harrison, are based solely on the entertaining qualities of the picture. All other factors are considered of secondary importance.]

"Cupid by Proxy"

Baby Marie Osborne's Charms Seen Again

(Pathe—July 21. Directed by William Bertram)

THIS is just a fair program offering. It contains a great deal of physical action, but hardly any heart interest.

The story is somewhat light, but the charms and the usual babyish pranks of little Marie help it considerably.

It is good enough to fill some vacancy in the week's bill.

"Opportunity"

Viola Dana's Personality Puts Over a Clean Offering

(Metro—July 1st. Directed by John H. Collins)

IT will not take much exertion or effort on the part of a picture-goer to enjoy this picture.

It is a delightful little comedy-drama and the kind that will leave your patrons in a happy mood.

The story was written by Edgar Franklyn and was published in the All-Story Weekly.

It tells of the complications that arose when the heroine attended a boxing contest attired as a boy.

Miss Dana looks very comical dressed as a boy and will amuse your patrons. Her charming personality helps put over this picture.

It is a clean offering which will have a strong appeal to the better element.

"We Can't Have Everything"

An All-Star Cast Seen in De Mille's Production of Hughes' Story

(Directed by Cecil B. De Mille. Artcraft—July 8. Screen Time, 70 Min.)

THIS is a very well produced picture, as all of Mr. De Mille's are. It is faithful to details, big and little, with the exception of the rain incident, which comes into the picture all at once without warning. Mention of an impending storm in one of the subtitles in advance would have helped make it convincing.

As to the story, it is the usual kind used by this director. It is about family troubles, and is based on the book of the same name by Rupert Hughes.

It deals, more or less, with the problem of marriage and divorce in society circles. Towards the end the story is transferred to the battle fields of France, where the man as a soldier and the woman as a nurse, both divorcees, meet and marry surrounded by American flags and crippled soldiers.

The ending is an after thought, as is plainly seen, and the picture could have gotten along without it. The public is being overfed with war "stuff," which is liable to have a detrimental effect.

In mixing such situations in a picture it would be wise to have an object in view, such as is to be found in producing subjects for propaganda.

"No Man's Land"

Bert Lytell and Anna Nilsson in a "Movie"

(Metro—July 8. Directed by William S. Davis)

THE story in this picture, which was written by Louis Joseph Vance and adapted to the screen by Bert Lytell and A. S. Levino, belongs to the imaginative class, more or less, in which most of the situations are improbable and can only happen in pictures.

For instance, to mention one or two, it doesn't sound logical that the chief of German spies would accept the wireless operator without credentials. At least, he should have demanded some kind of proof as to his identity and as to how he had landed.

Again, that the captain of the raider would allow a man into the boat to leave a suspicious looking object—the time bomb—without investigating it, would be asking too much of your patrons to believe.

The story is full of like situations.

As to the directing, I consider it careless. The director had an opportunity to add suspense to some of the situations, but failed to do so. For instance, when the hero in company with the Government Secret Service man had discovered the arms and ammunition intended for the raider they were acting as unconcernedly as if their lives were not in danger.

The same thing can be said of the situation where the hero finds the heroine in the chief German spy's lair.

This picture will appeal to those who simply go to a show to see a "movie." It is not intended for those who seek amusement based on logic.

"A Pair of Silk Stockings"

"A Splendid Comedy-Drama" for Constance Talmadge

(Select—July 20. Directed by Walter Edwards)

THIS is a splendid comedy drama. It will not cause many loud laughs but will keep one in good humor all the way through.

The comedy element is derived partly from the subtitles but most of it depends on the situations.

The story is interesting. It is based on the play of the same name by Cyril Harcourt. It tells of the divorce of a young married couple due to some misunderstandings. Also of the complications they cause when they happened to be visiting a mutual friend at the same time. Eventually they are reunited.

The star's acting is as good as she has ever done. The supporting cast is also excellent.

It is a clean picture and will leave a happy taste. It is suitable mostly for high class audiences.

"Hell's End"

An Average Offering, But Not for Better Class

(Triangle—July 14. Directed by J. W. McLaughlin)

IT is too bad that the producers should cast Mr. Desmond in such a role. He is given the part of a tough, the boss of Hell's End, an underworld resort.

The story was written by A. Steve Richardson. It deals with an Irish family who had become wealthy. They had moved from the slum row to a residence in the better part of the town.

Years later the daughter, while at a slumming party, meets her boyhood friend. He was the bully of Hell's End.

During a fight her friend was struck on the head treacherously and made unconscious. She takes him home and nurses him back to life.

After his recovery she succeeds in influencing him to quit his low environment. They become engaged in the end.

On the whole this offering is well produced and fairly interesting. However, it is not for the better class of picture-goers.

"Every Woman's Husband"

Gloria Swanson Presented in a Pleasing Drama by Triangle

(Triangle—July 7. Directed by Gilbert P. Hamilton)

THIS picture will please inasmuch as most of the characters are given sympathetic parts. There are no vicious villains in it except perhaps a "near-villainess" in the person of the mother-in-law.

Even the friend of the husband, whom we have been used to consider a sure villain, is presented from a new and quite pleasing angle. He secretly helps to bring husband and wife together instead of winning the wife to himself as is always the case in pictures. This is rather a novelty.

The story was written by John Clymer and G. Logue. It conveys more or less a lesson to married women in the form of an entertainment. It is based on real life.

It tells of a woman who thought she could best retain the love of her husband by being bossy and making life miserable for him. It had quite the opposite effect as he had found another woman who sympathized with him and made things comfortable for him on the quiet.

The husband died right after the daughter (Gloria Swanson) married.

The daughter tried her mother's methods on her husband, but this nearly cost her his love. He had also followed his father's footsteps.

Finally she realized her mistake, changed her attitude and won back his love. Incidentally she told mother to move.

This picture is clean. Even the vampire end of it is put over unoffensively. It ought to appeal to all classes.

"Joan of the Woods"

June Elvidge Wasted in a Story of Horrors

(World—July 22. Directed by Travers Vale)

ONE could never imagine an author daring to write such a story as this one. It is too loathsome even to conceive.

It is based on the marriage of a half-brother to a half-sister. A man marries a girl. He later divorces her and marries an old sweetheart of his, who has a son from their past relations. (That is the impression one gets regarding the father of the child. Nothing is mentioned in any of the subtitles.) The divorced woman dies, leaving a baby daughter.

When grown the boy and the girl become acquainted and, not knowing they are related, marry. They keep their marriage a secret.

The boy is forced by the father into a naval school.

Their baby dies. Fearing a pauper's grave, the mother throws the body into the river. She is arrested and accused of murder.

During the trial the judge discovers that the girl was none other than his own daughter and her husband his son. The girl finally is exonerated.

There is not one redeeming feature in this picture. It will take ten good ones to offset the bad impression this one will create if run.

I am afraid people will walk out on it. It should never have been made.

"Marked Cards"

An Average Program Offering with Margery Wilson

(Triangle—July 14. Directed by D'Elba)

THIS is just an average program offering.

There are no new situations in it, the plot having been done on the screen several times in the past.

The story was written by Adela Rogers St. John. It tells of the love of a rich man's son for the daughter of an Irishman who had acquired sudden riches. The mother of the boy objected to the engagement and threatened to disinherit him if he persisted. Despondent, he took to drinking and gambling. A murder was committed and the crime was fastened upon him. At the trial the girl, disregarding the danger of becoming compromised, appeared as a witness and gave testimony that saved his life.

After his acquittal the mother gave her consent to their becoming united.

This picture is clean and will get by, but it would not be advisable to boost it too much.

"The Danger Mark"

Elsie Ferguson in Strong Picture, But with Chambers Touch

(Artcraft—July 29. Directed by Hugh Ford)

JUDGING this offering from a production angle, I can safely state that it comes up to the best Artcraft standard. It has been produced artistically and in a dignified manner.

As to the theme, however, I think it is too delicate to handle, especially if such picture is to be shown to a family patronage.

It is a Robert W. Chambers story and deals with hereditary drinking, using a woman as the means of treating the theme.

One situation in the story (where the love relations of two of the characters are disclosed) borders too much on the risque, but, as it is handled delicately, will get by with any audience.

Miss Ferguson gets the sympathy when, toward the end, she tricks a man into marrying the girl he wronged by false promises.

"Winner Takes All"

Monroe Salisbury Puts Over Melodramatic Subject

(Bluebird—July 15. Directed by Elmer Clifton)

MR. SALISBURY'S sincere acting puts over this picture. He takes the human part in it, therefore he attracts the sympathy from the very beginning.

The locale of the story, written by G. W. Ogden, is a cattle country where a man's gun is the law.

The cattlemen resent the intrusion of the homesteaders, so they strive to drive them out. They kill several of them.

The hero, a brave and just man, takes up their side. He wins out, but in the fight he loses his heart to the daughter of the cattle king who had been murdered by one of his lieutenants.

There is quite a little shooting and some killing in the picture. The shooting of the little girl might eventually add more sympathy for the hero but hardly enough to offset the gruesomeness.

Owing to the nature of the story it will better suit the middle and lower class audiences rather than the highbrows.

Successful Screen Advertising

(Continued from page 360)

be relieved of it. You can prescribe and maintain every protection necessary for the good of your house—remember that you always control the actual display of the film. There are many Service Agencies now operating that will not seek to abuse their privileges—they know and realize that in moderation there is present strength and future security. Whether or not to place your screen advertising privileges in the hands of an agency will depend entirely upon local conditions. The Service Agency business, while of comparatively recent origin, is rapidly reaching a high standard of business integrity.

Should you decide to handle your screen privileges yourself you have only to connect with a suitable source of supply. You need not be a judge of advertising values. A concern which has the ability to produce proper pictures for your advertisers must necessarily provide samples which will do the actual selling to your advertisers. You can control the issue because you actually run the film—you see I emphasize this fact. Adequate samples will show the film from each scene in intimate association with a detailed description of the action. Proper samples, as I have described them, will serve your purpose and your advertiser will himself judge the advertising value. If there is need for any selling talk it is not difficult to mention casually that approximately 75 per cent of his possible customers will sit in receptive silence before your screen on an average of twice per week each. And that he can be sure of ACTUAL READERS for his ad at an average cost of less than a penny postage stamp each. (Usually it figures out at less than one-half of one cent.) Compare this with the cost of ads in your local newspapers. The comparison is obvious and you can sympathize with him for you also use newspaper space.

To summarize briefly I want to again set forth the one rule you need follow to successfully use your screen privileges. "Make your motion picture advertising conform to the standards set by your regular program"—simple enough, isn't it? Then get your film from a source that will guarantee screen satisfaction from its film—that means something in terms of profits for you. Do not sell the film alone nor do not under- or overestimate the value of your screen space. Sell your advertisers Service (another capital) and you will soon have them bidding for your space and then have the pleasure of finding it possible to raise your rates. But it all depends on the film you use. Again I repeat it, "Make your motion picture advertising conform to the standards set by your regular program" and you will find joy and prosperity in screen advertising. I leave it to you to determine the reason in my remarks.

Exhibitors Box Office Reports

LAST MINUTE REPORTS

The Following Individual Reports Came in as Motion Picture News Was Going to Press

"The Great White Trail" (Foursquare)—"Too long and dragged out."

"Lost in Transit" (Paramount) "Good picture, but star does not draw."

"Modern Musketeer" (Artcraft)—"One of Fairbanks' best; very pleasing. Extra big business."

"The Sunset Trail" (Paramount)—"An ordinary picture."

"Mr. Fix-It" (Artcraft)—"Not up to Doug's standard."

"The Heart of a Lion" (Fox)—"Fair picture, but has an abrupt ending."

"The Knife" (Select)—"The star is well liked here, but there are too many of this kind of story."

"Western Blood" (Fox)—"Good story, star popular."

"Journey's End" (World)—"Star very popular here."

"Come Through" (Jewel)—"Good picture; plenty of action."

"Moonshine" (Paramount)—"A scream; 'Fatty' is there, you have to give it to him."

"Freedom of the World" (Goldwyn)—"A wonderful drawing card; couldn't handle crowds."

"All Woman" (Goldwyn)—"This star's most interesting offering."

"Tinsel" (World)—"Poor title; did average business for two days."

Editor's Note: The Box Office Report chart includes all pictures released within the previous ten weeks on which a sufficient number of exhibitor reports have been received to base a verdict. In the column "Average of Exhibitors' Reports" the term "Extra Big" indicates a picture which far surpassed expectations; "Big" means a picture doing better than the usual business for that day under average conditions; "Average" is the grading given the production on which business held up to normal; "Poor" indicates the picture falling below normal in box office and entertainment value.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
"$5,000 REWARD" (Farnum—Bluebird).....May	Poor	"Poor business due to heat."
ACE HIGH (Mix—Fox).....June	Average	"Pretty fair."
ALL WOMAN (Marsh—Goldwyn).....June	Average	"Goldwyn does not draw for me; Mae Marsh good." "A very good picture." "Best Mae Marsh picture since 'Polly of the Circus'." "Poor business; hot weather; fine picture."
BACHELOR'S CHILDREN, A (Morey—Vita.)....Apr.	Average	"Just average business." "Picture good, but did not draw."
BARBARY SHEEP (Ferguson—Artcraft).....June	Average	"Not well liked."
BELIEVE ME, XANTIPPE (Reid—F. P.-Lasky). May	Big	"Good picture, well received; fair business." "Draws well, very good." "Reid not strong here; Xantippe a very good story." "Very good comedy drama." "Very good."
BELL BOY, THE (Arbuckle—Paramount).....Apr.	Extra Big	"He never made a better one than this." "Some picture." "A knockout." "Great." "Best Arbuckle comedy we ever ran." "Big business; great."
BERLIN VIA AMERICA (Ford—Fordart).....May	Average	"A joke to thinking people—great for kids."
BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH (Enid Bennett—Lasky) .....May	Average	"Very good." "Good circus stuff." "Very good; her best; getting very popular here.'
BLUE EYED MARY (Caprice—Fox).....June	Average	"Poor picture for her." "Poor title killed it.'
BRAVEST WAY, THE (Hayakawa—Lasky).....June	Average	"Fair picture; star well liked."
BRAVE AND BOLD (Walsh—Foxfilm).....May	Big	"Fair picture." "As a star Walsh is our best box office magnet." "Pleased." "Very good, pleased greatly."
BREAKERS AHEAD (Dana—Metro).....	Big	"Fine picture." "Good." "One of the best features we have ever played." "Dana not a 'comer'—she is here." "Picture only fair" "Bum story."
CECILIA OF THE PINK ROSES (Davies—Select). June	Average	No comment received with report.
CONFESSION (Carmen—Fox).....May	Average	"Fair picture." "Carmen very good in this picture." "Has only little drawing power; star unknown here—picture O. K."
CYCLONE HIGGINS, D.D. (Bushman—Metro)...May	Average	"Poor picture." "Not much picture." "Something new for Bushman, but seemed to take very well." "Patrons didn't go wild over this one." "A very poor picture."
DANGER WITHIN (Zoe Rae—Bluebird).....May	Average	"Pleasing." "Good program picture." "Zoe Rae draws well with the Kiddies." "Only difference between this and a big feature was the reasonable price."
DAUGHTER OF THE WEST (Baby Osborne—Pathe) May	Average	No comment received with report.
DE LUXE ANNIE (Norma Talmadge—Select)....June	Big	"In many ways her best picture." "First class in every respect." "Norma is a good bet these days;" "Big for two days." "Great, up to standard." "Excellent production."
DESERT WOOING, A (Enid Bennett—F. P.-Lasky).June	Average	"Very good picture."
DOG'S LIFE, A (Chaplin—First National).....Apr.	Extra Big	"House record." "A regular riot." "Very good." "Great." "Some comedy; good on two days—some HOT." "Very good." "Not as good as other Chaplins."
DOLL'S HOUSE, A (Ferguson—F. P.-Lasky).....June	Poor	"No one here liked the picture on account of the finish of the story." "Disciples of Ibsen too few to warrant screening his masterpieces." "Good picture, not appreciated."
EAGLE'S EYE, THE (Wharton Serial).....	Big	"They enjoy this serial." "Going along very good at 11th chapter." "Good drawing card." "Pleasing patrons every week."
EMPTY POCKETS (Brenon—First National).....May	Average	"Good picture." "Very poor picture." "Not as good as we expected."
FACE IN THE DARK, THE (Mae Marsh—Goldwyn) .....Apr.	Average	"Name and story killed it." "Star not popular here." "Mae Marsh is not popular here—and never will be with this kind of story." "Did not draw for me — reason not known." "Pronounced good; fair in drawing power." "Clever picture." "Marsh no favorite here.'
FAIR PRETENDER, THE (Madge Kennedy—Goldwyn).....May	Average	"Poor business." "This star does not draw here." "Fair, ordinary program picture. Not worth what we paid for it. A spy plot is dragged in to fill out five reels. Goldwyn needs pep."
FIREBRAND, THE (Pearson—Fox).....May	Average	"Poor story—Russian stuff is dead." "Virginia Pearson well received; fair picture." "Average program picture." "Pleased."
FIREFLY OF FRANCE, THE (Reid—Para.).....June	Big	"Star and story both well liked." "Popular and well done; big for three days." "An excellent picture."
FOR SALE (Hulette—Pathe).....June	Average	No comment received with report.
GAME WITH FATE, A (Morey—Vita.).....June	Big	"Harry Morey becoming very popular here.'
GRAIN OF DUST, THE (Lillian Walker—Crest Pictures)	Poor	"Better than average program picture; story drew more than star."
GUILT OF SILENCE (Salisbury—Bluebird).....May	Poor	"Wonderful snow scenes; fine picture."
HEARTS OR DIAMONDS? (Russell—Mutual)....Apr.	Average	"Considered rival of Hart." "Russell popular." "Excellent picture." "Fair picture."

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
HER FINAL RECKONING (Frederick—F. P.-Lasky) June	Average	"This class of story is not one that will send you any patrons—she should have better stories." "Frederick line of pictures don't please here; poor business."
HER ONE MISTAKE (Brockwell—Foxfilm).....Apr.	Average	"Should not have been released." "Pleased all who saw it." "Gets by; weakest spot on Fox program."
HIS OWN HOME TOWN (Ray—Paramount).....June	Big	"He is a popular star; good picture." "Fine." "Good stuff." "Pleasing." "Good." "Broke all house records."
HIT-THE-TRAIL HOLLIDAY (Cohan—Artcraft) June	Average	"The star is no drawing card." "Pulled it off after second day."
HONEST MAN, AN (Desmond—Triangle).....May	Big	"Desmond always a bigf avorite here."
HOUSE OF HATE, THE (Pathe Serial).....	Big	"Sustains interest."
HOW COULD YOU CAROLINE?. (Love—Pathe). May	....	"Audience didn't like it."
JOAN OF PLATTSBURG (Normand—Gold.).....May	Poor	"Poor star; poor story; poor picture." "Poor on account of public prudes."
JOURNEY'S END (Clayton—World).....May	Average	"Very light."
KAISER, THE (Jewel).....	Extra Big	"Three days' big business." "A picture with several powerful kicks—film in very poor condition."
LEAP TO FAME, A (Blackwell—World).....Apr.	Average	"Poorly directed, but pleased."
LEGION OF DEATH (Storey—Metro).....	Average	"Fine production, but story poor—did not draw."
LEND ME YOUR NAME (Lockwood—Metro)....May	Big	"He is very popular." "Fine; great comedy." "A good comedy." "Excellent value; business better than La Tosca at a better price." "A dandy! Just the kind the public wants." "Not up to Lockwood standard."
LES MISERABLES (Farnum—Fox).....Feb.	Extra Big	"Good." "Four days; best production ever in house, but too long." "Good drawing card." "A bit too deep for all classes; well liked, however."
LESSON, THE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....May	....	"Very good; pleased most people." "Excellent picture; star popular."
LET'S GET A DIVORCE (Billie Burke—Paramount)Apr.	Average	"Not a picture that will please all the people." "Fair picture; good title." "Burke has lost her drawing power." "Story loses all its value on the screen—star not at her best."
LONE WOLF, THE (Lytell—Select).....June	....	"A very fine production."
LONELY WOMAN, THE (Bennett—Triangle)....Apr.	Average	No comment received with report.
LOVE'S CONQUEST (Cavalieri—Jewel).....June	Average	"Mere costume stuff—bored every one, no one pleased." "If the producers could only have heard what our people said when they went out."
MADAM SPHINX (Rubens—Paralta) ....June	Average	"Good story, but morbid."
MAN TRAP, THE (Rawlinson—Bluebird).....May	Big	"Herbert Rawlinson at his best, and a great favorite here.'
MARRIAGE LIE. THE (Myers—Universal).....Apr.	Average	"Very good." "A very fair picture." "Miss Myers is always a good value." "Average program picture; big business."
MASKS AND FACES (Forbes-Robertson—World). May	Average	"Big, if not for costumes." "Poorest 'World' we ever ran." "Better than average business; if advertised in correct way should bring good returns. A wonderful cast is the big point."
MATING OF MARCELLA (Dalton—Para.).....May	Average	"A very pleasing picture." "Dragged at first." "Did not draw as well as usual." "Not as good as usual Dalton." "Average feature." "Very good."
MISSING (Blackton—Paramount).....June	Average	"This is one of the best pictures we have ever shown; a star in this picture would clean up for everybody. Some more ike that, please." "Great; one of the best of the year." "Very good; best war picture yet."
"MILE-A-MINUTE KENDALL" (Jack Pickford—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"The picture pleased them all." "Dandy picture." "Fair picture, but not his best." "Fine." "All like Jack; he's good." "Real entertainment." "Below Pickford standard." "Good picture; Jack Pickford in a poor card here."
M'LISS (Mary Pickford—Artcraft).....May	Big	"Par excellence." "Pleasing feature—business only fair, possibly attributable to hot weather." "Fine production; star great." "One of Pickford's best." "This is a Pickford town." "Pleased." "Good picture." "One of Mary's best drawing cards anywhere." "Pleased them very much." "Little rough for Mary." "Very good." "Elaborate production; picture well liked here."
MME. PAULETTE (Claire Anderson—Triangle)..May	Average	"Pleased."
MOONSHINE (Arbuckle—Paramount).....May	Big	"Fatty made good." "Below Arbuckle standard." "Very entertaining." "Fatty gets the business." "Not up to 'The Bell Boy,' but good." "Making best comedies on the market—not afraid to let someone else get a laugh." "Excellent Arbuckle comedy." "Not as good as usual."
MR. FIX-IT (Fairbanks—Artcraft).....Apr.	Big	"Everybody pleased; good in every respect." "Big all week." "Reissues hurt star." "Fine, and a relief from his usual type of plays." "Dandy picture; good business for this time of year."
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY (First National)..	Extra Big	"Extra big second week." "Good all week." "Splendid production." "A great picture; good business." "Hot weather; a loser at increased prices." "Well produced; made people talk." "Best war picture so far; made people think."
MY OWN UNITED STATES (Daly—Metro).....May	Average	"Fine picture." "Very good." "This picture pleased everyone."
OLD WIVES FOR NEW (—Artcraft.....May	Big	"Fine production."
OLDEST LAW, THE (Elvidge—World).....May	Average	No comment received with report.
ONE HOUR (Keefe-Foursquare).....May	Big	"A good picture, that draws business."
ONE MORE AMERICAN (Beban—Paramount).....	Average	"Great stuff." "Star not strong here." "Excellent." "Beban is wonderful, but the pub ic can't see it." "Star great, but doesn't draw for me."
ONLY ROAD, THE (Dana—Metro).....June	Average	"A very good picture; Viola Dana especially good in this style role." "Very good." "Pleasant."
ORDEAL OF ROSETTA, THE (Brady—Select)..May	Average	"Being a dream saved this one." "Good picture." "Unusually fine picture; star at her very best. Alice not popular here, but in this production pleased them all."
OVER THERE (Richman—Select).....	Average	"Pleased immensely. "Poor picture; did not draw.
PAY DAY (Drew—Metro).....May	Poor	"Did not go so well." "Average audience here does not care for Drew humor." "A real piece of cheese." "Pulled it off after first day."
PAYING HIS DEBT (Stewart—Triangle).....Apr.	Poor	"Pleased." "Good direction." "Very ordinary: fair program picture."
PEG OF THE PIRATES (Hyland—Foxfilm).....May	Average	"Star good; story poor." "Very poor picture." "Not wanted; very poor business."
PLAYING THE GAME (Ray—F. P.-Lasky—Para.).Apr.	Big	"Pleased everybody." "Ray's best yet." "Ray's best picture." "Pleasing light picture."
PRUNELLA (Clark—Lasky-Paramount). .....May	Average	"Did not please." "People walk out before the show is half over." "Very bad motion picture entertainment." "Splendid production, but decidedly not a picture the public likes."
PURPLE LILY, THE (Gordon—World).....Apr.	Average	No comment received with reports.
REASON WHY, THE (Young—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Well liked by majority." "Well produced, but misses fire."
RESURRECTION (Frederick—Paramount) .....May	Average	"This star was at her best." "Very good." "Did not draw, poor subject." "Rotten; terribly suggestive." "This finishes Frederick here." "Very good but did not draw." "Good enough production, but my patrons are sick of this type of play."
RIDERS OF THE NIGHT (Dana—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"Not up to Metro standard. Picture an improbable thing—Dana's work good." "Metro well liked."
ROSE O' PARADISE (Barriscale—W. H. Hodkinson).. .....May	Average	"Not up to standard." "Very poor feature—should never have been made."
RULER OF THE ROAD (Keenan—Pathe).....Apr.	Average	"Keenan always good." "Good." "Good picture, Keenan O.K." "Good, but did not take here." "Good picture, but no drawing card." "Keenan fine; makes good character stu dy in this picture."
SELFISH YATES (Hart—Lasky-Paramount).....May	Average	"Had more good comments on this than other Hart." "Reissues have killed Hart in this town." "Good; best dramatic Hart story." "Very good; one of his best."
SMASHING THROUGH (Rawlinson—Univ.).....June	Average	No comment received with reports.
SOCIAL BRIARS (Minter—Mutual).....June	Average	"A very nice picture—well liked." "Very good." "A picture any exhibitor can boost." "M. M. Minter coming big."
SOCIETY FOR SALE (Desmond—Triangle).....Apr.	Average	"Good."
SON OF DEMOCRACY (Chapin—Paramount).....	Big	"Best series ever produced." "Big drawing card." "Great pictures." "Opinion divided on 'Mother'." "'My First Jury' immense." "This completes the series. Made a great hit with the old timers and brought many new faces. Young folks not greatly interested. Early promises not developed in closing incidents." "Best yet."
SOUL OF BUDDHA (Bara—Fox).....Apr.	Average	"Too strong; good business." "Bara's poorest picture." "A return date very successful.' "Theda Bara scores again· splendid vehicle for her work." "Very good." "Fine Bara production."
SOUL FOR SALE (Phillips—Jewel).....June	Average	"Good average feature; not the knockout the exchange claimed for it."
SQUARE DEAL, A (Fisher—Mutual).....June	Poor	"Not up to Fisher's standard."
TARZAN OF THE APES (First National).....	Extra Big	"At advance prices extra big." "Made big hit." "Extra big one week." "Extra big. Interesting picture but bad finish." "Fine picture, but extra business did not materialize." "Great picture; out of the ordinary." "Big drawing card." "Elegant." "Two days to big business, with thermometer above 100 mark."
TRAP, THE (Brady—World).....Apr.	Average	No comments received with reports.

TITLE, STAR, AND BRAND	AVERAGE OF EXHIBITORS' REPORTS	EXHIBITORS' OWN COMMENTS
TREASURES OF THE SEA (Storey—Metro).....Apr.	Average	"A picture that just pleases."
TRAIL TO YESTERDAY, THE (Lyttel—Metro)..May	Big	"A winner." "Best Western picture for a long time; will watch for future Lytell pictures." "Lytell certainly a comer." "Good picture—photography good." "Lytell a good star."
TRUE BLUE (Farnum—Fox).....May	Big	"Very good." "Farnum bigger every time." "Farnum very popular."
TRIUMPH OF THE WEAK (Joyce—Vita.).....May	Average	"Very good.' "One of Alice Joyce's best."
TWO SOUL WOMAN, THE (Dean—Universal)...May	Average	"Just fair value—no big thing."
TYRANT FEAR (Dalton—F. P.-Lasky-Paramount).Apr.	Average	"Don't like her in this." "Good of its kind." "Good." "Picture cut to pieces; story ruined."
UNCLAIMED GOODS (Martin—Lasky-Para.)....Apr.	Average	"Fair story; well acted." "Fair offering." "Good satisfaction." "This story was so impossible—just fair picture."
UP THE ROAD WITH SALLIE (Constance Talmadge—Select).....Apr.	Big	"Receipts increased for three weeks." "Best she has done to date." "The kind that pleases all." "Great show."
VENUS MODEL, THE (Normand—Goldwyn).....June	Average	"Pleased 99 per cent of patrons."
VIVIETTE (Martin—F. P.-Lasky).....June	Average	"Hot weather hurt a great deal but picture did not please." "Good picture." "Just program stuff; very little business here. Martin not a strong favorite. "Very good."
WHITE MAN'S LAW, THE (Hayakawa—F. P.-Lasky-Para.).....May	Average	"A good picture, with opportunities for entire cast." "Good—fine photography." "Well liked." "Drawing power failing here."
WILD GIRL, THE (Tanguay—Select).....June	Average	"Film in good condition."
WILD WOMEN AND TAME LIONS (—Fox).June	Extra Big	"The best I ever saw."
WINNING OF BEATRICE, THE (Allison—Metro).May	Average	"Good picture, but poor business." "Failed to win or please; Miss Allison remained hidden too long to come back, perhaps. "Just fair."
WITH HOOPS OF STEEL (Walthall—Paralta).....Apr	Average	No comment received with report.
WOLVES OF THE BORDER (Stewart—Triangle) May	Average	"Nothing out of ordinary."

FLASHBACKS

Individual Opinions on Earlier Releases Received During the Past Week

Bit of Jade, A (Mutual)—"Poor production; story bad; star not liked here."

Blindness of Divorce (Fox)—"Excellent cast."

Danger Game, The (Bluebird)—"Good picture."

House of Silence, The (Paramount)—"Fair picture."

Lie, The (Artcraft)—"Her first picture here; already a big favorite." "Beautiful picture; pulled fine."

Rich Man, Poor Man (Paramount)—"Very good picture."

Tiger Man, The (Artcraft)—"Enjoyed by our patrons; Hart still continues popular."

Sadie Goes to Heaven (Kleine)—"Good kid picture."

Two Bit Seats (Kleine)—"Good."

Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley (Artcraft)—"Supreme feature film."

Naulahka, The (Pathe)—"Title hurt drawing power."

Scarlet Drop, The (Universal)—"A fair picture."

Studio Girl, The (Select)—"Photography good; a very good picture."

Woman and Wife (Select)—"Fair picture; good business."

Girl in His House, The (Vitagraph)—"Very pleasing picture."

Revelation (Metro)—"Exhibitors need more pictures like this to offset the poor ones; 100 per cent entertainment.

Hillcrest Mystery, The (Pathe)—"Good; Mrs. Castle O. K."

Truthful Tulliver (Artcraft)—"One of Hart's best."

Blue Bird (Goldwyn)—"Good." "Fine production."

My Wife (Mutual)—"Fair picture."

Wooing of Princess Pat (Vitagraph)—"Fair."

La Tosca (Paramount)—"Good."

Guilty Man, The (Paramount)—"A very good production."

Devil's Wheel, The (Fox)—"Best Brockwell yet."

Forbidden Path, The (Fox)—"Bara strong here; got over fair only."

One Law for Both (Ivan)—"Very poor print of what was once a great production."

Girl from Beyond, The (Vitagraph)—"A very satisfactory picture."

Society's Driftwood (Universal)—"Grace Cunard always pleases; story very good."

Mother's Secret (Bluebird)—"Ella Hall is a great favorite with our patrons; story good and was well received."

REAL SERVICE

Here's what Arthur James, Director Publicity Division of the Metro Pictures Corporation, said of Motion Picture News Service Section on "To Hell with the Kaiser" in a recent letter: "Your special service section on 'To Hell with the Kaiser' marks a new step forward in genuine service to the exhibitor and distributor alike. It is the most comprehensive, the most useful, the most practical thing of the sort the writer has seen. Please accept our congratulations on the fine result and be assured of our great satisfaction of having a promise fully kept."

TO EXHIBITOR AND PRODUCER

Exhibitor Service Bureau

Rochester Worst of All

Demand of Fans Makes "Pictureplay News" Success, But Theatre Support is Poor and Newspapers Do Little

ROCHESTER, N. Y., occupies a peculiar situation, and the lesson there is worth considering seriously in studying the question of co-operation between newspapers and motion picture theatres. Here the result has been that the failure of the newspaper to print the proper share and the right sort of photoplay news has resulted in the establishment and the successful operation of a weekly local motion picture newspaper, the Pictureplay News. But the interest of the fans, the demand for photoplay matter, not the theatres as a whole, is the cause for its success.

Now we doubt very seriously whether such a paper is worth as much to the theatre as would be an excellent department in one of the daily papers. We will a little later examine the Pictureplay closely, but as a general proposition we would say that advertising in this came rather in the same class as program advertising. People who are looking for motion picture matter will see the displays there, but it will not reach the big element that the successful manager is always trying to get to the theatre, and it will not have anything like the power of a daily newspaper in attracting attention to special attractions.

Because New York City is the largest center in the world there is an impression left in the country that there are no other important cities in the state. Yet we have already told you of the situation in Buffalo with its half million people. Rochester has a census population of 254,000 and it is much larger than that now. It is a prosperous manufacturing city and considerably above the average American city in "class." Even though its working population is very large, these are people who are making good wages and where employment is offered to practically all the members of the family.

Rochester ought to be a mighty good photoplay city, but judging from the "bargain" bills that are offered there and the failure of a single theatre to use the daily papers every day, we conclude that it seems to be the fashion there to miss opportunities. And the newspaper co-operation is miserable.

Now there are only thirty-five motion picture theatres all told, and some ten of these are operated only for special purposes or only occasionally, for that twenty-five may be considered the number in dealing with the situation there. Certainly one theatre for each 10,000 people is not too many, and it seems that in theory at least they all ought to be prosperous. Of this number there are only ten that are strictly downtown houses, the Piccadilly, Regent, Gordon, Victoria, Rialto, Strand and Grand.

Worse than that the Gordon, one of the finest of local houses and with a seating capacity of 1,800, runs only on Saturdays and Sundays. It is running a cheaper grade of pictures or second runs. The Strand is closed for the summer except on Saturdays and Sundays. The Grand is nominally closed for the summer, but also operates now on Saturdays and Sundays. It seats about 1,400, and together with the Rialto, seating 750, show the best of the second runs at a five and ten cent admission. The Piccadilly is the city's finest and largest house, caring for 2,700, while the Regent is a fashionable house, though it only holds 800, and the Victoria, with a fine location on the best theatre street, is a 1,600 seat house. The Victoria plays vaudeville and pictures both.

There are two classes of the neighborhood houses, those with an average seating capacity of a little under 300 (so fixed that they will not have to pay the tax applying to houses seating 300 or more), and those seating from 600 to 1,000. In this class there are the Clinton, Lyndhurst, Plymouth and Palace. The Lyndhurst is the only one of the four that advertises at all, and it only in the Pictureplay News.

There is but one suburban house and this is located in Greece, just outside the city limits.

Stock companies appear to have a strong hold on Rochester, though these companies have about lost their appeal in most cities. Two theatres, the Lyric and Temple, have such companies, while the Family plays vaudeville during the week and pictures on Sundays only. This is the theatre of which we told you recently that offered an all day show, consisting of all different pictures, for a single admission.

Now we believe that the Rochester situation is largely due to the failure of the theatres to advertise, and we believe that the manager who got a house there and who went about intelligent exploitation and who won the co-operation of the newspapers would make a big hit. For as we have told you, there is not a single theatre in Rochester that advertises every day in the week—and that is the only policy that can be pursued by a house that is trying to make the most of itself.

When we find such a situation existing it is almost unfair to blame the newspapers. And especially when we are told that George L. Simpson, president of the Regorson Corporation, which controls the Piccadilly, Regent and Gordon theatres, is opposed to advertising, you can see the result. Mr. Simpson has been quoted in the belief that to announce the attractions will keep away as many as the advertising draws: he is quoted as having said that curiosity alone, uncertain as to what they will see, draws many people into the theatre. Yet he is the "biggest" advertiser in the city. We hope that the quotations from Mr. Simpson are incorrect. If he is right the entire motion picture industry is on the wrong road, and the business interests of the country, in all lines of activity, have been lured into spending millions for nothing.

It has been our experience that often the ownership of a number of theatres by one company is not conducive to good advertising. We are intimately familiar with one case in a city larger than Rochester. Here one corporation owned six of the downtown theatres, including unquestionably the two finest. He has been the first real showman to come into the city and he came very near controlling the situation. He did not believe in advertising; at least he was never enthusiastic about it. He did some advertising, half-heartedly and to a very limited extent, and then expected a large amount from it. He argued that people were coming to his theatres and that advertising could not help him. He would tell the newspapers right off the reel that he had the best houses in the city and that he controlled the best services and that he was going to get the attendance whether he advertised or not. Everything he said about the THEN facts was true, but that was several years ago. He did not control the situation long. Others came into field and they took up advertising, and it was not long before this man found that he was forced to advertise. We do not believe that he has yet realized that he could have still controlled the situation had he followed the advice of the newspapers, that naturally preferred to see a long-time citizen succeed rather than the newcomers come in and get the money.

A. A. Fennyvessy is the head of the other big group ownership and is also a minority stockholder in the Regorson corporation. Mr. Fennyvessy is a live wire, but his chief interests are centered in the Family, a vaudeville house. He also controls the Rialto and Strand, which rely a great deal on the fact that their prices are low.

When we come to the neighborhood houses we are told that they also share the idea that it does not pay to advertise and that they are exceedingly jealous of the big houses, and that some of them try to hide the fact that the pictures they show are first shown at one of the downtown houses. That this is a foolish policy for a neighborhood house is so obvious that there need be no discussion of it.

We are even told that when the Pictureplay News offered to

(Continued on page 378)

And Rochester Theatres Advertise But One Day a Week

At the top, left and center are two pages from the Sunday Democrat and Chronicle. At the right of the top row and at the left of the center row are two pages from the Sunday Herald, then a page from the Saturday Post Express. At the right center and left bottom row are two pages from the Saturday Times Union and then two pages from the Pictureplay News. See story opposite

With The Player Folk
Trend of Stage as Seen from New York Theaters
In the Moving Picture Houses Selfishness Its Own Punishment

Playhouses
Confidence in Rochester and Its Future Lies Behind the Splendid Results Attained in the Sale of Our 7% Preferred
INQUIRY COUPON
Rochester Railway and Light Co.

THE PICTUREPLAY NEWS
With The Player Folk
DOSTIN FAHRUM FINDS GERMAN WIRELESS SET
ROOSEVELT TO ENTER MOVIES
"THE DOLLY SISTERS BORN FOR MOVIES, SAYS METRO DIRECTOR"
SPENDING A STAR'S MONEY
The Best Ford Starter? Why, Mary Pickford, of Course!
BILLIE BURKE'S ONLY ROMANCE
PICTUREPLAY QUERIES
Three Producing Geniis of the Screen

Window display arranged by Miss Flossie A. Jones on "Revelation"

Window Display Without Mention of Theatre Work of a Woman Exhibitor

"IF that wasn't a piece of motion picture exploitation I would say a woman was responsible for it." That was the comment on the window display illustrated here when it was shown to a prominent film official.

And he was right, for a woman was responsible for it, but at the same time she is one of the most successful exhibitors of the country. Miss Flossie A. Jones, manager of the Waukesha Amusement Company, Waukesha, Wis. We told you a good deal about the work last week and you are going to hear more from time to time in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Aside from the artistic arrangement of this display advertising "Revelation" there is one thing that will attract attention and that is there is not a word of advertising in the window. How many exhibitors would have thought that they were accomplishing anything if they did not have the name of the theatre and the date and a few other things plastered about so that no eye could miss them?

There is a large gold-framed picture of Mme. Nazimova, the star, and then a doll draped as a Madonna, with the rose bush Miss Jones sent out 1,500 cards with an announcement that the vision of the "Madonna of the Rosebush of a Thousand Years" could be seen in the window of the Waukesha Floral Company. The result was that practically every one in town dropped by to see the display.

This is getting at the real value of window displays. Of course you like to have the name of your house, the title of the picture and the date of playing put before the eyes of as many people as possible. Most exhibitors feel that they are really putting something over when they get the consent of a merchant to use his window and then they proceed to make it a direct advertisement of the most glaring sort for the theatre, without any regard to the fact that they are likely to so thoroughly disgust their merchant friend that they will never get a second privilege.

There should not only be a reason for every window display but there should be a distinct object in view. You will find the merchants, no matter the size of the city willing to co-operate with you if you can devise something that is really attractive and that will draw attention to his store as well as to the theatre. Now in this particular display the picture and roses are, of course, closely associated and so by working out the idea Miss Jones was able not only to attract attention to her theatre, but probably to give the floral company the best window display that it ever had.

Window displays are valuable when they are used with discretion and when you have some particular message to put over. Constantly used, without rhyme or reason they lose their selling power for you and cheapen the appeal of the store that gives you the permit. The average suggestion that comes with each picture advises you to call upon your merchants for window displays and then generally ends in giving you some suggestion that practically results in the merchants handing you his space for a billboard for your house.

One must remember that co-operation is the whole thing. When you go to a merchant to ask him for his space, show him at the same time that he will benefit. When he sees that you can achieve artistic effects and that these will cause renewed interest in his store he is going to be glad to do his part. Don't merely start out to make "a" window display. Have some concrete idea in your head and a way to work it out; and, as we have said, remember that the merchants have a right to expect their share of the benefits.

Flag Standards Used for Fourth of July

Bedford theatre, Brooklyn, used a clever idea for the Fourth of July presentation. The feature was Marguerite Clark, in "Miss George Washington." In advertising the feature the theatre had made a number of flag stands bearing a real cotton reproduction of the national emblem 3½ by 5½ inches. To the staff was attached a neat card announcing the feature picture at the Bedford. This formed an attractive ornament for the windows of many stores in the neighborhood.

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Samuel L. Rothapfel, Rialto and Rivoli theatres, New York.
Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Edw. L. Hyman, Liberty theatre, Camp Gordon, Ga.
M. Marcus, former manager, Grand theatre, Pittsburgh.
E. Mandlebaum, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
M. W. McGee, Majestic theatre, Detroit.
Chas. G. Branham, Strand theatre, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landau, Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee.
Charles C. Perry, Strand theatre, Milwaukee.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
Ernst Boehringer, Liberty theatre, New Orleans.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Butte.
P. E. Noble, American theatre, Butte.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, Liberty theatre, Spokane.
G. F. Fullerton, Advertising Manager, Greater Theatres Co., Seattle.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

Exhibitors All Seeking Selling Power

WITH the past week there have been a number of exhibitors, ranging from men owning the leading house in some of the biggest cities down to theatres in small towns in our offices. When they have been asked what is the most serious question that they have to contend with their unanimous answer has been "the exploitation of pictures."

The Advisory Board is now considering what is the matter with exploitation and the consensus of opinion as expressed here is coming might close to showing the producers and the distributors exactly what they ought to do in order to help the exhibitor in turn sell the picture to the exhibitor. That is essential if any part of the industry is going to make money.

Without exception, those members of the board who have expressed themselves on that point have urged that the producers use their advertising in the trade papers to merchandising their productions, to putting forth arguments that the exhibitor himself can use to the public. The exhibitor himself knows that bunk has passed. He doesn't try it any more. He cannot afford to do so because he must meet his public face to face.

And these exhibitors are pointing out that the manufacturer cannot afford it either, even though he is further away. The exhibitor today is buying the picture on the basis of what he can sell it for to the individual patrons and the members of this board declare that mere statements do not convince them. They demand to know the merchandising power.

CHARLES C. PERRY, manager of the Strand theatre, Milwaukee, declares that it would be far better for all concerned if the producer would devote his space in the trade papers to advising the exhibitor to put individual pictures across instead of merely declaring that the product is the greatest ever. In all of the advance material furnished he wants more specific exhibition ideas given:

I am commencing to doubt that there is much talent in the advertising departments of the motion picture companies for all of the advance stuff is more or less alike in conception though varying in quality.

Often exhibitors must start their advertising before they have seen a picture, and therefore must rely, in many cases, entirely upon the advance information furnished, which does not always give a fair estimate of the quality or nature of the feature it represents. If it did, such exploitative matter would undoubtedly sell the picture much quicker than an actual view itself.

In so far as newspaper display is concerned, I believe that it is possible for producing companies to send out, from their headquarters, such as could be successfully carried in any town, but it is seldom done.

While it would be possible to improve the reader copy, I can't see how it could be gotten up at headquarters for national distribution. The most satisfactory solution of this difficulty, I am thinking, would be to have a competent publicity writer attached to each local exchange; one who is thoroughly conversant with local conditions and with the needs of the local papers.

The display in the lobby and in front of the theatre does a great deal to sell a picture especially to women. They shop for pictures as well as for merchandise. If the photographs and display matter don't appeal they'll find some that will.

Stills on the whole have been deteriorating in character of late. They fail to give an adequate idea of the feature they represent. In the artistic lobby of an up-to-date house the most of them combine to form sorry stands. On the other hand, for productions that I have had, such as "The Unbeliever," "The Yellow Ticket," and like attractions, I have considered the paper for the boards unusually pleasing.

It strikes me that the amount of space purchased by producers in the trade publications is grossly misused. The big exhibitor pays small attention to it because he is too wary a "bird" not to be suspicious of the over generous use of superlatives effected in most of this copy.

Unquestionably a great deal of service would be rendered if the producer devoted his advertising space to advising the exhibitor how to put his picture across rather than to announce what a smashing success he is personally. Even if each manager uses his own ideas the trade paper advertising should be of assistance, because though bromidic, the old saying that two heads are better than one is still trite. If the producers would feature themselves less and the picture more, we would get better results and in time they themselves would become more prominent.

The advance material should give more specific exhibition ideas, but that point seems to be of secondary consideration. The first thought seems to be, get the print finished and to the exchangemen; let the advertising matter come when it will. I think at least they should arrive simultaneously. Personally I should like to see the material given preference because a mediocre picture artistically exploited and given the proper atmosphere can be made very appealing.

It is the first run of down-town showmen toward whom the trade-paper advertising should be directed, for the neighborhood house managers invariably wait to see how a feature carries in a downtown house before booking it. In a more or less degree this holds good with the small town exhibitor who keeps his eye on the "doings" in the nearby city. Therefore it would seem more logical if the producer, rather than using this space to sell his product to the exhibitor, would utilize it to quote selling arguments that the exhibitor may use in convincing the wily fan that he must see that particular picture.

MRS. JOSEPH GROSSMAN, who assists her husband in the management of the Standard theatre, Cleveland, O., declares there is more co-operation needed between the producer and the exhibitor in exploitation. Mrs. Grossman is one of the most intelligent advertisers in the exhibition end and her criticisms of the matter that she is given to work with is very interesting:

We are all aware of the fact that every production cannot be a "Birth of a Nation," therefore not every production offers an equal opportunity for getting results. Now that motion pictures have become an industry and not an enterprise, it is necessary for both producer and exhibitor to launch his production in a business-like manner.

With a little co-operation this may be achieved. A great deal of publicity finds its way to the waste-basket. This expense can be eliminated. If the producer would only remember that each and every production cannot be "THE" best. Let him give the real worth and real appeal to the exhibitor so that he may in turn give his patrons the benefit of this department. The exhibitor must have his publicity matter on time and "plenty of it."

The "stills" form the most important factor in newspaper advertising. On these depend the success or failure of an ad. There is hardly an exhibitor that cannot tell at a glance which will reproduce well, and surely the man who has been chosen for this position ought to be able to do so.

Mob scenes very seldom can be used as too much space is required for them to be used to advantage, yet invariably there will be a great many of these for you to select.

What interest can an exhibitor create, with the print of a man and woman standing in front of an office building or that of a man beating a woman. Then again if you ask for photos that have a punch you are handed several with murders and suicides.

The exhibitor's results depend on the degree of interest and appeal he can create, therefore this position should be filled by a man who belongs to the amusement field by right of knowledge.

The "twenty-four" sheet stands require thought. Some of them really resemble circus twenty-fours. It is very seldom I care to mention names, but those of Goldwyn Corporation and those of Paramount are really works of art, and a credit to any theatre. Simplicity is the keynote to good advertising, the judicious use of colors in display is also very important, and when producer learns that over-rating his production will keep him from the public, condition will have reached as near perfection as we can get.

Seeing Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel

WRITING last week we declared that all records for cheering motion pictures that we had ever witnessed were broken at the Rialto. We stick to that. But the record stood only a week. Sunday the Rivoli smashed it to smithereens.

It was during the showing of the Animated that this happened and several times, due to the splendid arrangement of this news portion of the bill and the accompanying music, the crowds rose to their feet and cheered and cheered with all the enthusiasm of soldiers going into battle.

Just a few days later we sat in another theatre waiting to see a feature picture and witnessed some of the same pictures that had stirred the enthusiasm at the Rivoli. There was applause for them, certainly, but the pictures were shown without the carefully selected and timely music with them and the audience got just a tenth of the thrill that is being given the patrons of the Rivoli this week.

Some one has said that music rises to its grandest heights in war. Certainly there can be no doubt that there is never a time when it so sways the emotions. Music since the time that Rothapfel first showed how much it improved a feature picture to have a special setting for the feature, has been recognized as an important asset. But now, in these war days, it is a necessity, and the bill at the Rivoli this week is a splendid example of a presentation given just the right music to bring out the best of every picture.

The ballet music from "The Queen of Sheba" provides an unusually brilliant overture. This is played with the lights all red except for the inner dome in light blue, with the entire orchestra bathed in red light. After the first of the selections the stage curtains part revealing a wonderful setting by John Wenger, the art director of the two houses. This shows a throne chair in red with the royal robe thrown over the arm of it. In the background is an oval shaped opening looking out into the blue sky with a leaning column on either side. It is a difficult setting to describe, but it is in wonderful harmony with the music. As the air changes the curtains come slowly together, and although the overture is not finished the audiences burst into applause. Toward the end of the overture, as the gladsome music begins the lights of the house all become gold and the selection ends with a sort of pean unusually brilliantly rendered.

There is a remarkable scenic and one with an appeal as great as most features. It was made by Charles Maigne, a well known scenario writer for big pictures, and is released by Educational Films. "The Quest of the Big 'Un" tells the story of the veteran trout that always gets away from the fisherman and still is the prize that all seek. At the start there is a wonderful close up of the trout in the stream. First a girl fisherwoman tries to land the fish, but about all she gets is a spill into the water. Then other fishermen try and we are shown various methods of casting, etc., and mixed in with amusing titles they hold the interest. Finally the expert, after much trouble, lands the fish and the girl, insisting on holding it in her hands, let "Rudolph" slip away, back to the safety of his pool. The portion of the picture gets a big laugh, and the whole scenic unusual applause. Everyone likes the charm of fishing and here is a film of unusual delight. A regular musical score, with a theme is prepared for this. At the opening "Love in April" is played and then follows "Caress" and "Butterfly" and then "Love in April" repeated and then "Caress" again, the orchestra stopping all music just as she drops the fish.

With the stage setting representing the sentry post of a fort and the lights of the house full-on in gold Greek Evans, wearing the uniform of a soldier sings "A Sergeant of the Line." This is the second time that this same number has been rendered at the Rivoli, but it gets an even greater hand with the repetition.

Now for the punch that we told you about. We cannot reproduce here the storms of applause and the deafening shouts, but you can see how it is done and how the music stirs the thousands.

Rivoli Animated opens with the "Assembly" call and the roll of drums as the Animated title is shown and then come Gaumont pictures showing the Fourth of July parade in the melting pot of nations, New York. There is a remarkable effect achieved through these pictures, for at one side there is shown the face of President Wilson in the upper right hand corner of the screen and a waving American flag at the left, with the paraders in the center. "Yankee Doodle" is played one and a half times through on piccolo and drums and then the music changes to "Liberty Lads." This continues until the Highlanders enter the march and then "Highland Fling" is used with bagpipe effects. Every portion of the parade gets a big hand and the Highlanders surpass most of the others in the applause that they receive. When the "Blue Devils" appear there is a drum roll and then the orchestra turns into "La Pere de la Victoire" and the audiences go wild again. Then we are given further shots of the parade from the rear, with the orchestra and the full organ accompaniment roaring "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Following the parade Secretary Daniels goes to Pelham Bay to review the sailor boys and there we are given some other fine shots of the men in a great group gradually closing up on the camera and then others of marching men, with "Jack Tar" march the thrilling music.

Gaumont then supplies pictures titled "Everywhere in America," showing the launching of some of the ships on the nation's birthday. Again the applause is deafening as "Before the Mast" is played and the effects of hundreds of craft whistling their greetings are produced. Hearst-Pathe follows with pictures of huge moving machines at Perriss, Cal., and the music then changes to "Happy Days in Dixie."

Now note one thing. Everything has been strongly patriotic up to that time, calling forth the greatest enthusiasm from the audience, but this picture lets the audience down into quiet again. There is a mighty good reason for this. It relieves the strain and accentuates the patriotic reception of the pictures that are to follow, the second number of the Official War Review.

With the orchestra playing "Bersaglieri" the first of the pictures are the Italians who have just driven back the foe and with the first sight of the title the crowds break into wild applause, but when a little later come pictures of the marching men, the preparations for the battle and then the soldiers going over the top the people rise to their feet and such a shout goes up as we have never heard in a motion picture house. Following the playing of "Bersaglieri" once through the orchestra turns into "Nebacudonosor," and then as we have pictures of thousands of captured Austrians it becomes "March Royal."

And then on top of that thrill—the American heroes at the battle of Cambrai, the engineers who threw down their spades and seized guns and then drove the Germans back. "Defend America" is the music that the orchestra uses for this, but it can scarcely be heard for the noise of the audience. Then come pictures of the Irish horse on the "Road to Victory" and the music becomes, fittingly, "Sons of Britain." Next follow pictures of "The

GETTING THE MUSIC

Many Hints for Scoring War Pictures Included Here

WE have heard from several exhibitors who write that they are using the music selections that are originally employed at the Rialto and Rivoli on the short subjects and especially the news pictures.

With each change of subject the music is given here and even if the exhibitor does not find that particular selection available, it will suggest something that he can use.

These musical selections of Rothapfel are worth watching. There will be further discussion of the music as applied to patriotic pictures in the series of articles which is announced on Page 375.

Rialto and Rivoli

Desert Battleship," Arab soldiers on the march and for this "Kukoama" is used.

Next are scenes entitled "Where America Holds the Line," and there we have some pictures in the trenches and of the soldier boys washing up while "Over There" is being played. When we saw this picture there was a remarkable demonstration of the American heart. After the audience had time after time cheered like mad, there was a scene shown of an American soldier and his captive. With the title the audience set itself to applaud, but when the picture came on the screen the prisoner was only a mere lad, showing the straits that the Germans have been driven to. There was no applause, but a murmur of pity from the whole audience.

Truly while there is a spirit like that America must be victorious, and truly such an event shows that the motion picture is necessary to bring out the best in the American heart.

Under the caption of "The officers dine" we are shown some of them getting their meal from a rough make-shift bench and then follows the caption "The privates just eat," and there is a good laugh. Next the title asks "Is it by chance that the German shells seek this church?" and we are shown the bombardment of a little place of holiness that it made the deliberate mark of wantonness. "Robespierre," Letter C, with organ counterpart, largo movement, is used here and then through pictures showing Rheims, "ravaged but now captured." Lieut. Ponca, the French ace of ace is then shown and the orchestra bursts into "Marseillaise." Mr. Rothapfel does not ordinarily believe in introducing national anthems into the Animated, but this was done as a little tribute to the French for their celebration of our Fourth. We feel sure that most everyone got the touch—everyone but a woman, as we saw the picture, who looked like she ought to have a lorgnette and who had the "Hauteur" and whose husband was along, noticeably unwillingly. This pair were the lone ones in the house to keep their seats. If they could have heard what the others thought—but

The Animated comes to an end with sailors forming the world "Victory," and then breaking up with a massed rush at the camera while "Hail Columbia" is played to the finish.

Then comes Mlle. D'Espinoy singing Massanet's "Elegy." There is another one of the splendid Wenger settings for this (reproduced on this page), showing fanciful rocks with two poplar trees rising in the center. Then the rising moon, just behind the singer's head so that it illuminates her face as it comes up. It is a most artistic touch.

Elsie Ferguson appears then in "The Danger Mark." Paderewsky's "Melody" is the theme for this picture, which opens with "Meditation" and then goes directly into the theme. Some of the other delightful music used is "Serenade Chaminade," "Song Without Words," "La Reve Valse," "Summer Nights," "In the Clouds,"

This is the working sketch for the setting at the Rivoli this week, when Mlle. D'Espinoy sings "Elegy." This is done in black and white, and fails to bring out the wonderful color effect gained by the lighting

"Valse d'Ete," and "Brune." The next to the last is played as a cello solo with the organ and is most effective.

With the lights all gold then follow selections from Victor Herbert's "Wonderland," and then comes the big scream of the bill, Jeff and Mutt in "The Extra Quick Lunch." The pictures of Mutt as a waiter and Jeff as the cook and particularly the latter's juggling of the "wheats" sends the audiences away chuckling.

Account of the Rialto this week again suffers for the space that we have used for the Rivoli. "Zampa" is the overture and then comes one of the "Mexico Today" series of pictures released by Educational. This is "A Mexican Venice." It shows scenes along the river Viga and includes some unusually beautiful pictures of boats making their way through water hyacinths. The music, each selection played through is "Dolores Waltz," "El Albaican," "Moorish Serenade" and "Andalouse."

With the lights all red and the soloist seated on the side of the stage, but not seen until he begins to play, Gaston Dubois, 'cellist, then renders "Romance."

And then the Animated. There is an unusual arrangement, opening with the "Katzenjammer Kids" in "War Gardens." It is one of the funniest of this splendid series of animated cartoons. Trumpets and drums open the weekly and as the cartoon stars the music becomes "Mosquito Parade," quite fitting because one of the funniest parts of the picture are the attacks of the insects on the dog, and "Saddle Back Gallop." Then Gaumont shows pictures of the gymhanna at Westbury, N. Y., with the music, "Step With Pep." From the same source come pictures of the President receiving the French band and here "March Lorraine" is used and continues through Gaumont pictures of "flamenwerfer" captures by our boys in France. Then follow Heart-Pathe pictures of the New York parade with "Battle Cry of Freedom" used once through. There are imitations of the bagpipe effects for the Highlanders and then "Liberty Bell."

Hearst-Pathe pictures show "What a splash. Even von Tirpitz must have heard it," and then we are given pictures of the launching of ships on the Fourth and then "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" becomes the air, played with full orchestral effects through to the end. Then follow pictures of the pageant and the capitol and views of the President and finally a view of the Statue of Liberty with the orchestra giving a big crashing effect at the end.

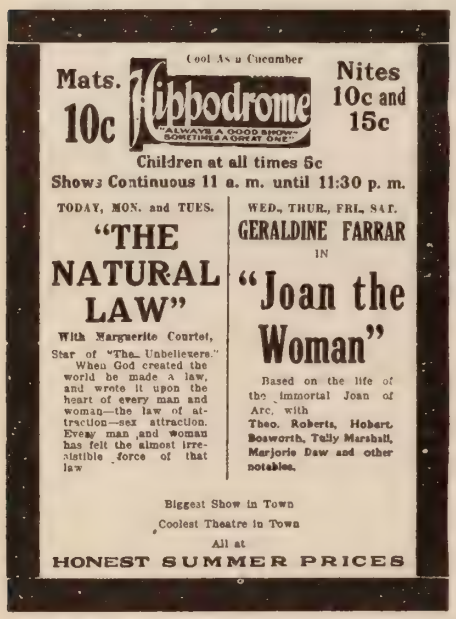
Count Lorrie Grimaldi then sings the aria from "Simon Biccanegra," and then follows the feature, "The Firefly of France." "Wayside Flower" is the theme for this, but there is an opportunity for plenty of war music which includes "Sambre et Meuse," "Boys of Tipperary," "Invincible Eagle," "Freedom of the World," "Pere de la Victoire," and "What Kind of an American Are You?"

Selections from Herbert's "Serenade" follow and then comes the comedy, and this is the first time in a long time that Rothapfel has shown nearly three reels of a comedy—and a reissue at that—one of the best that Triangle Keystone ever made, "Fatty and Mable Adrift." There were constant laughs through the picture and the elaborate musical score that was used added to the enjoyment.

A very elaborate musical score is arranged for this comedy opening with "Honeymoon Fox Trot," and then using "Barn Dance" for the rube scene. "Jazzing Around" and "O You Sweetie" follow and then comes organ music for the wedding scene. "By the Sea," "O Johnny O," "Pretty Baby," a mysterioso and "Ghost Dance" are also introduced at the proper moments, and when the couple are shown in their beds in the floating house, "Suwanee River," is used in a manner that adds much to the laughs. "Who's Who" is the final selection.

Your Idea and Ours

WE get lots of advertising specimens, we cannot reproduce all of them here, and some of them are so bad that we wouldn't have the heart to do it anyway. So we want to say right at the start that this "display" was not sent in to us by the theatre that is guilty of it.



Cool As a Cucumber
Mats. 10c
Hippodrome
"ALWAYS A GOOD SHOW—SOMETIMES A GREAT ONE"
Nites 10c and 15c
Children at all times 5c
Shows Continuous 11 a. m. until 11:30 p. m.
TODAY, MON. and TUES.
"THE NATURAL LAW"
With Marguerite Courtot,
Star of "The Unbelievers."
When God created the world he made a law, and wrote it upon the heart of every man and woman—the law of attraction—sex attraction. Every man and woman has felt the almost irresistible force of that law
WED., THUR., FRI., SAT.
GERALDINE FARRAR
IN
"Joan the Woman"
Based on the life of the immortal Joan of Arc, with Theo. Roberts, Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Marjorie Daw and other notables.
Biggest Show in Town
Coolest Theatre in Town
All at
HONEST SUMMER PRICES

All in all, it is about the worst advertisement that we ever saw and the man who wrote it spent enough money for some one else to pay for a display two columns wide by six inches deep. It violates every rule of TODAY advertising and then surrounds the whole thing with a heavy mourning border.

But the unique thing to us is that after all of this heavy, mournful display the writer feels called upon to tell us that the house is "the coolest theatre in town." We hope so, for we would not think it by the heavy black that it hangs over us.

We also hope that the Hippodrome, Dallas, Texas, sells itself, for this display will never sell any one anything.

One exhibitor advertises the whole town passes by his theatre—but be sure that they are not merely passing by.

HERE is a lobby display that means just a little money added in drawing power of the picture. It is the work of the Orpheum theatre, Fon du Lac, Wis., on the occasion of the showing of Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life."

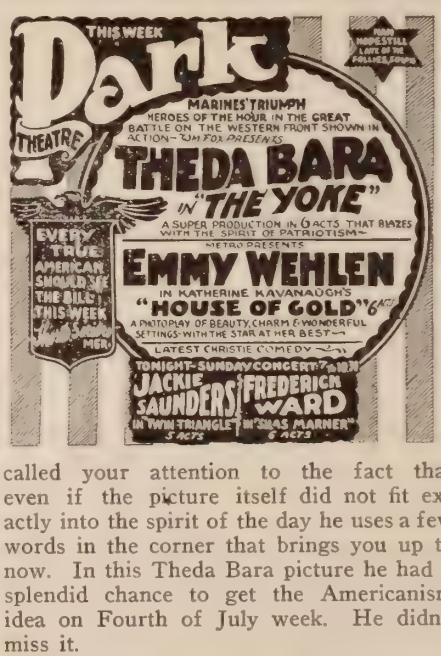
It happened that the state convention of the Elks was in session at the time and there was just a little touch added with the hands of the clock pointing at the hours of eleven. There was a huge Elk's head used while the American flag was shown at either side of the entrance. Pictures of Chaplin and his dog occupy just enough space above the box office to show them off and make them really the dominating feature of the display, though apparently a side light.

We would suggest that the lobby is far too crowded with frames. They detract from the main display.

Advertising is your transport. Don't let your own submarine of untruth menace it.

YES, it does mean something to the theatre to keep right up to the minute. We know one first class house that held a picture back for three months to present it on a certain day because its appeal on that day would be stronger than at any other time in the year.

There is not a manager in the country who pays more attention to special events than does Thomas D. Soriero, manager of the Park theatre, Boston. He picks his own pictures and he knows the appeal of every one of them before he makes the announcement. We have



THIS WEEK
Park
THEATRE
MARINES' TRIUMPH
HEROES OF THE HOUR IN THE GREAT BATTLE ON THE WESTERN FRONT SHOWN IN ACTION—WM FOX PRESENTS
THEDA BARA
IN "THE YOKE"
A SUPER PRODUCTION IN 6 ACTS THAT BLAZES WITH THE SPIRIT OF PATRIOTISM
METRO PRESENTS
EMMY WEHLEN
IN KATHERINE KAVANAUGH'S
"HOUSE OF GOLD" 6 ACTS
A PHOTOPLAY OF BEAUTY, CHARM & WONDERFUL SETTINGS WITH THE STAR AT HER BEST LATEST CHRISTIE COMEDY
TONIGHT—SUNDAY CONCERT
JACKIE SAUNDERS
IN "TWIN TRIANGLE" 5 ACTS
FREDERICK WARD
IN "SILAS MARNER" 6 ACTS
EVERY TRUE AMERICAN SHOULD SEE THE BILL THIS WEEK
MEN

called your attention to the fact that even if the picture itself did not fit exactly into the spirit of the day he uses a few words in the corner that brings you up to now. In this Theda Bara picture he had a splendid chance to get the Americanism idea on Fourth of July week. He didn't miss it.

The difference between an accident and a success is thought. This ought to be in one of our italic paragraphs.

Most opportunities are not lost, but merely postponed. Yet even opportunities get tired of being told "Wait."

WENEEDA theatre, Milton, Wis., deserves lots of credit for the advertising that it is doing. Milton has a census population of 833, but it is located in a county with more than 55,000 people, so we judge that the house draws from the surrounding territory. Its manager reports that it uses the country weekly with success, and we believe that any other house can get good results through the same media by intelligent and consistent advertising.

It is a well displayed advertisement, considering the facilities at hand, but we consider the two sentences in the smaller type mere generalities. Why not say something definite about the picture. As a matter of fact we do not consider it one of the most pretentious film offerings, though there is plenty of box office appeal. Even in advertising a picture in country weeklies for a single day's showing it pays to get down to the meat of the picture, and to sell the picture on its merits, no matter how well known the star may be. The punctuation of the display is bad—or rather lacking with the finish "quotes" left off the title of the picture.

Of course the cut was furnished by Artcraft, but this would have been more effective without the Ben Day work behind the head of Miss Pickford.

Today never will be tomorrow—and yesterday can be brought back again: think it over.

WE have had a lot to say recently about the necessity of theatres in cities where dailies are published keeping up their advertising every day. H. M. Thomas, whom you all know as manager of the Strand, Omaha, and who is also in charge of the new Rialto in that city has evolved a plan that will appeal to everyone who has the services of a newspaper or engraving plant artist at his beckoning.

What Live Wires are Doing

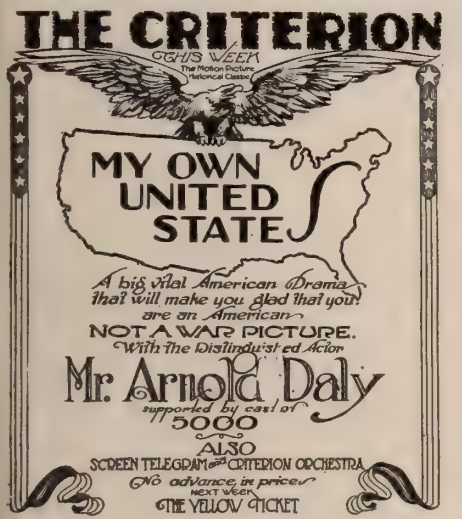
Rialto theatre is now using the face of the star and the name of the theatre as the main points to bring out in these hand drawn displays, but you can well imagine the effect when this is placed in the middle of a lot of heavy type advertisements. This sort of display, even if it is only two inches, one column, is worth a whole lot more than mere type along side of it.

Are you still saying "Polly wants a cracker?" Get us?

WE are constantly reproducing advertising of the Criterion theatre, Atlanta, Ga., and practically all of them are flawless. This is true of the display on "My Own United States." Ten inches across four columns have been used, the whole thing hand-lettered. There is but one fault that we have to find with this display: We have never yet seen the reason to announce



THE CRITERION
THIS WEEK
The Motion Picture Historical Classic
MY OWN UNITED STATES
A big vital American Drama that will make you glad that you are an American
NOT A WAR PICTURE.
With The Distinguished Actor
Mr. Arnold Daly supported by cast of 5000
ALSO
SCREEN TELEGRAM and CRITERION ORCHESTRA
NO advance in prices
NEXT WEEK
THE YELLOW TICKET

the next week's bill unless it is such an overpowering picture as to require a separate advertisement.

But back to the advertisement: In the first place this man knows that the name of his theatre is the thing! He never lets anything dominate that. He really tells you nothing about the picture, yet he creates your desire to see the Americanism of it. You have to figure in this connection that he has liberal reading matter space and layout illustrations to cover that portion of it. The effect of this display is to make everyone eager to read every line that the paper says about the picture. When you have done that you have a hundred per cent.

Some exhibitors are running their theatres like the fellow who showed "The Great Train Robbery" as a sideshow in a vacant store. Get 'em in, that's all.

NO advertisement is a good advertisement that directs the eye to the bottom first. Here the Dayton theatre has used a portion of the advertisement that appeared in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS—the head of the girl. The theatre had an unusual opportunity. It was the first house outside of the Symphony theatre, New York, to show the feature.

The advertising manager knew that was a good point to play, because he used it in the reading matter. He brought it in in a subsidiary line in the display. We cannot see anything that has been accomplished by the lines, "The Dayton Theatre Presents."

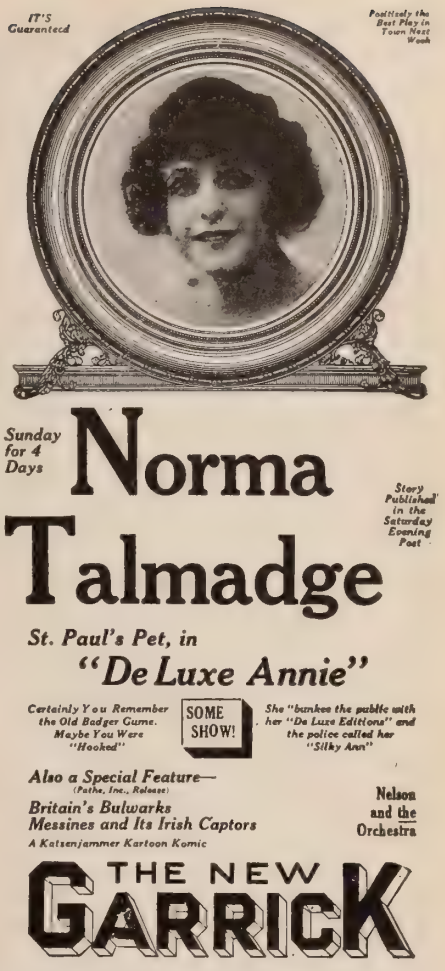
THE DAYTON THEATRE
presents
GRACE VALENTINE
IN OLIVER MOROSCO'S MOST BRILLIANT DRAMATIC SUCCESS
THE UNCHASTENED WOMAN
First time shown outside of New York City
A Fascinating Study of Glorious Womanhood. A Remarkable Character Creation. Brilliant and Sensational
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
THE SON OF DEMOCRACY
EIGHTH EPISODE
A BILLIE RHODES COMEDY
AND
THE DAYTON TOPICAL WEEKLY
WONDERFUL ORCHESTRA AND THE COOLEST THEATRE
MATINEES, EVENINGS,
SPECIAL SUMMER MATINEES
ALL SEATS 15
EXCEPT SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
TWO HOURS OF WONDERFUL PICTURES IN COOL COMFORT
The DAYTON
MAIN NEAR SECOND
PHOTOPLAYS OF DISTINCTION
PARAMOUNT ADVERTISING SERVICE

As we understand the situation the Dayton is a new house that is seeking prestige on the ground that it is far ahead of others. Then, in this case we would have used large space at the top to say "Dayton is the Second City in the Nation to See," etc. Large type, we say, and then you would have attracted attention but the "present" stuff entirely fails. We would also have eliminated the Gothic type in announcing the shorter pictures and would have used a very light face Roman.

When you talk about your house put the "my" in the smallest type, but "THE TOWN'S" in every one's mind.

THIS is a newspaper proof taken before the advertisement appeared, and therefore this will explain the typographical errors that you may find.

But let us say thus: Here is about the finest piece of Star advertising that we have seen. Theo. L. Hays, manager of the New Garrick, St. Paul, has taken from a copy of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS the round frame with the picture of Norma Talmadge and then he has played up her name as the main thing in the display. We happen to know that Miss Talmadge has exceptional drawing power in that section at least, and evidently her name and



IT'S Guaranteed
Positively the Best Play in Town Next Week
Sunday for 4 Days
Norma Talmadge
Story Published in the Saturday Evening Post
St. Paul's Pet, in
"De Luxe Annie"
Certainly You Remember the Old Badger Game. Maybe You Were "Hooked"
SOME SHOW!
She "bunkoed the public with her "De Luxe Editions" and the police called her "Silky Ann"
Also a Special Feature—
(Pathe, Inc., Release)
Britain's Bulwarks
Messines and Its Irish Captors
A Katsenjammer Kartoon Komic
Nelson and the Orchestra
THE NEW GARRICK

her face are enough to draw the people to the theatre.

And here is a little line that shows how close this advertiser is getting to the public. There isn't an adjective on the whole display, but there is one line that goes home—"St. Paul's Pet." We can imagine people who never even heard of Norma getting up and saying to husband or brother or phoning to sweetheart, that they want to see this girl who belongs to St. Paul.

We like, too, the "some show" box. If it were big and dominating we would say that it ought not to be, but here it is used as a casual side-remark. It's not played, but it is allowed to creep in.

NEW ORLEANS contributed a large amount through the unique and patriotic plan adopted for the opening of the Liberty theatre on July 2. Ernst Boehringer, head of the company which owns the Liberty, donated the entire day's receipts.

"Over the Top" was the offering for the opening and this had been advertised for many weeks in advance. In addition there was a large amount of newspaper space given the plan that had been adopted by Mr. Boehringer. So it was decided to place a minimum price of fifty cents on the seats, but to let the choice ones go to the highest bidders.

The boxes were sold for prices ranging up to $100 and many of the reserved seats were sold for $25 each. After the best had been selected the public was invited to buy the tickets at any price they could pay. Naturally there were few of the tickets sold at the minimum price.

Hospitality's Place in the Theatre

By Harold B. Franklin
Manager, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo and Member Advisory Board

This is the first of a series of articles that Mr. Franklin will write for this department. He will deal particularly with the environment given motion picture presentations. Shea's Hippodrome is one of the finest houses in the whole country, and a large share of its success has been due to the atmosphere of the presentations there. This preliminary article deals with courtesy—a necessary thing for every house.

ONE of the reasons for the popularity of the present day motion picture house is the improvement in the operating end of the theatre. One of the big things that has been overlooked by most of the big legitimate theatres has been service to patrons. Courtesy is one of the big essentials that progressive managers have recognized as being necessary to carry out the "welcome on the mat" idea.

Every big business today recognizes the value of courtesy in holding its customers. A theatre is in no wise different from any other business that depends on the public for support. Courtesy has been one of the prime factors in making the word "Statler" famous in American hostelry history. It is one of the things on which Shea's Hippodrome depends to attract Buffalo's home folks who know that the surroundings to which they are accustomed in the home will be carried out here.

The supervising manager should always be in evidence in every detail of the theatre. It is he who is responsible for the actions of the house attaches. It is therefore important that he impress the necessity of unfailing courtesy at all times. Discourtesy shows weakness in managing your theatre. In order to get courtesy out of employes it is up to the manager to set a good example.

Don't overwork or underpay your employes if you expect results. A patron is entitled to intelligent service. The moment he enters your theatre he becomes your guest. It is good business to meet discourtesy with unfailing patience. Because the patron is impatient it is foolish to imitate him.

The theatre should not be a scene of chaos. Quietness, system, order never fail in making an impression on patrons. The box office will reflect the value of these house characteristics.

The wise manager should take considerable care in the selection of his employes. When the right kind of male help is not available, girls can be used with splendid results. A girl is more inclined to be neat and well mannered. Ushers who are fresh, uncouth and chew gum have no place in a high-class theatre, no matter what its size. If a house has only one usher, it will be well worth while for the manager to see that he is a gentleman, smiles instead of frowns and always has the interest of the house at heart.

At Shea's Hippodrome we use girl ushers for the orchestra and Mezzanine floors, and boys are used in the balcony. The reason boys are used in the balcony is because the crowds are greater there and the audience is likely to become more congested. We have found, however, that girls have proven more efficient as ushers. They are more refined and courtesy comes to them more naturally.

Patriotic stage setting at Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, during War Savings Stamp week

A captain, who is distinctly uniformed, is in charge of the ushers on each floor. The three captains are under the direction of the assistant manager. The object of this arrangement is to make the patron feel that there is someone to go to in case of complaint, or should information be desired in regards to the running time of the performance. All the captains are furnished with schedules of running time as well as information as to the program. The moral effect on the employes is shown clearly by the fact that during the past fourteen months there have been but four complaints of patrons.

Real hospitality should be the keynote of service—not pompous ceremony that is likely to make some of your patrons feel uneasy. Service is a mark of supremacy—is it not a great satisfaction when people can say that "your theatre is a leader in service"?

It is a good thing to provide rest rooms with cheerful surroundings, good ventilation and wash rooms for the use of employes. A complaint and suggestion box is always a welcome adjunct to the theatre playing to a family patronage.

Last week we issued to every employe a leaflet to impress upon them that they are really an important part of the theatre. It is entitled "What We Demand of Our Employes."

Page one is a neat title page with the name of the theatre and the title of the booklet.

"THANK YOU"

But Even That Is Not Necessary When You Ask for Service

WE are mighty glad to receive each week thanks from exhibitors all over the country for individual aid that we have rendered them. But even the thanks are not necessary, for we want you to know that this department is yours to use, without charge and without obligation.

Some of the activities of this department during the past week have ranged all the way from suggestions on putting on one of the biggest of the current features to supplying the material for a speech on the growth of motion pictures. The men that asked did not have to wait for answers, or wonder whether they were going to get the information that they asked for.

If there is any way that you can be served—we're here to do it.

Page two has the following paragraph: "Our employes are in a distinctive sense the representatives of Shea's Hippodrome. It is by your actions that we are judged. Your conduct therefore is a matter of supreme importance to us—and yourself—if you are to make progress here."

At the bottom of the page in black face

Rothapfel on Patriotic Picture Propaganda

BEGINNING with the next issue, Lieut. S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rialto and Rivoli theatres, will write a series of articles on the part that motion picture theatres can play during the war. how they can best serve their patrons and how they can do the most for the government.

For several months Lieut. Rothapfel has been an officer in the U. S. Marines. Readers of these pages are familiar with the work that he has done in making patriotic pictures for the Marine Corps.

In addition to this he has been selected by the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information to stage all government pictures that are presented in New York, no matter at what theatre. The first of these will be put on within a short time. Full accounts of these presentations, written in the same intimate spirit as "Seeing the Rialto and Rivoli with Rothapfel," and made authoritative by the same first hand information will be printed in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

But this series of articles will be in addition to that invaluable information. The first of the series will be on Patriotic Propaganda in Pictures. There are many ways to use propaganda. Some ways offend; no one wants to commercialize patriotism. There are other ways in which this patriotic propaganda can be used and contribute a great deal toward helping win the war, and at the same time increase the popularity of the theatre.

These are vital articles. Some articles you owe it to yourself to read. These you cannot afford to miss if you expect to stay in business.

ype is printed "Be ready to be promoted."

Page three sets forth the following advice:

"We sell good service just as we do good pictures and good music. Courtesy and thoughtful attention are among the most important things that we sell.

"Patrons must feel that they are our guests—and it is up to you to do your part in making them feel that they are. You are the hosts.

"Please! Thank You! They are magic words—Always use them when speaking to patrons. Remember that it is the patron that makes your job possible. Without the patron there could be no Shea's Hippodrome.

"Never argue! The patron is always right. When anything is beyond you refer it to your immediate superior."

"Helpful Hints" occupy the last page. They are:

Be on time!
Never be discourteous!
Never lose your temper!
Never give short or flippant answers!
Never leave your post without permission!
Don't talk loud!
Courtesy is contageous, try it!
Meet rudeness with unfailing politeness!
Courtesy will disarm the most militant grouch!
Ushers must see every patron to a seat!
The chewing of gum or paper as a pastime is vulgar, useless and silly!
Special effort should be made for the comfort of elderly people!
Don't seat unescorted girls near men if you can help it!
Be careful of your dress and appearance!
Do your manicuring at home!
Use the shine kit freely!
Employes should be dignified in their behavior. Do not wrestle, hug or monkey when you are on the job. They make bad impressions.

Branham in Charge of All Ruben & Finklestein Advertising

CHARLES G. BRANHAM, who scored such a success as manager of the Strand theatre, Minneapolis, during the time that it was an independent house, has become director of publicity and advertising for the Ruben and Finklestein circuit of ten theatres in that city. This circuit took over the Strand a few weeks ago.

Mr. Branham is a man with long newspaper experience and he proposes to put the lessons that he learned on the dailies to work in the preparation of the advertising. During the time that he managed the Strand there were many reproductions of his work reproduced in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS under the heading "Your Idea—and Ours." Given the opportunity, Mr. Branham believes in using plenty of space with a minimum of reading matter and striking cuts. The advertising that he is now doing is being especially prepared.

As a general rule Minneapolis has been a poor advertising city and syndicate ownership of theatres is unusually conducive to the reduction of newspaper space. However, the first two specimens of the work of Mr. Branham promise that he is going to be allowed to have sufficient room to display his excellent ideas. In the specimens that we have received he has improved on the material that is furnished by the producers.

Articles discussing Mr. Branham's work and his views on advertising will appear in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS. He is one of the first members of the Advisory Board.

Chas. G. Branham

You need the "Come again" sign in the people's minds, not on a plank at the exit.

Mildred Harris
Is a find for the screen and makes her debut to the movie patron as—
"Linnie the Shop Girl"
The price of a good time
BY LOIS WEBER
WHO PRODUCED "IDLE WIVES," "SHOES," "WANTED A HOME," "WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN" & OTHERS
TO BE SHOWN AT THE MIDWAY Monday & Tuesday
A rich young man and a little shop girl went out to have six wonderful nights
Linnie the shop girl wanted good times and pretty clothes. A rich young man invited her out for six nights with a promise to give her anything she desired and take her anywhere. She accepts—
The dream week crashes into tragedy! And the price Linnie paid is shown in—
Lois Weber's MASTERPIECE
"The Price of a Good Time"
MONDAY-TUESDAY MAY 20,21.
AT THE MIDWAY DISGRACED!
her good name gone
"the price poor Linnie the shop girl" paid for good times and pretty clothes was a heavy one.
This innocent girl's home was of poverty and gloom, she longed for the good times other girls have, "she got it"
See the rest for yourself in Lois Weber's masterpiece
THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME
AT THE MIDWAY
TO-DAY & TO-MORROW
WHAT MYSTERY SURROUNDS DOCTOR K
The DOCTOR AND THE WOMAN
featuring MILDRED HARRIS
Who played "Linnie the Shop Girl" in "THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME"
AT THE Midway
TO-DAY & TO-MORROW

Four specimens of striking newspaper advertising of Midway theatre, Montreal

Goldwyn Plans Increased Efficiency In Aiding Exhibitors in Merchandising

WITH the announcements for its second year Goldwyn Pictures announces increased efficiency in its editorial department. Goldwyn avoids the reference to this part of the work as a publicity department, because conditions as they exist in such departments with many of the companies do not obtain with Goldwyn.

One of the features that is pointed out by the management of the company is that the editorial department does not employ men who have ever been employed in the publicity departments of other companies. The management believes that this policy avoids the danger of selecting men who have been enslaved by routine and by methods that they might have come to adopt during their employment by other companies.

During the coming season this work will be under the direction of Hunt Stromberg and Dwight S. Perrin. Mr. Perrin has been the head of the editorial force for something less than a year and during that time has won a high position for himself in the industry. Mr. Stromberg has been one of the owners of the Stromberg company, St. Louis advertising agents, and he will bring new technical knowledge of advertising which is deemed necessary with the doubling of publicity.

There are in the editorial department subdivisions that deal separately with the daily newspapers, the magazines, the trade press and foreign publications all over the world. It is a notable fact that Goldwyn handles its own promotion matter in foreign countries where its product is distributed as an additional service for its foreign alliances. According to the announced plans for the second year, Goldwyn will keep months ahead in its accessories and exploitation aids, putting them in the hands of all branch offices from one to three months before the release of each picture.

Goldwyn points out that nothing in the form of written matter that does not result in the sale of a ticket at the box office is considered of value and that the entire work of the editorial department is conducted on that basis. And to prove that this sort of service is what the exhibitor wants letters of praise from scores of exhibitors are cited. Every element in the editorial forces takes the viewpoint of the exhibitor in preparing all of the matter.

During the past year the company has been laying great emphasis on the preparation of newspaper advertising material for the exhibitor's use. It actually prepares the matter to meet the needs of the individual exhibitor whether be he in Missoula or Vancouver, in Fresno or Atlanta. Syndicate advertising is distinctly avoided in the preparation of the matter so that the difference in prevailing methods of typographical display in various sections may be followed.

"No exhibitor objects to spending money if he reaps a profit on his expenditure," says Goldwyn. "Our idea of service is to help him make a 'good buy.' Intrinsically when he purchases space in his local papers he is making a good purchase, but virtually every newspaper of any consequence in the country at this time has likewise capitulated to 'service.' They can give more than the space that paid advertising occupies. Amusements if properly written provide news that the editor's readers desire. The publisher's business office, being in contact with every other business in the town or city, can also link up his amusement advertisers with his other mercantile advertisers. He can get them window displays, book displays, pictorial displays that the exhibitor in most cases would have no chance of obtaining. It is in these directions that Goldwyn has proved of such great benefit to its customers. In other words, Goldwyn has made its service an actuality instead of a theory."

Striking Advertising Is Used by Midway Theatre in Montreal

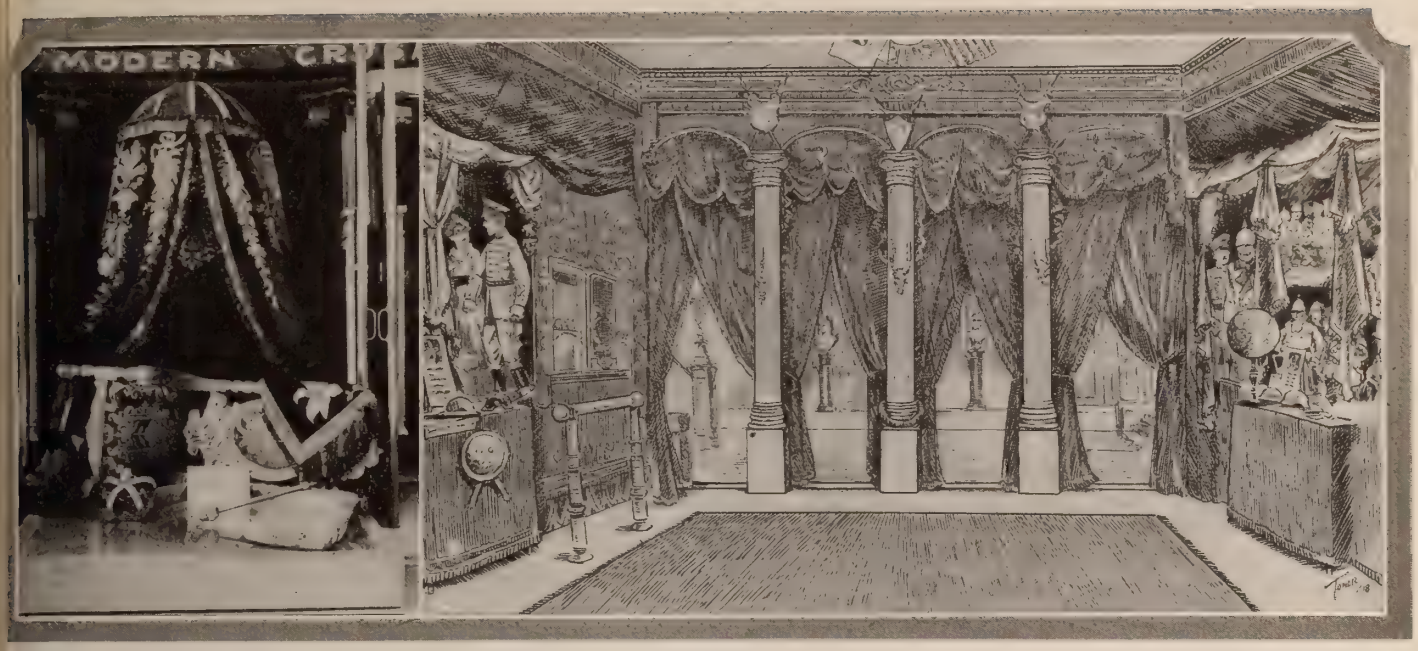
A. J. LAURIE has attracted much attention by the lobby he has made as publicity manager of the Midway theatre, Montreal. He is doing just as attractive and striking newspaper advertising as the specimens reproduced on "The Price of a Good Time" and "The Doctor and the Woman" will show.

We commend this advertising which is in combination of half tone and line work as splendid advertising from every point of view. All of the displays except the second from the left were two columns wide and 8½ inches deep. The other was three columns, 12 inches deep. And there is less matter in them than most exhibitors put in displays one quarter the size.

Not only is the display with the large head of Mildred Harris striking, but Mr. Laurie used this because he wanted to introduce her to the Montreal public and establish her popularity for future pictures in which she is to appear. There are a few words of descriptive matter about her, then the title feature in large lettering and reference made to Louis Weber.

In the second display we have a cut out of a scene from the production in half tone and then a hand-lettered talk about the plot of the picture. It is a clear case of merchandising the picture, of selling the plot to the public. The third display is in some ways the most striking of the three; it serves to pull in those who had failed to see the production.

The mystery element is kept dominant in the display on "The Doctor and the Woman" and Mr. Laurie has followed up the popularity that he built for Miss Harris by reminding the public that she was the star in "The Price of a Good Time."



t the left is the overtured throne, the center display at the Broadway theatre, and at right drawing showing general arrangement of the lobby display

Kashin Makes Broadway "Take Notice" with Display on "To Hell with the Kaiser"

MORE than two years ago the Motion Picture News began to tell the exhibitors of the country about the splendid lobby work that was being done by M. Kashin at a theatre in Montreal. Mr. Kashin is a man who believes in the power of lobby display. He proved his theories in Montreal and so successfully that he has brought to this city and then he proved them at some of the smaller houses.

But it has remained for him to "show" Broadway and he is doing it in connection with the showing of "To Hell With the Kaiser." Recently he assumed the management of the Broadway theatre and it is here that he is now causing more comment than anything that has ever been put in front of a theatre on the "Great White Way" has ever done. From morning, until the theatre is closed at night, the lobby is crowded with people attracted by this unusual display.

The throngs passing by Broadway are attracted by the main setting in front of the lobby showing an overturned throne. With the scepter and crown on the floor. There are rich gold and red curtains about it, giving the atmosphere of royalty. Now there is no huge sign, no lurid letters, but there is a small card that bears the words "To Hell With the Kaiser." Everyone stops to look and then their attention is attracted to the rest of the display. On account of the arrangement of the lobby it is impossible to photograph it, and so we have reproduced a drawing which shows the general arrangements.

All of the interior is draped in old rose velour, the hangings forming an attractive background for heavy gold frames which contain large scene pictures from the production. Decorating the hanging are symbols emblematic of the Hun world lust and military domination. Now in order to make this display more effective the art glass doors that hung between the lobby and the foyer have been removed and heavy gold pillars hide the casings while there are here other heavy curtains so that one is simply steeped in the atmosphere until one enters the main part of the theatre.

Mr. Kashin has not only shown that he is a master in lobby displays, but he has proven his knowledge of the presentation of pictures by the way that he is putting on "To Hell With the Kaiser." Stage setting, music, lighting and special effects all combine to get the most out of the picture. He has even arranged the cooperation of U. S. Marines and these add no little part to the presentation. In the first place during the showing of the picture four marines stand at attention before each of the doors leading into the theatre. The next thing that one notes is that each girl usher wears the costume of one of the allied nations, the head usher representing "Miss Liberty."

Now the Broadway was built as a legitimate house and the stage has not been changed so that it is hard to get the effects that may be employed in a theatre constructed for motion pictures, but there is a striking effect here with the use of American flags alone with the allied flags clustered in the center. Directly one notes that the box on either side nearest the stage is curtained off, and then one forgets about it until the end of the picture.

We are seated, and the performance begins. "Southern Rhapsodie" is the overture played by the orchestra and then comes the Universal Weekly. Mr. Kashin has designed a special opening for the showing of this at the Broadway which makes it distinctive. Specially selected music is used, the most of this being martial as practically all of the subjects deal with the war. Following this comes a 'cello solo which is started with the full light effects on the stage and then the lights are gradually dimmed and fireflies appear around the screen and behind the draperies. Then follows "The Vampire Cure," a Lyons-Moran comedy.

Marines provide the patriotic introduction to the picture. First we have the bugle calls and then six marines under the command of a corporal appear as the orchestra plays "Stars and Stripes." We have some evolutions that give the audience an idea of the drill and then the soldiers form a guard for the flag, in crouching position ready to resist the charging enemy and then the orchestra standing plays "The Star Spangled Banner." Following this the marines march across the stage twice and then through the house as the orchestra plays first "Semper Fidelis" and then "Over There" as the opening of the feature, which starts just as the marines are disappearing.

It is a treat to watch an audience look at this picture. They enjoy hissing the kaiser and every time he appears there are evidences of the opinion of him all over the house and the warmest sort of applause for every breath of American sentiment. The music that is used, too, works on the emotions. "Dixie" is used right at the opening and then follows a wide range of carefully selected subjects that bring out the various scenes. At the end "America" is used.

And at the end—then as we are shown on the screen the scenes in which the kaiser is sent to hell to keep his compact with Satan, the curtains before the boxes part and there we have the effect of scenes in hell itself, a striking bit of work that brings pronounced applause. And then one leaves the theatre, looking again at that striking lobby display. And one is conscious that the whole atmosphere has been maintained since the time one's attention was attracted from the street by the main display.

In addition to this, Mr. Kashin has availed himself of other methods to ad-

(Continued on page 380)

Rochester About Worst in Cooperation in Film Advertising

(Continued from page 366)

print the programs for these neighborhood houses free of charge, some of them even declined to allow that to be done.

With such a situation existing it is mighty hard to expect a newspaper to want to do anything. So we will give the situation there on the part of the newspapers a hurried look. The Rochester dailies, with the circulation as given by the Lord & Thoms directory, are:

Democrat and Chronicle, daily (65,372) and Sunday (63,918).

Herald, daily (33,012) and Sunday (18,427).

Post Express, evening daily (15,734).

Times Union and Advertiser, evening daily (65,400).

In addition to this there is the Pictureplay News, to which we have made reference, which is published weekly, and which has a circulation of about 30,000.

The Democrat and Chronicle on Sunday gives four columns to reading notices for each of the advertising theatres of all classes, but the photoplays are relegated to a column of their own and are without representation in the layout which carries pictures for the two stock houses and for the vaudeville theatre. The remainder of the page is filled with general news matter. There is nothing in the world on this page that would interest the photoplay fan or would build business for the theatre. On the page opposite it carried eight inches two columns wide for the Regent. The Strand has 3½ inches two columns; the Piccadilly, 8 inches single; the Gordon, 3½ single, and the Rialto, 5½ single. Not a great deal of advertising, it is true, and considering what we have already seen of Rochester conditions we would not expect the newspaper to do a great deal, but certainly it and the others have a duty to its readers, and we should think that it would put forward at least an effort to livening up the department.

The Herald prints a seven-column layout, including scenes from the pictures at the Regent, Victoria and Piccadilly, and at the bottom corners of the page and at the bottom of the second page also uses scene pictures for the three theatres. There are reading notices for each of the theatres, but not a line of news. It carries the same advertising as the other Sunday paper.

The Post Express on Saturday gives three columns of space to reading notices of all the theatres. There are single-column cuts of Elsie Ferguson, Alma Rubens, Fairbanks and Gladys Hulette. In these reproductions we have used the Saturday editions of the afternoon papers for the Saturday following the Sunday issues, and therefore the advertising is on different productions and consequently varies somewhat in size. The Piccadilly goes up to 8 inches two columns, the Regent uses 5½ double, the Victoria 7 single, the Gordon and the Strand each 3½ single.

The Times Union gives a page to theatres in general, with the usual reading notices. In the five-column layout there are pictures of Viola Dana, Elsie Ferguson, Fairbanks, Alma Rubens, Creighton Hale and one of the vaudeville players, and to the right there is a two-column cut. Still not a line of news. The paper carries the same advertising as the Post Express, and in addition has 4 inches on the Grand and 3½ on the Strand.

During the week the papers, with the exception of the Democrat, run a daily column of theatre reading notices to which the picture-houses may contribute. The Democrat uses the columns on Mondays and Thursdays. But as we have already said, none of the theatres has been converted to daily advertising, and we really can't see why the newspapers should try to do anything for them under the circumstances. The Piccadilly, Regent and Strand advertise once during the week on the change of bill and then they are done.

But we started this article with the statement that the fan interest caused the launching of the Pictureplay News and is responsible for its success. This was started in September, 1915, and through the initiative of George L. Tyler, the then manager of the Grand theatre, who felt that the newspapers were not giving the proper attention to motion pictures. He submitted his plan to the local exhibitors and it was endorsed. The scheme was for each theatre to contribute a certain amount to the support of the paper, the amount to be based on the receipts of the theatre and its size to cover the cost of publication. The plan was to circulate it free of charge to the participating theatres and to give them advertising space in proportion to their advertising. Additional advertising to the portion allotted could be had at a low rate. The first issues of the paper went over in fine style and it acquired quick popularity with the public, but soon jealousies crept in. The smaller houses charged that the paper was being run for the benefit of the big houses and so they pulled out. After fifteen weeks the paper went on the rocks. But a few still had faith in the idea and Erwin J. R. Huber took charge and under his guidance the paper has progressed until it is self-supporting, in spite of the opposition of many of the neighborhood theatres. It is published every Monday morning. The customers who desire the paper to come by mail pay a nominal charge; other copies are free. It is in great demand from the fans.

How Manager John O'Stille, Peoples theatre, Portland, Ore., arranged his lobby during the showing of "Zeppelin's Last Raid"

On the front page of the issue that we have before us and of which two pages are reproduced, we have a portion of the same layout that was used in the Rochester Herald and then cuts of the Dolly sisters, of Mary Pickford and DeMille, Griffith and Sennett, together with stories about them. The first page is devoted to interesting motion picture news matters. Here are "Pictureplay Queries" which attract much attention from the Rochester fans. The remainder of the page is devoted to reading notices for all of the theatres that cooperate and is fully illustrated, most of the matter being mats furnished by the various producing companies. There is a lot of interesting matter for the motion picture goer. It is a creditable paper of its kind.

We find the Victoria, Piccadilly, Regent and Rialto using the same advertising that appeared in the Democrat and Chronicle. The Lyndhurst uses nine inches single column, announcing the daily bills for the week while the Strand uses five inches two columns, the Princess four and a half by two, Lyric four by two, Jefferson three by two and the Empire two and a half by two, while the Rialto uses eight inches single. The Lincoln employs one inch across two columns merely advertising the theatre itself. A larger part of the advertising is for business men generally.

Recently we commented on the fact that the exchanges advertised the list of the houses at which their serials were playing, together with the day of the week. We

(Continued on page 380)

One of the bathing girls used by Alhambra theatre, Toledo, advertising "The Venus Model"

Horater Believes in Studying His Pictures Before Starting Plans for Exploitation

WHEN H. C. Horater put on "A Venus Model" at the Alhambra theatre, Toledo, O., he startled the city with his bathing girls and incidentally put over one of the most successful pieces of exploitation that he has yet accomplished.

This was done through the employment of a dozen bathing girls who appeared at Toledo beach the Sunday that the picture was to open and treated the crowds to the latest models in bathing suits. The stunt not only got the attention of the people on the beach, but it won space in the newspapers. Miss Betty Rhodes, a professional from New York, headed the bevy of pretty sea nymphs.

Mr. Horater is a great believer in doing the unusual in the exploitation of pictures. "I have learned in my five years' experience," he says, "that at times it takes more than a well-known photoplay star, a good picture and favorable weather conditions to get by and make good for the patron and the stockholders.

"I believe in advertising judiciously with not too much copy, just plain truths about the production. As soon as I book a picture I demand of the exchange plenty of all kinds of press matter, black and white stills, etc., and as soon as these come I get busy with the newspapers. I study the story and the possibilities in the presentation of the picture. In fact I am constantly studying it and it generally doesn't take me long to make up my mind as to what to do to make people talk. I try to make them talk before, during and after the presentation of a particular picture.

"I am also a firm believer in stage lighting, musical effects and house and lobby decorations. I change these latter frequently so as to make an impression on the regular patrons.

"Before booking any picture, and states rights one in particular, I always screen it and I consider the thousands that can be brought to the Alhambra to see it. Very often I book pictures that do not please me personally, but I do this because I am convinced that it is a picture that my patrons want to see.

H. C. Horater, manager Alhambra theatre, Toledo, O.

"Now, in reference to 'The Venus Model,' in addition to using the bathing girls at Toledo Beach, I had the front of the theatre decorated with many cut-outs of diving and bathing girls, prettily painted and mounted. I also had several oilcloth posters of Mabel Normand in a bathing suit made by our scenic artist. The display was so novel that it attracted unusual attention and big business resulted."

One of Mr. Horater's striking advertisements on "The Venus Model" was printed two weeks ago. The bathing suit feature of the picture was prominently played up and it made a big hit for the summer.

Just at this season of the year managers will do well to try to do unusual things with pictures that have a special summer appeal. There is just connection between the weather and the picture as there is with any other part of the atmosphere of a production. It is possible to make new patrons for your house by attracting people who have not been regular motion picture attendants before.

Universal Idea Adopted in Atlanta Display

Last week in commenting on a splendid advertisement of the Criterion theatre, Atlanta, on Constance Talmadge in "The Studio Girl," we left the impression that this was an original creation of the theatre. As a matter of fact, the Criterion employed for the main portion of the design an advertisement prepared by Nat Rothstein, advertising manager of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, on Mary MacLaren in "A Model's Confession," and this advertisement appeared recently in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

It is certainly a compliment to Mr. Rothstein that the manager of the Criterion saw the artistic and the selling value of this advertisement and that he used it to exploit a picture that was in title, at least, along somewhat the same lines, in that it brought the studio into the limelight.

However, it should be stated in justice to the Criterion that this advertisement was not sent in as an original achievement, but it was clipped from one of the Atlanta papers that comes to our desk.

Boy Scouts Co-operate in Putting Over Serial

Grand Amusement Company, which owns four theatres in Johnstown, Pa., successfully employed the co-operation of Boy Scouts in putting over the Universal serial, "The Boy Scouts to the Rescue."

Each scoutmaster was responsible for his own troop, and special tickets were printed which were sold through them to the boys. On the night of the opening of the serial the boys paraded through the town and then to the theatre, headed by their own bugle and drum corps. The result was a regular attendance of about 150 of the boys and the management reports that their own enthusiasm so stirred the older patrons that it not only brought more business but created greater interest in the showing of the pictures.

Hays Uses Special Drop for "Prunella"

Manager Theodore L. Hays of the New Garrick theatre, St. Paul, recently presented Marguerite Clark in "Prunella" in a way which St. Paul film fans will not forget in some time. Mr. Hays arranged a special stage setting for the presentation and fashioned if after one of the scenes from the play. A blue drop curtain showing Harlequin and Columbine dancing in the moonlight and illuminated in such a way as to give it a Maxfield Parrish art color effect furnished the stage setting which preceded the showing of the feature. Director William Warvell Nelson of the New Garrick arranged a special musical score.

Curiosity Arousing Campaign Used with Success on "For Husbands Only"

WHEN "For Husbands Only" was booked at the Coliseum theatre, Seattle, Wash., G. F. Fullerton decided to make an especial appeal to the women. He was afraid that the title might be considered as appealing too strongly to men, so he decided on a campaign that would arouse the curiosity of both sexes. It is a splendid example of the teaser style of exploitation.

On the Sunday that the picture opened he used four full columns. The main design of this was a man with a woman in his arms with the title of the picture across it. "Oooh look!" was the only caption that was used. Then below this within an inch and a half of space Fullerton made his main appeal:

"Mr. Man, just try to leave your wife at home," and then in smaller type, for he knew that this line would attract the attention of every woman, he addressed the appeal to the women under a "P. S." saying: "Ladies, don't allow him to get away with it. The story is by a woman, about a woman and for women, too. If necessary, let him take care of the baby while you go."

The same idea was brought out in a half page display addressed directly to the women. It is reproduced here and everyone will note the small amount of reading matter used.

Novel half page used during run

With the title in large letters here is another argument that he used:

"We have been confidentially advised that certain husbands are planning to see 'For Husbands Only' 'en stag'—using the old standard excuses, 'lodge meeting tonight, dear,' or 'don't expect me home till late, there's work at the office.' We as confidentially advise you to see he is properly chaperoned. We admit 'For Husbands Only' will interest you—more we cannot, except this, there's never been a picture like it and probably never will be another.

"P. S.—If you decide to go without him, the matinee is the comfort way; the same show, the same music; everything except the crowd.

"Yours truly,
"Coliseum Theatre."

One can well imagine the curiosity that this sort of advertising aroused. It was a clear case of not only turning a title so that it would not keep women away, but strengthening its appeal to everyone.

There wasn't really a thing told about the picture itself.

Not even the name of the star was mentioned.

You didn't know whether it was a comedy or a problem play.

Yet it caused arguments between husbands and wives about the character of the picture and it brought them to the theatre to see—and in most cases brought both of them.

This is a splendid style of advertising—once in a while—and about the best example of curiosity arousing exploitation that we have seen.

Seven whole days and nights starting today!
Ooooh Look!
For Husbands Only!
MR. MAN—JUST TRY AND LEAVE YOUR WIFE HOME
GREATER COLISEUM SYMPHONIC ORCHESTRA—30 Pieces : MARIUS BRAMBILLA Conductor
COLISEUM

Four full columns used on opening of "For Husbands Only"

Kashin Makes Broadway "Take Notice" with Display on "To Hell with the Kaiser"

(Continued from page 377)

vertise the attraction. One of the things that he has is a motor float representing the grave of the kaiser. But while Mr. Kashin uses this in certain sections of the city to advertise the picture, he does not want it to be lined up against his lobby display. The other day he found it stopped right in front of the house. Immediately he ordered the driver not to come near the theatre again and down in the crowded section of the city he went where advertising of this sort the better appeals.

Window displays have been made in over a hundred flower shops in all parts of the city in which the idea of the kaiser's grave is carried out. He was able to persuade the florists that these displays would attract new attention to the windows and they have done so. It cost quite a little money to provide all of these window settings but they are worth it.

"To Hell With the Kaiser" is doing big business at the Broadway, and the lobby display is drawing them in from the hour that the doors open. Mr. Kashin declares that the first Monday's business was far ahead of the usual and that the second Monday was more than double that of the first.

Naturally the setting that Mr. Kashin has given the lobby and the other accompaniments that he has given the production cost money. But here is just one point to remember. While he was in Montreal he showed that lobby displays would bring big business and many of these did not cost over $10 to put up. But they attracted the attention of motion picture men of the whole country to him, so much that one of the biggest exhibitors brought him to New York. Then Kashin became interested in a theatre of his own and he has proven his theories there by tripling the price of admission and bringing the house up from a failure to a big success.

And now he has taken the Broadway theatre. It is natural that he should spend more money on the lobby display there. The theatre and the picture warrant it.

Rochester the Worst

(Continued from page 378)

were in error in stating that the exchanges paid for this advertising, for it is a convenience for its readers published free. It is a splendid idea.

Now as we have said we do not regard advertising in a paper like the Pictureplay News as of the same value to the theatre as that in the daily paper. The theory of the manager of the neighborhood house that won't advertise is that the people are willing to walk all the way to his house to find out what he is showing. That is an absolutely false theory as has been shown in every city where there is real co-operation between the theatres and the newspapers. But that same criticism enters into the case of the Pictureplay. Here the manager can get the attention of the fan that is already interested in motion pictures, but he cannot reach out and get hold of the public in general.

But, as we have said, this is a most creditable paper and ought to be read by everyone in Rochester who is interested in motion pictures. The theatre that is failing to get its program printed here is overlooking a bet.

All in all we would consider the situation in Rochester about as bad as it could be.

At left, Manager McCormick and assistants at miniature stage of Circle theatre, and at the right studio of the house

McCormick Uses the Nature Stage in Designing All Spectacles at the Circle

READERS of these pages are familiar with the work of S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis. Aside from the excellent advertising that he does, the attention to music and the other details, the settings are one of the principal features.

Mr. McCormick has carried the development of the motion picture theatre even beyond that of the finest legitimate house and as the result he has facilities for putting on his productions that are permitted to few theatres of any class. In short, the Circle is conducted along the same organized plans that any manufacturing plant would adopt.

It is unnecessary to say that Mr. McCormick sees his pictures before he even books them. He gets the main ideas that he would use in his general exploitation and his settings from the initial impression that the picture makes on him, and it depends on whether the picture has that appeal that he believes he can put over to his audiences depends the booking of the production.

After the first sight of the picture he begins to lay out his general plan for presentation. In his advertising articles which are appearing every other week in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS it can be seen that he picks out the great appeal of the picture for his newspaper advertising. In other words, he merchandises the main idea of the story, he builds his publicity around what may be called the selling theme.

Then he proceeds to design the setting. Except to mark some special event or for patriotic purposes these are built around the appeal of the picture, in most instances. Now he calls together Charles Read, scenic artist, and H. D. Bolton, stage manager, and they work out the details for the stage spectacle. He has a miniature duplicate of his stage, which is shown in the photograph reproduced above. This is equipped with all the lighting effects including the border and footlights, dimmers and even miniature spotlights, while the full rigging for the handling of the scenery is reproduced.

In other words, Mr. McCormick does not depend on visualizing his settings. Every one is worked out in miniature and in the slightest detail before the first work on the real setting is used. The miniature work is in the exact colors and these are tried out under the various lights so that the exact effects can be noted and changes in colors and design arranged to get the best result. The advantage of this is that there is not the slightest guesswork what the result would be. The system is so thorough that after this work with the miniature setting has been completed and the necessary instructions given as to the lighting and the time of the curtains, that Mr. McCormick could leave the theatre and never return until the end of the run at which the set was used.

The model then goes to the scenic studios which are maintained by the Circle for the painting and construction of all the displays. This is shown above. These studios also prepare all of the lobby announcements that are used at the Circle. In fact, from the time that the picture is booked every element used in the exploitation and presentation of the picture is "home made." It is not necessary to go outside of the house for anything but the raw material.

With this accomplished Mr. McCormick calls in the musical director, the feature is viewed again and the score arranged and then the remainder of the program together with the musical numbers are prepared to harmonize. The musical director not only sees the picture, but he knows the atmosphere that is going to be given, so that his suggestions are of vastly more value than they would be if he had only the word of mouth description of what was to be shown.

These are some of the secrets of the successful presentations at the Circle. These have been told that the readers may understand the wonderful effects that are worked out at that theatre, for frequent articles concerning various presentations will appear in these pages from time to time, alternating with Mr. McCormick's own articles on advertising.

CONTINUITY

McCormick to Discuss that Important Point in Advertising

NEXT week the third of the articles on exploitation of motion pictures, by S. Barret McCormick, managing director of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, will be printed here.

It will be "Continuity in Advertising." It will be a strong argument to the man who is satisfied to slap in his display one day and then let the public forget all about the offering.

It will discuss the continuous advertising plan and the follow up of a sales plan. Some managers are very good in the first day advertising and weak in carrying the plan through. This article will cover one of the most important of all subjects.

If you are one of the managers who sends their patrons circular letters about three times a week you'll soon find them thinking you haven't time to do anything but write.

Ready-Made Ad Talks

Gloria Swanson in "Everywoman's Husband" - Too Much Mother-in-Law and Its Effect

(Triangle Five-Reel Production)

Gloria Swanson, the little Triangle star, who has come into prominence recently by her excellent dramatic work before the camera, will be seen on the screen of the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week, in "Everywoman's Husband." Every woman has her own theory of how her husband should be handled. Some believe in making the man of the house hold pretty strictly to set rules, and others believe in letting him have pretty much his own way. A good bit depends upon the disposition and nature of the man you are handling. There are a few who believe in making the home so attractive that the husband will have a pretty hard time finding a more comfortable place elsewhere. He will not spend his time at the clubs, or with other men's wives. In "Everywoman's Husband," Edith Emerson (Gloria Swanson) is led to believe by her mother-in-law that her future happiness will depend solely upon the strictness with which she conducts her home and her husband. With this end in view, Edith starts, but her husband rebels inwardly from any such restrictions placed on his actions. Her mother points with pride at the success with her own husband. Edith soon finds that her mother's prescriptions on how to govern a husband are "all wrong," because friend husband finds one who will welcome him regardless of restrictions. Edith's better conscience tells her that she is doing wrong, and, despite her mother's demands, she conducts the home to suit herself and her husband. Her husband is won over, and her plan wins with flying colors.

"Everywoman's Husband," with Gloria Swanson in the leading role at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week.

Franklyn Farnum in "The Empty Cab"—Franklyn in the Role of Cub Reporter

(Bluebird Five-Reel Production)

Talk about your cub reporters' newspaper scoops. None of these cubs you read about has anything on Franklyn Farnum, as the cub reporter in "The Empty Cab," his latest Bluebird production. The story was written by F. McGrew Willis, and produced under the direction of Douglas Gerrard. Eileen Percy, whom you will remember for her work opposite Douglas Fairbanks in several of his most successful productions, has the chief supporting role. Others in the cast are: Harry De More, Frank Brownlee, Harry Lindsley and Fred Kelsey. As the cub reporter, Jimmie Egbert Xerxes (Franklyn Farnum) makes a big hit and gets a big scoop but—it was all a frame-up. You know Jimmie was working for his father, who was managing editor of the newspaper, and father wished to see just what kind of a reporter his son would make before he would assign him to a real story. So he framed up a counterfeit story, and placed Jimmie on the trail. All that Jimmie knew was that a gang of counterfeiters had their headquarters in a place known as the Red-Dog Inn. He was told to trace the gang and get the story. As he was leaving the office he saw a girl who acted suspicious. She jumped in a cab, and Jimmie was right on her trail. But he was too late.. However, this did not prevent him giving chase, so he hopped another cab, caught up with the one containing the girl and leaped atop, but found the cab empty. The girl had given him the slip. He then proceeds to the Red-Dog Inn, and finds the gang, has several fights and rushes back to office where he writes a page of copy. The next morning he did not find a line in the paper. He goes to the office and finds the gang waiting for him. They were all employees of the office.

Baby Marie Osborne in "Cupid by Proxy," Romantic Comedy-Drama—Her Best Yet

(Pathe Five-Reel Production)

The latest happenings in the studio-life of Baby Marie Osborne, Pathe's little star, are depicted in "Cupid by Proxy," a romantic comedy-drama, with Baby Marie holding the interest from start to finish. In this picture Baby Marie has supporting her Minnie Danvers, Mary Talbot, J. N. McDowell, John Steppling, Mildred Harris, Antrim Short and Kenneth Nordyke. The story tells of the trials and tribulations of young sweethearts, whose families are next-door neighbors. The girl's father makes a lucky strike, and becomes wealthy overnight. The boy's father remains poor and obscure. The mother of the girl is obsessed with a craving for society honors and regardless of cost, either in money or honor, sets out to purchase a front seat in society row. In her quest she attempts to induce her daughter to accept the hand of a rich but unworthy man. The sweetheart of her boyhood days gives up in despair of ever winning her hand, but when the matter is left to Baby Marie she conceives a plan that proves successful and brings about a happy solution to the difficulties of the young couple. Baby Marie as Marie Stewart gives an exhibition of dramatic work in this production that defies competition. She is on the job every minute that she is before the camera, and never for an instant forgets that it is her mission to make others happy. And she does so as she skips through the five reels of comedy-drama which go to make up the story of "Cupid by Proxy."

Baby Marie Osborne, Pathe's little star, will be seen in the featured role of "Cupid by Proxy," her latest work before the camera, at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week.

June Caprice, Fox's Sunshine Girl in "Miss Innocence"—Miss Caprice's Nest

(Fox Five-Reel Production)

June Caprice's latest starring vehicle on the Fox program is "Miss Innocence," produced under the direction of Harry Millarde. Marie Shotwell, Robert Walker, Frank Beamish, Carlton Macey and Mrs. Garrison are seen in the principal supporting roles. "Miss Innocence" is considered by critics to be the best picture in which Miss Caprice has been seen. The sunshine maid is given opportunity to display her cleverness before the camera in many ways, and she takes advantage of every one. Under the direction of Mr. Millarde, she has accomplished wonders in this production. The story is built around a series of human incidents, which strike home. From the demure little girl of the convent, Fay Dolores May ripens into a beautiful girl of society, which she has entered because of the kindness of Mrs. Grant, who takes her under her care after Delores has left the convent behind, refusing to remain longer under its roof. She falls in love with young Grant. Kate Loomis, an adventuress whom Grant knows, becomes jealous, and in revenge, persuades Dolores to accompany her on a round of the Bright Lights. She gets Dolores intoxicated and then sends her home to Mrs. Grant, thinking that the sight of her future daughter-in-law will turn Mrs. Grant against her. But the truth will come out, and Dolores is vindicated.

June Caprice, in "Miss Innocence," at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week.

O. Henry's "One Thousand Dollars," with Eddie Earle, Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres

(Vitagraph Five-Reel Production)

Edward Earle, Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres interpret the principal roles in one of O. Henry's best works, "One Thousand Dollars." It is one of the few works of this author which has been adapted to the screen in five reels of pictures, and it reveals some of the best comedy-drama that has resulted from the screen adaptations of O. Henry's short stories. The picture was made by Vitagraph under the direction of Kenneth Webb. Many of you have read this story, as you have the hundreds of others which O. Henry has written. They all furnish the best of reading, and it has been proved that they furnish the best of drama when adapted for screen presentation. "One Thousand Dollars" is the latest O. Henry story to be seen on the screen. It tells of the wild exploits of Eddie Gilligan who has a passion for motor cars and speed. His uncle, who is wealthy, furnishes the money, and Eddie furnishes the speed. But Eddie carries a good thing too far, and his uncle warns him against his habit of spending money lavishly. His uncle is taken sick and dies suddenly. Margaret Hayden, his ward, and Eddie are his only heirs. They are called to hear the reading of the will, and both surprised to find that he has left them only a nominal sum. Eddie receives a thousand dollars, and is at loss to know what to do with it. He receives the answer in a most unusual way, thereby winning a bride and a few million that he did not know his uncle had left.

Eddie Earle, Florence Deshon and Agnes Ayres in O. Henry's "One Thousand Dollars." At the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week.

READY-MADE AD-TALKS PUBLISHED IN LAST WEEK'S ISSUE

July 13, 1918.

FEATURES

TITLE OF PLAY	PRODUCER
"The Mortgaged Wife"	Jewel	6 reels
"Joan of the Woods"	World	5 reels
"Shark Monroe"	Artcraft	5 reels
"The Garden Wall"	World	5 reels
"Tinsel"	World	5 reels
"The Glorious Adventure"	Goldwyn	6 reels
"The Brief Debut of Tildy"	General (O. Henry)	2 reels
"The Whirlpool"	Select	5 reels
"We Can't Have Everything"	Artcraft	5 reels
"The Coming of Faro Nell"	General (Wolfville)	2 reels
"Sandy"	Paramount	5 reels
"Shot in the Dumbwaiter"	Lyons and Moran Universal Comedy	1 reel
"The Fly God"	Triangle	5 reels
"Straight and Narrow"	King-Bee Billy West Comedy	2 reels
"The Claws of the Hun"	Paramount	5 reels
"Ladies First"	Paramount-Sennett Comedy	2 reels

Peggy Pearce, Former Keystone Comedy Star, in Triangle's "A Good Loser"

(Triangle Five-Reel Production)

Lee Hill, Arthur Millett, Peggy Pearce, Graham Pette and Pete Morrison, are seen in "A Good Loser," a late Triangle production in five reels, written by John W. Short, and produced under the direction of Dick Donaldson. Miss Pearce, the feminine star of Triangle's latest, was formerly one of the Keystone comedy beauties, and has been seen in many of these famous laugh-makers. This is her first attempt at the serious end of the screen drama, and she makes good from the opening shot to the final fade-out. Miss Pearce has the role of Evelyn Hazelton, left an orphan by the death of her father in Maryland. Doctor Jim who had been called from the West to attend her father, falls in love with Evelyn and proposes marriage. Evelyn accepts the proposal, and they are married. Harry Littlejohn the doctor's best friend, and Evelyn's sweetheart is waiting back West for news from Evelyn, telling him that she will become his wife. The doctor takes his young bride back home. Neither Evelyn or Littlejohn disclose the secret of their love for one another. An epidemic of sickness breaks out in the neighborhood, and the doctor is called away. During his stay, Jack Monroe who becomes infatuated with Evelyn, persuades her to elope with him. Littlejohn learns of their plans and prevents the elopement, sacrificing his own life in the attempt. When the doctor learns of his friend's loyalty to him, he forgives his young wife, and realizes that his neglect had driven her to the act.

At the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week, "A Good Loser."

Virginia Pearson in "Her Price"—Story Who Barters All for Career in Opera

(Fox Five-Reel Productions)

Of particular appeal to girls is Virginia Pearson's latest starring vehicle on the Fox program, "Her Price." A lesson is taught during the run of this picture that every girl may learn to her own advantage. The girl and the temptress it might be titled because it recites the temptations to which a young girl is subject, and in order that she might realize her ambition she gives all that she might swing in society's mad whirl. Miss Pearson has the role of Marcia Calhoun, a young music student in New York, whose mind is turned by the glamour of the society whirl that is going on all around her. She makes the mistake that many another girl has made—she sacrifices all that she might rise in her profession through which medium she believes she can attain the top rung of the society ladder. Marcia comes to New York from a little village in Virginia to have her voice cultivated. Her instructor realizes that his pupil has wonderful prospects, and advises her to go to Italy to finish her course. She pleads the lack of funds, and he tells her that a girl of her beauty should experience no trouble in getting the funds, and insinuates that he will provide all the necessary money if she will give herself to him. She rebels at the thought, but her girl friend who entertains no scruples concerning such action advises her to accept her instructor's offer. She does, and lives to regret it. But later she finds happiness in the love of a true man.

Virginia Pearson, in "Her Price," at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week.

"The Locked Heart," Featuring Gloria Joy—Vola Vale and Henry King in Support

(General Five-Reel Release)

"The Locked Heart," one of the Oakdale series of special features distributed on the General program, will be seen on the screen of the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week. In the cast of characters is seen Gloria Joy, who has the featured feminine role. In support are seen Henry King, Vola Vale, Daniel Gilfether and Leon Perdue. The picture was made under the direction of Henry King. It is in five parts. "The Locked Heart" tells the story of a young husband who had been away on an extended trip, and returning, he finds a baby daughter in his home and his young wife dead. Thinking that his wife had been untrue to him, he leaves his home, placing the child in the care of his aged father. The room which he had furnished for his wife and himself, he locked, and refused to allow anyone to enter. He fails to notice a letter left on the dresser by his wife some days before her death. He leaves for a foreign country to forget his sorrow. Years afterwards he returns, drawn home by the curiosity to see his daughter. He visits her, and the child, now grown to womanhood, becomes attached to the stranger and later discovers that he is her father. She begs him to go to the room which has always been kept from her sight, and he consents. Going there, he finds the letter, which explains all and his grief turns to happiness.

The late number of the Oakdale series of special features, "The Locked Heart," will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Gloria Joy, Vola Vale, Henry King and strong support are seen in the principal roles.

Norma Talmadge in "The Safety Curtain," Adapted From Ethel M. Dell's Book

(Select Six-Reel Production)

Norma Talmadge, supported by Eugene O'Brien, will be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, in "The Safety Curtain," adapted from Ethel M. Dell's book of the same name, by S. A. Franklin and Paul West. The picture was produced for the Select program, under the direction of Mr. Franklin. In the cast are seen Anders Randolf, Gladden James and Lillian J. Hall. "The Safety Curtain" offers Miss Talmadge every chance to display those Talmadge characteristics which have won her the praise of the millions who have seen her on the screen. There are few actresses working before the camera today, who can equal Miss Talmadge in a role calling for emotional acting. And there are fewer still who can drop the characteristics of the emotional actress and take up the role of a charming little care-free girl of the ingenue type. It is this versatility that has placed Miss Talmadge in the front rank of our best screen actresses. "The Safety Curtain" tells of Puck, the part portrayed by Miss Talmadge, a little music hall dancer, whose husband, Vulcan, the strong man, maltreats her for receiving the attentions of Sylvester, a dissipated young Englishman. During her act at the theatre, a fire breaks out and she is caught between the back of the stage and the asbestos curtain. But a young officer with the English forces in India, home on a furlough, saves her, and she, thinking that her husband had been lost in the fire, goes with him to India and becomes his wife. Her husband is saved and traces her to India. He meets with sudden death and the young captain and Puck are left free to their happiness.

Alma Rubens in "The Painted Lily," Drama of Night Life—Jack Richardson in Support

Alma Rubens, whom you will remember for her excellent work in the Triangle feature, "Love Me," is to be seen on the screen of the ——— in "The Painted Lily," her latest starring vehicle on the Triangle program. "The Painted Lily" was written by Catherine Carr and produced under the direction of Thomas N. Heffron with William V. Mong, Jack Richardson, Dorothy Hagar, Francis McDonald, Alberta Lee and Gene Burr in the supporting roles. Miss Rubens is one of the most striking beauties in the silent drama and she is one of the most accomplished and talented of actresses. Her work in this production will verify this statement and the management of the ——— theatre recommends this late offering to be shown ——— of ——— week, as an example of entertaining drama on the screen. Miss Rubens portrays the role of an unwilling vampire swinging through the maze of "high life" on the Gay White Way. Mary Fanjoy is a flower girl who supports her invalid father. Cecil Grey, a gambler, wins Mary's heart and she is transported from the humble surroundings in which she and her father lived, to the gay life of the city. She then learns that her husband is a gambler. Not long after the marriage, Grey attempts to force his wife to act as a "capper" for his gambling business and she unwillingly consents. Grey is betrayed to the police, and in a raid, Jeannette, who is in love with Grey, is shot and killed. Grey escapes. He forces Mary to pose as Jeannette. But Mary is to be fooled no longer. She gets away from the gay life, and in the end, brings her husband to justice and finds a real man.

At the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, Alma Rubens in "The Painted Lily."

James Oliver Curwood's "Tangled Lives," with Harry Morey and Betty Blythe

(Vitagraph Five-Reel Production)

A number of James Oliver Curwood's famous stories have been adapted to the screen, but none with quite the dramatic punch to it that his "Tangled Lives" has, recently adapted and produced under the direction of Paul Scardon for the Vitagraph program. Harry Morey, the favorite Vitagraph star, is seen in the leading

PERSONALITY

It Is an Important Angle if You Know How to Use It

ON another page of this issue you will find an article that discusses the making use of the player's personality on exhibitor exploitation. There are some excellent suggestions there for every showman.

But you cannot apply the personality angle unless you know the players in the pictures and unless you take advantage of their relation to the roles that they may be playing in the specific picture. These Ad Talks give you sidelights on this. They give you the names of the principal players and they tell you of the interesting angle to use in connection with the star.

George Majeroni, Jean Paige, Betty Blythe, Eulalie Jensen and Charles Kent, all of whom have been seen to advantage in previous Vitagraph productions. Mr. Morey has the role of John Howland, a successful and ambitious architect, whose wife becomes infatuated with Paul Wescott, a wealthy bachelor, who is not aware that Howland is the husband of the woman whose charm has captivated him. He calls on Howland, to arrange with him for the erection of a costly mansion, and not until then does he learn that the girl is Howland's wife. Cora West, friend of Mrs. Howland, is in love with Howland and induces Hilda to continue her conquest of Wescott's heart. In the meantime she takes advantage of Mrs. Howland's absence to pay attention to Howland. The husband detects Wescott in the garden with his wife, and following an altercation, Wescott is shot. Howland is accused and sentenced to prison. Hilda is granted a divorce, and is about to marry Wescott when Howland appears, having been pardoned. The unfaithful wife and her lover reap the fruits of their wrong doing and Howland is happily united with Cora, the girl whom he had befriended.

Harry Morey, supported by Betty Blythe, in "Tangled Lives," on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Viola Dana in "Opportunity"—Supported by All-Star Metro Cast—Modern Drama

(Metro Five-Reel Production)

Viola Dana hits the high spots in her latest work before the Metro camera. She swings through the five acts of this offering with all the assurance of one who knows the ropes, and she emerges with the final fade-out with the honors all hers. There isn't another actress working before the camera who can portray the character of the devil-may-care girl of the mountains, the plains, or the picturesque lands of Mexico, as this little artist. And from the roles of these, she can go into society and make the hit of the season as the charming little debutante. In other words, Miss Dana is versatile—nothing is impossible with her. She takes up the reins and goes ahead. She makes a real honest-to-goodness character of the one she is portraying. Her latest work is "Opportunity," written by Edgar Franklyn and produced under the direction of John H. Collins. In the supporting cast are seen Hale Hamilton, Frank Currier, Edward Abeles, Sally Crute, Joseph Burke, Frank Lyon and Elsie MacLeod. And this cast can be truthfully referred to as "all-star," for in it are seen some of the best actors and actresses working in the silent drama. Edward Abeles is a well-known figure on the ligitimate stage, as is Frank Currier. Sally Crute, Joseph Burke and Elsie MacLeod are all familiar figures on the screen. In "Opportunity" they get the opportunity to shine in their respective parts, and they do so, with the result that Miss Dana's starring vehicle, "Opportunity," is a model for enjoyable entertainment on the screen. The story tells of how a young girl takes advantage of the opportunity that comes but once in a lifetime.

Viola Dana, in "Opportunity," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Jane and Catherine Lee, the Fox Kids in "Doing Their Bit"—Two Little Patriots

(Fox Five-Reel Production)

The Lee Kids are at it again. This time they are "Doing Their Bit." Jane and Catherine are two tiny defenders of their country's flag, and the manner in which they foil the plot of those who would undermine the foundations of liberty, forms the action of this most interesting five-reel photo-drama, produced by William Fox, under the direction of Keenan Buel. You remember these kids in "We Should Worry," their last picture, and you will recall the fine work these little youngsters did before the camera. They duplicate the finesse of their work in "We Should Worry," in their latest picture, "Doing Their Bit." When Patrick O'Dowd gives his life for his country on the battlefield, the priest of the little village where he lives, sends his two orphaned children, Jane and Catherine, to Michael, a brother, in America. Here they are received with poor grace by Michael and his wife, who, because of the sudden accession to wealth, look down upon the two little tots in rags and poverty. Their condition is an unwelcome reminder to Mrs. O'Dowd of the poverty in which she lived before her husband made riches in the munitions business. She was socially inclined and thought that the children would act as a barrier to this end. But Jane and Catherine place themselves in the everlasting grace of both their relatives and their country by their chance discovery of a German spy working in the munitions factory owned by their uncle, and the connection of their uncle's pampered son, with this plot of the Germans to destroy.

Jane and Catherine Lee, in "Doing Their Bit," their latest five-reel picture to be seen on the screen of the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Bert Lytell and Anna Q. Nilsson in Louis Joseph Vance's "No Man's Land"

(Metro Five-Reel Production)

Louis Joseph Vance's novel, "No Man's Land," has been adapted for screen presentation by Metro Pictures, with Bert Lytell and Anna Q. Nilsson in the leading roles. The picture was produced under the direction of William S. Davies. In the supporting roles are seen Charles Arling, Mollie McConnell, Eugene Pallette and Edward Alexander. The author needs no introduction to the American public. His romantic fiction has been read and re-read by millions, and always enjoyed. Some of his best works have been adapted to the screen. You will remember his "The Lone Wolf," in which Mr. Lytell and Hazel Dawn were starred. His latest work, "No Man's Land," is of equal interest, and Bert Lytell puts over the role of Garrett Cope, with a bang. Garrett is a wealthy young bachelor of southern California and is a favorite of everyone excepting Mrs. Brayton, aunt of Katherine Gresham, the girl he loves. Her aunt wants her to marry Henry Miller, who pretends to be a scientific investigator, but is, in reality, a booster for the Kaiser, and whose real name is Heinrich Mueller. In a poker game Mueller is proved a cheat by Pembroke Van Tyle, a friend of Katherine's aunt. He alibis himself by saying that his eyes are defective. The quarrel continues and Mueller shoots his accuser. Garrett prevents Mueller from escaping until the police arrive. Mueller accuses Garrett and the web of evidence which Mueller and his henchmen draws about Garrett, is so strong that the police suspect Garrett and he is made prisoner. Garrett is pardoned and sets out to bring his accuser to justice.

Elsie Ferguson in Robert W. Chambers' "The Danger Mark"—Author's Most Popular Story

(Artcraft Five-Reel Production)

Elsie Ferguson, the beautiful emotional actress of Artcraft features, will be seen ——— week at the ——— theatre, in "The Danger Mark," an adaptation from Robert W. Chambers' novel of the same name, produced for the Artcraft program, under the direction of Hugh Ford. "The Danger Mark" is, perhaps, the most widely read work of this famous author of romantic fiction. Miss Ferguson's last success on the screen was in an adaptation of Henrik Ibsen's "The Doll's House," and the star received the praise of everyone who saw her in this feature. Her late work is of an entirely different nature. In "The Danger Mark" she is called upon to hit the high spots of dramatic art and she does so with all the skill of which she is capable. The adaptation from Mr. Chambers' work was made by Charles Maigne, one of our most talented scenario writers. Mr. Maigne will be remembered as the one who arranged Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird." In the supporting cast are seen Mahlon Hamilton, Gertrude McCoy, Crauford Kent, Maud Turner Gordon, Edward Burns and W. T. Carlston. The story tells of the struggles of a young woman to free herself from the taint in her blood, brought on by her father's habitual drinking. She has a strong longing for drink and the battle which she wages against this invisible foe forms the dramatic strength of Robert W. Chambers' most popular story.

Live News from the Producers

Universal Reissues "Scandal"

Will Retitle It "Scandal Mongers" and Put It On Bluebird Program July 22—Lois Weber Feature

UNIVERSAL this week announced that arrangements have been completed to issue a revised version of Lois Weber's production that was originally released under the title of "Scandal."

Under the name of "Scandal Mongers," the subject is to be the Bluebird release for July 22.

In regard to the picture, Universal said:

"Released in its original form in 1915 'Scandal Mongers' represented the screen's first attempt to convey a message while providing entertainment. How well it succeeded is evidenced by the success it scored and by the booking demand that resulted.

"The picture was notable for another reason. It was the first of a series of big pictures which Lois Weber was to produce for Universal, and the relations which exist between that director and the Universal have continued, with but a brief period, uninterruptedly, since the release of this subject.

"It was 'Scandal's' popularity that caused Miss Weber to favor stories which contained a message. The discovery that such pictures present a powerful appeal to the mind while also appealing to the heart caused her to specialize upon pictures of this type. "The Price of a Good Time," "Idle Wives" and "Even As You and I" are examples of how she has succeeded.

Carmel Myers Is the Bluebird Star In "The City of Tears"

"Lois Weber, who also enacts one of the central roles in this production, based her story upon an argument advanced by one of the editorial writers in the country. According to this man, if you could stand behind one of the club windows of any city you could hear more poisonous and dangerous gossip in half an hour than you could hear at a sewing circle during the whole afternoon.

"In 'Scandal Mongers' Miss Weber shows the result of carelessly uttered gossip; the mesh of circumstances which ruins the lives of William Wright, his wife, Robert Gordon, and his wife, Daisy, Gordon's sister, and John Austin.

Hampton Assumes Management of Kerrigan

J. WARREN KERRIGAN, for the last twelve months a star on the Paralta program, has come under the management of Jesse D. Hampton.

Kerrigan's last Paralta picture, "A Burglar for a Night," has been completed and is being made ready for distribution by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Kerrigan's first picture under the Jesse D. Hampton management will be "The Swamper," by Kenneth Clarke. The story was printed in the Saturday Evening Post two years ago and is said to offer Kerrigan splendid chances for some effective screen work. He will have the role of a French Canadian trapper who is drawn to a lumber camp where he is given the lowly position of "swamper," or assistant to the camp cook. The story is described as an extraordinary one so far as action is concerned and it should prove one of the best that Kerrigan has yet offered to the public. Ernest Warde will be in charge of the megaphone, with Charles Stumar at the crank of the camera.

Mr. Hampton has leased the Selig Edendale studio where the future Kerrigan products will be made.

That Jesse D. Hampton promises to be an important factor in the screen industry of Southern California in the near future is indicated by the fact that he will in a few weeks have two more well-known screen luminaries under his management.

Mr. Hampton announces that he will make a definite statement as to his production activities within the next fortnight.

All of the Jesse D. Hampton films will be distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

It Must Be Musical

Ethel Lynne and Jay Belasco, Leota Lorraine and Harry Edwards are principals in the newly-made Christie comedy in which a piccolo, a victrola, an automatic piano and a ukelele have competing principal roles.

"Maggie Pepper" Goes to Paramount

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has purchased the motion picture rights to "Maggie Pepper," which will be an Ethel Clayton subject to be released under the Paramount trade mark.

"Maggie Pepper," was a Rose Stahl dramatic subject and was written by Charles Klein and had its first presentation in December 1911 at the Harris Theater, New York City.

"Maggie Pepper," will be directed by Robert Vignola, producer of many of the most popular Paramount hits. Mr. Vignola, who had been working at the West Coast studio of late, was on his way to New York and in fact had already reached Albany, when he was ordered to return to the coast by Mr. Lasky to stage this film. Mr. Vignola has just arrived in California and will imemdiately begin preparations for the screening of the popular stage play. This will be one of the series of eight Ethel Clayton pictures to be produced for release during the coming year starting September 1st.

Petrova Extends War Savings Plans

The tour of Madame Olga Petrova in behalf of the War Savings Stamp movement throughout the United States is said to be meeting with increased success as her itinerary carries her from town to town. Up-to-date the star has been responsible for the sale of more than $250,000 worth of War Savings Stamps. In addition to making an appeal to the assembled crowds which greet her in every city in behalf of the War Savings Stamp movement, Madame Petrova is also making a personal appearance in conjunction with her latest feature, "Tempered Steel," at the theatres.

Due to the success which has met the efforts of the star in her work for the United States Government, it is now planned to extend the original time of her tour so that the trip will cover the entire summer months. It is now believed that the Petrova War Savings Stamp tour will not end until the first of September.

Nova-Glendon Now Blue Ribbons

Hedda Nova, and J. Frank Glendon, stars of the Vitagraph serial, "The Woman in the Web," are now on the Blue Ribbon of the company, states an announcement from the office of Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph western studio in a five reel, O. Henry story which is being made under the direction of David Smith, who turned out the production, "Baree, the Son of Kazan."

In the Roster of Goldwyn Are Willard Mack, Editorial Director; Alfred Weiss, Vice-President; Harold Bolster, Vice-President; A. Lehr, Business Manager, and Hugo Ballin, Art Director

What Goldwyn Distribution Has Accomplished

BY FRED B. WARREN

[Mr. Warren, vice president of the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, has a very interesting message to impart in the following lines. First and foremost, he calls attention to the fact that what the organization planned as a year's job was accomplished in six months. How this was done is significant and will, no doubt, be followed closely by the exhibitor whose motto is "fair play."]

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION is more than a selling mechanism, it is the pioneer of the new day in the distribution of motion pictures. It marks the day of the merchant entering upon the new duties of picture-selling.

It is a remarkable organization in any business that can say truthfully at the end of its first year's existence that it has accomplished the things it set out to do.

Our distribution a year ago intended—To girdle the globe and be actively releasing our Goldwyn pictures everywhere before the end of twelve months. We accomplished this in six months.

To win the respect and good will of the country's exhibitors. We did this.

To "play fair" with our actual and prospective patronage. We did this.

To rent our goods without haggling and bargaining; to handle pictures as automobile manufacturers handle cars, as steel men handle their product; to be just in our price schedules, but to win respect by abiding by our prices. We have done all of these things in Goldwyn.

It is hardly necessary to restate our initial intentions, for exhibitors everywhere know that we have established ourselves by building on these solid foundations.

Goldwyn for a year has operated nineteen offices in as many cities of the United States, and today we are opening our twentieth in New Orleans. Our other offices are in Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, San Francisco, St. Louis, Seattle, and Washington, D. C.

In Canada Goldwyn Pictures, Ltd., has six offices and we are actively operating in England, Australia, New Zealand, Scandinavia, South Africa, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile, Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador, Porto Rico, San Domingo, Venezuela, Mexico, Central America, Italy, Dutch East Indies and Straits Settlements, Egypt, India, Burmah, Ceylon, Japan, China and the Philippines. We are now opening, in addition, France, Portugal and Spain through our export department.

Out in the field we have sought to find a new kind of men for the motion picture business—men chosen from other big industries, instead of just film-sellers who have grown up with the picture industry, knowing only its methods and little or nothing about the successful methods of other businesses. We have kept our organization at the top small and compact. We reward our successful men out in the field. We do not "police" them to make them unhappy. We try to work under the Charles A. Dana policy of "Use Your Own Judgment." We would rather have our managers and salesmen develop their own initiative than to have to supply it from New York.

We are an enthusiastic organization, believing in our product and ourselves. At the start of our selling career we made it a rule not to lie to or deceive each other. We hold our men who make occasional mistakes, but we drop those who make mistakes and try to cover them up. We make office managers out of our most successful salesmen, and there are plenty of other bigger openings for men who show real selling ability. We do not destroy the incentive of our men by bringing in highly paid outsiders to get the bigger positions above them. We have man power because our men and ourselves have made it.

When the outsider wonders how Goldwyn has created such a powerful selling mechanism he is not in possession of this information, but we are glad to have our exhibitors know these things about us.

We operate under the mercantile slogans of "The exhibitor be pleased" and "The customer is nearly always right." This latter isn't always true, but you would be surprised to know how we benefit in good will by usually proceeding on this basis. One of the popular misconceptions of the industry is that the selling end is "a terrible business." Goldwyn does not feel that way—quite the contrary. It is a fine business, and we have found thousands of exhibitors with money to spend just hungry for an organization to come along and play square with them; to sell them straight across the counter instead of trying to sell by chicanery and cunning.

The operation of Goldwyn Distributing Corporation is in the hands of its officers: President, Samuel Goldfish; Vice-Presidents, Alfred Weiss, F. B. Warren and Harold Bolster. Each Goldwyn executive keeps in as close personal contact with the nation's exhibitors as active pairs of feet and ample railroad mileage will permit.

We have found that it pays to sell people by looking them in the eye.

New Kalem Plant Working

Duplex Automatic Developer, Over Year in Making, Now Handling Million Feet a Week—Marks New Step in Laboratory Practice

AFTER over a year of original research work and co-operation with leading engineering authorities William Wright, of Kalem Company, announces the completion of what is declared to be the latest step forward in laboratory equipment. This is a developing machine working on the duplex principle and almost 100 per cent automatic in its operation.

The new Kalem plant is said to embody many features far in advance of the few other automatic developers now in operation and thus takes on unusual interest for film men. It has been in continuous successful use now for well over a month and passed the experimental stage many months ago.

A Motion Picture News representative was this week granted a view of the machine in operation. It was readily possible to agree with Mr. Wright in his enthusiastic description of the advantages secured by the new system.

From a battery of Duplex printers the film, spliced into 1,200-foot rolls, passes directly to the automatic developer. Turning on a series of gears in and out of deep tanks the film automatically passes through developer, hypo, wash and on to the automatic dryer at a speed that takes a 1,200-foot roll from the printer to the projection machine less than half an hour.

A man on either side of the developing machine the same for the duplex dryer, and a man at either end of the dryer inspecting the film constitutes the help required to handle the complete process. At no stage in its journey is the film touched by the hand, it being possible for the developing men, dryers and inspectors to watch every inch of the film without halting the process or touching the stock.

In addition to these inspections, the film passing from the dryer is in shape to be placed immediately on one of the dozen miniature projection machines which cast a magnificent image on a screen only a foot from the operator.

In explaining the features of the new automatic process, Mr. Wright declared:

"Aside from the tremendous saving of cost and time, for in an eight-hour day the new machine will handle 166,000 feet of film, its real purpose and one which has been assured is to achieve a standard of unvarying quality. We have eliminated the human element both in developing, drying and tinting, for it is possible to color the film automatically just as it is developed and, in fact, we can be running colored film on one side of the duplex mechanism and black and white on the other.

"Automatic work from printer to projector is the last word in assurance of clean prints. Not a finger print touches the stock for one thing, and secondly dust hasn't a chance for the dryer is entirely glass enclosed and protected from all air except the dry air drawn in and filtered by our special apparatus for that purpose."

Urges Theatres to Stay Open in Summer

A NATION-WIDE campaign urging exhibitors to keep their theatres open during the summer months has been inaugurated by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. Conducted under the direct supervision of Carl Laemmle, a determined effort is being made to reach every exhibitor who in years past has made a practice of closing his doors with the coming of the first warm days and only throwing them open once more after Labor Day.

It is Universal's claim that every man who shuts his theatre for the summer gives aid and comfort to the enemies of this industry. These ill-wishers of moving pictures would be delighted to see them classed as non-essential, and could they succeed in proving that the showmen themselves consider it as such during the dog-days, a powerful weapon in their campaign against the industry would be placed at their disposal.

Particular attention is being paid to those exhibitors who, according to the records on file at the various Universal exchanges, are "winter showmen." To these men is being sent literature outlining the harm they are unwittingly doing to the industry. In addition to this, Universal is distributing circular matter which undertakes to disprove the fallacy that the moving picture patron ceases to care for picture entertainment during warm weather.

In a statement issued by Carl Laemmle, the head of Universal goes into details.

"Every theatre owner who closes his house for the summer—no matter for what reason he closes—is dealing a body blow to himself and to the whole moving picture industry," states Mr. Laemmle.

"Right now, when it is imperative that we demonstrate that moving pictures are essential, imagine the effect it must have upon the minds of government officials to learn that theatres are closing for the summer because the theatre owners do not think it is profitable to keep them open.

"The question of keeping theatres open this summer in particular is one that should be given the most serious consideration by every theatre owner. For that matter it deserves the same serious consideration on the part of the film producer whose duty it is to help the exhibitor who sees the matter in the right light, and to educate into better showmanship the man who doesn't think it worth while to keep open."

Strand Comedies Reported Renewed

The Southern California Producing Company, of which Scott Sidney is director general, has renewed the contract for 52 Strand Comedies, to feature Eleanor Fields, for Mutual.

Virginia Pearson, William Fox Star

Virginia Pearson, William Fox Star

The blood of our allies mingles with American blood in the veins of Virginia Pearson, for her mother was of French descent, her father of English descent, and her immediate ancestors pioneers in the early days of this country. As a result Miss Pearson feels her obligation as a representative American woman to typify in every action whether on or off the screen her patriotism, her loyalty and her democratic ideas.

She is a most versatile star, playing every sort of part from that of a girl of 16 to a woman of 50, with equal artistry and conviction. Her theory is that "character acting is the highest form of art," and what is more, she puts it into practice, unlike the majority of stars, who limit themselves to one particular type.

Miss Pearson feels that her study of psychoanalysis has given her an insight into human nature which is indispensable in portraying the widely different characters which she is called upon to visualize for the public on the screen.

She is proud to admit that though she played for two years with Robert Hilliard in "A Fool There Was" and was hailed at the time as "the great American actress of the future" she cast her lot with the pictures. Now, as she says, millions can witness her contribution to the world, while before only thousands could.

Despite such honors as being personally complimented by Ambassador Gerard on her patriotic speech at the dedication of the Israel Orphanage Asylum recently, and being presented by Mayor Hylan with a loving cup from her many admirers, who proclaimed her the screen queen of beauty, the recognition which pleased her most was the request to speak at the Forty-sixth Street school house, next to the Fox Film Corporation offices.

It seems that an afternoon a week is devoted to instructing the children in dramatic art by means of films. Miss Pearson has become the children's favorite and, in addition, has been pointed out as the actress who best typifies the highest art of expression.

MORE PRODUCERS' NEWS ON PAGES 442, 443 AND 444.

As Little Topsy In "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Marguerite Clark Will Fool You at First With Her Make-Up. But as Little Eva She Is Her Natural, Sweet Self. The Feature Is Released by Paramount

Jewel Makes Exception of "Geezer"

"The Geezer of Berlin," is the second short subject to find a place on the list of Jewel releases. The first was "The Sinking of the Lusitania."

In commenting upon this departure from the established policy of the Jewel company, Mr. Berman placed emphasis upon the fact that the organization does not intend to make a general practice of issuing short subjects. The two named were taken over because of their extraordinary merit from the novelty, and production standpoints, and in addition because of their timeliness.

According to Mr. Berman, work on prints of "The Geezer of Berlin" is now being rushed so that his organization's exchanges may be in a position to hold special showings for exhibitors at the earliest possible moment.

New Flagg Comedy Ready for Screen

"It's Greek to Us," the first of the "Sweethearts and Wives" series of James Montgomery Flagg comedies which are to be released under the Paramount trademark, has been completed at Mr. Flagg's studio in New York and will be scheduled for early presentation. It is further announced that the work of filming the second comedy of the series, "Romance in Brass Tacks," will be started immediately.

Martin Justice, recently of the Vitagraph Company, is directing the new series under the supervision of Jack Eaton, who made the "Girls You Know" series. Featured in "It's Greek to Us," is Peggy Hopkins.

Christie Comedies in South

It was announced from the Coast last week that the Christie Comedy Company has closed a distribution contract with the E. & H. Film Distributing Company, which has offices in the Moore Building, Atlanta, Ga. The E. & H. Company is the distributor for Christie Comedies for six southern states, as a result of the deal.

"Great Love" Set for August

Is First D. W. Griffith Production to Be Released Direct to Exhibitor in Several Years—Artcraft Handles It

D. W. GRIFFITH'S first production to be released via Artcraft, "The Great Love," has been scheduled for public presentation commencing early in August. The photoplay is now rapidly drawing to a close in California, and that it will be entirely finished well in advance of the release date seems assured.

This production marks the first D. W. Griffith cinema to be released direct to the exhibitor in several years. What is said to be one of the most notable casts ever assembled for a photoplay is presented, including Henry Walthall, Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, George Fawcett, George Siegmann, Rosemary Theby, Mansfield Stanley and Gloria Hope, together with many prominent members of English nobility, such as Queen Alexandra, Lady Diana Manners, Violet Asquith, Bettina Stuart-Wortley, the Countess Massarene and others.

In the making of "The Great Love," Mr. Griffith received the help and encouragement of Queen Alexandra and the leaders of social activities of London. The Queen graciously directed scenes in Lady Manners' country estate which has become a hospital for convalescent soldiers from the front. The picture in its entirety tells a beautiful love story, but its prime purpose is to show how war has leveled all ranks and awakened the so-called leisure classes of the British Empire to the need of their country, and with what splendid self-sacrifice they have put their shoulders collectively to the wheel, succoring the wounded, aiding the distressed dependents of the fighting heroes and otherwise aiding to the fullest extent of their time and money, the cause of humanity.

It is the first time, undoubtedly, save in occasional news weeklies, that the royalty and nobility of Great Britain have posed for the picture camera. The task that David Wark Griffith undertook in the filming of these pictures, that the world may see how the women of England have worked for the great cause, was stupendous.

In "The Great Love" will be a cast of distinguished professional players as already mentioned, but there will be the immense additional interest of seeing the titled women of Britain engaged in work that must have been utterly foreign to them before the war, side by side with their humbler sisters, all thought of caste distinction forgotten, devoting everything even their lives if need be, to the winning of the war which shall forever end the domination in Europe of an autocracy that is without a heart or soul.

Vitagraph Names Two August Productions

Two of the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon features for August, which were listed under the title they bear in story form and which titles were declared to be temporary, now have been definitely named for the screen.

"All Man," made from "Fiddler's Green," a Saturday Evening Post story by Donn Byrne and listed for release on August 5. Harry Morey is the star, with Betty Blythe featured in his support, and the play was made at the Vitagraph eastern studios under the direction of Paul Scardon.

"The Changing Woman," made from the O. Henry story, "A Matter of Mean Elevation." This is scheduled for release on August 19 and will present Hedda Nova and J. Frank Glendon, stars of "The Woman in the Web," serial, in their first Blue Ribbon feature as a starring combination.

In connection with the choosing of these final titles, Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, also announces that the title of "Dead Beats and Athletes," a Big V comedy featuring Montgomery and Rock and listed for release on August 26, has been changed to "Flappers and Friskies."

Vitagraph Serial Makes Record

Irwin Declares "A Fight for Millions" Surpasses All Serials of His Company in the Matter of Rapid Booking

WALTER W. IRWIN, general manager of Vitagraph distributing organization, declares that "A Fight for Millions," the new Vitagraph serial featuring William Duncan with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan, has established a new record in serial bookings for his company and, so far as he has been able to ascertain, for the whole industry.

Scheduled for release on July 15, the serial, Mr. Irwin says, was booked by approximately two thousand theatres ten days before that date, and the release date finds that figure increased by more than 15 per cent.

This record he attributes to two main reasons:

1. That Vitagraph's serials during the last year have proved such splendid box-office attractions for exhibitors that they eagerly await the arrival of each new serial from the company's studios.

2. That the serial is growing in popularity as an entertainment feature and that many high-class theatres which previously tabooed serials now are including them in their programs as regular units.

"A Fight for Millions," which was written by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, and Cyrus Townsend Brady, is the first chapter production to be released by Vitagraph under its new four-serial-a-year plan. Under this plan it is promised that the company will release four serials a year, with two companies alternating in them. One of these companies is to be headed by William Duncan, with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan, the other by Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway.

Included in the list of bookings are several big theatre circuits, among them the B. S. Moss Circuit in New York, Pantages in the West and Northwest, and the F. & H. Amusement Co. in Chicago. The Pantages circuit embraces theatres in many of the Pacific Coast and mountain states, houses being located in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Salt Lake, Denver, Minneapolis and Butte. The F. & H. Amusement Company has a chain of houses in cities continuous to Chicago, controlling the Orpheum theatre in Gary, Ind.; the Majestic in Springfield, Ill.; the Hippodrome in Terre Haute, Ind., and houses in Decatur, Ill., Champaign, Ill., Moline, Ill., Davenport, Ia. and Madison, Wis.

Mr. Irwin says that in the list of theatres which have booked "A Fight for Millions" there are many which never ran a serial before, and he attributes this to the excellence of the productions themselves. Likewise he says a large number of exhibitors who had abandoned serials have gone back to them since seeing "A Fight for Millions" and are among those who have booked it.

Rolfe to Star Harry Houdini

Escape King Will Be Presented in Serial Preliminary to Rolfe's Eight Features Each Year— Florence Reed Engaged

B. A. ROLFE, one of the pioneers in the production of motion pictures, has disposed of his various cinema connections and intends re-entering the field of screen drama at the head of a new company. Further speculation and rumor is now set at rest by Mr. Rolfe's first authentic intimation to the public and the trade of his future plans.

The motion picture impresario was seen at his offices in the Godfrey Building and said: "I have formed what will be known as the Rolfe Productions, Inc., to produce only high-class pictures to be known as super-specials and these only with established stars who are among the brightest and best in the firmament of screendom. We propose making eight of these super-specials a year and will offer several new policies in their manufacture and distribution that I believe will have a most positive appeal.

"But preceding the making of these special features, we will engage in the making of a serial exploiting the wonderful and world-famous Houdini, an announcement that should prove of special interest to the motion picture industry and the general public. I intend devoting all of my personal attention to the making of this important serial, which I believe will be an epoch-making one.

"The authors of the Houdini serial are leaders in the world of scenario writers. They are Arthur B. Reeve, creator of the widely read Craig Kennedy detective stories, and Charles A. Logue, both of whom have to their credit such serial successes as 'The House of Fear,' 'The Clutching Hand,' 'Exploits of Elaine,' etc. There will be ten episodes and work will begin about July 15. I cannot announce the complete cast yet, but it will be a notable one. It is the intention to make it a serial that will live long and be remembered.

"A feature of added interest will be the close-ups, which will show Houdini in escapes that have never before been done outside of a closed cabinet. In the serial action there will be an intimate view of some of his most difficult feats. Suspense is recognized as the chief factor in the success of a serial well told and screened, and I can say without contradiction that Mr. Houdini is acknowledged to be without a rival in creating this vital quality.

"For the first super-special feature Miss Florence Reed has been signed. We intend completing the serial and the super-special in the East. After that the company will move to California, where the winter will be devoted to other big features."

FOR A PERMANENT AMERICAN EXPOSITION

Paul H. Cromelin, of Inter-Ocean, Says the Following:

LET'S settle the question of holding expositions in war time by having a permanent American film exposition.

Let this exposition herald the value of our pictures to all the world. Let it pound "American picture perfection" into the minds of all peoples, in all lands.

Let it get over the American idea so convincingly that that idea will never be again misunderstood in a foreign clime.

What kind of permanent American exposition will do this? Why, the films themselves! Make them clean, make them strong, let them represent virile men and women in virile accomplishments. Good technical detail, good photography, good direction—all are essential to the success of the permanent exposition.

The world war will not last forever, and the peace-time battle for the world's markets will recommence some time. Let the American films of today be their own quality-promise for the future.

Blackton Plans Star Series for Fall Release

J. Stuart Blackton, president of Blackton Productions, Inc., has completed arrangements for the production of a special star-series of independent features. Mr. Blackton has produced, within the past year, a series of four pictures, adapted from the works of well-known authors, including Sir Gilbert Parker's novels, "The Judgment House," "The World for Sale" and "Wild Youth," and Mrs. Humphrey Ward's novel, "Missing," his latest production for the Paramount program.

Mr. Blackton's next series of specials, including the war play which he is to produce under the auspices of the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission and for which he is now casting, is to be presented with a popular star featured in each production. But a big name and the word "in" will precede the title of the play. Then Commodore Blackton will compare notes.

The title for the play has not yet been definitely decided, nor has the name of the feminine star who will be featured in the production been announced.

Anthony P. Kelly, author of a long list of screen successes, is completing the scenario which reveals a plot greatly elaborated by himself and Mr. Blackton. It is planned to complete the picture for early fall showing.

The Goldwyn Directing Staff Consists of Hobart Henley, Charles Giblyn, George Irving, Reginald Barker, and Clarence G. Badger

Fox Celebrates Luck in Shipping Films

The first anniversary of the landing of American troops in France reminded the Foreign Department of the Fox Film Corporation that, despite all the perils of ocean traffic across the Atlantic, not a single Fox film has yet fallen prey to the German marauders of the deep. Exchanges in England, Spain and South America all have reported that their shipments have arrived on time and in good condition.

Considerable difficulty has been experienced by the Fox Foreign Department in getting its films shipped promptly, but the department is taking every precaution to keep Fox branches all over the world far enough in advance in their shipments to take care of any emergency.

The Foreign Department of the Fox Film Corporation, recently was obliged to enlarge its office space at the home office of the corporation at 130 West Forty-sixth street. The department now has practically an entire floor, the executive offices leading off from a beautifully furnished reception room.

This enlargement has been made compulsory by the great increase in the corporation's trade abroad. In addition to the flourishing trade already established in Africa, Australia and various countries of Europe, special drives are now under way in South America and the Far East.

Vitagraph's New Serial Well Along

Work is already well started on the Vitagraph serial in which Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway are to be featured, according to Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph company. Mr. Moreno arrived at the company's studios in Hollywood the the last week in June and plans for starting work, under the direction of Paul Hurst, were so well laid that not much time was lost in getting under way.

In this serial a large number of the players who figured in "The Woman in the Web," the greater portion of which was directed by Mr. Hurst, will be used. The cast, as announced by Albert E. Smith, will include among the principal players Chet Ryan, brother of Joe Ryan and a noted rider, Barney Furey and Frank Jonasson.

The theme of the new serial is being kept a secret by the authors, Mr. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady, but the former states that the role assigned to Mr. Moreno and Miss Holloway are such that they will both have plenty of opportunity for many feats of daring.

Goldwyn Points to Directors

Barker, Henley, Irving, Giblyn and Badger Each Master of His Craft — Responsible for Measure of Success

GOLDWYN Pictures begins its second releasing year the first week in September with a roster of directors to which it points with pride. In making a statement this week to Motion Picture News concerning these directors and their part in Goldwyn features, an official of the organization said:

"Nowhere in the industry is there to be found under the banner of one producing company a group of technicians so capable of supervising the making of motion pictures of the quality standard set by this newest of factors in the industry.

"Reginald Barker, Hobart Henley, George Irving, Charles Giblyn and Clarence G. Badger are five names to conjure with in picture production. Each is a master of his craft, each in the forefront of his profession.

"Reginald Barker has come to Goldwyn with a brilliant record of achievement in other fields.

"Hobart Henley has gained nation-wide fame under the Goldwyn trade-mark as director of Mae Marsh. Many directors have tried with mediocre success to transmit the elusive, almost intangible personality of this star to the finished film; almost as many have failed. Not so Hobart Henley. From the beginning of their association in Goldwyn, Mae Marsh and Hobart Henley seemed to understand each other thoroughly with the result that her successes are in a great measure his successes too.

"Clarence C. Badger has directed three productions for Goldwyn, all with signal success. His first. 'The Floor Below,' a Mabel Normand starring vehicle, though highly successful everywhere, was exceeded in popularity by the same star's succeeding picture, 'The Venus Model,' just now at the height of its run throughout the country. Following these two he directed Madge Kennedy's new picture, 'Friend Husband,' now completed and to be released August 11.

"George Irving made his Goldwyn bow as director for Mabel Normand in 'Back to the Woods' following an eminently successful career in the service of other producing companies. Goldwyn is certain that his work in this production will prove anew to the admirers of his technical skill that no mistake was made in selecting him to supervise it.

"Charles Giblyn's enviable record with other stars promises to be further enhanced by his work with Tom Moore, Goldwyn's newest luminary, in the first production this new masculine star has made for this company. To the thousands who know Mr. Giblyn's work it is enough to say he surpasses himself in this production.

General Reports "Hypocrites" Inquiries

THE announcement that General Film Company would take over the distribution of the George Loane Tucker feature, "The Hypocrites," has been followed with a flood of bookings and inquiries in many parts of the country, General reports. From indications at hand it is expected that this feature production, which is declared to be the best work yet done by George Loane Tucker, will score a tremendous success, especially in the larger cities of the country where the advertising value of the name of the producer is fully appreciated by showmen. Bookings in such cities as New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit and Washington have been unusually heavy, General exchanges state, and there is no apparent let-up in the inquiries from exhibitors.

Preparations have been made by General Film to place an intensive sales campaign back of the production which officials of the company believe is due the photoplay because of its great artistic merit and high entertainment qualities. This is said to be one of the few cases in filmdom where a rare combination of producer, star and story merit has been achieved. Elizabeth Risdon, the star, is already a big drawing card, and in this production, which is based on the famous stage play of the same name by Sir Henry Arthur Jones, is expected to score the greatest hit of her career. Exhibitors have been keen to appreciate the tremendous advertising asset of this triple combination and are putting their most skillful showmanship back of the picture which the company expects will meet with still further appreciation.

Bigger Today Than Ever Before

"THE KAISER"

"The Beast of Berlin"

WITH the smashing Italian victory, plus a million of our irresistible fighters on the battle-front, "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin," has doubled and tripled in value. Positively BIGGER TODAY THAN EVER, and admitted by thousands of Exhibitors to be the most amazing money-getter since picture-making began. There is

No Picture like it in the Whole World's Market

From every corner of the Nation—trade press, newspapers, critics and millions of people—has come an avalanche of praise of this huge masterpiece. As propaganda, it smashes every precedent—as thrilling dramatics, it will stand for years untouched—evidence that JEWEL accepts nothing but the very biggest in money-getting attractions.

"It's a Jewel Production"

Simply Pouring Money in Exhibitors' Pockets

"THE KAISER"

"The Beast of Berlin"

SIMPLY amazing have been the receipts on "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin." Records of actual cash taken in on every-length runs of big productions, up to a week and two weeks, have been smashed, obliterated, annihilated shattered into smithereens!

Has put hundreds of Exhibitors on Easy Street

Hundreds of Exhibitors who have been only drilling along have suddenly made enough money with "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin," to put them on Easy Street. It has brought home a first bank-roll to scores who never dreamed that so much money could be netted on any picture. Many have already played it three times—and we can show you money records challenging credulity, yet every record is TRUE—with facts and figures to back it up.

"It's a Jewel Production"

Colossal Publicity Backs "THE KAISER"

"The Beast of Berlin"

PUBLICITY in staggering volume has flooded the Nation on "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin." Papers heretofore hidebound and conservative have thrown their columns wide open on this production. Publicity from quarters never heard of before has deluged the JEWEL Offices—advertising this huge triumph to every man, woman and child in the United States.

No picture Ever Produced even Begins to Approach the Publicity given "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin."

This means every word it says. Exhibitors who never dreamed of paying the price have thanked us in letters of congratulation for insisting that they book it, paying the highest prices in the history of the business for a picture of this length.

"It's a Jewel Production"

Book the Original and Only Proven Winner

"THE KAISER"

"The Beast of Berlin"

IMITATORS, watching every move of JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, have tried in vain to copy this picture's points of pulling power. Copy-cats, realizing the simply unheard-of cash business of "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin," are now offering the "Just-as-good"—"The nearly-like-it"—the substitute. Yet not one has come within miles of "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin." And Exhibitors have not been caught by the "just-as-good" conversation. To a man they still say that—

The Original still Stands Supreme as the Most Amazing Money-Getter of the Age

We have mountains of letters on the almost unbelievable sums of money taken in on "The KAISER, the Beast of Berlin." Scores have played it two, three and four times—many, for a full week on REPEAT. Exhibitors themselves have even sold this production to brother Exhibitors. Your nearest JEWEL Exchange will tell you more—loads more. Wire today for booking—and demand repeat booking dates later.

"It's a Jewel Production"

Lyons-Moran Star-Comedies

— make the world shake with laughter

LYONS-MORAN Star Comedies have become the fixed weekly habit in hundreds of theatres all over the country. The demand for clean, high class comedies never ceases and Lyons-Moran Comedies have done more for Exhibitors to fill the long-felt want than any comedies ever produced. Sparkling to a degree of brilliance—snappy, clever and distinctly superior in every detail, these Lyons-Moran Star Comedies are booking like wildfire. Go see a few at your nearest Exchange. The comedies themselves are their own best advertisements. You'll book 'em if you see them. Biggest and best comedy attractions on the market, bar none.

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO., Largest Film Mn'fg. Co. in the Universe. Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 Broadway, New York

"Here you big stiff—do yourself a favor"

(ONE OF THE PATHETIC SCENES from)

"The GEEZER OF BERLIN"

A TRAVESTY on "THE KAISER—The Beast of Berlin"

The Bathing Beauties of the Fox-Lehrman Sunshine Comedies Would Look Well on the Beach at Coney Island—But We Fear the Censors Would Object

Maigne Well Represented on Broadway

The current bill at the Rivoli theatre, New York, discloses two pictures concerning the production of which Charles Maigne, a well known scenarioist, had a very important hand. One of these is the Artcraft feature, "The Danger Mark," featuring Elsie Ferguson. Mr. Maigne, who has adapted all the Ferguson pictures for the screen made the scenario for this from the novel by Robert W. Chambers.

The other, however, is quite a departure from this writer's usual line of endeavor. It is "The Quest of the Big Un," a one-reel scenic-comedy released by the Educational Films Corporation. This was directed by Mr. Maigne. Only recently he enjoyed a vacation in the Catskill mountains and for two weeks forgot scenario writing for trout fishing. But Mr. Maigne, being a business man and an artist as well as a fisherman, took a camera man along with him, wrote a little sketch around the catching of a trout that is human enough to appeal to all and returned with a thousand feet of film which he placed with the Educational. Judging from reports from this company Mr. Maigne can go on many more fishing trips in the future, charging expenses to "The Quest of the Big 'Un."

"Wedlock" Louise Glaum's Third

"Wedlock," Louise Glaum's latest production, is the third Paralta play in which this star has appeared. As with the two preceding ones, "An Alien Enemy" and "Shackled," this picture was directed by Wallace Worsley, who has been given credit for mounting Miss Glaum's production in a most lavish manner with every thought to the smallest detail.

"Wedlock" is an original story from the pen of Denison Slift, who has contributed many stories of the silent drama and in this play he has furnished Miss Glaum with an entirely different kind of role from anything in which she has heretofore appeared.

Sally Crute, In Screen Classics, Inc., Production of "L'Occident," Starring Nazimova. Metro Releases It

Two Universal Serials Progress Nicely

Such satisfactory progress has been made upon the production work of two Universal's forthcoming serials that long before the dates set for their release, both will have been entirely completed and distributed among that company's exchanges.

The serials are "Brass Bullet," and "The Lure of the Circus." The former features Juanita Hansen and Jack Mulhall, while the second will be the vehicle in which Eddie Polo will display his athletic ability.

"The Brass Bullet," will be the first of Universal's 1918-1919 thrillers and is scheduled to be shown at the first run theatres commencing with August 15. The story will be told in eighteen two-reel episodes. The cast engaged for this serial includes, beside the principal players such sterling performers as Charles Mailes, Helen Wright, Charles Force, Hal Cooley, Joseph Girard and Ashton Dearholt.

As "The Lure of the Circus" indicates, the Eddie Polo story will be a circus serial. As a matter of fact, this Universal Player was formerly a circus acrobat and it was because of his work with a big tanbark aggregation that he attracted the attention of Universal officials.

Although no definite release date for "The Lure of the Circus" has as yet been set, it will follow closely upon the heels of "The Brass Bullet."

Newspapers Help Pathe

More than fifty newspapers throughout the Uuited States are now co-operating with Pathe and the Post Film Company in the exhibition of the Post Travel Series. The numbers to be released this summer are No. 6, "East Indians of Trinidad"; No. 7, "East Indians of British Guiana;" No. 8, "Venezuela;" No. 9, "La Guiara to Caracas." There are fifty subjuects in all to be released.

Helen Gibson, In "The Pay-Roll Express," Two-Reel Universal Drama

Davies Film Started in Washington

Work on the second picture Marion Davies is making for her Select Pictures series, started this week in Washington, to which city Miss Davies, accompanied by the members of her company, and Julius Steger, under whose supervision and direction the picture will be made, went recently.

The subject in which Marion Davies will be presented following "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," is said to be a down-to-the-minute story of romance, intrigue, and international politics. The action takes place in the present year, and the settings are laid entirely in American cities, Newport and Washington being the locale of most of the scenes. "The Burden of Proof" is the title which has been given this story, which has been prepared for the screen by S. M. Weller, who also did the screen version of "Cecilia of the Pink Roses."

Julius Steger, who is in complete charge of the production, will be assisted in the filming of "The Burden of Proof" by John G. Adolphi. Andre R. Barlartier, who photographed "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," will also do the camera work for the new production. Miss Davies' leading man will be John Merkyle, who is well remembered for his fine work in roles opposite Ethel Barrymore, and also as leading man for Marguerite Clark. One of the most prominent characters in the picture will be played by L. Rogers Lytton, well remembered for the role which he created in "The Battle Cry of Peace." Mr. Lytton will portray another one of these characters, such as are often termed "Rogers Lytton roles." Other members of the cast are to be announced later.

Geraldine Farrar, Star in Goldwyn Pictures

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle Is "Some" Nurse In "Good-Night, Nurse," a Paramount-Arbuckle Comedy

Brunton Tries Out New Method

Maintains Full Equipment at Studio for Companies to Make Pictures —Furnishes Everything But the Stars

AN innovation in the method of picture production in the motion picture industry is now being carried on at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles. There seems no doubt that it will be a material step toward the making of better class pictures, and toward an efficiency that will enable bigger, better productions to be filmed for less expenditure.

The Robert Brunton Studio, owned and controlled by Robert Brunton under the name, "Robert Brunton Company," is a producing concern strictly. No stars or feature people are maintained by the organization; the object of which is to furnish the producing facilities of a large and finely-equipped studio to any star or company, under any one of several desirable arrangements.

Casting directors and a full bureau of employment are maintained to supply companies producing there with stock actors, character actors, and extra people available on the California market, according to the requirements of each picture. The studio has one of the largest assortments of properties, and efficient property and technical organization, of any in existence. A branch of the property organization includes carpenter, machine, and art shops where properties of all descriptions are made according to the special requirements of the individual picture.

The technical and artistic details of the productions will be given the personal supervision of Mr. Brunton. A transportation and garage service is another feature of the organization; and the procuring of locations, under the management of a location director, will be carried on by the studio.

A number of large glass and open stages, furnished with the most modern and efficient equipment in the way of diffuser systems, artificial lighting, and arrangements for various effects, will accommodate many companies. Dressing rooms for the stars and actors, modern office for the studio headquarters of the producing companies, and even clerical services, stenographers and authors are part of the facilities which can be furnished under this plan.

The companies which have so far taken advantage of this or a similar arrangement include those of the Pathe feature stars: Bryant Washburn, Bessie Love and Frank Keenan; Paralta companies of Bessie Barriscale, Louise Glaum and J. Warren Kerrigan, the Mastercraft Photoplay corporation producing the works of Thomas Dixon, and the Haworth company with Sessue Hayakawa.

Pathe Avoids "Heavy Stuff" for Summer

PATHE announced this week that the plan for summer programs will be devoid of all "heavy stuff."

The features to be released in July and August are for the most part light comedies, although there are two serious plays on the list.

The program for the summer will include "Annexing Bill," with Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale; "More Trouble," with Frank Keenan; "Cupid by Proxy," with Baby Marie Osborne; "The First Law," with Irene Castle and Antonio Moreno; "Waifs," with Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale; "The Ghost of the Rancho," with Bryant Washburn, Rhea Mitchell and a fine company; "Winning Grandma," with Baby Marie Osborne and "The Girl from Bohemia" with Irene Castle.

"The Girl from Bohemia" will be released on August 25, and it is a rather notable Pathe play for the reason that it may mean the marking of Irene Castle's permanent retirement from the screen.

There will be another feature play released on the program for the week of September 1, it is announced, but for the week of September 8 the fall season will be inducted with a big special, "The Woman Eternal," starring Miss Elaine Hammerstein.

Diando Serial Hits Good Clip

Seven of the Fifteen Episodes Have Been Completed—Company Buys Fifty Acres for Exterior Locations

WORK on the serial entitled, "The Wolf-faced Man," written by W. A. S. Douglas and Lucien Hubbard, that Diando is producing for Pathe is going along at a fast clip. Already seven of the fifteen episodes have been completed, and at a showing the other evening in the studio projection room, all that witnessed the picture expressed complete satisfaction that the result of the many months' work that has been spent upon it. It contains an entirely new idea in serial production and exhibitors are promised a real money-getter when it is released.

Recently a tract of fifty acres near Glendale was secured by the Diando company for the exterior locations. It is located about a mile from the studio and was selected because of the natural manner in which the rugged scenery synchronized with the plot of the story.

Workmen have erected a two-story log house, together with bunk houses, stables, corrals and a temporary stage. The buildings have been put up in such a manner that interiors of the buildings can be taken right at the location. A special lighting system has been installed on the grounds where the special lighting effects can be adequately taken care of. This arrangement will be the means of saving much time in the transportation of the company from the studio to the ranch.

The cast of the story is practically an all-star one. It is headed by George Larkin and Betty Compson. Larkin's career as a picture star is a thrilling one. When it comes to daredevil stunts Larkin is without a peer and the part he plays in this serial is one just to his liking. He is playing the part of an United States Secret Service agent. Betty Compson, the feminine star, is well known for her clever work in many of the Christie comedies. She is cast as a typical Western girl, and the manner in which she has adapted herself to this "Wild and Wooly" Western riding part has surprised her greatest admirers. Ora Carew, who headed her own company at the Keystone Studio for a long time, is the "vamp." She also quickly grasped the change from comedy to Western, and her part promises to be one of the shining lights of the serial. Horace B. Carpenter, former Lasky leading man, and who played one of the principal parts in the Selig serial many years ago, "The Adventures of Kathlyn," is playing the title role.

Other well-known picture artists included in the personnel of the cast are Fred. Malatesta, Joseph Franz, William Quinn and Harry O'Connor.

The direction is by Stuart Paton, the man who has been responsible for many successful serial and feature productions. Paton was formerly with the Universal and it was he who directed "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "The Gray Ghost" and "The Voice on the Wire."

Essanay Issues Broncho Billy New List

THE revivified Broncho Billy dramas are said to have proved so popular that Essanay has decided to issue a third block of ten pictures. These one-reel dramas of the western hills and plains, which have been called little classics of the screen by Essanay, are booking at a rapid rate according to the George Kleine System, through which they are being released.

Exhibitors declare, Essanay says, that these dramas have filled a long felt want. However, these are not only being used as program fillers, but in scores of instances as the big event of the night. This is shown not only by what the exhibitors have written to Essanay and the George Kleine offices but by the amount of paper being used. It has been necessary to get out a full line of paper for these one-reel subjects and just as many one and three-sheets have been used to advertise the plays as for the features.

The majority of exhibitors using these subjects are booking them one each week and advertising them for a certain night. They have reported a large attendance on these nights, the public enjoying the thrilling plots as much as they enjoy the more pretentious features.

This third block will bring before the public thirty Broncho Billy pictures now ready for release. The third series will start July 19 and will be issued once a week thereafter. This block includes ten pictures. The first release is "Broncho Billy and the Gambler," followed by "Broncho Billy Butts In," "Broncho Billy, Vagabond," "Broncho Billy, Favorite," "Broncho Billy's Punishment," "Broncho Billy and the Claim Jumper," "Broncho Billy and the Sheriff's Office,"

"Broncho Billy Butts In" Is One of the Revivified Anderson Dramas Reissued by Essanay

J. Warren Kerrigan, Now Under the Management of Jesse D. Hampton

Famous Players Schedule in Full Swing

The schedule of productions at the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's West Coast studios for the present summer is now in full swing, having been satisfactorily adjusted after various necessary alterations in the original line-up.

Donald Crisp is now at work with Fred Stone, in his first Paramount picture, "Under the Top," and is progressing rapidly.

George Melford has completed "The Source," with Wallace Reid and company, Ann Little being Mr. Reid's leading woman, and has already started work on "The Cruise of the Make-Believe," with Lila Lee.

Ethel Clayton starts work very shortly on her first Paramount offering, adapted from a famous play, and will be directed by Robert G. Vignola, who was recalled while on his way to New York after having reached Albany. Mary Pickford is at work already on "The Mobilizing of Johanna," a semi-military picture, under William D. Taylor's direction. Bryant Washburn, hero of the "Skinner" series, is to appear in one of the leading roles of Cecil B. De Mille's new picture for Artcraft, which is being written by Jeanie MacPherson, prior to starting his first Paramount picture.

At the Ince studio, Enid Bennett has completed "Coals of Fire" and is starting work on a new one, as yet unnamed, which is partially laid in Hawaii. Charles Ray is getting on splendidly with "String Beans." William S. Hart, at his own studio, is completing "Riddle Gawne" and will soon start a new one.

Roscoe Arbuckle has begun a new comedy and at the Mack Sennett laugh-making films are coming through twice a month with becoming speed.

The Picture that will never have a Competitor.

—will burn in your brain forever!

"The SINKING OF THE LUSITANIA"

Winsor McCay's Blood Stirring Pen Picture ——— the World's Only Record of the Crime that Shocked Humanity.

In this one reel is more human drama—more excitement—more pathos—more to look at and more to think about—more to thrill over and more to talk about than there is in any ten ordinary features of seven reels each.

Give your people this supremely wonderful reproduction, absolutely accurate to the uttermost detail and they will never forget the picture—nor the place where they saw it. Book it as you would book another "KAISER."

JEWEL Productions INC
1600 Broadway, New York City

Gloria Hope, in "The Great Love," Griffith-Artcraft Special

Metro Claims Strong Cast for Wehlen

Maxwell Karger, manager of productions at the Metro Sixty-first Street studio, having selected "His Bonded Wife," a five-act romance by Lois and Arthur Zellner, as the first starring subject for Emmy Wehlen after her vacation, he next appointed Charles J. Brabin as her director, with Alfred Raboch as assistant.

Mr. Brabin spared neither time nor energy during this past week in the selection of a cast to surround Miss Wehlen and best enact the interesting characters of "His Bonded Wife."

Creighton Hale will play the role opposite to that of Miss Wehlen.

Miss Wehlen's sister will be played by Warda Howard, who has just finished a stock engagement and who also makes her debut with Metro in "His Bonded Wife."

Miss Wehlen's cast includes a Metro favorite of two years, none other than Frank Currier. In fact, ever since he was engaged by George D. Baker for their feature, "The Wager," he has been with Metro.

New Snakeville Issued

"A Snakeville Epidemic," the ninth of the second series of Snakeville comedy reissues, is being distributed this week by General Film. This is said to be one of the funniest of the series to date, and wide popularity is predicted for it. Following this will come "Sophie's Birthday Party."

About New Pictures

"Over the Top," Vitagraph's famous war special with Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey, is to be shown to Uncle Sam's soldiers in all of the National Army camps, according to a statement issued this week by Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization.

Director Edward Jose has completed the production of Mme. Lina Cavalieri's second picture for Paramount, "A Woman of Impulse," at the Fort Lee studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and the work of cutting and assembling the film, preparatory for release some time in the early autumn, is now under way.

Goldwyn's intention to surround Geraldine Farrar with all-star casts in each of her Goldwyn productions is given further proof with the news that Milton Sills will be Miss Farrar's leading man in her second production.

The final scenes for "Riddle Gawne" are being made by William S. Hart at Chatsworth Park, fifty miles from Hollywood, the interiors having been completed. The entire film will soon be ready for cutting and assembling. This picture winds up the first year of Bill Hart's Artcraft contract.

Anna Q. Nilsson's eyes play an exceedingly important part in the Metro production tentatively titled "In Judgment Of," featuring Miss Nilsson and Franklyn Farnum, supported by an all-star cast.

Surrounded with the usual secrecy, with doors locked and keyholes stuffed, "Salome" underwent its first unreeling in one of the projection rooms of the Fox general offices on Forty-sixth street, last week.

Two faces new to Paramount, will be seen in the next Sessue Hayakawa, "The City of Dim Faces," written by Frances Marion and directed by George Melford. These are Marin Sais, well known to screen patrons for her Western characterizations in other films, and Doris Pawn.

From Jewel Productions, Inc., comes the information that the widely-heralded comedy, "The Geezer of Berlin," has been completed, titled and viewed by the Film Committee which passes upon all features intended for distribution by that company, and will be released during the summer.

Wallace Reid goes under the direction of Walter Edwards this week, at the Morosco studios, supported by Ann Little and a good cast. The title of Reid's new picture is "Broken Threads."

The doubling of an actor in a scene is an old story to film folk, but it was left for Essanay to double with a dog. This is done in the George K. Spoor feature, "Young America," now being produced at the Essanay studios in Chicago.

Vivian Martin is announced in a new production entitled "Her Country First," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, with the scenario by Edith Kennedy. James Young directed the picture and the photography is by Frank Garbutt.

Production has started at the Bluebird West Coast studios on Monroe Salisbury's newest outdoor photoplay, to be made from Bess Meredyth's French-Canadian story, "That Devil Batesse." It will be directed by William Wolbert, former Vitagraph director.

A "Hudson Bay trading post" was erected recently, at Bedford, New York, as a background for the Metro Star, Edith Storey, in her forthcoming five-act feature photodrama, a story of the north woods by Lois Zellner. It is being produced under the working title of "Shadows and Substance."

June Caprice, Presented by William Fox In "Miss Innocence"

Mutual Publicity Moves to Broadway

The publicity and advertising departments of the Mutual Film Corporation have moved into quarters adjoining the New York exchange at 1600 Broadway. The rest of the executive offices remain at 220 South State street, Chicago, where Mutual moved two years ago.

The change was upon orders of James M. Sheldon, the new president of Mutual, who decided that Mutual should have an executive office in New York. He added Screen Telegram, Mutual's twice a week news reel, to the responsibilities of Terry Ramsaye, Director of Publicity, and told him to pack his various departments off to New York.

Mr. Ramsaye has been in New York for several weeks in connection with his new duties and he was joined last week by Colvin W. Brown, advertising manager of the Mutual, and Arthur James Pegler, special publicity writer.

Lucas Directs Allison for Metro

Wilfred Lucas has been engaged by Metro to direct May Allison in her fourth Metro production since she became a star in her own right. His stage career was one of achievement and he successfully directed as well as acted in "The Heir to the Hoorah," and "The Chorus Lady." He will also be remembered in "Quo Vadis," in which he was featured for two years.

Star Laurel in Pathe Comedy

Rolin studios are trying out a comedy in which Stan Laurel, an English comedian is playing the chief role. Just what plans Rolin has in mind, have not been made public, although it is assumed that the first Laurel comedy will be sent forward to Pathe in New York at the earliest moment for a "once-over" by the famous "Board of Fifteen," which decides the fate of all pictures that go through Pathe channels.

Tom Moore, Mabel Normand, Madge Kennedy, Rex Beach and Mae Marsh Are All Concerned in the Excellent Quality of Goldwyn Products, from Scenario to Acting

"Highest Bidder" Comes on July 22

The Vitagraph program of releases scheduled by Albert E. Smith, president of the company, for the week of July 22, is announced by him as follows:

Blue Ribbon feature—five parts—"To the Highest Bidder," featuring Alice Joyce. Adapted from the novel of the same name by Florence Morse Kingsley. Directed by Tom Terriss.

Serial—two parts—"Flames of Peril," Episode No. 2 of "A Fight for Millions," featuring William Duncan with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by William Duncan.

Big V Comedy—one part—"Bathing Beauties and Big Boobs," featuring Lawrence Semon. Written and directed by Lawrence Semon.

Vitagraph Drew Comedy—one part—"The Cub and the Daisy Chain," featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

This Sounds Good!

One reelers released by Pathe for Rolin, with Toto starred, will be as follows this summer: July 28, "Beach Nuts"; August 11, "Do Husbands Deceive?"; August 25, "Nipped in the Bud"; September 8, "The Dippy Daughter."

Roy Stewart, Triangle's Western Hero, in His New Palm Beach and Panama

Nagging Led Parsons to Screen

Thinks His Success Will Make Up for That Fact, However—Does Not Interfere with Other Capacities

"WILLIAM H. PARSONS' willingness to take a chance," said Goldwyn to MOTION PICTURE NEWS this week in announcing its plans of procedure for the coming year, "is responsible for the presence on the screen in first-run theatres in large cities of a new comedian who bids fair to outshine in popularity those who have preceded him or who are contemporary with him. For William H. (Smiling Bill) Parsons was literally nagged into becoming a funny man for the fans of the country.

"Time was—and a bare six months ago, too—when Bill Parsons was producing pictures of dramatic subjects. He was then—and still is, for that matter—president of the National Film Corporation of America. He had given up selling insurance to try his hand at cinema producing, at which he promptly made a success that convinced him he had been wasting his time trying to persuade men of big affairs that their families never, never could make ends meet if they were left a paltry hundred thousand or two in insurance.

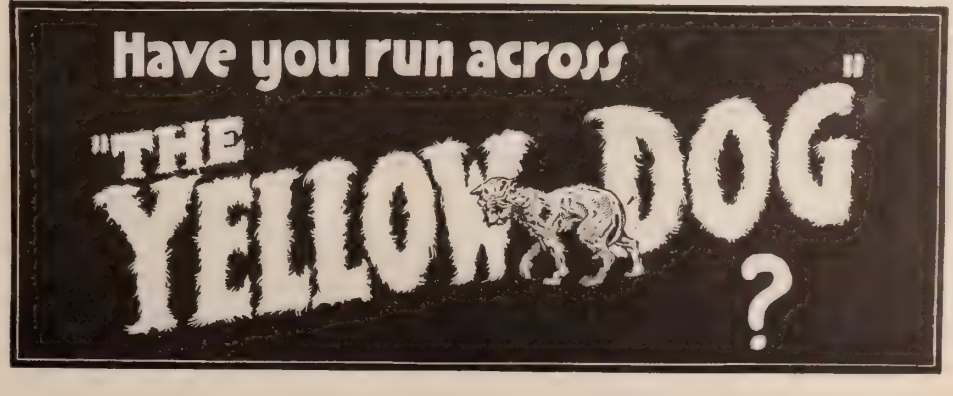
"But somebody said to Bill Parsons one day that he ought to look awfully funny on the screen—that his comically bald head, his smile and his portly presence would make a whole lot of people laugh. Bill merely smiled and reached for another scenario from the batch he was considering for a prospective big spectacular production. Pretty soon Bill's friends got to talking among themselves about his screen possibilities as a comedian, and before he knew it they had evolved a plot to entice him to a studio and there to 'shoot' him with a motion picture camera in a little funny story they had prepared for the purpose.

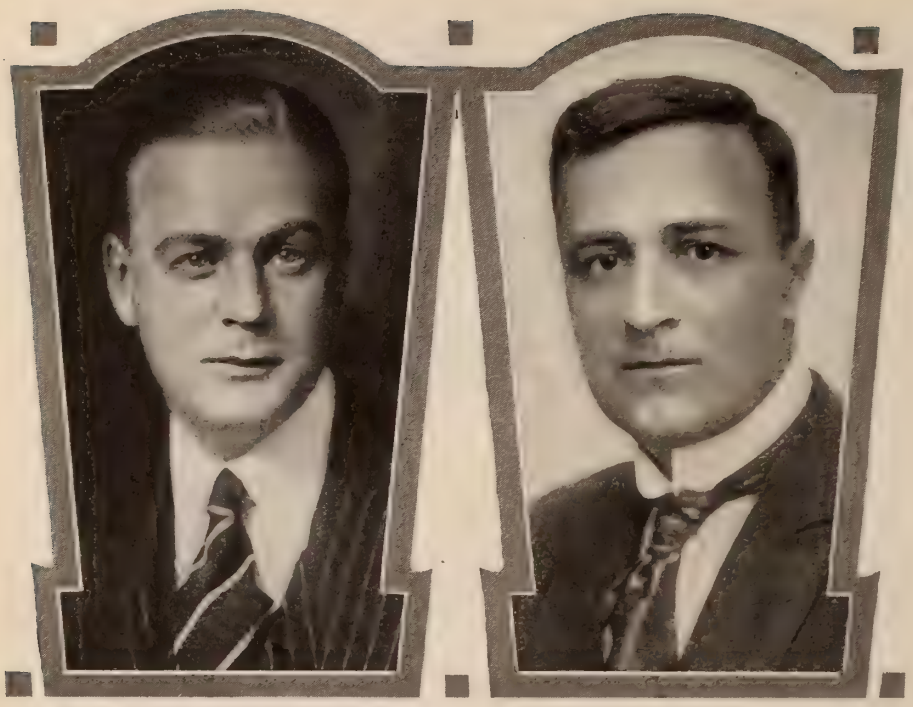
"Parsons didn't need a whole lot of coaxing. His sense of humor, always genuine and as wide as his smile, told him that he could have some fun at the expense of his solicitous associates. Besides, he thought it would be good sport to see himself in a motion picture, thereby giving evidence of a weakness few mortals can deny. So he fell in with the schemers and let them work on their little theory. He posed for his first motion picture.

"And that settled it. The National Film Corporation of America, William H. Parsons, president, forthwith contracted with the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation for the release of twenty-six comedies starring 'Smiling Bill' Parsons, comedian. Those were named Capitol Comedies. First-run exhibitors looked at 'Bill's Baby' and 'Bill's Predicament,' the first of the series, and promptly booked the output for the initial year."

Triangle Changes Title

It has been announced by Triangle Distributing Corporation that the title, "Woman of Mystery," the second Triangle release for the week of July 21, featuring Alma Rubens, has been changed to "False Ambition."





Huntley Gordon Is to Be Opposite Ethel Barrymore In a New Metro Picture. Wilfred Lucas Has Been Engaged to Direct May Allison

Metro Points to Cast in "Kaiser" Film

THE long list of names which appears in the cast of the latest Screen Classics, Inc., super-feature, "To Hell With the Kaiser," which is now running at the Broadway theatre in New York, is said by Metro to be noteworthy for the carefulness with which every player was chosen for the appointed character he or she was to play. No expense or pains was spared in the selection of these artists and consequently George Irving, who directed the picture, had one of the most exceptional aggregations of players ever assembled for one production, Metro says.

The part of the Kaiser, which is the most important in the production, was played by Lawrence Grant. Not only is Mr. Grant an actor of international distinction, but he is also a noted traveler and lecturer, and an acknowledged authority on the American Indian.

Olive Tell plays the jart of the young American girl, Alice Monroe. Miss Tell is a former Frohman star and was playing with Henry Miller in his production of "The Fountain of Youth," when she was especially engaged to play the American heroine in "To Hell With the Kaiser."

The part of the young American aviator is played by John Sunderland. Mr. Sunderland is particularly fitted for the part assigned to him as he has sen service in this capacity in the Belgian army, and only left the front when he was severely wounded. Betty Howe plays the part of Ruth Monroe.

Frank Currier plays Professor Monroe.

Metro Engages Players

Manager of productions, Maxwell Karger, this week appointed Harry L. Franklin to direct and cast Emily Stevens' current subject, "Kildare of Storm."

Mr. Franklin's first step toward surrounding Miss Stevens with an acting company was in securing King Baggot to play opposite Miss Stevens in the role of Kildare. This will be Mr. Baggot's initial picture for Metro.

Mr. Karger also obtained two new stars for Metro, Olive Tell, and Hale Hamilton. Both Miss Tell and Mr. Hamilton will each head their own companies which will later be selected by Mr. Karger, and both will begin work shortly under Mr. Karger's personal supervision.

Pathe Takes American Feature Pictures

FURTHER details of the American-Pathe arrangement in regard to distribution, exclusive news of which was published last week in Motion Picture News on page 196 were made known this week by Pathe.

In a statement to Motion Picture News, Pathe advises that it will release a minimum of 24 feature pictures for American yearly. The new contracts were signed by Paul Brunet, vice president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., and Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company.

"I take great pleasure in making public announcement of the new alliance," said Mr. Hutchinson when interviewed at his office at 6227 Broadway, Chicago. "Naturally the question as to through what channels our pictures were to be released received the most serious consideration from us when we decided it to be advantageous to terminate our former arrangements. We came to our decision after a most careful consideration of the entire motion picture field."

It will be remembered that the recent announcement of President Samuel S. Hutchinson of the American revealed the fact that the American would in the first place deal direct with the exhibitor; secondly, that Mr. Hutchinson's personal representatives would be placed in all required distributing centers throughout the country; thirdly that every American production would be placed in the hands of these representatives sixty days before release, thus permitting the booking of the pictures after personal inspection by exhibitors, and fourthly that the American would make no more program features but would confine its efforts to the making of multiple reel special features. The statements of Messrs. Brunet and Hutchinson indicate that this will be done without introduction of a new distributing organization in the field.

General Claims Timeliness for "Hypocrites"

The twelfth anniversary of the first presentation on the American stage of "The Hypocrites," Sir Arthur Henry Jones' famous play, is to be commemorated by the release of George Loane Tucker's screen version of the play, according to a General Film Company announcement. Prints for the Tucker feature have been completed and are being rushed to exchanges which will handle the picture for immediate release.

The entire resources of the General's sales organization are to be put behind the Tucker feature starring Elizabeth Risdon in an effort to duplicate the success scored by the stage play, says a General Film official. "The Hypocrites" was first presented in New York in August, 1906.

You are not going to war. The men who are need all the comforts you can give them. Help them get cigarettes. That is your patriotic duty. If you aren't helping in the "smokes" campaign, get busy—now. Don't be a slacker!

Vitagraph Releases "Love Watches" July 15

"Love Watches," one of the plays which the late Charles Frohman employed for Billie Burke on the legitimate stage, will be the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature for the week of July 15. Corinne Griffith, who was starred in "Who Goes There," "I Will Repay" and other Vitagraph features, is the star and has with her a company of unusual prominence. According to the announcement by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, every effort has been made to have the picturized version of the play equal the original in story, setting and piquancy of situation.

"Love Watches," it will be recalled, is a French farce, written by R. de Flers and G. Caillavet.

The Vitagraph production of "Love Watches," was made under the direction of Henri Houry, French actor-producer, and he is said to have given it subtle treatment.

The supporting company, with Miss Griffith, includes Denton Vane, who plays the role of Ernest Augard; Julia Swayne Gordon, as the match-making Marquise de Juvigny; Florence Deshon as Lucie de Morfortaine, the young widow; Alice Terry, as Charlotte Bernier, the sweet little girl; Ed. Burns, as Count Andre; Charles Henderson, as Jacqueline's uncle.

"By Proxy" on Triangle New Program

"By Proxy," the first release on the Triangle program for July 21, is the third in a series of the Henry Wallace Phillips' "Red Saunders" stories. "False Ambition" is the second release for the week and features Alma Rubens as an Oriental fortune teller.

The latter release features Alma Rubens in a production directed by Gilbert P. Hamilton, from a story by E. Magnus Ingleton. It is a story of contrasting personalities, of conflicting emotions. The mystically attractive personality of Judith is her misfortune. This highly tempered, dark-eyed beauty, unconsciously creates her own calamity—only to be saved from ruin by the decree of fate which, finally through love, awakens her to a realization that she possesses a soul.

Alma Rubens is Judith and she is supported by a cast including Peggy Pearce, Edward Peil, Lee Phelps and Lee Hill. The photography of this production is said to be exceptional. Jack McKensie was the cameraman.

Pathe Releases Washburn Film in August

Bryant Washburn has another of his amiable "young fellow" characters in hand in his new Pathe play, "The Ghost of the Rancho," which will be released in August by Pathe.

Also, he has a very charming and sightly leading woman in the person of Rhea Mitchell, whose work on the screen has made her a real popular favorite.

In "The Ghost of the Rancho," Washburn is a millionaire's son, who flees parental wrath and a threat to be doomed to hard work.

Coming Program Offerings

Vitagraph Names August List

Sixteen Productions Included in the Program, with Six Dramatic Stars in Foreground—Four Blue Ribbons

Aida Horton, Vitagraph Star, Wishing the Director Would Hurry Up and Get Started on "Location"

THE complete list of Vitagraph releases for the month of August, consisting of four five-reel Blue Ribbon features, four serial episodes, four slapstick comedies and four Drew Comedies, is announced by Albert E. Smith, president of the company, in a statement this week. The summary shows that six dramatic stars will be seen in the feature productions, they being Harry Morey and Betty Blythe, Gladys Leslie, Hedda Nova and J. Frank Glendon and Corinne Griffith.

The Vitagraph program for the month is made up as follows: August 5—"Fiddler's Green" (temporary title), featuring Harry Morey with Betty Blythe. This is an adaptation of the story of the same name, and was directed by Paul Scardon. August 12—"Wild Primrose," featuring Gladys Leslie. This is described as a straight drama, with sufficient comedy highlights to give the little star's comedy talents full play. August 19—"A Matter of Mean Elevation" (temporary title), featuring Hedda Nova and J. Frank Glendon, under direction of David Smith. This is an adaptation of the O. Henry story of the same name.

August 26—"The Clutch of Circumstance," featuring Corinne Griffith. A mystery drama adapted from the book of the same name. "A Fight for Millions," featuring William Duncan, with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by William Duncan. In fifteen episodes of two reels each.

August 5—Episode No. 3, "The Secret Stockade." August 12—Episode No. 4, "The Precipice of Horror." August 19—Episode No. 5, "The Path of Thrills." August 26—Episode No. 6, "The Spell of Evil."

August 5—"Dunces and Dangers," featuring Lawrence Semon. August 12—"Shines and Monkey Shines," featuring Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock. August 19—"Dukes and Dollars." August 26—"Dead Beats and Athletes," featuring Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock.

Vitagraph Drew Comedies—1 part each, featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew. August 5—"Miss Sticky-Moufie-Kiss." August 12—"Diplomatic Henry." August 19—"By Might of His Right." August 26—"The Professional Patient."

Worsley, Not Barker, "Shackled" Director

An error has crept into several of the trade papers regarding the Paralta Picture, "Shackled," starring Louise Glaum, which was recently reviewed, and credit for the direction was wrongly given to Reginald Barker. Wallace Worsley, former stage producer, and director of several subjects made at the Paralta studios, was responsible for the direction of Miss Glaum and company in "Shackled," and since completing that has filmed one other subject with the same star, and is now at work on the third Glaum picture to be made under his direction.

Neva Gerber, with Harry Carey in "Hell Bent," Universal Special Attraction

Vitagraph Announces July 15 Program

The Vitagraph program of releases scheduled for the week of July 15, are announced by Albert E. Smith, president of the company, as follows:

Blue Ribbon Feature—5 parts—"Love Watches," featuring Corinne Griffith. Directed by Henri Houry. Serial—2 parts—"Out of the Web," episode No. 15 of "The Woman in the Web," featuring Hedda Nova and J. Frank Glendon. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by Paul Hurst. Serial—2 parts—"The Snare," episode No. 1 of "A Fight for Millions," featuring William Duncan with Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan. Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Directed by William Duncan. Big V Comedy—1 part—"Skippers and Schemers," featuring Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock. Directed by J. A. Howe. Vitagraph Drew Comedy—1 part—"The Honeymoon Baby," featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

Lawrence Assists Blache

Metro has appointed Edward Lawrence as assistant to Herbert Blache in directing Edith Storey's new picture, which is as yet unnamed.

Mr. Lawrence, who is a New York boy born and educated, began his professional career as a vaudeville singer. Later he sought the legitimate stage playing in the "Master Mind," with Edmund Breese, "The Rose Maid, "The Mayor of Tokio," with Marie Dressler in "Tillie's Nightmare," with Clifton Crawford and Bessie McCoy in "Three Twins." In the latter, Mr. Lawrence was also stage director.

Program Glances

A play of political treachery, intrigue, false accusations, innocence, Broadway life and convent cloisters, is the description given in a statement from the Fox Film Corporation of "Miss Innocence," which, with June Caprice as the star, is the latest William Fox Special Feature release.

When the public sees William S. Hart in "Shark Monroe," declares Famous Players-Lasky, it will see a really excellent picture—a sea story and one that is a departure for the Western star.

Prominent members of the cast of "A Pair of Cupids," Metro's next feature production co-starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, are John Judge and Elwell Judge, whose years, added together, are less than two.

"The Savage Woman" has just been completed at the California studio at which Miss Young has been working, but cutting and titling have yet to be done. This feature will be released by Select late in July.

Conspicuous in the cast of "Our Mrs. McChesney," which, under the direction of Ralph Ince, is the current starring vehicle for Miss Ethel Barrymore, now being filmed at Metro's Sixty-first street studio, is Huntley Gordon.

July 8 marked the release of the second of the series of Paramount-Burton Holmes Travelogues on New Zealand, the subject of the 126th release being "Rotorua, the Yellowstone of the Antipodes."

The series of four one-reel subjects picturing the life of army recruits at Camp Devens, Mass., produced by the Connecticut Film Company for General Film distribution, are said to be proving exceedingly popular.

Pathe announces that on August 25 will be released "The Girl from Bohemia," in which Irene Castle is starred. This picture may mark the retirement of Irene Castle from the screen.

..Charles Ray will shortly appear via Paramount in a new Ince production upon which much special effort has been lavished, entitled "The Claws of the Hun," a story by Ella Stuart Carson, with scenario by R. Cecil Smith, dealing with the present war.

"A Fight for Millions," third of the Vitagraph serials featuring William Dunca, will be released to exhibitors on July 15, when the first episode, entitled "The Snare," will be shown in hundreds of theatres all over the country. An episode will be shown weekly thereafter.

Pathe will release the twelfth and last episode of the Official British War Film, "Britain's Bulwarks," July 28. The title is "The Canadians at Vimy Ridge."

"The Vamp" is the next Paramount picture from Thos. H. Ince studios, starring Enid Bennett. The announcement of the picture is accompanied by the assertion that it is one of the novelties of the film season.

"Waifs," which will be released by Pathe on the program of August 4, should prove an ideal summer attraction, for Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale are said to have a very smart subject in this play.

Results obtained by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have been filmed in a series of pictures to be released through the Paramount-Bray Pictograph, the first of which will appear in No. 127, released July 8.

Clara Kimball Young, Select Star, In a Moment In "The Claw," Her Latest Picture

Pathe Sets Date for Osborne Feature

Child lovers will no doubt find great delight in "Winning Grandma," the new photoplay in which Baby Marie Osborne appears, and which will be released by Pathe in August.

The comedy action is said to be fast and furious, and little Smiling Sammy, the colored lad, who has been a big laugh provoker in recent Baby Marie pictures, is there with bells on.

The story has to do with a shrewish grandmother, who values her fortune above the love of her sons and others of her family. How she is won by the little grand-daughter, the role enacted by Baby Marie, is the story of the play. "Winning Grandma" will make a hit with Baby Marie Osborne's fans.

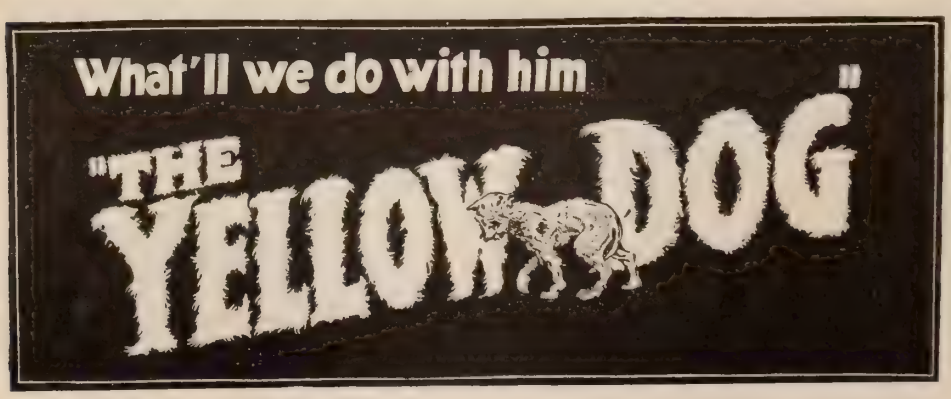
World Pictures Buys Lonergan Scenario

World Pictures has purchased of Philip Lonergan a scenario entitled "Love and the Woman," the continuity for which is now being made by the scenario department with June Elvidge for the stellar role. At the beginning of the story Miss Elvidge appears as a scrub woman employed in a hotel. She is the sole support of her infant daughter. Realizing that without wealth and social position her child will have little or no opportunity to better her condition, she seizes upon a chance to substitute her child for that of a rich man's offspring. This situation furnishes the principal theme of the story.

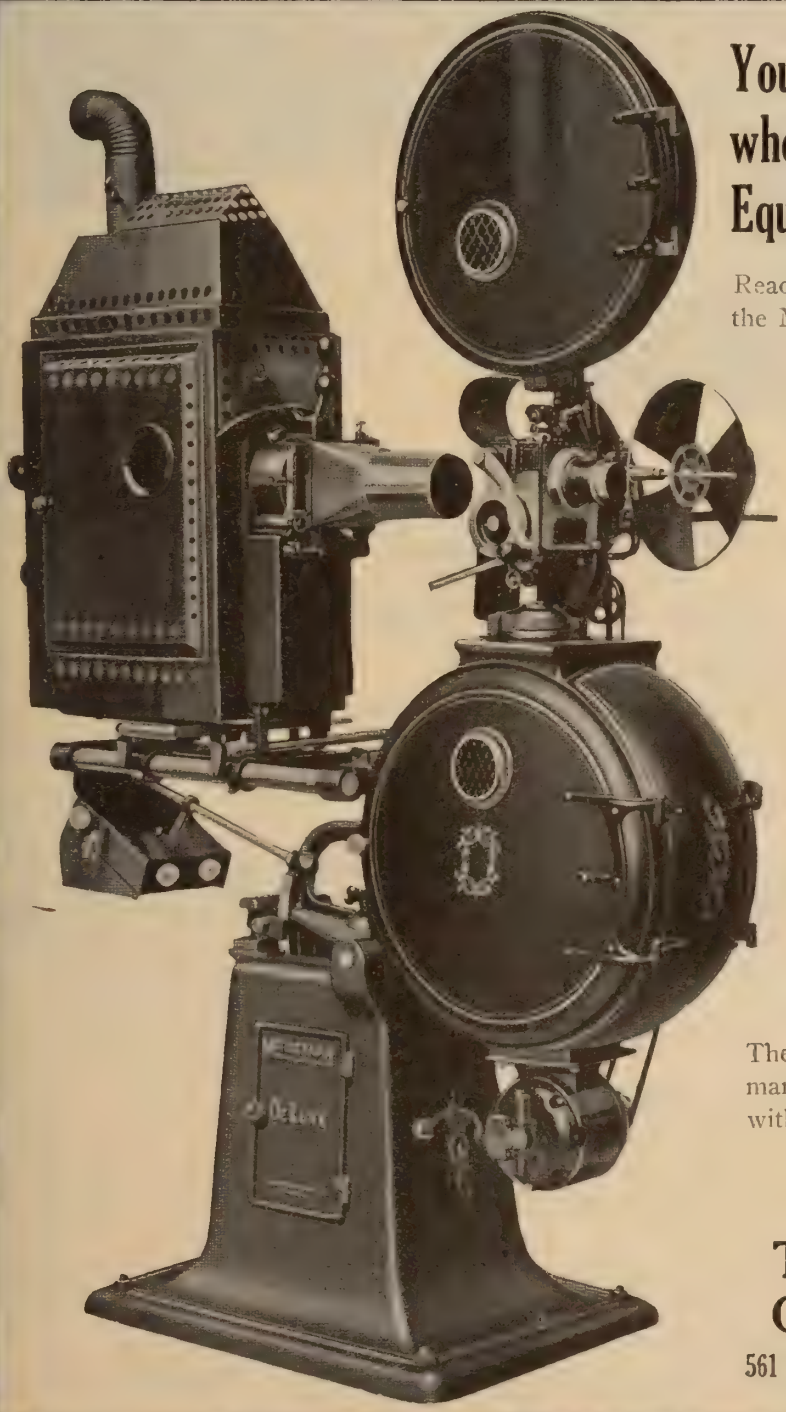
Commonwealth Begins New Subject

The Commonwealth Pictures Corporation started last week to make the fifth subject of their "Vod-A-Vil Movies." It will consist of the following well known vaudeville acts: The Flying Lamars; Aasaki Japs; "Nero's Holiday"; Russell and Oneill, and The Venus Models.

Besides looking over the making of each subject personally Mr. H. A. Spanuth is out on the road in the Central West territory selling rights for the new releases. Last week he reported the sale of Ohio territory to the First National through E. Mandelbaum, of Cleveland.



Equipment Service



Your Success is Pronounced when You are Backed Up with an Equipment That Gives Service

Read what a Nebraska Exhibitor says about the Motiograph De Luxe:

> "I want to thank you for the service you have rendered us through your Service Department, and I might add, incidentally, that the Motiograph we are using was placed in our booth May 7, 1916, and has been running 9 hours a day and 7 days a week, under all conditions of service.
>
> "We have been using most all the various machines and we find the Motiograph De Luxe excels all of them for standing-up qualities under severe strain. Repairs have been practically nothing on this machine since its installation."

The Motiograph machine is built to serve—and will give you that service which you demand and not the continuous trouble which so many exhibitors have in their booth as repairing of machines, break-downs, destruction of films, poor definition of projection, etc.

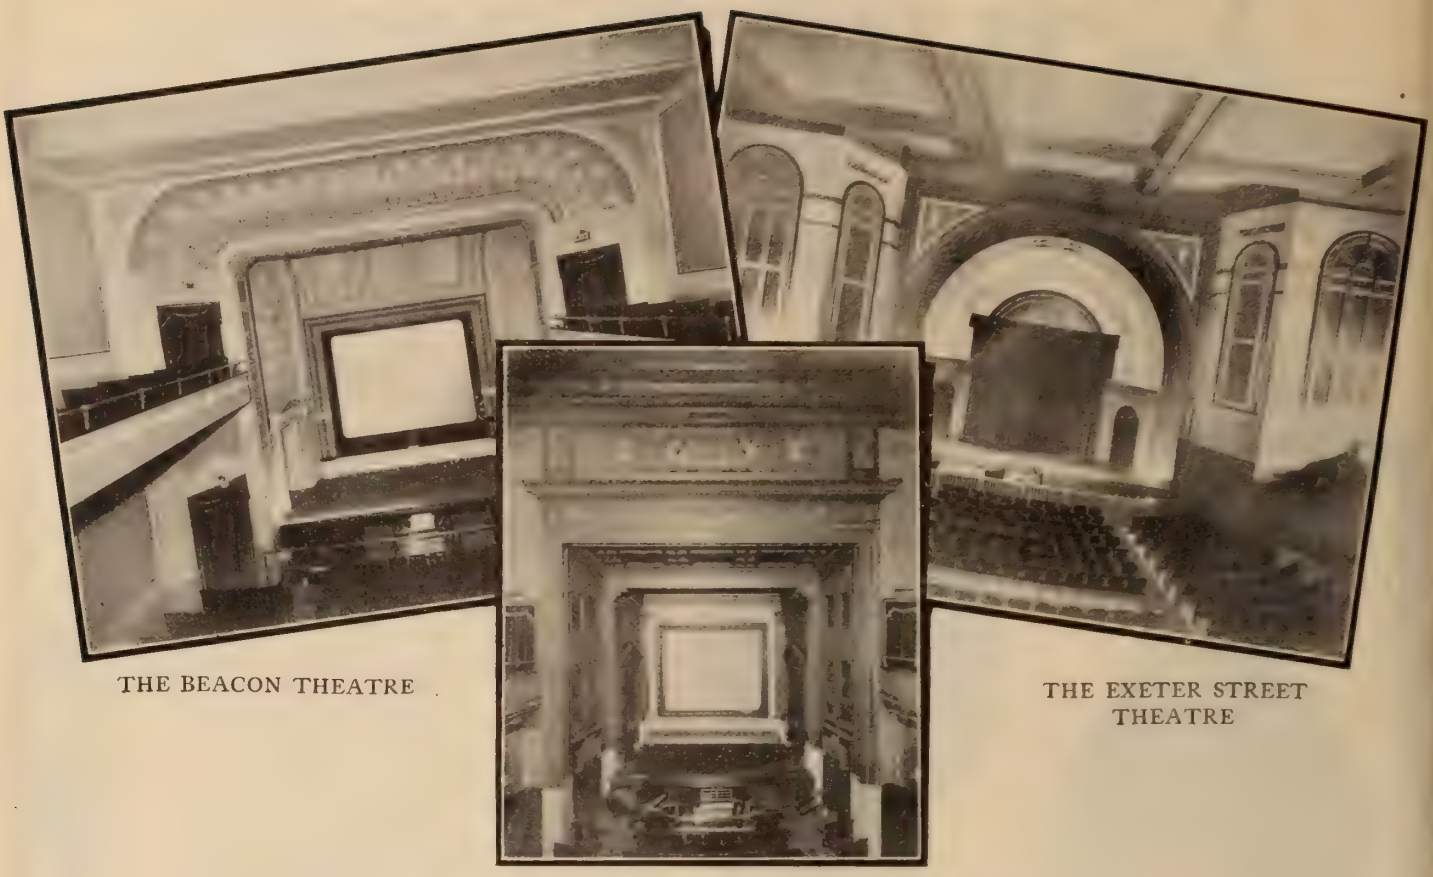
The Motiograph De Luxe is replacing many machines every month. Get familiar with this famous machine.

Write for De Luxe Booklet.

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.

561 WEST RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Projection Music Laboratory Studio Theatre



THE BEACON THEATRE

THE EXETER STREET THEATRE

THE MODERN THEATRE

The Estey Theatre Organ helps fill these five Boston Theatres at increased prices

While you are attending the convention it will pay you to visit these theatres and inspect the installations of the Estey Theatre Pipe Organ.

THE MODERN THEATRE

The first run theatre in New England for Paramount, Artcraft and Goldwyn Pictures. The three-manual Estey Theatre Organ installed in 1914 (the largest pipe organ in any theatre in Boston) is used exclusively to interpret the photoplays.

THE BEACON THEATRE

This theatre was recently remodeled and a large three-manual Estey Theatre Organ installed. Admission fees were doubled, and instead of pictures, vaudeville and orchestra, the entertainment is confined to first-run photoplays and the organ to interpret them.

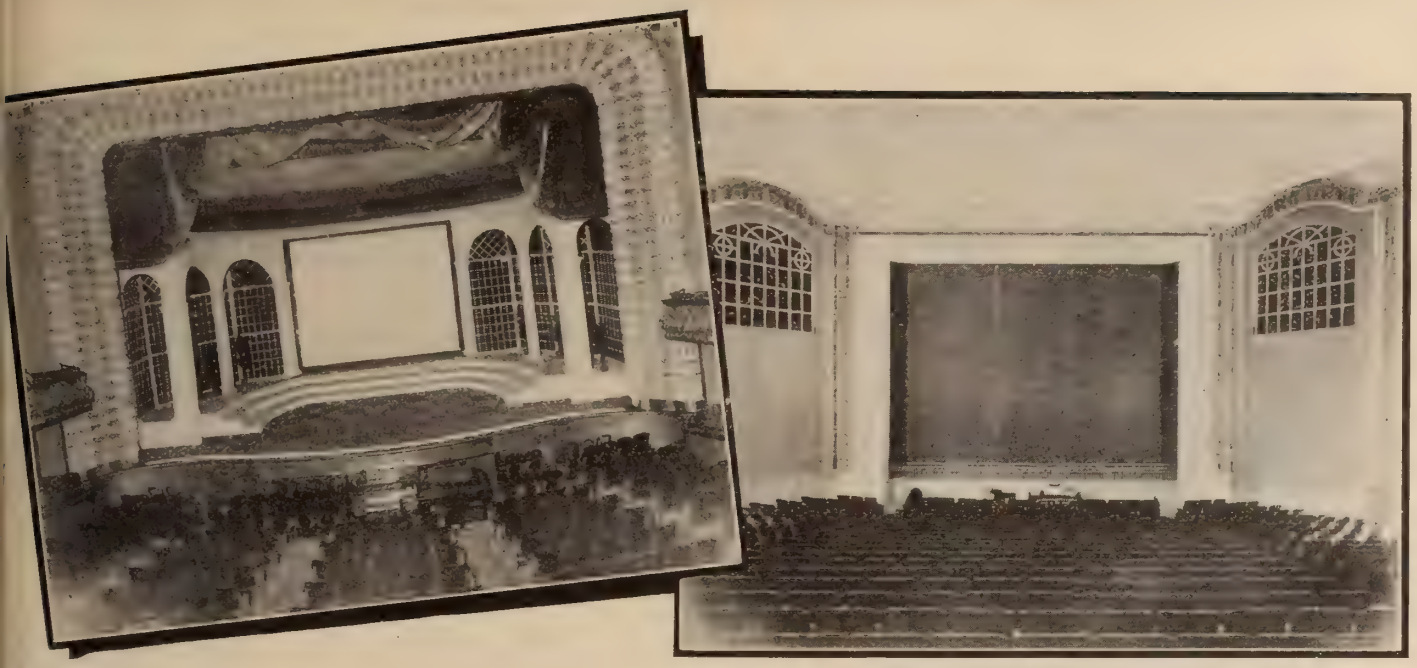
THE EXETER STREET THEATRE

Situated in the exclusive Back Bay residential district. They installed an Estey Theatre Organ to better interpret the pictures and increased the seating capacity by 1,000.

Programs of high-class photoplays interpreted exclusively on the Estey Theatre Pipe Organ are filling these theatres daily.

Without expense to you, we will send an expert to examine your theatre, and will then be in position to design a specification for an organ best suited to your use.

It is very important that a man who understands acoustics make this examination.



THE SHAWMUT THEATRE

This was enlarged in 1917 when a three-manual Estey Theatre Pipe Organ was installed, replacing all other musical requirements.

THE DUDLEY THEATRE

Opened early in 1917. A large two-section, powerful Estey Organ was installed. This summer the seating capacity is to be enlarged to accommodate the increasing patronage.

Solving the Orchestra Problem

The scarcity of men on account of the war makes it difficult to secure and keep an orchestra.

The Estey Theatre Pipe Organ

will be an added attraction and cannot be drafted. Call at our studio in Boston or at the one nearest you and ask for a demonstration.

THE ESTEY ORGAN COMPANY, Brattleboro, Vermont

You can hear the Estey Pipe Organ at any of these branches:

Studios in NEW YORK, 25 West 45th Street PHILADELPHIA, 1701 Walnut Street
BOSTON, 120 Boylston Street LOS ANGELES, 332 South Broadway

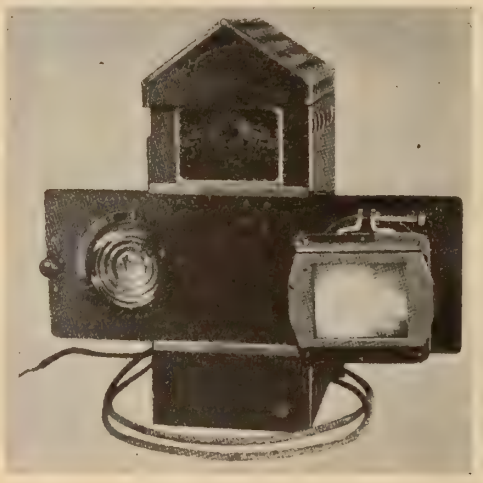
The "NEWS" advertisers believe YOU worth while; justify them.

Argus-Sheck Universal Adapter



Patented Feb. 18, 1918
Exterior View of All Models

ARGUS-SHECK UNIVERSAL ADAPTER

when properly installed, will adapt any make of carbon-arc projection machine to use any type of Mazda Projector Lamp.

This adapter is a complete lamp house in itself and fits on the front of any make of carbon-arc machine, and any type of Mazda Projector Lamp may be properly focused in it for successfully projecting motion pictures in place of the carbon-arc, within the limitations of the different types of Mazda Projector Lamps, as recommended.

Briefly, the advantages of motion-picture projection with the Argus-Sheck Universal Adapter and Mazda Projector Lamps, over carbon-arc lamps, are as follows:

Better illumination on the screen.
Eliminates color bands and "ghosts."
Eliminates arc "flicker"—no eye strain.
No poisonous carbon fumes and dust to injure health of operator, and wear working parts of projection machine.
People prefer Mazda Lamp Projection.
Less fire hazard—no open flame.
No noise or hum as with carbon-arcs.
No warming-up process needed at the end of each reel.
Simplicity of operation enables operator to give closest attention to projection on the screen.

LIGHTING PROGRESS

IN recent years there has been rapid progress and many new ideas advanced that have increased lighting efficiency generally. The invention of new incandescent lamps and improvements in older styles have been responsible for much of this progress.

An example of this which you will appreciate is in the matter of store lighting. It is only a few years since carbon-arc lamps were used almost exclusively—now they are almost obsolete in that field and incandescent lamps have replaced them. The result is better lighting, at less cost and with less attention.

Similarly, Mazda Projector Lamps will replace carbon-arcs for motion picture projection in the great majority of theatres. And the results will be just as great as the savings and improvements in store lighting.

The adoption of Mazda Projection by the use of Argus Equipment greatly simplifies operating—all the operator's attention may be directed to the head of the machine and to improving projection.

ARGUS-MAZDA LIGHTING APPLIANCES

IT CAN BE DONE!

The Argus Lamp & Appliance Co.

General Offices: CLEVELAND, OHIO

for Mazda Lamp Projection

ARE YOU FROM MISSOURI?

LIKE every important invention, there are some people who hesitate to consider the new idea justly—they are skeptical and must be shown.

So if you are "from Missouri" we want to show you the advantages of projecting with Argus Equipment and Mazda Projector Lamps. We have shown and proven our case to hundreds of theatre owners, large film producers, colleges, schools, etc.—a few of the pioneer users are listed here.

The great majority of picture theatres can adopt Argus equipment, profitably. In a few cases conditions are not right. Before accepting your order we will make sure the conditions in your theatre are correct for Mazda Projection.

The adoption of Argus Equipment will eliminate the cost of carbons, plano lenses, arc-lamp jaws, terminal wires, etc., that are now a constant expense.

It will pay you to learn the real facts. If you can get the benefits we claim, you will want to make the change, so we ask you to simply mail the coupon below for particulars.

WE WANT TO SHOW YOU!

A Few of Many Theatres to Adopt this New Idea

Airdrome	Douglass, Ariz.
Auditorium	Hastings, Fla.
Avenue	Cleveland, O.
Banner	Los Angeles, Cal.
Bijou	Corning, N. Y.
Blythe	Blythe, Cal.
Cline	Los Angeles, Cal.
Columbia	Phoenix, Ariz.
Comique	Bedford, O.
Crazy	Mineral Wells, Texas
Dyme	Lake Mills, Ia.
Empire	San Pedro, Cal.
Harold	Harold, Ia.
Hippodrome	Huntington, W. Va.
Ideal	Cleveland, O.
King	Cleveland, O.
Leon	Leon, Ia.
Majestic	San Pedro, Cal.
Minor	Davenport, Ia.
McCallahan	Douthat, Okla.
Palace	Tyler, Texas
Palace	Trinidad, Cal.
Pearl	San Antonio, Texas
Princess	Florence, Ariz.
Queen	Corpus Christi, Texas
Savoy	Quincy, Ia.
Shaffer	Earlham, Ia.
Star	Ohio, Ill.
Star	Leavenworth, Wash.
Starland	Syracuse, N. Y.
Strand	Clinton, Ia.
Strand	Fort Worth, Texas
Strawn	Calexico, Cal.
Temple	Lawton, Okla.
Thirteenth St.	Harrisburg, Pa.
U & I	Des Moines, Ia.
Wonderland	Buckeye, Ia.
Yale	Muskogee, Okla.

These Progressive Film Producers are Using Argus Equipment in their Projection Rooms

Erbograph Company	New York
D. W. Griffith Studio	Los Angeles, Cal.
Wm. S. Hart Studio	Los Angeles, Cal.
Mack Sennett Film Corporation,	Los Angeles, Cal.
Universal Film Co.	Universal City, Cal.
Vitagraph Co.	Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Installations in Colleges, Schools, Institutions, Etc.

Chautauqua Bureau of Motion Pictures,	Joplin, Mo.
Iowa State College	Ames, Ia.
Jefferson College	Convent, La.

They have cut their operating costs, and get better illumination.

SO CAN YOU!

MAIL THIS COUPON ☞ FOR PARTICULARS—NOW!

You may give me full particulars regarding the Sheck Universal Adapter, with the name of your nearest distributor. This will place me under no obligations. My name and address are written on the margin below.

The New Westinghouse Cooper Hewitt Mercury Rectifier will give you Better Results at Less Cost——Improved operating characteristics insure increased efficiency and increased power factor over other forms of equipment.

FEATURES

—Additional apparatus included as part of equipment which provides for adaptation to line voltages slightly off normal, automatic starting and protection of bulb against dangerous overloads.

—A simple change, instantly made, adapts the outfit to the operation of the arc on alternating current.

—All mounted in neat, compact, iron frame, preventing accidental breakage of bulb.

To begin with—

(1) The first Cost is Less

And, in addition, you secure—

(2) Higher Efficiency
(3) Increased Power Factor
(4) Greater Dependability
(5) Better Projection

Hence, and from now on, it will cost you less to increase receipts at the ticket window—because, good projection is a business asset—reliability is a business asset—and, increased efficiency and higher power factor are welcome economies.

It will cost you nothing to find out just why, and in what respect, this simple, inexpensive Mercury Arc Rectifier is superior to former equipments.

An illustrated, Descriptive Leaflet, will gladly be mailed upon request.

It will pay you to investigate.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company,
East Pittsburgh Pa.

W WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

Westinghouse

Equipment Service,

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. KENDALL GILLETT.....Editor

ALFRED S. CORY.....Technical Editor

National Anti-Misframe League

THE National Anti-Misframe League has reached the stage where it is an acknowledged factor in the industry.

Its members are known not only to the exchanges but to the film companies themselves.

As long as the members continue to work honestly, faithfully and energetically for the promotion of better film conditions just so long will the league continue to increase its power.

Operators in general, if their work is good deserve more recognition than they are receiving. League members and others by following the standards of the league should be the first to reap this reward, which will lead to higher wages.

The Slogan of Every League Member is
"Put the best picture possible on the screen"

The only way to accomplish this is by systematically following the rules given below:

1. Keep your machine in the best of condition, well but not excessively oiled, tension springs clean, take-up adjusted to the correct pull.

2. Insist on having new parts when the old ones become worn. Proper results can not be had with a machine in bad condition. When possible have you employer keep an extra head on hand always ready for use.

3. Look over your show by running it through the machine before the audience arrives. This will help the musician and give you a chance to watch for misframes and bad joins.

4. Put in new joins and take out misframes wherever necessary.

5. While the show is running always be on the job. Remember motor drive attachments, are controllers, etc., are not supplied in order to allow you to read a newspaper while the show is in progress, but mere to help you fulfill the league slogan.

6. Remember the proper average speed for a thousand feet is sixteen minutes.

7. Do not smoke in the projection room; it is dangerous. Remember every time there is a fire the industry receives a decided set-back. It is up to all of us to help and not to retard the business.

8. Always send every reel back to the exchange in better condition than you receive it.

9. Remember prints cost money; they are not your property, therefore, do not mutilate them.

10. Rewind all reels before sending them back to the exchange. In doing this avoid scratching by "pulling down." Put proper band back on each reel.

11. Report to the theatre manager all film received in poor condition. It is up to him to complain and see that the exchange is doing its work properly.

12. Let the exchanges know you are co-operating with them; they will appreciate it and when they see your desire for better film conditions they will respond. At the present time the exchange and the operator suspect each other and are not working together as they should.

13. Remember every theatre is selling the picture to the public. The better the picture the better will be the patronage. The better the patronage the larger the rceipts. Th larger the receipts the greater the profits. The greater the profits the larger salary you can command.

Therefore, it is up to you—so—

14. Put the best picture possible on the screen.

Operators Service

OUR attention is being more emphatically called each day to the fact that the operators of the country who are within draft age are being called into the service of the country. This is leaving positions open which must be filled. In many cases, therefore, we find men and, in a few cases, women, taking the places of skilled operators, who though hard workers are not by any means experts. They need information and help as well as suggestions which may or may not be prompted by their own seeking.

Every week in our Projection Department we are publishing articles of the greatest educational value to these new operators. We are also answering numerous questions which come in. We have not, however, seen any particular drive on their part to gain the needed information if they intend to "Put the best picture possible on the screen."

We, therefore, wish to point out that no man on woman should feel that it is a disgrace or sign of weakness to ask questions. This is the only way to gain information and ultimately promotion. The names of those asking the questions will not be divulged. The questions will merely be answered in full, either by letter or in the NEWS itself without charge. We do not wish to force this service on anyone, but we do want every operator and theatre man to know that we are ready to help improve their projection at any and all times.

E. K. GILLETT.

Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

80

The Color Correction of Projection Objectives and Some Notes on Objective Testing

IN a paper read at the Rochester meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers,[1] a number of optical defects, or aberrations, were considered which influence the performance of projection objectives, the aberrations there dealt with being the so-called monochromatic aberrations, i. e., those depending upon the forms and arrangement of the spherical lens surfaces.

Further defects of lenses or systems of lenses are due to the unequal refracting effect of all kinds of glass for light of different spectral colors. The consequence of this is that when white light falls upon an uncorrected lens it is split up, or dispersed, into its constituent colors, as in the familiar prism experiment of Newton, this dispersion of the incident white light into a band of colors being the direct result of the different refracting power of the glass upon light of the various colors. It is found that every sort of glass refracts blue light more strongly than red light, and the dispersion of white light into its component colors by an uncorrected lens is known as chromatic aberration, the consequence of which is that the images of an object as formed by the rays of various colors do not come to a focus at the same distance from the lens. For instance, the image formed by blue light is focussed nearest the lens, since the blue rays are the most powerfully refracted, or bent, while the image formed by the red rays, which are least refracted, is focussed farthest from the lens. The images formed by light of the intermediate spectral colors, i. e., by yellow and green rays, are of course focussed at distances between those for blue and red light.

It is thus seen that the focussing operation is a very uncertain one in the case of an uncorrected lens, and as a result of the color dispersion the edges of all bright details in the image will be bordered by a fringe of colors which seriously affect its sharpness or definition. Such a condition is intolerable in most all classes of optical instruments, and means for removing or reducing the chromatic aberration of lenses must consequently claim the serious attention of the optician.

If the dispersive action of all glasses were proportional to their refracting powers the removal of chromatic aberration from lenses would be impossible, and Newton's assumption that this was the case retarded the progress of practical optics for many years. Fortunately, however, it was eventually found that the relationship between refracting and dispersing properties varied widely for different kinds of glass, whereupon the remedy for chromatic aberration became apparent, and has since been utilized to good effect in the achromatizing of lenses.

To achromatize a simple collecting lens it is necessary to associate with it a dispersing lens, the dispersive effect of both lenses being equal for that range of spectral colors which are intended to be brought to the same focus by the composite objective. A lens thus corrected to bring light of two colors to a focus at the same distance is known as an achromatic lens, and methods and formulæ for achromatizing are given in all good treatises on optics. We shall therefore not go further into this phase of the matter, other than to state that the refractive indices of the two sorts of glass (generally termed Crown and Flint) used in producing an achromat must be so chosen that after the chromatic aberration is corrected the combination still has a collecting action and can bring the incident light down to a reasonably short focus, thus allowing a real image to be formed at a useful distance. It should also be pointed out that as not more than two colors are brought to exactly the same focus by the usual methods of achromatizing, all of the other spectral colors which result from the dispersive action of the glass will focus at different distances from the two colors for which correction has been accomplished, so that there still remains a small amount of color fringe, or residual dispersion, which is termed by opticians a "secondary spectrum." In the majority of practical instances this secondary spectrum is so slight as to be almost unnoticeable, and for most classes of work it has no disturbing influence on the results.

The class of work for which an optical instrument is to be used, however, must be taken into consideration in achromatizing its component lenses, because the color correction best suited for one class of work may be entirely unsuited for another. This is readily demonstrated by considering the cases of the photographic objective and the telescope objective, where in the first instance the image is received on the chemically prepared sensitive photographic surface and in the second instance the image is received on the sensitive receptor surface of the eye.

As is well known, the ordinary sensitive photographic surface is chiefly acted upon by blue light, and is scarcely sensitive at all to radiation of longer wave-length, while it is equally well known that the maximum sensitiveness of the eye is to light of yellow-green color. Accordingly, if we use an uncorrected lens as a camera objective and focus an image on the ground-glass, we will find upon exposing and developing a plate that this image is far from being a sharp reproduction, because we have focussed with the assistance of the bright yellow rays, to which the eye is most sensitive, while the photographic plate has been principally acted upon by the blue rays, which we previously learned have a much shorter focussing distance.

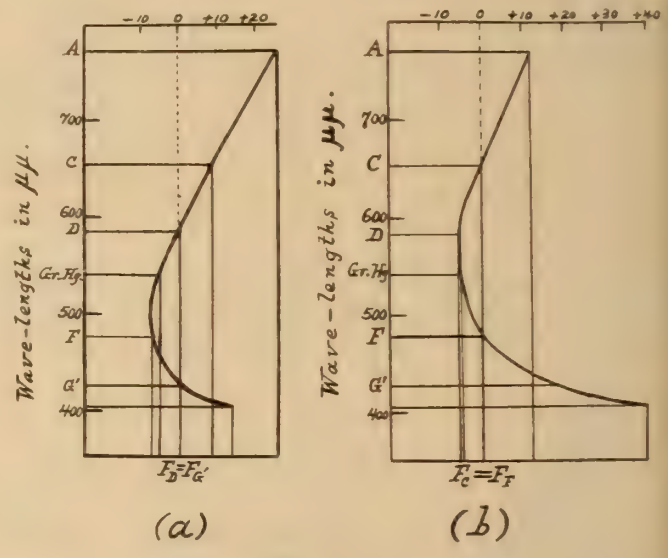

Fig. 1.

This experiment points out at once the manner in which an objective should be achromatized for photographic purposes. As we are enabled by well-known methods to cause any two spectral colors to focus at the same distance, we should in this case unite the foci for yellow light (by which the image is focussed) and for blue light (by which the photographic emulsion is chiefly affected). It has been found that the most suitable achromatism for photographic work is attained when the region corresponding to the sodium D line in the yellow of the spectrum and that corresponding to the hydrogen G' line in the violet are brought to the same focus, which condition is shown in the diagram (a), Fig. 1. This shows the typical color curve of an objective achromatized for photography. In the diagram the abscissae represent the focal distances for the various regions of the spectrum, while the ordinate axis is a wave-length scale with those Fraunhofer lines inserted which are of consequence in the study of achromatism. It is seen that the D (yellow) and the G′ (violet) rays are brought to the same focus at the distance designated with O at the top of the diagram, while the rays of all other colors focus at greater or smaller distances. Upon joining the points corresponding to the focal distances of the various colors in the form of a smooth curve the amount of residual chromatism or secondary spectrum is readily apparent, this method of plotting the secondary spectrum, or color curve as it is called, being due to M. von Rohr.

[1] The Optical Requirements of Motion Picture Projection Objectives, News. May 18 and 25, 1918, pp. 3017-19 and 3162-3.

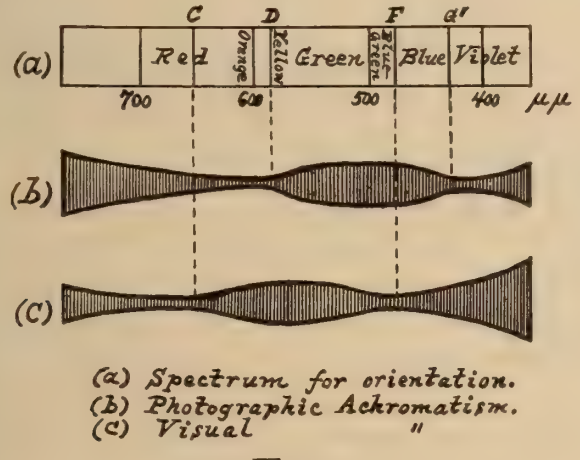
In the case of optical systems used for visual purposes the most suitable achromatism will be different, however, from the photographic, or actinic, achromatism just described, for in this case the sensitive receptor will be the retina of the eye, which we have already stated is the most strongly affected by those rays that are of yellow and green color. As the motion picture screen-image is observed visually, and also focussed by visual estimation, the projection objective then clearly comes under the classification of a visual instrument, so the most suitable achromatism for visual systems must next claim our attention.

Since the eye is known to be most sensitive to yellow and green light, it naturally follows that it is the yellow and green spectral regions which should be brought to the same focus in a visual instrument, so the typical achromatism for telescope objectives, projection objectives and the like, is that which brings the red light of the C line and the blue-green of the F line to a focus at the same distance from the lens, the intervening yellow and green radiations being brought fairly near to the same focal distance, and the result being known as visual, or optical, achromatism. A typical visual achromatism is shown in the diagram (b), Fig. 1, where the orientation is the same as in the accompanying diagram, and where the color curve, plotted in a like manner, shows the outstanding color dispersion for this type of achromatism. Although the blue is strongly over-corrected, the residual chromatism is not too great in the visually effective region between the C and F lines, and it may be taken that all projection objectives are approximately corrected for this region of the spectrum.



(a) Spectrum for orientation.
(b) Photographic Achromatism.
(c) Visual "

Fig. 2.

It is interesting, however, to verify these conditions experimentally, for by so doing the practical man becomes acquainted with the part played by theory in perfecting the apparatus with which he works.

The state of achromatism of any projection objective, i. e., the two colors for which it has the same axial focal length, may be readily ascertained by any operator or student, and we shall describe two simple methods of investigating achromatism.

The first was devised by H. C. Vogel[2] for studying the color correction of astronomical refractors, and requires as a necessary adjunct a spectroscope, or a direct-vision prism train, such as is attached to the viewing end of small pocket spectroscopes. These direct-vision prism trains, as is generally known, are composed of three or five small crown glass prisms placed in a row with their bases adjoining, and between which are cemented (in the inverse position) one or two prisms, respectively, of dense flint glass. The achromatism of a projection objective may be determined with the aid of one of these prism trains by directing the objective toward a point source of light some distance away (about 25 times the E. F.) and bringing the prism train to the position where the point of light is focussed by the objective. We now have what is in effect a spectroscope, as the prism train will disperse, or spread out, the white point of light falling upon it into a spectrum showing all constituent colors. As, however, the light source is a point of scarcely appreciable size instead of a comparatively wide slit such as the collinator of a spectroscope possesses, the spectrum of the point of light will appear as a narrow line showing the colors in their usual succession, instead of the band of colors usually seen in a spectroscope. This narrow line showing the spectral colors of the bright point of light transmitted by the objective is not of the same width at all parts, however, and there will be found two positions where it is greatly contracted, as shown by (b), Fig. 2, while at the blue end it will be spread out somewhat in the shape of a fan. Closer examination will show at once that the positions where this narrow spectrum (transmitted through the projection objective to the prism train) is most contracted in width correspond with the red of the C line and the blue-green of the F line in most instances, which is what we would expect, since we have previously learned that a projection objective is usually corrected so as to unite the foci for light of these two colors. The manner in which the blue end of the spectrum from the bright point (seen through the prism train) is widely spread out is readily accounted for, as (b), Fig. 1 shows us that with the customary visual correction (C to F) the blue rays deviate very much from the focal distance of the red, yellow and green rays. It is now apparent that when the narrow spectrum of a point source of white light transmitted through an objective is examined in the manner described, the points at which this spectrum is most contracted, or narrowest, represent those spectral regions for which the objective is corrected, and however many colors are brought to the same focus by an objective an equal number of pronounced contractions will appear in the spectrum of white light transmitted by that objective. On the present occasion we are concerned with objectives for which not more than two colors are exactly corrected on the axis.

Not every operator and experimenter will be able to secure a spectroscope, or a direct-vision train of prisms, for the purpose of carrying out the test for achromatism just described, but, fortunately for the student who likes precise information concerning his apparatus, there is another very keen method of ascertaining the color correction of an objective, which may be carried out with accessories that are available to everyone.

In the test for achromatism now to be described, which is a very old one, a narrow, sharply defined line of white light is projected upon the screen by the objective which it is desired to test. This may be accomplished by scratching a very fine even line through any suitable opaque coating applied to a piece of clear glass cut to such size that it may be maintained in place at the aperture of the motion picture projector. A piece of sheet metal with a series of fine smooth holes drilled through it may be used instead of the single fine line if found more feasible. When, now, the test pattern (either the line or the series of round dots) is projected upon the screen, it will appear uniformly white right up to the edges, if the objective is anywhere near properly achromatized, and we proceed to verify or to ascertain the state of achromatism by holding an opaque card or sheet of metal over half of the front combination of the objective. This in effect gives the lens the action of an equivalent prism, insofar as color dispersion is concerned, and we immediately see that the sides, or edges, of the white test pattern (slit) projected upon the screen are bordered with fringes of color. In the case of a projection objective achromatized for the C and F lines of the spectrum (as is usual) we will see at one side of the projected test image a border, or fringe, of green color, while the other side of the projected image will show a fringe of red color.

As the C and F regions for which the objective is corrected represent orange-red and blue-green light respectively, it is apparent that these colored fringes observed at the borders of the projected test image do not represent the correction of the objective, but rather the residual chromatism, or secondary spectrum, which remains outstanding as the result of only two colors having been brought to the same focus by the correction applied. It is easy to appreciate, therefore, that the remaining colors of the spectrum, which are not in evidence as colored fringes at the borders of the projected test image, must be the ones for which correction has been attained in achromatizing the objective. As we find when we cover half of the front element with an opaque screen that in the case of a visually corrected projection objective, i. e., one for which the C and F regions of the spectrum have been brought to the same focus, the image of a fine white line projected by this objective is bordered on one side by a fringe of green light and on the other side by a fringe of red light, we can now check this appearance up with the known condition of the correction as given by the color curve (b), Fig. 1. We see from the diagram that while the C and F regions are united to one and the same focus, the red light beyond the C line comes to a focus farther from the lens, while the green light between C and F is brought to a focus closer to the lens than the two regions for which correction has been carried out. These colors then represent the remaining dispersion or secondary spectrum outstanding after the visual correction has been secured, and are just the colors which we would expect to see when we carry out the simple test just described. The color curve (b), Fig. 1, also shows the violet as residual, but as is also shown by (c), Fig. 2, this violet light, in the case of a typical visual correction, is focussed at a point so far from that of any of the other colors that it could not be seen when the objective was focussed to show the effects which have just been considered.

[2] Monatsberichte d. Berliner Akad., April, 1880, p. 433.

We are prompted to dwell at still greater length on the empirical testing of objectives, because with simple and readily obtainable apparatus any student or experimenter can determine qualitatively the characteristics of photographic and projection objectives, and can verify the statements in our former paper (loc. cit) on the monochromatic aberrations.

To study the effect of coma, astigmatism and curvature of the image-field of projection objectives and to study the influence of the separation of the front and rear components upon the extent of field which is usefully illuminated, one only requires, besides the objectives themselves, a small stereopticon, some suitable slides for test objects and a testing room which will allow a large screen image (10 feet or more in width) to be secured at a comparatively short throw (25 or 30 feet) so that the effects of the aberrations upon the screen definition may be readily studied and the effect of altering the focus observed without leaving the projection lantern.

The stereopticon should have a bellows extending between the lens board and the slide-carrier to confine extraneous light, and the bellows should be capable of folding back very close to the slide-carrier, so that objectives of short focus may be brought to the proper distance from the slides used as test objects. A small intense light source, such as an arc formed by pencil carbons, is very suitable, and the 90° arc lamps supplied with some portable stereopticons possess the advantage that the crater is always coaxial with the optical system. If a wide variety of objectives of various apertures are to be examined it is necessary to have adapting rings, or collars, whereby they may be accurately fitted to the front of the lantern.

In the practical testing of photographic objectives by photographing test charts, designs based on theoretical considerations may be prepared which are so sensitive as regards their ability to reveal the effects of aberration on the image that the resulting photographs furnish almost quantitative information as to the quality and state of correction of an objective, but it is not so feasible to investigate photographically the comparatively small images produced by projection objectives of the usual focal lengths, and in estimating the performance of an objective upon the screen it is better to choose a test design whose outlines and details would be more familiar to the average experimenter.

For studying the performance of projection objectives contrasty patterns crowded with fine details should be chosen, and these should be reproduced by photography on lantern-slide plates. The reproduction of a finely printed page or of a map full of details makes a suitable test object, and, as it is preferable for the screen image to show black lines upon a white background, the original copy should be photographed upon a lantern plate, yielding a sharp, contrasty negative (white lines on a black ground), and a contact positive then made from this on another lantern plate. In preparing the positives which are to be used as test objects the exposure and development should be so regulated as to secure good density in the black lines, whilst leaving the background perfectly clear and transparent.

Slides of this character may be used in testing both stereo and motion picture projection objectives, and in the case of the latter it is necessary to draw a rectangle of the approximate size of a film image (¾" x 1") right in the centre of the test slide. This may be done with pen and ink or may be scratched through the emulsion surface of the slide.

When such a slide or test object is now projected to form a large image upon the screen, using various types and sizes of cine projection objectives, it is at once seen that the use of a stereopticon and lantern slides offers advantages over the motion picture projector, because a field in excess of that embraced by a film image is revealed to the experimenter. Even with the smallest aperture projection objectives obtainable the fully illuminated field shown on the screen extends somewhat beyond the borders of the small central rectangle which represents the limits of a projector aperture, and by studying the quality of the definition just outside the aperture limits a good estimate may be formed as to the amount of astigmatism and field curvature possessed by the objective under test. In the case of low quality objectives this indistinctness is clearly noticeable just beyond the aperture limits and may be seen to even extend inside the rectangular area which represents the film image. By altering the focus the definition at the edges of the centre rectangle, and somewhat beyond, may be improved, but then the extreme centre of the pattern is out, clearly indicating that the objective has a considerably curved field. It may be taken that astigmatism also exists, and is partly responsible for the poor marginal definition, and if the field is empirically flattened in a projection objective of the usual type (by increasing the separation of the components) the marginal definition is not improved, because this procedure only serves to introduce additional astigmatism.

It is well known to students of practical optics that it becomes increasingly difficult to retain good correction for coma, astigmatism, field curvature and distortion as the effective aperture of an objective increases, and beyond certain limits a rigorous correction for these aberrations cannot be effected. This becomes readily apparent when a test slide containing print is projected successively by a series of objectives of increasing aperture, when a study of the useful extent of the field, i. e., that part within the rectangle corresponding to a film image, will show that with the smallest aperture objectives commonly in use (about f 3) the blackness of the letters and the apparent contrast with which they stand out from the background is noticeably greater than that of the same pattern projected with an objective of f 3.3 aperture (also much used), while the appearance of the letters, although they are sharply delineated, is less contrasty still when projection is accomplished with objectives having the enormous aperture f 2 such as have recently been employed in cine projection with incandescent lamps. As the letters, or other fine contrasty test pattern, are in all instances sharply defined in the centre of the field, it is apparent that the grayness, or lack of contrast, noted in the performance of large aperture objectives is due to residual aberrations, the complete removal of which is not compatible with such excessive apertures.

It is, of course, well known that the larger apertures transmit more light to the screen, and by projecting a full sized lantern slide with a series of motion picture projection objectives of increasing apertures it will also be noted that the fully illuminated field increases in size with increase in the aperture of the objective, the focal lengths remaining equal. The action of the lens barrel, or tube, in limiting the area of the circle of illumination is also shown to perfection by this method, and surrounding the completely illuminated centre of the field a circle of decreased intensity is seen which gradually fades off to complete darkness. The ring of decreased intensity surrounding the innermost circle of full illumination is projected by pencils of rays which have been partially intercepted by the mounting of the objective due to their obliquity of incidence.

With an objective of f 3 aperture ratio (the smallest generally in use) the brightly illuminated field is noticeably larger than the centre rectangle (of the test slide) corresponding to the aperture of a cine projector, and with an objective of f 3.3 aperture the field of maximum illumination is still further extended, while a motion picture projection objective of aperture f 2 will project all of a lantern slide except the corners with practically maximum illumination.

National Anti-Misframe League
Pledge

As a motion picture operator who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the operating-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in first-class condition. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy all misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother operators and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

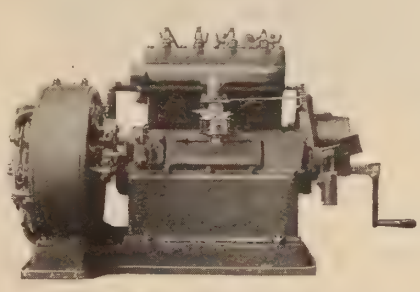
Roll of Honor

Percy Sinser	Ottawa, Ont., Canada
Clarence E. Wise	Blackwell, Okla.
John E. Kaiser	Portsmouth, Ohio
Geo. H. Finniss	Cinema Section, A. S. C., France
W. R. Griggs, Jr	Washington, N. C.
Walter Wattles	Ambia, Ind.
August Livelli	Lyndhurst, N. J.
Edwin Johnson	Wilmington, N. C.
Emile Robert	Quebec, Canada
Wm. Fanelli	Mahanoy City, Pa.

Members Previously Recorded	879
Members Recorded This Week	10
Total Membership to Date	889

Universal Generator Set

THE 4 K. W. Universal direct connected and self-contained generating unit has met with tremendous success and favor among picture and show men. It is just the proper size and its compactness and lightness in weight lends it to portable work where current is desired in remote places.



The outfit weighs 500 pounds and is supplied in the 60 or 110-volt sizes. The 60-volt is used largely for operating picture machines where the greatest economy is desired but the 110-volt is the most convenient, because it supplies current of correct voltage for all standard lamps, fans and signs. With the 110-volt size it is necessary to use a series rheostat in the arc light circuit to bring the voltage down to 55 and steady the light, still there is plenty of current available for the signs or house lighting.

There are nearly 2,000 of these plants in use throughout the world, and their smoothness of operation and extremely steady light makes an appeal to the user. The engine is 4 cylinder, 4 cycle, and runs 1,100 R. P. M. The generator is a special 8-pole, with large armature which takes the place of the flywheel, making the outfit very compact. A switchboard can be supplied and the outfit can be mounted on hand trucks where desired. A full description of this popular type of outfit can be had by writing the Universal Motor Company, Oshkosh, Wis., for a copy of Bulletin No. 26.

DOMINATES THE EASTERN TERRITORY

Before signing a contract for supplies—either for PROJECTION ROOM or THEATRE write us for our prices—WE SUPPLY 95% of the THEATRES on BROADWAY.

1st—Our prices are the lowest in the trade.
2nd—We make the best allowances on old projectors.

Parts for all machines at special prices.

Catalogue being prepared—write for a copy so that you may receive it promptly when ready.

W. H. RABELL

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.

729 7th Avenue, New York

More customers in Greater New York and vicinity than any other supply house

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

Six New Features For Sure Results!

Faster, finer and CERTAIN results now are gained with the new improved Universal Motion Picture Camera—the camera that keeps abreast of the science of motion picture photography.

The New Advantages of UNIVERSAL
MOTION PICTURE CAMERA

New framing adjustment—Better film transmission—Advanced film channel—New focusing tube—New Footage indicator—New "static" prevention. New automatic dissolve now ready. 200 feet magazine capacity—more speed—better results.

At Less Than Half the Price of other similar cameras

Send Postal Today
for complete description of the world's greatest value in motion picture cameras.

BURKE & JAMES, INC.
Sole Wholesale Agents
240 East Ontario Street, Chicago
Eastern Branch: 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Notes on the Use of National Carbons

[Communicated by the National Carbon Co.]

THE motion picture today is the basis of an industry, giving profitable employment to thousands of persons, offering education as well as amusement to hundreds of millions of people, and involving an investment of capital that places it among the world's foremost industries. Until fairly recently the illuminating engineers neglected to apply many of the principles of engineering to this industry, and as a result the projection of pictures on the screen was sadly neglected. The economic importance of the motion picture is now fully realized, for it is furnishing keen enjoyment to a great number of people at a minimum cost. Because of the magnitude of this industry, it is now receiving the careful engineering consideration of our foremost illuminating engineers.

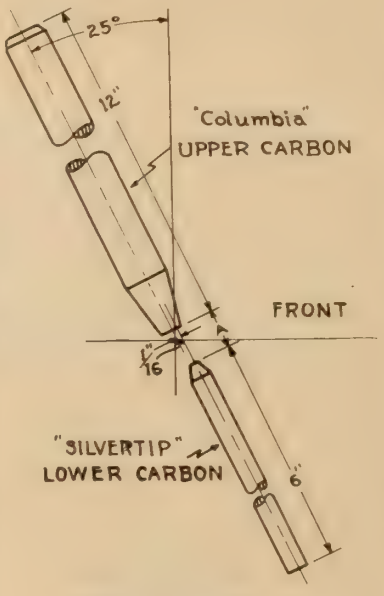

Fig. 1—D. C. Trim

The art of the motion picture is composed of two principle industries—the manufacturing industry and the exhibiting industry. This article will describe some of the features of the production of light and its projection through the film upon a screen as applied to the exhibition of the motion picture.

The following are the general requirements for the light source for motion picture work:

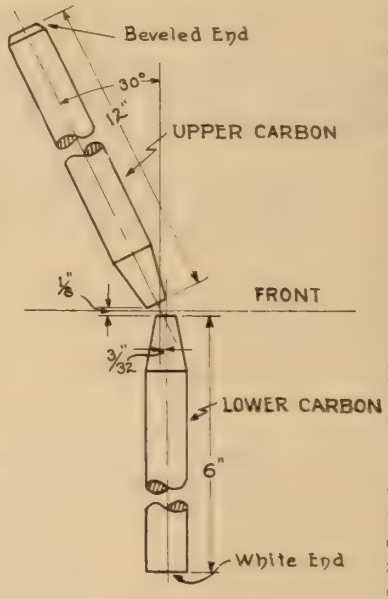

Fig. 2.—A. C. Trim

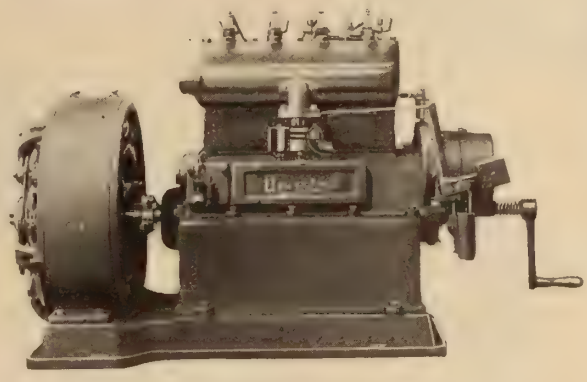
Steadiness, maximum intrinsic brightness and distribution characteristics permitting a high degree of concentration. There are several other requirements, however, which must be considered in adapting any light source to meet specific conditions. The sources available today that answer the general requirements are the direct and alternating current arc and the high amperage incandescent lamp. The carbon arc brilliancy of 84,000 cp. per sq. in. (130 cp. per sq. mm.) is sufficient for any condition of operation, while the brilliancy of the incandescent projector lamp, approximately 20,000 sq. cp. per sq. in. (30 cp. per sq. mm.) is only sufficient for low-powered installations.

In the direct current arc, the crater of the positive carbon forms the principal light source. The positive crater is of relatively large area, while the negative spot is small and is not usually considered as a light source. While 95 per cent of the light emitted by the arc comes from the positive crater, the characteristics of the negative carbon are of vital importance in securing steadiness of operation. In operation, the positive crater is set so as to face the axis of the optical system. In setting the carbons in this position care must be taken to reduce to a minimum the shading of the crater by the negative carbon. It is in this respect that the direct current arc is superior to the alternating current arc. A direct current arc

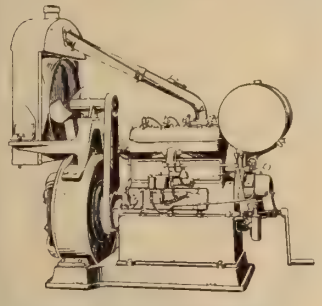
Universal 4 K. W. Electric Generating Set

Especially adapted to moving picture work—operating the picture machine and house lighting



WEIGHT 500 LBS.

The generator is compound wound and generates a steady smooth current up to 5000 watts, or 5 kw. The picture machine generally requires 55 volts and 36 amperes, or about 2 kw., leaving a large margin for house lighting, fans, signs, etc.



PORTABLE TYPE WITH RADIATOR MOUNTING, WEIGHT 650 LBS.

The sets are supplied in 60 or 110 volts as desired, with the 110 volt there is a little more waste in reducing to 55 volts, but the 110 volt size fits the conventional lamps and fans better.

The portable type is used largely by traveling shows. The fuel consumption is 1 quart per kw. hour, gasoline or kerosene.

There are nearly 2000 Universal sets in use, and it is the most compact lightweight and economical plant on the market, and is manufactured complete in a large modern factory. Send for Bulletin No. 26 for full description.

Universal Motor Co., Oshkosh, Wis., U. S. A.

Nationally Used, Of Course, But Why?

When an equipment becomes NATIONALLY KNOWN AND NATIONALLY USED, you can count on it that that equipment has brought about an INDISPENSABLE IMPROVEMENT and that it is, in every sense, a RELIABLE PRODUCT.

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipments

ARE USED FROM COAST TO COAST

Steady projection, clear pictures and perfect definition are insured. Any user will tell you that this simple apparatus is an indispensable part of his equipment.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Westinghouse

Business Offerings

SCENERY—Drops—painted to order in any size up to 12x20 feet—$10.00. BOON SCENIC STUDIOS, Hicksville, Ohio.

Experienced organist (lady), at liberty, relief work on pipe organ. Address B. E. P. c/o Motion Picture News.

OBEY THE LAW

Automatic rubber stamp, stamps each ticket War Tax Paid as you sell; operates out of your hand or fastens to wall under ticket roll. Postpaid $5.00.
Manufactured by
L. G. VANSYCKLE
Grand Forks, North Dakota

Unless You Have The
Automaticket System
You Are Losing Money
1733 Broadway, New York

MANUFACTURE REPAIR
MOTION PICTURE MACHINES AND SUPPLIES
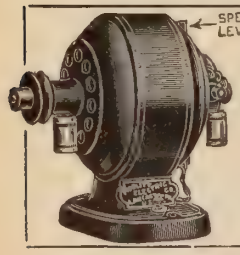
Stereopticons
Theatrical Lighting Apparatus
Stage Effects, etc., to order
HENRY MESTRUM
166 W. 48th St., New York
Succ. to C. B. Kleine, est. 1865
Bryant 2948



MOVING PICTURE MACHINE MOTOR
$18.00
Alternating or Direct Current Complete with variable speed lever. Immediate delivery
Fidelity Electric Co
Lancaster, Pa.

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
80 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone, 3227 Chelsea

Addressing Multigraphing
Printing Typewriting

is longer and therefore gives less shading of the crater. The greatest advantage of the direct current arc is the fact that the current travels only in one direction, and therefore the positive crater receives electrical energy continuously and consequently maintains a higher temperature.

As was stated above, the characteristics of the lower carbon on direct current are of greatest importance in securing steadiness of operation. The size of the upper carbon is determined by the power input of the arc. If the positive is too small the crater will overlap the end of the carbon and the arc will be noisy and unsteady. If too large the crater covers the end of the carbon and the arc again will be unsteady because the average temperature at the tip is lower. With the negative carbon the carrying capacity is the important factor, since the size of the negative carbon required by the negative spot is small. A small carbon keeps the arc steady and also eliminates the shadow due to the shading of the crater by the negative carbon itself. This problem has been solved by the Silvertip carbon, which is of extremely small diameter, and, being heavily coated with metal, will carry the high current required by long throws or thick films.

The Silvertip is sold in conjunction with the Columbia Upper. The Columbia Upper is a cored carbon in which the material of the core permits a long arc to be drawn and gives a pure white light. The Columbia Silvertip combination is a standard direct current trim.

The efficiency of the alternating current arc is lower than that of the direct current arc because of the difference in crater areas. Due to the rapid reversals of current, the function of each carbon alternates, so that at one instant the upper carbon is positive and the next instant it is negative. In this way neither carbon receives the current continuously, and therefore the crater temperature is

(Continued on page 426)

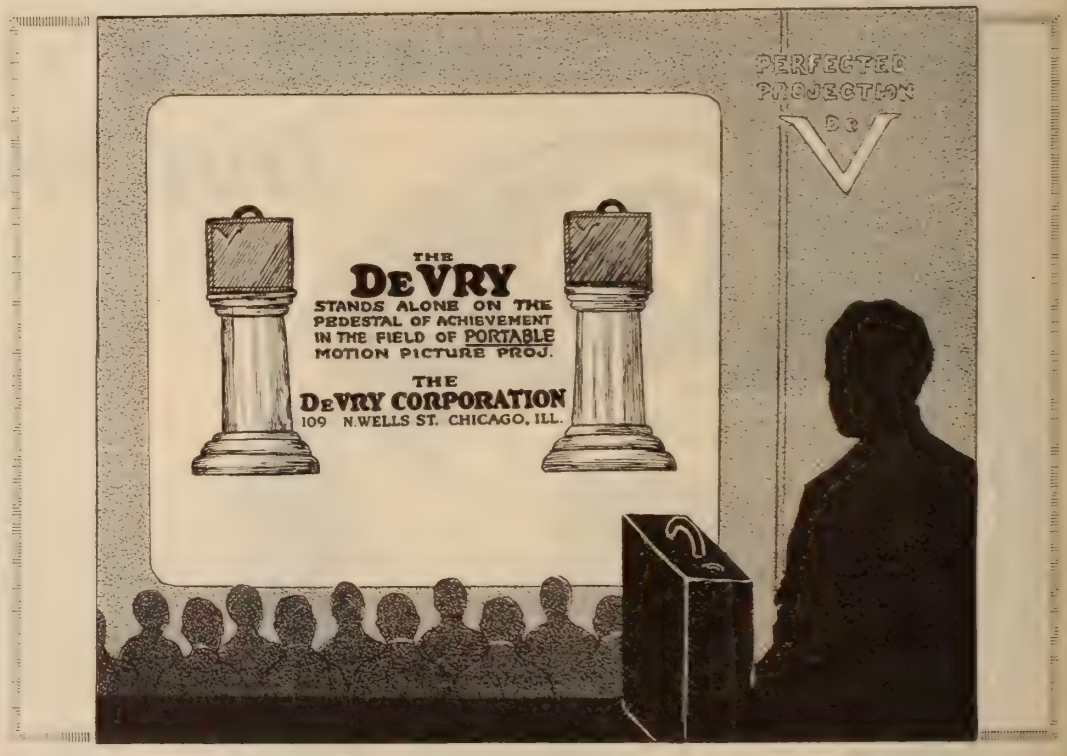
OPERATORS AND MANAGERS
Let the Projection Department Answer Your Inquiries

TransVerteR
You Need a Transverter
The Motor-Generator that produces perfect arcs for Picture Projection
You can make a perfect dissolve with two-arc Transverter
The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th St., Cleveland, O.
Exclusive Canadian Distributors
PERKINS ELECTRIC CO.
Head Office Montreal, Can.



PERFECTED PROJECTION
THE DEVRY
STANDS ALONE ON THE PEDESTAL OF ACHIEVEMENT IN THE FIELD OF PORTABLE MOTION PICTURE PROJ.
THE DEVRY CORPORATION
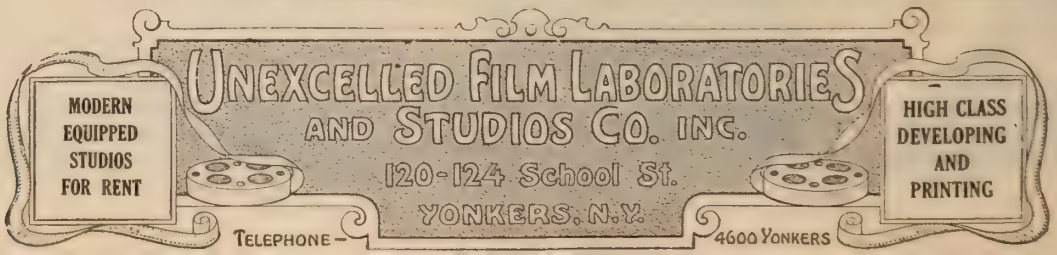
109 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.



MODERN EQUIPPED STUDIOS FOR RENT
UNEXCELLED FILM LABORATORIES AND STUDIOS CO. INC.
120-124 School St.
YONKERS, N.Y.
TELEPHONE — 4600 YONKERS
HIGH CLASS DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

WHITE A.C. SPECIAL

MOTION PICTURE CARBONS
FOR ALTERNATING CURRENT PROJECTION

Silent operation of the arc and flickerless screen illumination is a reality with the use of White A. C. Special carbons on alternating current. Complete elimination of these disagreeable features of the old A. C. arc has made the alternating current arc a much more efficient light source.

White A. C. Special carbons give a pure white light of high intensity so necessary for even screen illumination and perfect definition.

It is absolutely unnecessary to invest a single cent in extra equipment to obtain excellent low cost projection. Simply replace the old A. C. carbons with White A. C. Specials.

SILVERTIPS FOR DIRECT CURRENT PROJECTION

THE SILVERTIP IS THE STANDARD NEGATIVE CARBON

WRITE TODAY FOR OUR CIRCULARS

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio

WE EQUIP THEATRES THRUOUT, ASSIST THOSE WHO ARE JUST BEGINNING, AND MAKE A SPECIALTY OF

PROMPTNESS

MANY OF THE SOUTH'S FINEST PHOTO PLAYHOUSES WERE FURNISHED IN THEIR ENTIRETY BY US. WRITE FOR CATALOGUE.

Playing the Game Fair

Has Made Even Our Enemies and Competitors Think! Misrepresentation or exageration is an unknown quantity with the "HOUSE of LUCAS" That's why we operate extensively in fourteen states—enjoy the confidence of Southern Exhibitors—and furnish 75% of them with their daily requirements. 11 Years of Uninterrupted Success.

LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF EVERYTHING PERTAINING TO THE THEATRE

NATIONAL CARBONS
MINUSA SCREENS
TRANSVERTERS
CUSHMAN LIGHTING PLANTS

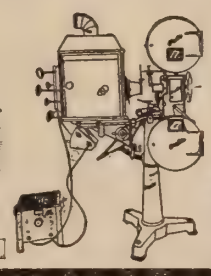
Flakilu OIL HAS A NATIONAL REPUTATION, IS EXTENSIVELY USED AND BEING ESPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR MOVING PICTURE MACHINES, MOTORS, ELECTRIC FANS, ETC., ENJOYS A LARGE FOLLOWING AMONG THE TRADE.

SPECIAL TRIAL OFFER CUT THIS AD OUT AND MAIL TO US WITH 25 CENTS IN STAMPS AND WE WILL IMMEDIATELY FORWARD YOU, ALL CHARGES PAID, A HALF PINT CAN. TRY IT UNDER THE MOST SEVERE TESTS. IF IT DOES NOT SATISFY, RETURN AT OUR EXPENSE.

SOLE SOUTHERN DISTRIBUTORS Simplex PROJECTORS

Service PLUS Quality
THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
ATLANTA-GEORGIA.

"AMERICA'S GREATEST INDEPENDENT MOVING PICTURE MAIL ORDER SUPPLY HOUSE



SOLE SOUTHERN DISTRIBUTORS Simplex PROJECTORS

Service PLUS Quality
THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
ATLANTA-GEORGIA.

"AMERICA'S GREATEST INDEPENDENT MOVING PICTURE MAIL ORDER SUPPLY HOUSE

Camera Labratory | Picture Making | Studio Technique

Modern Photographic Research at the Research Laboratory of the Eastman Kodak Company

By Alfred S. Cory

WITH the introduction by Mr. George Eastman of the hand-camera, or Kodak, and the readily portable, sensitive photographic roll film, photography was at once transformed into such an automatically certain and simple process that further research into the scientific aspects of the art might at first glance have seemed to be quite unnecessary. It is gratifying to note, however, that intensive research into the physics and chemistry of photographic processes, and into the design and improvement of the complementary appliances, is still carried on in all parts of the world, and it is especially befitting that the Kodak Company itself is a pioneer and a leader in scientific photographic research.

At Rochester, New York, the home of the Kodak and the flexible photographic film, there is an unrivalled institution devoted to both concrete and abstract research in photography and all cognate sciences, this institution being the Research Laboratory of the Eastman Kodak Company. On a recent visit to the "Kodak City" it was our privilege to secure a glimpse into this Research Laboratory, and we shall endeavor upon the present occasion to describe in brief fashion some of the many interesting departments and devices possessed by that institution and to outline briefly the results of some important investigations which have been carried through at the Research Laboratory under the guidance of its able director, Dr. C. E. Kenneth Mees.

The maintenance of experimental laboratories by large manufacturing concerns is by no means a new idea, and most every large industrial plant has one or more works-laboratories, where technical matters of immediate practical importance in connection with manufacturing procedure are investigated by technologists skilled in the factory operations. The Kodak Research Laboratory does not belong in the class with these essentially practical works-laboratories, however, but its scope is much wider and commences with the investigation of the fundamental theory of the subjects which it undertakes to elucidate. Thus, instead of technologists, a staff of trained scientists are required to carry through its researches, and the results of these researches may not, and sometimes do not, prove immediately applicable to the work of the parent manufacturing concern. It is an important requirement, however, that the director and staff of such a theoretical institution should be well versed in the actual manufacturing procedures of the industry with which it is allied, and this requirement is fulfilled at the Kodak Research Laboratory, where the director, Dr. Mees, has had fundamental training in the practical production of photographic materials. This gives the research institution a sympathetic attitude towards the needs of the manufacturing departments, and this co-ordination is still further realized at the Kodak Laboratory through the installation and operation therein of a completely equipped plant where photographic plates, films and papers are manufactured on a thoroughly commercial scale, so that a process, when perfected in the laboratory, can be transferred successfully to the manufacturing branch.

The Kodak Research Laboratory was organized in 1912, and was in full operation by the middle of 1913. It is located in the midst of the vast Kodak Park Works, which we recently described, and consists of a steel frame building, 80 feet square and three stories high, having in addition a basement the full size of the building, which houses the machinery for the manufacturing equipment and gives room also for the emulsion department, where experimental emulsions for plates, film and paper can be prepared.

On the first floor are rooms provided with the necessary machines for the coating and packing of dry plates. In these rooms an amount of plates equal to that made in an average small dry plate factory can be coated and packed every day, and it is here that the well-known Wratten and Wainwright panchromatic plates, sensitive to all colors, are made. In another section is the requisite machinery for coating either film or paper in sufficient quantity for extended practical tests. An interesting description of the Research Laboratory, as it appeared in 1913, was published at that time by Dr. Mees [1], but as some modifications have been made in the initial arrangements as a result of the many delicate and highly specialized researches carried out in the ensuing years, we will proceed with our description from the recollections of our recent visit.

Just inside the main entrance of the laboratory one encounters the Kodak Park Library, an important adjunct to the laboratory itself, which is in addition open to all employes at the Kodak Park Works. The library comprises a noteworthy collection of scientific and technical literature, embracing photography, physics, chemistry, optics and associated subjects, all of which are represented by large numbers of volumes, ranging from purely theoretical works down to the most elementary treatises. The collection of books is essentially modern in character, thus suiting the requirements of the active investigator or experimenter, but here and there some interesting antiquity is to be noted in the line of early treatises on photography or optics. There are complete sets of the more important technical journals, which are constantly required for reference in an institution such as the laboratory, and practically all of the scientific journals and transactions of learned societies throughout the world are received at the library as published. The photographic magazines and trade journals, embracing various industries, are likewise received and carefully scanned by the laboratory staff, who abstract the items of likely interest for publication in the Monthly Abstract Bulletin. This valuable little compilation goes to all departments of the Kodak Company and saves its numerous readers the trouble of perusing dozens of periodicals each month in order to keep posted as to the latest work upon subjects in which they are interested. Continuous files are maintained of the more important scientific journals, and of the photographic periodicals, while the trade journals are filed for one year, and in some instances for two years back. The care and arrangement of this ambitious collection of literature is in the hands of a lady librarian, which seems a wise choice, as the average man would hardly have the patience to carry out faithfully the extensive amount of detail involved. The Motion Picture News is read until the covers are worn off by the various Kodak employes, who regularly visit the Kodak Park Library.

Proceeding to the second floor of the Research Laboratory, we come to a suite of offices where the routine and clerical work of the institution is conducted, and there is also a conference room where the staff meets frequently to discuss co-operatively the methods and results of the various researches. The office of Director Mees is on this second floor, and it was here that Dr. Mees received us upon the occasion of our visit, after which we enjoyed, in his company, a "personally conducted" tour through the research departments. War-time requirements and the necessity of our sending experienced aerial photographers to the battlefields of France have, for the present, taken Dr. Mees and his staff from the scene of their experimental endeavors to the class-rooms of the army school of aviation photography, where they are acting as photographic instructors, Dr. Mees himself being chief instructor at the Kodak Park School.

Having lofty ideals, Dr. Mees elected to start our excursion through the laboratory at the third, or top floor, which is largely devoted to actual photographic work, and is equipped with two studios having north light. First we inspect the process-studio, which is equipped with an enormous process-camera, specially constructed by Watson, of London. This elegant camera is mounted n the most approved fashion upon an iron base, or frame, having ubular metal rails, or tracks, along which the heavy camera can e moved with great ease to suit the requirements of any copying r experimenting which is undertaken. As correct theory and ractice in tricolor photography and reproduction is a subject for vhich Dr. Mees and the laboratory have always stood sponsors, ve find this process-camera fitted up in most elegant form for he production of color-separation negatives. A set of tricolor ilters (in optical flats) with a dummy (clear glass and gelatine) ilter of identical thickness are mounted in a circular disc, which n turn is so mounted to the lens-board of the process-camera that he filters may be rotated behind the lens by turning a knob on he exterior of the camera front. Thus the various filters may e rapidly brought behind the lens as required, and they are, more- ver, protected from dust and damage by being located inside the amera. The copy to be reproduced is illuminated by northern laylight, or by flaming photographic arc-lights, the lamps used in he process studio being Panchroma Twin-Arcs with reinforced oods. All necessary attachments, such as prisms, objectives, etc., re at hand for use in the reproduction photography, the Cooke rocess-lens being highly esteemed at the laboratory as it is by hoto-engravers everywhere.

[1] Sci. Amer. Supplement, July 26, 1913—pp. 56-57.

Right across the corridor from the process-studio is the X-ray oom, which promises to make important contributions to the ractice of Roentgenography, and to the existing knowledge of X-radiation. This X-ray room has its walls and floor covered with hick sheet lead (which is opaque to X-rays), and for the protec- ion of the operator a screen of lead-covered boards, containing a ead-glass window, extends across the room. A powerful Snook nachine, capable of very rapid work, is used to generate the rays, while a variety of tubes are used, the celebrated Coolidge X-ray ubes being regarded as highly important in the work done at the aboratory. The laboratory has already issued a communication n "The Sensitometry of X-ray Materials,"[2] which compares the H. and D. constants in the case of plates exposed to white light nd to X-radiation, respectively, and also furnishes information bout the action of X-rays upon a plate (or film) exposed behind n intensifying screen. A few words concerning this investiga- ion may, therefore, be of more than passing interest.

In the sensitometry of X-ray plates exposed to X-radiation, as arried out at the Research laboratory, the Snook interrupter is sed minus its transformer and rectifier, while Coolidge tubes of various focussing characteristics transmit the radiation to the plate being tested. It is apparent that if the influence of this invisible radiation upon the sensitometric constants of a plate is to be com- pared with the white light characteristics of the same constants the plates must be exposed to the X-rays in a similar manner to that employed in ordinary sensitometry, i. e., a series of increasing exposures of known value must be given the plate, the exposing light itself (in this case the X-ray tube) being at a constant dis- tance from the plate and also radiating in as nearly as possible a constant manner. The Coolidge tubes give a very uniform per- formance, and the influence of current fluctuation can be fairly well evaded by specifying the intensity of the X-radiation in terms of voltage, current distance and time. Inasmuch as the current used to generate the X-rays is of a pulsating character (60-cycle A. C.), it will at once be apparent that the plate cannot receive its gradu- ated series of exposures behind a sector-wheel of the customary H. and D. type, because the results would be severely affected by the sector-disc getting into synchronism with the pulsations of the current from the interrupter, just as a three-wing motion picture projector shutter gets into step with one side of a 60-cycle A. C. wave. Accordingly a non-intermittent sensitometer is used in the work on X-ray sensitometry, whereby the plate is moved across the path of the rays and stopped at intervals, thus receiving a gradu- ated series of exposures of accurately known value. (This type of sensitometer will be more completely described further on.) It has been found most convenient in the X-ray experiments to have the exposures increase by $\sqrt{2}$, instead of by the usual geometrical pro- gression of the H. and D. method. The X-ray tube circuit and the plate shifting mechanism of the sensitometer are connected so as to co-operate properly in producing the exposures, which are accu- rately known to within 3 per cent.

Characteristic curves of the X-rayed plates, plotted in the usual manner (D against log E), are nearly hyperbolic in form, showing a long toe and no pronounced straight-line portion. An average of the slope of the straight-line portion has therefore to be taken as an expression of the "gamma," or contrast of these X-ray test plates, but their sensitometric characteristics will be mathematically explained by the laboratory in due course. It is also interesting to note that the reproduction characteristics of X-ray plates in conjunction with intensifying screens may likewise be ascertained to advantage by sensitometric methods, and it has been shown by the laboratory (loc. cit.) that the density gradient is steeper in the case of negatives exposed to X-rays in contact with a screen than it is in the case of direct exposures to that kind of radiation. In the latter case, maximum photographic action occurs through the entire thickness of the emulsion film.

Microscopy of the silver bromide photographic emulsion, and of developed plate-grain, must necessarily assume an important position in modern photographic research, and upon leaving the X-ray room our attention was next engaged by the photo-micrographic department of the laboratory, where an extensive investigation of this subject has been carried out. With the aid of microscopic apparatus of the most precise type, an atlas of photomicrographs has been secured which shows intimately and exhaustively the characteristics of silver bromide crystals, and the effect of development on crystals which have been exposed to light. In the production of these important photographs many new emulsion characteristics were ascertained; in fact, sufficient data was recorded to fill a book on this subject alone.

A preliminary paper on the "Physical Characteristics of the Elementary Grains of a Photographic Plate"[3] details some results of this lengthy investigation, which is of special interest to cinematographers in view of the appearance of grain in projected motion picture images. It is pointed out in the paper referred to that what is generally referred to by photographers as "grain" is really agglomerations of grains lying in various sections of the emulsion layer, the projections of which upon one another (partly overlapping) form the clusters of perceptible size, which are commonly called plate grains. As a matter of fact, the elementary, or individual, silver grains of a developed plate are so small as to be entirely invisible except under high microscopic amplification, the average diameter of a developed silver grain being about 2.5μ (μ = .001 m m.). The paper cited gives the size of grains in developed cine positive film as 1.0μ, and in a rapid negative emulsion (similar to cine negative film) as 3.2μ, while emulsions of different characteristics, of course, possess grains of other sizes. Besides the grains whose size can be measured, or estimated, the various emulsions also contain many others which are so small as to be termed ultra-microscopic.

It has also been established by these microscopical researches that the elementary halide grains of undeveloped emulsions are silver bromide crystals of definite structure. The predominating type of crystals are tetrahedral in form, the larger grains being apparently aggregations of tetrahedra, while incomplete and truncated crystals are also met with. Although the particles in an emulsion are in intimate contact with the gelatine, the laboratory considers that the inner mass of each particle is pure silver salt, since when water strikes the unexposed crystals no swelling is at all observable, even under the highest microscopic magnification. The effect of development upon individual silver grains has also been studied, and it is commonly found that development will start at a number of separate places on one and the same grain, continuing until the grain has been completely reduced to sooty black silver. The presence of various muclei (where the development starts) on one and the same grain is probably due to the exposing light being reflected onto this grain in several places from the facets of neighboring silver bromide crystals in the emulsion.

It was not attempted in this investigation on plate-grain to correlate the performance of individual grains with the behavior of the sensitive film as a whole, but Dr. Mees advises us that the results bear out very well the statements and conjectures made in his paper, "The Physics of the Photographic Process."[4] Accordingly, the notion, popularly held by photographers, that the speed of emulsions is a direct function of grain size, is not capable of being stated so simply, because the physical character of large grains is different from that of small ones, and the two classes of grains are not put into the developable condition (by light action) in the same manner.

(To be continued.)

[2] "Brit. Jl. Phot.," Dec. 28, 1917—pp. 654-657.

[3] "Brit. Jl. Phot.," Oct. 19, 1917—pp. 532-534.

[4] "Jl. Franklin Inst.," Feb. 1915—pp. 141-160.

ALVIN WYCKOFF

Director of Photography, Lasky Studio, Hollywood

"I have used the Harvey M. P. Meter under all conditions photographable that could possibly be presented on exterior work, during daylight hours, and found it absolutely correct in every instance.

"I do not hesitate to say that the Harvey M. P. Meter 'A' should be included in the equipment of every cameraman, regardless of how expert he may be, as there are certain conditions of light on exteriors that the most experienced operator will go wrong on at times."

ALLAN DWAN

Los Angeles, Calif.

"My own cameraman, Hugh McClung, endorses your Motion Picture Meter."

CARL L. GREGORY

2nd Lieutenant, Sig. R. C.
Chief Instructor
U. S. School of Military Cinematography
Columbia University, New York City

Editor M. P. Photography Section of the Moving Picture World:

"I regard your Motion Picture Meter as the best that has appeared on the market."

PHOTO-ERA

"We believe that it will become invaluable to the motion-picture photographer, for it has many practical and distinctive features. As to the latter, the Harvey reputation for accuracy, simplicity and service is built right into it."

SIMPLEX PHOTO PRODUCTS CO.

Richmond Hill, L. I. New York

"Your M. P. Meter 'A' is a revelation to the art of animated photography.

"Its invaluable qualifications are such as to leave no room for other than unstinted praise.

"Any motion picture camera operator is certainly more at sea without it than a mariner without his compass."

Price $2.50

Your Dealer or

G. L. HARVEY

105 South Dearborn Street, Chicago

Book Review

THE SCIENCE AND PRACTICE OF PHOTOGRAPHY

By John R. Roebuck, Ph.D.

Publisher—D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Price $2.00.

THIS work is stated by the author to be intended as a class-room text, for use in conjunction with a course in photography which has been given for some seven years past at the Physics Laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

After having gotten through the inevitable chapter on the historical development of photography, Mr. Roebuck next takes up the properties of the gelatine dry-plate, and it is this second chapter which the average reader will thank him for, because a good elementary exposition of Hurter and Driffield's sensitometric methods is here given. The mathematics of the H. & D. method have been simplified to the greatest extent possible, which will win the gratitude of the amateur, although the author uses a system of notation and symbols of his own, which differs in many instances from that in the standard literature on sensitometry.

A further chapter on plate characteristics takes up the subject of orthochromatism, after which follows a chapter where latent-image theories are reviewed, the author apparently favoring the hypothesis that the latent image consists of silver particles suspended in silver bromide in colloidal solution, and that the action of light is to liberate some bromine which combines with the gelatine of the emulsion, leaving a minute portion of silver incorporated in the particle and thus putting it into the developable condition.

Negative defects and positive processes occupy two chapters of essentially practical nature, after which comes a chapter on lenses in which photographic optics is treated in the loose and more or less inaccurate manner common to most all general treatises on photography. The old fiction is retained, for instance, that the f values represent actual ratios of diaphragm diameters to the focal length, while we note another statement that the spherical aberration is small in lenses with concentric spherical surfaces, whereas the historic lens of this type, the Ross Concentric, was more severely afflicted with spherical aberration than any other compound lens of a generation. Mr. Roebuck has borrowed most of his optical diagrams from Derr's book, "Photography for Students of Physics and Chemistry," without the courtesy of acknowledging his indebtedness.

In the ensuing chapter, which treats of color photography, the various well known methods are shortly outlined, beginning with Lippmann interference photographs, and describing the Ives Photochromoscope (additive) method, the Sanger-Shepherd, the Pinatype, and other subtractive processes, and finally the various screen-plate methods. It seems to us that Mr. Roebuck has been remiss in not describing more particularly the characteristics of tricolor filters, because a knowledge of the spectral transmissions of such filter sets is necessary to a proper understanding of the principles of color photography, and we believe that this phase of the subject should find recognition in any course conducted at a college physics laboratory, where apparatus is presumably at hand for the spectroscopic study of filter characteristics.

The concluding chapter of the work is devoted to composition, lighting and other factors which go to make good pictures, after which follows a Laboratory Manual of some sixty pages, setting forth the experiments embraced by the author's course in photography. This is, of course, primarily intended for his pupils, since the whole work was planned as a text-book, but the amateur worker may find some interesting suggestions for instructive experiments in the course as laid out by Mr. Roebuck. Supplementing the Laboratory Manual are two appendices, one giving a list of the laboratory apparatus required by the course, and the other describing the assembling and calibration of a simple photometer for measuring negative densities.

The book is marred by numerous misspells, due, apparently, to hasty or careless proofreading, but it should be welcomed by photographers in general, by reason of the gratifying prominence which it gives to scientific methods of investigating and studying the characteristics and properties of plates.

A. S. C.

"The photography is clear and sharp throughout"

Does the critic's review of your production contain these Words?

The Craftsmen Process of positive printing will secure this comment for YOUR picture.

You can be sure of obtaining a superior order of laboratory SERVICE and QUALITY from us.

The Craftsmen Film Laboratories, Inc.

249 to 253 West 19th Street

New York, N. Y.

Telephones: Chelsea 6836 - 6837 - 8837

The importance of safe-guarding a reputation is not under-estimated at the Eastman factories.

EASTMAN FILM

means a film that is absolutely dependable and uniform—rigid tests and careful inspection prevent its ever meaning anything else.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

RADIO MAT-SLIDE
PATENT APPLIED FOR RADIO SLIDES
Can be written on a typewriter like a letter.
Flash on your screen at a moment's notice
War News, Liberty Loan announcements, Coming Attractions, Election Returns and a hundred other bits of News that will interest your patrons.
For Sale by all Leading Dealers
RADIO MAT-SLIDE CO. MAKERS
NEW YORK

JUST SAY TO YOUR DEALER RADIOS PLEASE

$1.75 Box of 50

For Sale by All Leading Dealers

Accept no substitute—samples free
RADIO MAT-SLIDE CO. 121 WEST 42nd ST. NEW YORK CITY

SERVICE AND QUALITY

Owing to our Central location, we are able to give you quick service on all MAIL ORDERS. We carry a large stock of all goods for the Moving Picture Theatre and can make IMMEDIATE SHIPMENTS.

WE GUARANTEE ALL GOODS TO BE AS REPRESENTED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

GIVE US A TRIAL.

Write today for Catalog

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade
300-302 Mallers Building 5 South Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre

WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Government Credits Bausch & Lomb with Initial Success in American Production of Optical Glass

IN time of war the optical industry is one of high importance, as telescopes, range-finders and other precise optical instruments of like character are of fundamental importance in successful military operations.

All readers are well aware that throughout the course of the present war the large optical concerns have all concentrated on the production of apparatus required by our fighting forces to the exclusion of everything else, but it is not so generally known that the optical concerns have long labored under the handicap of an insufficient supply of optical glass of the requisite quality and variety, the shortage being due to the previous almost exclusive use of imported optical glass.

Foreseeing the inevitable shortage of optical glass the Bausch and Lomb Optical Co. of Rochester, New York, the largest concern of its kind in the United States, erected a special factory at Rochester for the production of optical glass, with the view of assisting the Government in its military requirements, as well as insuring its own supply.

The following details concerning the celerity with which the Bausch and Lomb Co. succeeded in securing successful melts of optical glass is reproduced from the Rochester Herald of July 2:

"Credit for solving the secret of producing grades of optical glass which were formerly imported, and the importation of which was stopped by the war, is accorded to the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company of this city in an article authorized by the War Industries Board and appearing in a recent issue of the Official Bulletin.

"As a result of co-operation between the manufacturers and scientists, large quantities of optical glass of the kinds needed for military fire control instruments are being produced in America of a quality equal in practically every respect to the best European glass.

"The need for a continuous and assured supply of optical glass is so great that the workmen trained in the details of manufacture and subject to draft are being withheld from draft in order that their technical training may be utilized at this time. The required formation and details of manufacture, and the skill necessary for proper production have been gained at great expense and under high pressure.

"Optical glass, although not required in large quantities, is nevertheless an item in war operations which is important because by optical instruments much of the firing, especially of artillery, is directed. If the men are not equipped with adequate fire control instruments, or cannot see to aim properly, their firing can serve little purpose. A field army or a battleship without field glasses, telescopes and other optical instruments is manifestly placed at a serious disadvantage.

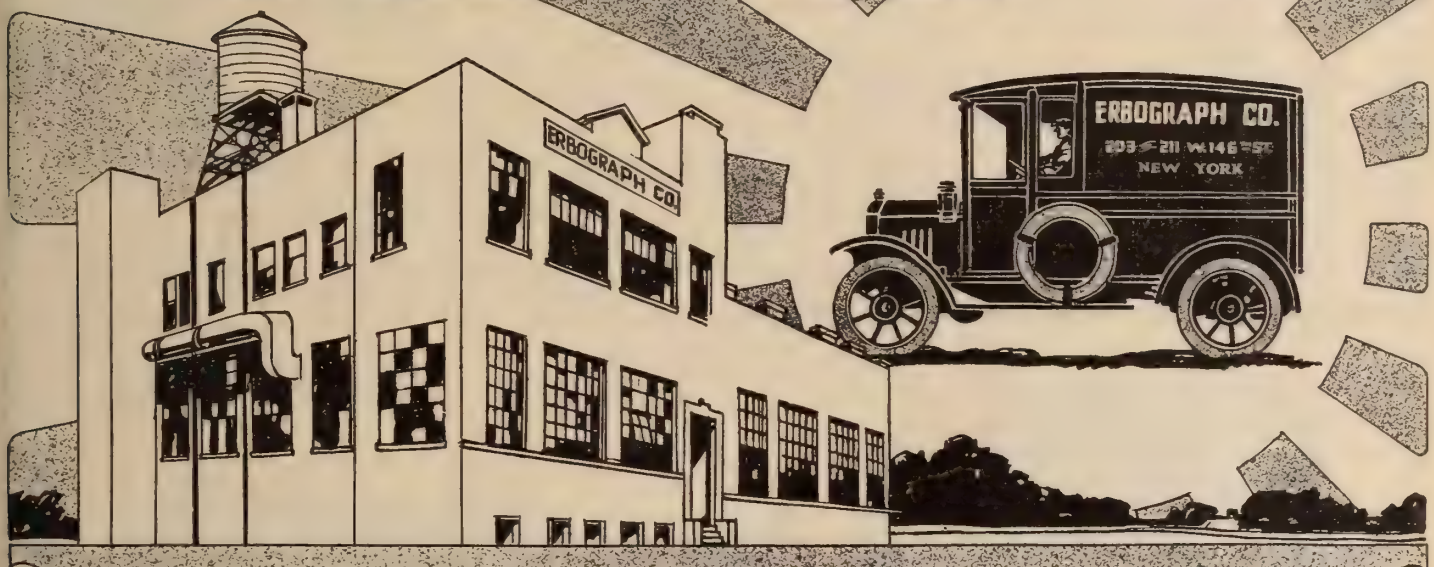
"Before the war little effort was made to produce optical glass in the United States. Manufacturers of optical instruments were able to obtain optical glass in desired quantity and quality from Europe and consequently did not feel the necessity for making it themselves. In 1912, however, the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, of Rochester, built an experimental optical glass plant and placed a practical glassmaker in charge; by 1914 this company was able to produce a few types of optical glass.

"By the end of 1914 the importation of optical glass had become difficult and uncertain. Other firms, as Keuffel & Esser, of Hoboken, and Spencer Lens Company, Buffalo, and the Bureau of Commerce, at Washington, began to experiment in making optical glass. By 1917, when the United States entered the war, the optical glass situation had become critical. The European supply was practically cut off. Optical glass had to be made in this country if our army and navy were to receive the fire control instruments which they needed.

"The geographical laboratory of the Carnegie Institute of Washington was called upon to aid in the production of high grade optical glass. A party from the laboratory was stationed at the plant of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company in April, 1917, and for seven months all efforts of the laboratory were concentrated at this plant. At the end of 1917 the essential details of the manufacture had been developed and glass in considerable quantities was being produced. The efforts of the laboratory were then extended to the Spencer Lens Company and to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company of Pittsburgh."

ERBOGRAPH

FOR SERVICE



PRODUCERS OF

MOTION PICTURE FILMS

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPING and PRINTING

Telephone Audubon 3716

ERBOGRAPH CO.

LUDWIG G.B.ERB President

203-211 WEST 146TH STREET NEW YORK

ALFRED ART STUDIOS

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

have long been considered standard equipment by the leading motion picture machine manufacturers. The product of America's greatest lens specialists, who have been producing high grade lenses of one type or another for 65 years, they are unexcelled in the clear-cut, evenly illuminated pictures they produce on the screen.

Because of the demand made upon our resources for some of the Government's most important military needs, we are unable to make projection lens deliveries for the present. While proud to be of such service in this world crisis, we shall expect to serve our other patrons even more efficiently than before, when the world is again at peace.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.

569 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Projection Apparatus (Balopticons and Lenses), Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Binoculars, Range Finders, Gun Sights, Searchlight Reflectors and Other High-Grade Optical Products.

Remember it is through the print that the production is judged by the public.

Safeguard YOUR production by entrusting the DEVELOPING and PRINTING to us.

We have a reputation for quality and promptness.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO.

416-24 West 216th Street New York City

Telephone 6881-2 Audubon

WHY PAY—

$58.50 for 110 volt Motors

and an additional sum for 220 volt motors for POWER 6A when we will sell you a thoroughly efficient motor equipment, 110 or 220 volts A. C. or D. C. for $35.00 net, including the motor attachment for your mechanism? Our motors have no wooden bearings and no friction wheels to wear out. We are exclusive distributors for SIMPLEX Machines and all Supplies.

LEWIS M. SWAAB

1327 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Notes on Carobns

(Continued from page 418)

less. Also the arc must be kept short, since only under this condition are sharply defined craters formed. Using the ordinary alternating current carbon, a short air gap gives a hissing and sputtering arc which is very unstable. By using cored carbons, the cores of which are impregnated with carefully prepared chemicals, The National Carbon Company, Inc., has made available to the industry an absolutely silent and flickerless alternating current arc. In developing the White A. C. Special carbons this company has given special attention to the color of the light source, and as a result the light approaches that of the direct current arc in color value. By the use of proper chemicals a light source of high intensity is obtained which is far above that of the old cored carbons. The size of the carbons for perfect projection is governed by the current carrying capacity and the formation of the craters. The National Carbon Company, Inc., recommends the following sizes for the different current requirements:

Direct Current

Current	Size Carbons
For 25 to 50 Amps. D. C. use..	5/8 x 12" Columbia Cored Upper 5/16 x 6" Silvertip S'lid Lower
For 50 to 65 Amps. D. C. use..	3/4 x 12" Columbia Cored Upper 11/32 x 6" Silvertip S'lid Lower
For 65 to 70 Amps. D. C. use..	7/8 x 12" Columbia Cored Upper 11/32 x 6" Silvertip S'lid Lower
For 70 to 85 Amps. D. C. use..	7/8 x 12" Columbia Cored Upper 3/8 x 6" Silvertip S'lid Lower
For 85 to 100 Apms. D. C. use.	1 x 12" Columbia Cored Upper 7/16 x 6" Silvertip Cored Lower

For Alternating Current Only

Amperes	Carbon Diameter
40 or less than 60	5/8" Combination
60 or less than 75	3/4" Combination
75 or less than 100	7/8" Combination

The distribution and utilization of the light in a projection machine is of vital importance. As has been stated before, the positive carbon in the D. C. arc is the hottest and gives about 95 per cent of the light. To utilize the maximum amount of light the positive crater should face the lense. The theoretical condition would be to have the positive crater in the optical axis and directly facing the condensing lenses, with the negative placed so that no portion of the lense is shaded by it.

Fig. 1 gives the proper position of the carbons for the Columbia Silvertip trim. In this setting the lower is advanced 1/16 in., while the arc distance "A" is kept as long as possible without unsteadiness. This gives the longest carbon life and uniform screen illumination, and for alternating current projection the carbons may be set as shown in Fig. 2. This setting permits the maximum amount of light to fall upon the condensing lens.

Corcoran Makes Large Installation of Laboratory Tanks

THE A. J. CORCORAN CO., INC., of 751-753 Jersey avenue, Jersey City, N. J., advise us that they have recently made a large installation of Corcoran film tanks, in the new laboratory of the Kineto Co. of America, 71 West 23d street, New York. The installation comprises 100 Corcoran tanks, and in addition 500 film racks were also supplied.

In making the installation the Corcoran Co. broke all speed records, thus enabling the Kineto Co. to turn out the prints of "Pershing's Crusaders" in time for the scheduled initial performances.

Cameragraphs in Omaha

THREE of the finest theatres west of Chicago have been equiped with Powers Cameragraphs No. 6 B. They are the Strand, Rialto and Empress of Omaha.

IN SPITE OF THE WAR

We Still Have in Stock the Imported

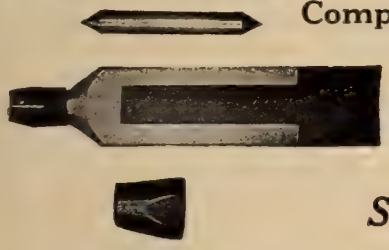
Pathe, Debrie
Moy and Prestwich
MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS

Complete Line of Universal Cameras, Tripods and Accessories always on hand



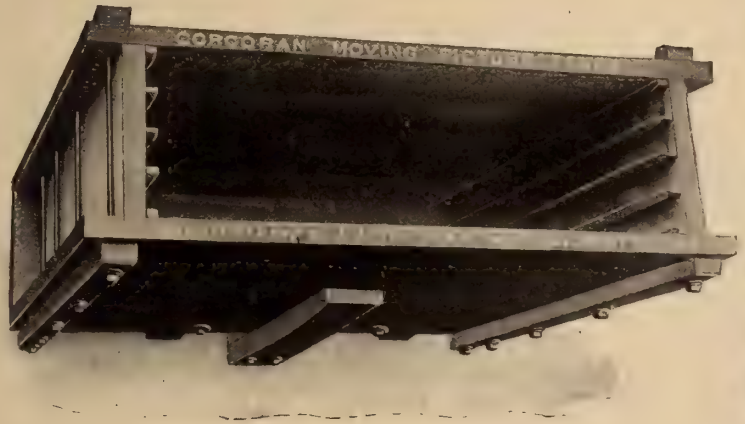
The New Precision Tripod illustrated is in a class all by itself

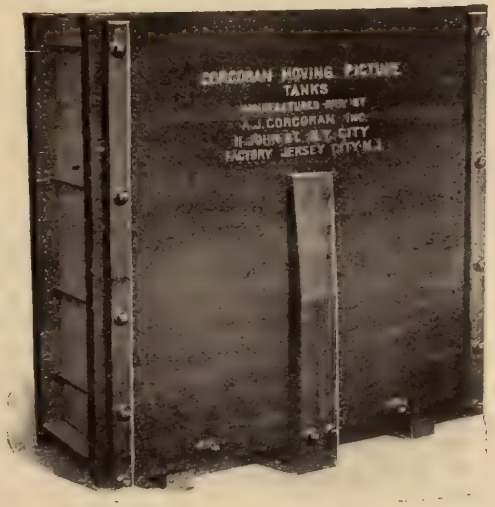
See It and Judge for Yourself

Motion Picture Apparatus Company
110 West 32nd Street, New York City

Phone
Farragut 4779

LABORATORY INSURANCE CORCORAN TANKS





Why invest your money in expensive chemicals and pay salaries for competent men to mix your developing solutions, in order that your negatives will receive proper chemical attention, but overlook the fact that a cheaply constructed and leaky tank will jeopardize your result? Interest yourself in this statement and send for our circular number 12.

A. J. CORCORAN, Inc.

PATENTEES AND MANUFACTURERS

INSTALLED BY

Biograph Co.	Burton Holmes
Vitagraph Co.	Fox Film Corp.
Thomas A. Edison	Famous Players
Gaumont Co.	Solax Co.
American Film Mfg. Co.	U. S. Government
Kinemacolor Co.	Thanhouser Film Co.
Mutual Film Corp.	Universal Film Co.
Kineto Co. of America	Pathe Freres
Goldwyn Corp.	Kalem Co.

Rothacker Film Co.

Office and Factory:
Jersey City, N. J.—753 JERSEY AVENUE
Telephone: Montgomery 238

Cue Sheets Latest Hits | Music | Musical Equipment

Real Novelties in Film Music

AMONGST those compositions especially designed to interpret the emotions of the film and particularly worthy of note are a new series just published, composed by that prolific composer of "Classics for the Masses," Gaston Borch, and it is only necessary to enumerate the titles and tempos when leaders will quickly realize their value. They comprise a new and very interesting descriptive series and amongst them may be mentioned "Silent Sorrows," a characteristic andante pathetique, "Peacefulness," a beautiful andante semplice idyll. "The Crafty Spy," an original descriptive mysterioso. "Battle of Ypres," a characteristic war scene. "Turbulence," a melodious allegro agitato con fuoco. "Perpetual Motion," an allegro agitato-ala tarantella, and "The "Slimy Viper," a mysterious tone picture.

Another gem which may be accredited to the pen of this noted writer is that delightful and charming number. "May Dreams," a characteristic moderato serenade. Gaston Borch will likewise easily be recalled by his famous waltz, "Sleeping Rose,'" which breathes of the fragrance of the rose, also those capricious and winsome intermezzos, "Capricious Annette" and "Impish Elves" and another well-known intermezzo, "Yesterlove."

Another new idea has been developed, a descriptive composition which will play six minutes without becoming monotonous to the performer or audience. They were tried out in symphonic form by one of the large theatre orchestras in New York City and heartily endorsed. The three already published are "Military Hurry" for battle scenes. "Furioso" for general use, and "Hurry" for general use. Furthermore, an "Aftermath" or "Coda" is added which maintains the character of the composition, but in a subdued manner, and by making a crescendo, the transition or "Segue" into the next number does not become apparent. They are composed and orchestrated by that talented musician who has contributed many other gems especially designed for film interpretation, Sol P. Levy.

Is Music Non-Essential?

THOUSANDS of human beings certainly have a practical interest in this subject, since it is by music that many earn their daily bread.

They have depended upon it so long and exclusively, that if, for one reason or another, it should come under the ban, they are the losers. The Government cannot afford to do this; hence in a negative sense music is an essential.

Music is a luxury; it is the only luxury that the poor can share equally with the rich, an art level where they meet upon equal terms. It is the epitome of socialism; the fragrance from the flower of democracy. Hence as a demonstration that, in one particular at least, all men are equal, it is an essential.

It burns in the souls of some with such a fervor that, if it did not find an outlet for expression, it would consume them to their destruction. To such, above all others, music is an essential.

"And when they had sung a hymn."—Matthew 26, 30th. Viewed from the standpoint of the musician, this is the most significant of all historical facts. It is twice stated in the Gospels. It establishes music as an undeniable necessity to the spiritual growth of man. The last supper ended by the singing of a hymn. It is followed by the employment of music as worship in all Christian churches. Here in greater measure than we can estimate is music an essential.

While a hundred arguments could be brought forward to substantiate the claim that music is an essential, let us rest our case without them. Why reiterate the conclusive?

Our first impression on hearing the question was a suspicion as to the sincerity or motive of its originators. We felt that it could not be asked seriously; but on reviewing present disturbing conditions it seemed quite possible that some one who cared nothing for music, but much for his country might in his effort to help his Government over the present crisis have precipitated the question. He must, however, have reasoned somewhat as follows:

"We are expected to economize in every way possible, to conserve food, to lend money to the Government by buying stamps and bonds; to give money to the Government, whenever we go to a theatre or a concert, or whenever we ride upon a railroad train. Millions of patriotic women are knitting, working for the Red Cross, the surgical dressings and in a thousand other ways, doing their best to avert the collapse of civilization. But what about music? Here is an out-and-out extravagance that is non-essential, and should be curtailed if not prohibited until after the war. Statistics show that the American people are spending half a billion dollars a year on its various activities. And for what? Nothing but just the satisfaction that some people experience, or think they do, in hearing different kinds and varieties of sounds. And what of the time and money wasted in the manufacture of the instruments that make these sounds? There are instruments, many of them of exquisite symmetry, all varying in design, which, in a great measure, affect the quality of the sounds that emanate from them. In one variety people push down especially prepared parts with their hands, sometimes with their feet. There are others to which are fastened from end to end cords of various sizes, across which are guided long, slender sticks, the ends of which are connected with other sorts of strings. There are instruments of brass into which men blow their breath and which they push out, making them long, and draw in, making them short, or on a part of which they push down small valve heads. Other kinds are made of wood, shaped into hollow tubes, the surfaces of which are dotted with holes, which are constantly being covered or uncovered with the fingers of those who are blowing air through the tubes. And then there are instruments made somewhat in the shape of barrels, across the ends of which are stretched the dried skin of animals; upon these men pound with great gusto. But why further describe the many devices which men are using from which to entice varieties of sound? It is undeniable that people spend much valuable time in becoming skillful in the use of these noisy toys. For many years those who indulged in these fancied pleasures were content to hear the kind of sounds that most interested them when they were actually being made by those who had become expert. But recently there have been invented machines which have a revolving table, precisely the same as those used by the makers of pottery. These machines repeat the sounds made by the above instruments ad infinitum et ad nauseam. It is difficult for an unprejudiced person to view with complacency this tremendous waste of money, time and energy in a pursuit so clearly unessential."

If our "unprejudiced" patriot had realized the value of his message to the musical world, he would hardly have delivered it. From such sources have sprung the most vivid enlightenment. It is not that music needs champions, but it is inevitable that the art is promoted by a clearer vision as to the nature of its claims. It also reiterates the fact that there are two sides to every question. It is quite clear to its votaries that music is an essential. They cannot reason from the standpoint of the unmusical man, they can only try to answer the question for themselves. Their line of thought may be something like the following: We cannot eat it; if we could, there would follow musicless days; one cannot wear it; it is altogether too diaphanous to shed either heat or cold; one cannot plant it with any expectation of its coming up; one cannot bury it with the hope that it will stay down; one cannot drink it, though the gurgle is sometimes perceptible; though we cannot smoke it, we sometimes feel its fire. It is impossible to pawn it, for even your uncle with its keen sense as to values sees no money there.

Indeed, as far as experience has yet carried us, music is the most intangible thing with which we have to deal. We are taught to regard with faith the existence of spiritual beings. How can we doubt that such beings exist when we consider the nature of our art? If, however, we attempt to solve the riddle of its nature we confront the penultimate of intangibility. Music connects us with the unseen only through the phenomena of sound. Dismiss this phenomena, and behold! Music still remains. No longer the penultimate, but the spirit itself. You know science is still searching for the fourth dimension. Lead the scientist to the musician, and he will reveal it to him. It is hardly necessary to say to you who are musicians that the printed page is not music. It only carries the signs that point the way. The piano untouched is only a piece of furniture. The violin unstrung is dead. The cornet is but a bit of twisted brass! All are non-essentials until touched with a hand guided by the spirit of music. And then! The child is guided by the mother song. The heart is warmed by familiar melodies. The home brightens with a heavenly light. The church vibrates with consecrated tones, which soften into heart throbs as they penetrate the soul. The band puts vigor into marching thousands. The orchestra illumines the vision of the musically endowed. Camps are cheered by songs of home. Patriotism is stirred by songs of the Flag and our Country. Courage for battle follow inspiring war songs. Songs of victory are shaping themselves in the hearts of men.

Who was it who first asked: "Is music a non-essential?"

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

(Paramount Production)

Reviewed on page 256

Theme: "Old Folks at Home" (Characteristic Dramatic Paraphase) by Kretschmer

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1000 ft.)

S. At Screening (50 seconds), until—"Beautiful Dreamer" (Southern Song), by Forster.
T. "In Old Kentucky we" (30 seconds), until—Continue pp.
T. "Up North—Eva's father" (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—"Scene D'Amour" (3/4 Andante from "La Source Ballet," by Delibes.
T. "Do, please, come home."
T. "Down South" meantime (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—"Passing the Cotton Fields" (Negro Characteristic), by Clarke.
T. "Unless you want to lose."
T. "I came after Chloe."
T. "Eliza's husband, Geo. Harris" (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—"Lamentoso" (Pathetique), by Gaston Borch.
T. "Why should it be?"
T. "If I get safely to Canada."
T. "Little Eva with her father" (50 seconds), until—Continue pp.
T. "And on the same boat" (5 minutes and 50 seconds), until—Theme.
T. "What's little Mary's name?"
T. "And so she crossed."
T. "Suppose they were to sell me?" (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—"May Dreams" (melodious), by Borch.
S. Little Eva falls into water (50 seconds), until—"Hurry No. 26," by Minot.
S. Boat near shore (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—Theme.
T. "Look up, Tom."
T. "The St. Clare Plantation" (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—"In the Woods" (4/4 Allegro) from "Scenes Poetiques," by Godard.
T. "Topsy—Imp O'Satan" (5 minutes and 20 seconds), until—"Evening Breeze" (2/4 Char. Allegretto), by Langey.
T. "I've a present for you."
T. "If she's a savage."
T. "Who was your mother?"
T. "Watch me carefully" (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—"Impish Elves" (Char. Int.), by Borch.
T. "Topsy's civilizing process" (3 minutes), until—"Jasmine" (Allegretto Int.), by Kretschmer.
T. "Why, Topsy, I hardly knew."
T. "See what Miss Eva."
T. "Topsy acquires as play fellow" (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—"Babillage" (Char. Allegretto Int.), by Castillo.
T. Aunt Ophelia lost."
T. "My best dress ruined."
T. "Now, Topsy, if you" (3 minutes and 25 seconds), until—"Sweet Bells" (2/4 Allegretto), by Gruenwald.
T. "Well, I took Missy Eva's."
T. "Now, Topsy, I am going."
S. Eva and Topsy praying (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—"Largo," by Corelli.
T. "Uncle Tom, Dear."
S. Eva on horseback (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—Theme.
T. "The day when" (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—"Peacefulness" (Pathetic), by Borch.
T. "I'll give you cash."
T. "Topsy, promise me."
T. "They all belong to you."
T. "The death of little Eva" (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—"Ava Maria," by Gounod.
T. "St. Clare did not forget."
T. "The famous slave market" (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy.
T. "Topsy as the property" (40 seconds), until—Continue pp.
T. "Legree brings his" (55 seconds), until—Continue ff.
S. Flashback to Topsy (25 seconds), until—Continue pp.
T. "Slaves around fire" (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—"Hard times come again no more" (Southern Song), by Forster.
T. "What did I tell you?"
S. In garden at table (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—Theme.
T. "The apothesis" (40 seconds), until—"Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" (Southern Song), by Forster, until * * * END.

"ALL WOMAN"

(Goldwyn Production)

Reviewed on page 3453

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet)

Theme: "Romance" (6/8 Allegretto) by Rubens

1—"Serenade" (3/4 Moderato), by Chaminade (3 minutes and 5 seconds) until—T: "In a small town up State."
2—"A Hot Time in Old Town," March song, by Metz (55 seconds), until—T: "And at the cross roads."
3—Continue pp (2 minutes), until—S: Flashback to doll factory.
4—"Serenade" (6/8 Allegretto), by Saint Saens (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Mirian Strong Austin's sister."
5—"Dramatic Recitative," by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "And so one morning."
6—Continue to action (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: "Here you, git right out."
7—"My Paradise" (4/4 Moderato), by Zamecnik (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: "The Killey children."
8—Continue to action (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—S: Child dancing on counter.
9—"Whims" (3/4 Allegro Giocoso), by Schumann (2 minutes and 25 seconds, until—T: "You poor little thing."
10—Theme (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: "The next day."
11—Continue pp (1 minute), until—T: "But a month later."
12—"Irresistible" (Valse Chantee), by Bustanoby (3 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Can't you quit, or wont' you?"
13—"Romance" (4/4 Moderato), by Mericanto (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "And day by day."
14—Theme (20 seconds), until—S: Crowd near hotel.
15—Continue ff (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "The forbidden visitor."
16—"Serenade" (2/4 Allegretto), by Drdla (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Well, I'll go where I can get."
17—"Dramatic Agitato," by H. Hough (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "I wish I had an axe."
18—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "That night."
19—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—T:"The elopement in the storm."
20—Tympany Rolls only (8 seconds), until—S: Change of scene.
21—"Bitter Sweets" (Moderato Intermezzo), by Engelman (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: Flashback to storm scene.
22—"Six Minute Storm Furioso," by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 5, seconds), until—T: "My brother Austin is there."
23—Continue pp (3 minutes), until—T: "And I'll go and destroy."
24—Continue ff (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "You want to use that paper?"
25—"Hurry No. 4," by Lake (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "I didn't do it."
Note—Watch shot.
26—Continue pp (35 seconds), until—S: Exterior storm scene.
27—Repeat "Six Minute Storm Furioso," by Sol. P. Levy (40 seconds), until—T: "Don't worry, we got, etc."
28—Continue pp (1 minute), until—T: "The inquest the next day."
29—"Quietude" (Andante), Melody, by Gregh (4 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "I always knew she was no good."
30—"Erotik" (Dramatic), by Grieg (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: In garden.
31—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "And now you know."
32—Continue ff (1 minute and 20 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"WE SHOULD WORRY"

(Fox Production)

(Reviewed on page 3947)

REEL 1

1—At Screening—Slow Andante 4/4.
2—They are the orphan's nieces—Joyful Hurry.
3—For the love of Mike—Allegretto 3/4.
4—Won't you walk home with us?—Andante 3/4 (Theme).
5—Stall here until I locate the vault—Mysterioso 2/4.

REEL 2

6—While they are performing?—Allegretto 6/8.
7—Jane pulls tupee off minister's head—Allegretto 6/8.
8—If you fancy chickens—Bright Allegro 4/4.
9—It was all my fault—Andante.
10—I have to run into the bank—Valse 3/4.
11—Help!—Agitato 2/4.
12—Don't you live anywhere?—Allegretto Grazioso 3/4.

REEL 3

13—The children have gone—Dram. Tension.
14—Ain't those kids—Mysterioso.
15—Why can't we swipe them?—Allegro Hurry.
16—Have you seen the children?—Dram. Tension.
17—Now, we've got to pretend—Allegro Vivance (Joyful).
18—When burglar crawls toward home—Mysterioso 4/4.
19—When note is read—Dram. Tension.
20—You mean to tell me—Intermezzo 3/4.

REEL 4

21—Put that gun down—Agitato 2/4.
22—Kids chase burglars—Agitato 2/4.
23—You go around that way—Agitato 2/4.
24—The reappearance of the children—Allegretto 3/4.
25—How brave you were—Andante 2/4.
26—Mrs. Gilligan—Allegretto 3/4.
27—The night of aunty's reception—Valse 3/4.

REEL 5

28—Burglar seen in bank—Mysterioso Agitato pp and ff Acc. to Action.
29—Re-enters home (Dancers are seen)—Twostep.
30—Burglar sits down with Mrs. A.—Andante 2/4.
31—They've cleaned out the bank—Dram. Agitato.
32—There's the man that did it—Dram. Tension.
33—How de do, Uncle Jack—Allegretto 3/4.
34—Do you mean it?—Andante 2/4.

FINIS

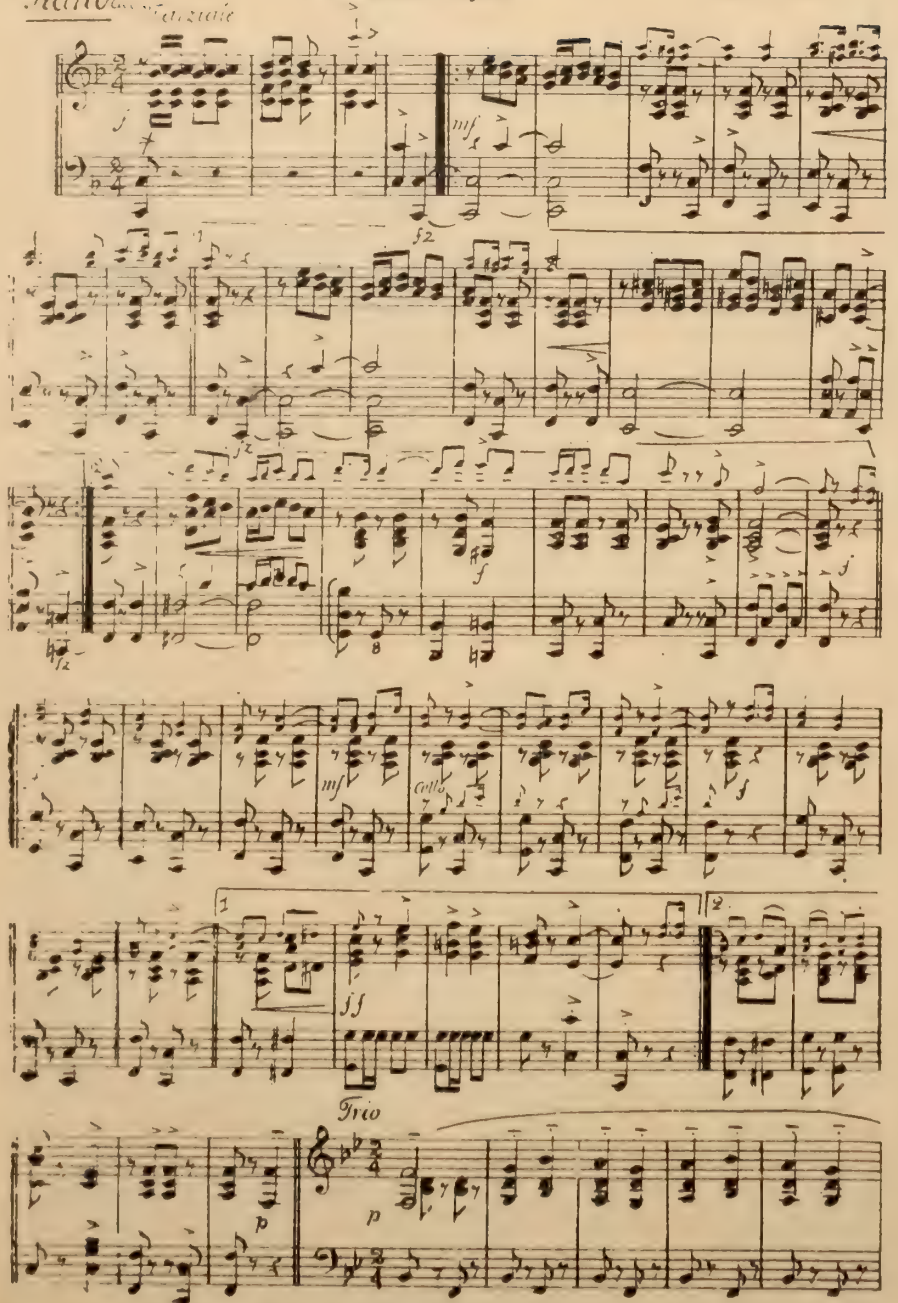
Blue Devils

(ALPINE CHASSEURS)

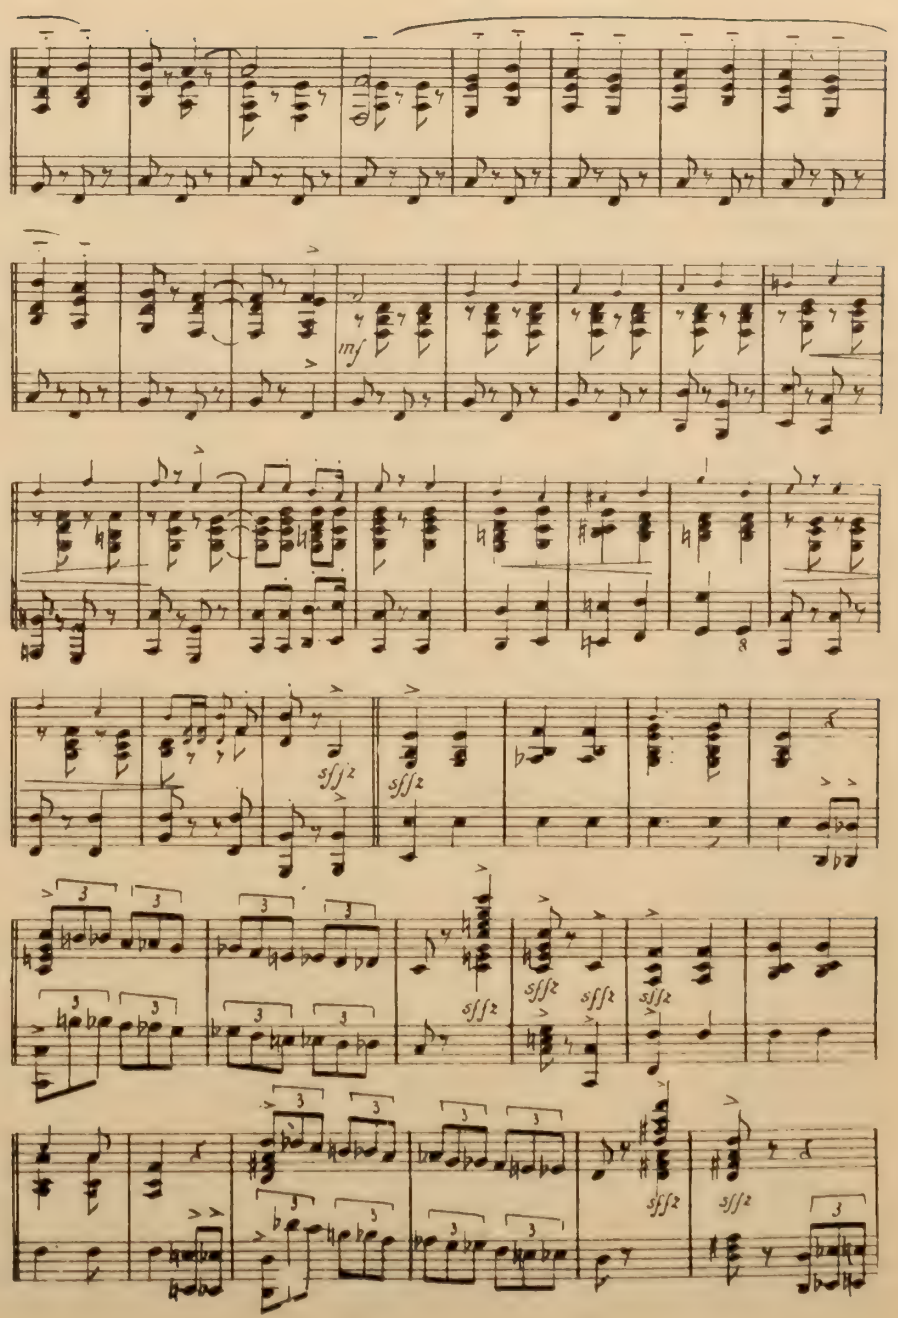
Marche Française

Sol P Levy

Piano



Copyright 1918 by Belwin Inc., 701 7th Ave. N. Y. C.
All rights reserved



"THE ORDEAL OF ROSETTA"

(Select Pictures)

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (one thousand feet).

Theme: "L'Adieu" (12/8 Dramatic Nocturne) by Favarger

1—"Dramatic Narrative," by Pauline Pement (1 minute and 10 seconds), until—T: "Rose Gelardy his daughter."
2—Continue to action (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "In the morning."
3—"Canzonetta" (Moderato), by Godard (4 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "An afternoon's quick work."
4—"Pecheur Napolitain et Napolitaine" (6/8 Allegronon troppo), by Rubinstein (55 seconds), until—S: Interior of office.
5—Continue to action (50 seconds), until—S: Flashback to studio.
6—Continue pp (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "In Long Island's fashionable colony."
7—"Sweet Jasmine" (Melodious Allegretto), by Bendix (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "The trick of an artist."
8—Theme (3 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "It will give you a good rest."
9—Continue pp (25 seconds), until—T: "The next day."
10—"Woodland Whispers" (4/4 Quasi Allegro), by Czibulka (5 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "I hope your work, etc."
11—"Yester Love" (Intermezzo Andantino), by Borch (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "A week later."
12—Continue to action (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: Woman shows Miss Gelardi the picture.
13—Theme ff (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "With the morning."
14—Continue to action (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "My father was Professor."
15—"Blue Mediterranean" (Italian Serenade), by Volpatti (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "But, at the very moment."
16—"Storm Furioso," by Sol. P. Levy (40 seconds), until—S: Flashback to girl telling story.
Note.—Watch explosions.
17—Continue pp and slow (15 seconds), until—T: "The next day."
18—Sorrow Theme (Dramatic), by E. Roberts (2 minutes), until—T: "I tell you what, well, etc."
19—"Whispering Flowers" (Characteristic Waltz Intermezzo), by Blon (4 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "And then another chapter."
20—Theme ff (3 minutes and 50 seconds), until—S: Old man reading letter.
21—Tragic Theme (Heavy Dramatic), by Paul Vely (3 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "It was an easy task."
22—"Velvet of the Rose" (Waltz), by Barnard (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "I expect the little fool."
23—"I Am Dreaming of Thee" (Neapolitan Barcarolle), by

(Continued in next column)

(Continued from preceding column)

Meyrelles (4 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "I can lend you one of my gowns."
24—"Grazielle" (Characteristic Valse Italienne), by Laurendeau (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: Man playing piano.
25—Piano Solo (improvise to action) (50 seconds), until—S: Girl being introduced to guests.
26—Second Valse, by B. Godard (3 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "I said you had better come now."
27—"Dramatic Agitato," by Fred Luscomb (45 seconds), until—S: Automobile arrives.
28—Continue ff (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Kill me, the Vendetta, etc."
29—Silence (10 seconds), until—S: Shot is fired.
30—Produce effect, followed by—
31—"Pastel Menuet" (3/4 Allegro giocoso), by Paradis (2 minutes), until—T: "There is a story, etc."
32—Continue ff (45 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"THE SERVICE STAR"

(Goldwyn Production)

Theme: "Mountain Song" (3/4 Andanto) by Gaston Borch

1—"My Service Flag Has Seven Stars" (Song), (2 minutes), until—T: "Every girl in this little town."
2—Continue pp (45 seconds), until—T: "The biggest day."
3—"Over the Top" (March), by Berg (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "And this little town."
4—Continue pp (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "The little token, etc."
5—"Over There" (Popular Song), (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: Two old ladies in room.
6—"Romance" (12/8 Mod.), by Morse (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "And here in Washington."
7—"Impish Elves" (Mod. Intermezzo), by Borch (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Hillcrest, the Washington House."
8—Theme (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "The lady's loyalty league."
9—"Babillage" (Entracte 2/4 Allegretto), by C. Del Castillo (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Girl has a husband."
10—"Love Song" (Moderato), by Puerner (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "The loyalty leaguers hold, etc."
11—"Vision" (Intermezzo), by Buse (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Tipped off by one, etc."
12—"Sweet Jasmine" (Melodious Allegretto), by Bendix (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "The trap for Marilyn."
13—"Melody" (Moderato), by Kretschmer (4 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "The next morning."

(Continued on next page)

PHOTO-PLAY SERIES for ORCHESTRA—Vols. III and IV

:-: ADVANCE ANNOUNCEMENT :-:

(WILL BE OFF THE PRESS BY SEPTEMBER 1ST, 1918)

We have been prompted by the marked success of Volumes I and II of this series, and the ever growing demand from the Motion Picture fraternity for incidental motion picture music, to offer these two additional volumes. The great advance made in all directions by the Motion Picture industry was considered in the preparation of these volumes and the numbers throughout will be found thoroughly satisfying and efficient. Photo Play Series is a loose leaf collection of dramatic and descriptive musical compositions especially intended for use with Motion Pictures, arranged for small or full orchestra and playable with any lesser combination of instruments which includes violin and piano, by Otto Langey, Gaston Borch, Irénée Bergé, Hugo Riesenfeld and Edward Falck.

VOLUME III		VOLUME IV
21. Andante Pathetique Doloroso	Borch	31. Indian War Dance	Bergé
22. Allegro Misterioso Notturno	Borch	32. Southwestern Idyl	Bergé
23. Agitato Con Moto	Borch	33. Western Scene	Bergé
24. Dramatic Allegro	Falck	34. Indian War Dance	Borch
25. Western Allegro	Falck	35. Misterioso Infernale	Borch
26. Indian Agitato	Langey	36. Chinese—Japanese	Langey
27. Agitated Misterioso	Langey	37. Furioso No. 3	Langey
28. Agitato	Riesenfeld	38. Misterioso Irresoluto	Langey
29. Battle Music	Riesenfeld	39. Pastorale	Langey
30. Western Allegro	Riesenfeld	40. Storm Music	Langey

INDIVIDUAL NUMBERS SEPARATELY—Complete for Full Orchestra, net, 75 cents; Small Orchestra, net, 60 cents; Piano, net, 20 cents; Harmonium, net, 15 cents; Other parts—each, net, 12 cents.

EACH VOLUME (Containing Ten Distinct Numbers)—Complete for Full Orchestra, net, $4.15; Small Orchestra, net, $3.00; Piano or Harmonium Parts, net, 50 cents; All Other Parts, net, 30 cents.

ORDER NOW

☞ NOTICE: THE PURCHASE OF A COPY OF OUR ORCHESTRA MUSIC INCLUDES RIGHTS OF PUBLIC PERFORMANCE ANYWHERE WITHOUT PAYMENT OF AN ADDITIONAL FEE.

3 East 43d Street :-: G. SCHIRMER :-: New York

(Continued from preceding page)

14—Theme (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "In another wing."
15—"Cupidietta" (Mod. Intermezzo), by Tobani (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "God grant he may, etc."
16—Continue pp (20 seconds), until—T: "Tired from the strain."
17—"Sinister Theme" (Mysterioso), by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "As the days go by."
18—"Memories" (Characteristic Andante), by Creani (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Blinky calls."
19—"Dramatic Recitative," by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "For the first time."
20—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: "To escape another meeting."
21—"Visions" (Moderato), by Tschaikowsky (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Some day you'll know, etc."
22—"Turbulence" (Melodious Allegro), by Borch (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Then, if he is your son."
23—"Hurry No. 33," by Minst (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Whatever you do, etc."
24—"Mysterious Tone Picture," by Borch (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: Blinky fighting with girl.
25—"Hurry No. 2," by Levy (50 seconds), until—T: "Why, mother, I've been shot."
26—Continue pp (15 seconds), until—T: "The death of fear."
27—Theme (55 seconds), until—T: "And John Marshall."
28—"Over the Top" (March), by S. M. Berg (1 minute and 25 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"BLINDNESS OF DIVORCE"

(Fox Production)

Reviewed on page 2564

Theme: Serenade by Widor

1—Silence (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Prologue."
2—Organ improvise to action (wedding ceremony) (1 minute), until—S: Interior of court.
3—Organ continue pp (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: "John Langdon, a good man."
4—"Baby's Sweetheart," by Corri (2 minutes), until—T: "So Ethel faces another of many, etc."
5—"Atonement," by Zameznik (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: "Langdon's second home."
6—Theme (5 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "I am sort of sorry I picked, etc."
7—"Doctor Cupid" (Intermezzo), by Ferrari, until—T: "Come West with me to-night."
8—"Prelude Op. 28, No. 15," by Chopin (4 minutes), until—T: "In a hysteria of fear."
9—"Ein Maerchen Fantasia," by Bach (4 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "We forgot to say, etc."
10—Theme (3 minutes), until—T: "The decree of the court."
11—Continue ff (2 minutes), until—T: "Fifteen years pass."
12—"Romance from Concerto No. 2," by Wieniawski (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Livingston, her fiance."
13—"Wild Rosebud," by Tobani (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "The next night Clair's place, etc."
14—"Femma Aimee" (Valse Caprice), by Margis Berger (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—S: Woman looking at picture in newspaper.
15—Silence about 15 seconds, until—S: Fade in to wedding ceremony.
16—About 24 bars of Lohengrin "Wedding March," until—S: Flashback to former scene.
17—Theme ff (2 minutes), until—T: "The day of election draws near."
18—Short Rest (6 minutes), until—T: "Mr. Livingston, who just left, etc."
19—Theme ff (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "If you think I'm lying, etc."
20—Continue pp (20 seconds), until—T: "Midnight."
21—"Love's Sweet Unrest" (Intermezzo), by Myddleton (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "I, your mother? That's the funniest, etc."
22—"Allegro," by Bach (2 minutes), until—S: Police breaking doors.
23—Hurry to action (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: Interior of police court.
24—"Serenade Hongroise," by Jencieres (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: Policeman dragging colored fellow into court.
25—About 12 bars of old zip coon or any other typical Southern dance, until—S: Change of scene.
26—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "Divorce which he honestly believes, etc."
27—Continue pp (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "They can never make me believe."
28—"Love Song," by Bartlett (2 minutes), until—T: "And so, ladies and gentlemen."
29—Theme (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Raise your veil."
30—Continue fff (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "Tell the court all you know."
31—Very pathetic violin or cello solo with piano lasting about three minutes, finish morendo and let organ pick up solo, pp, for about 3 more minutes, until—S: When the judge leaves the court room.
32—Theme (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "But humanity, etc."
33—Continue ff with ff Tympany Rolls to action (about 25 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"HOW COULD YOU, JEAN?"

(Artcraft Production)

(Reviewed on page 3945)

Love Theme: "Blue Violets Mazurka" by Eilenberg
Swedish Theme: "Swedish Peasant Mazurka" by Translateur

1—Love Theme (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "To Edward Burton, the dyspeptic."
2—Continue to action (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "That evening Jean discusses."
3—"Babillage," by Castillo (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Where did you get that hat?"
4—Silence (15 seconds), until—S: Exterior near Salvation Army.
5—"Salvation Army Patrol," by Herman. Note.—Play only singing part. (20 seconds), until—S: Drummer disappears.
6—Continue pp diminuendo (10 seconds), until—T: "She may believe that, etc."
7—"Gretchen Intermezzo," by Martin (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "You and Oscar should be, etc."
8—Swedish Theme (30 seconds), until—T: "Introducing Mr. Bonner."
9—"Second Valse," by Godard (5 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "Why, Maria, it's an omlet."
10—"That Flying Rag," by Pryor (2 minutes), until—S: Change of scene to college boys in room.
11—Continue pp (30 seconds), until—T: "A little manouvering on the part, etc."
12—"Summer" (Allegro Song), by Chaminade (3 minutes), until—T: "What's the matter, son?"
13—"Petals Intermezzo," by Raymond (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "Returning to the Bonner farm."
14—"Pure as Snow" (Idylle), by Lange (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "This really should have been."
15—Continue or repeat pp (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—T: "After three weeks."
16—Love Theme ff, until—T: "Pack a bag, I am, etc."
17—"Love Fancies," by Zamecnik (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Stay close to me, dear."
18—Continue pp and slow (15 seconds), until—S: Old man near box of milk bottles.
19—"Little Mischief" (Caprice), by Armand (1 minute and 20 seconds), until—S: Jean at breakfast table.
20—Love Theme (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "For the love of Pete."
21—Swedish Theme (50 seconds), until—T: "There follows a chapter."
22—"Every Morn I Send Thee Violets," song by Meyer Helmund (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Susan's husband, John Cooper."
23—Continue pp (25 seconds), until—S: "Close up of exterior of big mansion."
24—Swedish Theme ff (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "As the days pass by."
25—Love Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "But even spring has its shadows."
26—"Largo," by Corelli (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Weeks passed and summer, etc."
27—"Romance," by Rubens (50 seconds), until—T: "The sheriff receives notice."
28—Hurry, No. 2, by Levy. Note.—Begin pp, then to action pp or ff. (5 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: "Young man! that's no way, etc."
29—Love Theme (40 seconds), until * * * * * END.

"THE CLAW"

(Select Pictures)

Theme: "Adoration" (4/4 Andante Mod.) by Barnard

1—"Cocoanut Dance" (Characteristic), by Herman (55 seconds), until—S: Fade out of dancing savages.
2—"Jasmine" (Moderato Characteristic), by Kretschmer (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—S: Mary sees the tiger.
3—"Sinister Theme" for impending danger by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "Prowlers."
4—Continue ff —watch shots (2 minutes), until—T: "Your brute of a driver."
5—"Blissful Dreams" (Char. Int.), by Meyer Helmund (1 minute and 55 seconds), until—T: "Next morning the driver."
6—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "A wayside glimpse."
7—"African 400" (Char. Rag), by Roberts (40 seconds), until—T: "Fort George."
8—"Evening Breeze" (2/4 Allegretto Characteristic), by Langey (5 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "As muttering in the, etc."
9—"Blue Devils' March," by Levy (1 minute and 15 seconds), until T: "While the men of Fort George."
10—Intermezzo (Allegretto), by Pierne (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "I have always loved you."
11—Theme (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "Judy nerved herself."
12—"Pathetic Andante," by Paul Vely (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "The threatened storm breaks."
13—"Allegro Agitato," by Luscomb (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "I am afraid I'm done for."
14—Continue pp (1 minute), until—T: "We must either put, etc."
Note—Watch Bugle Call—"Advance."

(Continued on page 4341)

THE BARTOLA
Should be Heard Before Deciding to Purchase Any Instrument
Write for catalogue.
CHAS. C. PYLE, General Sales Agent, 707-712 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

Nights of Gladness

Carry on your audience through the realm of Filmland with a fuller spirit of the Photoplay and a deeper meaning of screen action by a correct musical interpretation

The FOTOPLAYER

awakens that finer sense of feeling and real heart interest through its potent emotional influence

Fotoplayer organ tones ranging in mellow sweetness and soft harmonies to the power of symphonic grandeur transport your audience to a greater appreciation of the evening's entertainment

The FOTOPLAYER may be played manually or by the use of the double-tracker device permitting the operation of two rolls and furnishing an accurate musical accompaniment to the pictures and a sympathetic appeal to your audience.

Hundreds of enterprising exhibitors testify to the successful music rendered by the FOTOPLAYER. It enhances the beauty of delicate scenes — adds power to the drama — furnishes further laughter to your comedies.

WE CONSTRUCT ORCHESTRAL PIPE ORGANS
TO MEET YOUR REQUIREMENTS — WRITE US

The American Photo Player Co.

62 West 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

64 E. Jackson Boulevard
CHICAGO, ILL.

109 Golden Gate Avenue
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

J. W. Jenkins Sons Music Co.
KANSAS CITY, MO.

Frederickson-Krob Music Co.
OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

737 South Olive Street
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

W. J. Dyer & Bro.
ST. PAUL, MINN.

E. Witzman & Co.
MEMPHIS, TENN.

Parkway Building
PHILADELPHIA, PA

Sherman, Clay & Co.
SEATTLE, WASH., and PORTLAND, ORE.

Geo. L. Parker
120 Boylston Street
BOSTON, MASS.

Lyon & Healy
CHICAGO, ILL.

MUSIC CUE SHEETS

Special Releases

¶ Prepared under the personal supervision of our Music Editor can be secured through our Service Department by sending ten cents for each cue sheet to cover the cost of postage and typeing. Remember it takes time to get these cue sheets to you—don't wait till the last minute to write us.

Alimony
All Woman
At the Mercy of Men
Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp
The Auction Block
Brave and Bold
Blindness of Divorce
Babbling Tongues
Blue Blood
The Beloved Traitor
Brown of Harvard
The Belgian
By Right of Possession
Carmen of the Klondike
Cecilia of the Pink Roses
Cheating the Public
The Claw
Deemster (The)
DeLuxe Annie
The Co-Respondent
The Conqueror
The Call of Her People
The Crucible of Life
The Danger Game
A Daughter of the Gods
The Devil Stone
The Devil's Playground
Draft 258
The Darling of Paris
The End of the Trail
The Fair Pretender
The Face in the Dark
Forbidden Path
For the Freedom of the World
The Flame of Yukon
The Glorious Adventure
The Grain of Dust
The Great White Trail
The Garden of Allah
Honor's Cross
The Heart of the Sunset
Her Final Reckoning
The House of Glass
How Could you Jean?
The Heart of a Lion
Her Fighting Chance
In Again Out Again
Joan of Plattsburg
Joan the Woman
Just a Woman
Jack and the Beanstalk
The Knife
Lest We Forget
Legion of Death
Les Miserables
The Lost Chord
Men
My Own United States
Madame Du Barry
The Marionettes
The Million Dollar Dollies
Nine Tenths of the Law
The Narrow Trail
Ordeal of Rosetta
Over There
On Trial
One Hour
One Law for Both
Parentage
Price of a Good Time
Revelation
The Reason Why
Rough and Ready
Rose of the World
The Rose of Blood
Redemption
The Submarine Eye
The Safety Curtain
The Service Star
Social Ambition
Stella Maris
The Splendid Sinner
True Blue
Trail to Yesterday
Shirley Kaye
The Spy
The Studio Girl
The Silent Man
The Slacker
Thais
Those Who Pay
A Tale of Two Cities
The Tiger Woman
To-day
The Venus Model
Woman and the Law
The Warrior
Wolves of the Trail
Woman and Wife
When a Man Sees Red
When Men Betray
The Whirlpool
Within the Law
Womanhood
The Zeppelin's Last Raid

¶ Cue Sheets for the following regular program releases can usually be obtained from the companies releasing the pictures. If these cannot be had we will be glad to cooperate in seeing that they are supplied to you.

Artcraft
Bluebird
Fox
Four Square
Goldwyn
Metro
Mutual
Paramount
Pathe
Select
Universal
U. S. Exhibitors
Vitagraph
W. H. Productions

The list of special releases is brought up to date every week. Watch the changes.

(Continued from page 432)

15—Continue very slow (50 seconds), until—T: "After the second day's march."
16—"Furioso" (Battle Hurry), by Sol. P. Levy (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Knowing the superstition."
17—Continue pp (30 seconds), until—T: "With hope still high."
18—Tragic Theme (Heavy Dramatic), by Paul Vely (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "The weeks pass."
19—"Dramatic Tension," by Luscomb (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Stair has duplicated."
Note—Play ff during short fight.
20—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "The claw of the old witch."
21—Intermezzo (2/4 Presto), by Arenski (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: "At stairs new station."
22—"After Sunset" (Dramatic Mod.), by Pryor (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Open the door."
23—Continue ff (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "The sordid dawn."
24—Dramatic Recitative to action (2 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: "A wife in name."
25—"Dramatic Andante No. 62," by Borch (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "What the night brought."
